WASHING, WARRENVILLE AND MANVILLE (Mt. Bethel.)

Arrive—2.30 p. m. Close—9.00 a. m.

Wagon—Arrive 6.40 p. m. Close 1.30 p. m.

SUNDAY MAILS.

Office open 8.30 to 10.30 a. m.

Mail closes at 6.15 p. m.

E. H. BIRD, P. M

GEORGE W. DAY,

General Auctioneer.

Sales of Personal Property solicited P. O. Box 132, Dunellen, N. J., or address, Office of Constitutionalist. Terms reasonable

Men's Meeting Sunday.

Rev. Dr. James I. Vance, "The Eloquent Southerner," will address the men's meeting to be held under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. at the New Plainfield theatre next Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock. The Lotus Glee Club and the Y. M. C. A. Orchestra will furnish special music. There will be an orchestral programme at 3:30 p. m. The singing will be led by a chorus of male voices under the direction of William C. Leek. The admission will be free to men.

Beswind's Administrator.

Counsellor F. J. Blatz, of the First street, has been appointed administrator of the estate of John Berwind by the Somerset County Surrogate's Court.

And now "Farmer" Martine repudiates Joan Moody's "New Democracy." Mr. Martine, in explaining why he cannot participate in the Moody movement, says: "I am a Democrat.—Trenton True American.

WARNS YOUNG WOMEN

Priest Tells Them Not to Receive Attention From Men Who Scoff at Religion.

DWELLS ON SACRAMENT

Father Bogan Delivers Instructive Talk On Religious Phase of Engagement at St. Mary's Church.

Rev. B. M. Bogan, rector of St. Mary's church, continued his series of lectures on the sacrament of marriage Sunday night. He spoke in part as follows:

"In continuing the series of instructions on the sacrament of matrimony, inaugurated a few Sundays ago, I invite your consideration this evening to 'The Promise of Marriage,' which usually precedes the reception of the sacrament. I approach this subject fully aware of the utter levity with which it is a frequently referred to, but requesting that you join me in an entirely different spirit. For upon the proper consideration of the importance of that time of preparation, called company-keeping, depends much of the after happiness of the married couple.

"Believing, as you do, that in the bond created by the marrying parties there is an indissoluble sacramental union established, it is consistent with such a serious matter that all that formally leads to it, partakes of its serious character. In this country, where class distinction is not a generally recognized condition of society, and where young people themselves, and not parents or intermediaries, enter into engagements as to future marriage, informal company-keeping is quite common. This kind of association does not necessarily imply any intention of future marriage. It simply means that before young men and girls bind themselves by an engagement to marry, they wish to know each other's disposition, and also if they mutually love each other. It may at any time be honorably discontinued by either party.

"It is in this matter particularly that the wisdom and experience of the parents should be counsel and guide of their children. The mother will impress upon her daughter the sin and dischastity in a woman. She will tell her how scornful and unpitying the world is toward a fallen woman; that while both sexes are equally bound before God to be chaste, the want of chastity in a woman is a mortal sin which the world never forgives.

"When the world of society speaks of a man of honor, it means that he tells the truth and keeps his word; but when it speaks of a woman's honor, it means her chastity. A mother will tell her daughter that to be a flirt or a coquette or ambitious to have many admirers is sure to have its punishment and end in unhappiness. She will tell her that a man who truly loves her is not likely to indulge in extravagant praises, and that real love is always and everywhere respectful.

"Expressions of attachment are perfectly legitimate, but if they spring from truth and love, they will be such that they may be spoken in a father's or a mother's presence. No good mother will allow her daughter to spend hours alone with the person who is paying court to her. Good society, although its principals are entirely worldly, does not tolerate unguarded abuse of this confidence. Need I warn you against the company of a young man who would dare visit you, showing signs of intemperance? Such disrespect should meet with instant rebuke. It would be in proper accord with his insult to have an able bodied brother or father interview him, with a boot properly adjusted for such a meeting.

"Some young men, knowing that Catholic young ladies are attached to their religion and zealous for its propagation, take a delight in being skeptical about fundamental truths, such as the immortality of the soul, a future life, rewards and punishment for conduct in this life. They think this kind of intruding conversation makes them interesting.

"The views of this whole genus of young men on such subjects are worth without value. A young man of real religious principle will never speak disparagingly of the religious convictions of the lady he visits. Respect for himself forbids it. But when a half-baked, feather-brained young man insists upon ventilating his borrowed impressions on this most serious subject, his conduct is brainless, ill mannered and irreligious, and the wisest treatment would be a request that he pursue his psychological studies elsewhere. From keeping-company proceeds, in due time, the marriage engagement, of which it is important that Catholics have correct notions. The marriage engagement is looked upon as a legal contract. A breach of this contract entitles the injured to recover damages.

"I will consider the matter from an exclusively ecclesiastical standpoint. A marriage engagement is called sponsalia by theologians, and in its definition contains five conditions:

"First—It must be deliberate, that is, it must be sincere, not feigned. The person making the promise must know that by making it he binds himself to keep it.

"Second—The promise must be mutual. If only one of the parties promise there is no sponsalia or formal espousal.

"Third—The promise must be expressed by a sensible sign, not necessarily words. Some sensible sign suited by its nature to express the promise must be used if words are not. Sometimes a ring is used to indicate such a contract. Silence, here, does not give consent.

"Fourth—There must be a promise of marriage. It would not suffice if each of the parties said 'I will never marry any person unless I marry you.'

Fifth—There must be no impediment to the marriage. A promise of marriage, between a Catholic and a non-Catholic (remember I am considering the matter from a strictly ecclesiastical standpoint), is not valid, just because of the impediment placed by church-law to such a marriage.

"If the promise of marriage be made on condition that the non-Catholic party be received into the church the sponsalia becomes valid at the fulfillment of the condition.

If when two persons are engaged to be married, all required conditions for such an engagement being fulfilled, neither, under pain of grievous sin of injustice to the other, can refuse to enter the marriage state at the time that has been determined when making the promise. If no time has been determined then the marriage must take place when one of the parties reasonably demands. There are many reasons and causes that may arise which may justly dissolve this engagement. These I will refer to later.

"An interesting and practical question sometimes arises: If a man who is engaged to be married makes presents to his betrothed, but during the through his own fault breaks the engagement, is the woman bound to return the presents? Theologians say she is not, because the man forfeits his right to them by unjustly breaking from the contract. She may by right retain them, but I think she would be acting within the requirement of strict propriety were she, in the presence of such gross injustice, ship his presents back to him at her earliest convenience, and, if she chose, pay the freight.

"In concluding this evening's very informal instruction it remains for me to state in what way may the espousals be dissolved. All agree in saying the contract may be broken by mutual consent. Also by the advent of a diriment impediment. For instance, if one of the engaged parties should marry somebody else, the injured party is free from the engagement. The contract, ecclesiastically speaking, is dissolved by one of the parties assuming a more perfect religious state. A grave crime on the part of one of the parties—a serious theft, a homicide, or any such thing implying disgrace, would leave the other party free.

"While therefore this most important subject is at times considered in the spirit of levity, I present these considerations in the hope that the true meaning and far-reaching importance of this serious matter may be taken to heart."

U. S. ANTHONY GETS A LEGACY OF $2,500

FORMER PLAINFIELD REPORTER REMEMBERED IN WOMAN'S WILL.

James Stowell Anthony, who lived in Netherwood eight years old, is named as a beneficiary under the will of the late Miss Amelia Geissenhainer, who was a sister-in-law of the late Mrs. George C. Kip, of Morristown. His legacy is $2,500.

The will provides that if he has died, the bequest goes to the Lutheran seminary in Philadelphia. One of Mr. Anthony's friends said this morning that he wasn't dead. He was married in Geneva, Switzerland, last August, and shortly afterwards took up his residence in New York. None of his friends here, a reporter was told, had received any hint of his death since. The wording of the will, it was conjectured, was merely a bit of legal phraseology, not based on any unconfirmed rumor of Mr. Anthony's demise.

Anthony was a reporter on The Daily Press at one time. He went to Cleveland, O., from here.

New Masonic District.

The order of the Free and Accepted Masons has established a new district, which will be known as the Seventeenth Masonic District of New Jersey, and will be formed of the lodges of Round Brook, Plainfield, New Brunswick, Somerville and perhaps one or two other places. The Grand Lodge has appointed John Zulauf, of Somerville, to the office of district deputy.

Miss Bessie Ridder, of Metuchen, who has been visiting Miss Bessie Leighton, of West Second street, has returned home.

William Jukes, who has been at Muhlenberg Hospital because of a fractured knee-cap, is able to be about and will soon be discharged.

Mrs. Annie E. Case, of Church street, spent yesterday in Newark.

Miss Edith Robinson, of West Third street, is entertaining a girl friend from Elizabeth for the week.

Miss Catherine Slade, of West Front street, has returned from a visit to relatives in Baltimore.

LISTENED TO THE WORD FLYER HITS A FREIGHT

Six Hundred Men Heard Y. M.C.A. Speaker and Heartily Joined in the Singing.

AT THE NEW THEATRE

Orchestra Accompanied Chorus Work—Lotus Glee Club Renders Several Selections.

As a means for reaching out to men who have not been interested in the regular Sunday gatherings at the association hall, the local Y. M. C. A. conducted the first of two religious meetings in the New Plainfield theatre Sunday afternoon. The response was even greater than the promoters had anticipated and the enthusiasm manifested more than repaid them for their efforts. There were fully 600 men in the audience representing the best classes in the city. They sang with fervor and listened to the remarks of the speakers with rapt attention, many of them afterward remaining for a short service of prayer.

Frederic H. Andrews, prominent as a religious and Y. M. C. A. worker, was in charge of the meeting, and officials of the association shared the stage with the Y. M. C. A. orchestra. It was led by M. A. Korff and while the auditorium was filling up, presented a short programme of music. The speaker selected for the occasion was Robert G. Freeman, of Princeton Theological Seminary, regarded as one of the most convincing men's meeting leaders in the country. In his address yesterday he fully sustained the advance reports. Not only did his talk appeal to the gathering, but his method of reading scripture was a revelation to many of those before him.

The main thought in his address was the fact that man must be born again before he can enter the Kingdom of God and God's readiness to help those who seek the new life. Experience, he said, is a dear teacher and it is by suffering sin and darkness that people appreciate His love when they have turned their backs upon all that is sordid and contaminating. The inexorable law that man must be born again, he continued, is not only a governmental but a scientific law and he quoted from the Bible to sustain him. All through his talk he presented lucid explanations of what might be a technical point and it was interpersed with absorbing comparisons. In the end Mr. Freeman made an appeal to his hearers to find the better life and when he ended in prayer several hands were raised signifying repentance.

In addition to the selections by the orchestra, the Lotus Glee Club sang several times and Whitney Pierce contributed a cornet solo. The audience was led in singing by William C. Leek and Philip S. Suffern was chairman of the ushers' corps that took charge of seating the men.

A similar meeting will be held in the theatre next Sunday afternoon at 3:30 and another excellent programme is being arranged.

Rev. Dr. James I. Vance, of Newark, will make the address.

JUNIORS' FAIR ENDS WITH A BIG CROWD.

Councils Will Clear Something Like $400 From the Enterprise.

The fair of Franklin and Somerset Councils, Jr. O. U. A. M., closed at Company K armory Saturday night with the biggest jam of its seven nights' run. Nearly 700 people were on the floor during the evening, and all the booths did a rushing business.

Dancing was billed as the great feature, but the crush made dancing more a matter of intention than of execution. But it was a typical fair *crowd and managed, in some mysteri*ous way, to have a real good time. Even Special Cop Jerry Cash, who pretends to be blase since his wife inherited $11,000 from a Swedish relative, grinned delightedly in the thick of the crowd at the door.

The financial statement of the affair has not yet been made up, but it is estimated that the councils will clear, between them, something in the neighborhood of $400.

Will Give "The Crucifixion."

Under the direction of Clifford Braider, organist, a chorus choir of thirty voices will render the cantata, "The Crucifixion," at the First Presbyterian church on Thursday night, April 19. There will be several soloists and a stringed orchestra will assist.

Cast Nearly Complete.

Miss Elizabeth Y. Day will take the part of "Lady Angela," in the comic opera, "Patience," to be given at the Casino in May by the amateur opera company. There remains but one part to be filled in the cast and that will be attended to this week.

Oshkosh Rehearsal.

The Oshkosh Club held a regular rehearsal Saturday for its show to be given within a few weeks at the Casino. The words and music have been selected by J. M. Shellabarger, who is directing the affair.

Big Wreck Narrowly Averted at Bound Brook Junction.

PASSENGERS SHAKEN

Tossed About Like Rubber Balls, Says Edward A. Laing, One of Them—Outgrowth of Another Wreck.

Working around a tangle of wreckage that blocked the tracks at Bound Brook Junction, an eastbound Royal Blue flyer took the wrong switch in changing from Central to Lehigh tracks near Bound Brook, shortly after 9 Monday night, and crashed into a long string of freight cars on a siding. The engine was smashed out of commission, two freight cars were telescoped, but none of the heavy load of passengers was hurt. The engine crew escaped with trivial scratches.

A blunder of the Central switchman is said to have caused the wreck. The flyer was running at a reduced speed, which prevented a much more serious wreck. The train was well filled with passengers and all were severely shaken up. Edward A. Laing, of this city, was one of the passengers, on his way home from Atlantic City. In describing the accident, he says that all the passengers remained calm, although many were pitched and tossed about like so many rubber balls. All the coaches remained on the tracks. The train was delayed over two hours, it being 11 o'clock when it reached Plainfield drawn by another locomotive.

The flyer was ordered over the Lehigh tracks in consequence of a smash-up between an empty P. & R. local, backing up to her berth for the night at Port Reading Junction, from Bound Brook, and a drill engine drawing several freight cars. Four cars and the drill engine were wrecked. No one was seriously hurt.

It is customary for the engineer of the local to back his train from Bound Brook to Port Reading Junction after the passengers have been discharged, but it was said this morning that the drill engine had the right of way over the track to Bound Brook. Whatever was the mistake that sent the two trains on the same track, they came together at Bound Brook Junction a short distance from Port Reading Junction with terrific force, wrecking the engine and a couple of freight cars and derailing two passenger coaches. The wreckage was scattered in all directions and covered both the east and west main line tracks. The engineer and fireman of the drill jumped just as the collision occurred and escaped with a few slight scratches.

Soon after the accident the wrecking train arrived and the crew worked steadily until Tuesday morning clearing the tracks. The tracks were blocked for several hours.

COUNCIL FAVORS MORE PERMANENT PAVEMENTS

IF APPROPRIATION IS SECURED, MAY TAKE CARE OF BUSINESS SECTION.

The councilmanic street committee still has in mind the possibility of extending permanent street pavement from Watchung avenue to Watchung avenue between Watchung avenue and Second street, and if it is able to secure an appropriation this year of $35,000 for street work, it may decide to undertake this in the business section. Mayor Buckle favors the plan, believing that although it is expensive at the outset, it is cheaper in the long run. The brick pavement on Watchung avenue has given good service and appears to be satisfactory.

It has been suggested that when *Park avenue is widened between Sec*ond street and the railroad it might be well to put down a permanent pavement there. It would not only add to the attractiveness of the street, but would be a saving in the matter of care. Since the erection of the Plainfield Trust Company's new building as well as C. W. McCutchen's new business block, it is claimed, these improvements would warrant the expenditure of a sum that would lay a permanent pavement.

If the street committee decides to extend the brick pavement through Watchung avenue to Front and through Front street, the city would have the benefit of a portion of the expense being borne by the trolley company. It is probable that the matter will come up early in the year after the appropriations are decided upon.

Intermediate Endeavorers' Choir.

The Intermediate Endeavorers of the Park Avenue Baptist church will constitute the choir at the Easter service to be held in the evening of Easter Sunday. These voices will lead the school in the singing of carols, accompanied by the orchestra led by G. W. V. Moy, with Mrs. von Brakle at the organ and Miss Clark at the piano. Appropriate exercises will be rendered by the members of the school, while the ordinance of baptism will conclude the programme for the day.

WON'T MIX WITH THE MOODY CROWD

DEMOCRATIC COMMITTEE DECLARES AGAINST ALLIANCE WITH MOVEMENT.

By an emphatic vote the executive committee of the Democratic League of Essex county has passed resolutions repudiating the "true Democracy" as organized out of the conference held last Tuesday at the New Auditorium. The committee recommended that the league take no part whatever in the new organization.

It was apparent that the members of the committee were practically a unit in their attitude toward the auditorium meeting. Their characterization of the men who dominated the conference was to the effect that they were not Democrats and did not have the interests of the Democratic party at heart, and that consequently, regardless of whatever declaration of principles had been made or how nearly the platform adopted subscribed to the declaration of doctrines previously set forth by the Democratic League, the latter body as a Democratic organization could not affiliate.

It was decided ultimately to take no cognizance of the declaration of principles, but to repudiate the whole movement on the ground that it was dominated by men whose political reputations and affiliations were such as to utterly discredit the pretense they made of acting for the upbuilding of the Democratic party in this state.

The resolution that was adopted was prepared by a committee appointed for the purpose. It was as follows:

"Resolved, by the executive committee of the Democratic League, That in our judgment the organization formed at the conference held at the New Auditorium in the city of Newark on the twentieth day of March, 1906, will be ineffectual to improve the condition of the Democratic party in this State.

"And be it further resolved, that we condemn the spirit manifested by the individuals in control of the conference as insincere and undemocratic; and we believe it impossible for the league to work in harmony with them and, therefore, will recommend to the league that no alliance be made with the organization formed at the conference."

It was the opinion of the committee that deception had been practised on the people in the whole beginning of the movement, by which patriotic Democrats, anxious to participate in any effort that would make for the upbuilding of their party, were induced to go into convention with Populists, Socialists and radicals of all sorts.

After flaying the "true Democracy" to its heart's content, the committee made arrangements to put into effect one of the important purposes of its own organization. It was announced that conditions are now ready in the Fifth, Sixth and Eighth wards for the formation of auxiliary leagues, and steps were taken to organize in these wards. Plans were discussed also by which it is expected to raise the membership of the league into the thousands.

MRS. ABRAM VAIL DIED AT BAYONNE

WELL-KNOWN MEMBER OF SOCIETY OF FRIENDS PASSES AWAY.

Mr. Jane D. Vail, widow of Abram R. Vail, died on Friday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. William Garey, Bayonne, from an attack of pneumonia. Mrs. Vail was the daughter of Jonah Vail, and was born eighty-one years ago at Greenbrook. Soon after her marriage she moved to Quakertown, where she resided for fifty-four years. She was a life-long member of the Religious Society of Friends and was very active in the work.

She is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Edward R. Vail, of Orchard place; Miss Isabella R. Vail, of Church street; a brother, Adelbert Vail, of the First National Bank, and a sister-in-law, Mrs. Theodore Vail, of Orange place.

SETON HALL'S JUBILEE.

Preparations Begun for the 50th Anniversary of the College.

A corps of artists, under the direction of Ferdinand Beraldi, has begun the redecoration of the chapel of the Immaculate Conception, Seton Hall College, in anticipation of the golden jubilee of the college, which will be held on June 11, 12 and 13.

On June 11 the board of trustees will meet and on June 12, Alumni Day, all the living graduates of Seton Hall College will be invited to attend a big banquet which will follow athletic games. The commencement exercises will be held on the third day. Bishop McQuard, of Rochester, will deliver the address. A pontifical high mass will be celebrated each morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Luther Anthony, of Kingston, are the parents of a baby daughter who came to their home a few days ago. Mrs. Anthony was formerly Miss Adaline Manning, of Grant avenue.

MONTCLAIR FIVE WON BY A LARGE MARGIN

RAN AWAY FROM Y. M. C. A. IN THE SECOND HALF.

There was some doubt as to relative superiority of the teams after Plainfield's game with the Montclair Y. M. C. A. five in Montclair a week ago, but there was none at all after the game at the local gym Saturday night. In the first game Montclair was compelled to play an extra fifteen minutes to squeeze out a narrow victory, but Saturday night she roped in the game long before the second half closed, and scored points enough to throw away as many as the locals made and still win out.

The score was 20 to 12. The trouble for Plainfield lay in the second half. She played a rattling block game in the first, and came through that period one point to the good—10 to 9. In the second half Montclair turned in the same fine work with her teeth bared, and the dismayed Plainfielders were just about able to stay in the game. They were outstripped by the visitors at every point and in every department. Line-up and summary:

Plainfield.		Montclair.
Smith		Rohn
Thompson		J. Calder
	forwards.
Scull		L. Calder
	center.
Leary		Mills
Utzinger		Lammis
	guards.

Goals from field—Mills, 7; J. Calder, 2; Rohn, 3; Scull, 1; Smith, 3; Leary, 1. From fouls—J. Calder, 3; Leary, 3.

After the game the visitors and their chief despondents were entertained at an informal supper in the upper hall.

COUNTESS INTERESTED IN SUIT FOR DAMAGES.

Another Phase of the Difficulties with Faber Pencil Works Finds Way to Court.

James S. Brant, former superintendent of the Faber Pencil Works in Newark, has begun suit for $50,000 damages against the concern of which Countess Otillie von Faber-Castell is the owner.

The amount is claimed for damages which Brant alleges he has suffered by the action of the company in taking possession of his home during his absence and having his furniture placed in a storage warehouse, to which he had no access except by process of law.

The suit is the outcome of the discharge of Brant as superintendent, because of differences with the Countess. Under the contract he had been violated, he refused to vacate the house after he had been deposed.

"Beautify Your Home"

The Burr McIntosh Monthly

"Pictorial Perfection"

"THE MOST BEAUTIFUL MAGAZINE IN THE WORLD"

Ask your newsdealer for this superb magazine. If he does not handle it send us his name and address with your name and address and 10c. for sample copy. Regular price 25c. Mention this paper.

Burr Publishing Company
4 West 22d Street New York City

DIED.

DRAKE—In this city, March 22, 1906, Frank J. Drake, aged 23 years.

CLAY—On Friday, March 23, 1906, Lemma, daughter of Anderson and Cora Clay, aged 23 years.

ADAMS—At the residence of his daughter, Mrs. John Dunn, 129 East Second street, on Monday, March 26, 1906, Edward L. Adams, aged 64 years, 8 months and 12 days.

ADAMS—At the residence of his sister, Mrs. John Dunn, 129 East Second street, on Sunday, March 25, 1906, Curtis E., son of the late Edward L. and Emma Adams, aged 27 years, 6 months, 22 days.

TILBY—At her home, 12 Stone street, North Plainfield, on Tuesday, March 27, 1906, Elizabeth A., wife of James Tilby.

HINTON—On Sunday, March 25, 1906, Russell W., infant son of William and Elizabeth C. Hinton, aged 1 year, 5 months, 20 days.

SMALLEY—On Saturday, March 24, 1906, Anna, widow of Andrew Smalley, aged 66 years.

BERWIND—Suddenly, in Washington Valley, March 18, 1906, John Berwind.

RILEY—Suddenly of Angina Pectoris, on Tuesday, March 20, 1906, William H. Riley, in his 72d year.

Sanitary Plumbing

Brick and Portable Furnace Gas Fitting, Tin Roofing, Etc., Etc., Etc.

I am prepared to do any of the above branches in strictly first-class sanitary and workmanship manner.

Having associated myself with the Master Members Association of New York City, I employ none but first-class mechanics and non-union men. I believe in every man running his own business, at all times and in cases.

D. W. LITTELL,

No. 112 North Ave., Plainfield, N. J.

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE

PATENTS

TRADE MARKS DESIGNS COPYRIGHTS &C.

Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. HANDBOOK on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents.

Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the Scientific American.

A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.

MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York

Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

NEW IN EVERY DETAIL!

My new barber shop at

143 NORTH AVE.

is now open ready for business. All the latest appointments in the tonsoria

EDWIN B. MAYNARD.

CARNEY BROS.,

MADISON AVENUE,

Between Front and Second streets

Tinners, Plumbers Gas Fitters,

Grates and bricks for all kinds of stoves can be found here at Jobbers' prices. Bring your tinware mending to us. The best tinners, the best plumbers, and the best gas-fitters in this section. We use none but the very best of materials, and our work always gives satisfaction. Keys of all kinds are made here. Tinware made to order. Ranges, brick and portable furnaces. Sanitary plumbing.

DIME

Savings Institution,

Of Plainfield, N. J.,

Is now receiving deposits with interest, allowed on all sums from $5 to $3,000.

J. Frank Hubbard, President.
Wm. A. Arnold, Jeremiah Manning, J. C. Pope, Sec'y and Treas. } Vice-Pres

Money deposited on or before January tenth will draw interest from the first.

Guaranteed Salary $900 YEARLY.

Men and women of good address to represent us, some to travel, appointing agents, others for local work looking after our interests. $900 salary guaranteed yearly; extra commissions and expenses, rapid advancement, old established house. Grand chance for earnest man or woman to secure permanent position, liberal income and future. No brilliant lines. Write at once.

STAFFORD PRESS,
23 Church St., New Haven, Conn

W. R. CODINGTON,

Counsellor-at-Law

Commissioner of Deeds, Master-in-Chancery, Notary Public. Office Corner of Park avenue and Second street.

ALBERT HEDDEN

Livery & Boarding Stables

FOURTH ST.,

between Watchung and Park avenues. First-class Livery. Horses boarded by week or month. Telephone call No. 114.

Wm. A. Woodruff

Fire and Life

INSURANCE AGENT

OFFICE,

Corner Front St. and Par k k

Woolston & Buckle, PAINTERS,

Wall Papers, Painters' Supplies

141-145 North avenu

GRADUATE COLLEGE COURSE FOUNDED BY GENEROSITY OF SWANN OF PRINCETON

The entire estate of Mrs. Thomas Swann, of Princeton, with the exception of about $50,000, is divided into public bequests. Her will was entered for probate at the surrogate's office yesterday by Bayard F. Stockton.

The largest bequest, which includes all the residue after other bequests have been taken out, will go for the construction of a building at Princeton to be called "The John R. Thompson Graduate College." It is estimated that it will take more than $100,000 to carry out the plans of Mrs. Swann for the erection of this structure.

Those scholars who have taken the degree of bachelor of arts will be eligible to enter the new college and the fellowships in the college will be known as the "John R. Thompson Fellowships." Students from Princeton University will be given the preference and next will come students from Mercer county, third, students from any part of New Jersey will be admitted, and if there are any vacancies after these students have been admitted any person of American birth will be received.

Mrs. Swann's home on Stockton street, Princeton, is given to the residents of Princeton for use as a public hall and garden. The house, buildings and beautiful grounds are bequeathed directly to the executors, William Milligan Sloane, of Princeton; Bayard Stockton, of Princeton, and Francis Larkin, of Ossining, N. Y., to be kept in trust for the citizens of the borough.

The house, known as "Belgrade," is to be remodeled for public hall, in which must be built the offices of the Mayor of the borough of Princeton and a council chamber. The grounds are also to be remodeled for a public park Mrs. Swann's valuable collection of pictures and relics are to be placed in certain rooms in the house for perpetual exhibition.

For the work of remodeling the house and grounds the sum of $25,000 is bequeather, and an additional sum of $30,000 is left to the executors to be invested to produce an income to be used for the maintenance of the house and grounds.

The third large public bequest is one of $13,000 to the Protestant Episcopal church of Princeton.

In the event of the death of any one of the three trustees the surviving trustees are to petition the Chancellor of the State of New Jersey to appoint the successors, thus making it a perpetual trust.

SOME FAMOUS TREES AND THEIR LOCATION.

Do You Know of Any in New Jersey?

A list of noted trees has been compiled by the American Civic Association and is interesting enough to be preserved. It is as follows:

The Elm Tree at Philadelphia under which William Penn made his famous treaty with nineteen tribes of barbarians.

The Charter Oak at Hartford which preserved the written guarantee of the liberties of the Colony of Connecticut.

The wide-spreading Oak Tree of Flushing, Long Island, under which George Fox, founder of the Society of Friends or Quakers, preached.

The lofty Cypress tree in the Dismal Swamp under which Washington reposed one night in his young manhood.

The huge French Apple tree near Ft. Wayne, Ind., where Little Turtle, the great Miami chief, gathered his warriors.

The Elm tree at Cambridge in the shade of which Washington first took command of the Continental army, on a hot summer's day.

The Tulip tree on King's Mountain battlefield in South Carolina on which the bloodthirsty Tories were hanged at one time.

The tall Pine tree at Ft. Edward, N. Y., under which the beautiful Jane McCrea was slain.

The magnificent Black Walnut tree near Haverstraw on the Hudson at which General Wayne mustered his forces at midnight, preparatory to his gallant and successful attack on Stony Point.

The grand Magnolia tree near Charleston, S. C., under which General Lincoln held a council of war previous to surrendering the city.

The great Pecan tree at Villere's plantation, below New Orleans, under which a portion of the remains of General Packenham was buried.

The Pear tree planted, respectively, by Governor Endicott, of Massachusetts, and Governor Stuyvesant, of New York, more than two hundred years ago.

The Freedman's Oak, or Emancipation Oak, Hampton Institute, Hampton, Virginia, under which the slaves of this region first heard read President Lincoln's Emancipation Proclamation.

The Elliot Oak, of Newton, Mass., under which the apostle, John Elliot, taught the Indians Christianity.

The old Liberty Elm, of Boston, planted and dedicated by a schoolmaster to the independence of the colonies, and the rallying point for patriots before, during and after the Revolutionary War.

The Burgoyne Elm, of Albany, N. Y., planted the day Burgoyne was brought there a prisoner.

The Ash and Tulip trees planted at Mt. Vernon by Washington.

The Elm tree planted by General Grant on the Capitol Grounds at Washington.

Sequoia—Palo Alto, California.

The Cary Tree, planted by Alice and Phoebe Cary in 1832, a large and beautiful Sycamore seen from the Hamilton turnpike, between College Hill and Mt. Pleasant, Hamilton county, Ohio.

The Jersey City Journal notes the strange fact that not one famous tree is located in New Jersey, according to this catalogue, and makes the suggestion that if anyone can recall one that should be so considered or to the public an account it of letters the next bulletin is issued and endeavor to have New Jersey share in the distinction of honors.

Answers.

"Noah's wife," wrote a boy in an examination, "was called Joan of Arc." "Water," wrote another, "is composed of two gases, oxygen and cambrigen." "Love," said a third, "is what the barber puts on your face." "A Blizzard," declared another child, "is the inside of a fowl."—New York Tribune.

CLOSE TO THE PEOPLE.

Distress Signal in Starbuck.

The Star enters upon her third year today, as crazy and "hard up" as ever. In fact, as we look over her past life we find that she is gradually growing worse; and unless the public comes to her rescue she will either be in the asylum or her shirt tail before long.—Starbuck (Ore.) Star.

Editor Gets a Hot One.

While we have "it" in our office and sometimes plenty ofe it, and at very rare intervals we have pie like mother used to make, but Wednesday we had pie that was sure "nuff pie. It was a huge one of the mince variety, which was brought up steaming hot by our very good friend, Mrs. C. A. Seward, and it was the best mince pie we ever tasted; in fact, we ate so much we almost "pied" our forms. Many thanks, Mrs. Seward. It was certainly appreciated.—Dearborn (Mo.) Democrat.

Editor Hires a Pegasus.

We take pleasure in announcing that D. M. Clark, of Angelus, is now regularly on the staff of the Carolina Citizen, occupying the chair of poetry. Mr. Clark will furnish at least one original production each week-ly. We present this week "November Nineteen Four," a pathetic bit of verse, which the author has dedicated to the memory of a lady. In the order named we will published the following verses: "Mary Clark: "Friendship," "In Good Old Summer Time," and "Choosing One of Two." These will be followed by others, and as spring approaches we think we can promise our readers some choice sentimental productions from the pen of our bright young friend.—Cheraw Citizen.

Posey Suspends Activity.

Everybody works but Posey. S. Diener's genial, jovial clerk spent a number of days this week in the city of Remington. Mr. Jasper says he had a good time—but it was just a little muddy! We do not know about the mud, but Posey came back with the smile that never wears off.—Culpepper (Va.) Enterprise.

Nuptial Nerve Tonic.

J. T. Phillips tied the knot in the case of Walter Prevatt and Miss Lorena Freeman at his home Friday night, and served peaches as a nerve settler.—Lumberton (N. C.) Argus.

POINTED PARAGRAPHS.

Some men don't care how dull business is if it is equally bad with their rivals.

About the third time some people show you a kindness you find they want to sell you something.

Patience is that which you have to have with others, but which no one is called upon to have with you.

Society is a good deal like our rich kin—we are mighty nice to its face, but make fun of it behind its back.

Some people are like a worthless team of horses—always have to be helped when it comes to pulling a load uphill.

There is one way of starting on the pathway to get rich which is seldom taken—in early days—running a store and living over it.

It sometimes happens that deference is shown a man not in recognition of his greatness, but because he will be cranky if it isn't.—Atchison Globe.

Windmills as Newspapers.

In Holland births, marriages and deaths, instead of being recorded in newspapers, are indicated by windmills. When a miller gets married he stops his mill with the arms of the wheel in a slanting position and with the sails unfurled. His friends and guests frequently do likewise with mills, in token of the ceremony. To indicate a birth the wheel is stopped with the arms in a slanting position, but at a more acute angle than for a marriage, and with the two upper sails of his mill are all furled and the wheel is turned round until the arms form an upright cross, in which position they are left until after the funeral has taken place.—Exchange.

JUST A MILLION PENNIES IN ONE DAY

STRANGE MACHINE USED BY UNCLE SAM FOR COUNTING COIN.

A million pennies day—that is the capacity of a strange machine which Uncle Sam uses in the Philadelphia mint to count the sum of smallest value made by this government. The machine, known as a counting table, was shown as a part of Uncle Sam's $800,000 display on the peninsula in Guild's Lake, at the Lewis and Clark Exposition.

The counting board is about as large as a big kneading board such as housewives use. The surface of it is wide enough to hold a row of forty pennies. When the pennies are to be counted several thousand are heaped on to the board, which appears like a hopper. Then an operator tips the board backward and forward and sideways, so that the pennies slide about, and finally settle in the grooves made by the brass partition strips. When the board is full there are 1,000 pennies in it. It is then dumbed into a receptacle just outside the hopper, and the pennies which have slipped off the board into the hopper are caught by a box underneath. Pennies are coined at the Philadelphia mint, and the government finds the coining of them profitable, because the value of the metal they contain is only about three-fourths of a cent.

The upsetting machine is another interesting mechanical contrivance. It is used for turning the edges of coins. The coin disks of the proper size are dumped into a hopper, their edges still rough, are put into tubes made to fit them. These tubes are placed upright beside a round-topped, revolving table. At each revolution of the table one of the disks drops into a groove between the table and an outer shell, and the pressure on the edges of the disks make them smooth.

Stamping the coin is the latest process, and this is done by means of a great machine which weighs seven tons and costs $115,000. There are twenty-four such machines in the Philadelphia mint. The disks which are to be coins are placed in a tube, as in the case of the upsetting machine. Two steel fingers take hold of the bottom disk and move it over the die. Then the die above presses down on the disk so that the impression is made on both sides. At the same time the edges of the disk are milled, and when the upper die rises, the steel fingers push the finished coin out of the way and bring a disk into position.

The machine at the Portland Exposition, which is used in stamping $20 gold pieces, has a capacity of ninety a minute. A pressure of 180 tons is necessary to stamp a silver dollar, but 120 tons' pressure will stamp a double eagle. Smaller coins require less pressure.

In connection with the exhibit at the Western World's Fair coins of the realm are made in all denominations except the silver dollar are displayed. None of the mints is now coining dollars, because the government has on hand 600,000,000 which are being held for the purpose of redeeming silver certificates. There is also on hand at present and the first coining press ever used by the United States government—a crude machine, which was operated by hand and was used in 1793 for making copper pennies. Chicago Chronicle.

THE SAYINGS OF SOLOMON.

Never got into business with relatives. They'll advise you even if you get St. Peter for doorkeeper and the Recording Angel for the bookkeeper!

Beware of false profits! A penny over-charged may cause you to lose a dollar customer.

When you hear a man say "Do others before they do you," look out for him! He is one of the evil-doers!

When you are down, take knocks without howling. But when you get up again just seek to be your enemy with compound interest.

Mark Twain says—"Be good and you will be lonesome!" Your Uncle Solomon says—

"Better be alone in good company than sociable in bad!"

The ready liar is generally findeout that when he gets broke there is a great deal of truth in the old saying that "He who goes a-borrowing, goes a-sorrowing!"

Paste this over your desk! If you haven't a desk put your looking glass! If you haven't a looking glass, over your bed! If you haven't a bed, west it next to your heart! Be sure to keep it by you so that you may remember, a dollar is your best friend!

Never answer advertisements that promise to pay you fifty dollars a week for sitting home, doing nothing! Save your stamps and your common sense! The postoffice hasn't cornered all the frauds yet!

Never run from a policeman or a dog! They'll bite you are guilty whether you are or not! Then you are sure to get a clubbing, or a biting, no matter how little you may deserve it. There are times when it pays to stand still!—American Magazine.

—John Todd has entered the employ of the telephone company.

CHAMBER CONCERT DELIGHTFUL AFFAIR

LAST IN M'INTYRE SERIES OF MUSICALS DRAWS A CROWD.

Vladmir Dubinsky, 'cellist; Mrs. Aimee Horton Dalzell, soprano, and Joseph McIntyre, pianist, shared the honors at the third and last McIntyre chamber concert given at the Casino, Thursday, before a large gathering of music-lovers. Mr. Dubinsky was a great favorite, his brilliant work on the 'cello winning much praise. Mrs. Dalzell's reception was a flattering one. Her sweet voice was heard to the best advantage. She received a handsome bouquet of carnations from admiring friends.

Mr. McIntyre appeared as accompanist as well as the rendition of the "Ride of the Valkyries," by Wagner, which closed the programme. This was his first appearance this season as a soloist, and his work was delightful.

Other artists assisting were Isidor Schnitzler, violin, and Herbert Borodkin, viola, and they appeared with Mr. McIntyre and Mr. Dubinsky in the quartette and trio selections.

The programme opened with piano quartette in G minor-allegro, andante, rondo, (allegro,) by Mozart. The second number comprised three songs, by Mrs. Dalzell. The first two were "Toujours a Toi," by Tschikowsky, and "My Mother Bids Me Bind My Hair," by Hadyn. Mr. Dubinsky's solo number was "Koi Nedrel," old Hebrew melody, which he gave with his characteristic spirit and in a finished manner. The next number was a trio, "Serenade for strings in D," comprising "Marcia," "Adagio," "Scherzo," "Allegretta alla Pollacca," "Andante," and "Marcia." The programme was concluded with Wagner's composition, "Ride of the Valkyries." Mr. McIntyre will give another series of concerts next season.

ORGANIZE $10,000 CONSTRUCTION CO.

TO MAKE CEMENT BLOCKS AND BUILD HOUSES.

For the purpose of manufacturing cement blocks and building houses, the Berkeley Heights Construction Co. has been incorporated and the main offices will be in this city. The capital stock is $10,000. The articles of incorporation were filed yesterday and an election of officers immediately followed.

Fred L. Walters is president of the concern and William Jeffery treasurer. The secretary is Francis E. Bodin. It is stated that the company intends to erect a number of new houses in Berkeley Heights and that the cement blocks will be used in their construction.

Work has already commenced on the building of the cement block making plant and it is said that the place will be in full operation next month.

BURGLARS IN LEHIGH STATION AT NEW MARKET

HAUL CONSITS OF $1 IN STAMPS AND PENNIES.

Burglars broke into the New Market station of the Lehigh Valley Railroad Friday. The job netted them a dollar, and fifty cents of that was in stamps. The poor pickings must have discouraged them, because no other places in the village were entered. The burglarious hobo usually takes in as many places as possible in a railroad village.

Station Agent S. E. Merkel discovered the robbery this morning, when he opened the office at 7 o'clock. Entrance had been gained by forcing a window. Fifty cents in pennies and a string of twenty-five two-cent stamps, which had been in a drawer in the desk, were the only things missing. The ticket box was smashed but none of the tickets were taken. The day's receipts, about $25, which the crooks probably hoped to get, are always taken home by Merkel when he doesn't send them into headquarters.

The police here were notified of the case, but take only an academic interest in such cases. There isn't one chance in a thousand of a hobo crook, working on the Lehigh, getting into their bailiwick very soon.

N. P. H. S. Play.

The Athletic Association of the North Plainfield High School has decided to give the "Great Pumpkin Case," a mock trial, as its annual production. Rehearsals are being held now and it is expected that the entertainment will be given within the next few weeks.

George G. Davidge, who recently sold his house on Rockview Terrace to Frederic Harrington, of Rockview avenue, has leased the house 26 Rockview avenue for present occupancy.

TRINITY ENDEAVORERS HOLD BIG SOCIABLE

MOTHER GOOSE AFFAIR ENJOYED BY A LARGE GATHERING.

The Christian Endeavorers of Trinity Reformed church, West Second street, held their first big sociable of the year Thursday. It was a "Mother Goose" affair, and was as great a success of its kind as the classic of the nursery. There was a large attendance and an altogether delightful programme.

The features were a Mother Goose game and a Mother Goose cantata. In the game, pasteboard geese, with amputated rhymes on them, were passed among the players, and the latter went about matching the sections of verse to find their partners for the evening. Some of the geese had numbers on them, and as the numbers were called the holders went to a blackboard and illustrated the verse in his possession. The rest of the players were required to guess the verse from the alleged illustration. Some of the illustrations were poor, but a lot of the guesses were poorer, which made fun that was as good as any of the kind the Queens were had, in combined badness.

The Mother Goose songs were admirably sung. Those who took the main parts in the cantata were the Misses Harriet Randall, Anna Randall, Bessie Randall, Eva Dunavan, Ellen Dufford, Minnie Wyman, Lyda Wyman, Mamie Davenport, Edith Leek, Mrs. William Tunison, Roy Layton, Allen Layton, Floyd Miller, Roy Woodhull and William Krimey.

Chester Briggs played mandolin solos, accompanied by Irving Martin. Mr. Martin sang. Refreshments were served.

The social committee, which arranged the affair, is made up of Miss Harriet Randall, chairman; Miss Lucy Coriell, Miss Anna Randall, William Krimey and Henry Seader.

H. F. FOX CHAMPIONS CHILD LABOR BILL

PLAINFIELDER SPEAKS BEFORE HOUSE COMMITTEE ON MR. PERKINS' BILL.

Hugh F. Fox, of this city, president of the New Jersey State Children's Alliance, is fighting tooth and nail for the adoption of Assemblyman Randolph Perkins' bill, which prevents the employment of children under sixteen years of age in factories between the hours of 6 p. m. and 7 a. m. At the hearing before the House committee on labor and industries, he took the leading part in advocating the measure, which is opposed by South Jersey glass blowers principally.

Mr. Fox explained the measure. He thought the merits of the bill would appeal to all. He said the text of the arguments of the friends of the bill was a statement made by former Governor Murphy, that the welfare of the children was more to be considered than the difference between child's labor and man's labor.

President Fox said opposition was to be expected from manufacturers, because it would change the conditions in many factories, but that was no argument against the righteousness of the measure. It was shown that the bill would mainly hit the glass manufacturers. The speaker was willing to concede, he said, that the change should not be made too suddenly, and he was willing to amend the bill by making it take effect a year hence.

J. P. MURRAY ELECTED COUNTRY CLUB SECRETARY.

Also Elected to Fill Vacancy on Board of Trustees.

Leighton Calkins resigned as secretary of the Plainfield Country Club at a meeting of the trustees held last Thursday, and James P. Murray was elected to fill the vacancy, and he was also chosen to fill the vacancy on the Board of Trustees caused by the resignation of Ralph D. Waring. Mr. Calkins was elected chairman of the greens committee, succeeding E. T. Barrows.

The officers and chairmen of committees for 1906 are as follows:

President, George P. Mellick; vice president, Ernest R. Ackerman; secretary, James P. Murray; treasurer, Joseph M. Shellabarger; chairman house committee, L. G. Timpson; chairman green committee, Leighton Calkins; chairman golf committee, Thomas R. VanDerbeck; chairman of the tennis committee, T. M. Day.

Fred Ivamy Will Move.

Fred Ivamy, the seafood dealer, is about to make a change in the location of his business which has been established on West Second street and Madison avenue for many years. He has leased Charles W. McCutchen's building on West Second street, adjoining the New Plainfield theatre, and will take possession about April 1. Mr. Ivamy will have his seafood market on the first floor and will reside in the flat above. He proposes to make the market up-to-date in every detail, enabling him to handle his increasing trade.

AUTO PUPILS WILL STUDY IN JUMPERS

OWNERS TO BECOME ACQUAINTED WITH CAR'S INSIDES.

Preliminary to the organization of the class, Clarence Brokaw, who is to conduct the automobile school at the Y. M. C. A., delivered a lecture to a gathering of auto enthusiasts at the association auditorium, Thursday night. He gave them a general survey of the field to be covered by the course.

To the lecture is not part of the course. It was designed merely to bring those interested together and see whether men enough were ready to enter on the course to make it worth carrying out. It is designed to form a class of not more than fifteen owners, and names enough to make it a certainty were signed.

Mr. Brokaw is principal of the Y. M. C. A. automobile school, New York, the biggest school of its kind in the world, and he knows automobiles from their last layer of varnish to the inner consciousness of the thingamajig that makes it go. His plans for the course are thorough. In the course of the twelve lessons, the pupils will learn everything of the workings of cars that an owner need know. Different types of machines will be brought into the auditorium and taken apart. The pupils will learn how to put them together again. Before the lessons end the pupils will be busy in jumpers and overalls scraping an acquaintance with the finished cars.

The course is designed solely for owners. Chauffeurs cannot be trained in twelve lessons, without road work, as men who earn money driving cars should be trained. The cars used for demonstration will be types popular in Plainfield—the Olds, the and the Franklin. The Olds machine will be taken up first.

Mr. Brokaw's talk last night was on the relation of the different parts, one to another and to the whole mechanism, and on the functions of the parts. It was illustrated by stereopticon views.

MORE HONORS FOR FORMER LOCAL FIREMAN

AUGUSTE SALTZMAN A MEMBER OF TWO IMPORTANT EUROPEAN ORGANIZATIONS

In a letter received by Chief Doane yesterday, Auguste Saltzman, former chief of the Plainfield department during the volunteer days, now living in Geneva, Switzerland, announces that additional honors have been conferred upon him. He has recently been made honorary life member of the National Fire Brigade Union of England and also a member of honor of the International Congress of Firemen, which takes place in Milan, Italy, in May. In addition he has received a fine badge and diploma from the Duke of Luxembourg in recognition of his ability as a fire fighter.

Mr. Saltzman's household was recently increased by the arrival of a young son who has been named Theodore William, in honor of the states, in honor of President Roosevelt and the Emperor of Germany.

Two years ago, Mr. Saltzman received a gold medal from the President of France in recognition of his services at an international meeting of firemen. About the same time he received a similar honor from the Emperor of Germany.

The chief mentions the fact that in Geneva they "luckily" have very few fires as the department is very slow. "They are fine for theory and parade," he writes, "but when actual work is needed they fail to come up to the mark."

The Crown Prince's Moustache.

While the Kaiser cultivates a moustache with the well-known upward twirl, his son, the young crown prince, clips his straight across, toothbrush fashion, after the style affected by old soldiers in this country thirty or forty years ago. He seems to be developing an individuality of his own in other respects as well, and bids fair to become the antithesis of his father. The Germans, be it said, are proud of the Kaiser, but the crown prince is popular in a sense in which his father never was. There are many things outside of military concerns which the average German can get up his enthusiasm, but I have seen stolid and bespectacled herrs become quite enthusiastic over the kronprinz.—London Tatler.

Back Talk.

"The nerve of you arguing with me!" snapped the boorish old fellow. "Why, you impudent young pup! I've forgotten more than you ever knew."

"Very likely," replied the young on, quietly, "and one of the things I never knew and which you appear to have forgotten is that you are a gentleman."

To Date.

"Yes, his delicacy of touch is quite marvelous."

"Ah, a pianist?"

"No, a society journalist."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

POLICE WILL GUARD AGAINST RAGE TROUBLE

CHIEF KIELY HAS ARRANGED FOR THE "CLANSMAN'S" COMING.

Chief of Police Kiely has taken note of the dislike for "The Clansman," Thomas Dixon, Jr.'s Ku-Klux play, evinced by negroes in towns where the production has been given, and has marked a little red sign on the date if it is to appear here, which is next Friday.

"There will be no trouble at the theatre that night," said the chief last evening. "We will see to that, and don't you forget it. If there is a negro in that audience who makes the slightest crack at a rumpus he will be yanked out so quick his teeth will travel through the back of his head. If they start any troubles as though they meant it, they will find that clubs are trumps all through the game.

"But I don't expect any excitement that night," the chief added, "I think our colored people are too sensible of the temper of this city to attempt anything of the sort. They know, or should know, that anything of the sort will be met with prompt and stern repression. We will not even stand for insulting remarks or threatening talk. The law will be on guard next Friday night with wide open eyes and ears."

OLD SECOND BRIGADE WILL HOLD BIG REUNION

PLAINFIELDERS BELONG—MAYOR FAGAN AND DAN SICKLES TO SPEAK.

Invitations have been issued to the members of the Second New Jersey Brigade, to which Frank Whiteley and Thomas McDonald, of this city, belong, for the nineteenth annual reunion of the society, which will occur in the rooms of G. Van Houten Post, G. A. R., 94 Belmont avenue, Jersey City, beginning at 11 o'clock a. m., April 9 next, the anniversary of the surrender of Robert E. Lee, at Appomattox court house, in 1865.

During the war the Second New Jersey Brigade, under Generals Sickles and Hooker, division commanders, was composed of the following regiments, Fifth, Sixth, Seventh, Eighth and Eleventh New Jersey; Second and One Hundred and Seventh New York; Twenty-sixth and One Hundred and Fifteenth Pennsylvania; First, Eleventh and Sixteenth Massachusetts, and the First Massachusetts Light Artillery. The brigade has a long record of hard service.

Many members will be made welcome to Jersey City in an address by Mayor Mark Fagan. Other prominent speakers will give addresses, including their old commander, General Daniel E. Sickles.

Among the illustrious names of the old brigade leaders under whom the brigade served may be noted Sickles, Heintzelman, Hancock, Mott, McAllister and Carr, and among the brigade commanders were Starr, Sewell, Ramsey, Patterson and Burling.

Elaborate preparations are being made for the reception of the society in Jersey City, and in the invitations being sent is contained a special plea for a full attendance of the members. They are getting fewer in number more rapidly now than before, on account of the advancing ages of the survivors, and these reunions are the only means the members have of meeting each other and exchanging reminiscences.

TRANSFERS OF REAL ESTATE.

The following transfers of real estate in the respective towns or townships named were duly recorded in the Somerset county clerk's office between February 20 and February 28: Charles B. Pope et ux to Henry Wade, North Plainfield, $1; Harriet B. Towle and husband to Edith F. Clynes, North Plainfield, $1; Sarah M. Bacon, Jr., et ux to Somerville Mfg. Co., Somerville, $1; William M. Budd to Joseph D. Budd et al, North Plainfield, $1; Mary K. Budd to Joseph D. Budd et al, North Plainfield, $1; Joseph D. Budd et ux to A. Brunson, North Plainfield, $2,000; Hugh D. Vail to William R. Clarkson, Plainfield, $4,500; John Dezendorf et ux to William R. Clarkson, Plainfield, $3,000; John H. Van Winkle, special master, to Alex Gilbert, Plainfield, $15,025; James Baglin et ux to M. F. Baglin, North Plainfield, $1; Silas Winans et ux to Guiseppe Lacosta, North Plainfield, $1; Silas Winans et ux to Serseino Trotanda, North Plainfield, $1; Nicholas H. Heidleloff et ux to Amalie Parouleau, North Plainfield, $1.

S. S. Class Entertained.

Miss Juliet S. Hill entertained her Sunday-school class Thursday evening at her home on Westervelt avenue. The young women invited to meet them were the Misses Caroline Lambert, Corinne Tennyson, Mabel Cook, Emily Tempus and Frances Rittenhouse. The guest of honor was Rowland Leighton, who is to leave Plainfield soon. The other members of the class were Frank March, George Cole and Raymond Scribner. Progressive peanuts and other games were played.

TALK BY AN IRONMASTER MONEY FOR BUILDING HARD TO SECURE

Dr. Richard Moldenke Tells How Castings Are Made.

BEFORE CHURCH CLUB

Topic Treated In An Absorbingly Interesting Way—Even the Women Enjoyed It and Gathered Knowledge.

The Men's Club of the First Presbyterian church held its monthly social meeting Thursday, and for the feature of the occasion the committee had Dr. Richard Moldenke, of Washington Valley, talk on iron casting. Dr. Moldenke is a recognized authority on iron work, known wherever foundrymen of the country hold forth as a scientific expert in his particular field, which is the making of malleable castings.

The talk was absorbingly interesting. Speaking with perfect informality, Dr. Moldenke carefully kept technicalities from his talk, and even the women, present by special invitation from the club, followed him without trouble. They were as interested as the men.

Dr. Moldenke speaks on the iron business from the inside. Until a few month ago he was actively engaged in it. He was interested in a large plant at Pittsburg, where thousands of malleable casting were made yearly. Most of the journal boxes seen on the Central and P. & R. cars were made at Dr. Moldenke's plant.

The speaker, for the most part, dealt with cast iron, but touched at some length on every form of the metal. Iron costing, he said, dated from early in the sixteenth century. The first castings in this country were made in New England in 1730. A little later the Germans brought it to Pennsylvania.

The process of melting the pig iron for casting was simple enough, he explained. Alternate layers of iron and coke, with a blast of air passed through the mass, reduced the iron to a molten state. He explained the composition of iron, and how the absence or presence of sulphur, manganese, silicon, phosphorus and carbon, served to change the character of the casting. The amount of silicon, for instance, governed its hardness; the phosphorus made it soft, so that a very fluid mass, designed to run in the smallest crevices of the mould, was made rich in phophorus. Iron of that character was used in art castings. The manner of making moulds for such castings was explained.

The ordinary moulds were made of a damp mixture of sand and clay—just enough clay to hold the sand together in the desired shape. It had to be just wet enough. Too dry, it fell to pieces; too wet, it caused an explosion. In some forms of casting, sand, set and dried in iron boxes, was used. Loam moulds were used for especially large castings. The casting of steel rollers, which a hard white surface with a tough body of gray iron was required.

The study of iron was in itself a work for a lifetime. Two kinds of iron marked the extremes of texture in the metal. The white was very hard, the gray soft; there were various grades between. The different classes of iron numbered thirteen, and they were put to forty different uses.

Iron casting was put on a scientific basis only about ten years ago. Until that time casting was all guesswork. Nowadays the ironmaster figured the silicon, the manganese, the phosphorus and the carbon exactly and got just the iron he wanted whenever he wanted it.

Dr. Moldenke dealt at length with malleable castings. He was held on the floor for more than half an hour after his talk by questions from all over the room. He told some shivery tales of the dangers that stalk beside the foundryman every day of his work.

EDITORS INQUISITIVE.

A Welsh mountain is gradually changing its location at Troedyrhiwfuwch. Why don't the spelling reformers try it first on Wales?—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

According to Mrs. Russell Sage, no sweet and refined American woman ever smoke the nasty little things. Who said they did?—Chicago Tribune.

Wouldn't it be better to wait until there are two vacancies on the Supreme bench before trying to make room for Secretary Taft?—Kansas City Star.

Talking about spelling reform, are not the stenographers attending to that?—Chicago Inter Ocean.

The sow returns to her wallow. The big life insurance companies are fighting the adoption of the Armstrong report by the New York legislature. Is it possible to reform them so that they will stay reformed? Can the Ethiopian change his skin?—Portland Oregonian.

Is there no way to utilize the energies of the Indiana novel writers and poets?—Houston Post.

Why draw the line at spelling reform? Has English grammar no eccentricities that it should escape the attention of the reformatory enthusiasts?—Chicago News.

Query: Will the Senate committee on the Mormon question make smoot scoot?—Philadelphia Press.

TAX BUDGET FIGURING

Councilmanic Finance Committee Ordinance in Shape For Next Meeting.

NO DELAY PROBABLE

Street Department Will Want More Money—Hinted That a Return Will Be Made to the $2.52 Figure.

Nothwithstanding a report to the contrary, the finance committee from the Common Council is busily engaged in getting estimates from the various city departments with a view to preparing the tax budget for the coming year. A member of the Common Council in speaking about the report ed delay said today that he did not believe that the committee would wait on the action of the Legislature in fixing the budget. The Legislature is scheduled to adjourn on March 29, and it will be known by that time what disposition will be made of the law providing for a uniform tax rate.

This would allow time for preparing the local budget so that the ordinance could be presented at the next regular meeting, Monday, April 2. It is the custom for the Common Council to finally adopt the tax ordinance at the May meeting, so that the assessors can make their rounds. The uncertainty of the Hillery act is not making any difference with the finance committee in its work and the members are going ahead just as though it was not pending legislative action. The Hillery bill has been amended several times to meet certain conditions and localities, and as yet no one knows what the outcome will be.

While it is too early to state what the tax rate for the year will be, whether it will be increased or not, there is a feeling that it will probably be returned to $2.52, the old rate, at least. The street department is sure to want more money this year than last, if it is possible to get it, and a member of the Common Council said today that it could use $35,000 and make a good showing for it. Last year the appropriation was $29,400. This same member said that it was a mistake last year to lower the rate at all, while everyone was satisfied with the $2.52 figures.

The police board is also sure to ask for more money this year. There is the urgent need for more patrolmen and unless the appropriation is increased they cannot be employed. There is a call for more policemen in the Netherwood district, as well as the West End, and the taxpayers feel as though their requests are not unreasonable.

A city official, in speaking about the fire department, remarked that while last year's committee showed a saving in money, it did very little in keeping up the equipment of the department, such as the purchase of new hose and other necessary things, and he said that the present committee will have to make the expenditure out of this year's appropriation, and the expense will be greater.

Until it is definitely known what the appropriation will be and how much assessable property there is in the city no improvements can be planned for the year. It is believed that the natural increase in real and personal property this year will amount to considerable and help to keep the rate down. An important item from now on will be the paying for the new Plainfield High School, but the yearly tax on these bonds will not be large enough to cause any uneasiness.

HIS INHERITANCE WAS CAUSE OF DOWNFALL.

Vice Chancellor Advises Divorce for Mrs. Johnson, but Without Any Alimony.

Vice Chancellor Stevens has filed at Newark a decree in the divorce suit brought by Mrs. B. Augusta Johnson, formerly of Glen Ridge, but now of Princeton, against her husband, George A. Johnson, who is at present living in Newark.

The court advises a decree in favor of Mrs. Johnson, but does not allow her any alimony because she has in her name a house in Glen Ridge valued at $11,000, which her husband gave her before their domestic troubles began.

Drunkenness and cruelty were charged by the plaintiff in her action. At the trial Mrs. Johnson's daughter testified for her, while the son testified for the father.

Johnson was a mechanic at the time of the marriage, nearly forty years ago, and was a model husband until he inherited a fortune from an uncle who died in California. He then took to drink.

By the decree Mrs. Johnson will, in case her husband receives a further portion of the California estate, be permitted to apply for alimony.

Back from Orange Groves.

Harry Campbell, who has been spending some time in Florida looking after his orange groves, sailed today for home. His partner, C. B. Clifton, who with Mrs. Clifton, has been at Bradentown, Fla., will sail for home on Tuesday, March 27, and expects to arrive here on April 3. On Tuesday last the thermometer was 82 degrees in the shade and the weather has been delightful in that part of the South.

ADELE VON OHL IN HIPPODROME SENSATION

SHE RIDES ONE OF THE PLUNGING HORSES AS IT LEAPS INTO BIG TANK.

Miss Adele Von Ohl, of this city, a member of the Hippodrome chorus, and one of the most expert horsewomen in the country, figures as the heroine in a new sensation, surpassing anything ever produced on a stage, at the Hippodrome, arranged by Frederic W. Thompson, wherein will be introduced in "A Society Circus" Thompson & Dundy's famous plunging horses, fifteen in number. The entire scenario of the jungle scene, the first in the second act, has been changed to permit of the introduction of the plunging horses.

The idea will give added interest to the theme of the production. It will be recalled by those who have seen "A Society Circus" that Paul Pasky (Edwin Clarke), and the prospective husband of Lady Volumnia (Miss Rose La Harte) is abducted by a band of gypsies, escapes through the mazes of the forest to the side of his fiancee. This has now been changed. Pasky, bound to a tree by the gypsies, is rescued by his bride and both flee. The escape is discovered by the band, who pursue on horseback.

The chase leads across a lake, the big tank of the Hippodrome being utilized for the purpose. The pursuers are urged on by a young girl, one of their tribe, and the most daring horsewoman among them. She is the leader. The lake reached, she does not pause, but plunges in, the others following. Pasky, however, escapes.

NURSERY CARED FOR 200 CHILDREN IN MARCH

NOW PLANS TO OPEN A SUMMER CAMP ON THE MOUNTAIN.

Since March 1 there has been 200 children cared for at the King's Daughters' Day Nursery and the work is progressing satisfactorily. Any financial assistance or aid is always appreciated by this charitable organization in maintaining the institution. The nursery will be continued during the summer, with the exception of the month of August, when it will be closed to give the matron a vacation.

The King's Daughters are gradually preparing plans for the opening of the summer camp on the mountain. This work will not interfere with that of the day nursery, and as it was such a success last season the organization feels encouraged to continue it this year.

MASKED BURGLARS FIND THE MONEY.

One with Pistol Guards Butcher, While Other Makes a Search of Room.

Frank Mathias, a butcher, of Main street, Bound Brook, was visited by burglars early Friday morning. They didn't resort to violence, because while they threatened one of them searched the room and found the hiding place of the butcher's money.

Mathias made his collections Thursday. This fact apparently was known to the intruders. The butcher sleeps in a room above the store. About 3 a. m. he was awakened by two men in the room, one of whom had him covered with a revolver. This man said:

"Mr. Mathias, we are after your money. We know you have it, so please fork up."

Mathias said he had none, and was told he made his collections Thursday and that he must have that money anyhow, as he had not returned to the store until after the banks had closed.

The men threatened to use violence unless the money was produced. While Mathias and the man with the gun were talking the other man was making a rapid and thorough search of the room. He stumbled upon the hiding place, where there was $400.

This satisfied the men, and they left the room and made their escape. Both wore masks and were well dressed. Mathias says he would hardly be able to identify the men unless, possibly, by hearing the voice of the one who covered him with the revolver.

CIRCUS TWO NIGHTS.

Dates of Boys' Affair Announced; Strong Features.

Final arrangements are being made for the Boys' Club circus. It was announced yesterday that the affair would be presented two nights, Thursday and Friday, April 19 and 20.

Strong features will be on the programme. One of the novelties is to be a series of difficult pyramids on Roman ladders. The moves make up a novelty requiring considerable strength and accurate balancing. The ladders are not fastened in any way and must be steadied by the performers. The boys are working hard at rehearsals, under Clarence Pope's direction.

PLAN TO ADMIT ANOTHER CLUB NOW

EAST JERSEY GOLF LEAGUE WILL PROBABLY INCREASE ITS MEMBERSHIP.

George B. Jenkinson, president of the East Jersey Golf League, has appointed the handicap committee and the spring tournament committee for the coming season. He said Friday that there was a good chance of another club being taken into membership in the near future, as the general sentiment among the league officials favored six in preference to five clubs.

The new committees are as follows:

Handicap Committee—M. D. W. Thurston, chairman; Elmer E. Wood, Paul E. Heller, A. F. C. Milligan, Howard Giffin and Ward G. Thomas.

Spring Tournament Committee—R. A. Waterbury, chairman; Elmer E. Wood and Howard Giffin.

Bob Peebles, for the past two years engaged as the professional of the South Orange Field Club, has secured the green at the Fairview Country Club, Lakehoe, N. J., for the coming season. Peebles has been in this city and vicinity during the greater part of the winter. Philip O'Connor, a graduate from the caddie ranks at the Essex County Country Club, has applied for the South Orange green, as O'Connor is a capital player and more than a match for any of the country club's members.

The links of the Nassau Country Club will be the scene of the first annual championship of the Women's Eastern Golf Association and the ri-tri-city team matches June 5, 6, 7 and 8. This announcement was made last night by one official of the association and it settles the much-mooted question as to where the tournament would be held, since it was decided not to go to the Brae Burn Country Club.

Immediately after the executive committee of the United States Golf Association selected the Brae Burn links for the women's national championship, Mrs. E. P. Sanford, president of the Eastern body, wrote to several prominent clubs, asking if they would be willing to offer their courses for the tournament. The clubs communicated with were the Nassau Country Club, Connecticut of Lakewood, Baltusrol Golf Club, Atlantic City Country Club, Deal Golf Club and New Haven Country Club. Favorable replies were received from practically all directions, but Nashau received the preference, mainly because the Boston women had expressed a wish for that green. The wishes of the Boston women had to be respected, as they were kind enough to waive their claim to the tri-city matches.

Jerome D. Travers, of the Nassau Country Club, probably the most brilliant young player in the country, will do most of his golfing over New Jersey links this season. His father, Vincent P. Travers, has sold his summer home at Oyster Bay, Long Island, and has decided to locate, for a time, in this State. Jerome Travers said last night that they had not decided as yet just where they would go. He wants to get in a little practise at Englewood, however, before the national championship, which is to be held there in the middle of July. He expects to enter Princeton next fall.

CUPID SCORES IN HALLS OF LEARNING

TEACHERS IN BOROUGH HIGH SCHOOL TO WED.

The seniors of the North Plainfield High School were invited to a party by Miss Margaret Hallock, one of their instructors, Friday. They anticipated an ordinary party, but they found very far from ordinary. When the young people had gathered, Miss Hallock blushingly announced that the party was designed to let them know that she and M. K. W. Heicker, head of the North Plainfield manual training department, had become engaged. Mr. Heicker was present, and smilingly shared in the congratulations showered on his fiancee.

Mr. Heicker and Miss Hallock formed their acquaintance at the school. Cupid chuckled when he saw them meet, and sharpened up his arrows. Between lessons he indulged in target practice and it was not many days before he scored bullseyes.

Mr. Heicker and his bride will spend their honeymoon in Japan. Early in the fall the young man will give up his teaching to enter on mission work. Miss Hallock has naturally become interested in mission work, and will assist her husband in his labors among the Orientals. The date of the marriage has not been fixed, but it will probably be some time in September.

The party Friday was given at Miss Hallock's boarding house on West Fourth street. Mr. Heicker and Miss Turner helped her to arrange it.

There was a telephone call for the patrol wagon from a woman living in a house on East Second street yesterday afternoon. She said a drunk was lying in the street. When Driver O'Gorman reached the scene the drunk had disappeared.

MR. AND MRS. JACKSON ENTERTAIN BROTHERHOOD

AT MEETING OF FIRST M. E. SOCIETY PLANS ARE MADE FOR LECTURE.

Mr. and Mrs. James W. Jackson entertained the Brotherhood of the First M. E. church at their home in Crescent avenue Friday night, about fifty members enjoying the hospitality of the host and hostess.

The forepart of the evening was devoted to the consideration of business. The reports of the secretary and treasurer were presented. These showed the organization to be in a flourishing condition. There was also a report from a special committee on an entertainment to be held at the church on Thursday night, April 26.

At that time there will be an illustrated lecture by Rev. Dr. Jesse L. Hurlbut and by connection with this there will be a strawberry festival and the choir of the church will be the guest of the club, thus insuring a programme of music. The committee in charge of this affair comprises Dr. Frank W. French, James R. Joy, William Symons, Arthur Humble, Maurice McGrath, and each one will select his own assistants. Other business included the election of John Henry, W. R. Codington, F. P. Humble and others. Frank Arthur Humble was appointed scribe to serve at the church for the coming month. He will select his assistants.

This concluded the business and the entertainment followed. There was a fine musical programme of classical selections on the talking machine, operated by Mr. Jackson, after which George Rittenhouse, who attended the convention of the National Student Volunteers, held recently at Nashville, Tenn., gave a very interesting talk concerning the conference, where 4,000 students were gathered. James R. Joy and Miss Elsie Horne also attended this convention, and Mr. Joy will give a talk about it at the First M. E. church tomorrow night.

After the entertainment elaborate refreshments were served by Mr. and Mrs. Jackson and social features were enjoyed. Those who presided at the tables were Mrs. Symons, Mrs. L. M. French and Mrs. A. C. McCrea. While refreshments were served there were other selections on the talking machine.

BUILDING AND LOAN ASSOCIATION PROSPERS

PLAINFIELD CONCERN SHOWS YEAR'S GROSS RECEIPTS $92,924.05.

The twenty-second annual report of the Plainfield Building and Loan Association for the year ending March 5 last has been issued and shows a gratifying financial condition of affairs. An important feature is that with one more payment the fourth series, started seven years and seven months ago, will be retired and there will be distribution among the holders of the 268¾ shares the sum of $53,157.63, which means that every share of stock is worth in even $200. During the course of this series there has been paid in on each share $138, or a total of $37,053 paid to date. The profits to date amount to $16,104.63.

The financial statement shows the assets and liabilities to be $245,705.91, and the liabilities the same. The gross receipts for the year were $92,924.05, and the disbursements, including the cash on hand, $21,301.02, the same. This is the oldest and one of the most reliable associations in the State and is conducted along progressive lines. A new series will be opened on Monday night, March 26, and as shares will be limited, applications should be made early.

W. D. Murray Receives an Umbrella.

The last session of W. D. Murray's Bible Class was held at the Y. M. C. A. Thursday night and at the close of the study he was presented with a handsome silk umbrella by U. B. Crane, on behalf of the class. In the presentation speech Mr. Crane referred to the help the class had received through Mr. Murray's instruction and extended him the thanks of the class. Mr. Murray responded in his usual happy manner and after a handshake all around the class disbanded for the season.

Entertained Her Class.

Miss Edna Moffett entertained her Sunday-school class of the First Baptist church and their friends at her home on Central avenue Thursday evening. The evening was pleasantly spent in the playing of games, vocal and instrumental music and the serving of refreshments. Those in attendance were the Misses Gladys Leland, Beulah VanWinkle, Amy Moore, Edith Glanzer, Ruth Moore, Margaret Higgins, Etta Titus, Mary Moffett.

N. P. H. S. Class Day.

The following class day committee has been appointed by the senior class of the North Plainfield High School: Miss Mary Robley, chairman; Miss Marion Overton, Miss Mary Neal, Stanley Fisher and Leo Keaney. Plans are being made to present something novel at this year's exercises.

CARPENTERS CELEBRATE

Observe the Twentieth Anniversary of Their Prosperous Local Union.

GOOD ENTERTAINMENT

James E. Martine Speaks—Newark Man Also Talks—Dancing As a Feature.

Local Carpenters' Union, No. 155, observed the twentieth anniversary of its organization Friday by giving an entertainment and dance in Saengerbund Hall. Five hundred people were in attendance and the affair was a big success from several points of view.

One of the features of the programme was an address by Farmer-Orator James E. Martine, who gave a characteristic talk on "Unionism." Mr. Martine has become thoroughly conversant with the subject and he was selected by the committee after many available men had been considered. He said in part that the tendency of the age is for organization and the fact has been realized by men in labor circles. Instead of labor union being a cause for alarm to the people, they should be a cause for rejoicing, as combines in labor are beneficial to the community as well as the organizers. He expressed himself as being in favor of shorter hours for labor, as it was not intended that man should toil from "the cradle to the grave," and that recreation is an essential. Continuing, Mr. Martine said:

"The best results can be derived from working days if they be divided into three equal parts for labor, rest and recreation. If this were done, everyone would be satisfied and employes would be a happy, contented lot of men. There is no need of conflicts between capital and labor and I hope that the future has none in store for us. Both sides are beginning to realize this as each one recognizes the value of the other. There is one menace to harmony, however, and that is faulty legislation. If you trained workmen will use your votes for the party that will bring legislation in your favor, everything will be quiet and peaceful and the laborer will get full value for the energy he expends."

Other numbers on the programme were a comedy musical act by Kassel and Winans, of New York; violin and piano selections by the Misses McInness and acrobatic work by Meyer and Hansen. A second address was made by James McLean, of Newark, a well known labor organizer who also spoke on "Unionism." Refreshments were served in conclusion and the floor was cleared for dancing, music being furnished by Suhr's Imperial Orchestra.

The committee which arranged and had charge of the affair consisted of William Bodine, chairman; John Ebberly, George Wyckoff, William Lunger and Swan Smalley.

P. H. S. GYMNASIUM OPENED LAST NIGHT

THE HIGH SCHOOL TEAM DEFEATED WANAMASSA—45 TO 24.

The new Plainfield High School gymnasium was formally opened last gymnasium was formally opened Friplayed between the High School team and the Wanamassa Boat Club, of this city. The High School boys played all around their opponents and overwhelmed them by a score of 45-24.

The play was fast and furious throughout by both teams, and while the boat club managed to keep their score close to that of the school boys in the first period of play, still they fell down in the second half and Plainfield High School ran away ahead. The team play of the High School was perfect, Collier, Smith and Freeman doing very well.

The line up: P. H. S.—Freeman, centre; Collier and Smith, forwards; Doane, Caldwell and Line, guards. Wanamassa,—Whitney, centre; Aalholm and Phillips, forwards; Martin and Hoagland, guards. Umpire, Cullingworth; referee, Scull.

Between the halves of the big game, the P. H. S. II team defeated the Hope Chapel Juniors in a fiercely contested game, score 20-18. Gavett did well for the second team. Line up: P. H. S. II—Gavet, centre; Leggett and Morris, forwards; Lambert and Pound, guards. Hope Juniors—Snyder, centre; Hunter and Mortimer, forwards; Rimmer and Kenny, guards.

Peep-holes.

"I wisht I wuz President o' de Lumber Trust," said Jimmy, "an' de baseball managers had to come to me fur de loans fur deir fences."

"Why?" asked Tommy.

"Why, I would'n' sell dem a bloomin' board dat didn't have a knot-hole in it."

"The last I heard he was engaged to a girl with a million."

"Well, he's engaged to five, now."

"What? Five girls with a million?"

"No; a girl with five millions."

EQUAL TAXATION PASSES

Senate Approves Union Co. Assemblyman's Measure After Long Debate.

AMENDMENTS LOST

Senator Ackerman's Provisions Not Inserted in Bill As Passed This Afternoon.

The Perkins equal taxation bill was passed by the Senate Tuesday afternoon. Twenty-one votes were recorded for it. Both Governor Stokes and Chairman Briggs were positive of its passage, and without any material amendments. Senator Ackerman's amendments were lost.

Senator Minturn's amendment received five votes.

What clinched the matter is The Tribune's statement Monday morning that the Bradley bills had been declared unconstitutional by Attorney General McCarter. McCarter was not here yesterday on account of his brother-in-law's death, but it is understood the opinion was given last week. Possibly an adverse opinion would not make much difference. The railroad men have their own little jokes up their own little sleeves. They secretly maintain that the Perkins bill will never pass the scrutiny of the courts, although refusing to state the grounds on which the assertion is based.

When the Senate took up for consideration today the Perkins railroad tax bill, which has been made a special order, it found many of the amendments offered quite different from what they appeared to be when read last Wednesday. This feature is found in the official copy of the amendments ordered printed and mailed to the Senators for consideration over Sunday. The first break is in the Ackerman amendments, which are separated, and one of which is accredited to Senator Minturn.

Senator Ackerman said yesterday that he expected his amendments to be voted on separately, and that they are the product of his own judgment and were not prompted by anybody else.

"I alone am responsible for the amendments which I offered, and I was not lined up by John Kean, Governor Stokes, Treasurer Briggs or any one else," said Mr. Ackerman. "The changes I propose are the product of my own judgment and I expected to have them acted upon separately.

"In the first instance, I would have all the railroad property assessed just as provided for in my second amendment, at a rate of one per cent. during the present year and an increase of one-tenth of one per cent. added each year until a maximum of one and one-half per cent. is reached. This is in line with the plan embodied in the Hillery act for a maximum rate, which is fair to all concerned."

When reminded that other classes of property were now assessed at an average of two and one-fifth per cent. and would only be reduced to one and three-fourths per cent., the Senator's reply indicated that he was well informed on the railroad side of the problem.

"That may be true," he said, concerning what may happen under the Hillery act, "but the fact remains that until twenty years ago, the total tax paid by all the railroads was only $750,000 and since then they have paid about $1,000,000, an increase of only twenty-five per cent.

"Personally I know of no demand for such an increase and don't believe the people want it. I have not received a single letter asking about the bill, but with the 'bishops' bill it is quite different. My mail is full of it, and everywhere I go I am met with the query, 'What will be done with the 'bishops bills?' That shows the people are interested, but as to the Perkins bill, I have not received a line in its favor and head no demand for it except what I see in the papers."

Mr. Ackerman was reminded that the people have been demanding an equalization of taxation for years; that it was accepted as an issue at the polls last year, and that the Assembly, by passing the Perkins bill unanimously on two occasions, appeared to recognize that demand.

"Oh, that may be true in some respects," said the acknowledged opponent of the bill, which was introduced by a member from his own county and voted for twice by the Union Assembly delegation, "but the people in my county did not appear to be very much interested in the question.

"For instance, the platform on which I was elected was silent on the subject of railroad taxation, except as to property of the second class, which the platform on which my opponent, who was overwhelmingly defeated, ran, contained even more radical views on the subject than those in the Perkins bill. That shows how the people in my county feel on the question."

Asked if Assemblyman Perkins and the other members from Union were not elected on the same platform, Mr. Ackerman replied:

"Oh, yes, but Mr. Perkins isn't the originator of that bill. The Governor or some one prepared it as an administration bill, and he, as leader, was handed it to introduce.

SHE CHASED BURGLARS

Wealthy Spinster Drove Four Men Off With a Winchester Rifle.

ALL WERE NEIGHBORS?

An Attempt to Explain the Visit as a Drunken Prank Fails to Convince Sharp Heroine.

Backed by a Winchester rifle and pure pluck, a lone woman put four burglars to flight from her house back of Somerville last week. The woman, Miss Addie Laing, a wealthy spinster, and the noise made by one of the burglars on her porch, as she sat reading in the front room at 10 o'clock at night. A noise at a side door followed. She turned out the light and opened the door for her collie dog.

"Get 'em, Shep," she ordered.

Shep went out roaring threats. The barking stopped, and Miss Laing heard a voice.

"Hello, Shep; keep quiet, Shep."

Miss Laing awoke to the fact that local talent was at work. She armed herself with a Winchester and stepped to a front window. She threw up the blind and found herself looking at a young man. The young man found himself looking down the mouth of a lead mine. He yelled and fled, and three other men joined him in the flight down the path. Miss Laing recognized the young man she encountered. The quartette jumped into a waiting wagon and drove toward Somerville.

Even after the burglars fled Miss Laing did not faint. With her Winchester under her arm she went out about the grounds and through the barn to see if things were all right. Nothing was missing. Next morning Miss Laing saw the young man who aced her Winchester approaching the house. She got out the rifle again and held him up at a safe distance.

The young man told Miss Laing that he had come to apologize for "a drunken prank." Miss Laing, in cold and unconvinced tones, asked the young man to explain the presence of a picket, a soldering iron and a club and an iron bar which she found on the porch the night before. The young man went away.

Miss Laing has discovered the names of all the would-be burglars and warrants are to be sworn out against them.

SIGNS PLAINFIELD ACTS

Governor Stokes Affixes Signature to Senate Bills Nos. 130 and 132.

FOR SPECIAL ELECTION

Voters Now Enabled to Decide Whether They Want a Municipal Water Supply Plant.

Senate bill No. 130, introduced by Senator Ernest R. Ackerman, which amends the act for municipal control of water supply by defining what constitutes a legal majority at elections for such purposes, was signed by Governor Stokes Monday and is now a law.

Complications arose over the election held last year on this question, the proposition being defeated, as told exclusively in The Daily Press. It was the purpose of perfecting the law affecting such elections that Mr. Ackerman introduced his amendment.

As no member of the public affairs committee could be found, it is impossible to learn what has been done toward bringing up the question again of Plainfield acquiring a municipal water plant. President Tofles, of the Common Council, was questioned on the matter and, in his opinion, the question will be voted upon possibly next fall, it being necessary to fix a special date for this purpose. While the proposition has its supporters and opponents in the Common Council, it is desired to settle it one way or the other and learn whether it is the desire of taxpayers that a municipal system of water works be adopted.

Senate bill No. 132, also introduced by Senator Ackerman, an act for the relief of association for the erection and maintenance of hospitals, and which was particularly drafted and introduced for the benefit of the Plainfield Children's Home Association, also became a law yesterday through the signature of Governor Stokes.

18,000 Machines a Week.

The Singer factory last week turned out 18,000 machines, the largest output for any single week since the factory has been established in Elizabeth. This means an average of 3,000 machines a day, 333 an hour, and 5½ machines a minute, the calculation being based on the regular hours of employment each week.

Miss Phoebe Savage has returned to her home in Garden City, Mass., after visiting Mr. and Mrs. James Armstrong, of West Fifth street, for several months.

TWO BROKEN-UP HOMES

Bluffing Husbands Who Overreached Themselves Supping Sorrow.

ONE OF WIVES HAPPY

She Has a Separation She Wanted—Others Heart Saddened by Supposed Perfidy of Her Spouse.

Family troubles of an aspect funny to outsiders, whatever they may be to the principals, come constantly into the ken of the cops at headquarters, but two of the funniest cases, even within the memory of the officers who have been long on the force, came up within two weeks past. Both illustrate the danger a man runs in trying to bluff his wife, although the stories are entirely different in their details. Each of the men involved is well known about town.

Both cases started in ordinary conjugal spats. One husband sniffed contemptuously at a certain stage in the scrap and said:

"You needn't think you are the only woman in the world. I've got another wife and a darn fine little girl. If you don't quit your uppishness I'll bring 'em here, where they belong."

His wife had made slighting reference to his general worth and attractiveness, and he thought that sort of talk would jolt her. It did. He was lying, without the slightest foundation in fact, but the wife believed him.

She hurried out of the house and went to her parents' home. There she shed tears and told the family that her husband had become tangled up with another woman and openly boasted of it. The family believed, and cursed hubby and his day and generation. A deputation of the family, including two husky brothers and a heavyweight cousin, accompanied the wife to an impressive interview with husband. Hubby was appalled at the success of his bluff. He was more appalled when he awoke to the fact that his explanation was not believed. The wife and her family insisted that he had been guilty of an immoral affair of the heart and was simply weakening from his bold stand. The wife was positive he had the other woman concealed in the city somewhere.

The husband tried unavailingly for days to right himself, and all he succeeded in accomplishing was to attract fresh threats of a trimming from the wife's male relatives. He went to the police in despair, to ask if they couldn't help him get right with his wife and her family. They have cursed hubby from the face relatives, but that is all they could do. He is still searching for an adequate and satisfactory explanation to patch up his home.

The husband in the other scrap took another tack in bluffing. He informed his wife, after studied coldness, that if she didn't behave herself he would ask for a separation.

"You can have it," she said promptly.

The man was engaged in a pure bluff, but he thought the woman was at the same game. He threw off a good imitation of unbounded delight.

"Then I'm a free boy!" he caroled joyously. His wife smiled coldly. It struck him that she wasn't showing the proper symptoms of subjection, and he made up his mind to give her a real good lesson.

He went to lawyer W. L. Hetfield St., and had him draw up papers of separation. Then he asked the lawyer to write his wife to come down to the office and sign them. He pictured a scene of great lamentation when he returned home after the letter was received. The lamentations didn't come off. The wife went quietly to the lawyer's office, and in a firm, businesslike hand affixed her name to the papers. Then she went home and pulled the latchstring in. Hubby hasn't been able to get it in his hands since.

The wife won't have anything to do with him, and he is pretty nearly crazy. He is beginning to realize that she really wanted that separation and the absorption of that fact is making him a candidate for the bughouse. He gave up his job and took to hanging around his nice happy home, vainly pleading to be taken back to his place by the fireside. His wife counted twenty-three in tones that were frostier every time he appeared. His troubles made him dotty and he ran to the police with lurid tales of plots in which his wife was engaged with other men in the house.

The police looked into the complaint as a matter of business, but the wife took only about three minutes to tell them known just what was in the case.

"That man gave me a separation," she declared in the windup of her explanation, "and now he wants to squeal out of it. I wanted it and I intend to keep it."

No Change in Choir.

The choir at the First Presbyterian church will remain the same for the coming year as last, and Mr. Braider, the organist, has also been re-engaged. Mrs. Guy Bender, soprano, substituted on Sunday for Miss Etta Raybert, who is detained at home by illness.

DEATH'S DOUBLE VISIT

Deprived Mrs. John Dunn of Father and Brother Inside of Twenty-four Hours.

INSEPARABLE IN LIFE

Edward L. Adams, the Elder, Known Throughout the Country As Band Organizer; Curtis E. Adams a Skilled Musician.

Curtis E. Adams, a former resident of Garwood and well known locally, died Sunday morning at 10 o'clock at the home of his sister, Mrs. John Dunn, of East Second street. At 7 o'clock Monday a. m., his father, Edward L. Adams, ignorant of the son's demise, passed away in an adjoining room, making the audience with almost his last words to take care of the young man. The son had been ill for several months with a pulmonary complaint and though his death was expected, when the end came the condition of the father was such that it was not deemed advisable to tell him of it. The two had been almost inseparable in life and it was practically certain that the information would have only served to add grief to his remaining hours. A double funeral was held over the bodies in the First Church of Christ Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock and they were buried together at Hillside.

Edward L. Adams was born at Fort Plain, N. Y., sixty-five years ago and had been a traveling musician the greater part of his life. He was master of nearly a dozen instruments and a composer of note and was known in cities throughout California as a band leader and instructor. He organized the old Newark City Band at Newark, since known as Voss' band, and played with it for many years. About four years ago he took up his residence in Garwood, where he organized an orchestra that has played in this city and other places throughout the county a great many times.

Curtis Adams, the son, as twenty-seven years old and like his father was a versatile musician. He could perform upon nine instruments, but perferred the violin, playing this instrument in the local Y. M. C. A. orchestra. He was employed in the Hall Signal Works at Garwood and when he left Wednesday began to fail several months ago the father decided to make his home in this city, believing the air here to be better. He continued to grow worse, however, and three weeks ago the end for Curtis, who was then slightly ill with bronchitis, concluded to go South. They went to Charlotte, N. C., but had hardly reached there when the son's condition grew so bad that the father ordered him from the train at Plainfield. They arrived in the city last Friday night, but collapsed as they entered the eastbound depot. Both were placed in a cab by attaches and taken to Mrs. Dunn's home, where they continued to grow steadily worse. Their deaths leaves Mrs. Dunn the sole surviving member of the Adams family, one which can be traced back to the days of the colonies, and which was known through New York State and New England.

MARTINSVILLE WOMAN FRUSTRATES BURGLARS

SHE AWOKE IN TIME TO SAVE HER RENTS FROM THEM.

An attempt to rob the house of John Taylor, of Martinsville, was frustrated Saturday night. Mrs. Martinsville, however, Mrs. Taylor's fears were justified. She was awakened by a noise at one of the doors that was unmistakable. She didn't lose her nerve. Quietly calling her husband, she told him to get his Winchester rifle and go for the burglars. Mr. Taylor followed directions, but the burglars heard him moving about, and took flight. They were disappearing up the road when he looked out, too indistinct for a rifle mark.

It is supposed that the thieves were local men familiar with Mrs. Taylor's rent-collecting customs. Whether or not they did spy on the couple as they counted the money early in the evening is not known.

M. G. A. Will Assign Dates.

Leighton Calkins, secretary for the Metropolitan Golf Association, has called the attention of the clubs in the association to the rule which provides that each club shall set an open or invitation tournament without having a date assigned to it by the association. Application for dates may be made to the secretary; and should be made as early as possible as many dates have been assigned already and it may be difficult to secure them later in the season.

STRUCK BY AN EXPRESS

Walter Smalley Nearly Killed on the Newark Bay Bridge.

HUNG OVER THE WATER

Tossed by Train, He Saved Himself From Going Into the Bay by Clinging to Span's Edge.

Walter Smalley, of North Plainfield, an ex-member of the borough police force, got a job on the Central Railroad carpenter gang a week ago, and he was put to work on the Newark Bay drawbridge Saturday morning. In the same gang with him was Thomas Teeter, another North Plainfielder.

Early in the afternoon Smalley was carrying a heavy beam across the bridge when he heard a rumble and a whistle behind him. He looked around and saw for the first time what an old hand would have seen before he started up the track—a Royal Blue line Express. He was in line with it, and it was hair-raisingly close. Smalley was scared, and lost the one slim chance he had of getting clear of the track. He dropped the beam, and, crouched, in an agony of terror, waiting for the blow.

The engine hit him about the thighs, and threw him twenty feet. He landed, conscious, on the edge of the bridge. He started to slide over, but grasped the edge of the span as he went, and hung, with his feet over the water, as the train rolled by. When the express passed he shouted for help.

Teeter heard the cries and came to Smalley's assistance. He pulled him up on the bridge, and called the other workingmen. Smalley had a long, six-inch gash in the flesh back of the thighs, but he seemed to be unhurt otherwise.

He was taken to the Elizabeth General Hospital, where the cut was dressed and he got something to steady his nerves. The doctors couldn't find anything else the matter with him excepting the gash. After resting until afternoon, Smalley insisted on going to his home in North Plainfield.

STUDENT VOLUNTEER MOVEMENT RELATED

CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE EDITOR TALKS AT FIRST M. E. CHURCH.

James R. Joy, of North Plainfield, assistant editor of The Christian Advocate, made an address at the First M. E. church Sunday night, giving a comprehensive account of the National Student Volunteer movement from its inception in 1886 to the present time, including the big conference held for four days in February at Nashville, Tenn. There were 4,000 students in attendance there, representing colleges from all parts of the country.

One feature of this conference was the absence of a regular programme and outside of those who were to take part no one knew just what the secretary had planned. Mr. Joy also gave extracts from the leading addresses made at the conference and spoke especially of the memorial service held at the close of the convention. At this time the list of those who had died during the past four years was read. Included in the thirty-eight names was Miss Rachel Mair, of this city, who labored so long as a missionary in Africa and who died there. In reading these names interesting incidents were related showing where the missionaries had worked, what they had accomplished and where they died.

These conferences are held once in four years, this one being the fifth since the organization.

BLESSING FROM THE POPE.

Sent to Bishop O'Connor, Head of the Newark Diocese.

Bishop J. O'Connor, of the Newark Catholic Diocese, has received a letter, written by Pope Pius X., conferring the apostolic blessing on the prelate and the faithful of his diocese who contributed $5,500 toward the Peter's Pence collection. The letter reads:

"Venerable Brother: Your devotion to us and to this Apostolic See is sustained and evidenced by many tokens, and more especially by your zeal in procuring for us assistance and support in the administration of the Church. While, consequently, we give you heartiest thanks for the offering lately presented to us by our beloved son, Thomas Kennedy, prothonotary apostolic, we pray every grace and blessing from the Lord for you and for all who have contributed to it.

"In addition to our good wishes we lovingly impart to you and to all the faithful committed to your care, our apostolic benediction.

"PIUS P. P. X., from the Vatican.

"March 5, 1906."

Miss Mott, of New York, was the guest over Sunday at the home of D. M. Van Vliet, of Washington avenue.

CURE FOR LIQUOR EVIL

Rev. Dr. Lewis Says Purification of the Individual is the Only Remedy.

LEGISLATION FAILS

Says Women Smoke Because They Are Born of Fathers Who Smoke Tobacco—Commends Tyler Ordinance.

With "Temperance" for his topic, Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis, editor of the Sabbath Recorder; warned the members of Hope chapel Sunday School Sunday afternoon not only against the liquor habit, but against tobacco, laudanum and cocaine indulgence. The real temperance question, he said, included a consideration of the four evils. With alcohol, he contended, they formed the four prominent forms of intoxication.

Dr. Lewis spoke to the Sunday school during the lesson period, his talk taking the place of the lesson. There was a large attendance. Dr. Lewis opened his talk by explaining the toxic effect of alcohol. He went from that to tobacco. Tobacco, he held, created a thirst for liquor, and with the drug habit helped to feed the saloons. He described the effects of brain paralysis, from alcohol, and of heartt-weakness, from tobacco.

"Why do women smoke?" asked the speaker, touching on that phase of the tobacco evil. "Because girls must be born of fathers who smoke tobacco; because girls are fools enough to do what the boys they associate with are doing."

Dr. Lewis declared cigarettes were the most poisonous things of their kind that he knew of. He said the manufacturers put ground-up cigar butts into them.

The only effective cure for the liquor evil, Dr. Lewis said, was the purification of the individual. He had no faith in the hope of legislating it out of existence. He regarded the license, however, as the greatest protection for the saloon. It legalized their business, and put the State under obligation to protect and maintain them. He was glad that the law compelling the removal o fall screens from saloons had been introduced, and expressed approval of the districting ordinance of this city. He compared the Tyler ordinance with an effort to isolate a malignant contagious disease.

Dr. Lewis did not make any great reference to the drug habits. He intimated, however, that women were peculiarly open to the danger of acquiring them through the use of medicines prescribed by "cruel and foolish physicians."

ARREST ENGINEER FOR TRAIN CRASH

HOPKINS RELEASED ON BAIL BY JUDGE SCHENCK.

Engineer George W. Hopkins, of South Orange, in charge of the "wildcat" locomotive which crashed into a westbound Lackawanna passenger and mail train near Lyons Station about three weeks ago, resulting in the death of Fireman R. B. Jones, of Hoboken, and the injury of several passengers and other trainmen, was arrested Saturday at his home by County Detective Totten by order of County Prosecutor Reger. He was taken to the Somerset County jail at Somerville and held in $2,000 bail by Judge Schenck for the April *Grand Jury, on a charge of man*slaughter. H. W. Baldwin, a knife manufacturer of Summit, became surety and Hopkins was released.

At the inquest over Jones' body testimony was adduced disclosing that Hopkins was returning from Gladstone to Summit on "wildcat" orders; that he had received a message on his arrival at Bernardsville warning him to be on the lookout for the passenger train. It was asserted Hopkins disregarded his orders, thinking he could make the switch at the Millington stone crusher, a short distance from where the accident occurred, and take chances. After the clash, Hopkins was confined to his home suffering from nervous prostration, under the care of two physicians.

Conductor George Booth, of the passenger train, testified at the inquest that Hopkins told him immediately after the collision that he (Hopkins) was fully at fault.

The verdict of the coroner's jury was to the effect that Hopkins was guilty of negligence.

Women's Presbyterial Annual.

The twenty-second annual meeting of the Women's Presbyterial Society for Home Missions in the Presbytery of Elizabeth will be held in the Presbyterian church, Dunellen, on Friday. The morning session will open with devotional exercises at 10 o'clock. Miss Wilson, of Albion Academy, South Carolina, will speak for Freedmen, and there will be a Young People's Society conference at 1:45. The regular afternoon session will begin at 2:15 o'clock, the speaker being Mrs. Catherine Jones Bennett, and her subject "Our Work Among the Foreigners." The local Presbyterian churches will send delegates to the conference.

TIMBER FOR A NEW TEAM

Manager Daab Selects "Mike" Leonard to Captain Plainfield's Nine.

SEVERAL PITCHERS

O'Neil To Be Behind the Rubber—"Phil" Smith Signed—Others That Are Sure.

Manager Daab has chosen "Mike" Leonard as captain for the Plainfield Assn. baseball team for the season. For the other positions he has plenty of good material to choose from. For first base he is considering "Mike" Rochford, "Jim" Robertson, Henriques, Poole, of last year's Elizabeth Stars, and Wolf. Rochford would be clearly the strongest man and his work is well known here. Henriques is also a favorite.

It is expected that Dalton will play second base, but in case he does not, Burch, of the Pouchkeepsies, and Brogan, who played here last year, are likely candidates. For shortstop, Reynolds, of New York; Curley and Eddie Daley are being considered. Daley played with the old Crescents in 1903. For the outfield positions Manager Daab is considering Bill Hanson, "Tuck" Turner, Fallon, Berthwhistle and one or two other men. Of course, "Tip" O'Neil will be behind the rubber and plans are being made for a strong pitching department. It will be known in a day or two whether "Willie" Deegan will sign, and Steffey Waller is also being considered, as well as Kelley, of last year's Jersey City Club. As an extra man "Phil." Smith, of the P. H. S., will be given a try-out. Mr. Daab is favorably impressed with Smith's work and ability and will do all in his power to give him a show. Smith is anxious for the chance and his work against Westfield last year proved that he is a "comer." Mr. Daab informed the association that it would be necessary for him to have as good a team this year as last for Plainfield then will be arranged. Plainfield will have just as strong a nine. Everyone expressed confidence in Mr. Daab, believing that he will "make good" as he has in the past.

President Runyon stated that Dr. *M. Kjaer had asked him to re*quest the association to give up its Decoration Day game and the one on the preceding Saturday, so as not to interfere with the Steeplechase Show. It was decided that the games would not interfere with the horse exhibition and Decoration Day it considered a banner holiday event, it would be unwise to give up this game. There will be but one contest on Decoration Day, in the afternoon, it having been decided that the morning game does not pay. It is expected that games will be arranged with Somerville as early as June, if possible, and a good series is anticipated.

The association will meet again on Saturday night at the Hotel Iroquois to further plans for the season.

FIREMEN'S PARADE

TO BE A BIG AFFAIR.

The firemen's parade which will take place in Elizabeth on Thursday, October 11 next, under the auspices of the Veteran Volunteer Firemen's association of Elizabeth, promises to be the largest firemen's demonstration ever held in that city. In answer to the numerous invitations sent out to firemen's organizations to participate in the parade, acceptances have been received from Kittatinny Hose Company, Newton; Centennial Fire Company, Phillipsburg; Independent Engine Company, No. 2, Red Bank; Firemen's Association of Newark, 150 men; Hook and Ladder Company, No. 1, Princeton; Exempt Firemen's Association, of this city, with silver hose carriage; Union Hose Company, Red Bank; Relief Hose Company, No. 2, Raritan; Protection Hook and Ladder Company, No. 1, and Washington Hose Company, No. 2, of Perth Amboy; Englewood Firemen's Association, No. 1, of Englewood; Lincoln Hose and Engine Company, Woodbridge; Union Hook and Ladder Company; Union Tuck and Bucket Company, No. 1, Rutherford;, Washington Engine Company, No. 7, Wilmington, Delaware; Washington Engine Company, No. 1, New Brunswick; Hackettstown fire department, Dover fire department, Washington fire department, Elizabeth fire department and commissioners; Veteran Volunteer Firemen's Association, Jamaica, N. Y.; Veteran Volunteer Firemen's Association, Charlestown, Mass.; Veteran Volunteer Firemen's Association, of Jersey City; Equal Veteran Fire Patrol, No. 1, Mount Vernon, N. Y.

In order to make the event more interesting prizes will be awarded to the organization having the largest number of men in line, to the company having the finest appearing engine, hand engine, hose carriage, and hook and ladder truck. Also to the company coming from the longest distance, and to the company making the best appearance in line.

If at the close of the parade time will permit, there will be a hand engine contest, steamer contest and a contest among hose companies in hose laying, the winner in each to receive a suitable prize.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

VOL. XXXVIII. PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, APRIL 5, 1906 NO 14.

"Support the Constitution, which is the Cement of the Union, as well in its Limitations as in its Authorities."—Madison.

NO POWER OVER BROOK

Freeholders Can't Take Action on Widening and Deepening.

STATEMENT BY WILBUR

Property Owners Control Stream, He Says, and Municipalities Will Have to Act, Not the Two Boards.

From a statement made by Freeholder Samuel P. T. Wilbur this morning, it appears that Councilman Gloak's plan for joint action on the widening, deepening and cleaning of Greenbrook, to prevent overflow to the street, by the Freeholders of Somerset and Union counties falls flat. Mr. Gloak broached his plan at the Council meeting Monday night. Mr. Wilbur said today that the Union county board had no authority over the brook in this city, and the conditions are supposed to be the same for the Somreset lawmakers.

Mr. Gloak said Monday night that he believed the freeholders should assume the burden of the brook improvement, because "the brook was county property, and much of the trouble to the city came from that section over which the city government had no control."

Mr. Wilbur stated this morning that the abutting property owners, and not the freeholders, controlled the brook. That the property owners hold the brook rights to its center line. That being so, improvements must be made by the city and borough. Steps probably will be taken by the municipalities to do the work as soon as the freeholders' lack of power is officially made known to them.

That some action is necessary along the brook is not debated. The overflow from the stream after heavy rains does a lot of damage, and creates more annoyance that any other like condition in the city. It is believed that the widening, deepening and cleaning of the stream from Fairagut road to Scotch Plains will obviate the trouble.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR SOCIETY'S ANNUAL.

First Presbyterian Church Young People Close a Successful Year's Work.

The Christian Endeavor Society of the First Presbyterian church held its annual meeting last night. Splendid reports were received. The society increased its membership by fifteen during the year, reaching a total of forty, and there is a comfortable balance in both the missionary and general funds, and all current expenses have been paid. The society collected and disbursed $60 for missionary purposes.

The officers elected are as follows: President, Fred C. Lounsbury; vice-president, Mrs. E. W. Poinier; recording secretary, Stanley Karner; corresponding secretary, Miss Mabel M. Conover; treasurer, George A. Ballantine.

Mrs. Bodine is superintendent of the Junior Society and her assistant is Mrs. B. G. A. Bodine.

The committees:

Missionary—Miss Leah A. Hammond, chairman; the Rev. C. E. Herring, Miss Mabel Conover, Mrs. C. M. Hummer, Mrs. G. A. Ballantine and G. A. Ballantine.

Prayer Meeting—Mrs. John S. Johnston, chairman; the Misses Ricker, Lizzie Wilcox, Miriam Wilcox, Ethel Boice and John S. Johnston.

Social and Music—Miss Beatrice Miner, chairman; the Misses Helen A. Burroughs, Winifred B. Hammond, Cornelia Lounsbury, Rita Meeker, Arthur Denning and Stanley Karner.

Lookout—Wilbur Dunning, chairman; T. Edward Burroughs, E. W. Poinier, A. V. Searing, Jr., Ogden E. Meeker, Mrs. Ogden Meeker, Mrs. E. W. Poinier and Miss Bertha Wilcox.

Flower and Visiting—Miss Marion A. Englehardt, chairman; the Misses Sarah Hopewell, Bertha Hill, Sue Farland, Emma Korff, Mamie Mehl and Anna Hopewell.

Death of Young Son.

Joseph Long, the three-year-old son of Mrs. Anthony Long, of North avenue, whose husband was killed at the Westfield crossing of the New Jersey Central a year ago, died yesterday afternoon. The funeral will be held this afternoon at 4 o'clock and interment will be in St. Mary's cemetery.

Elizabeth Seeks State Aid.

Assemblyman Perkins has introduced a bill in the House providing for an appropriation of $2,000 for a soldiers and sailors monument for Elizabeth.

Annual Meeting April 11.

The annual parish meeting will be held at the Park Avenue Baptist church on Wednesday night, April 11, and not tonight as previously announced.

MISAPPROPRIATED EMPLOYER'S MONEY

JAMES M'ELHANEY CHARGED WITH EMBEZZLING COLLECTIONS.

Constable John Manley went to South Amboy this morning to get Joseph McElhaney, collector for Meyer Leichtentritt, a clothier, on a charge of embezzling money belonging to his employer. McElhaney was arrested in South Amboy yesterday for drunkenness, and the police there are holding him for Manley in response to a request from Justice Hand, before whom the warrant for his arrest was sworn out.

McElhaney is a young man and his home is in this city. He disappeared with collections in his possession. It is claimed, several days ago. Mr. Leichtentritt didn't know where he was until he heard of his arrest in South Amboy yesterday. Arrangements were made at once to have him arrested. It is claimed that he went on a drunk and scattered Leichtentritt's money about as well as his own.

It was said at the justice's office this morning that McElhaney had been arrested several months ago on the same charge. At that time, it is alleged, he was released out of pity on his promise to do better, and given another chance.

DEACONESS' WORK TOLD INTERESTINGLY

THE MISSES TOMPKIN ADDRESS FIRST M. E. SOCIETY.

The Women's Home Missionary Society of the First M. E. church held its monthly meeting at the home of the treasurer, Mrs. James W. Jackson, of Watchung avenue, yesterday afternoon. The president, Mrs. Erastus Clark, Jr., was in the chair, and introduced the Misses Ellen and Martha Tompkinson, preceptresses in the Lucy Webb Hayes National Training School, Washington. The object of the visit was to give the society information regarding the deaconess work to which these women have consecrated their lives. The subject of the first talk by Miss Ellen Tompkinson was "The Preparation Required and the Field of Labor."

The speaker recommended a visit to Ellis Island, where the members might behold the material from which many of the citizens of the United States will be made. "They will not always prove attractive," continued the speaker; "indeed, some almost seem animal, and if we are to prevent anarchy and the desecration of the Sabbath we must come in close touch with these people. In the kindergarten we see the deaconess teaching these foreign children the flag drill, and they become familiar and learn to love the flag of our country in this way. Older children reading the lessons of history are taught to speak of our country's achievements and the victory of our troops."

The society has established schools in Washington, Kansas, Michigan and California, from which are graduated young women of refinement and education. Only the most competent are selected and they devote their energies, comprising teaching in the kindergartens, nurses, pastors' assistants in mission work and field deaconesses.

Miss Martha Tompkinson, the next speaker, referred to the work in the Philippines and of the training schools in the Philippines, Porto Rico and Hawaii, where many persons are preparing and engaged in this branch of work and learning the Spanish language. Following the addresses there was a social hour.

CHURCH PAPER'S PROTEST.

The Messenger Takes Stand Against Granting of Schanz License.

The Messenger, the monthly publication of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, has the following to say regarding a matter of general interest:

"A notice is being published that an application has been made to sell liquors on North avenue, near the depot, a most disastrous location, in view of the number of men who will pass such a saloon on their way home from the trains. We believe we are speaking the sentiments of our people when we protest against the granting of such a license. But this protest cannot accomplish much standing by itself. Let those who read it immediately sit down and write personally to their representative in the Council, asking that this temptation be not permitted to face our young men as they arrive in their home city."

W. C. T. U. Meeting.

The regular business meeting of the W. C. T. U. will be held tomorrow afternoon at 3:30.

"SIDE ROOM" IS DOOMED

Bishop's Bill With Some Amendments Passes to Third Reading in Senate.

THE SCREENS TO STAY

Minimum Retail License Fee $300—No More Than One Saloon to Every 200 Inhabitants.

The State Senate at Trenton spent most of the day yesterday discussing the Bishops' bill. The original measure (Senate 156) was taken up on second reading soon after the opening of the morning session. Senator Avis spoke of the bill as it went to the Committee on Miscellaneous Business. He said the amendments were proposed in good faith by the committee, and that No. 136 was also reported in the entirety, and that it was for the Senate to choose that which it deemed the better. He referred to the resolution adopted by the interdenominational conference in Trenton yesterday.

Senator Hillery paid a high tribute to Senator Avis, and said that there was no influence of any sort, liquor interests or any other, brought to bear upon the committee, which could not be influenced to do any but what it deemed its duty. He said that moral tone must be back of all liquor laws.

Senator Wakelee asked that press and Church be fair in their criticisms, and that the amendments had been merely proposed and had not even the recommendation of the committee.

Senator Hutchinson, who introduced No. 1,136, spoke in advocacy of the original bill. He told of the conference that drew the bill, saying that it was composed of the most eminent men of the State, who met to draw it up without reference to creed, politics or their station in life. He said that the amendments utterly misapprehended the sentiment of the people upon the bill as originally introduced.

The first amendment, permitting liquor in quantities less than a quart to be taken away from the premises where sold, was adopted.

When the second amendment came up, making the owner of the property liable for the conduct of the place licensed and making him a joint applicant for the license, Senators Lee and McKee were of the opinion that the "liability clause" would complicate license applications and place a tenant at the mercy of his landlord. Senator Lee said that the clause could be easily evaded by the saloonkeepers becoming the ostensible owner, with a mortgage held by the real owner. Senator Minturn spoke in behalf of the clause in the original bill in the interests of morality and decency. The amendment was adopted by a vote of 9 to 8.

Amendment No. 3, making the minimum fee $300, was carried by a vote of 11 to 8.

During the debate on this amendment, these fee payments for liquor licenses were given: Plainfield, $1,000; Trenton, $350; New Brunswick, $350; Englewood, $500, and Egg Harbor City, $100.

Amendment No. 4 was adopted as read. It applies to wholesale licenses in the same manner as No. 2 does to retail. The vote was reconsidered and the ayes and noes called, with this result: Ayes, 11; noes, 6.

Amendment No. 5, same as No. 3, but referring to wholesale places, was lost by a vote of 11 to 6.

Amendment No. 6, providing for revocation of license for the sale of liquor to minors under any circumstances, was adopted. Amendments 7, 8 and 9, pertaining to No. 6, were also adopted. Amendment No. 10, penalizing a licensed place for four months instead of a year, was lost.

Amendment No. 11, licensing barrooms and two rooms adjoining the barooms, open at all times to the barrooms, also permitting courts or excise boards to order all screens to be taken down, was pending when the Senate adjourned at 2 until 3 p. m. Senator McKee offered an amendment to this amendment exempting bowling alleys, recreation and picnic grounds from its provisions. This was adopted. One concerning the word "interior view" to strengthen the clause No. 11, as he stated, was lost. Senator Horner offered an amendment for the measurement of the 200-foot restriction from church, school or armory to be along or across the street line instead of across the block. This was lost.

At the afternoon session Senator Lee moved to reconsider the motion by which Amendment No. 10 had been lost. The motion was defeated.

Senator Hutchinson opposed Amendment No. 11. He thought the provisions of the original bill were much better. The amendment destroyed the effect of the Bishops' bill. He believed there was no more

(Continued on Page 3.)

BOULDER HITS ITALIAN AT STONE QUARRY

VICTIM TAKEN TO HOSPITAL—HAS A CHANCE OF RECOVERY.

Refusing to heed repeated warnings to leave the dangerous position in which he was working at Smalley Brothers' stone quarry in the valley, yesterday afternoon, James Elizabeth, an Italian, was struck on the head by a boulder which was loosened by a blast, receiving a fracture of the skull and general contusions. The man was taken to Muhlenberg Hospital, where it was reported this morning that he would recover.

Elizabeth, who is fifty-three years old and married, has been one of the trusted employes at the quarry, having charge of placing the dynamite for the blasts. There were several blasts yesterday and after one of the explosions Elizabeth started in to work with pick. Mayor Smalley noticed the man and several times warned him about getting too close to the loose stone. He thought he was safe and paid no attention. When the boulder fell, striking Elizabeth on the head, it knocked him down. When fellow-workmen rushed to his assistance he was in an unconscious condition. By the time he reached the hospital he regained his senses. At the hospital it was said that the man would recover.

PASSION SERVICE AT HOLY CROSS CHURCH

REV. MR. WARNER'S ANNOUNCEMENET FOR GOOD FRIDAY'S OBSERVANCE.

Preparations have been completed for the Good Friday services at the Church of the Holy Cross. In addition to the regular services at 9:30 o'clock in the morning and 7:45 at night, there will be the special service from 12 o'clock noon to 3 o'clock in the afternoon, in commemoration of "The Three Hours' Agony of Our Most Holy Redeemer Upon the Cross." The full chair will assist at this service.

A special service leaflet published in London will be distributed through the church for use of the congregation. The leaflet contains familiar hymns, responses, prayers and Good Friday litany.

The music is arranged that at proper intervals between the prayers and familiar hymns, each in turn of the seven words spoken from the cross will be considered and a brief address made by the rector who will take up devotional and practical lessons of the seven last words spoken by Christ.

AFTER ROOKERIES.

Board of Health Devoting Attention to 507 West Third Street.

Following up its work of clearing the town of rookeries and unsanitary dwellings, Health Officer Leon R. Thurlow has made a complaint against the building at 507 West Third street, which is owned by Emeline Ruggles. He declares it has been unfit for habitation since February 10, because of uncleanliness.

Mr. Thurlow says in his complaint that the ceilings are unclean and the floors filthy. The sidewalls and furniture are also dirty. He makes further grounds for complaint.

Mr. Thurlow asks that action be taken by fixing a time and place when and where evidence may be heard. The board fixed Tuesday afternoon, April 17, at 4 o'clock, as the time, when a hearing will be given on the complaint.

THE YALE CLUB DINNER.

City Judge William N. Runyon to Preside as Toastmaster.

The Yale Club's annual banquet will be held at the Casino on Saturday night, April 21, at 7:30 o'clock. All Yale men of Union and Somerset counties, and in fact all sons of old Eli, are invited to join in the affair.

City Judge William N. Runyon will be the toastmaster and the speakers will be Prof. Charloton Lewis, representing Yale; D. W. Richards, representing the Essex County Alumni Association, and other good Yale men. T. W. Day is president of the Yale Club, and Lewis A. Williams the secretary.

Sues P. S. C. for $5,000.

Michael Gallagher has brought suit against the P. S. C. in the Supreme Court for $5,000. He seeks compensation for injuries sustained on November 15, when, he claims, a trolley car hit his truck. The case is set down for April 24 before Justice Fort; W. L. Hetfield, Jr., is the plaintiff's lawyer.

—The olive oil sold by Neuman Brothers is imported by them direct from France. They guarantee the quality to be the very best.

CONFERENCE IN SESSION

Great Body of Methodists Began Annual Meeting in Jersey City Last Night.

WELCOMED BY MAYOR

Plainfield Churches Represented By Pastors and Laymen—Continues Through the Week.

The annual Newark Conference of the M. E. church began last night in the West Side Avenue M. E. church, Jersey City, of which Rev. William C. O'Donnell is the pastor, with Bishop John W. Hamilton presiding.

Rev. Dr. C. W. Parsons, of Grace M. E. church Rev. Abel C. McCrea, of the First M. E. church, and Rev. George Mooney, of the Monroe Avenue church, as well as lay delegates from all three local churches of the denomination, are in attendance. Rev. Dr. G. H. Whitney, also of Plainfield, is attending the sessions.

Rev. Dr. James Roscoe Day, chancellor of Syracuse University, gave his famous lecture, "A Mile a Minute," last night. This was followed by a reception to the bishop and members. There were words of welcome by Mayor Mark M. Fagan, presiding Elder Rev. Dr. Charles M. Anderson and W. H. Beach.

The regular programme was taken up this morning at 9 o'clock with the sacrament of the Lord's Supper, roll call and organization, memorial service. This afternoon at 2:30 o'clock there was the anniversary of the Women's Foreign Missionary Society. Mrs. J. H. Knowles, conference president, presided. Speaker, Dr. Heber Jones, superintendent of Methodist Episcopal missions in Korea.

This evening there will be the anniversary of the Centenary Fund and Preachers' Aid Society. Rev. Daniel Halleron will preside. Report of corresponding secretary, Rev. John A. Gutteridge. Report of treasurer, Milton E. Blanchard. Speaker, Rev. Dr. James M. Bulkley, editor of the Christian Advocate. Evangelistic services will be held at the same hour in Trinity M. E. church. A platform meeting, "Echoes from Our Revival Meetings."

JOHN P. D. KIRCH DIES AFTER MANY MONTHS' ILLNESS.

End Came Last Night, Death Being Due to a Brain Tumor.

John P. D. Kirch, at one time one of the best known practicing lawyers in the city, died at his home on Duer street at 10 o'clock last night. He had been a great sufferer for nearly a year with a brain tumor and had been confined to his bed since August.

Mr. Kirch was born at Mount Bethel thirty-eight years ago and had lived in this vicinity all his life. He adopted law as his profession and after being admitted to the bar practiced until five years ago. He was a member of several local fraternal organizations and was widely acquainted both in Union and Somerset counties. He is survived by a widow, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Kirch, of Duer street, and one sister, Miss Lizzie Kirch.

The funeral will be held from his late home Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, and interment will be at Hillside.

MACCABEE TEAM HERE.

Twenty-Two Carteret Members Come to Institute New Camp.

The degree team of the Carteret Camp of the Order of Maccabees, which is to institute the new camp in this city tonight, arrived in town this morning, twenty-two strong. They were met at the depot by Grand Commander A. W. Prye, of Newark, who is overseeing the formation and launching of the new camp. He took them to Mt. Iroquois, where they will be entertained. During the afternoon prospective members of the camp will take the team about the city and show them the sights. It is hoped to make them feel so mellow that they will be moved to treat the novices gently and with patience tonight.

The institution will take place at Jr. O. U. A. M. Hall. A collation and a social time will follow it.

Miss Susan Guyre Engaged.

The engagement of Miss Susan Guyre, of Dunellen, to Joseph Edward Little is announced. The wedding is set for the evening of Wednesday, April 18, at 8:30 o'clock. Miss Guyre is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Ferdinand Guyre.

Lenten Musical.

A Lenten musical service will be held at the First Baptist church on Thursday night, April 12, when the choir will sing the cantata, "The Seven Last Words," by DuBois. The Schell string quartette, of Newark, will assist.

GETTING READY TO ABANDON GAS-MAKING HERE

Supply Pipe to Bring Illuminant From Camden Works Is Being Laid.

LINE COMPLETE BY FALL.

P. S. C. Starts First Step On Plan to Concentrate Gas Manufacture In New Jersey—Three Works.

With the successful sinking of pipe across the bed of the Delaware and Raritan Canal at New Brunswick, the first step, and the most difficult one, in the construction of the new ten-inch feed line through which the big Camden works of the P. S. C. is to furnish gas to all the towns, cities and villages in this section of the State, as well as that about it, has just been taken. From now on the work will be pushed with all rapidity to completion.

Construction has been started in both directions from the canal. The line will be laid toward Plainfield and Trenton simultaneously. A high officials of the gas department of the P. S. C. told a Daily Press reporter yesterday that the work would be completed by October 1. As soon as it is, the Plainfield gas plant will go out of business as a manufacturing point.

But while no gas will be made here, the plant will be maintained as a storage center and an emergency station. The big gas holders will be kept charged and the plant will always be in readiness to assume the burden of supplying the surrounding districts with illuminant the instant a break in the service from Camden shall occur. Within a year, it is believed, another holder will be erected.

Little difference in the size of the force employed at the local plant will result from the abandonment of manufacture. There are about forty-five men on the payroll now, but comparatively few of them are employed in the actual making of gas. Most of them are engaged on outside work, and pretty much the same force will be required after the change. Perhaps three or four, maybe five, men will be dropped.

The laying of the pipe across the canal, which marked not only the beginning of this particular change, but the first real step in the execution of a great plan for the centralization of gasmaking in New Jersey, was an interesting bit of work. It was at first thought that the construction of a coffer dam would be necessary, but the engineer in charge figured out a simpler method than that. Beginning work before the full flow of water entered the canal, the men trenched approaches to the waterway and floated the pipe out across it. The pipes were then filled with water and sunk. They were allowed to bed themselves in the silt and mud and then the water was driven out of them. After that the construction gang was ready to begin working back from both banks. Pipes are now being laid through New Brunswick toward Trenton.

When the line is complete the Camden works will furnish gas for every consumer between that city and New Brunswick and between Plainfield and Raritan, and the adjacent districts. That will be the establishment of the first of a trio of works in which the service of the whole State is to be centered. It is stated on the authority of the high official mentioned above that the P. S. C. has definitely planned, and is steadily working to bring about, the concentration of gasmaking in three such plants.

"The time is coming, and it is not far off," said this official yesterday, "when the whole State will be supplied from three big works."

"And they will be?"

"That one at Camden, another at Newark, and one at Jersey City. That has been decided upon."

"Reduction in operating expenses is the aim back of the plan?"

"Of course. Centralization of manufacture means a maximum of product and of service with a minimum of cost."

Sunday School Workers Elect.

The Primary and Junior Sunday School Teachers' Union has elected these officers for the coming year: President, Miss Nettie Beedle; vice-presidents, Mrs. J. A. Powlison, Mrs. F. R. Baker and Mrs. Douglass Darby; secretary and treasurer, Mrs. R. W. Barnes.

N. Douglass Drake Engaged.

Announcement is made of the engagement of N. Douglass Drake, Esq., of Duer street, and Miss Katherine Venn, of Yonkers, N. Y. Miss Venn has just returned home after a visit with friends in this city.

PUBLIC LIBRARY RECEIVES SOME GIFTS

J. HERBERT CASE PRESENTS PLAINFIELD BANK BILL OF 1861.

The board of directors of the Plainfield Public Library, in regular session last night, received as a gift an old $5 bill of the Union County Bank of Plainfield dated November 14, 1861, from J. Herbert Case, and a copy of the Philadelphia North American's almanac for the year 1776 from W. L. Gavett. On motion the thanks of the board were extended to Mr. Case and Mr. Gavett.

The president reported that he had filed with the city clerk the resolution of the board to the Common Council for the tax money required for the library for the coming year. The library committee reported the purchase of twenty-three volumes of the quarterly review, 123 Blackwood's Edinburgh Review and twenty-five volumes of the Library of Technology.

ONLY 3 MARRIAGES ALL LAST MONTH

HEALTH OFFICER SAYS "23," WHEN ASKED THE NUMBER OF BIRTHS.

The reports presented at the April meeting of the Board of Health yesterday, shows that the health of Plainfield is good; there being but few cases of contagious disease. At present there are four houses under quarantine.

These permits were granted: To sell milk—William S. Crook, 664 South avenue, and Solomon Mann, 919 West Third street, both store; to collect garbage—Mrs. Noah Terry; to carry on business of scavenger—Joseph F. Burke. The plumbing bond of James Harper was filed.

Considerable work was accomplished during the month in dairy inspection and milk analysis. Sixty dairies were inspected and thirty-seven samples of milk analyzed.

There were three marriages during March, twenty-three births, three still-births and twenty deaths. Of the number of deaths eight were over the age of sixty years.

During the past month the annual report of the board was published and distributed throughout the city. Accompanying the report was a circular giving information for consumptives and those living with them.

GRACE M. E. WOMEN HOLD ANNUAL SESSION.

Mrs. John Valiant Chosen President of Ladies' Aid Society.

The annual meeting of the Ladies' Aid Society of Grace M. E. church was held last night at 8 o'clock. The annual report presented by the treasurer, Mrs. Anna Most, showed that the society has raised $517.41 during the year, and after paying a debt and for repairs on parsonage there is a balance of $96.32 on hand.

Twelve new members were added during the year.

The following officers were elected: President, Mrs. John Valiant; first vice-president, Mrs. Edward P. Stevens; second vice-presidents, Mrs. Charles Lippincott; secretary, Mrs. George C. Nelson; treasurer, Mrs. Anna Most. After the business meeting and election of officers a social hour was spent. Refreshments were served at the close.

Bishop Coppin Will Preach Here.

Rt. Rev. L. J. Coppin, Bishop of South Carolina and Alabama, and the next bishop of Africa, will preach morning and evening at the Mt. Zion A. M. E. church on Sunday and in the afternoon will lecture on the customs of Africa. Bishop Coppin is a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania and the West Philadelphia Divinity School. He is considered one of the leaders of the colored race.

Will Work Among Mountaineers.

Henry A. Pearce, of this city, will conclude his course of preparation for the ministry this spring. On his return from the Student Volunteer conference at Nashville Mr. Pearce visited the field of work among the mountaineers and accepted an invitation previously extended to him to begin his active ministry there.

Removals.

L. A. Hummer, from 158 Somerset street to 224 East Fifth street; P. W. Van Alstyne, from 950 Park avenue to 110 West Fourth street; E. W. Mills, from 339 East Second street to Brooklyn.

BAPTIST MISSIONS WORK

First Church Societies' Union Anniversary Meeting Addressed by Mrs. Post.

OFFICERS ARE ELECTED

Foreign, Home, Young Women's and Junior Organizations Present Reports of a Year's Labor.

Reports for the past year, together with an address by Mrs. A. M. Post, who recently visited the Blanket Indians, of the kiawa tribe in Oklahoma and Arizona, followed by a tea and social time, comprised the features of the union anniversary meeting of the Women's Home, Foreign, Young Women's and Children's Missionary societies at the First Baptist church Friday afternoon. The women of the Park Avenue Baptist church also joined in the meeting as spectators.

The meeting was opened by Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, the pastor of the church, with the reading of Scripture, prayer and a few remarks of encouragement. Reports were then presented. Miss Ida Yerkes gave the treasurer's report for the Women's Home Missionary Society, showing that $573 was raised during the year. The report of the secretary, Mrs. B. J. Shreve, was very complete and comprehensive. There was an average attendance of thirty-seven members at each meeting, a large increase.

Mrs. J. A. Powlison read the treasurer's report of the Women's Home Missionary Society for Mrs. Frank W. Jones, who is ill. This society collected $565.13 for its works. Mrs. W. Hampton Browning resigned as secretary and Mrs. George Robins was elected to fill the vacancy.

Mrs. John Peeke Reynolds, Jr., treasurer of the Young Women's Missionary Society, presented a statement showing that $70 was given to foreign missions, $40 to home missions, $10 to the Educational Society fund, $5 to the King's Daughters' baby camp, $5 to the Children's Home and there is now $25 in the treasury. There was an increase of eleven members during the year.

After the reports the Children's Missionary Society, of which Mrs. Daniel R. Douglass is the president, marched into the room. Mrs. Douglass made a few remarks, telling of the organization of the society. The children sang "Jesus Loves Me," Everett Case taking the solo part and the society joining in the chorus.

Mrs. A. M. Post, formerly of Denver, Col., but now of Orange, and a worker for the Women's Home Missionary Society in New Jersey, was then introduced and told of her recent visit among the Blanket Indians of the Kiawa tribe in Oklahoma and Arizona.

Mrs. Post said that the Indians welcome what they call the "Jesus women," but they will have nothing to do with the white man, because of former treatment. She said that the Indians are naturally bright and it is not difficult to teach them about Christ. She also told of her visits to the homes of the Indians and how cordially she was received by them. She was accompanied by Louis and Charles Hunt, of the Carlisle School, and they acted as interpreters. At the close of her remarks Mrs. Post exhibited pictures of Indians and their handiwork, including dresses, bracelets and beadwork.

At the tea and social time Mrs. J. B. Probasco and Mrs. Harlod Serrell poured and they were assisted by members of the Young Women's Missionary Society, who acted as

The officers of the women's and children's societies are as follows:

Women's Home Missionary Society—Honorary president, Mrs. D. J. Yerkes; president, Mrs. Reuben Knox; vice presidents, Mrs. S. T. Wilson, Mrs. Hannah Flanders, Mrs. Morris Zook; secretary, Mrs. George A. Robins; treasurer, Mrs. Frank W. Jones.

Women's Foreign Missionary Society—President, Mrs. J. A. Chambliss; vice presidents, Mrs. D. J. Yerkes, Mrs. Robert Lowry, Mrs. Jason Bonnell; secretary, Mrs. B. J. Shreve; treasurer, Miss Ida Yerkes.

Young Women's Missionary Society—President, Miss Ada Fountain; vice presidents, Miss Pauline Denton, Miss Mary Shreve; secretary, Miss Helen Robins; treasurer, Mrs. John Peeke Reynolds, Jr.

Junior Society—President, Mrs. Daniel R. Douglass; secretary, Mrs. Howard Case; treasurer, Mrs. J. Herbert Case. The secretary of the Junior Society presented his report.

The Junior Society of the church was organized February 2, 1906, with Mrs. Daniel R. Douglas as leader. Its object is to do something for some one and our little ones are interested in the children—those of the Day Nursery, the Children's Home and it is hope when Miss Carry returns to Netherwood to do something to help that work.

Not Worried.

"I don't suppose these automobiles bother you much," remarked the visitor.

"No," replied the lounger at the crossroads store. "I reckon we'll find something' else to pitch quoits with when jhorses begins to git scare."

Potato Strips.

Peel potatoes and cut into long narrow strips about the size of uncooked macaroni. Cook in boiling water until tender, then drain. Make a white sauce from one cup of hot milk, one and one-half level teaspoons of flour and the same of butter. Season with salt and pepper. Heat the potatoes in the sauce, turn into the serving dish and sprinkle with minced parsley.

Creamed Canned Shrimps.

Open a can of shrimps and remove all the bits of shell, then pick into small pieces. When shrimps are used they must be boiled until the shells open and then prepared in the same way. Make a cream sauce of one cup of thin cream and a level tablespoon each of flour and butter, one-half level teaspoon of salt and a few grains of paprika. Cook several minutes, add the shrimps, heat and serve.

Raised Rolls.

Heat one cup of milk, add one-quarter cup of sugar, one-quarter cup of sugar, a saltspoon of salt and half a yeast cake dissolved in one-half cup of warm water. Add flour to make a stiff dough and last stir in the well beaten white of one egg. Cover and let rise over night. In the morning roll out and shape into rolls. Let rise in the pans with a cloth laid over and bake.

Broiled Finnan Haddie.

Dip a small haddie into boiling water twice, then wipe it dry. Set the fish in a greased broiler and cook with the flesh side down, until nearly done, then turn and cook on the other side. Do not let the skin side burn, but turn back to finish cooking. Serve on a warm platter, seasoned with one level tablespoon of butter softened and a teaspoon of lemon juice.

Cream Biscuits.

Sift two cups of pastry flour with four level teaspoons of baking powder and one-half teaspoon of salt. Sift once more. Add one-quarter cup of milk to one-half cup of sweet cream, and mix with the dry ingredients. Roll out, cut in small rounds and bake twenty minutes.

Maple Sugar Cake.

Cream one-third cup of butter with one cup of sugar, add the well beaten yolks of two eggs and one-half cup of milk. Sift two cups of flour with four level teaspoons of baking powder and add to the first mixture, beating well and add the stiffly beaten whites of two eggs. Bake in two layers and put maple frosting on top and between the layers.

Maple Frosting.

Break a one-pound cake of maple sugar into small bits and melt with one-half cup of boiling water. Cook ten minutes or until the syrup will thread, then pour the syrup in a fine stream on to the beaten whites of two eggs. Continue beating until thick enough to spread.

Chocolate Cream Cake.

Cream one-half cup of butter with one cup of sugar. Dissolve one-half cup of cornstarch in one-half cup of milk, add to the butter and sugar and beat well. Add one and one-quarter cups of flour with two level teaspoons of baking powder, and last the stiffly beaten whites of three eggs and one-half teaspoon of vanilla flavoring. Bake in layers.

Chocolate Icing.

Beat the whites of two eggs until frothy, add two tablespoons of cold water and all the powdered sugar needed to make a consistency to spread well. Cover the top of each cake with this icing and set aside to dry a little. Melt four squares of chocolate over hot water, spread thinly over the white icing; then set the cakes together and the icing will be of two colors, and also of two flavors, if liked.

Orange and Nut Salad.

Cook English walnut meats in salted water with a bit of bay leaf until they are a little tender. Drain, rub off the skins and break in pieces. Mix with thin shavings of sour oranges, from which all the white skin has been pealed. Pour a French dressing over and add a few gratings of the yellow orange peel. Be careful not to get too much of the peel. Garnish the salad with whole nut meats.

Cocoanut and Raisin Filling for Cake.

Seed one cup of raisins and chop them fine, add half a cup of chopped almonds, half a cup of grated cocoanut and the white of an egg beaten stiff. Have each cake layer spread thinly with some kind of jelly, and spread with the fruit filling, then put together. The jelly will make the fruit stick to the cake.

Baked Chops.

Slice enough pared potatoes to fill a quart baking dish that has been buttered. Dust with salt and pepper and cover with boiling water. Set in the oven until the potatoes are almost tender. Skewer some mutton or lamb chops into shape, and lay round on the potatoes. Season and add more boiling water if needed, then set back to bake until the chops are done.

Fried Mush.

Put one pint of cornmeal, mixed with one pint of cold milk and a teaspoon of salt into a quart of boiling water, and cook one hour in a double boiler. Turn into a brick-shaped pan that has been rinsed in cold water. Let stand over night, then cut entirely cold and firm. Cut into half-inch slices, dredge both sides of each with flour and fry in hot fat. Brown slightly on both sides, drain on a paper and serve with maple syrup.

Whole Wheat Bread.

Scald two cups of milk with two cups of boiling water, a level tablespoon of sugar and the same of butter. Cool until lukewarm, add one-half yeast cake dissolved in one cup of lukewarm water and mix with five cups of whole wheat flour. The sponge will be light in about four hours; then add just enough flour to make the dough stiff enough to handle. Knead a little, put into a bowl, cover and let rise light. Cut down, but do not knead, then turn into buttered pans, let rise and bake in a moderate oven.

TO LIVE LONG.

Eight hours' sleep.
Sleep on your right side.
Keep your bedroom window open all night.
Have a mat to your bedroom door
Do not have your bedstead against the wall.
No cold tub in the morning, but a bath at the temperature of your body.
Exercise before breakfast.
Eat little meat, and see that it is well cooked.
(For adults). Drink no milk.
Eat plenty of fat, to feed the cells which destroy disease germs.
Avoid alcoholicants, which destroy these germs.
Daily exercise in the open air.
Allow no pet animals in your sleeping rooms. They are apt to carry about disease germs.
Live in the country if you can.
Watch the three D's—drinking water, damps and drains.
Have a change of occupation.
Take frequent and short holidays.
Limit your ambitions.
Keep your temper.—Sir James Sawyer.

A Benefactor.

Weary Walker—Sawin' up wood for kindlin'! I'm ashamed o' yer!
Ragson Tatters—Aw, g'on! dis is locust-wood.
Weary Walker—Wat's dat got to do wid it?
Ragson Tatters—Why, yer chump! dis is de kind o' wood dat police-men's clubs is made out of.

"You told me you were going to propose to her. Did you do it?"

"Yes, and she took for me for walk."

"Ah, to talk it over?"

"You misunderstood me. I say she took me for a walk—I mean she treated me as if I were something to walk upon."

LITERARY.

The April number of The Burr McIntosh Monthly, the first number in the fourth year of the life of this delightful publication has reached our desk and, if it is an earnest of what the publishers propose to give the public during the year it is certainly superior to anything else of the kind ever attempted. It seems as if each number of this publication left nothing to be desired, but the following numbers always seem to be better than preceding ones, and this April number is no exception. This number is now on all newsstands and will delight lovers of the beautiful. The cover portrays that charming actress, Maude Adams, as "Peter Pan," a character she has made famous before crowded houses this winter. Several attractive views of the recent White House wedding are shown, with superb portraits of a number of the Grand Opera singers, such as Melba, Scotti, Fremstadt and Bispham which will delight lovers of music. The stage is represented by pleasing portraits of Mary Manning, Joseph Jefferson, Julia Sanderson and Clara Lipman with a caricature of David Warfield in "The Music Master." Burr Publishing Co., publishers, New York.

McClue's for April has the freshness and cheerfulness of spring. You will want to read it all. Its articles, stories and verses, have a rare charm for the shortening evenings. Mary Stewart Cutting's "Symphony in Coal," which leads the table of contents, is another of those fascinating, sympathetic stories of married life. The most hair-raising chapter of adventure that has been published in a long time is the sixth instalment of Carl Schurz's "Reminiscences of a Long Life": "Rescuing Kinkel from Spandau Jail" is a story of intrigue and hair-breadth chances in the shadow of the gallows, told with the ghastly swing of youth, that holds you from first word to last. Best of all it is true. "Some Diet Delusions" by Dr. Wood Hutchinson, is not only amusing; it has a very definite purpose, it scares away the old bogies. After you have read it, you will eat and sleep with a clear conscience. Perhaps the most timely paper in the number of Perceval Gibbon's sketch of Count Witte, who is the crux of the situation in Russia. Mr. Gibbon has studied his subject at first hand, and his deduction is daring and surprising. Clara Morris contributes another charming chapter of reminiscences of the world behind the curtain, through which walk many of the old actors and actresses of her early days. Stewart Edward White's fourth Arizona Nights story, "The Ranch Foreman's Yarn," the Cattle Rustler story, gives a phase of western life about which little has been written hitherto. The story defines a bad man in no uncertain terms.

County Registrar and Mrs. F. H. Smith, of West Fourth street, arrived home Saturday from the South, where they have been sojourning for several weeks for Mr. Smith's health. He is much improved, the change of climate being beneficial.

An After-Dinner Story.

MRS. ARSDALE'S NIECE.

Jack Randolph ascended to the upper deck, lit his cigar and reflected on the untrustworthiness of women in general and Mrs. Arsdale in particular. The latter lady had promised the night before over a sacred cup of tea in her temporary boudoir to take that boat from Dublin, escorting his niece, Miss Beatrix, to Holyhead.

"I can't marry you, Jack," she said, "but I should like some one belonging to me to do so—and there is my niece. You can make your mind up about it as we cross. Oh! I'll be there without fail."

Naturally, she did not keep her word. Naturally, also, when he got on at Dublin and found that the steamer did not carry anybody he knew, he was settled at the lady whose faithlessness had caused his present ennui.

It was early in October. Nearly every one of prominence had gone back to town and the season was to open in a few days with a dance, given by Mrs. Arsdale for the niece aforesaid. Randolph did not know the niece. He had heard her described as a paragon of the social virtues, but he was in the habit of discounting descriptions.

Mostly they were given by young men of inflated enthusiasm, and he found it safer to subtract the discount from expectation than from realization; so the man was to be replaced, until tried, among the ordinary young women who said much and thought little.

He found the crossing very uninteresting. The usual quota of people were seasick in the cabin, and he had a narrow escape from a pallid young lady who wanted to find a comfortable place to die. He fled gasping to the bow and leaned far over the rail, watching the golden water dash into silver spray as the clean sharp prow cut into it.

A young lady sitting some way in on the mid-deck lowered her book and regarded him with calm curiosity.

Randolph needed only two glances to decide that she was pretty, and a third glance, which took in the trim figure, the good gown and a neat tailor hat, told him also that she was a lady of breeding. He quickly scrambled into a position somewhat more dignified, and watched her with an air of apologetic justification. But the book was holding her from the book she was reading, although a slight smile trembling around her mouth showed him that his return to self-consciousness had not passed unnoticed.

Who was she? Certianly no one he knew, and there was something unaccountably familiar in the clear-cut lines of the face. Where had he seen it before? He could not remember; and meanwhile he was staring at the lady in a way he would have reproved in a younger man. He rose and went astern, feeling that he had been doing something rude.

Holyhead was plainly visible in the reddening sunset before he ventured to return. She was sitting as before, the book in her lap, gazing far ahead. He stopped and watched her silently, wondering again where he had seen that face.

A man, evidently under the influence of liquor, brushed roughly past him, coming from the forward deck. The smell of the liquor momentarily sickened Randolph, and when he turned to look again the man had staggered in front of the girl and with drunken impudence started to lay a hand on her shoulder.

Randolph took three or four short steps and sent him sprawling on the deck, whence two deck hands picked him and carried him below. It all went too quickly to seem real to Randolph, and he stood, almost wondering, while the girl was quietly thanking him for his bravery.

"It wasn't anything, you know," he said afterward, as he recounted the occurrence to his friends at the club. "I just gave him a push and he went over, and there she was thanking me as though I had done something."

The boat steamed slowly into the harbor, with Randolph and the girl together on the deck, she telling him how she had missed the lady she expected to meet at the boat, and so had come alone, thinking that in the hurry and confusion her friends might have become lost in the crowd.

"I'm very glad that I could have been of assistance to you," said Randolph simply.

He handed her into a carriage at Holyhead, and on arrival in London found himself listening with unaccountable curiosity for the address she gave the driver of the cab which she engaged.

"Mrs. Arsdale's place, by Jove!" he said, "and she must be the niece. I think I shall go there next week."

* * * * *

"A social function," Jack observed as he dismounted from his carriage at Mrs. Arsdale's door, "is never a success unless the people are so crowded as to be thoroughly uncomfortable."

He fought his way through the crowds coming in and going out and met her on the stairs. There was no mistaking the fine face, and as she passed him he received a little smile and a half-nod of recognition.

When he reached the room the crowd had increased and dancing had begun, so that he had no chance to be immediately presented to Mrs. Arsdale's niece. That lady's aunt regretted, with much volubility, that he had not come earlier; she promised, however, to rescue the damsel at the earliest opportunity and retain her until Randolph should meet her.

The latter fancied two or three times that he caught glimpses of her face in the looking for, over the shoulders of the crowd, but the great wave of dancers and dowagers would swallow her up.

Toward the end of the evening he gave up looking for her, as the surest way to find her.

"The watched pot never boils," he said. "I shall see her surely before the night is over. Menawhile I will bear my cross with patience."

He wandered out into the conservatory and lit a cigar surreptitiously. Through the half-open door came the sound of the music, half-drowned by voices and laughter. Through the rifts between the houses opposite shone the white light from the lamps of the street behind, and over all was the clear, cold atmosphere of a London October. Idly he threw his cigar away and turned to go back.

The girl of the steamer was in the doorway as he passed in. She was looking out into the night, which, he reflected, was in much better taste than those of the ladies he could see through the doorway behind her. And again he received the same shy, half-nod of recognition. But this time he was not going to let her go without a word.

"I've been looking for you all the evening," he exclaimed. "I wanted to be introduced, you know, but Mrs. Arsdale had lost you. And now I stopped you—because I was afraid of your escape—and we hardly need another introduction, do we?"

Again the same quiet nod of assent, and the half smile about the finely chiseled mouth.

"Shall I get you an ice or something?" he asked, "or do you prefer to dance?"

She shook her head slowly.

"Please let me pass," she said. "I'm Miss Beatrix's maid, and I have to help in the dressing room, you know."

She went, and Randolph just then saw Mrs. Arsdale's beaming a beckoning smile and holding by the hand a flabby faced girl in very pronounced evening dress.

He turned and walked deliberately into the conservatory again, thinking what a joke the boys would consider it all if they only knew.

He wondered whether Mrs. Arsdale had seen him a few minutes before.

It might be rather awkward if she had, but—

"Still, I'm not sorry they missed that boat," said Jack Randolph, thoughtfully.—A. Cleveland, in Illustrated Bits.

Patents For Jerseymen.

Patents issued to Jerseymen of March 24, 1906, reported by Drake & Co., attorneys at law and American patents, corner Broad and Market streets, Newark: Automatic switch, C. F. Adams, Camden; knockdown box, J. Adams, Phillipsburg; union for pipes, M. Dean, East Orange; sewing machine thread case, H. Dietrich, Elizabeth; armature coil, J. P. Holland, Newark; electrical connector for electric lamps, E. A. Lowe, North Plainfield; machine for handling cigar bunches, W. S. Luckett, East Orange; fountain pen, W. C. Luther, Newark; horn support, A. S. Marten, East Orange; pulley device, G. Merritt, Ridgewood; bottle filling apparatus, C. F. Reinhardt, Newark; static discharger and lightning arrester, H. M. Shaw, East Orange; briqueting machine, W. Simpkin, Orange; typewriting machine, B. C. Stickney, Elizabeth; fourchette, H. Texier, Watchung; railway spike, D. L. Vaughan, Haddonfield; bag fastener, E. B. Witte, Newark; trade marks, the Old Time Irish Linen Handkerchiefs, Acheson-Harden Co., Passaic; Linen-printing machine, Handkerchiefs, Acheson-Harden Co., Passaic; Three, Condensed Milk, Acheson-Harden Co., Passaic; Three, Condensed Milk, Borden's Condensed Milk Company, Jersey City; Havana Cigars, Havana Commercial Company, of Jersey City; Remedy for the cure of St. Vitus dance or chorea, Susanna W. Mackrell, Asbury Park.

AN EFFECTIVE SAMPLE.

A clergyman was very fond of a particularly hot brand of pickles, and, finding great difficulty in procuring the same sort at hotels when traveling, always carried a bottle with him. One day when dining at a restaurant with his pickles in front of him, stranger sat down at the same table, and, with an American accent, presently asked the minister to pass the pickles. The minister, who enjoyed the joke, politely passed the bottle, and for a few minutes had the satisfaction of seeing the Yankee watering at the eyes and gasping for breath.

"I guess you are a parson," said the latter.

"You say friend, I am," replied the minister.

"I suppose you preach?" asked the Yankee.

"Yes, sir; I preach twice a week, usually," said the minister.

"And do you ever preach hell fire?" inquired the Yankee.

"Yes; I sometimes consider it my duty to remind my congregation of eternal punishment," returned the minister.

"I thought so," rejoined the Yankee, "but you are the first of your class I ever met who carried samples."—The Tattler.

QUEER JUDGES.

Abundance of [illegible] as well as stat[illegible] of such [illegible] Newspapers give publish[illegible] to [illegible] of [illegible] the [illegible] says F. W. Cobura, in Atlantic and come to be of assistance in [illegible] every-day world. Not only has it [illegible] time and space on the superficial earth, but the Northern [illegible] stop into the ocean depth a line with telephonic attachment by which the [illegible] of the approaching [illegible] of mariners is communicated to the [illegible] listeners above. In some of the most remote [illegible] the Surgery by telephone [illegible] and in ordinary [illegible] the country doctor [illegible] and over all was the clear, cold atmosphere of a London October. Idly he threw his cigar away and turned to go back.

The girl of the steamer was in the doorway as he passed in. She was looking out into the night, which, he reflected, was in much better taste than those of the ladies he could see through the doorway behind her. And again he received the same shy, half-nod of recognition. But this time he was not going to let her go without a word.

"I've been looking for you all the evening," he exclaimed. "I wanted to be introduced, you know, but Mrs. Arsdale had lost you. And now I stopped you—because I was afraid of your escape—and we hardly need another introduction, do we?"

Again the same quiet nod of assent, and the half smile about the finely chiseled mouth.

"Shall I get you an ice or something?" he asked, "or do you prefer to dance?"

She shook her head slowly.

"Please let me pass," she said. "I'm Miss Beatrix's maid, and I have to help in the dressing room, you know."

She went, and Randolph just then saw Mrs. Arsdale's beaming a beckoning smile and holding by the hand a flabby faced girl in very pronounced evening dress.

He turned and walked deliberately into the conservatory again, thinking what a joke the boys would consider it all if they only knew.

He wondered whether Mrs. Arsdale had seen him a few minutes before.

It might be rather awkward if she had, but—

"Still, I'm not sorry they missed that boat," said Jack Randolph, thoughtfully.—A. Cleveland, in Illustrated Bits.

Patents For Jerseymen.

Patents issued to Jerseymen of March 24, 1906, reported by Drake & Co., attorneys at law and American patents, corner Broad and Market streets, Newark: Automatic switch, C. F. Adams, Camden; knockdown box, J. Adams, Phillipsburg; union for pipes, M. Dean, East Orange; sewing machine thread case, H. Dietrich, Elizabeth; armature coil, J. P. Holland, Newark; electrical connector for electric lamps, E. A. Lowe, North Plainfield; machine for handling cigar bunches, W. S. Luckett, East Orange; fountain pen, W. C. Luther, Newark; horn support, A. S. Marten, East Orange; pulley device, G. Merritt, Ridgewood; bottle filling apparatus, C. F. Reinhardt, Newark; static discharger and lightning arrester, H. M. Shaw, East Orange; briqueting machine, W. Simpkin, Orange; typewriting machine, B. C. Stickney, Elizabeth; fourchette, H. Texier, Watchung; railway spike, D. L. Vaughan, Haddonfield; bag fastener, E. B. Witte, Newark; trade marks, the Old Time Irish Linen Handkerchiefs, Acheson-Harden Co., Passaic; Linen-printing machine, Handkerchiefs, Acheson-Harden Co., Passaic; Three, Condensed Milk, Borden's Condensed Milk Company, Jersey City; Havana Cigars, Havana Commercial Company, of Jersey City; Remedy for the cure of St. Vitus dance or chorea, Susanna W. Mackrell, Asbury Park.

AN EFFECTIVE SAMPLE.

A clergyman was very fond of a particularly hot brand of pickles, and, finding great difficulty in procuring the same sort at hotels when traveling, always carried a bottle with him. One day when dining at a restaurant with his pickles in front of him, stranger sat down at the same table, and, with an American accent, presently asked the minister to pass the pickles. The minister, who enjoyed the joke, politely passed the bottle, and for a few minutes had the satisfaction of seeing the Yankee watering at the eyes and gasping for breath.

"I guess you are a parson," said the latter.

"You say friend, I am," replied the minister.

"I suppose you preach?" asked the Yankee.

"Yes, sir; I preach twice a week, usually," said the minister.

"And do you ever preach hell fire?" inquired the Yankee.

"Yes; I sometimes consider it my duty to remind my congregation of eternal punishment," returned the minister.

"I thought so," rejoined the Yankee, "but you are the first of your class I ever met who carried samples."—The Tattler.

CARNIVAL'S COMMITTEE

Those to Have General Charge of Hospital Affair Named by Former Mayor Fisk.

W. S. MILLER, MANAGER

Grounds on West Fourth Street Again to Be Used—More and Larger Attractions Promised.

In order to get plans for the hospital carnival in full swing within the next few weeks, Chairman Fisk has appointed the following general committee: Mayor James F. Buckle, Mayor Newton B. Smalley, Rev. E. V. Stevenson, DeWitt C. Ivins, Joseph M. Shellabarger, George F. Schoonmaker, Henry B. Lovell, Charles H. Frost, F. S. Bache, W. C. Kinney, Ralph L. S. Borrow, P. C. Martin, John J. Kenney, William Newcorn, M. Leichtentritt, Andrew E. Kenney, Rev. B. M. Bogan, Henry L. Hall, George S. Ring, James Dodd, William N. Runyon, Arthur A. Cannon, Dr. F. C. Ard, Dr. B. Vandd. Hedges, Thomas M. Muir, Ralph Wills, George MacIntyre, John A. Cose, Allen B. Laing and Edward Fleming. The executive committee consists of Mr. Fisk, DeWitt C. Ivins, Henry L. Hall, Maze Edwards, secretary and treasurer; W. S. Miller, general manager.

Mr. Miller has been in town for the past few days discussing the preliminary details with the leaders and he declares the coming carnival will be greater and grander than ever." It was thought at first that the grounds on West Fourth street would not be large enough this time but it has been decided after measurements that the area is sufficient to accommodate all the attractions and that the location is more convenient. There was a proposition to hold the affair on the plot on Elm place and Chatham street, bordering Tier's lake, but this has been abandoned.

The opening date of the carnival has been set for May 19 and it will continue for two weeks. The time will include three Saturdays, thus affording the half holiday crowds an opportunity to attend. Last year it was held ten, several of which were stormy.

BREVITIES.

About 3,500,000 people on the sea, either as passengers or seamen, every day in the year.

Nine-tenths of the peasants in Russia live in huts without floors, and too low for a tall man to stand in.

The number of students at the twenty-two universities of Germany this winter is 49,300. Berlin has nearly a fifth of these—9,084.

Canada has forests which at the present rate of consumption of timber for paper will supply the world with paper pulp for 840 years.

For swinging a monkey around his head by its tail, George Brown, a sailorman, was sentenced to twenty-eight days' imprisonment in Liverpool.

In Normandy, France, there stands a modern chateau, the brick of which is laid in such elaborate patterns that it gives the effect of intricate carving.

The King of the Belgians makes only one appearance at public worship in the course of the year. That is on the day he commemorates his accession to the throne.

The mound bird, found in Australia, builds the biggest nest in the world. It makes mounds sometimes as great as 150 feet in circumference, in which it buries its eggs five feet deep.

In Lapland when the door of a warm room is opened during the winter it is immediately filled by a miniature snowstorm in the room, the condensed moisture falling in flakes.

Wire fencing is now made in continuous rolls instead of in sections as heretofore. Galvanized wires at the intersections, fed automatically from reels, are welded by means of small transformers.

After sitting for his portrait to two German artists a scientific observer has calculated that each of the two pictures, though painted by different methods, required 20,000 strokes of the paint brush.

In order to test the quality of mind of French soldiers, a set of questions —a kind of "general paper"—was sent to sixty-two soldiers at random. Of the sixty-two, seventeen could not write, and so did not answer at all.

Not His Tongue.

"I ain't go no doubt," said Hiller, "but what I kin git that there job as casual at that place in England, it'd be a cinch, too."

"O'yes," replied Pepery, "if you can learn to speak the language."

Postmaster Wanser Reappointed.

President Roosevelt sent to the Senate Thursday the name of P. Farmer Wanser, for appointment as postmaster of Jersey City. General Wanser is serving his second term as postmaster. He was first appointed in 1898 by President McKinley. The term is four years. He is Major General of the New Jersey National Guard.

Walter Gibson, a former local resident, now living at Passaic, has been visiting friends in town.

LOOSE BUSINESS MORALS.

Grocer's Clerk Who Was Too Untruthful to Hold His Position.

An Arctic explorer was praising the late William Zeigler, relates the New York Tribune.

"He was a man of the alertest wit," the explorer said. "I never saw his equal in the hitting off of a person's character with an apposite story. Once I remember, I was describing a flour manufacturer of loose business morals.

"Mr. Zeigler said this manufacturer was like a certain grocer who called his clerk up before him one day and said:

"'That lady who just went out—didn't I hear her ask you for fresh laid eggs?'

"'Yes, sir,' the clerk answered.

"'And you said we hadn't any?'

"'Yes, sir; that is correct!'

"The grocer, purple with rage, yelled:

"'Didn't you see me lay those eggs myself on the counter not ten minutes ago? You are discharged, you mendacious scoundrel, and see that you don't look to me for a reference, either.'"

Sweet Corn for Bass.

Bass, as a rule, are rather particular about the kind of food they take, and even the most painstaking angler fails usually unless he offers them choice live bait. Some years ago Caleb Ford, Delaware county, however, they are not as particular, and, if the fishermen have been telling the truth, they have developed a great fondness for sweet corn. What is used as bait for carp. A few grains are put on the hook and as a carp lure it has always proved effective. But this year the fisherman is just as liable to get a bass as a carp.

His Worst Enemy.

Caller—I have dropped in, at the request of Mr. Kummerer, a friend of yours and of mine, to ask you—

Eminent Statesman — Kummerer? He's no friend of mine! He takes snap shots of me when I'm making public speeches, and prints them in the papers. Not him!—Chicago Tribune.

She Didn't Halt.

Mr. Timid—I—er—suppose your brother has told you the—er—object of—er—visit to you—er—this evening?

Miss Bar—Yes, young man, and she also told me you seem able to.—Philadelphia Ledger.

THE OLD "CIRCUIT-RIDERS."

They Were Men of Great Power and Wrought Marvelous Results.

Eugene Wood, in "The Old-Time Revival," in Everybody's Magazine, describes as follows the "circuit-riders" who used to distribute religion to our forbears:

"Never before was there such a spreading of the gospel. The aureoled saints that converted Europe were but a feeble folk beside them, slow-motioned, temporizing. They were unlearned men, these circuit-riders. As some of them has said, they 'murdered the king's English at every lick,' but they had power given unto them to move the hearts of men, such power as we can only estimate by first reading the accounts of camp-meetings in the 'airly days,' and then going to a modern one, thinly attended and only by the very old, at that, and deadly with a dullness that no brass quartette, or hired singers of religious ballads, or frequent jingling of tawdry 'gospel hymns' can lighten in the least degree. In the old days whole settlements were utterly deserted to attend camp-meeting, and if the rowdies came and brought their whiskey bottles and made disturbances, that also was good times in religion. A mighty power could smite them unless it be the devil, if not the preacher's fist on 'the burr of the ear,' as Peter Cartwright calls it. (Says he: 'I did not permit myself to believe that any man could whip me till it was tried.') But the mighty power could always be depended on, and if 'the fall of the leaf' did not keel over by the hundred under his preaching, the circuit-rider examined his heart to find out why."

FOR THE HOUSEWIFE.

Melted butter will not make a good cake.

Veal should be white, dry and close grained.

The colder eggs are the quicker they will froth.

To make good pastry the ingredients must be ice cold.

Nutmegs should be grated at the blossom end first.

A brush dipped in salt water should be used in cleaning bamboo furniture.

Good macaroni is of a yellowish tint, does not break readily in cooking and swells to two or three times its bulk.

A simple and very efficient disinfectant to pour down a sink is a small quantity of charcoal mixed with water.

Warm bread and cake should be cut with a knife the blade of which has been heated by standing it in boiling water.

PUBLIC OPINION.

Fallibility of Statistics.

Mathematics is a science whose conclusions are absolutely reliable, because they are founded on pure reason, but statistics as often presented represent mere verbal jugglery, and convey impressions diametrically opposed to the truth.—Milwaukee Wisconsin.

An Outrage.

A New Jersey man declares that he is going to feed his hens milk, sugar and alcohol-producing food, and eventually get eggs whose shells will inclose eggnog. It would be an outrage to thus bring the esteemed American hen under the operation of the liquor laws.—Washington Star.

Paterson Newspapers.

The opposition to the trunk sewer in Paterson only demonstrates the power of newspapers for evil when they are so inclined. Newspapers when they wish can do more to preserve ignorance and misrepresentation than they can to diffuse knowledge and correct principles.—Passaic Herald.

Susan B. Anthony.

Due perhaps to her more than to any other one the present condition of woman has been brought up from the time when no woman thought of making her living by any other means than sewing, teaching and factory work, to where the way has been opened in every avenue of industry, until woman stands today almost the peer of men in opportunities of financial development.—Boston Traveler.

North and the Race Problem.

It is more and more realized that the race question is one that must be settled in the South, but if the spirit of the North is less dictatorial it is inclined to be more helpful. It has the benefit of perspective and if it lacks that responsibility involved in immediate contact with actual conditions, it can at least hold up the abstract principles of justice which are the same in all places and for all peoples, even if there are frequent wide departures from them in the matter of their application.—Boston Transcript.

Stomachs and the World.

If the human race could keep its stomach in good condition there would be less misery in the world. There would be fewer headaches, there would be keener minds, there would be greater zest for work. Good stomachs produce good dispositions. A man whose stomach in any of its ramifications does not trouble him can take a rosy view of the world. He can be cheerful and buoyant. He can slap his neighbor gaily on the back, smile at the latter's sourness, tell him to brace up and then go dancing to his work. A world with nothing but good stomachs in it would be a great world indeed.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

GETTING READY FOR DRIVING CLUB'S TRACK.

Improvements Planned to Be Completed in Time for the Summer Show.

The Plainfield Riding and Driving Club is getting everything in readiness to push its improvements on the new grounds near Crescent Oval as soon as the weather will permit. The work of clearing the land of trees and underbrush is well underway and the grading will be started soon. The idea is to have the grounds and buildings ready for the third annual horse show as well as the steeplechase exhibition this summer.

The plans call for a general show track, and one outside, to be covered for exhibition purposes on rainy days or when the weather is not pleasant. Grandstands of ample capacity will be erected to accommodate the crowds that are sure to attend. The pavilion avenue lies at Park avenue, and while many attending the show will drive to and from the city, many will want to use the trolley, provided the accommodations are up to date. There will also be the baseball crowds to care for, and from the present outlook these will bea factor, as the coming season promises to be the best in the history of the city.

O. S ROGERS RE-ELECTED SUNDAY-SCHOOL SUP'T.

Annual Election at Seventh-Day Baptist Church.

Officers were elected and reports were presented at the annual meeting of the Sabbath-school of the Seventh-Day Baptist church held last night in the parlors of the church. Superintendent O. S. Rogers called the meeting to order and Asa F. Randolph was made moderator. Miss Mary St. John was made secretary.

The reports of the various officers showed the school to be in excellent condition, financially and as to growth, there being twenty-two new members received during the year. The school has also contributed to several objects and has a balance on hand.

These officers were elected for the coming year: Superintendent, O. S. Rogers; first assistant, Henry M. Maxson; second assistant, Asa F. Randolph; secretary, Nathan Ward; treasurer, Miss Ernestine C. Smith; librarian, Miss Bessie Dunham; chorister, David E. Titsworth; pianist, Miss Eva Rogers; auditors, Mrs. Asa F. Randolph and Mrs. O. S. Rogers.

PERSONAL NOTES.

The premier baron of England, Lord de Ros, has just celebrated his seventy-ninth birthday. He can boast of fifty-three years' service to the court.

Prince Louis of Bavaria is among the few royal doctors. He is a skilled surgeon and has performed several surgical operations in Madrid, where he was staying previous to the marriage of his son.

Captain N. M. Brooks, superintendent of the Division of Foreign Mails, will represent the postal service of the United States at the congress of the International Postal Union in Rome April 7.

Henry C. Ide will assume the duties of governor general of the Philippines on April 2, and will serve in that capacity until September 17 next, when he will be succeeded by General J. F. smith, of California.

Dr. Paul G. Woolley, director of the serum laboratory of the Bureau of Science in the Philippines, has accepted, under the Government of Siam, the directorship of the pathological laboratory, which it is proposed to start as soon as Dr. Woolley can reach Bangkok.

Dr. Paul Cohn, dean of the Imperial Museum of Technology at Vienna, who was a member of the international jury at the Louisana Purchase Exposition, has written a pamphlet on the educational system in the United States, in which he pays a high tribute to American schools.

Rev. Henry Wunder, pastor of St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran church, of Chicago, this week concluded fifty-four years as pastor of that church, during which time he has married and christened more than 20,000 persons. He has been its leader longer than any pastor has been connected with a congregation in Chicago.

Want Jews and Catholics in Union.

Jews and Roman Catholics will be welcomed in the line of march when the Sunday-schools of Brooklyn parade in June. The Brooklyn Sunday-school Union decided upon this at its monthly meeting on Monday night. Some time ago the union voted to extend an invitation to the Swedenborgian and Universalist Sunday-schools to become regular members.

Handicapped.

The Doctor: "The medicine I left for you doesn't seem to have had the desired effect. Have you taken it regularly?"

The Patient (a poet): "As regularly as I could, doctor. You said I should take it after each meal."—Chicago News.

THE OLD ORDER CHANGETH.

Evening in an old-world garden,
With her knitting on her knees,
Granny hears the children's voices,
Whispering to her through the trees.

Granny dreaming in the garden,
Seated in her high-backed chair,
And the golden gleams of sunset
Linger round her silver hair.

Gray old Granny,
Years a many
Write their furrows on her brow,
Nodding, sitting,
Dropped her knitting,
Gray old Granny's sleeping now.

Midnight in a splendid salon,
Glowing with electric light,
Green Chartreuse, and cigarette smoke,
Add their fragrance to the night;
Smiling mouth a golden coupee,
With her neck and shoulders bare,
Good old Granny to her partner
Murmurs "No trumps," I declare.

Good old Granny,
Years a many
Leave no furrow, not a ridge;
Painted, paneled,
Dyed, enameled,
Granny now is playing Bridge.

—J. M. Lowry in New York Telegram.

THE CHILDLESS.

When the green tide of summer flows
She waits beside the pale pink rose,
And looks with eyes of Paradise
On the dear world that childhood knows.

The evening lilies, pale and sweet,
Stay for an hour her little feet;
Wistful she stands with pleading hands,
Hands that my lips so years to greet.

When the white blooms of winter fall,
She lingers by the garden wall,
So small and still in the gray chill—
O child, could you but hear my call!

When the great night falls full and deep,
And all home-children lie asleep,
Could she but rest upon my breast—
O child, what wondrous watch I'd keep!

—Emery Pottle.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

To make biscuits light—drench with gasoline and ignite before serving.

How to keep servants—chloroform them and lock in the cellar.

Quickest way to get rid of peddlers—buy all they have.

How to remove fruit stains from linens—use scissors.

To keep rats out of the pantry—place all food in the cellar.

To entertain women visitors—let them inspect all your private papers.

To entertain men visitors—feed the brutes.

To keep the children at home—lock up all their clothes.

To keep hubby at home—hide his toupee.

In order to prevent accidents in the kitchen—fill the kerosene can with water.

To stop leaks in pipes—send for the nearest plumber.

To economize on coal—get a gas range.

To test the freshness of eggs—drop them on some hard surface.

To propitiate the cook—it can't be done.—Smart Set.

KITCHEN HELPS.

Dishcloths should be boiled with soda once or twice a week.

Salt sprinkled on any substance that is burning on a stove will stop the smoke and smell.

Add borax to the water in which the dish towels are washed and it will aid in making them white and soft.

If housewives would remember to put a towel, folded several times, in the bottom of the dishpan there would be less broken thin glasses.

A cupful of vinegar placed in an open basin on the stove while cabbage, cauliflower, onions or fish are cooking will permeate the kitchen with its aroma and do away with unpleasant odors.

Empty pasteboard cracker boxes and the clean white wooden boxes that chocolate comes in, which are lined with paraffin paper, are excellent to bake sponge cake in. They will not burn, and the paper prevents them sticking.

MEDITATIONS OF AN OLD MAID.

At nineteen we know it all, and we spend the rest of our years paying for our smartness.

Pay your way and be happy; bet on the horses and go broke.

You can buy your way into society—you can get kicked out.

Hanging was too good for some men, so they invented the electric chair.

Some people use their brains like they do the attic—fill it with rubbish.

The man who thinks he can't do right is blocking the way to a better life.

The world owes you a living, but unless you hustle you will never collect the debt.—Exchange.

That's the Question.

"Do you think your daughter could live on my salary?"

"Perhaps she could, but what would you do?"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

April 8: "The Cost of Service"—Matt. xvi, 24, 25; Luke ix, 23; Mark x, 21; Rom. vi, 6; Gal. vi, 14; v. 24.

By REV. WALTER J. YATES, D. D.

"If any man would come after Me, let him deny himself and take up his cross daily and follow Me."

It is very clear that any one who reads the New Testament at all attentively that the kind of life there set forth as the true one for all men to live is far different from that which the great mass of people around us are now living.

It is equally clear that Jesus did live just the kind of life which He taught was the only right one for men to live and the one which God intended for every one.

It is further very evident that the noblest and most worthy life we have ever heard of was that of Jesus Christ. Though He never accumulated great riches, never was a power in political circles nor great in military affairs or in any other of the ordinary ways in which men become influential and famous, yet His was the most satisfactory life ever lived on the earth and more profoundly effective for good in the affairs of men than any other which can be produced from the past of human history. He was the manliest of men. His ideal was the loftiest attainable, and He achieved His ideal completely and was gloriously triumphant and satisfied. He succeeded, succeeded completely in what He attempted. He penetrated to the secret of life, found out God, revealed Him to men and secured the enthusiastic love of men.

But it cost. It took all there was of Him and in Him. There was neither time nor strength for anything else.

Would you be like Him? It is the only course worth while for you. But consider what it will cost. It will take all there is of and in you; all your time and strength. But it is worth all it costs.

It will cost the crucifixion of every lust and evil passion and the building of every pure affection and worthy interest. It will mean the repression of every appetite and desire for the selfish, the sordid, the sensual and base and the cultivation of every taste for the friendly, the generous, the reasonable and godlike. It will require every possible exercise of every power. First it must mean an honest, full sonled acceptance of the leadership of Jesus Christ regardless of where it may lead and what it will cost. It is self abandonment to His direction absolutely and then patient, obedient following wherever He leads.

At the end it means glorious manhood and womanhood and victorious achievement of all that is best.

Will you pay the cost?

Right Time For Kindness.

In life, not death.
Hearts need fond words to help them on by;
Need tender thoughts and gentle sympathy,
Careless, pleasant looks, to cheer each passing day.
Then hoard them not until they useless be;
In life, not death.
Speak kindly; living hearts need sympathy.

"I didn't think," is what people say ofttimes when they suddenly become aware of the pain which some heedless act or careless word of theirs has given to a gentle heart. Too often our thoughtfulness is an afterthought. The problem is to get it to its true place, where it will become motive and inspiration to gentleness instead of pain and penitence over a failure in love's duty. We would do well to get our kindnesses done while they will do good, giving cheer and encouragement and not keeping them back till there is no need for them.—J. R. Miller, D. D., in Christian Work and Evangelist.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning April 8.

By REV. S. H. DOYLE.

Topic.—Our pledge and how to keep it.—Matt. xxviii, 20; Eccl. v, 5-7; Ps. ii, 6.

The Christian Endeavor pledge is an old subject for discussion, and yet must be one that is ever new. New generations of Endeavorers are coming on who need instruction upon this important instrument, and older ones not infrequently become careless and indifferent to the pledge and need to be exhorted to new faithfulness. The old cry that the pledge cannot be kept should be forever silenced. Any young Christian who is sincere and conscientious can perfectly keep the Endeavor pledge. It is all conditional. Every article is conditional upon the strength of Christ and our own consciences. We pledge ourselves to do certain things, "trusting in the Lord Jesus Christ for strength" and upon the further condition that we have a conscientious excuse to give to Him for nonperformance of our pledged obligations. Christ will never fail us. If we have no good reason for not doing what we have promised, we can do it, and that is all there is to it. No one pledges himself to absolute attendance upon the meetings. That would be foolish. No one should be sick or have a good reason for absence from the meeting. In such cases we would not be breaking the pledge in staying away. Nor does any one pledge absolute, ironclad participation in the meeting. Conscientious absence would make taking part impossible, and we could be present even and have conscientious excuses to give to Christ for not taking part in the meeting. No one is always in a fitting mood to participate in a religious service. Let us do away with the notion that it is frequently prevailed concerning the pledge and see in it a common sense Christian compact, not demanding the impossible, but asking only what any conscientious young person who loves Christ and wants to serve Him can and will be glad to perform.

But that we may not be careless and indifferent we frequently need exhortation upon the subject. Duties that are possible of fulfillment are not always performed. Many do not depend upon Christ for strength. Oftimes our excuses for not keeping the pledge are weak and lame. We would not dare even to ourselves, much less to Christ, to call them conscientious excuses. Many Endeavorers ought to be heartily ashamed of themselves for the trivial excuses they give for not keeping the pledge and for the silly pretexts for which they neglect pledged obligations. Their excuses are no excuses, and they should stand self condemned as well as Christ condemned.

But what will help us to keep the pledge?

1. We should know what we are doing when we take the pledge. No obligation should be lightly taken, much less one to God. God "desireth truth in the inward parts," and if we seriously consider the pledge within before we take it we will be more apt to keep it outwardly when we have taken it. If we have lightly taken it let us not desert the society or recall our vows, but at this time give it serious consideration and keep it. It is better to keep it than to break it.

2. Depend upon Christ for help in keeping the pledge, all the strength has been given unto Him. He is with you always and you "can do all things through Christ who strengtheneth you." Don't depend upon yourself, but lean hard upon Him, and the seemingly hard will become light, and what seems impossible will readily become possible. Buttress your pledge with prayer and you will not only find it a possible performance, but a pleasurable one.

BIBLE READINGS.

Gen. xxviii, 20-22; Num. xxi, 1-3; xxx, 1, 2; Deut. xxiii, 21; Eccl. v, 4, 5; Ps. l, 14; cxxxii, 1-5; I Cor. x, 31; Gal. vi, 9, 10; Jas. i, 22-27; Rev. ii, 10.

"Inasmuch as Ye Have Done It."

Some Russian immigrants were stranded by some misunderstanding at Newcastle, England. After they had waited for hours in their isolation and anxiety they were found by some Endeavorers, who at once took charge of them, sheltered and fed them and sent them on their way rejoicing. A capital illustration of the international fellowship of the movement.

The Will! The Will!!

[Christian Endeavor anniversary hymn.]

Around the world our voices raise,
And hands are joined with hands;
A brotherhood of service sings
In all the lands and bands.
And blithe they sound the watchword still
That ever has sufficed—
"The will, the will, the blessed will,
The will of Jesus Christ!"

In crowded town or lonely place,
'Mid many friends or few,
With man's work or with man's disdain,
To one allegiance true,
That sole desire their hearts could fill,
Lo, this their song shall be—
The will, the will, the precious will,
The will of Jesus Christ!

When proud Ambition gilds her goal,
When Fame's high summer calls,
When silken Mammon lures the soul
To rainbow-tinted halls,
The brotherhood of service still
Exalts the lowly sacrifice—
The will, the will, the holy will,
The will of Jesus Christ!

And when at last the golden years
Have brought the crowning day,
When toil and trial, pain and fears,
Forever pass away,
Upon the realm of the hill
Is One that lingers with tryst—
'Tis He, the Will, the living Will,
Our Master Jesus Christ!

* This striking hymn is from the pen of the talented man-of-war editor of the Christian Endeavor World, Amos R. Wells, and was written for the quarter centur number of that paper. It is copyrigste by the Golden Rule company and is reproduced by permission.

Golden Grains.

Character determines condition.

Life is ever more than literature.

Strength comes through struggle.

Feeding malice is fostering murder.

Men die not as much in their faith as in their phrases.

Sin is no more essential to salvation than disease to health.

Separations come from setting up, your fad as another man's fad.

The best time to attend to your neighbor's affairs is in your sleep.

When a man falls in love with heaven he learns how to love his earth.

When God hangs his promises on the wall of the heart the devil's pictures have no attraction for the eye.—Young Folks.

An Exhaustless Possession.

Love is the only possession of which the more one gives the less thereof he parts with.—Ivan Panin.

My Creed.

Not one holy day, but seven,
Worshiping not at the call of a bell, but at the call of my soul.
Singing not at the hours's sway, but to the rhythm in my heart.
Loving because I must.
Giving because I cannot keep.
Doing for the joy of it.

—"Little Book of Prayer," by Muriel Strode.

THE PACKERS.

Consolidation.
Accumulation.
Publication.
Disapprobation.
Expostulation.
Interrogation.
Negation.
Reiteration.
Vociferation.
Procrastination.
Hesitation.
Investigation.
Examination.
Declamation.
Adjudication.
Vindication.
Cachinnation.

—The Chicago Tribune.

The Stomach Ache.

For genuine stomach ache—that is, pain the true stomach—you must blame the digestion. If the pain often occurs one may be sure that a serious state of chronic indigestion obtains. Then of course it is very necessary to take advice directed to that one case. But for a solitary attack there is nothing better than getting rid of the stomach contents. They cannot possibly do good and may greatly upset the system. Warm salt and water is the simple domestic emetic. When there are acid risings and burnings in the throat a teaspoonful of bicarbonate of sodium in water, taken in divided doses, may be tried.

The Adirondack Lakes.

One of the most striking phenomena of the Adirondack region is the carrying power of the human voice in still weather upon the lakes great and small. Persons ashore easily hear the ordinary conversation of others who are so far out upon the lake as to be indistinguishable, and as a great many Adirondack visitors habitually violate the law touching the sale of liquor to Indians, all offenders are extremely careful not even to whisper a word that might betray their guilt when rowing upon the lakes.

A Large Order.

Danny B——, now in the Soldiers' home at Hampton, Va., tells this one. He says that when this company approached the earthworks in front of Big Bethel it was met by a terrific volley from the fort. The captain gave the order to lie down, which every man did except an old Irishman, who did not hear the order.

He looked around and exclaimed: "My! my! They're all killed but me!"

Then, as he reloaded his rifle, he said: "I'll have to fight hard to take that place all by myself."—Philadelphia Ledger.

Oh, Memory!

There is no doubt that the tying of a piece of string round the finger is a really good aid to a poor memory; but there is a well authenticated case of a man who tied a piece of cotton around his finger in the morning to remind him to get his hair cut. On the way home to dinner that evening he noticed the piece of cotton.

"Ah, yes, I remember!" he said. And, smiling proudly, he entered the accustomed shop, and sat down before the astonished artist.

"Er—yes, sir?" said the artist, puzzled inquiry in his tones.

A Merry-Go-Round.

A man had been sent by the house agents to take an inventory of the drawing room furniture. He was so long about his task that at last the mistress of the house went to see what was taking place. She found the man slumbering sweetly on the sofa with an empty bottle beside him; it was evident, however, that he had made a pathetic though solitary attempt to do his work, for in the inventory book was written, "One revolving carpet."—San Francisco News-Letter.

A Just Reproof.

"Mary," said a lady to her cook, "I strongly object to your copying Miss Laing in your style of dress."

"In what way do I copy her?" asked the cook, with an angry sniff.

"Why, the hat you wore yesterday is exactly like my daughter's new hat."

"Oh, no, it isn't, mum," said the cook, with a sneer. "The feather in my 'at is real hostrich, but Miss Lucy's is only himitation!"—London Judy.

Well Meant Advice.

Half an hour after Maloney landed in New York, he was knocked down by an automobile. A friendly spectator assisted him to arise, remarking: "Never mind—old man, I took that fellow's number."

"Ye did?" yelled Maloney; "thin fer hivin's sake run for yer life—he'll likely be back afther it in a minnit or so!"—Brooklyn Life.

A "Gold Brick" of Old Time.

In one of the Tell-el-Amarna letters, written during the eighteenth dynasty, the king of Babylon accuses Amenophis III. of Egypt, of sending him a mass of base metal for gold. He says, "The twenty minas of gold you sent me contained, when melted down, only five minas of pure gold."—London Post.

Sarcastic Swift.

It was Swift who warned a friend who was extolling the air of overtaxed Ireland: "Hush! If they hear you say that, they'll certainly tax the air."

A Bad Combination.

Scads—You say he left no money? Baggs—No. You see he lost his health getting wealthy, and then lost his wealth trying to get healthy.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

A DEMOCRATIC WEEKLY.

Published at

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Terms: $2.00 per year.

A. L. FORCE, Editor and Proprietor.

THURSDAY, APRIL 5, 1906.

It is not surprising that residents of North Plainfield find good reason to complain of the treatment the borough receives from the Somerset county authorities. Neither is it to be wondered at that by far the larger proportion of those who pay taken in good round sums would welcome the day when that municipality could become a part of Union county. The borough is a little mint for the county so far as revenue is concerned, yet it gets next to nothing in return. Not a single road leading to North Plainfield has been macadamized at the county's expense for years and every effort in that direction having been unsuccessfully blocked by a board of freeholders for Somerville "hog ring it," which is more in keeping with the rest of the county. The reason has been apparent for a long while, but the Bound Brook Chronicle, in this week's issue, exposes the hand of the anti-North Plainfield politicians and it should be borne in mind by every taxpayer of North Plainfield. The Chronicle says: "In other words, Plainfield wants to have the Somerset authorities improve a road for the purpose of letting trade go into another county. That has been a good deal of road building by this county for the benefit of cities of neighboring counties, and this year the Freeholders might well work in the direction of helping our home county. It should be continuation of the Mountain avenue macadam northeast of Bound Brook, for about two miles over the mountain to Springdale, would be a Warren township improvement, which would be of some benefit to the farmers of Washington Valley, and at the same time would not tend to take trade out of the county."

High license is sure to become a part of the law of New Jersey notwithstanding any adverse action that may be taken by the present Legislature, says the New Evening News. The reason given by the State's leading newspaper for its assertion is that the people have concluded that it is a wise provision. Discussing the subject at length, it states Plainfield, Chicago and the State of Ohio have taken the initiative in raising the license rate to $1,000. The Newark paper says:

"The effect of high license it not unknown in New Jersey. There are several object lessons within the State which afford abundant evidence of some of the benefits that result from raising the license fee. In Camden the fee is now $500, and the limit of saloons is one for every 370 inhabitants, instead of one for every 200, as provided in the Senate committee's substitute for the 'bishops' bills.' In Passaic the fee is $501, and the ratio of saloons is one to every 330 inhabitants. In East Orange the fee was raised from $250 to $400, and the number of licensed places fell from thirty-nine to twenty-four, or one to each 1,100 inhabitants. In New Brunswick the fee was raised from $250 to $350, and the saloons now number eighty-four, or one to every 273 of population. But Plainfield furnishes the best object lesson in this respect. In that city the fee was raised from $700 to $1,000, and today it has but a single saloon to about 2,050 people. The only exception to the rule in this State is Atlantic City, which, in spite of a fee of $350, has 245 saloons, or one to every 154 persons. But Atlantic City is a resort with much more than double the population in summer that it has during the rest of the year, and its liquor traffic is extremely large for four months at least. It is hardly fair, under these conditions, to assume that this ratio of saloons to permanent population is the one from which the effects of the increased license fee should be taken. To adopt high license is, according to all reliable statistics and arguments, to reduce the number of saloons. This is undoubtedly why Englewood recently raised its license fee from $150 to $500 at a single bound. This is why Chicago a few weeks ago decided upon a license fee of $1,000. This is why the Ohio Legislature at its session which closes today voted that the saloon tax throughout the State be increased from $350 to $1,000. This is why high license is being advocated at the present time in so many different States. Out of 12,000 saloons in Cincinnati alone it is estimated that between 400 and 500 will go out of business, while as many more will abandon the business in both Columbus and Cleveland. The 'bishops' bills' did not keep pace with Ohio, Chicago or Plainfield. They did not ask for $1,000 license fees, but only $500 as the maximum, with others graded below this sum. But the Senate committee judged this was too much, and made the maximum only $300. This may mean that the $200 thus saved the saloonkeepers will be subscribed to the election fund for the return of the men who were thus faithful to the liquor interests. But high license has been by no means defeated. The 'bishops' bills' have not yet been acted upon and should not be abandoned till every member of the Legislature is on record with reference to them. A committee's report may be evidence of individual opinion or even of partizan policy, but public sentiment has been strong enough to overcome both. Higher license is sure to come because the people of New Jersey have reached the conclusion that it is a wise provision. Since the Avis-Hillery-Wakelee report they are more than ever determined to have it, and it would not be surprising if, after being insulted when asking for only $500, they should decide at the next election to make it $1,000."

AMUSEMENTS.

Marie Tempest has met with great success at the Duke of York's theatre, London, in a new comedy called "All-of-a-Sudden-Peggy," written by Ernest Denny.

Sam Bernard, who played all last spring and summer in New York in "The Rollicking Girl," returns to Broadway for another run, opening at the New York theatre the middle of April.

Lawrence D'Orsay has another "Earl of Pawtucket" success in "The Embassy Ball" in which he is now playing at Daly's theatre, New York. This play like its predecessor is the work of Augustus Thomas.

Edna May has arrived in London and started rehearsals of the new musical comedy in which Charles Frohman will present her at the Vaudeville theatre. The piece is called "The Belle of Mayfair." Mr. Frohman has just produced at his Aldwych theatre in London a musical comedy, "The Beauty of Bath," in which Seymour Hicks and Ellaline Terriss have the principal roles.

Maude Adams will soon reach the 200th performance of "Peter Pan" at the Empire theatre, New York. Crowded houses are still the rule and Miss Adams and the charming Barrie play never fail to delight. All of Miss Adams' road time for this season has been cancelled and she will remain in New York until summer. Next season "Peter Pan" will go out for a brief tour returning to the Empire for another run.

Otis Skinner has made a strong and lasting impression in New York with his great work in "The Duel," which continues its successful run at the Hudson. The role of the Abbe Daniel gives Mr. Skinner every opportunity for this finished art. For plays produced in New York in the past decade have been so widely discussed as this one with its wonderfully human love story. Mr. Skinner is supported by Miss Fay Davis, Guy Standing and Elsen Plympton.

Francis Wilson has scored a solid success at the Criterion theatre, New York, where "The Bachelor Climber" is fast gaining pace as the best laugh producer of the season. Mr. Wilson was never funnier, even in his comic opera days. As a fussy London shopkeeper who covers his excursions into the gayeties of Paris with fabulous tales of experiences in the Alps, he finds unluding opportunities for funmaking. The farce is from the German and was written by the authors of "Are You a Mason?"

The splendid theatrical spectacle, "A Society Circus," which is drawing to the New York Hippodrome twice every day to enthusiastic audiences, has been rendered even more effective than ever before by the introduction of a sensational finale to the jungle scene, in which is introduced Thompson & Dundy's great herd of plunging horses, which are led in their leap into the lake by a young woman rider. The spectators hold their breath as one after another in rapid succession, fifteen spirited animals, ridden at high speed, leap over the bank of the miniature lake and disappear from view in the surface of the water. No more exciting or thrilling scene has ever been witnessed on any stage. In the circus tournament are seen for the first time in this country the world's champions in acrobatic, aerial and equestrian acts, including the Bonhair-Gregory troupe; the Flying Meteors; the Manello-Marnitz quartette; Ralph Johnstone, bicyclist; the Lecussons; Mlle. Leris and a score of others. The remainder of the great programme, including the ballet, "The Song of the Flowers," and the beautiful aquatic tableau, The Court of the Golden Fountains, remains unchanged. Matinees are given daily.

Rubbish Heap Fires Alarm Residents

Workmen clearing off the lot at Washington avenue and Prospect place, Saturday afternoon, left two large heaps of rubbish burning when then went away. The sparks blew about the neighborhood in such dangerous fashion a nearby resident summoned the fire department. The blaze was put out with a couple of extinguishers.

Special Lenten Services.

Special services will be held at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church on Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday evenings of next week. The Good Friday service will be a union service to be in charge of the pastors of the city, and will be held in this church. The other services will be held in the church parlors. Thursday evening an address will be given by the Rev. Dr. Kerr Boyce Tupper, of the Madison Avenue Baptist church, New York.

EUGENE RUNYON DIES FOLLOWING OPERATION

FUTILE EFFORT TO SAVE THE LIFE OF VICTIM OF GANGRENE.

Following an operation for the amputation of his right leg, Eugene Runyon, one of the best known residents of Dunellen, died in Muhlenberg Hospital at 6 Monday morning. He had been suffering with gangrene for five weeks and was removed to the institution last Saturday. The disease had made rapid progress, however, and he failed to rally after the limb was removed.

Mr. Runyon was sixty-five years old and had lived in Dunellen and the lower end of Piscataway township all his life. He was engaged in the real estate business and brought about many sales that helped the growth of the borough where he made his home. He was a deacon in the New Market Baptist church and served as its treasurer. He was also treasurer of the Dunellen Building and Loan Association, which he helped organize. He was married twice, his second wife surviving him. He leaves two sons, Walter G. Runyon, the Dunellen undertaker, and Oscar Runyon, who is employed in the Philadelphia offices of the New Jersey Central.

FORMER PLAINFIELDER DIES IN N. Y. HOSPITAL

BROTHER LIVING HERE NOT NOTIFIED UNTIL FOUR DAYS AFTERWARD.

Peter Schmidt, who formerly resided on Regent street, died last Tuesday night in Bellevue Hospital, New York. Because of lax methods in vogue at the metropolitan institution, the young man's only relative, Fritz Schmidt, an employe of John Wirth, was not apprised of the death until Saturday. He at once took steps to have the body brought to Plainfield, and it was removed to Cole's undertaking rooms yesterday.

Schmidt was a painter by trade, and went to New York but a short time ago to take a position. He was taken ill suddenly and his brother did not know that anything was the matter wit hhim until wired for instructions about the body. He was a cousin of Peter Blatch, of the borough, and had lived in the borough for a long time. The funeral arrangements have not been made, but it will probably be held Wednesday morning.

HUGH F. FOX AGAINST CONGRESSIONAL "GRAFT"

PLAINFIELDER OPPOSES FREE SEED DISTRIBUTION BY GOVERNMENT.

Senator John F. Dryden has filed protests in the Upper House at Washington against the free distribution of ordinary garden seeds from President of State Board of Children's Guardians Hugh F. Fox, of this city; the Oakland Tribune, of Clarksburg, and I. B. Coddington, a rose grower, of Murray Hill. Mr. Coddington, while protesting against the distribution of "ordinary" seeds, favors the free distribution of "good and rare" varieties.

Mr. Fox, who is a large hop dealer, protests against the giving out of ordinary seeds, which he styles "this petty prize package business," and then adds that "nothing has been done by the Agricultural Department to improve the hop growing industry. If the money which is wasted in distributing seeds were applied to some sensible purpose for the general welfare, it might open up a great field of usefulness."

Well Worth Seeing.

The tendency of the times is towards fewer things and better things in the furnishing of the home, a fact brought out by Hahne & Co., Newark, in their talk on Mission Furniture which they apply term "heirloom" furniture in their announcement of today. The display of Mission Furniture in the great furniture store in this establishment is now bigger than ever, and seekers for things both beautiful and substantial will find the choosing easy. Prices are pared in many instances for those who buy this week, and it behooves the economical to take advantage of them. The show of costumes and millinery continues as good, or, if genius fashion's a nearby resident summoned the fire department. The blaze was put out with a couple of extinguishers.

Valuable Dog Gone.

A fine greyhound dog, owned by W. S. Campbell, of West Front street, was killed by a trolley car last week. The animal was an intelligent one and a great pet of the family. A grocer calling at the house let the dog out and he ran into the street across the trolley tracks just as a car came along. The fender struck the canine, injuring his head and breaking a leg. He died soon afterward.

GAS COMPANY'S JOKE ON FANWOOD TOWNSHIP

LAYS PIPES UNDER RESOLUTION PASSED IN 1882.

The Cranford Gas Company, of which John Kean is said to be a principal stockholder, is having a laugh on Fanwood township over an attempt made last Thursday night to prevent them laying gas mains through the streets of Scotch Plains. The misunderstanding arose over a long forgotten resolution, passed in 1882, by a former Township Committee, of which the late George Kyte was chairman. The resolution granted to the Cranford Gas Company to lay gas mains upon any street in Fanwood township. The resolution was as binding as a regular franchise. For some reason the gas company did not value its privilege very highly until lately, when it decided that it would be well to take advantage of it and lay a main before the Public Service Corporation or some other company saw the need of the improvement and asked for a franchise.

On Thursday morning a large gang of Italians arrived in town and started tearing up Front street, working from the Plainfield line at Terrill road on to the village. The Township Committee was not even consulted in the matter. The work had not progressed far when Township Committeeman Theodore Bruchman arrived on the scene and called a halt on the work. The foreman of the gang remonstrated but Mr. Bruchman was discontinued for the day. The following day the gas company came forward and showed the Committee a copy of the resolution or franchise granted them in 1882. This settled the matter and the work was again resumed. As the present Committee had no authority and had to bow to the inevitable, as they were powerless. The committeemen are heartily in sympathy with any improvement which will benefit the town, but they believe franchises are worth something, as corporations like the Public Service Corporation and the Philadelphia and New York Telephone Company have found out. Mr. Bruchman's interfering with the work was due to the fact that he did not intend to see Fanwood township stand to loose anything.

WHT IS A HOME?

Sometime ago when the Brown Book asked for some original definitions of a home, it received among others the following answers:

An inn, where love is landlord and contentment chief guest.

The place where one is treated best and grumbles most.

Home is a corporation whose preferred stock is contented children.

That place where the heart is and bills are sent.

Here is the sculptor's workroom to shape man's destiny.

Home, happiness, health, harmony, heart's-ease, holiness, heritage, heaven, hell.

Home is where we express our worst and best selves.

Where we keep everything but our temper, criticisms and advice.

To some a place to eat, sleep and wash.

God's kindergarten, where souls are trained for humanity and heaven.

Simply two words: viz., love and mother.

A loving wife, a good table and a clean bed.

A man's rest—a woman's joy—a child's paradise.

Neat wife. Sober, industrious husband. Respectful children. Out of debt.

Home is love's bank, and our account is never overdrawn.

God's thought—childhood's refuge —manhood's dream — woman's heaven—man's inspiration.

Home is God, father, mother, babies, love, education and eatables.

Maid sublime, meals on time.

None scrappy—all happy.

Home is where love rules; unselfishness, tact and harmony exist.

Home—"the center of gravity in the sphere of life."

Home is the result of learning to bear and forbear.

Bright and cheerful place, pleasant wife, kiss at the door.

Home is what we make it—either heaven or hell.

Father, mother, brothers, sisters, plenty to eat, wear and share.

Home to mankind is as the hub to the wheel.

My happy little wife,
Blue-eyed baby,
And God always.

Home is where the heart finds its greatest content.

Where loved ones "bunk" together.

The best school for making true men and women.

Where love reigns supreme,
And filthy dirt is never seen.

Changes in Residence.

Edward H. Hanigan, from 91 Duer street to 111 Richmond street; Tell A. Bageline, from 1 Mercer avenue to 223 Somerset street; G. H. Kenyon, from 2 Mercer avenue to 319 West Front street; Henry Seader, from 18 Lincoln place to 102 Manning avenue; E. V. H. Voorhees, from 329 Park avenue to 819 Madison avenue; S. P. Case, from 120 Plainfield avenue to 420 Madison avenue, and Geo. W. Reighton, from West Second street to Ocean Grove.

CHRIS SORENSEN HAS BEEN A BENEDICT SINCE LAST FALL

Chris B. Sorensen.

Emma Louise Ferguson.

Friends in this city have received with much surprise, announcement of the marriage on Chris B. Sorensen, formerly of Webster place, who has been prominent for the past few years in eastern theatrical and musical circles. He became a benedict in New York, last fall, when he wedded Miss Emma Louise Ferguson, piano soloist with the Couturier Concert Company, which he managed during the past winter. She is a native of Boston and is the daughter of a newspaperman. Her father was formerly on the staff of the Boston Journal and is now owner and editor of the Newtown Journal, Newtown, Mass. She is an exceptionally talented woman and has a wide reputation as a pianist, especially in the New England states.

Mr. Sorensen is also a musician of note and has been winning laurels in the concert field. He is especially proficient with the trombone, which instrument he played in Arthur Pryor's band during its two seasons at the Asbury Park Casino. For the past two seasons he has managed the tour of this organization and is at present completing arrangments for the third. The season opens at Willow Grove, Philadelphia, June 17, and then goes to Asbury Park again for nine weeks. After that the band goes on a western tour with the former Plainfielder in charge.

Mr. Sorensen has a host of acquaintances in the city who will join with his professional friends in extending congratulations. He is a member of Plainfield Lodge, No. 885, B. P. O. E., and several other local organizations in addition to his connection with theatrical fraternities. His permanent address is at the Daly theatre building, New York, while his home is in the uptown residential district of the metropolis.

Attachment Suit Settled.

The attachment case of Isaac Lockman against Harris Schwarz has been settled. F. J. Huff is the plaintiff's lawyer.

FIGHTERS AND LEADERS HELD FOR GRAND JURY

FISTIC EXHIBITION ANNOUNCED AS A DANCE CAUSES A RAID.

County Detective Schwartz, of Elizabeth, with policemen from Westfield, raided a prize fight at Brink's Hotel, Graceland, at 1:40 o'clock Sunday morning. Eighteen persons, mostly young men, and including the principals, Ernest Cotter and Erward Wahl, of Westfield, were arrested and locked up at Westfield. Of the eighteen, all but four were released after being fined $2.60 by Recorded Toucey.

Proprietor Brink was held in $400 bail and Charles Gaffney, the bartender, who refereed the bout, was released in $100 bail, as were also Cotter and Wahl. Bail was readily furnished.

The affair was advertised as a dance, but the county authorities got a tip and planned the raid. The bout was to have been five rounds, but the first round was scarcely finished when the police walked in and arrested all hands and marched them to Westfield. Those held on bail will appear before the next Grand Jury.

SEVENS

The different Sevenses Hitting and Missing in the old Clarence Lockman and Accidents and No Insurance Aces, Jacks, Queens, Kings, Trumps and a STEVENS. Forty years of experiments behind our steel and general reputation.

RIFLES, PISTOLS, SHOTGUNS
Rifle Telescopes, Etc.

Ask your dealer or send stamps for our big catalog describing the entire Stevens line. If you cannot obtain, we ship direct, express prepaid, on receipt of catalog price.

Beautiful three-color Aluminum Hanger will be forwarded for 10 cents in stamps.

J. STEVENS ARMS AND TOOL CO., P.O. Box 4097
CHICOPEE FALLS, MASS., U.S.A.

POULTRY RAISING MADE EASY AND PROFITABLE

is the title of our large and complete catalogue for 1906, a handsome book 8¹ x 10½¹, 228 pages, replete with illustrations, information and advice. OF INTEREST TO ALL POULTRY RAISERS. Mailed free if you will name two friends interested in poultry raising.

Everything In Poultry Supplies.

CYPHERS INCUBATOR CO.,
22 BARCLAY ST. COR. CHURCH ST.

Radium Radia

Is admitted by the thousands who have used it to be

THE GREATEST REMEDY EVER DISCOVERED FOR THE CURE OF

RHEUMATISM

LUMBAGO, NEURALGIA, COUGHS, COLDS ON CHEST, SORE THROAT, PNEUMONIA, SPRAINS, SWELLINGS, ETC.

IT NEVER FAILS TO CURE

Hundreds have been cured with one Application

Recommended by Eminent Physicians

APPLIED EXTERNALLY

Sold at Drug Stores and 13 W. 26th St., N.Y. City

PRICE $1.00 and 50c. Write for Booklet

MAILED ANYWHERE ON RECEIPT OF PRICE

Reading System
New Jersey Central.

Passenger Stations in New York—West 23d St., N. R., Foot Liberty St., N. R.

Time Table Corrected to March 19, 1906.

For New York—2.17 5.27, 5.36, 6.02, 6.29, 6.51, 7.05, 7.25, 7.47, 7.48, 8.03, 8.22, 8.33, 8.47, 8.48, 9.03, 9.18, 9.31, 9.42, 9.49, 9.54, 10.03, 10.17, 10.28 a. m., Sunday—2.17, 2.57, 3.41, 5.15, 5.47, 6.48, 7.48, 8.03, 8.48, 9.16, 9.42, 10.03, 10.28 a. m., 12.58, 1.45, 2.49, 3.17, 3.30, 5.43, 6.45, 8.22, 8.18, 8.22, 9.42, 10.22 p. m.

For Newark—2.17, 5.27, 5.36, 6.02, 6.29, 6.51, 7.05, 7.25, 7.47, 7.48, 8.03, 8.22, 8.33, 8.47, 8.48, 9.03, 9.18, 9.31, 9.42, 9.49, 9.54, 10.03, 10.17, 10.28 a. m., 12.58, 1.45, 2.49, 3.17, 3.30, 5.43, 6.45, 8.22, 8.18, 8.22, 9.42, 10.22 p. m. Sunday—2.17, 2.57, 3.41, 5.15, 5.47, 6.48, 7.48, 8.03, 8.48, 9.16, 9.42, 10.03, 10.28 a. m., 12.58, 1.45, 2.49, 3.17, 3.30, 5.43, 6.45, 8.22, 8.18, 8.22, 9.42, 10.22 p. m.

For Somerville—5.27, 7.12, 8.21, 9.32, 9.55, 11.00 a. m., 1.01, 1.02, 2.11, 3.22, 4.52, 5.09, 5.29, 6.04, 6.19, 6.38, 7.11, 7.33, 8.08, 8.21, 9.37, 10.22, 11.26 p. m., 12.39 night. Sundays—8.15 a. m., 2.03, 7.06 p. m.

For Bound Brook—5.27, 7.12, 8.21, 9.32, 9.55, 11.00 a. m., 1.01, 1.02, 2.11, 3.22, 4.52, 5.09, 5.29, 6.04, 6.19, 6.38, 7.11, 7.33, 8.08, 8.21, 9.37, 10.22, 11.26 p. m., 12.39 night. Sundays—8.15 a. m., 2.03, 7.06 p. m.

For Flemington—5.27, 7.12, 11.00 a. m., 1.02 p. m. Sundays—8.42 a. m. 5.37 p. m.

For Phillipsburg and Easton—5.25, 8.21, 9.54 a. m., 2.11, 5.29, 6.41 p. m. Sundays—8.45 a. m., 6.03, 7.06 p. m.

For Bethlehem, Allentown and Mauch Chunk—5.25, 7.54 a. m., 2.11, 5.29 p. m. Sundays—8.45 a. m., 2.03, 7.06 p. m.

For Lakewood and Atlantic City—5.25, 8.54 a. m., 3.48 p. m. Sundays—8.45 a. m., 4.02 p. m.

For Long Branch and Asbury Park, etc.—8.11, 11.00 a. m., 3.44, 4.13, 4.42, 6.22, 11.26 p. m. Sunday—8.53 a. m., 3.30, 8.13 p. m.

For Red Bank—8.11, 11.00 a. m., 1.18, 3.44, 4.13, 4.42, 6.22 p. m. Sundays—8.53 a. m., 3.30, 8.13 p. m.

For Lakewood and Atlantic City—8.11 a. m., 1.18, 4.13 p. m. Lakewood only, Sundays—8.53 a. m.

For Toms River and Barnegat—8.11 a. m., 1.18, 3.44 p. m. Sundays—8.53 a. m.

For Philadelphia—5.11, 7.44, 8.51, 9.39, 11.42, 12.42, 3.42, 4.42, 6.45, 8.50, 9.46 p. m., 12.42, 3.39, 6.45, 8.46, 7.46, 8.50, 9.46 p. m., 12.39, 3.42, 4.25, 6.45, 8.46, 11.25 p. m. Sundays—10.17, 11.42 a. m., 12.42, 3.42, 6.45, 8.50, 9.46 p. m., 12.39, 3.42, 4.25, 6.45, 8.46, 11.25 p. m. Sunday—10.17, 11.42 a. m., 12.39, 3.42, 4.25, 6.45, 8.46, 11.25 p. m., 1.17 night.

For Reading and Harrisburg—5.17, 8.25, 9.35, 9.54, 10.44, 11.44 Reading only), a. m., 1.18, 3.44 p. m. through trains only, Sundays—5.17 a. m., 2.03, 5.37, 6.35 p. m., 1.17 night.

For Pottsville, Sunbury and Williamsport—5.17, 8.25, 9.54 a. m., 2.11, 5.21 p. m., 1.17 night. Sundays—5.17 a. m., 2.03 p. m., 1.17 night.

For Baltimore and Washington—1.17, 5.11, 8.51 a. m., 2.45, 6.45 p. m. Sundays—10.17, 11.42 a. m., 2.45, 6.45 p. m., 1.17 night.

Change cars at Bound Brook.

W. G. Besler, Vice Pres. & Gen. Mgr.
G. M. BURT, Gen. Pass. Agt.

Lehigh Valley Railroad

Time Table in Effect Dec. 31, 1905.

LEAVE SOUTH PLAINFIELD, N. J.

8.00 a. m. daily (except Sunday) local to Mauch Chunk.

8.37 a. m. daily for Easton, Wilkesbarre, Hazleton, Pottsville and principal intermediate stations.

1.37 p. m. daily, local for Easton, Mauch Chunk, Hazleton, Pottsville and Shenandoah.

4.45 p. m. daily (except Sunday) "Wilkesbarre and Scranton Express" Solid vestibule train to Wilkesbarre, through Mauch Chunk, via L. & H. R. R. to Scranton and Carbondale.

6.11 p. m. daily (except Sunday) local to Easton.

6.40 p. m. daily, solid vestibule train to Buffalo, Toronto and Chicago and principal intermediate stations except Rochester.

FRANK E. ROWLEY, City Ticket Agent. 218 West Front Street, Plainfield, N. J. Telephone 112.

Arrival and Departure of Mails.

PLAINFIELD POSTOFFICE.

Office opens 7 a. m., closes 7 p. m. On Saturdays close half hour later.

Arrive—7.30, 8.40, 11.20 a. m.; 2.30, 6.00, 8.30 p. m.

Close—7.20, 9.30 a. m.; 1.00, 2.30, 6.00, 7.45 p. m.

SOMERVILLE AND EASTON.

Arrive—8.40 a. m.; 1.30, 2.15 and 7.00 p.m.

Close—7.30, 11.30 a. m.; 2.30, 6.00 p. m.

ELIZABETH—Direct.

Arrive—8.40 a. m.; 2.30 and 6.30 p. m.

Close—7.30, 11.30 a. m.; 2.30, 6.00 p. m.

PENNSYLVANIA—West of Easton.

Close 12.35 p. m.

NEWARK—Direct.

Arrive—8.40 a. m.; 2.30, 6.30 p. m.

Close—7.30, 9.30 a. m.; 1.00, 2.30 and 6.00 p. m.

PHILADELPHIA—Direct.

Arrive—7.30, 8.40, 11.30 a. m.; 2.30 and 7.00 p. m.

Close—7.45, 7.30, 9.30 a. m.; 12.35, 4.30, 7.45 p. m.

Through fast mail for West and South close 4.30 and 7.45 p. m.

Through fast mail for East, close 1.00 and 7.45 p. m.

WASHINGTON, WARRENVILLE AND MANVILLA (Mt. Bethel.)

Arrive—4.00 p. m. Close—10.00 a. m.

Watchung—Arrive 6.45 p. m. Close 6.30 p. m.

SUNDAY MAILS.

Office open from 9.30 to 10.30 a. m. Mail closes at 4.15 p. m.

E. R. BIRD, P. M.

New Jerseys Awakening.

They are actually waking up in New Jersey. Not only are they going to increase the taxes paid by the railroads in that State, but they are going to investigate the men—or some of them—who buy law at Trenton. The investigation movement began with an effort to find out if certain Senators solicited money from pawnbrokers for their services in killing a bill which would hurt the pawnbrokers. But Senator Everett Colby has succeeded in having the scope of the inquiry broadened to include other charges of legislative corruption. Governor Stokes also urges the investigation and the matter is expected to be taken up and disposed of early next week. If the investigation gets well under way we suggest that the commissioners from Lincoln Steffens, of Connecticut, to tell what he knows about the Sale of Law in New Jersey. Mr. Steffens has told what he thinks with great fluency and readableness. The opportunity to learn how much of his belief is knowledge and how much inference would be welcomed by the country at large, and it ought to be welcomed by Mr. Steffens.—Brooklyn Daily Eagle.

Miss Elsie Goddard, of East Ninth street, is home from Wellesley College for the Easter vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. William VanRips, of Sandford avenue, are parents of a son, born to them on Friday last.

PASTOR SAYS FAREWELL

Rev. Mr. Mooney Predicts That Monroe Avenue Church Will be a Big Institution.

GIVES SOME ADVICE

Departing Pastor Tells Congregation to do the Best for the Church —His Career in the Ministry.

Before a congregation that filled the church, Rev. George Mooney delivered his farewell sermon as pastor of Monroe Avenue M. E. church Sunday morning. Mr. Mooney is slated for appointment by the Newark Conference, which starts Wednesday, to the South Orange church. Rev. Dr. G. H. Whitney, former president of Hackettstown Institute, assisted in the service.

Preaching from the twenty-seventh verse of the twentieth chapter of Acts, "I have not shunned to declare unto you the whole counsel of God," Mr. Mooney touched on the ideals of ministry and of professed religion that he had felt, and had sought to act in his service at Monroe Avenue. St. Paul, next to Jesus Christ, had been the model on which he tried to build his own ministry.

"My purpose in the first place has always been to preach the simple gospel of Christ. We have no quarrel with the higher critics, no great fault to find with those who seek to search to the root of those great truths that touch us all, but somehow, inbred in our minds, our hearts and our lives are the old simple faith and belief in the gospel of truth—in the redemption and salvation of a lost race through Christ, and it has always seemed to me better to persuade a man of his course toward salvation on those lines of simple faith than to lead him to doubt, and from conjecture to conjecture.

"I have endeavored to preach a gospel bringing encouragement to those in sorrow, those whose hearts are heavy and those who mourn; a gospel to strengthen those against whom the struggle of life is going; a gospel of encouragement, a gospel of hopefulness. It is a gospel for rejected men, for through it they see their right to come into a new life.

"I have endeavored to impress on you thoughts of individual piety. Ministry and laiety should cultivate spirituality, should quicken the life of the soul. Emphasis should be laid everywhere on the development of spiritual life. The social life, the business life, the political life, will all grow and, quicken of themselves —we need not concern ourselves about the participation of men in them. But we must call on people strongly to look well to their spiritual life. Are conditions of the every-day world about us such as to cause alarm—cause us to pause and ask whither we are going? Such conditions are to be met only by strong spiritual life.

"Along two particular lines I have frequently spoken. First, personal testimony. And here let my say that if I have had any measure of success, if my ministry has in any degree been successful, it is due to the man who sits on the platform with me—who has been to me as a father. My sweetest memories are of the personal testimony meetings of my school days at Hackettstown. I would be untrue to my training and to my best friend, if I did not continually urge the importance of personal testimony.

"It seems to me that if God has given us blessings if he has made our lives better and sweeter and more peaceful, the least we can do is to tell of his goodness. I pray God the day will come when this church that we love, which was once noted for its outspeaking, will again speak out freely. The church of Christ should be a witnessing church.

"Personal service is the other important thing. We should couple our testimony with acts. Does it pay to serve Christ? The world always cares for those who serve it. The man who gives himself wholly for Christ, to serve the world, wants for nothing."

Speaking his formal farewell as pastor, Mr. Mooney said:

"We stand today, brethren and sisters, in a place that ought to evoke feelings of thanksgiving. Prosperity has been accorded us during the past two years, especially the year just past. We have made material progress, but, better than this, we come to the close of the year having made spiritual progress. There is a better spirit among us, heartier co-operation and greater love.

"We shall look back with satisfaction, with joy, with thanksgiving. It is never enjoyable to sever relations that have been happy or profitable, but the regret in going away from you has been deepened by the many testimonies of the past few days.

"Turn your thoughts and your hearts to the church itself. Love the church—love it. Sacrifice for it; give your best to it; do your best for it. Don't look back and see how little you will do to give; open your hearts and strive to see how much you can do.

"I look into the future and I see the Monroe Avenue church is going to become a strong church, and wield a strong influence for good throughout this section, uplifting and saving men and advancing the glory of God. I commend you to God and pray that the richest and most abundant blessings of God be on you."

The congregation and their friends will say a personal farewell to the department pastor and his family at a reception to be tendered them tomorrow night in the church. It will be an informal affair, and everybody is welcomed.

Mr. Mooney has been with Monroe Avenue church two years. During that time he has strengthened it materially and spiritually, and the congregation has learned to honor and esteem him to a degree that but few pastors win.

Mr. Mooney has been in the ministry for twelve years. He was born in New York, and started out in life as a dry goods clerk. In 1894 he entered the ministry, beginning his work at Landor, Wyoming. Landor is 150 miles from the nearest railway station, and Mr. Mooney went to his maiden charge by stage. He spent two years there, then returned East, on transfer, and took a charge at Hilton, N. J. He went from there to Caldwell, the birthplace of Grover Cleveland, where he built a church and parsonage. After three years at Caldwell, he went to Mendham for four. He came here from Mendham. As may be noted, Mr. Mooney's changes have all been upward. He is accounted one of the best and most successful working pastors in the Conference.

JACOB BLIMM, JR., WEDS MRS. EDITH NEILL

CEREMONY TOOK PLACE QUIETLY AT THE HOME OF BRIDE'S MOTHER.

With only the immediate relatives of both in attendance, Jacob Blimm, Jr., of Somerset street, and Mrs. Edith Neill, daughter of Mrs. Albert Hedden, of West Fifth street, were quietly married Saturday afternoon. The ceremony was performed at Mrs. Hedden's home at 4 o'clock by Rev. L. R. Howard, pastor of Hope chapel. Miss Ella Hedden acted as bridesmaid and Robert Crosson was best man. The house was prettily decorated with cut flowers and plants.

Following the ceremony a reception was held and later Mr. and Mrs. Blimm left on a wedding trip, with Washington as the destination. On their return they will make their home in the New Madison. The groom is associated with his father in the hotel business and enjoys a wide local acquaintance.

SON OF MAYOR FISK TO WED ON APRIL 12.

CEREMONY TO BE SOCIETY EVENT IN CINCINNATI EPISCOPAL CHURCH.

Mr. and Mrs. Chittenden Collings, of Cincinnati, have issued invitations to the marriage of their daughter, Miss Edith Collings, and Augustus Rutledge Fisk, son of former Mayor and Mrs. Charles Joel Fisk, of this city. The nuptial event will take place Thursday, April 12, at 12 o'clock noon, in Calvary church, Cincinnati, and will be followed by a wedding breakfast at the home of the bride's parents in Biddle street.

The wedding will be largely attended by guests from this city and New York, as well as by society folk in Cincinnati, where Miss Collings is a favorite in exclusive social circles.

Mr. Fisk is a graduate of Yale and is in the Boston office of Harvey Fisk & Sons.

MEN'S CLUB ORGANIZED BY HOPE CHAPEL MEMBERS

RALPH ECKERT MADE PRESIDENT AND OTHER OFFICERS ELECTED.

At a meeting of the male members of Hope chapel last night formal organization of a men's club was accomplished. It will be conducted for the spiritual, social and financial welfare of the congregation and gives promise of becoming one of the strongest societies engaged in the chapel work.

The following officers were elected President, Ralph Eckert; vice-president, John Slorah; secretary, Herbert Fluck; treasurer, Henry Vogel. Pastor L. R. Howard will act as chaplain and a committee composed of Donald McInnes, Henry Vatel, Herbert Fluck, John Slorah, Ralph Eckert and Thomas Hendry was appointed to draw up a constitution and by-laws.

The meeting was called to order by Philip Braunstein, who stated the need of a men's club in the chapel, and called for a discussion of the subject. The gathering was unanimous in its belief that one should be formed, and the proceedings were along this line. With the election of officers it was decided to call the organization the Hope Chapel Men's Club."

The next meeting will be held on Wednesday night, April 18, when it is hoped to appoint committees and begin work for the spring and summer months.

HOBOKEN SHUT 'EM OUT

Daab's Nine Defeats Loughlin Lyceum by the Score of 6 of 0.

WALLER IN THE BOX

George Mallen Conspicuous in the Game—Very Little Fast Playing Seen.

With "Red" Waller in the box the Robokens opened up the season Sunday in Brooklyn by administering a shut out to the crack Loughlin Lyceum team. The score was to 0 and the game was played within an enclosure of mud and mire. While the players of both teams were trying to keep their feet dry in the swampy morass which constituted the diamond and outfield three thousand Greenpoint baseball fans looked on and shivered. Five hundred of the bravest stayed and saw the game out. The grounds were in a horrible condition and it is no exaggeration to recount that Mallen went over his shoe tops in mud and got stuck with his two feet while trying to capture a fly in center field. Goldberg, of the Lyceums, encountered the same hair-raising experience.

Owing to the condition of the grounds there was very little fast playing executed although Manager Daab's aggregation pulled off a double play to its credit, Mike Rochford and Tony Pastor taking the major parts. The game revealed the fact, however, that Manager Daab has corraled two good players in the persons of Curley and De May. Both are made of the right kind of stuff and are sure to make good in this city.

The salient feature of the game was "Red" Waller's work on the slab. The old Mt. Ararat warhorse was in midsummed trim and is just as effective on a cold wave as under the sweltering rays of a July sun. His delivery was touched up safely six times, all of the hits being scattered, while nine of his opponents expired on the Breezeville route. At critical stages of the game "Red" was on the job and would not retire men on strikes when runs looked likely for the Greenpointers.

George Mallen, the ex-Union County Pirate, figured very prominently in the run getting. In the third he drove to Pastor and Brogan over the plate with a slashing two bagger and in the fifth he sent Rotchford home from second on a tantalizing bunt which bewildered the Brooklynites. The score:

HOBOKEN.	R.	H.	O.	A.	E.
Pastor, rf	3	3	2	1	1
Brogan, 2b	1	1	1	6	1
Rotchford, 1b	1	1	7	1	2
Mallen, cf	0	2	1	0	0
Leonard, 3b	0	0	1	0	1
De May, lf	0	0	1	0	0
Curley, ss	1	0	2	2	0
O'Neill, c	0	0	11	1	0
Waller, p	0	0	1	2	0
	6	7	27	12	5

LOUGHLIN LYCEUM.	R.	H.	O.	A.	E.
Goldberg, lf	0	1	2	0	0
Supple, 2b	0	0	4	5	0
Hockman, ss	0	1	2	3	1
W. Poole, c	0	1	6	1	0
Hohner, cf	0	0	1	0	0
A. Poole, 1b	0	1	10	1	0
Powers, 3b	0	0	1	1	3
Alberts, rf	0	1	1	0	0
Long, p	0	1	0	0	1
	0	6*26	11	5

*Waller forced out at plate.

Hoboken ...1 0 2 0 1 0 0 2—6
Loughlin ...0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0—0

Two base hits: Mallen, A. Poole, W. Poole; struck out: Waller, 9; Long, 5; base on balls: Waller, 1; Long, 4; double plays: Pastor to Rotchford; stolen bases: Loughlins, 6; Hoboken, 1; attendance: 3,000.

Sues George P. Honnecker.

George S. Goerke, of New York, is the plaintiff in a suit that has been started in New York against George P. Honnecker, candidate of the people's party for Governor of New Jersey in 1904. Goerke is trying to compel Honnecker to pay for literature printed by Goerke which was distributed in Honnecker's gubernatorial campaign. Honnecker figures prominently in the much heralded movement launched in Newark last week to reform the New Jersey Democracy.

CRANFORD POSTMASTERSHIP.

Double Over Reappointment of Derby Attributed to Old Fowler Fight.

There is much speculation at Cranford as to whether Postmaster John L. Derby will be reappointed. He has the indorsement of the Republican executive committee, but the department at Washington has notified Congressman Fowler to send in another name. Derby has had the office for thirty-five years. James E. Warren has published a letter, stating that he never was an aspirant and would not take the office. Robert Rindell, a coal dealer, is circulating a petition for signatures for his appointment.

It is said that the old fight between Congressman Fowler and Senator Kean is responsible for the failure of Mr. Derby to secure a reappointment. Mr. Derby is allied with the Fowler faction.

ONLY 10,000 TONS HERE

Local Retailers are Supplying Coal in Small Quantities Only.

PRICES NOT RAISED

City and Borough Consumes 60,000 Tons Annually—500,000 Tons at South Plainfield.

The annual coal consumption in this city and the borough is approximately 60,000 tons. At present there are about 10,000 tons in the yards of the local dealers. Consumers all over the city and borough have been rushing their orders in to provide for the future, but the dealers have adopted a policy of selling enough coal to supply current needs, and will book no large orders for future delivery.

This policy was adopted as soon as it was definitely known that there would be a strike in the anthracite regions. While the retail dealers admit that the operators are in better condition than ever to stand a long strike, they are afraid that they will limit the supply to the retailer, which will of course affect the consumer.

One dealer said this morning that he had turned away orders aggregating 200 tons, simply because he could not promise to fill them. Other dealers are taking orders with considerable caution. There has been no attempt made here to raise the retail price as yet. One dealer said today: "We will probably sell out our supply at the present price and then shut up our yards until another shipment is received." Other dealers have advised their customers not to worry, that they will be taken care of. The retailers say they have not yet received their April notice of prices and conditions from the operators.

There are about 500,000 tons stored in the L. V. R. R. grounds at South Plainfield.

"SIDE ROOM" IS DOOMED

(Continued From Page 1.)

danger from the public gaze into the saloon than into a grocery store or drug store. He considered the back room one of the great evils. Incidents in the daily press proved this, he said. The amendment plan of two rooms only visible from the barroom nullified all the good intent of the original bill.

Senator Minturn also opposed the amendment. It did not furnish a solution of the back room problem. He objected to having the saloons so exposed that he could be seen sitting at a table taking a drink with some of his fellow Senators; but he wanted the immorality of the back room stopped, and he believed the Bishops' bill furnished the only reasonable remedy.

Senator Avis said he had no objection to striking out from the amend*ment the back room entrance.* Senator Loe suggested that two-thirds of the partition between the rooms should be taken away, so that the view would be absolutely unobstructed. Avis then offered an amendment which cut off the back or side room and provided for the entire interior of the bar or business room. This amendment was adopted, and then Amendment No. 11, as so amended, passed by a vote of 10 to 5.

Amendment No. 12, providing that the Court of Common Pleas shall appoint excise boards where they are now appointed by the Mayor or governing body, came up next. Avis had it amended at the start so as to have it take effect on July 4. Minturn thought the act might be made unconstitutional by the adoption of the amendment, and Colby did not believe the judiciary should be dragged into the excise business. But the amendment was adopted by a viva voce vote.

Colby offered an amendment, which was adopted, adding the word "village" to the bill. This was to cover some cases where incorporated villages exist.

The Bishops' bill, as amended, then went to second reading. Minturn offered an amendment providing that saloons could be open afternoons on Sundays in cities of the first and second classes. He said the German and Irish elements in the big cities wanted their drink every day. It was not fair to keep the poor man from his beer.

"If the Senator from Essex and I want a bottle on Sunday we can order it up at home and it comes up," said Minturn. "The poor man can't do that. He has to go to a saloon."

Minturn's was the solitary support of the amendment when a vote was taken. He then offered an amendment that no license to keep an inn or a tavern shall be granted to any person who is not a citizen of the United States and who has been a resident of the city, town or township wherein said inn or tavern exists for at least one year. This passed unanimously.

The measure was then ordered printed and to have a third reading. The bill will probably come up on final passage when the Senatorial investigation is over.

Mrs. Winfield Decker, of West End avenue, has been detained at home with the grip.

68TH ANNUAL SESSION

Seventh-day Baptist Congregation Hears Reports of Church Growth.

OFFICERS ARE CHOSEN

Announcement of a Pamphlet On History of Denomination—

Mr. Spicer's Interesting Talk.

The sixty-eighth annual meeting of the Seventh-day Baptist church was held Sunday afternoon and evening, with Frank J. Hubbard as moderator. The afternoon session opened with devotional exercises conducted by the pastor, Rev. George B. Shaw. Then followed the routine business from 4 until 6 o'clock. Reports were presented by the trustees, of whom Dr. Henry M. Maxson is secretary and William M. Stillman treasurer.

A feature of the treasurer's report was its statement as to the removal of the cemetery from Cedar Brook, and the reinterment of the bodies in Hillside cemetery, thus preparing the site for the new High School building. The work covers five years' time. The report stated that this prolonged and difficult task had been successfully accomplished under the direction of the trustees, Frank J. Hubbard being their representative and having all the details in hand.

The following officers were elected: Trustees, Joseph A. Hubbard, to succeed himself for a term of five years; George E. Stillman for four years, to complete the unexpired term of J. P. Hubbard; clerk, Asa F. Randolph; assistant treasurer, G. E. Stillman; auditors, C. H. Dunham and A. L. Titsworth; chorister, David E. Titsworth; organist, Jessie M. Utter; ushers, Arthur J. Spicer, chairman; Rollin Williams, George Clarke, Charles Neagle, George L. Babcock, Wendell Mosher, James Pope, Milton St. John.

Rev. G. B. Shaw reported the completion of a booklet entitled "The Sabbath and Seventh-day Baptists," for distribution among the members of the church and their friends. This booklet is an expose of the belief of seventh-day Baptists and tells briefly the history of the Sabbath and Seventh-day Baptists since a very early time. Communications were read and various questions discussed relative to the work of the church for the coming year. After prayer by Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis, the meeting adjourned to the parlors, where supper was served and a social and fel*lowship hour was enjoyed.*

At 8 o'clock encouraging reports from the various departments of church work were presented by Rev. G. B. Shaw, pastor; Orra S. Rogers, superintendent of the Sabbath school; Mrs. A. T. Maxson, secretary of the Ladies' Society for Christian Work; Miss Bertha Mitchell, secre*tary of the Christian Endeavor So*ciety. These reports showed permanent progress in all departments of church work, and by the different organizations of the church. They promise similar results for the coming year.

For the many years J. D. Spicer served as church clerk, and as this occasion was the fortieth anniversary of his presence at the annual church meeting, Mr. Spicer gave some interesting reminiscences of the many changes that occurred during that *period. This included names of six*teen men who were prominent workers in the church forty years ago, but one of whom, J. A. Hubbard, is still living. At that time the membership was one-half the present membership, and but twenty of those members are now living. The services of the church were then held in the meeting place of the Park Avenue Baptist church, now Reform Hall, the Seventh-day Baptist church having been sold to the railroad company because of changes in the laying of the track in that part of the city.

A feature of the evening was the roll call of church members. Of the ninety-two responses given, eighty-two were from those present, and ten were read from absent ones, including members in Kansas, Illinois, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Florida and Holland.

Prof. John B. Cottrell was elected moderator of the next annual meeting. The session closed with the singing of "Coronation."

Miss Tennyson's Birthday.

A surprise party was tendered to Miss Corinne Tennyson, of East Fifth street, on Saturday evening, in honor of the fourteenth anniversary of her birthday. The affair was arranged by Miss Mabel Cook and Miss Caroline Lambert, and the usual good time playing games, together with vocal and instrumental music was had from 8 to 10 o'clock. Those present were the Misses Mabel Cook, Jessie Clawson, Ethel Searing, Helen Woolley, Helen Ryder, Eleanor Reid, Marjorie Acker, Ethel Pope, Caroline Lambert, May Chamberlain and Miriam Hall.

Special Lenten Service.

A special Lenten musical service will be given at the First Baptist church on Thursday evening, April 12. The choir will render the sacred cantata by Mr. Dubois entitled "The Seven Last Words," and other appropriate music. The Schill string quartette will assist in the service.

SUBJECTS FOR PRIZE COMPOSITIONS ISSUED

WIDE RANGE OF THEMES OFFERED TO P. H. S. PUPILS THIS YEAR.

Prize compositions at the Plainfield High School will be due this year on Monday, April 30. As usual there are in the writing of these themes certain conditions. The composition must be signed in pencil and should contain from 800 to 1,200 words; names of books and periodicals consulted for reference should be given; use photographs, sketches and pictures, where possible; composition may be type written, if desired; compositions must be written on one side of paper only.

A large range of subjects has already been allowed the pupils but this year there is even a wider choice. With permission of teachers in charge of the English classes, a student may change the wording of the original subject to suit his treatment of the thing.

Following is the list of subjects: "Personal Experience," "A Child Crusader," "An Original Story," "The Five Talent Man," "Nature's Winter Wraps," "Faces Seen On Broadway," "An Annual Autobiography," "The World Without Friction," "How Plainfield Is Governed," "A Story of Personal Experience," "The Biography of An Ostrich Feather," "A Plan to Unify the Grounds of the High School and of the Park," "Miss Sally Squirrel Explains Boys and Girls," "The State's Rights Doctrine In 1906," "The Star That Would Not Shine," "The Survival of the Fittest," "The Decemvirs in Athens," "A Diary of Sixty Years," "The Battle of Trenton," "Wild Life War Home," "Modern Advertising," "An Original Poem," and "Wanted a Pocket."

Y. M. C. A. Musical Entertainment.

A musical entertainment will be presented under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. on Saturday night, April 21, by young people from the Ithaca Conservatory of Music, Ithaca, N. Y. An elocutionist will be on the bill. Entertainers from the Ithaca school gave an admirable entertainment at the Y. M. C. A. two years ago.

"Yaas," said Cholly Saphead, "I admit it takes me some time to make up my mind, but—"

"Naturally," interrupted Miss Peprey. "You must lose time trying to locate it."

"Beautify Your Home"

The Burr McIntosh Monthly

"Pictorial Perfection"

"THE MOST BEAUTIFUL MAGAZINE IN THE WORLD"

Ask your newsdealer for this superb magazine. If he does not handle it send us his name and address with your name and address and 25c. for sample copy. Regular price 35c. Mention this paper.

Burr Publishing Company
4 West 22d Street New York City

DIED.

KIRCH—On Tuesday, April 3, 1906, John P. D., only son of John D. and Mary A. Kirch, aged 35 years, 10 months, 14 days.

RUNYON—On Monday, April 2, 1906, Eugene, son of the late Randolph and Abbigal Runyon, aged 65 years.

WHITON—On Thursday, March 29, 1906, in the 87th year of her age, Mary Elizabeth Newton, widow of James Morris Whiton, of Boston.

CARTER—At his residence, Fanwood, N. J., on Wednesday, March 28, 1906, George F. T. Carter, son of Emelia C. Thomas and the late James B. Carter.

JOHNSON—On Sunday, April 1, 1906, Emma S., wife of Alfred C. Johnson.

BALL—On Monday, April 2, 1906, Frederick O. Ball, Jr., son of Frederick O. and Cornelia M. Ball, aged 1 year.

LYNCH—On Saturday, March 31, 1906, Elizabeth F., wife of John C. Lynch, aged 24 years.

WHEELER—On Tuesday, March 27, 1906, Dorothy Wilma, infant daughter of Elmer P. and Bessie B. Wheeler, aged 1 year and 6 months.

SCHENCK—At Dunellen, N. J., March 27, 1906, Henry Hunt Schenck.

TYGARD—On Monday, March 26, 1906, Sarah A., daughter of James W. and Elizabeth A. Tygard, aged 16 years, 5 months, 24 days.

TILBY—On Tuesday, March 27, 1906, Elizabeth A., wife of James Tilby.

TYLER—On Tuesday, March 27, 1906, Arthur Wellington Tyler, son of the late Wellington Hart, and Caroline C. Tyler, of Pittsfield Institute, Mass., in his 65th year.

Sanitary Plumbing

Brick and Portable Furnace

Gas Fitting, Tin Roofing,

Etc., Etc., Etc.

I am prepared to do any of the above branches in strictly first-class sanitary and workmanship manner.

Having associated myself with the Master Members Association of New York City, I employ none but first-class mechanics and non-union men. I believe in every man running his own business, at all times and in cases.

D. W. LITTELL,

No. 112 North Ave., Plainfield, N. J.

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE

PATENTS

TRADE MARKS DESIGNS COPYRIGHTS &c.

Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. HANDBOOK on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents. Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the Scientific American.

A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.

MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

NEW IN EVERY DETAIL!

My new barber shop at

143 NORTH AVE.

is now open ready for business. All the latest appointments in the tonsoria line.

EDWIN B. MAYNARD.

CARNEY BROS.,

MADISON AVENUE,

Between Front and Second streets

Tinners,

Plumbers

Gas Fitters,

Grates and bricks for all kinds of stoves can be found here at Jobbers' prices. Bring your tinware mending to us. The best tinners, the best plumbers, and the best gas-fitters in this section. We use none but the very best of materials, and our work always gives satisfaction. Keys of all kinds are made here. Tinware made to order. Ranges, brick and portable furnaces. Sanitary plumbing.

DIME

Savings Institution,

Of Plainfield, N. J.,

Is now receiving deposits with interest, allowed on all sums from $5 to $3,000.

J. Frank Hubbard, President.
Wm. F. Arnold, } Vice-Pres
Jeremiah Manning, }
J. C. Pope, Sec'y and Treas.

Money deposited on or before January tenth will draw interest from the first.

Guaranteed Salary $900 YEARLY.

Men and women of good address to represent us, some to travel appointing agents. Others for local work looking after our interests. $900 salary guaranteed yearly; extra commissions and expenses, rapid advancement, old established house. Grand chance for active man or woman to secure pleasant, permanent position, liberal income and future. New, brilliant lines. Write quick.

STAFFORD PRESS,
23 Church St., New Haven, Conn

W. R. CODDINGTON,

Counsellor-at-Law

Commissioner of Deeds, Master-in-Chancery, Notary Public. Offices Corner of Park avenue and Second street.

ALBERT HEDDEN

Livery & Boarding Stables

FOURTH ST.,

between Watchung and Park avenues. First-class Livery. Horses boarded by week or month. Telephone call No. 114.

Wm. A. Woodruff

Fire and Life

INSURANCE AGENT

OFFICE,

corner Front St. and Par k

Woolston & Buckle,

PAINTERS.

Wall Papers, Painters' Supplies

141-145 North avenu

TREES ARE ENDANGERED

Mr. Powell Says Unless Something is Done Plainfield's Attraction Will Be Destroyed.

THE ENEMIES AT WORK

250,000 Varieties of Insects at Work —Description of Them and Their Destructive Work.

"Plainfield Trees, Their Care and Roses," was the subject of an unusually interesting talk given by George T. Powell, of this city, before the Men's Association of Trinity Reformed church, Thursday. It was "ladies' night" and a large number of women were present and enjoyed the talk fully as much as the men. One of the statements made by Mr. Powell was that unless speedy action is taken in Plainfield certain valuable shade and fruit trees will be practically extinct within a few years. He strongly recommended municipal action along the right lines.

In part Mr. Powell spoke as follows:

"We don't realize the value of trees to our pleasureand comfort. If it were not for trees human existence would be impossible. They equalize the conditions of the atmosphere and absorb the deleterious substances. Each time we take a train we ride over some rails laid on the product of the trees and the enormous consumption of wood in this way makes us wonder where railroad companies will get their future supply. Wooden ties must be used, as we have demonstrated that steel cannot be use for this purpose. Then in the building of houses enormous quantities of wood are required. The beauty of the trees, the pleasure we get in trees themselves covered with foliage, with their rugged outline of form, resisting the heavy storms presents a great lesson for us.

"It is important to know how to care for trees. There are many enemies to them, it being estimated that there are 250 varieties of insects, and it is said that the apple tree is preyed upon by the entire number. The early spring fruit trees and the Mountain Ash are especially subject to the 'web scale,' which works very fast and soon destroys the trees. The 'fall web worm' gets in its work before the trees bud.

"We have been spraying in Plainfield the past winter for the San Jose scale, and I want to say that unless active methods are adopted at once certain types of trees will pass out of existence. This work should be done by the municipality. The 'Japan Quince,' a very brilliant blossoming tree here, is going fast because of these insects. The San Jose scale is so minute that it is almost impossible to detect it until its deadly work is done. One pair of these scales allowed to remain undisturbed from now until September next would be the progenitors of three billion scales. Entire orchards are swept away by this scale.

Mr. Powell then described the rose scale which does not multiply so rapidly, and the oyster shell bark scale which attacks maple and ash arees. He said that a composition of salt, sulphur and lime had been used with good effect against these scales, but was troublesome to handle. Last winter Mr. Powell said he used effectively a composition called "Scalecide," and it was found that not a living insect remained after spraying.

Mr. Powell dwelt at some length on two of the most destructive moths known, the "Gypsy Moth" and the "Brown Tail Moth." He related how twenty years ago the "Gypsy Moth" was brought in this country by an artist who sought to cross it with the silk worm, but failed. One day a gust of wind carried these moths out of a window. Some were recovered, but others got away and multiplied very fast. This was in and near Boston. Massachusetts has expended $1,500,000 to rid the State of this moth and $600,000 will be used this year. It is not a flying moth, but is easily carried through the country in freight, automobiles and carriages. The "Brown Tail Moth" is equally destructive. The speaker remarked that while citizens are taxed to maintain its exceedingly fine fire department, the city should also take steps to protect its trees which are so hard to replace.

Mr. Powell also referred to the value of birds in destroying insects and he thought it was a mistake for the fruit growers and farmers to seek open seasons for the robin and other birds, where they are so helpful. He said that the fruit growers might better plant a few cherry trees of the early spring variety for the benefit of the robins and other birds and his experience has taught him that they will not bother the other kinds of fruit. He said that the wren has been driven away by the demolition of trees and the red squirrel has declined in this work. He deplored the wanton destruction of the toad and bull-frog, a valuable ally in destroying insects.

Referring to parasites, Mr. Powell said that one had been imported from China and is now doing good work in combatting the San Jose scale in California and the South. In conclusion Mr. Powell spoke of the cottony maple scale and the work accomplished here to get rid of it, and closed his remarks with helpful suggestions regarding roses and their care. He mentioned a number of varieties desirable to purchase being hardy and easy to care for . These included the "Alfred Colon," "Baroness Rothschild," Marshall de Wilder and the "Paul Nayron."

Charles M. Dolliver, president of the association, and Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck each thanked Mr. Powell for his interesting address.

A feature of the programme were selections before and after the talk by G. W. V. Moy's stringed orchestra. The numbers were well received.

WARREN TOWNSHIP LINES WERE WRONG

DISCOVERED CERTAIN PROPERTIES BELONG IN NORTH PLAINFIELD

Through a re-survey of township boundary lines, it has been discovered that several properties, paying considerable money in taxes, belong in North Plainfield township, instead of Warren. For thirty-five years, the township has been getting money that doesn't belong to it.

Up to thirty-five years ago North Plainfield township was part of Warren township. The division was decided on at that time, and William Drake and William Jones were put in charge of the work of separation. The line then ran from Sebring's Mill to a point at Thomas Rogers' farm at the corner of Somerset and Union counties.

For some time North Plainfield township suspected that the lines of separation were run wrong by the Drake-Jones surveyors, and recently it retained F. A. Dunham, of this city, to re-survey the boundaries. He has discovered that two valuable properties and part of two others, owned by Warren, are within the boundaries of North Plainfield.

The most interesting change of the four is the bringing of the famed Pedeflous resort into the group of Plainfields. That place, as well as the property on the south side and part of the Michael Williams farm in Washington Valley, and Burnett's farm on the road to Union Village.

Mr. Dunham's discovery has become known to the township residents, although he has not made an official report on it. Steps will be taken immediately after the report is made to correct the old state of affairs formally and legally.

MISS JENNIE M. SAXTON NOW MRS. H. H. APGAR.

Quiet Wedding at Home of Bride's Parents.

Miss Jennie M. Saxton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Newton H. Saxton, of West Eighth street, and Henry H. Apgar, of Watchung avenue, were married Thursday, at the home of the bride's parents. Only the nearest relatives of the bride and groom witnessed the ceremony which was performed by Rev. Dr. J. A. Chamblias, pastor of the First Baptist church, of which the bride is a member.

The ceremony took place at 6:30 o'clock in the library, which was profusely decorated with palms, ferns and cut flowers, the prevailing colors being green and white.

The bride wore a gown of champagne cloth over silk of a corresponding shade. After the ceremony supper was served in the dining room, which was decorated with ferns and pink carnations. The bride received a large collection of gifts from relatives and friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Apgar departed last night for a short southern trip and upon their return will reside at 1112 West Eighth street, in a home recently built and furnished by Mr. Apgar and which is his gift to the bride.

MILLIONAIRES HARMLESS.

So P. H. S. Debaters Argue, and They Win.

A debate was held at the new High School Thursday, when the question, "Resolved, That millionaires are more detrimental to a community than otherwise," was discussed in an earnest manner pro and con. The negative side, represented by Philip Leichtentritt and Miss Mary Kahn, won the debate on the ground that it cancled its points of argument further than the affirmative side, represented by Miss Ruth Bullock, Miss Julia Fitzgerald and Clarence Heaume. Miss Eighth was chairman, Principal Ira Travell the judge, and Miss Mary Jones the critic. A social hour followed.

On April 12 there will be another debate on the question, "Resolved, That a system of education is preferable for a government than a non-written one."

Church Trustees Will Meet.

The board of trustees of the Park Avenue Baptist church will hold its annual meeting April 11. Four trustees will be elected and the annual reports of the treasurer will be presented. The trustees whose terms expire are E. E. Hall, G. W. V. Moy, R. O. Treadwell and F. F. Ostrom.

Have Any Troubles?

People used to tell their troubles to a policeman. The custom now is to tell your troubles to the President of the United States.—Washington Star.

REPUDIATES A SLANDER

Insurance Paper Explains the Real Situation Concerning Fire Department Matters.

NO POLITICS IN IT

Two Journals Imposed Upon—Both Are Set Right—Letter From Councilman Mellick.

"The Council evidently deserves the thanks of underwriters in the stand it has taken," says The Spectator, a New York insurance paper, in repudiating a slanderous article on the Plainfield Common Council and fire department regarding the trouble over the second assistant chiefship. The article in question, first published by a Plainfield man, was published in that journal two weeks ago without having been verified and at once several prominent citizens laid the matter before the rate commission of the National Board of Underwriters, declaring that there was a sinister motive in getting the insurance paper to use it. Another insurance weekly, The Chronicle, published an almost identical article and its source has also been traced. Yesterday a reporter for the latter paper was informed that there was right side of the matter. "We were used for a good thing," said he after interviewing a half dozen men about town. That paper is also expected to correct itself this week.

The Spectator, after explaining the trouble in the Common Council over the mayor's nomination of a candidate for second assistant chief, publishes a letter from George P. Mellick, who as chairman of the councilmanic fire committee, gives a lucid account of the trouble and rightfully declares that the "condition of the Plainfield fire department is at its best at present."

Following is the article in yesterday's Spectator:

"In The Spectator of March 15 reference was made to conditions in the fire department at Plainfield, N. J., which seemed to threaten the protection at that point. A prominent and well-informed underwriter, a citizen of Plainfield, however, declares that the conditions are entirely satisfactory from an underwriting standpoint. The conflict between the Mayor and the city Council arose over the Mayor's appointment as second assistant chief of a man whom the Council did not consider entitled to the position. Certain members of the Council suggested the name of a captain next in line and entirely competent, but, as the Mayor, because, it is said, of a political debt, was still determined to appoint his original candidate, the Council decided to abolish the office of second assistant chief rather than have it occupied by a political appointee. This is said to be the first attempt ever made to put into the fire department administration at Plainfield, and it has failed. The Council evidently deserves the thanks of underwriters for the stand it has taken.

"We print below a letter received from one evidently in a position to know the facts, by this apparent unnecessary agitation, so far as it affects fire insurance circles.

"To the Editor of The Spectator:

"An article in your journal of March 15, entitled 'Plainfield, N. J., May Need Attention,' was inspired either by one unfamiliar with the facts, or one guilty of an intent to create a false impression in the minds of the National Board of Fire Underwriters, and so, if possible, injure the interests of the citizens of Plainfield.

"During January last the office of second assistant chief of Plainfield fire department became vacant by reason of the resignation of John W. Murray, for whom this office had practically been created many years ago, with the nominal salary of $100 per year. Mr. Murray was an old volunteer fireman . . . engaged in New York in business each day.

"The Mayor of Plainfield appointed a 'call man' to this office, and upon this appointment being referred, as is customary, to the committee on fire and buildings, it was discovered that the appointment was in fulfillment of a political promise by the Mayor having ignored the eligibility and worthiness of the senior captain of the paid department for the position, a man sixteen years in the service, favored by the chief of the department, and with others of the paid firemen, naturally believed he was entitled to promotion by reason of his long and faithful service.

"It is my opinion, and the opinion of many citizens and tax payers of our city, that the confirmation of the Mayor's appointee would have had a discouraging effect upon the paid firemen, and so affected the discipline and efficiency of the department. The abolishment of the office of second assistant chief is wise and prudent, rather than have the position filled by one not entitled to it and the honors given for political purposes.

"I can therefore assure your readers that the condition of the Plainfield fire department is at its best at the present time, and up to a high standard of efficiency, and the tax payers of our city are well satisfied with the action of the Common Council in abolishing the office referred to.

Respectfully,

"GEORGE P. MELLICK,
"Chairman, Fire and Buildings Committee, Plainfield, N. J.
"Plainfield, N. J., March 23, 1906."

FACTS ABOUT TELEPHONE THAT ARE STARTLING

SYSTEM IN AMERICA GREATER THAN EUROPE AND GREAT BRITAIN COMBINED

Frederick P. Fish in his annual report as president of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company just issued shows that there were 2,528,715 Bell telephone stations in operation at the close of 1905, an increase of over half a million, or about 25 per cent. over the close of the previous year. The total mileage of wire in use for exchange and toll service was 6,042,518 miles, of which over a million and a quarter miles were added during the year. During the year the Bell companies spent for new construction in exchanges and toll lines $46,603,516 and for land and buildings $4,177,390, a total of over fifty million dollars as against $31,619,100 in 1904. During the year the Bell companies handled a total daily average of 13,911,000 connections or at the rate of about 4,479,500,000 a year, being 54 telephone calls for each man, woman and child in the United States.

At the present time there is in use in the system not less than 320,000,000 pounds of copper wire, 8,000,000 poles and 95,000,000 feet of underground conduit. About 80 per cent. of the exchange wire is in cables and 54 per cent. of the exchange wire is underground. The number of officers and employes has increased to 87,212.

The American Bell system of the United States now exceeds in number of subscribers, mileage of wire and the extent of traffic the telephone systems of Great Britain and the continental Europe combined. All the money received by the American Telephone and Telegraph Company through the sale of its securities, with the exception of that expended upon its own telephones and long distance lines, passes into the treasuries of the associated companies in exchange for their securities. In view of this the entire capitalization including funded and floating debt of all the companies, including the American Telephone and Telegraph Company is $334,524,243 and the average capitalization per station including the total cost of toll lines is $149, and excluding toll lines $105.

BASEBALL SCHEDULE FOR LEAL'S SCHOOL.

Good Material for Academy's Nine for Season.

The prospects for a winning baseball team this season at Leal's School are bright. Only four members of last year's team have left, Donnel, left field; Jewett, pitcher; Smith, first base, and Arthur Wills, second base. Captain Glenney, catcher; Howard, third base; Lyman, right field; Dallas, first base; Chapman, pitcher, and Brown, short stop, remain. There is some very good material for the outfield and as the infield is almost intact, a pitcher is about the only player lacking and Bergen is a promising candidate for this important position.

Thus far the following games have been scheduled as follows: April 7, Flemington H. S., at Flemington; April 4 and 16, Camp Bowser, at Plainfield; April 21, South Orange H. S., at South Orange; April 25, P. H. S., at Plainfield; April 28, league date; May 5, Montclair Military Academy, at Plainfield; May 12, Pingry School, at Elizabeth; May 16, P. H. S., at Plainfield; May 19, Morristown School, at Morristown; May 26, Newark Academy, at Plainfield.

FAVORS SHIP SUBSIDY.

E. P. Williams Gives His Views to Congressman.

Edward P. Williams, who is interested in the shipping bill now pending in Congress, has written a letter to Speaker Joseph Cannon, in which he says:

"Why should a Christian nation expend millions of dollars for war vessels (being only another form of protection) that produce nothing except expenses; and pretend that the United States Treasury is too poor to aid in the upbuilding of our interests, refusing to them the protection essential to competition with subsidized foreign shipping lines, while favoring foreign shipbuilders in neglecting to tax their product when engaged upon an American business with foreign countries?"

W. S. Angleman's Purchase.

One of the largest residential sales recorded this year in Plainfield has just been made by Armstrong Mulford, the real estate broker of North avenue, whereby he sold the entire property on Waynewood place, owned by the E. R. Clark estate, to Winfield S. Angleman. The property occupies the residence at West Front street and Waynewood place. This property extends from West Front street to the railroad a considerable distance and includes several fine residences. Years ago the property was occupied by the late E. R. Clark.

JAMES H. BRESLIN DIES IN NEW YORK

FIRST PROPRIETOR OF NETHERWOOD HOTEL EXPIRED TODAY.

James H. Breslin, the original proprietor of the Hotel Netherwood, in this city, and one of the most widely known hotel men in the country, died in his apartments in the Hotel walcott in New York Saturday. Mr. Breslin had been in ill health for a year, and had not been active in business affairs since he opened the Hotel Breslin, at Brodway and Twenty-ninth street, New York, a year ago. He was born in Waterford, N. Y., and was seventy-two years old.

For six weeks past Mr. Breslin's intimates have known that he was at death's door. He was hopeful, cheerful and good-natured to the end, taking pleasure in the visits of his friends and laughingly telling them that he was too young to think about dying.

His hotel activities were not confined to New York. At various times he was the owner of the Grand Union Hotel in Hoboken, the Netherwood in Plainfield, the Southern in St. Louis, part owner in the Auditorium, Chicago; the Edgemere, at Edgemere, L. I., and at one time owned and operated both the Manhattan Beanch, the Brighton Beach and the Oriental Hotels.

He was thirty years at the Gilsey House, and his fame and fortune grew out of his connection with that hostelry. He began his career as a bell boy.

TRADING ON NAME OF WORTHY CHARITY.

Benevolent Organization in New York to Issue Warning.

Plainfielders interested in charity here are warned against the "Sunshine League" and its two publications, "Sunshine" and "Sunshine Journal," as being unworthy of any support or assistance whatever. The Charity Organization of New York is about to issue a general warning to all important charitable societies in the United States against the fraudulency. It has been on the hunt for this society for over a year. Now it has evidence in hand and is prepared to move against Mrs. E. M. Tibbetts, "national president of the society," and her companion, Joseph W. Floridy, the organizer and brains of the graft.

This society has no connection whatever with the "International Sunshine Society," which is the recognized organization for this work. The "Sunshine League" pretends to maintain in seven large cities of the United States settlements, day nurseries and employment agencies for the children of the poor. Investigation proves these "settlements" to be mere "blinds."

There are many Plainfield people interested in the "International Sunshine Society," and they are urged to be careful and not allow themselves to become patrons of the bogus society.

A. O. U. W. VISITORS APPOINTED FOR YEAR.

Grand Master Workman Selects Two Plainfielders Among Number.

Grand Master Workman F. P. Fowle, of the Grand Lodge of New Jersey, has appointed as deputy grand master workmen, Harvey R. Thorn, of Central Lodge, No. 48, to visit Rahway Lodge, No. 25, and V. W. Nash, Sr., of Columbia Lodge, No. 58, to visit Park Lodge, No. 38, Freehold, No. 41; Upchurch Lodge, No. 50, and Earnest Lodge, No. 61.

The grand master workman and committee on finance have decided to offer bounties. To each individual member who proposes a candidate after the latter has been initiated and has paid three beneficiary fund assessments, a bounty of $5 will be given. A condition is made that a member thus secured must not be the result of a special deputy working under instructions of the grand master workman.

As an additional incentive the grand master workman will give a handsome gold lapel button to any member who secures five candidates for admission. This button will be given in addition to the regular bounty.

MRS. WHITON'S FUNERAL.

Simple Service Conducted by Rev. Charles L. Goodrich.

The funeral services of Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Whiton, widow of James Morris Whiton, of Boston, and mother of John M. Whiton, were held at 4 o'clock Friday afternoon from the residence of her son in Central avenue. There was a large attendance of relatives, friends and neighbors, who had known the aged woman for many years.

Rev. Charles L. Goodrich, pastor of the Congregational church, conducted the services. He offered an opening and closing prayer and read appropriate Scripture selections. There were no remarks or eulogy over the deceased. During the service a quartette comprising Mrs. Thomas MacDonald, Miss Jessie Haynes, Charles L. Lewis and Elmer D. Cutting, sang two selections.

The remains were taken to Boston today, where the interment will take place in the family burying plot.

BIBLE CLASS CONDUCTS OLD FASHIONED SOCIAL

HOPE CHAPEL WOMEN ALSO SURPRISED MRS. G. STUART SIMONS.

The Women's Bible Class at Hope chapel, taught by G. Stuart Simons, conducted a delightful class reception in the Sunday school rooms last Friday. It was attended by many of the older members of the congregation and in several respects was "an old-fashioned" affair, one in which formality is an unknown quantity and sociability reigns.

The programme was in two parts and was presented under the chairmanship of Mr. Simons. It was opened with a piano overture by Judge Runyon, who also sang, his hearers demanding it, two encores. Scotch selections were given by Miss Catherine Steele and Mrs. Simons and Mrs. L. R. Howard contributed vocal selections. After these an intermission of ten minutes was declared, so that everyone could shake hands with everyone else, and there were no strangers when seats were resumed.

The same artists appeared again and at the conclusion of the second part an address was made by Superintendent Henry C. Squires, of the Sunday school, who was given in one of his characteristic veins and led up to the presentation of a handsome chair to Mrs. Simons. It came as a complete surprise to the recipient, but she continued the jollity in expressing her thanks. She also received a handsome bouquet of flowers. Coffee and cake were served in conclusion.

The committee which arranged and had charge of the affair consisted of Mrs. William Jones, Mrs. J. J. Johnson, Mrs. Walter Bradford and Mrs. Donald McInnes.

UNWISE INVESTMENTS; NOT GAMBLING, THE CAUSE.

Moody's Explanation of Money Lost in Wall Street.

A great deal of information is given in the book, "The Art of Wall Street Investing," written by John Moody, of Cranford, and published by The Moody Corporation, 35 Nassau Thursday. It was designed as a help to counsel on the two axioms, first, that one's principal should be placed only where, so far as can be told, it is absolutely secure, and, second, that as large a percentage of return as possible should be gained "without infringing the least disturbance or lessening the security of the principal." Mr. Moody gives careful instructions on general lines as to financial operations, emphasizing above all the necessity of knowing what any step may mean.

There are chapters on stocks and bonds, on the analyzing of railroad securities, on industrials and tractions and reorganizations and syndicates. Other divisions of the volume treatof "Safety and Security," "Invest vs. Speculation," "Get-Rich-Quick Schemes," "The New York Stock Exchange" and "Wall Street Phrases and Methods." The work distinctly is one making for the conservation of means, and the author's words should be read with special attention by those who would not look upon a loss of funds so much as an annoyance as a hardship. Mr. Moody, who may be considered as speaking with authority, makes the rather surprising statement that it is a fact that a greater sum of money is annually lost in this county through unwise investment in Wall Street than through pure speculation, "Indeed," he remarks, "I would almost say that the losses incurred through 'unwise Wall Street investing' are easily tenfold the losses occasioned through mere speculation on the exchanges."

Freedom Castle's Work.

The initiatory team of Freedom Castle, Knights of the Golden Eagle, worked the first, or Pilgrim's degree, in amplified form at the second annual castle of instruction give nat Trenton Thursday night. It was conceded that the Plainfield team stands among the first in the State.

RECEPTION AND DANCE.

Guests of T. Astley Weaver and Walter Dealaman Enjoy Themselves.

T. Astley Weaver, of Grove street, and Walter M. Dealaman, of West front street, gave a delightful reception and dance at the former's home Thursday. It was attended by forty young people from the city and borough. During the evening an autograph contest and a silhouette contest afforded much amusement. Miss Margaret Hallock was the winner of the first named and was awarded a handsome Gibson picture. "Hearts Are Trumps." Prizes for the other, a stickpin and a jewel case, were won by Arthur Hazleton and Miss Ida Dealaman.

Music for the dancing was furnished by Naylor's orchestra and was enjoyed until after midnight.

The "Redskin" Coming Here.

Manager Counihan has booked William A. Brady's massive production of "The Redskin," the Indian play which recently completed a run at the Liberty theatre, New York. It will be shown here on April 19 with Edward Arden and the original cast complete.

Housecleaning.

The young woman who concluded last October to put her fall housecleaning off till spring has about decided now to put her spring housecleaning off till fall.—Somerville Journal.

RE-ELECT OLD OFFICERS

Presbyterial Home Mission Society Continues Them by Acclamation.

BUSINESSLIKE SESSION

Everything Moved In Rapid, Unruffled Way—Addresses Held Within Time-Limit In Deference to Trains.

Businesslike rapidity marked the closing session of the twenty-second annual meeting of the Presbyterial Society of the Elizabeth Presbytery at the Dunellen Presbyterian church Friday afternoon. Addresses were held within prescribed limits, reports were brief, and the programme went off with never a suggestion of stagnation or meandering. The delegates were on their way home by 4 o'clock. As a matter of fact, the shadow of the railroad train was across the whole session. The president coupled her announcement of the doxology and the benediction with the assurance that delegates "would have time to catch the 4:06 train."

Business was resumed after lunch, at 1:30 o'clock, when Miss Mary Harding, of Bridgeton, synodical secretary of Young People's work, opened a young people's conference in one of the parlors. The conference was attended by all the delegates interested in the work. The discussion, which lasted nearly an hour, touched on lines of work to be pursued during the new year: study classes, constant reports on the progress of the work in every part of the field and on the people engaged in it.

The second session of the main meeting opened at 2:15 o'clock, with a hymn and a Scripture reading, led by Mrs. Ira B. Wheeler. Mrs. Katherine Jones Bennett spoke on "Our Work Among the Foreigners," dwelling on the many people who come to this country without religious traditions or instructions, of the manifold dangers to which they were open religiously and morally, and of the importance and wide scope of the work to be done among them. It was a work for all to help, she said, women to interest herself in, she said. It was not one the responsibility for which could or should be passed off.

Mrs. W. E. Honeyman, of Plainfield, reported on the collection of money for the establishment of a girls' dormitory on the mission at Logen, O. U. Mrs. Honeyman, who is synodical president for home mission work, informed the society that it was $400 short of the $2,000 asked for. This balance, she felt sure, would be made up.

Miss Harding spoke on "Our Young People." She dilated on the importance of training the young people in home mission work. The object, she said, was twofold—the training of the young people themselves and the preparation of workers for the church. A special effort was to be made this year, she stated, to secure individual pledges from young people throughout the State. She urged the women to form classes where there were no young people's societies to work for their organization without delay.

The nominating committee recommended the re-election of the old officers, and the recommendation was adopted by acclamation. The officers are as follows: President, Mrs. Aug. S. Crane, Elizabeth; vice-presidents, Mrs. J. M. McNulty, Woodbridge; Mrs. I. C. Pierson, Plainfield; secretaries—Corresponding, Mrs. J. A. Franz, Elizabeth; recording, Miss A. M. Alward, Bethany College; young people's work, Mrs. Adrian Lyon, Perth Amboy; Freedmen, Miss E. S. Beale, Roselle; literature, Miss L. Van Derbeck, Lamington; treasurer, Mrs. H. H. Keron, Elizabeth.

In closing the session, Mrs. Crane thanked the Dunellen church for its entertainment of the delegates. The thanks were due. The Dunellen women served a lunch as delightful as it was bounteous. The committee who prepared it was made up of Mrs. C. B. Mattis, Mrs. M. R. Rarick, Mrs. Edward Pennock, Miss Clark, Miss Jennie Campbell, Mrs. William Dunham, Mrs. J. N. Apgar, Mrs. Josephine Dunham and Mrs. Renouf. The following young women formed a lively and attentive band of waitresses: Miss Josephine Dealaman, Miss Janie Churchill, Miss Sarah Brokaw, Miss Lillian Fedderman, Miss Milth Boice, Miss Emma Craig, Miss Mamie Schneider, Miss Eva Schneider, seven, and Marion Wise, Miss Edna Clum, Miss Edna Vail, Miss Catherine Cole and Miss Harris.

Plainfield was well represented at the meeting. The First Presbyterian church had a delegation of fourteen there, Crescent Avenue had five, Hope chapel had seven, and Warren, also fourteen. Warren was next to the banner delegation. Westfield church took the palm with a delegation of seventeen. Thirty churches in all were represented.

Next year's meeting of the society will be held at the First church, Rahway.

Lenten Musical.

A Lenten musical service will be held at the First Presbyterian church on Wednesday night, April 11, at 8 o'clock. Admission will be by ticket only and these can be obtained at the church tomorrow.

A Query.

If beauty's just skin deep,
We must confess
We'd like to know the depth
Of ugliness.

ACKERMAN'S ARGUMENTS

Taxing of Franchises Not an Equal Taxation Idea, He Reasons.

HIS EFFORTS FUTILE

To Consider Railroad Franchises As Property While Those of Other Corporations Are Not Is Wrong, He Declared.

The equal taxation bill introduced by Mr. Perkins was passed by the Senate March 27 and is now up to the Governor. The debate over the measure was a heated and prolonged one.

The first amendment to be taken up was one proposed by Senator Ackerman. The object of this amendment was to take out of the operation of the bill the taxing of the franchise. Senator Ackerman, in an able speech, contended that the franchise of railroads and canal companies should be separately taxed in a manner similar to that of other corporations, and that the present system, one-half of one per cent. was at the present time sufficient as a license tax or tax to do business, and that the question of the taxing of the franchise had nothing to do with the question of equal taxation, as equal taxation concerned itself solely with land and tangible personal property. His speech, which was the first made on the subject in the Senate, was listened to with the greatest interest by the Senate and the crowded galleries, and at its conclusion he was rapidly interrogated in regard to the matter by Senator Colby, Senator Hillery, Senator Wakelee, Senator Minturn and Senator Avis. Senator Ackerman ably held his own in the debate which followed.

In supporting his amendment Senator Ackerman said:

"The great difficulty with all schemes of taxation is to bring about uniformity and equality. The Supreme Court of the United States has said, 'Perfect uniformity and perfect equality of taxation in all its aspects in which the human mind can view it is a baseless dream.'

"It may be said that the State has for many years exercised this power of taxing railroad franchises, but the mere exercise of a power does not prove that it is equitable. For many years institutions of learning in New York State raised money by lotteries, for many years manufacturers of oil threw away material now discovered to be useful, for many years, with the approval of the courts, men and women were bought and sold as chattels. Mere power to do a thing does not prove that doing that thing is either right or equitable.

"The proper way to look at this question, when we are considering, not the constitutionality of a law already enacted, but the question whether such a law ought to be enacted, is to look at it from the standpoint of the great principles which underlie our civilization.

"Adam Smith's statement in his "Wealth of Nations," has become classic. It reads as follows: 'The subjects of every State ought to contribute to the support of government as, nearly as possible in proportion to their respective abilities; that is in proportion to the revenues they enjoy under the protection of the States. In the observation or neglect of this maxim consists what is called the equality or inequality of taxation.' He makes also a further statement which is as follows: 'Equality of burden necessarily involves:

"'I. Valuation by a uniform standard of value.

"'II. Assessment at a uniform rate.

"'III. Application of the valuation by uniform standard and assessment at uniform rate to all taxable property.'

"It ought to be perfectly plain, that to consider the franchise of a railroad as property either personal or real, while the franchise of other corporations are not so considered, is contrary to these fundamental principles; and to take into consideration in fixing valuation of the property of the railroad corporation any element which is omitted in the valuation of property in another corporation is discriminating against one and favoring the other, which absolutely destroys uniformity, so that it is not just and equal taxation.

"A railroad franchise can not be leased, but a franchise of a miscellaneous corporation can be leased. Yet a railroad franchise is treated as property and is so taxed, while a miscellaneous corporation franchise is treated as a license. The courts of this State have held that the six of one-tenth of one per cent. on miscellaneous corporations is merely a license tax or tax for authority to do business. But even if a railroad franchise can be legitimately styled property, it is a property with a limited ownership only. This is so because a miscellaneous corporation franchise can be leased, while a railroad franchise can not be leased.

"The ownership, therefore, of the so-called property of the franchise is a limited ownership only. Yet the same tax is exacted from this property of limited ownership as is exacted from property of non-limited ownership. Is this equitable, fair or just?

"It seems to me that this State, in saying that a railroad should pay on its franchise at the same rate and be assessed in same way as on its roadbed, is taking into consideration in fixing that rate and valuation elements which are not taken into consideration in fixing the valuation of the property of other organizations.

"It is generally understood that unless so declared by law a franchise tax is not a tax on property, but is imposed upon a corporation for the privilege of carrying on business in the State. But the mere privilege of carrying on business in a State is worthless, unless some man or group of men can go forward and exercise the powers granted. Lots of franchises go begging. And it is common experience that one man uses a franchise a little while and it is destroyed, another comes along and takes it up, and it becomes exceedingly valuable. A professor in a college just before the days of electric lights, showing his class a rough arc light which he had constructed, remarked that it had 'no pecuniary value.' But an Edison takes hold of it, procures a patent, puts his brains into the shape of a patent, puts his brains into it, and the electric light is worth millions. This is true of railroads; one set of men run a road and in a little while a receiver is appointed and there is nonbody to tax. Then another set takes hold, puts in brains, and the stockholders, widows and orphans some of them, begin to get an income. In other words, a tax on a franchise is a tax on brains, because the only thing that gives a franchise its value is somebody's brains.

"Under the law as it was before 1884, the railroads paid an annual tax of $713,000. Since that time they have paid an average of $1,400,000. Under the present bill, leaving out the franchise, and on an average rate of one and one-half per cent., they would pay $2,850,000, and on an average rate of two per cent., they would pay $3,800,000, which is more than the 10,065 other corporations pay to the State, as their tax is about $3,605,000.

"The present law, which, on the average, doubled the amount of tax raised from the railroads, has stood for twenty years. Leaving out the franchise, the present bill will again double the amount of tax.

"We want to put our names to a bill that will stand as long as the present law has stood."

Senator Bradley agreed with Senator Ackerman that the franchise should be taxed separately and argued for a taxation of franchises on a gross receipt basis at whatever rate might be deemed wise.

On a vote being taken, Senator Ackerman's amendment was declared lost.

The amendments proposed by Senator Colby, Senator Minturn and Senator Bradley, the president of the Senate, were also lost.

When the roll was called on the passage of the bill, Senator Ackerman arose and said that he should vote for the bill although he still believed in what he had advocated earlier in the day, and that he should continue to work for a separation of the taxing of the franchise from that of the land and the tangible personal property and that he believed the time would come when the separation would be made.

DOUBLE FUNERAL OVER FATHER AND SON

PRECEDED BURIAL OF EDWARD L. AND CURTIS ADAMS.

A double funeral service over the remains of Edward L. Adams and Curtis Adams, father and son, who died in the insane ward in East Second street last week within a few hours of each other, were held at the Christian church in Grove street Wednesday afternoon. There was a very large attendance of friends and neighbors. The caskets containing the remains were placed side by side in the church and were completely covered with floral tributes, including a pillow from Elizabeth Council, No. 181, Jr. O. U. A. M., of which the son was a member, and many cut flowers. The casket bearing the remains of the son was also draped with an American flag.

Rev. Phil A. Parsons, pastor of the church, conducted the services. After reading appropriate Scripture selections he spoke briefly of the lives of the deceased, dwelling on the fact that they both had unusual musical ability, being able to play on a number of different instruments.

Mr. Parsons stated that Edward L. Adams was a member of the Universalist church and was active always in its interests, in speaking of the son, he said that he was a member of the Presbyterian church and an active member of the Y. M. C. A. orchestra. The preacher also referred to the unusual sight of a double funeral, and said that probably not many present had ever witnessed one before.

During the service there were several vocal selections by Prof. J. E. Sturgis and a quarette comprising Prof. Sturgis, Mrs. John Manley, Rev. and Mrs. O. P. Spiegel. The quartette sang "Face to Face." "Lead, Kindly Light," and Prof. Sturgis sang "He Knows."

The interment took place in Hillside cemetery and the pall bearers were H. Pfaff, W. Beidler, A. L. Cordun, H. Garretson, A. D. Williams and H. Schade, of Elizabeth Council, No. 181, Jr. O. U. A. M., of Elizabeth.

VENERABLE WOMAN DEAD

Mrs. Mary E. Whiton, Descendant of John Alden, Dies at the Age of 97.

J. M. WHITON'S MOTHER

She Witnessed Lafayette's Reception In 1824 and the Laying of Bunker Hill Monument Corner-stone.

Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Whiton, widow of James Morris Whiton, of Boston, and mother of John M. Whiton, died at the home of her son in Central avenue Thursday. She was in her ninety-seventh year.

Mrs. Whiton was a descendant in the sixth generation from John Alden, of the Mayflower Pilgrims, her mother, Margaret Bass, being the great-great-granddaughter of his daughter Ruth, who in 1657 married John Bass, and settled in the part of Braintree afterward set off as Quincy, the home of the Adams family. Moses B. Bass, Mrs. Whiton's grandfather, and President John Adams were cousins. Born at Boston, September 26, 1809, she was the youngest child of Margaret Bass and Ebenezer Knowlton, whose first ancestor in this country was one of the early settlers of Ipswich, Mass., by whom his wife, Abraham Knowlton, was a lieutenant at Bunker Hill. His maternal grandfather, John Sprague, served in the expedition against Fort Ticonderoga in the war with France. In our Revolutionary period her family were active patriots. One of her uncles was on the Committee of Public Safety. Another was one of the Boston Tea Party, and on the same night with Paul Revere's famous ride to rouse the country against the British Expedition to Concord, he got past the British sentinels in front of Boston, on the same mission. He took with him his wife with her baby, instructing her to "pinch it and make it squeal" when stopped by the guard on the narrow neck then joining Boston to the mainland. During the British occupation of Boston, the house of Mrs. Whiton's grandfather was marked for destruction, with some others of the rebels, but was preserved by friends who had influence.

Mrs. Whiton received as good an education as the public schools of Boston then gave. When twelve years old, she won the prize for "superior scholarship," inscribed as the Town Medal for Females." The town did not become a city till the following year. The special commendation then bestowed on her for good penmanship, she never forfeited. In her extreme age her handwriting remained legible, quite undeteriorated by the demands of a large correspondence. Her reminiscences of these early days included some notable events, such as the coming in of a neighbor one evening in 1815, to announce the end of the war with England, so odious to Massachusetts people. Public executions were then in vogue and drew crowds. When a lot of pirates were to be conducted to the gallows on Boston Neck, she was taken to her aunt's house to see the death-procession pass. What was then deemed a salutary spectacle, the wretched criminals sitting in their coffins, made an ineffaceable dint on her childish memory. The visit of Lafayette to Boston in 1824, when the citizens removed the horses from his carriage and drew it themselves, and the enthusiasm of old Boston responded to the greetings of the people, she vividly remembered and described. She was present at the laying of the corner stone of Bunker Hill monument, and could repeat part of the address which Daniel Webster then delivered before the assembled survivors of the battle.

In 1832 she was married to James M. Whiton, then recently established in the wholesale dry goods business in Boston, a city then of about 60,000. The firm of Whiton & March became the first American agency for the famous thread of the Messrs. Coats of Paisley. It weathered all commercial panics, and continued nearly a quarter of a century till dissolved by the death of the junior partner. Of the seven children of this marriage, a daughter died in infancy, another, Mrs. Henry B. Opdyke, of Plainfield, is 1902. Five survive her, Dr. James M. Whiton, of New York; Mrs. Charles F. Washburn, of Worcester; Mrs. Wolcott Calkins, of Newton, Mass.; John M. Whiton, of Plainfield, N. J., and Mrs. Washington Choate, of Greenwich, Conn.

In 1857, a few weeks before the intended celebration of her silver wedding, Mrs. Whiton was suddenly widowed, like so many nowadays, her husband fell a victim to the strain of overwork in the financial interests of the Boston, Concord and Montreal Railroad, now incorporated in the Boston and Maine system. Shortly after this event she removed with her younger children to Worcester, Mass., and some years later to Brooklyn. Here she resided till 1887, when she was called to Plainfield upon the death of her daughter-in-law, Mrs. John M. Whiton, to take charge of her son's household, in which the remainder of her life was spent.

Mrs. Whiton was brought up in the Unitarian Church, of which her mother was a member. When Dr. Lyman Beecher came to Boston, she and her two sisters were attracted by his preaching, and the three joined his church in 1829. Thenceforward through her whole life, she was in the best sense of the term, an active member. Mothers' meetings in behalf of the religious training of children, early attracted her interest, and subsequently she became a zealous promoter of women's missionary societies. While residing in Brooklyn, she served as a deaconess of the Clinton Avenue Congregational church, and was one of the founders of the Old Men's Home in that city. As its treasurer until her removal to Plainfield, her accounts were deemed a model of the exactness that auditors approve. With her husband she became an early convert to the Anti-Slavery movement, and a helper of the then feebly supported work of the American Missionary Association among the emancipated negroes of Jamaica.

Mrs. Whiton was characteristically open-minded, as well as active-minded. From the time when Dr. Bushnell's epoch-making book on "Christian Nurture" appeared in 1846, then banned as heretical, her sympathies kept pace with progress in the theological progressives whom Bushnell led. She shared her husband's literary tastes, and as time released her from domestic cares, became increasingly fond of books. She entered with zest into the Chautauqua Reading Circle, and in her seventy-sixth year received the diploma awarded after examination on its prescribed course. Thus she kept in touch with the general advance of thought and knowledge in political movements also she took an interest till many months before her death as well to emulate. Though by no means a woman-suffragist, she always contended that every taxpayer, whether man or woman, should have a vote.

But among her varied interests her home was central. Here her hospitality was ceaseless. Its activity not limited to her children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren, with all of whom, especially on their birthdays, she maintained correspond*ence, overflowed towards others*—such as the City Hospital and the Seaside Home for Invalid Children. An active mind, co-operated with a cheerful temper and careful habits to prolong her years and her powers. She came of a long-lived stock; but since 1883 she has been the sole survivor of her family. After she had entered the nineties, she began to take interest in the newspaper accounts of persons who had reached the century mark and beyond, as of people whose good example she should emulate by the will to make as good a use of longevity as possible. Her recovery from the age of ninety-four from an attack of pneumonia revealed the surprising tenacity of her hold on life, which continued in remarkable vigor up to the end. March 26 symptoms of grip appeared. Seven days later, surrounded by her children, she lapsed peacefully into the final sleep.

BIRD COLLECTION FOR BOROUGH SCHOOL

VALUABLE HOWLETT SPECIMENS FIND A PERMANENT HOME.

The valuable collection of birds which was owned by the late Professor Howlett, of this city, has been secured by the Board of Education of North Plainfield. Within a few days it will be placed in the High School building on Somerset street.

This collection was formerly exhibited at the old Park & Shupp store, where it was admired by hundreds of people. A change in proprietorship at the store compelled its removal. It will now be placed where the pupils of the borough school and others interested will derive benefit from a study of the splendid specimens shown.

The collection is considered one of the best in the county. Beginners in the study of ornithology will find it an invaluable aid, and those far advanced in the science will be much interested in the varied display of feathered rarities. The ordinary sightseer will be almost as much interested in them as the student.

Improvements for Ball Players.

Jerome Leary, proprietor of the Hotel Iroquois, which will be the headquarters for the Plainfield Baseball Association team this summer, has started the work of installing a shower bath and making other improvements for the players. These will be completed in time for use by the Jersey City Club during its stay of a couple of weeks in town.

All For Hearst.

A. C. Pierdell, of Plainfield, comes out in a repudiation of the recent Hearst meeting in Newark. The "new Democracy" now consists of John Moody, chairman; "Shouter" Buchanan, secretary, and Allen Benney, rank and file.—Trenton True American.

Her Cooking.

Young Wife—How do you like my cooking? Don't you think I've begun well? Husband—Um—yes. I've often heard that well begun is half done.—Punch.

MOODY REPLY TO CRITICS

Cranford Reformer of Democracy Issues Letter Defining What Happened at Conference

HIS MIND AN OPEN BOOK

His Explanation Entitled "The Truth About the Democratic Conference"—No New Party.

In an open letter addressed to "those citizens of New Jersey who were invited to the Newark Conference on March 20, 1906, and to others who are interested," John Moody, president of the new Democratic State organization, tells what the caption of the letter declares to be "The Truth About the Democratic Conference."

After describing the work of the meeting, Mr. Moody dwells upon the charge of Franklin H. Halliday, that it was called in the interest of Wil*liam R. Hearst, and the part taken in* the movement by Arthur W. Milbury.

"As for the Milbury story," writes Mr. Moody, "Mr. Milbury did not come into the movement until it was well under way; he was on no committee at any time, and he is no more an agent of Mr. Hearst than Charles C. Black is. He is a close personal friend of Allan Benny, and a friend of Senator Minturn, as well as being a friend of mine, and a man of character, ability and refinement. He entertained Mr. Northrup and Mr. Goodrich on the evening of Thursday, March 15, together with myself and several others, and it was at this dinner that the general plans for the conference were so frankly discussed."

Mr. Moody takes occasion to deny that the organization was designed to be a new political party, and incidentally announces that in place of Archibald S. Alexander, of Hoboken, who declined to serve as treasurer, Charles H. Ingersoll, of South Orange, has been temporarily appointed.

The result of the conference, which was the formation of a State central committee, and the plans and work proposed for the upbuilding of the Democratic party in New Jersey, are set forth by Mr. Moody, who expresses the hope and intention that within one month this movement will be organized in all the counties of the State, and the enrolled members be able in many places to name candidates and frame county platforms, which will command the respect, as well as gain the votes, of a large number of earnest and sincere citizens of New Jersey."

Mr. Moody appeals to Democrats to unite in the effort to organize for "true Democracy.' He urges that "the first step for union is to admit sincerity in those of diverse views; the next step is to respect those diverse views; and the third step is to work in harmony to the greatest extent possible for the practical application of our different views. There is little difficulty in this. I am a free trader, but I can work with a sincere tariff reformer; I am a single taxer, but I can work with a fair less radical advocate of equal taxation; I am a believer in municipl ownership of all public utilites, but I can work heartily with a man who accepts only a portion of this programme, and we need not part company because of the further bridge that may some day separate us.

"The first step is to grant sincerity of purpose," the letter continues. "I grant it gladly to men like Mr. Black, Thomas A. Davis, William C. Nicoll and many others, who, it would seem, disagree with us utterly, and all we ask is, that we who are responsible for the launching of this movement, also be granted sincerity of purpose whenever and wherever we deserve it."

Mallen the Stevens Coach.

Centerfielder George Mallen, captain of the Westfield nine last year, who has just been signed by Manager Daab for the midfield bailiwick, will teach this season's Stevens' Institute nine how to play ball though young. He has been regularly signed as coach by the management of the Hoboken institution's combination.

Automobile Wrecks Buggy.

Unable to control his automobile, Max Schmidt, of Elm street, Morristown, ran into a buggy Friday night, in which were George Garrabrant and Oliver Kopp, of Boonton. Both men were thrown out of the wagon and painfully injured. Mr. Schmidt's machine wrecked the buggy and then ran over the wreckage two or three times. Mr. Schmidt took the men home.

Buying the Enemy's Ammunition.

The Candidate: "And you might send some eggs around to my hotel."

Village Elector: "Yes, sir. How many and your like?"

Candidate: "I—I think I'll take all you've got."—London Sketch.

Agreed.

Mrs. Nexdore: "I bought a new piece of music for my daughter to play and I guess she'll master it soon. She was trying all afternoon."

Miss Pepproy: "Indeed, she was; very!"—Philadelphia Press.

YOUNG FOLKS ADDRESSED BY TEMPERANCE WORKER

LOCAL LOYAL LEGION HEARS MISS ELIZABETH GORDON, OF CHICAGO.

Under the auspices of the local branch of the Loyal Temperance Legion, Miss Elizabeth Gordon, of Chicago, sister of Miss Anna Gordon, national secretary of the Legion, addressed a large audience of children and adults in the Sunday school room of the First Baptist church Wednesday afternoon. Miss Gordon is engaged as one of the national evangelists of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, and is now visiting various cities throughout the country in the interest of temperance.

The Loyal Temperance Legion, under the direction of Mrs. Alvah Ten Eyck, attended in a body and the first part of the meeting was devoted to its exercises, such as reciting the pledge, singing legion songs and taking other simple parts in the meeting.

Miss Gordon related several stories in an entertaining manner, all calculated to impress the children and older persons with the importance of being temperate. She also gave several demonstrations showing the power of alcohol. One of the most interesting of these was the lighting of a Welsbach lamp with the gases generated from the burning of a certain well known patent medicine. This was done to show the strength of alcohol in the preparation.

Miss Gordon told the little folks of the work being done in all parts of the country for the cause of temperance, and her talk was very helpful and instructive to all. Mrs. M. D. Tomlinson, county president of the W. C. T. U., occupied a seat on the platform and took part in the meeting.

ANNUAL MUSICALE AT CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH.

Programme Delights a Large Audience; Everybody Encored.

The third annual musicale of the Congregational church, Thursday night at the church, pleased a large audience. The programme was a delightful one, every number of which was its own ample excuse for being.

All the musical numbers were vocal. There were two quartettes, one composed of William Wadsworth, C. C. Gallup, jr., Edmund Skiff and Charles Barlow, the other of Mrs. Thomas McDonald, Miss Jessie Haynes, J. W. Sanford and B. F. Talamy. The latter is the regular church choir. Both rendered their numbers excellently. Mrs. McDonald, Miss Haynes and Mr. Talamy were the soloists. Miss Haynes and Mr. Sanford sang two duets.

The applause that rewarded the singers had nothing of a perfunctory character about it. Encores were insisted upon in every case.

Mary Grant Wadsworth, of New York, gave a series of child impersonations of unusual excellence. She has a high reputation in that field of entertainment, and more than sustained it. In pathos and humor she was equally strong. The applause lavished on her was enough for two ordinary entertainers.

The committee was composed of M. C. Van Arsdale, chairman; E. A. Weekes and Willard Wadsworth. The ushers were Harold Millar, Henry Barlow and Warren Wessemar.

Every Little Bit Helps.

"I'm doin' me best t' relieve th' unemploy'd is winter," said Meandering Mike.

"Wot are youse doin' for 'em?" asked his friend Dismal Dave.

"I'm trin' ov'ry day not to git work," answered Meandering Mike.—Chicago News.

At Home.

"That Mrs. Caddie seems to be at home wherever she may be."

"I saw her in a place yesterday where she appeared decidedly uneasy and restless."

"Where was that?"

"At home."

The Case with Him.

Mrs. Henpeck—They can't punish bigamy too severely. No one should have any sympathy for the man who takes one wife too many.

Mr. Henpeck—The idea, Maria! Do you think I should be sent to jail?

Queen Entertains Orchestra.

Queen Alexandra's skill as a pianist is well known, but it is interesting to learn that on one occasion she took part in a concerted piece for piano and orchestra. The queen, then Princess of Wales, was staying at the time with the Dowager Marchioness of Londonderry, and after the evening dinner, as she was trying over some music at the piano, she suddenly thought that to play something with orchestral accompaniment would be an uncommon experiment. No sooner said than done. The string band, which had been playing during the dinner, was hastily summoned to the drawing room and installed in the adjacent conservatory, and the astounded conductor was told the royal guest's wish. Then the queen, having selected the music, returned once more to the piano, and, to her own intense amusement, gave her hostess and guests an impromptu orchestral concert.—M. A. P.

"CLANSMAN'S" GREETING

Big Crowd Sees the Much-Heralded Play in a Rather Apathetic Manner.

COMPANY A GOOD ONE

Audience Pleased With the Production As a Drama But Sidestep Display of Racial Prejudice.

Peaceful and law-abiding citizens and the police department itself can now breathe easy, as the great production of "The Clansman," of which so much has been heard, has come and gone. It held the boards at the New Plainfield theatre Friday before one of the biggest crowds the house has ever contained. If there was any feeling engendered by the pictured inequality of the black man to the white it was unapparent. True, the sentiments expressed by the supposed negro haters on the stage frequently met with signs of approval and exclamations of "That's right" from parts of the audience, but that was all. Plainfield will go on just the same as it always has and in a short time everybody will forget that there was talk of "trouble" when Thomas Dixon's play was produced.

As a theatrical production "The Clansman" possesses distinctive merit, yet it can hardly be classed as anything more than a melodrama. Its author is a clever young man who has undertaken to show the American people what he thinks should be done with the African race on this continent. To those who accept his views it will always appeal strongly, but where the opposite side of the question is supported it will be dismissed from the mind as is any theatrical production intended only for amusement.

"The Clansman" presents exactly the opposite point of view to that of "Uncle Tom's Cabin." It indicates tha the negro may be a loyal dependent of the white man, but can never be his equal, and the bringing out of his ignorance and weakness makes a contrast that cannot be evaded. During the New York run Dixon attended the theatre every night and between the acts told the audience why the play was written and whey he believed the colored man should be "forever assimilated or deported." He considerately stayed away last night.

The company presenting the characters could hardly be improved upon. It was headed by Sydney Ayres, late star of "Shore Acres," while his support included Miss Aileen Goodwin, Ruth Hart, Austin Webb, Joseph Wheelock, Sr., and several others well known in the theatrical world. There is lots of good comedy in the play and most of it is furnished by Mrs. Charles G. Craig, who was seen here twice in "Marching Through Georgia," and DeWitt C. Jennings, both appearing as colored servants of the old school. The programme bore the name of Georgia Gillies, but she died in a New York hospital yesterday morning.

Of the five scenes necessary to depict the story, the most striking is the one where the cave of the Ku Klux Klan is shown. To this a cowering colored negro, who has caused the death of a little white girl, is brought for punishment, and his abject terror and cries for mercy are so truthfully portrayed by Joseph Woodburn that the audience is furnished shivers. All of the settings are heavy and are greatly enhanced by perfect lighting effects.

GAVE LIBERALLY TO HOME MISSION FUNDS.

Crescent Avenue Church Leads Others In Presbyterial Society.

The treasurer's report of the Presbyterial Society for Home Missions, which met in annual session at Dunellen Friday, shows the generous spirit of giving that governs the Crescent Avenue church. It gave to the various objects and funds of the society, $1,415 during the year. This included $800 on the salaries of two missionaries. The rich Westminster church, of Elizabeth, was second with about half the total of the Crescent Avenue.

The other Plainfield churches gave as follows: Hope chapel, $123; First church, $230; Warren chapel, $53.

A BIRTHDAY SURPRISE.

Friends of Charles J. McCarthy Help Him Celebrate His Natal Day.

Friends of Charles J. McCarthy, of Manson place, tendered him a surprise party in honor of his birthday, Thursday night. Dancing was the feature of the gathering, music being provided by Prof. Hankinson. It was continued until early yesterday morning with an intermission at midnight for supper. Mr. McCarthy received many handsome presents.

Among those in attendance were the Misses Kate Hoban, Kate Sloyan, Mary Cullivey, Julia Sloyan, Mary O'Donnell, Mary Kane, Lizzie Noon, Kate McCarthy and Anna Egan, Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. McCartay, Thomas Flattley, John J. Lennon, Patrick Cullivey, Michael Shea, William Burke, Frank Mackelbone and Patrick Sullivan.

Charles Sturtevant, of East Sixth street, has returned from a business trip to Boston.

ACTION ON WATER QUESTION URGED BY MR. TYLER

The Public Affairs Committee Chairman Intimated That Nothing Could be Done Until Fall.

IN COMMON COUNCIL

Whether People Want Municipal Water Plant Easy to Decide Says Mr. Tyler—Wants Vote Without Delay.

Believing that valuable time is being lost in Plainfield's opportunity to acquire a municipal system of water works, Councilman Tyler, at the April meeting of the Common Council, Monday, asked Chairman Buxton, of the committee on public affairs, what progress was being made in the matter. He said that there is now a law on the statute books determining a majority vote on such a question and correcting defects in a previous law and Corporation Counsel Marsh had informed him that the question could be voted on at a special election or at the general election.

Mr. Tyler said the sooner the people were given an opportunity to decide the question the better it would be for Plainfield, as the plant of the Plainfield Water Supply Company, in his opinion, is more valuable every day.

Mr. Buxton said that he had a talk with Corporation Counsel Marsh about a month ago, before the present bill became a law, and that he informed him then that nothing could be done. Now that there is a law giving Plainfield the right to vote on the question he said that his committee intended to act promptly, although he did not think that much could be done before September or October, as it was necessary that the people be thoroughly posted on the question before a vote is taken.

Mr. Tyler said that the question of the Common Council acquiring the local water plant is a tremendous undertaking, but that of getting a decision of the people as to whether they want a municipal system of water works is comparatively easy task and he thought the vote should be secured as early as possible. He said that it was necessary to advertise the election for seven days and other details could be arranged within a short time. Last year's Common Council thought the proposition a good thing and he thought that the present body would think likewise when it was thoroughly understood.

Mr. Tyler called the condition in Orange where the water company demanded more money for its plant than the appraised value. The Orange Common Council informed the company that it must sell at a true value or it would establish a water works of its own. As a result it sold its plant to Orange for $100,000 less than the appraised value.

The only difference he could see between a special and a general election was that of expenses and this he thought should not enter in the way of deciding the question.

Mr. Buxton promised to take the matter up soon and ascertain what can be done toward securing a vote on the question.

HUNDREDS OF MOURNERS AT MRS. LYNCH'S FUNERAL

MASS CONDUCTED BY SCHOOLMATE OF BEREAVED HUSBAND.

The funeral of Mrs. Elizabeth Lynch, wife of John C. Lynch, held in St. Mary's church, Tuesday, was one of the largest that has ever been conducted in the city. Hundreds of friends from Plainfield, Westfield and other places were in attendance and the body was followed to its last resting place in St. Mary's cemetery by so many mourners that the procession of carriages extended for blocks.

A mass of solemn requiem was said by Rev. Father Glennon, of the Church of the Holy Cross, Harrison, acting as celebrant; Rev. Father Bogan, deacon, and Rev. Father Delehanty, sub deacon. Father Glennon was a schoolmate of Mr. Lynch and officiated at his marriage ceremony. He is a former Plainfield boy and resided on Elizabeth street directly next to the Lynch residence. The floral tributes were numbered by scores and included a great many handsome set pieces. One of the most noticeable of the latter was contributed by the Fourth Degree of Watchung Council, Knights of Columbus, of which the bereaved husband is a member.

The pall bearers who bore the casket to the grave were John Powers, Frank Milligan and Michael Higgins, of this city, and Messrs. Fealy, English and Kenney, of Westfield.

Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Williams, of East Ninth street, are enjoying a trip in the West.

HACK REGULATIONS BEFORE THE COUNCIL

AMENDED ORDINANCE IS PASSED TO THIRD READING.

Amended ordinances regulating hacks and similar vehicles presented at the April meeting of the Common Council Monday by Mr. Montgomery, chairman of the license committee, were adopted on first and second reading, ordered advertised and engrossed.

These ordinances were read at the March meeting for information only, and in the meantime Corporation Counsel Marsh made a few changes of minor importance. Provisions are made for the display of license numbers on either side of the hack, not less than an inch and a half in length, and also on a button, not smaller than one and one-half inches in size, to be worn in the left lapel of the coat. A folder containing rates of fare must be placed in a pocket inside the carriage where it can easily be seen.

The fares are twenty-five cents for one passenger within the prescribed limits and fifty cents for two or three passengers from one place to the same destination. Outside these limits the rate is fifty cents for one passenger and twenty-five cents for each additional passenger. After 11 o'clock at night and before 5 o'clock in the morning the rates may be doubled. The ordinance also regulates the distance from the railroad stations and places of public amusement where hacks are allowed to stand, and hackmen are not permitted to solicit business at a less distance than fifteen feet from such places and they are not to act in a loud or boisterous manner.

ORGANIZING BRANCH OF PROTECTIVE LEGION

CANDIDATES NOW BEING SECURED BY THE PROMOTERS.

District Manager F. C. Meeker, of Paterson, is arranging to organize a local legion of the National Protective Legion in this city. He is being assisted by Mr. Gloak of Plainfield, New street, and others who have been connected with the order for a number of years. Already about twenty candidates have been secured and there are in addition eight or ten old members who will transfer to the new legion.

The objects of the organization, as set forth in the constitution, are: "To unite in fraternal bonds all acceptable persons, male or female, not less than eighteen years of age, of good character, reputable calling and without reference to creed, faith or politics.

"To improve the mental, moral, social and financial condition of its members, and to render timely aid in times of distress."

Also to establish and maintain a fund for the benefit of its members while living and for the protection of their families in the event of death. From this fund members may draw in case of sickness or accident; their beneficiaries are paid in event of death, and dividends are paid to all who have been members for five years. These dividends comprise the excess accumulations and profits of the order, and have never failed in the eleven years they have been paid to exceed the entire cost of membership.

The legion has nearly sixteen years of history behind it, and has assets of about $2,500,000 and has paid over $4,500,000 in benefits.

WANT GREEN BROOK CLEANED AND WIDENED.

Effort to Have Two Counties Assist in Defraying Expense.

Councilman Gloak at the Common Council meeting Monday introduced the question of cleaning out, widening and deepening Green brook to prevent an overflow of the banks in heavy rains. Mr. Gloak offered a resolution instructing the city clerk to communicate with the officials of Union and Somerset counties, with a view to seeing what they will do toward assisting these improvements between Scotch Plains and a point between Plainfield and North Plainfield in the western part of the city to be decided upon.

Mr. Gloak described the unsightly condition of the brook and the necessity for cleaning it out and widening and making it deeper, and thought that the officials of the two counties should be willing to assist in defraying the expense.

Office Staff's Annual Dinner.

The general office staff of the Millikin Brothers Company gave its annual dinner at the Arion, New York, Saturday night. Arthur A. Cannon, of Somerset street, was a member of the committee. The entertainment features were furnished by the Millikin Brothers, who are well known to Plainfielders.

BLISS PERRY'S LECTURES

"Thomas Carlyle" in the Afternoon; "Magazines Making" at Night.

BILLIONS IN "ADVS."

How the Publications With Big Circulations Make Small Fortunes For Their Owners—Methods of Building Circulation.

Under the guidance of Dr. Bliss Perry, editor of the Atlantic Monthly and professor of literature at Harvard University, the members of the Men's Club of Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church had a peep behind the scenes of the magazine makers, Monday night.

"Magazine Making" was the subject of a lecture delivered by Dr. Perry to the club, in which he showed how the magazines are made and distributed.

The speaker paid a high tribute to powerful influence of the popular magazine on important issues of the day. Taking his auditors into the business office, Dr. Perry disclosed the advertising rate card, on which the prosperity of all magazines is based. The general rate is one dollar a page for every thousand of circulation—$500 a page in a half million magazine, but in Ladies' Home Journal, Dr. Perry said, got $5,000 a page, or $1,000 a column. During the year a total of seven billion dollars was spent in the United States alone.

"There were two general ways of working up subscriptions. In the central and western States the old method of canvassing from house to house was used; in the East the premium was the fertilizer used to make the field fruitful. McClure's is the only magazine that holds to the door-way argument.

Incidentally Dr. Perry paid a great tribute to the worth and solidity of Youth's Companion, pioneer of clean family magazines. His audience remembered well how, forty years ago, he received his first jack-knife from Youth's Companion. That magazine was the great exponent of the premium method.

The responsibility of the editorial department was touched on at some length. Dr. Perry let some humorous sidelights on the sanctum. He read twelve "letters to the editor," each of which was full of delightful, if unconscious, humor.

The speaker last night was Dr. Perry's second in Plainfield during the day. He addressed the Monday Afternoon Club, at the Casino, on Thomas Carlyle, in the afternoon.

Dr. Perry said that he would endeavor to show the difference between the transient and abiding in Carlyle, and during the course of his remarks took occasion to refer to two or three strong traits about the great man of Carlyle. In the first instance, he said, he was a man of absolute sincerity, which is appreciated in these days when there are so many writers trying to get prominence through the magazine and newspaper. They write in the singular to attract attention and throughout their work there is to be noted a lack of sincerity.

In the second place, there was Carlyle's great regard for the value of the individual. He was always impressed with the fact that each individual counts and has a part to play no matter how weak he may be. Another point dwelt upon by Dr. Perry was that it was Carlyle's belief that the unseen world is the real world and that literature should be used as a vehicle for the communication of truth, which the speaker thought is as applicable to the twentieth century as in the early days.

Dr. Perry's conception of Carlyle was that Carlyle was built on a great plan, and that his work had been obscured. He agreed that he was unable to restrain his tongue from caustic judgment. The speaker referred to Carlyle's books, "Sartor Resartorus," "Heroes and Hero Worship," the "French Revolution," and spoke especially of the "New Letters," published in 1904. He also read extracts from some of these books and commented upon them.

He said that Carlyle had splendid human sympathy, but didn't have the patience and logic always to work out his ideas. He thought that a person to fully enjoy Carlyle's writing in the real spirit should read them in his language, which was peculiarly his own.

In closing Dr. Perry complimented the Monday Afternoon Club in its work and study of Carlyle.

Singing Societies Coming.

The Gesang and Turn Verein has received word that several of New Jersey's Saengerbund singing societies will attend the annual Easter ball to be held in Saengerbund Hall Monday night, April 16. Among them accepting invitations are the Arions from Newark, under the leadership of Leonard Lehmann, violinist Concordia, winner of all first prizes in State competitions; the Jersey City Liederkranz, the New Brunswick Aurora Society, and the Phoenix and Harmony societies of Newark.

Engagement Announced.

Miss Brouwer announces the engagement of her niece., Katharyn Mae Brouwer, of Dunellen, to Clarence L. Line, of Plainfield.

PETITIONS ARE PRESENTED

Sidewalks, Electric Lights and Sewer Among Things Requested at Common Council.

LIBRARY WANTS $5,100

Building Inspector Reports Granting 22 Permits—Street Commissioner Also Makes Monthly Statement.

The Highland Park Realty Company, which is developing property in the east end of the city, presented several petitions at the April meeting of the Common Council Monday night, asking for the proper street and sidewalk grade on Leland avenue between Front street and South avenue, and on Georges street; also asking for an extension of the sanitary sewer on East Second street, from Berckman street to Leland avenue; for sidewalks on Leland avenue, from Front street to North avenue, and the acceptance of East Second street from a point east of Nethergood avenue to Leland avenue. The petitions were referred to the street and sewer committee.

Similar activity is shown in the west end. J. D. Loiseau and others petitioned to have West Third street from Monroe avenue to the city line graded and lighted. It was cited in these petitions that during the past year twenty-five new houses have been built in that section of the city. These matters were referred to the street and sewer committee. C. C. Meeker and others asked for a hydrant at Hunter avenue and West Fourth street. The matter was referred to the fire committee.

E. Robinson & Co., of New York, communicated with the Common Council, informing the members that the firm had prepared an elaborate new atlas of Plainfield, and asked that a record subscription of it be made and that the city purchase several copies. The communication was referred to the proper committee.

Charles F. Debele and others petitioned for two electric lights, one at Rock and Dunellen avenues, and the other at the bridge over Greenbrook on Rock avenue. The matter was referred to the light committee.

The board of directors of the Plainfield Public Library and Reading Room informed the Common Council that the library tax of $5,100 for the coming year was $5,100, and asked that that amount be received from the taxes. The communication was referred to the finance committee.

At the request of Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., Mr. Hibbard offered a motion that according to the annual custom $100 be appropriated to the post for the observance of Memorial Day. The motion was adopted.

W. R. Cock, president of the board of governors of Muhlenberg Hospital, asked the Common Council to take up the matter of extending the sanitary sewer out Park avenue, so that the hospital may be connected with it. The matter will be considered by the street and sewer committee. The board of governors of the hospital also acknowledged the receipt of suggestions as to the establishment of a contagious disease ward and said that they would be followed out.

Building Inspector T. O. Doane reported that during the past month twenty-two permits were granted, and Street Commissioner Gavett reported that between November 1 and March 1 twenty-five sewer permits were granted.

Mr. Gloak stated that the bid of Newton B. Smalley for crushed stone and that of Andrew Roach for crosswalks, culverts and curbing were the lowest, and he moved that the contracts be awarded to them. The motion was adopted.

Mr. Hibbard moved that when the Common Council adjourned it be to meet on Wednesday night, April 11.

On a motion offered by Mr. Hibbard $100 was appropriated to purchase a typewriter for the city clerk. The money was appropriated a year ago, but the machine was not purchased at that time. It is needed now, hence the reappropriation of the money.

Mr. Hibbard offered another resolution, which was adopted, authorizing the city treasurer to transfer $2,500 from the general fund to the fire fund.

In new business, Mr. Gloak called up the ordinance providing for the laying out of a portion of Denmark road, and it was adopted on final reading.

On a motion by Mr. Mellick, of the fire committee, one two-way hydrant was ordered located on Rahway road opposite the entrance to the residence of Otto Arens, and one two-way half way between this point and Belvidere avenue. This action was in accordance with a petition from Howard J. Runyon and others. At the same time Mr. Mellick moved that the petition of Floyd Fuller and others for a hydrant at Union and Stelle avenues be tabled, the committee deciding that there is ample water for fire protection in that vicinity.

Benefit Dance for Thomas Fosbre.

The friends of Thomas Fosbre, of West Sixth street, who recently had a leg amputated at Muhlenberg Hospital, have arranged to give him a benefit dance. It will be held in Saengerbund Hall on May 11 and will be attended by several special features.

TO EXAMINE PUPILS TEETH

Board of Education Appoints Three Dentists as Inspectors.

MR. HERRING'S GIFTS

Presents Bas-Relief of Abraham Lincoln—Selecting Commencement Day Speaker.

The Board of Education, at its meeting Monday, granted the request of the New Jersey State Dental Society to introduce into the schools the inspection of children's teeth without expense to the board, and appointed as examiners Dr. William E. Stelle, Dr. O. B. Whitford and Dr. C. G. Davis.

For a number of years the board has appointed medical men to examine the pupils periodically as to eyesight, hearing, condition of throat and other physical characteristics. Whenever the examiners discovers any defect that needs attention, a notice is sent to the parents of the child calling attention to the matter and recommending that the family physician be at once consulted, the medical examiner doing nothing except to detect the need. It then rests with the parents to attend to the matter as they see fit. As a result of this examination many cases of defective eyesight and hearing and other physical handicaps unsuspected by the parents have been called to their attention, and the health and physical condition of many children improved.

The move taken by the board last night simply extends this examination to include teeth and appoints as inspectors specialists in that line of work who would more readily detect imperfections than the ordinary medical practitioner. The same method will be followed that is now used by the medical examiners. Pupils will be examined from time to time in such a way as not to interfere with school work, and if defects are discovered the parents will be notified of the same and recommended to consult the family dentist. *There will be no expense for the ex*amination to either the city or the parent, and it will not be compulsory in case any parent should object to it.

It is now generally recognized that decaying teeth affect the digestion and the general health of the child and that neglect of teeth in childhood may seriously affect the health of the man or woman. Also, offensive teeth and breath are a serious handicap to obtaining employment in many kinds of labor.

The Board received a communication from F. O. Herring, of Park avenue, in which he expressed his willingness to present the city schools with a bronze bas-relief of Abraham Lincoln to be placed in any one of the buildings. His offer was accepted with thanks and it will be added to the valuable collection at the High School.

WINNING TEAM LOOKS FOR THE BOWLING CUP

LEAGUE CONTEST DECIDED BUT WHERE IS THE TROPHY?

The local bowling league has ended, as expected of course, the winners of the championship being the Suburbans, of Fanwood. When the league started it was understood that the victors would be presented with a silver cup, rapturous in appearance and handsomely designed. But no cup has yet come forth and the victorious Suburbans are wondering when the mysterious *promoter will de*liver the trophy, so they can hang it up in a conspicuous place, which has been awaiting its reception since the windup of the season three weeks ago.

When the league started each club was supposed to "divvy" up equal parts of cash for a cup fund. Some clubs paid up and others did not, but the promoter said this didn't make any difference, as there would be a cup just the same, even if there wasn't enough in the sinking fund at the end of the season.

Several bowling alley proprietors are registering a kick about going to the expense of buying a cup as is understood that there is yet some alley claims that are not yet settled up. One of the bowlers said last night that some of the pins are refused to "come up" with their share of the alley expense and as a result a number of games were "chalked up." One bowling alley proprietor reports that he is anxiously awaiting the cup, of which sum represents two nights' bowling by a certain team. He is said to be willing to wait if there is any show of getting the "mazuma," but he protests about the unnecessary expense in buying cups.

Just how the entanglement will be unraveled is hard to conjecture, but one thing is certain, the Suburban Bowling Club, of Fanwood, wants the cup that is due it.

Mrs. Burbank and her son, George Burbank, of Staten Island, have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Winfield Decker, of West End avenue.

NEWARK PASTOR PREACHES

On "Son of Man" to a Congregation of Men.

MR. ANDREWS LEADS

Rev. Dr. James I. Vance Makes the Address—Y. M. C. A. Orchestra and Glee Club Furnish Music.

The second of the Y. M. C. A.'s meetings in the New Plainfield theatre was held Sunday afternoon before a gathering of men as large, if not larger, than on the previous Sunday. Practically every seat in the lower part of the house was taken and there were many in the balcony chairs.

Frederic H. Andrews was again in charge and led the singing, while special musical numbers were furnished by the association orchestra and the Lotus Glee Club. The latter rendered three pleasing selections and Whitney Frasee contributed a cornet solo while the offering was being taken.

The speaker of the day was Rev. James I. Vance, pastor of the North Reformed church, of Newark. His address was straightforward and simple, one of the kind that is easily followed and understood. His subject was "The Son of Man," and he sought to show his hearers that in adopting this name Jesus Christ revealed His divinity. If He had been an insignificant person He would surely have taken some high-sounding title, but instead He preferred the lowly. In this way He could accomplish His mission on earth and mingled among those who occupied humble stations without making them think He was better than they.

If Christ were on earth today, he said, He would mingle among men like themselves, wearing their garb and acting as one of them. But though He is not on earth in the flesh, He is everywhere in the spirit, always ready to accept those who wish to take Him in their hearts. He is to be the Judge of everyone, because *He has suffered as humans suf*fer and His judgment will be tempered with mercy.

At the close of his address there were many hands raised for prayer and after the service several men conferred with the speakers. Public meetings at the theatre, but those to be at the association rooms will be fully as interesting and all men are invited.

FIVE CLOSED SEASON WITH LOSING GAME

ORANGE QUINTET SCORES 25 TO PLAINFIELD'S 22.

The Y. M. C. A. basketball game team ended its season with a defeat Saturday night. The quintet made a game fight against the impending fate, but the Orange youths were too rapid for them. The score was 25 to 22.

Orange brought a bunch of rooters, including some fancy effects in spring hats and daintily-gloved applause machines. Plainfield rooters showed some feeling in the second half, over decisions made by Manager Metzdorf, of Orange, who acted as referee, so that, the closeness of the playing and everything considered, the wind-up of the season was one of the liveliest finales ever turned off at the local gym.

Both fives played fast and accurately. The first half ended 10 to 8 in Orange's favor. Plainfield quickened the pace in the second, but the visitors were in line all the time. Shorter made a great showing at the basket; his eagle eye was of the kind. Leary, Thompson and Smith made a good showing.

After the game the Orange forces were photographed on the floor. Then they were made welcome at an ice cream and cake fest, which marked the ending of the season.

Line-up and summary:

PLAINFIELD.		ORANGE.
Smith	right forward.	Hand
Thompson	left forward.	Shorter
Scull	centre.	Poeller
Leary	left guard.	Wright
Letson	right guard.	Patton

Goals from field—Smith, 2; Thompson, 1; Scull, 3; Leary, 3; Shorter, 3; Poeller, 3; Patton, 1. Goals from foul—Thompson, 4; Shorter, 11.

Referee—C. B. Morse, Plainfield; A. E. Metzdorf, Orange. Timer—John H. Doane. Scorers—Caldwell and Butts.

These "simple" gowns we read about,
That women think so nice
Are never half so simple as
The chumps who pay the price.

One Little Stone.

"What's the matter? Dead broke?"
"Well, to be exact, I'm stone broke."
"What's the difference?"
"I went broke buying a solitaire for my girl."

DAAB SELECTS HIS TEAM

Manager's Preparations For Season Told at Baseball Club Meeting.

WANT THE MONEY NOW

Six Games With Somerville Probable —Runyon in the Chair As President.

Further progress in preparation for the coming season was made at the meeting of the Plainfield Baseball Association held at the Hotel Iroquois, Saturday night. Encouraging reports were presented by the different committees.

President William N. Runyon was in the chair, and he presented a copy of the agreements to be printed on the certificates of stock to be issued this week. Each share represents a $5 contribution of non-assessable stock. If the association breaks even at the end of the season each shareholder will receive the money he put in.

The association authorized the issuance of the certificates and they will be ready for distribution in a few days. It is desired that as near as possible the money subscribed be collected by Saturday night when Mr. Daab will be present to close the deal with the association and perfect details.

A report was received from the committee on score cards and the association authorized the committee to go ahead and secure advertisements. It was decided to sell the score cards at the same price for five cents and to give each purchased a lead pencil. The batting order will be printed on the card the same as last season and it will be up-to-date in every respect.

Manager Daab announced his probable lineup for the Plainfield team, which is subject to such changes as may deem best for the interest of the game. This is the lineup:

O'Neil, catcher; Deegan, pitcher; "Phil." Smith, substitute pitcher; Henriques, first base; Brogan, second base; Curley, short stop; Leonard, third base; Mallen, center field; Bertwhistle, left field; De May, right field.

Mr. Daab has said that with the exception of the pitcher, the Plainfield team will be the same as the one which will play in Hoboken on Sunday and necessarily it will have to be a strong one. In using Deegan here, he will probably have to engage another pitcher for Sunday and it is likely that Waller may be secured. Every player in the lineup is well-known and it is believed that the team will do good.

It is probable that six games will be arranged with Somerville, three here and three at Somerville, and it is believed that this series will be one of the best of the season. It is also likely that some of these games will be played in connection with the one with the big race meet at the driving park on Fourth of July afternoon. It has been suggested that Somerville could play here in the morning and that Plainfield go to Somerville for the afternoon. If such an arrangement is agreed upon the association it will no doubt be fixed that way. Plainfield would be a drawing card at Somerville for the holiday afternoon, and the Somerset county boys would draw well here in the morning.

Each member of the committee of twenty appointed to secure subscriptions is asked to send the names of his subscribers to President Runyon at the earliest possible time so that the stock certificates can be filled out at once. The association adjourned to meet again on Saturday night at the same place.

JOSEPH W. BALLANTINE DIES IN A FLORIDA HOTEL.

Somerville Man, Former State Executive Committeeman, Dead.

Jos. W. Ballantine, of Somerville, aged seventy-six, a well known politician and business man of Somerset county, died Sunday at City Point, Fla., where he had gone for his health.

Mr. Ballantine was for a long time chairman of the Democratic State Executive Committee; was twice Mayor of Morristown, and twice surrogate of Morris county. In 1876 he became a member of the clothing firm of Colyer & Co., of Newark, and in 1878 established a branch clothing store and residence in Somerville.

Mr. Ballantine retired from politics a year ago, after he was defeated for the nomination for Congressman in his district. He was the senior member of the firm of Ballantine & Van Fleet, carriage makers, until a few months ago, when he retired from business.

He leaves a widow and four children. Mrs. Ballantine, who was in ill health, is reported to be in a critical condition at her hotel in Florida.

Clumsy.

"Our friend Dogrel admits that he sometimes has trouble wooing his muse."
"That's queer. Her feet are usually so clumsy I don't see how she could get away from him."

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

VOL. XXXVIII. PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, APRIL 12, 1906 NO 15.

"Support the Constitution, which is the Cement of the Union, as well in its Limitations as in its Authorities."—Madison.

CHURCH FREE FROM DEBT

Treasurer's Report at First Baptists' Annual Meeting Reveals Prosperity.

RAISED OVER $25,000

Alexander Gilbert and Alfred W. Day Named As Trustees—To Publish a Church Annual.

The most gratifying feature of the annual parish meeting at the First Baptist church last night was the statement of the treasurer, J. Herbert Case, that the church has practically met all claims and is entirely free from indebtedness, with a balance in the treasury that is almost sufficient to pay the few remaining claims.

This condition was the subject of a few congratulatory remarks on the part of L. V. F. Randolph, moderator of the meeting. He said that the report of the treasurer showed the cleanest and most satisfactory condition for many years, and he referred especially to the fact that $1,200 had been raised to pay off the standing indebtedness, which now practically clears the church of debt. Another gratifying feature spoken of by Mr. Randolph was that all of the reports show an upward teadency and a substantial gain. He urged that the members be prompt and liberal in their contributions.

In all departments the church has raised during the past year over $25,000. The report of the treasurer last night covering current expenses showed the receipts for the year, exclusive of benevolences and other items, to be $10,508.50, and the disbursements were $10,343.64, leaving a balance in that fund of $164.86.

In the selection of two trustees for three years to succeed Alexander Gilbert and Frank E. Kinsman, whose terms expire, Mr. Gilbert was re-elected and Alfred W. Day was chosen in place of Mr. Kinsman.

J. Herbert Case made a brief statement about the efforts of the Men's Club to increase the contributions to the church through the envelope system and said that the work is progressing.

E. L. Bonny suggested that the Board of Trustees have a church sign placed on the front of the edifice, thereby indicating the name of the church, the pastor's name and hours of service, and it is quite likely that the idea will be adopted. Harold Serrell also made a suggestion that the trustees give their attention to the stairs leading from the vestibule to the gallery. He said that owing to the peculiar wind to the stairs it is exceedingly difficult for persons to go either up or down. This matter will be looked into.

The question of publishing a church annual was introduced by Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, the pastor. He spoke of the advantage and need of publishing once a year a convenient size book containing the reports of all departments, the list of officers, committees and a complete directory of the members with correct addresses. He recommended that this be done, and by a unanimous vote the pastor and Clerk, O. B. Leonard were authorized to have such a book printed.

Another improvement suggested was that either water or electric power be employed to blow the organ. In this connection Mr. Kinsman said that he had information that would be beneficial to the trustees and that he would be glad to consult with them at any time about it. The suggestion was gladly received and some action will be taken within a short time.

DEFER BROOK ACTION.

Somerset Freeholders Get Communication from the City and File It.

A formal communication from City Clerk J. T. MacMurray, regarding the cleaning and deepening of Green brook from Scotch Plains to the city, was read at the meeting of the Somerset County Board of Freeholders yesterday. The letter was sent in accordance with a resolution passed by the Council at its last meeting in line with Councilman Gloak's suggestion that the freeholders of the two counties clean out the brook. The Somerset board placed the letter on file.

Staats Veghte asked the board for damages for a wagon broken on the road near the Bridgewater township farm. Action was deferred.

Contract for the Woodward bridge in Bernards was awarded to Curtis O. Dunster (masonry) at $4 a cubic yard and Dover Boiler Works (iron) at $117. John C. Cooper was awarded the contract for the Bender bridge in Warren at $5.75 a cubic yard for masonry.

A petition for a stone road in Franklin township was filed.

The building committee reported it had leased the old and new chapels of the First Reformed church for holding courts.

DINNER TENDERED TO BASKETBALL TEAM

Y.M.C.A. FIVE REWARDED IN LIVELY PLAYING BY PHYSICAL COMMITTEE.

As guests of the physical work committee, the members of the Y. M. C. A. basketball team were entertained at dinner last night. The feast was spread at the Old Homestead, Washington avenue, North Plainfield.

The team closed its season on March 31, and the dinner was arranged to mark the windup of the play. The team made a showing better than any Y. M. C. A. five had in years, and the committee felt some testimonial was due to it.

A fine dinner was spread and five of the eight men on the team enjoyed it. Harry Scull, Ned Leary, Fred Letson, Theodore Gavett and Christopher Utzinger were the players present. Ray Smith, Edward Neal and Harry Thompson were unable to attend. Dr. Browning, the manager; C. B. Morse, the referee; Dr. Norman Probasco, chairman of the physical work committee; Kenneth Robbie, who is acting-physical director, and President J. W. Gavett, who, as an ex-athlete, takes great interest in the physical work department, were also there.

Informal speeches were made by C. B. Morse, Mr. Gavett, Dr. Browning, Harry Scull, the team captain, and Dr. Probasco. The players blushed under sundry compliments.

The five, although it suffered a number of defeats toward the close of the season, was, as a matter of fact, one of the fastest quintettes the Y. M. C. A. has ever put out. They played the pick of the teams in the metropolitan district, and that they won the majority of their games indicates their true measure and not the bunched defeats of the tail-end of the schedule. They fought the losing games hard. The regular picked five was made up of Thompson and Smith, forwards; Scull, center; Leary and Letson, guards.

ASSEMBLYMAN FORDYCE JOINS THE COLBY RANKS

LAWYER SEEKS NOMINATION FOR STATE SENATOR ON ANTI-BOSS PLATFORM.

New Brunswick, April 11.—Alexander R. Fordyce, Jr., who served two terms in the Assembly, in 1904 and 1905, and was defeated for the nomination for a third term at the last Republican County Convention, has announced himself a candidate for the Republican Senatorial nomination next fall. He has declared himself on an anti-boss platform and has begun a Colby ymovement in Middlesex. He will be opposed by the regulars, who will doubtless renominate Senator Jackson. Fordyce is a graduate of Princeton in the class of 1896. He lives at Dayton, and is a lawyer, practicing in New York.

In his platform he says:

"I have been requested to indicate my position with reference to the Senatorial nomination next fall, and after due consideration I do state publicly that I shall be a candidate for that office and will make a campaign for the purpose of securing delegates to the Republican County Convention.

"In seeking this nomination it is my intention to appeal to the people direct, as I believe in government by the people and not by bosses; representation of and responsibility to the people, not of and to a boss.

"The boss, representing not the people, but special interests, dictating party nominations, placing public officers his puppets, usurps the sovereignty of the people and barters away their rights and liberties, to his own pecuniary profit.

"Bossism and graft, going hand in hand, have been undermining the very foundation of representative government in this commonwealth.

"I believe that the people, with the scales fallen from their eyes, with an awakening sense of present evils and dangers yet to come from these vampires, will repudiate and throw them off entirely.

"I have sustained to the best of my ability the confidence of my fellow citizens in this county placed in me during my term in the Assembly; and if nominated and elected to the Senate I shall keep their confidence unsullied, be their representative in fact as well as in name, and shall look only to the advancement of the interests of the people of this county and State."

Blazing Fat Burned Her Hands.

While attending some kitchen work at her home yesterday, Mrs. George W. Cole, of West Second street, threw a piece of fat in the range. It blazed up so suddenly the flames caught her hands and as a result both were severely burned. Today they are in bandages and are very painful.

JOHN MOODY QUITS AS PARTY CHAIRMAN

HE RESIGNS BECAUSE DEMOCRATS TURNED DOWN HIS RESOLUTION.

John Moody, of Cranford, who has been chairman of the Union County Democratic Committee for a long time, sent his resignation to the secretary of that body today.

The expounder of the single tax idea quit because the county committee refused to endorse his views in changing the Democratic platform, as expressed at the conference of reformers held in Newark, last year.

The committee met at Elizabeth a few nights ago and was engaged in a heated discussion regarding Mr. Moody's proposed changes. It was decided by a vote of twenty-two to three to reject his position.

Mr. Moody is chairman of the "True Democracy" of New Jersey, which includes the radical men of the party.

FORMER COMMISSIONER MARSHALL AT EL CANEY.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry W. Marshall Home After a Visit to the West Indies.

Browned by southern sunshine and enjoying the best of health, Mr. and Mrs. Harry W. Marshall, of Grant avenue, returned home, last night, after an enjoyable seven weeks' trip to the West Indies. They sailed originally for Jamaica and after spending a short time there continued on to Cuba, where much of the time was passed in going over the ground made familiar to Americans by the Spanish war. The sight-seeing included several of the battle grounds and a number of the larger cities.

They climbed San Juan hill, up which Roosevelt and his Rough Riders swept, viewed the trenches at El Caney and also visited Santiago and Havana and went through the historic Moro Castle. The return home was made by boat and was one of the pleasantest parts of the trip.

MR. DETWEILER'S FUNERAL.

Delegation of Fifty Local Elks Included in the Large Attendance.

The funeral of Daniel Detweiler was held at his late home on Carlton avenue, this morning, with a large gathering of relatives and friends in attendance. There was also a delegation of fifty members of Plainfield Lodge, No. 885, B. P. O. E., present, while the firm of V. Perrin & Co., of which Mr. Detweiler was general manager, was represented by the heads of the concern in New York, Chicago, Kansas City and Plainfield. The service was conducted by Rev. George A. Warner, rector of Holy Cross church. Two selections, "Nearer My God" and "Abide With Me," were sung by a quartette from the Elks, composed of George O. Stevens, E. E. Runyon, William N. Runyon and George Schoonmaker.

The floral tributes were very numerous and included set pieces from the Elks and the employes of the Perrin glove factory in this city.

The body was sent to New York to be interred in Mount Hope cemetery. Those who acted as pall bearers and accompanied the remains to their last resting place were H. C. Vanlandingham, A. D. Dudley and Hiram Lyte Texier, representing Plainfield lodge; Eugene C. Wile, A. L. de Willers, of New York, and H. Gontard, of Gloversville, representing the Perrin company.

DEATH OF CHARLES McCANN.

Well Known West End Resident Passes Away After Short Illness.

Charles McCann, for many years a well known and respected resident of the West End, died at his home on West Third street at 10:15 this morning. He was taken ill last Thursday with a light attack of the grip but it rapidly changed to acute erysipelas and his condition became alarming. Previous to last week he had enjoyed the best of health and his sudden demise was a great shock to relatives and friends.

Mr. McCann was sixty-two years old and for a long time after first making Plainfield his home was employed as a foreman on the New Jersey Central. For the past twenty years he had been with the Scott Paper Co., where he was greatly liked by the men. He leaves a widow and five children, the Misses Katherine and Julia McCann, Mrs. Allen Squier, Edward McCann and Charles F. McCann, all of this city.

The funeral arrangements have not yet been made, but it will be held at St. Mary's church, of which he was a communicant.

—The Compressed Air House Cleaning Co. will demonstrate at Trusell Inn, Thursday, April 12, at 2:30 p. m., their 20th century method of house cleaning. The public is cordially invited. ***

PLANNING COLBY MEETING

Judge Runyon to Confer With Other Members of Special Committee.

DISTRICT ORGANIZATION

League for Reform in Every Section of the County—Mr. MacMurray Has Nothing to Say.

Preliminary plans are now being made for the organization of the Colby movement in every district in Union county, it being intended to get things in shape to wage a campaign before summer sets in. It is said that three men will be agreed upon for Assemblymen, one of whom it is said will be the present incumbent, Everard K. Tucker, of Elizabeth.

Immediately following the meeting at Elizabeth, it is said that steps will be taken to effect an organization of some size in this city. It is known that there are many prominent men who have not taken any part in politics but who are in hearty sympathy with the movement and will identify themselves with the Colby movement. A canvas will be made of the city at an early date and recruits enrolled as speedily as possible.

Chairman Jones, of Saturday night's meeting, has appointed Judge W. N. Runyon, of this city; Mayor Ferber, of Rahway; R. B. Clissell and R. F. Tucker, both of Elizabeth, and Thomas Dubois, of Summit, as a committee to arrange for the big meeting to be held in Elizabeth on Saturday night, April 28.

Judge Runyon communicated with the members of the committee today to arrange for a meeting to perfect plans. He says that Mayor Mark M. Fagan, of Jersey City, will be invited to make the principal speech. Several men from Elizabeth and Plainfield, whose names have not been announced, will be sprung as surprises on the meeting as Colby men, and they will be asked to speak.

City Clerk MacMurray, who returned to town yesterday, had no comment to make on the loss of his chief political lieutenant, Judge Runyon, and the invasion of Colby yinto Union county. He said that he had not read anything about the meeting.

Andrew McCardell, in referring to the Colby movement, said: "We are all reformers. There isn't anybody in Plainfield but what is interested in the cause of good goverament. Personally, I wouldn't stand for corruption in office. Speaking for Plainfield, I know that we have an honest government here."

P. S. C.'s CERTIFICATES FOR ELECTRICAL WORK.

Arrangement with Underwriters as a Guarantee of Good Insurable Risk.

The Public Service Corporation has perfected arrangements with the Underwriters' Association of the Middle Department to furnish each customer using electricity in the company's territory with a certificate approving electrical work. Announcements of this were received by patrons of the company today.

This arrangement was made to avoid any question that might arise in connection with the insurance of the buildings or the contents therefor, and upon the prompt return of information as to the owner and occupant of the property, together with the address and total number of lights installed, the company will furnish a certificate without cost to the patron, providing that the returns are received not later than April 15.

C. B. Morse Honored.

C. B. Morse, of this city, has been elected secon l vice-president of the Technical Publicity Association. He represents the Ingersoll-Rand Co., whose magazine, Compressed Air, he formerly edited.

Annual Meeting Put Off.

Because of a lack of a quorum, a meeting of the annual meeting of the First Presbyterian church was put off for a week last night.

New Hospital Steward.

T. A. Weaver, of Company K, has been appointed hospital steward of the Second Regiment to succeed N. R. Titsworth, discharged. The latter did not re-enlist.

Sesame Club Meeting.

The next meeting of the Sesame Club will be held tomorrow morning at the residence of Mrs. Frank Howland, 772 Kensington avenue.

—For high grade olive oil the place to go is Neuman Brothers' store. A new lot of strictly good quality, direct from France, has just been received.

—The Union County Republican Committee met at Elizabeth last night, but owing to the small attendance very little business was transacted.

"CHRISTY" MATHEWSON CONFINED TO HIS BED

GIANTS GREAT TWIRLER SUFFERING WITH NASAL DIPHTHERIA.

"Christy" Mathewson, the star twirler of the New York Nationals, is still confined to his bed, the result of a heavy cold and nasal diptheria, with which he was attacked while on the southern training trip. "Matty" is under the care of Dr. Cregar, and is improving slowly. He will be unable to report for duty before next week. Southern training trips do not seem to benefit Mathewson very much. Last year he contracted a heavy cold while in the South and he was several weeks regaining his strength.

In the absence of Mathewson, McGraw will have to depend upon McGinnity, Wiltse, Taylor and Ferguson to do his twirling. The National League season will open tomorrow. The Giants will meet the Phillies in the Quaker City.

STOLE TWO BAGS OF POTATOES FROM HUCKSTER.

Newark Peddler Arrested on Plainfield Fellow's Complaint in State Metropolis.

John Southards was turned over to the local police by the Newark authorities yesterday to answer to a charge of theft preferred against him by George Kiersted, of this city. Southards was arrested in Newark, under a warrant sworn out before Justice Mosher last week.

Both principals are hucksters. Kiersted alleges that Southards entered his (Kiersted's) barn on East Fourth street, last Wednesday, and stole two bags of potatoes. A warrant was issued at once, but it was not until yesterday that the police of Newark, where Southards lives, were able to locate him. Southards will be arraigned before Justice Mosher this afternoon. The charge comes back from a peddling trip. Southards' picture was taken this morning for the Rogues Galley.

MONT PELEE ERUPTION.

Lecture on Volcano Disaster at Park Avenue Baptist Church Affair.

The Sunday school of the Park Avenue Baptist church held an entertainment last night. In spite of the wather there was a good attendance.

Wesley Brokaw lectured on the eruption of Mont Pelee, his talk being illustrated by lantern slides. Moving pictures and mechanical slides were shown. Mrs. Wesley Brokaw played violin solos and recited, and an informal social time was enjoyed.

The affair was arranged by the Sunday school social committee, made up of Miss Florence G. Hawkins, Mrs. W. S. Lowry and Miss Cora R. Brokaw.

APPLAUDED EASTER MUSIC.

Pupils Censured by Principal For Display of Enthusiasm.

The High School pupils rehearsed their Easter programme yesterday afternoon. When the chorus finished singing, the other pupils burst into applause. Some of them even cheered—the singing was so good.

Principal Ira W. Travell got up on the platform and looked with horror and disapproval at the school.

"Don't ever do that again," he said. "I am surprised. You must not applaud or show such signs of enjoyment at Easter music."

"Tony" Ross Released.

Because Henry Clearfield, of Westfield, who was the complainant, has disappeared, "Tony" Ross, an Italian, charged with assault and battery, and who has been detained in the Union county jail for seven months, was released today in $100 bail. Clearfield conducted an all-night lunch wagon at Westfield, and while on his way home late one night got mixed up with a gang of Italians, one of whom, supposed to be Ross, assaulted him.

In the Borough Court.

Michael Gleason, who was arrested in the borough early Sunday morning and who tried a fistic argument with Marshal Dooley, was fined $7 or seven days by Mayor Smalley, last night. He paid up and was released. George Cooper, also arrested Sunday morning, was let go on suspended sentence.

T. C. Aldrich Resting Easy.

Thomas C. Aldrich, of Grove street, who was taken seriously ill on Thursday, is reported as resting easy today, with a slight change for the better. Dr. Delafield, of New York, was called in consultation with the family physician this afternoon.

Hoodooed Lobbyists.

Thirteen South Plainfielders went to Trenton Monday to work for the advancement of the borough bill from committee to the floor of the Senate. They couldn't move it. Some of them are wondering if their number hoodooed them.

CITY BUDGET WILL BE BUT LITTLE LARGER

DEPARTMENTS WANTS MORE AND MAY GET UNIMPORTANT ADVANCES.

The finance committee of the Common Council held a late session last night preparing the annual tax ordinance which will be presented at the adjourned meeting tonight. As already stated in The Daily Press, the committee decided to wait on the final action of the Hillery maximum tax rate bill, which passed the House yesterday and is now ready for the Governor's signature, having previously passed the Senate. The bill as amended provides for a uniform maximum rate of $2, instead of $1.75, as originally intended.

In conversation with President Tolles, of the Common Council, last night, a reporter for The Daily Press was informed that there is not likely to be much change from last year's budget, although the total will probably be a little larger. The different departments want more money, and the committee will try to secure it for them. Mr. Tolles said he could not make a statement regarding the budget until it was presented to the Council, but he confirmed the report that all the departments wanted more money.

It is probable the tax rate may be put at $2.52 again unless a new State law compels a change.

FAVOR CITIES HOLDING OWN ELECTRIC PLANTS

IN SPECIAL MESSAGE GOVERNOR ADVOCATES PASSAGE OF LAW RELATIVE.

Governor Stokes yesterday sent a special message to the Legislature relative to the many bills concerning municipal ownership of public utility franchises, the diversity of their provisions and the general lack of uniformity in them.

The Governor recommends that before legislation of this kind be enacted the lawmakers shall agree upon some plan in order to avoid the confusion that generally arises in cases of this kind.

The Governor says that there have been introduced in the Legislature fourteen municipal lighting bills, some of which have passed and others are pending. He suggests that legislation on these lines should be carefully drafted, and municipalities should have expert boards entirely divorced from politics to supervise these enterprises. The Governor says that many attempts of the kind have failed because of lack of careful management.

The message goes on to say that those who desire municipal lighting expect from the Legislature a practical working scheme, and the people also look for a consistent, harmonious policy on the subject. The measures before the Legislature seem to be based on no well defined plan, being conflicting in their application.

The Governor says that he can hardly conceive that it was the legislative intent to have so many acts contradictory in their provisions simultaneously placed upon the statute books to result in the complete confusion of the law upon the subject.

Although many bills have passed only one has passed the Governor's hands and he feels that it would not be the part of wisdom for him to approve of morethan one on account of the discord of provisions.

Governor Stokes suggests that it not too late to devise some means of passing a complete, comprehensive and consistent law. He says the people will not be content with a law the title of which provides for municipal lighting, but the provisons of which are ineffective and impracticable.

MOTHER'S DEATH COMES SOON AFTER DAUGHTER'S.

Mrs. Mary F. Randolph Passed Away This Morning; Miss Alice Randolph Died Friday.

Mrs. Mary F. Randolph, widow of Daniel W. Randolph, died at her home on West Seventh street this morning, after an illness of several weeks with pneumonia. Her death was preceded by that of her daughter, Miss Alice F. Randolph, who passed away last Friday. She was in her eighty-third year and leaves one daughter, Mrs. Runk, who lived with her, and one son, Theodore Randolph, at one time in the shoe business on West Front street. She was a member of the First Baptist church and enjoyed a wide local acquaintance.

The funeral will be held at her late home Saturday afternoon at 2:30.

Health Bill Goes Through.

Assemblyman Barber got his public health bill, No. 488, through the Assembly yesterday. It is a supplement to the act to secure the purity of foods, beverages, confectionery, drugs, medicines, etc.

APPROVE PARADE IDEA

More Ministers Look With Favor of United Sunday-School's Demonstration.

WHAT CLERGYMEN SAY

Rev. C. L. Goodrich, Rev. L. R. Howard, Rev. Phil. A. Parsons and Others Give Their Views.

Further discussion of the idea of holding a Sunday school parade in Plainfield during the early spring or summer shows that the scheme meets with the approval of many persons prominently interested in Sunday school work. They believe that if conducted along right lines it would be an imposing demonstration.

As previously stated, there are about 5,000 children in the local Sunday schools, and it is said that a large majority would be willing to lend their efforts towards making the affair a success. It has also been proposed that several bands of music be engaged to play appropriate hymns which the children could sing, and other sacred music. It is believed that it would result in arousing a greater enthusiasm in Sunday school work.

Rev. Joseph O. McKelvey, pastor of Warren chapel, said today: "If the affair could be conducted successfully I believe it would be a good thing. I would favor it if conducted along right lines."

Rev. C. L. Goodrich, pastor of the Congregational church, said, when asked for his views: "I don't know how such affairs are planned and carried out, but I have heard that in Brooklyn the annual children's day parade is one of the greatest interest and one that both children and others look forward to. I think such a parade could be made a pleasing affair here provided the line of march was not too long, especially for the little ones who would be expected to take part."

Rev. L. R. Howard, pastor of Hope chapel, stated: "I see no reason why such a demonstration should not be brought to pass. It might be an interesting thing, but there would have to be a free and full discussion of ways and means."

"It's a splendid thing. We don't do enough along that line," was the comment of Rev. Phil A. Parsons, pastor of the First Church of Christ. "Such demonstrations can not fail to have a good effect. Personally I would like to see such a parade once a year and would do what I could to make it a success."

VERDICT AGAINST DENMAN.

Westfield Baseball Leader Fails to Appear to Defend Johnston Suit.

Judgment against Charles Denman, the Westfield baseball magnate, for the $25 George Johnston claimed to be due him on a loan made at one of the games last summer, was rendered by Justice Mosher this morning. Denman failed to put in an appearance at court, either personally or through counsel, and the action was purely formal.

Denman's comments on the suit when it was instituted indicated that he intended to contest it, and the plaintiff was surprised at the Westfield man's non-appearance. Execution will be issued. The verdict is in favor of Interest and costs. Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., represented Mr. Johnston.

Patronesses for Colonial Tea.

Under the auspices of the Continental Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, a colonial tea will be held at the Park Club on Tuesday afternoon, April 24. The patronesses are Mrs. Frederick H. Adams, Mrs. Barclay, Mrs. Charles E. Brooks, Miss Mary E. Brown, Mrs. Campbell, Mrs. Edward O. Chickering, Mrs. Rowland Cox, Mrs. Norman W. Currie, Miss Addie Dietrich, Mrs. M. E. Dwight, Mrs. Charles J. Fisk, Mrs. John G. Foster, Mrs. David Prescott Hall, Mrs. John F. Harmon, Mrs. A. V. D. Honeyman, Miss E. E. Kenyon, Mrs. Charles F. Leggett, Mrs. Charles W. McCutchen, Mrs. Henry McGee, Miss Sarah Manning, Miss Harriet Manning, Miss Mary A. Mellick, Mrs. Lawrence Meyers, Miss Susan E. Negus, Mrs. A. Stuart Patterson, Mrs. Rocap, Mrs. David Hall Rowland, Mrs. Harriett A. Schuyler, Mrs. Samuel W. Serrell, Mrs. Stephen R. Struthers, Mrs. Mason W. Tyler, Mrs. Philip V. R. Van Wyck, Jr.

Stevens to Settle Trouble.

The marital troubles of Mr. and Mrs. John Stevens, which threatened to come out in court Monday, when Mr. Stevens was arrested on his wife's complaint, will probably be settled in private. The case was to have been heard this morning, but when the judge called it in the city court, counsel for both sides informed him that they desired a month's adjournment. The postponement was granted.

S STER LODGES AT ODDS

Columbia Does Not Agree With Central's Protest to A.O.U.W. Grand Lodge.

MR. NASH EXPLAINS

Past Grand Master Workman Argues That State Order's Grand Lodge Was Compelled to Start Emergency Fund Assessment.

Columbia Lodge, No. 58, A. O. U. W., at its regular session Friday, received a communication from Central Lodge, No. 48, asking it to join in an appeal to the Grand Lodge protesting against the recent action in establishing an assessment fund, and the members of Columbia Lodge decided, after an animated discussion of the subject, that it is not in sympathy with its sister lodge, and voted to sustain the Grand Lodge's action.

This action was expressed in a resolution offered by Past Master Workman J. W. A. Bauersachs, which in substance is as follows:

"Feeling convinced that the best interests demand harmony and while not thoroughly in accord with the manner in which the Grand Lodge at its late session in Atlantic City created the emergency fund, at the same time, however, believing that the establishment of this fund is certain to result in better protection, and, if heartily endorsed by the members generally throughout the State, will establish justice and insure a more harmonious feeling among the members and provide a defense and future welfare of the beneficiaries of the members, that Columbia Lodge, No. 58, heartily endorses the action of the Grand Lodge in this matter and pledges its sincere support in carrying out the provisions and that the thanks of the lodge be extended to the special committee, Past Grand Master Workmen J. Alpheus Van Sant, John Enright and V. W. Nash, for its efforts and success in working out this desirable end."

During the evening Past Grand Master Workman V. W. Nash spoke at great length concerning the above matter, and he explained in detail it would be possible to raise a fund to provide for any emergency. He referred to the appeal taken by Central Lodge and said that a decision would probably be rebeived by June 1. In his opinion he thought that the Grand Master Workman as well as the Supreme Master Workman, would be very careful in deciding on the appeal, for there is too much at stake on the result.

He cited the fact that it is known that the laws of the order have been violated in Washington, Michigan and New York in raising money to meet death claims, and if the Supreme Lodge should decide against the action of the New Jersey Grand Lodge the right of the Grand Lodges in other States will be questioned at once, and if the support of the Grand Lodges in the various States is withdrawn it would be a serious blow to the Supreme Lodge.

Mr. Nash presented lots of figures to show how the different States provide for an emergency fund and then explained the new plan under which the New Jersey lodges are working. Other remarks were made by J. W. A. Bauersachs and W. A. Woodruff.

MEDICAL SOCIETY'S ANNUAL BANQUET

DR. CHARLES B. LUFBURROW CHOSEN PRESIDENT OF THE ORGANIZATION.

Dr. Charles B. Lufburrow was elected president of the Plainfield Medical Society Thursday. The election took place at the annual meeting in connection with the banquet at the Casino, which was attended by a representative gathering of medical practitioners of the city and borough.

The banquet itself was a delightful affair, the menu being fully in keeping with the Casino's reputation for excellent cuisine, and the dinner, cigars were passed around and informal speeches were made by a number of the guests. The principal discussion was furnished by Dr. Aspell, of New York, who read a paper on a topic of interest to medical men.

At the election, Dr. Fred Hughes was chosen vice-president, and Dr. F. C. Ard secretary and treasurer. The new officers took their seats at last night's banquet.

The members present were Drs. P. J. Zeglio, W. Kempton Browning, Marcus L. Clawson, Fred Hughes, Ellis W. Hedges, B. VanD. Hedges, W. H. Murray, J. W. Dundon, N. V. Currie, J. R. Carman and C. B. Crezar, of this city, and Dr. Aspell, of New York.

E. Ball Has Another Mishap.

Charles E. Ball, superintendent of the Prudential Insurance Company, who sprained his ankle several weeks ago and who has been laid up at home, made a trip to New York a few days ago, and in stepping off an elevated train again turned his ankle, and the injury is now worse than ever. Mr. Ball finds it almost impossible to walk and is obliged to ride back and forth to his office every day.

STOPPED BOXING BOUT TO RUSH CONSOLIDATION

Road Company's Manager Stormed but Chief of Police Was Obdurate.

SUPPORTED BY MAYOR TO CONSULT COUNCILS

Theatre Manager Counihan Told "Old Clothes Co." Man That the Bout Could Not Take Place and Scene Follows.

Acting under the anti-boxing law, Chief of Police Kiely prevented the appearance of Kid Sharkey and Danny Dougherty, professional pugilists, in a bout during the performance of "The Old Clothes Man" at the New Plainfield theatre Friday. A "go" between the fighters was billed as a feature of the show.

Chief Kiely saw Manager Counihan just before the show started. He wanted to know what the announcement of a bout meant.

"It will be a three-round purely scientific 'go,' in a club scene," he was told.

"I can't allow that," said the chief. "No sort of a bout is allowable under the law."

Mr. Counihan told the manager of the show. The latter was angry, and showed it.

"Who is in authority here," he demanded, dashing over to the chief with Mr. Counihan.

"I am," replied the chief promptly.

"Well, you won't have a chance to stop that act, see!" snapped the manager. "I won't put it on."

In the hope of straightening the matter out in some way that would save the management from the necessity of disappointing the people who had come to the house in the expectation of seeing the bout, Mr. Counihan stepped over to Mayor Buckle and asked him to come to the theatre office. The Mayor arrived in a few minutes, and was told what had happened.

He supported Chief Kiely. "I will not interfere with the police in this matter," he said finally.

That settled it. Manager Counihan announced from the stage that the principals in the bout would not appear, and they didn't.

The show manager insisted that he could have run the bout off with entire safety from the law had he desired. He contended that the fighters were present in the role of actors only.

"The manager's contention is wrong," said Chief Kiely this morning. "The scene was plainly a subterfuge, in the eyes of the law, to get a bout on the stage. The act was billed as an extra. The violation of the law took place in the announcements that I thought at first they were fakes to draw a crowd to the show. I didn't realize at the beginning of the billing that the management actually intended to show a boxing bout."

City Judge Runyon and Mayor Buckle stood beside the chief's desk as he made the statement, and they both agreed with him.

"There was no discernible connection between the plot of the show and the proposed bout," said the judge.

"It was very plainly a subterfuge to evade the law," agreed the Mayor.

PLANS FOR THE UNION GOOD FRIDAY SERVICE.

Pastors to Speak on the Words at the Cross.

In the arrangement for the union Good Friday service to be held at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church on Friday night, April 13, there has been a complete change in the programme from that of other years, when the local ministers spoke on the Seven Last Words on the Cross." The subject for this year's service will be "The Cross: the Words of the Beholders."

Rev. A. C. McCrea, of the First M. E. church, will be the first speaking, his subject being "The Word of the Soldiers." Rev. Erskine M. Rodman will speak on "The Word of Those Who Passed by and the Priests," and Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, of the First Baptist church, will speak on "The Word of the Repentant Thief." "The Word of the Centurian" is the fourth and last subject, upon which Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie will speak. In addition to the remarks there will be appropriate music and other ministers will take part in the services.

CHIEF KIELY GOES TO POLICE CONVENTION.

He Will Read a Paper—Fredericksen Acting Chief, Flynn Sergeant.

Chief of Police Kiely left for Hot Springs, Ark., Saturday, to attend the annual convention of the International Association of Chiefs of Police. He will be gone nine days. On the way down the chief will join police heads from several neighboring cities. He will read a paper at the convention.

During the chief's absence Sergeant Fredericksen will be acting head of the force, on duty during the day. His place at the night desk will be taken by Officer McCue. Roundsman John Flynn will be acting-sergeant.

Firman Long, formerly of this city, but now of New Brunswick, has been visiting friends in town.

BOARD OF TRADE APPOINTS COMMITTEE ON MUNICIPAL UNION PROJECTS.

Governing Bodies Will Be Asked To Discuss For Bringing the Proposition About—Sentiment Changing.

Consolidation of the city and borough is still being fostered by the Board of Trade. Further action toward its accomplishment was taken at the meeting Thursday, when a committee was appointed to present the matter before the councils of the two municipalities.

The appointment of the committee is in line with the board's declared intention of keeping the consolidation project awake. The first step in the body's campaign for a revival of public interest in the question was taken at the last meeting, when W. L. Saunders, leader in the ill-starred annexation project, spoke for the union of the municipalities. Discussion of the proposition, as was expected, followed that meeting and the board will work to keep the public alive to it, and interested in the various moves to bring it about.

President Woolston suggested the appointment of the committee to the board. He said he thought the body should learn, by conference with the councils, what steps can be taken to bring the municipalities together.

The committee appointed is made up of two borough men and three city men. Its members are William C. Smith, William G. Debele, of the borough; C. W. Runyon, Harry W. Marshall and Charles E. Fisk.

Sentiment in consolidation, observers say, is changing in North Plainfield. People who in their wholesouled aversion to annexation three years ago sent the consolidation idea packing now favor it, associated with the odious proposition to gouge out a section of Somerset county, now look favorably on the welding of the two places. They now understand fully what they did not three years back, that consolidation simply unites the two governments and does not affect the county lines. Curiously enough, just as the borough distaste for consolidation is subsiding, solid citizens of the city are arising here and there and asking if the city really has any use for the borough, and if the vote here would not be against the proposition by a thumping majority.

PLAINFIELD PAYS TOO MUCH FOR ARC LIGHTS

EASIER TERMS IN OTHER PLACES, THE BOARD OF TRADE LEARNS.

That Plainfield was paying too much for her arc light service was declared at the meeting of the Board of Trade Thursday. Rates in other places were cited to show that the service here should cost less than $100 a year.

President Woolston introduced the subject. He said that there is no reason at all why Plainfield could not have arc lights for less than $100 a year. Other towns and cities throughout the State were paying only from $50 to $80 a year.

Charles W. Rudyon, a member of the committee appointed to investigate the arc light question, stated that it was found to cut out the incandescent lamps in the business part of the town and substitute sixteen arc lights. This would mean a total cost of $1,600 a year. The investigation disclosed the fact that Paterson is paying $53 a year for arc lights, New Brunswick $70 and Somerville $65. Mr. Runyon thought that Plainfield should not be compelled to pay more than $65, and the Public Service Corporation would then be making a good profit at that.

President Woolston appointed Charles H. Frost, Charles W. Runyon and Councilman Herbert Buxton to further investigate the arc-light question.

FREEHOLEDRS COMMITTEE ON GREENBROOK OVERFLOW

Elston M. French Asks Union County to Prevent Further Damage.

In the absence of Director King, of the Union County Board of Freeholders, Freeholder Cady filled his place at the April meeting of the board held at Elizabeth Thursday. The only matter of interest to Plainfield was the action taken on the communication of Elston M. French, of this city, who asked the board to make some repairs about the Leland avenue bridge which will prevent the overflow of the banks at that point of Green brook.

A committee, comprising Freeholders Wilbur and Westphal, of Plainfield; Gladek, of Rahway; Robinson, of Scotch Plains and Kline, of Rahway, was appointed to attend to the matter. The committee will also visit the Scott avenue bridge, near Scott Press Works, where some repairs are necessary.

Y. M. C. A. BOYS DINE

Annual Banquet of Junior Department a Delightful Affair.

MURRAY ADDRESSES

Urges Young Hearers to Fix on High Ideals of Conduct—Prizes Presented to Winners of Athletic Competitions.

With roast chicken as the piece de resistance of a menu topped by five kinds of cake and three flavors of ice cream, interesting speeches just to the point, and a spirit of informal fellowship to set them entirely at their ease, the members of the Boys' Department of the Y. M. C. A. enjoyed their annual banquet Thursday as few affairs of the sort are enjoyed. The dinner was the most successful one the Juniors have ever held, and none of the ones that preceded it fell anything short of a high standard of excellence.

The banquet was held in Warren chapel. Both the association halls were preempted last night. About 125 boys were seated about the tables, which were set in straight rows down the chapel. The speakers' table was on the platform. The decorations were simple, but attractive, soft-shaded lamps adding to the informal, home-like effect. Vases of cut flowers graced the main table.

Harold Robbins, boys' president of the department, presided. Grouped about him were J. W. Gavett, president of the Y. M. C. A. and W. D. Murray, the speakers; O. S. Rogers, chairman of the boys' work committee; Philip Smith, Malcolm Douglas, and H. F. Welsh, of Westfield, who were honored with the special seats as the winners and the representatives of the winners in the recent school athletic contests, held under the auspices of the Juniors, the prizes of which were to be presented to them in the course of the affair.

Mr. Murray, who is one of the most prominent Y. M. C. A. workers in the United States and a noted figure at boys' meetings, was the chief speaker. His theme was the pursuit of a high ideal, the concentration of youthful energies and earnestness in striving for advancement.

Nothing was impossible to the boy who intensely desired what he aimed at and worked unceasingly to attain it. "Every boy here can be a rich man," he said, "if you want to be rich with all your heart and work steadily to accomplish your desire you will realize it." It was the concentration of effort, singleness of purpose and tenacity that produced results.

Mr. Murray dwelt on the importance of fixing on a high ideal of living and holding fast to it.

"Fix on some good thing," he advised," and strive for its execution, no matter what it costs in effort and in time.

Every act a person did, Mr. Murray held, had some effect, good or bad, on the character of that person. "The things we do now have a bearing on the things we do in the future."

Mr. Murray urged his hearers to keep themselves prepared for every crisis in their moral life. They were to be prepared to meet and grapple with the sudden temptation to which so many young men succumb.

Boys' Secretary Cobbin followed Mr. Murray, with a brief talk on the plans for the boys' camp on Tuxis Island next summer. The party will be limited to twenty boys. A lively programme of competitions is in course of preparation.

In presenting the prizes, President Gavett strongly endorsed Mr. Murray's advice as to concentration. Speaking of the vices that threatened boyhood, he said the cigarette was a great factor in weakening young men who travel the wrong path. He spoke highly of athletics; Mr. Gavett himself was a successful and enthusiastic athlete in his younger days.

The big silver cup won by the Plainfield High School in the meet between that school, Westfield and Cranford High Schools, was presented to Malcolm Douglas, representing the P. H. S. A. A. H. F. Welsh, of Westfield, the winner of the individual prize, received a medal. Philip Smith received the cup won by the P. H. S. A. A. in the interscholastic basketball league, as captain of the team. The three youths made brief speeches of acceptance. They were enthusiastically applauded.

The dinner broke up with three rousing cheers for the Women's Auxiliary of the Y. M. C. A., which prepared the banquet. The arrangements for, and serving of, the dinner were in the hands of the boys' work committee, of which Mrs. Walter Caldwell is chairman, and the social committee, of which Mrs. L. M. French is the head.

Onto Him.

"It was only two years ago," said Bragley, "that I started in with our firm at $6 a week, and now I earn $50."

"Yes?" replied Wiseman, "it's easy to earn that, but how much do you get?"

Miss Ethel Titsworth, of West Fifth street, has returned from a visit with Miss Ross, of Willow Grove.

ICE AT $1.20 PER TON

That's What it is Said it Would Have Cost Local Dealers.

THE POOR MUST SUFFER

Suggests That a Co-operative Plant Be Started — Time Now to Put Up Houses.

Among a number of communications received by The Daily Press regarding the seemingly arbitrary demands of the ice dealers, who have already advanced the price to sixty cents a hundred, the following one, written by one of "lainfield's best citizens, will prove interesting:

Editor, The Daily Press:

While the price of ice in Plainfield soars to sixty cents a hundred, with the prospect of further advances, word comes from Florida that ice is being manufactured and delivered there, in quantities, for seven dollars a ton and fifty cents a hundred. It is sold for twenty-five cents if called for.

Referring to the inquiry in yesterday's Daily Press as to why the dealers did not take advantage of the opportunity in the winter to secure a supply of ice from other sections, I am informed that it could have been obtained, on the cars at Plainfield, for $1.20 a ton, or six cents a hundred. To this price should be added the cost of carting and storing, also the loss by breakage and melting. Even with all these items included, there would still seem to be a chance for selling at a reasonable price and at a fair profit.

While the total additional cost of the season's ice at the advanced rate will not be a serious matter for the well-to-do and those in moderate circumstances, to the poor, and especially to those who are both sick and poor, the lack of ice will be a real calamity.

It is too late now to do anything about a larger supply for this year, but, unless I mistake the temper of our people, they will not be in any mood to subscribe for stock in a co-operative ice company (under proper auspices and management) so quickly that the record in the baseball subscription would be left in the distance. The fact that the enterprise would have a charitable object would not be its least recommendation, but the company should expect to meet a rate perhaps as low as fifteen cents a hundred next summer, in case a cold winter should enable the present companies to harvest a plentiful supply. Now is the time to organize and put up houses.

A.

GLOAK DISAGREES WITH WILBUR'S IDEA

COUNCILMAN DECLARES FREEHOLDERS CAN HELP IMPROVE GREEN BROOK.

Councilman William L. Gloak takes exception to Freeholder S. P. T. Wilbur's statement that the freeholders have no right to spend money on improving Green brook, and intimates that before he gets through with his plans he will convince Mr. Wilbur that he has the power but that it is its duty to assist in the work of cleaning, deepening and widening the brook.

Mr. Gloak says that the brook is a county stream over which the officials of both Union and Somerset counties have control and it is up to them to see that the stream is kept free of obstructions that would prevent an overflow of the banks in heavy rains. The councilman maintains that if the brook is deepened and widened properly there would be no flooding of property in the East End of the town and he intends to enlist the aid of the county officials in making this improvement.

The First ward member says he was surprised at the remarks of Freeholder Wilbur, and says that it will not discourage him in the least in his efforts to effect the improvements. He says that he has had the matter under consideration for some time and is now determined to see it go through. He sees no reason, he says, why the brook should not be made attractive instead of eye-sore and will do all in his power to make it so.

Informal Gathering Enjoyed.

Gathering in an informal manner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Mundy, of West Front street, Thursday, twenty-five of their friends spent a very enjoyable evening. Musical numbers were the features of the occasion, the contributors being John Mitchell and Miss Agnes McInness, violin solos: Miss Mamie McInness, piano selections; William Spaulding, Allan Anderson and Gere Pann, vocal solos. John Gray sang several "coon" songs in Williams and Walker style and highly delighted his hearers. Refreshments were served in conclusion.

Charles A. Dixon, formerly of this city, but now of Newark, spent Saturday in town with friends.

All the Sunday-schools rehearsed Easter music yesterday afternoon.

ICE GOES UP 10 CENTS

Dealers Announce the Expected Raise in the Price of the Commodity.

60 CENTS A HUNDRED

Consumers Not Surprised But Wondering Over Dealers' Limitations —Two Consumers Become Independent.

Ice has advanced in price from fifty cents to sixty cents a hundred. The raise went into effect the first of the month.

None of the consumers who heard or were notified of the advance were taken by surprise. Ever since midwinter, when the ice men began to complain of a crippling shortage in the crop, the public has been expecting the announcement of higher prices. The dealers are still talking gloomily of more than half-empty houses, and the people are helplessly waiting for news of another climb in the price, when the warmer weather makes the demand for the product and the need of it greater.

The dealers say they have no alternative to an advance—the crop is so short, they say, the price must go up.

"We have less than a third of what we had in the houses at this time last year," said P. J. McDonough, head of the Natural Ice Company, this morning. "I am speaking, you understand, for myself—I don't know about the others; but I suppose conditions are the same.

"At the end of September last year, when the crop was supposed to have been depleted by constant and heavy mid-summer demands, the price was ten cents lower than it is now. In May last year, a month later in the season than now, the price was forty cents a hundred. In April, 1904, it was thirty cents a hundred.

Although ice was undoubtedly scarce hereabouts last winter, other sections not so far off had plenty of cold weather and an abundant crop of ice. The northern part of the State, and Pennsylvania, turned out an ample crop. Consumers, especially those who have lived in big cities, where practically all the ice used is shipped in to dealers, have been wondering why these sources of supply are not figured upon in planning the service here.

Elmer Mills, of West Front street, a confectioner and maker of ice cream, worked that problem out for himself. He was glad to say that the ice was to be shy here and that the dealers were tuning up for a calamity howl, he converted an outbuilding into an icehouse and had ninety tons of hard, clear ice shipped here from Bear Swamp, in Orange Mr. Mills smiles gently whenever he hears an iceman wail over the terrible smallness of the harvest.

Smalley Bros., the butchers, have gone even farther than Mr. Mills. They have put in a refrigerating plant last week and made themselves independent of the dealers and the eccentricities of the weather man for all time. The machine, which is located in the cellar of the store, pumps expanded ammonia through coils of pipe, each of which is as chilly as a big chunk of ice. The pipes through which the ammonia circulates get thickly coated with frost. The machine is run by an electric motor. It is the same sort of a machine with which ice is manufactured, the pipes, in manufacturing, passing through brine surrounded by a tank of water, instead of being coiled bare in the refrigerator compartments. The machine at Smalley Bros. will make a ton of ice a day. It costs not much less than $900.

Mr. McDonough, in answer to a reporter's question, this morning said three dealers were supplying the city —P. T. Ostrom, John Morton and his own company.

BENEFIT A BIG SUCCESS.

Testimonial to Treasurer Sam Cunningham Appreciated.

The fact that both Manager Counihan and Treasurer Sam Cunningham, of the New Plainfield theatre, have many local friends was attested to Thursday when "McFadden's Flats" was presented as a benfit performance for the latter. The "standing room only" sign was hung out shortly after 8 o'clock, and even then there were many admissions. Manager Counihan had exerted himself in billing the attraction, and this, coupled with his own and Sam's popularity, did the business. There was also a good attendance in the afternoon.

Aside from the testimonial feature, the attendants were fully repaid for any time or money expended. "The Flats" are just as funny now as they were when Mack and George," the yellow kids, occupied the front pages of the Sunday paper supplements and delighted thousands of children all over the country. The Speck Brothers took the parts of the little fellows and made the biggest part of the fun.

Not Serious.

"Miss Flyrite," said the jealous lover sternly, "I demand an explanation."

"About what?" asked the fair girl.

"I want to know what you mean by being engaged to Tom Digby and me at the same time."

"Nothing."

There was no service at the Methodist church last night.

MAY ADOPT BRICK PAVE

Street Committee Chairman Wants Improved Roadbed on Section of Park Avenue.

MACADAM USELESS

Brick Cheaper For Streets In Business Section, Argues Councilman William L. Gloak.

If the hopes of the councilmanic street committee are fulfilled, Park avenue from Front street to the railroad bridge will be paved with brick similar to that in use at the trolley station on Watchung avenue. Particularly is this improvement desired by the committee for that strip extending from Second street to the bridge, and it is said that the proposition will be laid before the Common Council at an early date.

The committee is now considering plans for the widening of that part of the thoroughfare not yet improved in that way, in accordance with the ordinance adopted several weeks ago. As soon as that is completed the scheme to substitute brick for the macadam roadbed will be brought up.

Chairman William L. Gloak says that in his opinion if the Council can be prevailed upon to order brick pave for Park avenue sooner or later the improvement will be extended to cover the entire business section of the city. This would include Front street from Watchung avenue to Central avenue, Watchung avenue from the bridge to Front street, Second street from Watchung avenue to Madison avenue, and Park avenue from Front street to the bridge.

"I strongly favor a permanent pavement for the business section of the city," said Mr. Gloak, "and believe that in a widening Park avenue such an improvement should be made. In my opinion the expenditure of money to macadamize these streets is a waste of money. The permanent pavement would cost a little more at first, but would pay for itself in the long run, and I am convinced that the taxpayers would heartily endorse this action on the part of the Common Council."

LEES DAMAGE SUIT TO BE HEARD AGAIN

WILL COME BEFORE STRUCK JURY IN SOMERSET COURT ON MAY 22.

The long drawn-out civil suit brought by George Lees, of the borough, against Dr. Albert Wickham, of Newark, for injuries alleged to have been inflicted by improper professional treatment, is to be tried again. Plaintiff was recently granted on order for a struck jury by Judge Garretson, and the case is to be heard in the Somerset County Court on May 22. The necessary number of men have been drawn by Sheriff Cooper and it is said that new witnesses have been secured.

Young Lees had been afflicted with a spinal trouble and Dr. Wickham undertook to provide treatment. The patient's body was encased in a plaster cast, as he alleged in his original complaint, but it was not put on right, and his shoulders sank back and became so badly drawn that he was made a cripple for life.

Suits were brought against the physician and Lees was awarded a verdict for damages. Wickham took exception to the method in having the amount set aside as excessive. The case has now passed through several stages and the next step is the new trial over which Judge Garretson will preside. Lees is represented by Lawyer George W. V. Moy.

DAYS OF OLD MILITIA RECALLED BY NEW GIFTS.

Company A Comes Into Possession of Relics of Civil War, Presented by General Skirm's Relations.

Company A, Second Regiment, N. G. N. J., of Trenton, has come in possession of a large number of prizes won by the command during the early years of its organization. A large number of these articles were presented Wednesday to the company by the relatives of the late General W. H. Skirm. One of the most handsome souvenirs is a silver tea service. A large number of pictures of the company taken years ago, while the company was in the old seventh regiment, were also presented.

An honor role of the company has been present. This gives the names of members who served when the three months' men were called out by the president's proclamation, April 15, 1861. The emergency men called out by proclamation of Governor Curtain, of Pennsylvania, June 17, 1863. It also gives a list of members of Company A who were officers in the United States army, marine corps and United States navy.

An effort is being made to secure all articles belonging to the company which are now in the possession of former members. These are all to be placed in the handsome parlors of the company at the armory.

An After-Dinner Story.

THE GONDOLIER.

"But you must be crazy, Antonio!" cried the innkeeper with a cruel laugh. "Who told you that I have raised and educated Maria only to make her unhappy afterward?"

"Can't you see that I love her?"

"Bah!"

"Can't you see that life will be a torture to me without her?"

"Yes, I understand life will be a torture for you without her—and her money, eh?"

"Varetti!" cried the young gondolier, his face flushed with anger. "Varetti, you insult me!"

"Pooh! pooh! my young friend," he said, "I can see that you have lost your mind."

"But I love Maria, Varetti, I swear I do, and she loves me, also, I know. I am sure she loves me."

"Well, if it is true that you love her so much, why don't you try to get some money? You know I will not yield one inch. Maria is wealthy, very wealthy, you know, and I will never permit her to marry a poor man. What can you offer her? Your good gondola, eh? That's good, and then what will you do, starve to death, eh? or dissipate her fortune—this fortune that I've accumulated after so many years of hard work. That's your idea, isn't it? Well, I guess you will have to forget all about that, young man."

"You are cruel and unjust, Varetti. I really love her."

"Well, if you do, go get some money. I will not give my consent unless you bring her a dowry of at least ten thousand livres."

"But that is a great fortune, Varetti. You know that a poor gondolier like you can never get all that money together."

"Very good; then you won't marry her."

So deeply interested were the two men in their conversation that they had not noticed a young gentleman who had entered the inn and seemed to listen to them with the greatest attention.

The newcomer was scarcely 22 years old and very handsome. He had just arrived in Venice, and in his clothes, made of the finest material, could be plainly seen the marks of long journeys.

When Varetti muttered those terrible words, "Then you won't marry her," the young gentleman rose from his table and, tapping Antonio on the shoulder, said:

"Gondolier, cheer up! Maria will be yours."

The unhappy lover turned, looked at him in astonishment and exclaimed:

"Impossible! Her father will never give his consent unless I can procure myself 10,000 livres. I know him too well."

"Never mind that," replied the young gentleman. "You will get your 10,000 livres and marry her."

"But how will I ever get so much money? Are you going to give it to me?"

The newcomer smiled.

"No, my friend," he said. "To be sure I have no money myself—but wait. Give me a sheet of paper and a pencil—that's it. Thank you."

The young gentleman sat again at his table and proceeded to draw a hand.

But what a hand!

It was so perfect, so artistic, so real, that even the poor gondolier uttered a cry:

"My God!" he exclaimed. "What a wonderful hand! It is almost human."

"Very well," replied the artist. "Take it to the palace of Cardinal De Morelli and tell him that the artist who drew this hand wants to sell it for 10,000 livres."

The innkeeper laughed.

"There is another crazy one," he said. "Why, I would not give one livre for that drawing."

Antonio left the house and ran to the palace.

One hour later he returned, his face flushed with emotion.

He carried a heavy bag of gold.

"Here's the money," he cried. "I've counted them. There are 10,000 livres." The Cardinal was astonished and told me: "Tell the artist who drew this hand that I am sending him the money and that I wish he would come to see me."

"Very well; I knew he would say that," answered the artist. And he arose and prepared to leave.

"Wait, wait!" said Antonio, "what should I do with all this money?"

"Why, keep it, my friend, it is yours."

The gondolier fell on his knees before his benefactor.

Maria took his hand and kissed it.

"Your name, your name!" cried Antonio. "Tell me your name that I may worship it as that of my good angel!"

"Well," replied the artist, "if you are so anxious to know I will tell you who I am."

He paused for a moment and then said:

"I am a poor artist and my name is Rafael-Tanzio d'Urbino."—Exchange.

Mrs. J. McCann and son, Lawrence, of Summit avenue, have returned from a week's visit at Baltimore and Washington.

GIVES OUT A NEW LIST OF DATES

EAST JERSEY GOLF LEAGUE RE-ARRANGES ITS SCHEDULE FOR SEASON.

A new schedule has been drawn up by the East Jersey Golf League. This new list of dates was made necessary because of the admission of the Canoe Brook Country Club to membership, thereby bringing the total up to six, the same as last season. The other clubs in the league are the Roseville Golf Club, South Orange Field Club, Forest Hill Field Club, Suburban Club, Glen Ridge Golf Club. Two of these, Canoe Brook and Forest Hill, are in possession of nine-hole courses.

The spring handicap, which proved so popular with the members for the past two seasons, will be held again and June 9 has been selected as the date. While it is not announced officially as yet, the golfers having the matter in charge are known to favor the Canoe Brook links. The individual championship is to take place on September 28 and 29 and the fall handicap also on the latter date. Some neutral course will be selected for the season.

Howard Griffin, of South Orange, won the championship last fall over the Baltusrol links. It was his fourth win during the six championships held by the league. The new team schedule is as follows:

May 5—Forest Hill, at Glen Ridge; Elizabeth, at Roseville.

May 19—Roseville, at South Orange; Glen Ridge, at Elizabeth; Forest Hill, at Canoe Brook.

May 25—Roseville, at Glen Ridge; Forest Hill, Elizabeth; Canoe Brook, at South Orange.

June 9—Spring handicap.

June 16—Glen Ridge, at Canoe Brook; Elizabeth, at South Orange.

June 23—South Orange, at Glen Ridge; Roseville, at Forest Hill; Canoe Brook, at Elizabeth.

June 30—South Orange, at Forest Hill; Canoe Brook, at Roseville.

September 8—Forest Hill, at South Orange; Roseville, at Canoe Brook.

September 15—South Orange, at Elizabeth; Forest Hill, at Roseville; Canoe Brook, at Glen Ridge.

September 22—Glen Ridge, at Roseville; Elizabeth, at Forest Hill; South Orange, at Canoe Brook.

September 29—Individual championship.

September 29—Individual championship and fall handicap.

October 6—Roseville, at Elizabeth; Glen Ridge, at Forest Hill.

October 13—Elizabeth, at Canoe Brook; Glen Ridge, at South Orange.

October 20—Elizabeth, at Glen Ridge; South Orange, at Roseville; Canoe Brook, at Forest Hill.

HAT WORN BY SOME FASHIONABLE WOMEN.

An attractive hat seen recently was of pale blue milan straw, bent up very high on the left side and trimmed with shaded green plumes. Around the crown and beneath the brim were crushed white roses.

A feature of a small black mohair hat in empire style was the narrow black velvet strings that were brought under the chin, tying in a large bow at the left side. The brim of this hat was edged with gold braid and two black tips were placed on the left side, with tiny pompadour roses beneath the brim.

A smart hand-made sailor hat of dark blue silk braid was trimmed with a wide fold of printed taffeta ribbon draped around the crown and caught at the left side with a large gold buckle. The high bandeau in the back was concealed with rosettes of the same ribbon.

A dainty little toque was of a delicate shade of violet hemp braid, and was trimmed with roses shading from pale pink to violet and rosettes of violet messaline ribbon.

The hats for children this season seem to be more charming than ever. The shapes as a rule are large and made to droop over the face.

A handsome model was of white pyroxylin braid finished with tiny ruffles of valenciennes lace, with a huge bow of flowered taffeta ribbon and a wreath of forget-me-nots beneath the brim.

Cause for Joy.

"You look happy, old man."

"Yes, I just heard of some good news. My uncle is going to give me the money I need to start me in business."

"Ah, that's really what you might call 'capital news.'"

Trouble Enough.

"I don't suppose you ever have smallpox or typhoid out at Swamphurst," remarked Citiman.

"No," replied Subbubs, disgustedly, "there's no room for it; the place is too full of malaria."

Leading Him On.

"He claims he has the first place in your heart," said the new flame.

"Oh, yes," replied Miss Flyrt, "but the first place, of course, is down at the bottom. The new tenant is always at the top."

Bitter.

"I wonder why Miss Passay acts so kittenish?" remarked Miss Ascum.

"Probably," replied Miss Spitts, "to conceal the fact that she'd a cat."

PUBLIC FISHING RIGHTS.

There Is a General Belief That the Game of a Country Belongs to the People.

There has been a very interesting question brought up in Colorado with regard to the rights of a person to fish in streams stocked by the state, and it is claimed by Mr. Melville, a lawyer, that the constution affirms the public ownership of the water of the natural streams of the state and that the statutes have published affirmed the public ownership of the fish in the state. From early times until the present, writes Dan Beard, in Recreation, legislatures have appropriated large sums of public funds for the purpose of stocking these waters with the choicest of fish. The members of the legislature appropriating such funds believe that the public has a right to go into and upon such streams and have the pleasure and profit of such fish from such a stream.

This seems to be good, sound, natural law, and accords with Recreation's politics, for Recreation has always claimed that the game of a country belonged to the people of the country and not to the landlords. The landlord has only right to the use of the land comes from the public consent, inasmuch as he could have no possible valid title originating from any other source, consequently he can only own the right to the use of the land which the public agrees shall be under his control, and as the public has never consented or agreed that the game or fish should be the private property of the landlord, it is evident that he has no natural, legal, moral or ethical right to the game as a landlord, but only a general right as one individual of the public who owns the game and fish of the country.

BEAUTIFUL NEWFOUNDLAND.

Scenery So Beautiful That Parts of It Vie with Famed Killarney.

In looking over your magazine I was surprised to find how little mention is made of Newfoundland, with almost unlimited game, both fish and fowl, deer and bear, for those that go far enough, writes Bessie Logan Cowman in Recreation.

And no scenery so beautiful that parts of it vie with famed Killarney. The rugged grandeur of Port Saunders, the beautiful bay of Outer Cove, and the rock hills near Logy bay. I may be prejudiced, but I have not seen anything pictured to come near them.

Oh, Newfoundland, with your beautiful bayous and shining creeks, where in salmon and that pet of good anglers, speckled trout, with its firm, pink flesh, abound, I often wonder that more have not of late spent don't visit your. Topsail is an ideal place to spend a summer; its beautiful scenery, the old-fashioned hospitality of its people leave nothing to be desired. And then, in September, when the partridge or ptarmigan comes in, what sport to see the fishermen's and trappers' to Toad's cove, when the ship, a point out on the barrens, usually finishes the trip. Then the lovely ride back amidst such scenes as can only be found among people that both fish and farm for a living.

DEEP-SEA FISHING BANKS.

Where the People of New York City Get an Occasional Taste of Sport.

Every day through the spring and summer and autumn, and almost every day in winter, a boat leaves one of the East river piers bound for the deep-sea fishing banks, writes Bertha Ismith, in Four-Track News. Every passenger on board is of that true democracy, the democracy of the rod and reel. Not death itself is more of a common leveler than the fishing-rod. And who crosses the gang-plank of the fishing steamboat leaves class distinction behind.

The professional man fleeing business for a day, the clerk with a holiday on his hands, the mechanic thrown into idleness by a strike, the invalid who finds the city irksome and longs for a sniff of the sea, old men, young boys and all ages and stages of mankind between, may be seen in the stream of people that dribbles along the pier while the sun is yet dodging behind the Brooklyn housetops. The man who would go deep-sea fishing must be up betimes, for it is a good three hours' run to the fishing-banks.

Two Famous Pioneer Trees.

Two of the most famous pioneer trees in the west have a well merited place in history. These were the Lone Jack tree and the Lone Elm. The first is in western Missouri and the second in eastern Kansas. A good pioneer horseman might have covered the distance between them in a day. At the Lone Jack tree a great battle was fought during the civil war. At the Lone Elm caravans over the Santa Fe trail halted for the night and here were united two branches of the famous old trail.—Kansas City Star.

Strange Case.

"It's strange, sir," said the lawyer who was doing the cross-examination stunt, "that you have no memory."

"Oh, I don't know," rejoined the witness. "Look in the jury box—there are 12 men who have no opinions."—Chicago Daily News.

Amateur Sherlock at Fault.

Stubb—Did you notice how that man's fingers were stained at the tips?

Penn—Yes, and I can't tell whether he is a professional chemist or just a married man who has been tacking down matting.—Stray Stories.

PERSONAL NOTES.

Dr. Benjamin Taylor Terry, of Columbia University, has offered Indiana University an endowment for pathological research.

The plays of Hugo von Hofmannsthal, one of the youngest of the German playwrights, are just now very much the vogue in Germany.

The editor of the Isle of Pines "Appeal," one of the best papers on the island, is Milton E. Willis, formerly a native of Butler, Missouri.

Sir John Sinclair, a Scottish baronet, has presented gramaphones and records to 300 asylums and other institutions on condition that they are played to the inmates for half an hour every Sunday.

Rev. Adiel J. Moncrief, pastor of the First Baptist church, of Brunswick, Ga., who has just accepted the presidency of the Southern Female College, is one of the most eloquent and forceful speakers in the South.

Senator Tillman, of South Carolina, is engaged in writing "A Defense of the Senate" for publication. Discussing the task he has assumed, he admits that his views of the Senate have been tempered somewhat by the thirteen years of service in that body.

One hundred and fifty-four years of uninterrupted ministerial service by three men, or an average of more than fifty-one years for each, and in each case for one congregation, is the record of Rev. Henry Winder, of Chicago, William Salter, of Burlington, Iowa, and Anton Wagner, of Chicago.

WHAT SISTERS MAY DO.

Ways In Which They May Be of Help to Their Brothers.

A sister can help to cure a brother of a boy's natural awkwardness and blundering by saying all the pleasant things she can of him in his hearing.

She can do more for him by encouragement than by rebuke. Boys flourish best in a kindly atmosphere.

She can take an interest in his fads and amusements and listen to him when he has anything to tell. In this way she becomes his most valuable confidant and comrade.

She can make her brother's friends her friends by being ready to entertain them when they call. She should not be continually finding flaws in them or finding them up to ridicule.

She can teach them to be manly by occasionally claiming his protection, and he will be quick to respond to such a call.

She should say nothing to her brother's disparagement. Before strangers. Harsh criticism will only result in hard heartedness.

Brothers stand in need of as much sympathetic affection as girls, and sister should see that they get it.

In this way sisters can teach their brothers to be as fond of home as they are, and a fondness for home will keep any body from straying from that path which leads to a noble manhood.—Exchange.

ODD AND INTERESTING.

One peculiarity of the Transvaal climate is that, while being very healthy, it yet has the effect of making people appear far older than they really are. The rarefied air is popularly supposed to be responsible for this.

More than 800 bob whites recently came all the way from Kansas to Baltimore with the loss of a single bird. The shipment was made in response to a demand for birds for distribution in Baltimore county. Each crate contained 16 birds.

Horsharps are made principally in Boccorio, the seat of the industry since the sixteenth century. A good workman can make seven dozen in a day, and, simple as the little instruments are, no fewer than twenty tools are employed in their manufacture.

It is stated that the best managers, pattern designers and dyers in the Lancashire cotton mills, tempted by high wages, are going out to India and Japan to take charge of mills there. Great quantities of textile machinery are also being exported.

A Paris flat owner has hit upon an idea which is popular with his tenants. On the door of every apartment is a number, and on the first of each month the landlord draws a lottery, and the occupant of the flat the number of which proves to be the winning one pays no rent.

A German student finds one of the causes of the inability of the Russian railroads to handle their traffic is the antiquity of their locomotives. The number of these seems in tolerable proportion to the traffic, for out of 14,326 locomotives no less than 6,919 are from twenty-four to twenty-six years old.

Time for More.

"I'm out o' work, sir," began the absent-minded beggar, "an' the rent's due, I'm tryin' to raise $1.50 an'—"

"See here!" said Goddart, "you're a fraud. I gave you a dollar last week."

"Well, that was last week. You've earned some more money since, ain't yer?"

Love's Answer.

"And hast thou ever loved before?"
He asked, "I pray thee, speak!"
She blushed. Her sweet eyes sought the floor.
She answered: "Not this week."

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

April 13: "The Resurrected Life" (Easter Sunday)—Gal. ii, 20; Rom. vi, 4-14; Eph. ii, 1-7; Col. iii, 1-4; 1 Pet. i, 3-9.

By REV. WALTER J. YATES, D. D.

The resurrection of Jesus was a glorious fact which those who had been associated with Him in His earthly life and dying could not forget or pass over lightly. It is the one last thing needed to confirm faith in the Divine Sonship and prove the truth of His message to men. It settled the belief of His followers and established their hope on an immovable basis. It made clear the nature of His kingdom and brought prominently into view the certainty of future blessedness after death for the people of God.

But not even Peter and John saw the full significance of the fact of the resurrection of Jesus for the faith of men as did St. Paul.

He was a student in Jerusalem in the school of the noted teacher of the law, Gamaliel, at the time when Stephen was so eloquently preaching in the synagogue of the freedmen in Jerusalem and most likely heard him and was among those who were overcome by the arguments of Stephen. Because unable to successfully combat the reasoning they became violently prejudiced against the man and resorted to stoning, by him to death, but the truth which Stephen declared could not be shaken off was a great factor, doubtless, in the conversion of Paul at Damascus. He was prepared for the revelation of the risen Christ at Damascus by the reasoning of Stephen at Jerusalem.

In his writings the resurrection of Jesus Christ becomes the pivotal fact on which all else turns, but it is not as a matter of doctrine alone that he puts stress upon it.

If Christ died He died unto sin. This was once for all. He now lives for the God-life, above all power of death.

If we are Christ's we have by His death been released from the power of sin and death and may rise to sharing here and now in the God-life Christ now lives and receive hereafter the fullness of adoption in the redemption of our bodies by resurrection in His likeness.

We are, then, under obligation to live now the risen life. We must no more have anger, malice, blasphemy, uncleanness or any evil in our spirits or lives. His spirit must cleanse and raise us here to fellowship with Christ and fraternity with our fellow men.

This is the gospel according to St. Paul. He demonstrated in his life and death its power. It has molded the Christian life during these past centuries. It is still the power of God unto salvation to every one who believes.

Are you on this Easter day living with Christ the resurrected?

Access to God.

It is not an easy matter for men of inferior rank to obtain access or freedom of conference with one that is an earthly prince. Admission to all would weigh him down to a slave. He cannot be a center large enough to receive all the lines that come from the vast circumference. Providence has made it so that he could not have wherewith to grant and satisfy all. Nor were men sure to speed, although they were admitted. He that to all should grant what is asked would quickly leave himself nothing at all to grant. He might, perhaps, enrich some others, but he should be sure to impoverish himself. How great, then, are the freedom and the prerogative of the devout Christian who hath a reverence and an affection to the greatness and goodness of his God. Though he often lives here in a slight esteem among men, yet by his prayers and the ardent effusion of his groans and wishes he can freely confer with the King of Heaven.—Owen Feltham.

More and More.

God's promises are ever on the ascending scale. One leads up to another, fuller and more blessed than itself. In Mesopotamia God said, "I will show thee land." Then He said in effect, "I will give them all the land and children innumerable as the grains of sand." It is thus that God allures us to saintliness—not giving us anything till we have dared to act, that He may test us; not giving everything at first, that we may not overwhelm us, and always keeping in hand an infinite reserve of blessing. Oh, the unexplored reserves of God! Who ever saw His last star?—Rev. F. B. Meyer.

The Test.

To be beaten, but not broken; to be victorious, but not vainglorious; to strive and contend for the prize and to win it honestly or lose it cheerfully; to use every power in the race and yet never to gain undue advantage or win an unlawful mastery—verily, in all this there are training and testing of character which search it to the very roots, and this is a result which is worth all it costs us.—Bishop Henry C. Potter.

A Prayer.

I ask for strength to stand erect
And free my fellow men.
I ask for power to sow the seed
Of joy where'er I can.
I ask for faith that I may fight
The battles of each day
And view the triumphs I may win
In a humble, Christlike way.

I ask for light that I may see,
With vision bright and clear,
The regal splendors of my Lord
As daily they appear.
In sea and sky and flower and tree,
In meadow, brook and song of bird;
In valley or on mountain lea
Where'er His joyous voice is heard.

I ask for health that I may toil
And earn my daily bread
And meet the needs of every hour
With neither fear nor dread.
I ask for help to turn to Thee
Whene'er my race is run
And meekly say, with trusting heart,
"My Lord, Thy will be done."
—Thomas Holmes in Trenton State Gazette.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning April 15.

By REV. S. H. DOYLE.

Topic.—Christ's Life, IV. Lessons from His resurrection miracles.—John xi, 1-46; Luke vii, 11-17; viii, 41, 42, 49-56. (Easter meeting.)

Jesus Christ was pre-eminently a teacher—a teacher of spiritual truth and lessons. He came to reveal God to man, and man in his ignorance needed much instruction concerning God, and Christ, in deed as well as in word, was constantly giving man this instruction. His miracles strikingly illustrate this character in Him. They were primarily signs to prove His deity, but they were also lessons on spiritual truth. They may well be called parables in action. In His parables He taught with words, in His miracles with deeds, and the miracles of Christ almost equally with His parables have always been used as medums of instruction by those whose business it has been to try to interpret and to apply His teachings to the human soul. This is especially true of His resurrection miracles—the occasions upon which He used His miraculous power to raise the dead to life. In this fact Christ clearly teaches that death is not the terror that we usually consider it. In each of the three instances He raised the dead not for their sakes, but for the sake of the living. No cry from the dead reached His ears, but the appeals of burdened human hearts still in life did reach Him and called forth His gracious response. In one instance it was the breaking heart of a mother who was a widow mourning the loss of an only son. In the other it was the anguishing cry of a father disconsolate over the loss of an only daughter, and in the last instance it was the sorrow of sisters over separation from a brother dearly beloved. Christ could have spoken the word from earth and sea would have given up the dead as quickly as the grave gave up Lazarus at His command, "Lazarus, come forth!" But He did not do it, for in Him death has been robbed of its sting and the grave of its victory. In all these resurrections we are taught a lesson on the sympathy of Christ. In each case the miracle of resurrection set forth His sympathy for all who mourn. It may not raise our dead, but He will surely have been present in bereavement and in all our other troubles and sorrows.

Each resurrection miracle teaches us many important lessons, but we can select only one from each occasion.

1. The resurrection of the son of the widow of Nain teaches us the lesson of Christ's sympathy for all human suffering. This woman was a stranger to Him. She had no claims upon Him whatever. She asked no favor of Him, but He saw her passing. Already death had claimed her husband, and now her only son was being carried to the tomb. And when Christ saw her "He had compassion on her and said unto her, 'Weep not.'" On all He has suffered sympathizes. He knows by you, but He knows you and sympathizes with you in all your sorrows.

2. The resurrection of the daughter of Jairus teaches us a lesson on Christ's appreciation of faith. Greater faith could hardly have been possessed than that of this Roman officer. He believed that Christ had complete power over death. A word was all he asked Christ to give, and Christ raised her in response to his great faith. Christ appreciates real faith in us. It should be an absolute faith. It should exclude all doubt. He will also respond to our faith, for "according to your faith be it unto you."

3. The resurrection of Lazarus teaches Christ's love for His friends. Mary and Martha and Lazarus were His friends. He loved them, and this resurrection miracle was a testimony to His love and fidelity to His friends. And we may be His friends and have Him for our friend and brother if we will obey Him and working for Him. "Ye are my friends, if ye do whatsoever I command you." Do you want Christ as your friend? Then obey Him, and He asks of us faith, love and obedience.

BIBLE READINGS.

Ps. i, 1-6; cxii, 1-5; Isa. xl, 29; Matt. i, 20; vii, 7-11; xvi, 16, 17; xx, 29-34; xiv, 14; John xv, 10-17; Heb. iv, 14-16.

An Entrance Prayer.

The following versified invocation was written by Rev. Edward Everett Wood of Boston and is intended to be committed to memory and used by Christians as a prayer upon entering church. Some churches have already decided to have the poem repeated audibly by the congregation at the end of the opening exercises. Endeavorers may find it to have it printed (it is not copyrighted) to hand to visitors as they enter the church:

God bless me here,
On holy ground,
Where God is found.
God bless each here;
Pastor and flock,
Bless and inspire!
Loved ones at home,
Who cannot come,
The world abroad—
May they seek God!
God give all here
The holy cheer
Of Christ's rich grace,
Sight of God's face.
Amen.

Key to a Happy Year.

Let us say with Paul, "This one thing I do—forgetting those things which are behind and reaching forth unto those things which are before, I press toward the mark for the prize of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus." And it will be a happy New Year" to the very end.—Grace L. Jones.

NEW LAWS ABOUT THE NATIONAL GUARD

OFFICERS WILL PROBABLY RECEIVE AN ALLOWANCE FOR EQUIPMENTS.

Officers of the National Guard throughout the Sate are much interested in the passage of the Frelinghuysen military bill, which is now in the House of Assembly, having passed the Senate. The bill is said to be booked for a through trip and it is certain that there will be no delay in the executive offices, if the bill goes to the Governor for signature.

The bill adds the Colonels of the five regiments to the State Military Board and also makes the senior officer of the Naval Reserve a member of the board. The addition of the Colonels to the board will bring the soldiers of the Guard in closer touch with the supreme authority of the State's forces, and will probably bring about a needed reform in the administration of the affairs of the citizen soldiery.

Another subject embraced in the bill is found in paragraph 127, which provides for the payment of an annual allowance to the officers for the purchase of their uniforms and equipments. At present the officers receive no compensation for the terror that we usually consider it. In the services, other than the payment for the week in camp every two years.

The Frelinghuysen bill, in its original form, allowed a sum not to exceed fifty dollars to be paid to each mounted commissioned officer and a sum not to exceed thirty dollars to each other commissioned officer. Some of the lawmakers regarded this as too liberal and paragraph 127 was amended to read as follows:

"Every commissioned officer of regiments, troops, batteries, companies and signal corps shall provide himself with the arms, uniforms and equipments prescribed by the regulations of bill of dress of this State, and there shall be allowed annually for such uniforms and equipments, a sum not exceeding twenty dollars for such officers, said allowance to be paid on vouchers of expenditures for such uniforms and equipments, duly verified by affidavits."

The reduction of the amount prescribed in the original bill is not hailed with delight by the officers, particularly those who have to bear the added expense of horse equipments, but the bill is generally regarded as a step in the right direction and a recognition of the fact that it is time that the officers give freely of their time and effort in the training of the young men who will represent New Jersey in the field, should there be occasion for their services in that way.

In Benjamin Chapin's character drama of "Lincoln," at the Liberty theatre, the author-actor reveals the heartfelt gratitude and love of nobility and good will toward all mankind in such a manner as to present him as a living breathing human being, possessed of all those rare qualities of mind and heart which in the light of the present time causes his memory to be held in such reverence almost if not quite, in the South as it is in the North. It will be remembered that it was the opinion of many of the greatest soldiers of the Confederacy that the greatest calamity that befell the South was Lincoln's death. Had he lived there would have been none of the distressing scenes of the Reconstruction period and it is altogether likely that the Klu Klux plan would have never been known. Mr. Chapin has successfully accomplished the prodigious task of placing Lincoln reverently in a story that would be of absorbing interest, even where the central figure of Lincoln left out, so that his impersonation is not only most artistic portraiture, but in addition to the great characterization is likewise a great play, indeed some critics, for instance that of the Providence News and that of the Hartford Telegram declare that no historic figure has been so well placed upon the stage by any other dramatist since Shakespeare, and the News critic added that it did not seem like a play at all it was so vividly realistic.

BOY STRANGELY IS MISSING FROM HOME.

Distracted Parents Ask for Aid in the Search for Their Son.

Thomas Golden, oldest son of Patrick Golden, a prosperous dairyman of Elizabeth, is strangely missing. The lad, who is fourteen, left his home last Monday morning with his books under his arm to go to the Cherry Hill public school, which is a mile distant from the Golden residence. That was the last seen or heard of him. He had no trouble at the school, where he was regarded as a bright pupil.

His family is nearly distracted and has asked for aid in the search for the lost boy. The police of New York ,Philadelphia, Boston and Newark have been notified, while the Elizabeth police are working on the case.

When Thomas disappeared he wore a dark tweed Norfolk suit with dark blue cap, laced shoes, pink and white striped shirt with stiff bosom, and a small black bow tie. He is tall for his age.

Miss Edith Ginsentzer, of New street, has been detained at home a few days with a severe cold.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

A DEMOCRATIC WEEKLY.

Published at

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Terms: $2.00 per year.

L. FORCE, Editor and Proprietor.

THURSDAY, APRIL 12, 1906.

A dispatch in a New York paper states that "Mr. Fowler is immensely popular in Elizabeth." Is that news, yellow journalism or a joke?

As it is yet in its infancy, the Colby movement in Union is an almost unknown quantity, but there is ample reason to suppose that it will be quite a formidable figure ere long. One thing that augurs well for it here in Plainfield is the fact that such men as Judge Runyon and Councilman Tyler are enlisted in the fight. Neither one can be accused of having any axe to grind. Both are alike aggressive, earnest and able, and are likely to obtain a good sized following.

The Newark Sunday Call is certainly right when it says that Senator Kean "does not represent the sentiment of his constituents in opposing the rate bill in the United States Senate, nor does he obey the demands of his party that some action to relieve the people of the tyranny of railroad discrimination should be taken. While it is true that the greater evils exist in the Western and Southern States, and that in New Jersey, like other settled communities, business men do not suffer the wrongs which cause such complaint elsewhere, no one knows better than Senator Kean that there is gross discrimination here, and if he has any doubts he can be furnished with evidence right in this city of Newark. If he does not know about specific instances, he is much less informed as to matters personal and political than is generally supposed."

Herbert E. Denton, who needs no strong company which will present the magnificently staged modern high class melodrama, "A Ragged Hero," at the New Plainfield theatre on April 18, has earned the enviable position he now holds as the absolute leader in melodramatic work, by the intelligent exercise of his remarkable talents and by hard conscientious work.

AMUSEMENTS.

The third duo of stars under the direction of David Belasco to occupy the Academy of Music, New York, took possession of the great theatre on Monday last. It is Miss Percy Haswell and Robert Haines, who play the principal parts in Mr. Belasco's Oriental tragedy, "The Darling of the Gods." The play ran for a season at the Belasco theatre two seasons ago. The revival at the Academy of Music is distinguished by the magnificence and care in every detail which made it such a notable offering originally. Miss Haswell, as Yo San, and Mr. Robert T. Haines, as Kara, have established themselves as favorites in New York, and the whole production has been lauded by the critics and endorsed by immense audiences. Mr. Belasco has held possession of the Academy for several months, and it can be truly said that the historic playhouse, never had such an era of prosperity as it has enjoyed while the wizard's plays have held the boards. The receipts at the box office during Mrs. Carter's six weeks' run were $103,000. These figures have been sworn to by Mr. Belasco and E. G. Gilmore, manager of the Academy of Music, before a notary public.

The "standing room" sign is in evidence at the Studebaker theatre, Chicago, where the special western company of "The College Widow," headed by Thomas Meighan, Frances Ring, Katherine Nugent and Lida McMillan, is presenting this laughter-compelling comedy. The impetus already obtained by this merry college play indicates that George Ade's masterpiece will run in the Studebaker all summer, and theatre parties from suburban cities are a feature.

Crowded houses still attest the popularity of George Ade's laughable success, "The College Widow," which is nightly delighting thousands at the Garden theatre, New York. The 250th performance in Greater New York has been reached by this special company, which includes all the original favorites, who have received the stamp of approval by thousands of metropolitan playgoers. Dorothy Tennant as the widow and Gertrude Quinlan in her inimitable characterization of Flora Wiggins, daughter of the village boarding house keeper, Frederick Truesdell, as Billy Bolton, the half-back, Stephen Maley, Frederick Burton and others, all maintain the same standard of excellence and play with the same enthusiasm as marked the original performance of this comedy in New York.

James McIntyre and Thomas K. Heath, the only living genuine delineators of the old style of negro, who flourished in the South in the days of their youth, are the stars of Klaw & Erlanger's production of George V. Hobart's musical comedy, vaudeville, "The Ham Tree," which proved a sensational success on Broadway, Philadelphia, Pittsburg and Chicago, and which is at the Grand Opera House, New York this week. These artists, who have been before the public for thirty years, present the negro with all of his natural comedy. McIntyre and Heath long ago established their right to be recognized as artists and hold the position of leaders in this field of entertainment. There is no riot of ragtime, coon shouting and obtrusive substitution of the counterfeit of the real negro in this performance. They present a remarkable contrast in their performance of the garish, noisy style of their inartistic contemporaries. It is certainly refreshing to see two men, with a few old clothes and the daub of burnt cork on their countenances, create the genuine atmosphere of the Southland with the natural touch of the negro whose very seriousness is productive of laughter. It is this quality in their performance in "The Ham Tree" which raises them far above the ordinary and which proves a revelation to many who have not heretofore seen them or known of their remarkable success on the vaudeville stage.

NEXT!

Little Willie is still doing things to the baby. Here is his record to date:

Willie tied the baby's ear
Firmly to the chandelier;
Baby chuckled, full of glee—
'Twas his ear of corn, you see.
—Princeton Tiger.

Willie pulled him by his tongue;
Round and round the room they swung;
Baby seemed to like it, though—
'Twas his wagon tongue, you know.
—Chicago Tribune.

Willie having done these two,
Looked to find what else to do;
Cut his baby brother's hair—
'Twas his head of cauliflower.
—New York Mail.

Willie pounded baby's head,
And the infant, smiling, said:
"Oogle google, umpty tum"—
'Twas the head of baby's drum.
—Rochester Democrat and Chronicle.

Willie, with his papa's hatchet,
Gave the baby's face a whack;
Baby crowed with joy, for 'twas the Face of baby's nursery clock.
—Boston Post.

Willie's little appetite
Longed for something nice and light;
Ate his leg, the little glutton—
'Twas his little leg of mutton.
—Montreal Star.

Willie then, for a surprise,
Dug out both of baby's eyes;
Baby laughed, gave Will a hug—
'Twas his "daby's eyes he'd dug.
—Milwaukee Sentinel.

Little Willie took a drop
While baby, his loving pop;
Did it hurt him? Not a bit,
Paregoric makes pain sit.
—Atchison Globe's Statesman.

Willie sawed his leg in two,
Fed it to him in a stew;
Baby didn't care a button—
It was baby's leg of mutton.
—Cleveland News.

Willie hacked the baby's thigh
Heard a sigh;
Baby laughed and sucked the bone—
'Twas a rooster's leg in his own.
—Kansas City Telegram.

Willie found a fat cigar,
It was strong and black as tar;
Baby ate it; did not choke—
For it was a candy smoke.
—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Willie's such an awful cuss,
Always planning for a muss.
Guess by this time baby of'n
Wishes she was in her coffin.
—Washington Post.

Willie cut the little toes,
Baby's yells in anger rose.
Without one he quieted her—
Toma-toes were in the can.
—Exchange.

Willie cracked babe's little neck.
My! it was an awful wreck!
Baby tried young Bill to throttle;
Bill had cracked the baby's bottle.
—Trenton True American.

Willie pulled our baby's teeth,
Not because of envy or ache;
Only just to have some fun;
Teeth belonged to baby's rake.

—The thirty-six cases of birds secured from the estate of the late Prof. Rowlett have been placed in the North Plainfield High School building on Somerset street, where they can be seen and appreciated. A platform was erected especially for the cases which have been arranged three high. The collection is probably one of the most valuable and rare to be found in this country and will assist the teachers largely in their instruction to the children.

Miss Edna Baldwin, of Dunellen, who took a position at typewriter and stenographer at the law offices of W. S. Angleman, has been obliged to resign owing to poor health.

SERG'T MICHAEL LEONARD, CAPTAIN OF PLAINFIELD'S TEAM

Captain Michael Leonard, of the Hoboken team, has for seasons been recognized as the premier third sack artist in the semi-professional ranks. Leonard's playing is identical with his personality, clean, earnest and conscientious. For these traits Leonard is held in high esteem among managers and players, as well as the thousands of bleacher gods he has played before in his career. Mike started on his semi-professional career with the famous Ironside team that played at the old Shooting Park, now on the site of the Vailsburg race track. He played on this famous Newark team in 1893 and 1894. His brilliant work attracted the attention of the management of the Oritana Field Club, of Hackensack, which association at that time was represented by one of the strongest teams in the East. Leonard played with the Oritanas until he signed with the Orange A. C. His experience, coupled with his knowledge of the game, made him a valuable man, and while there he captained the team. In 1898 he did not play ball.

That was the period of the Spanish-American War. When President McKinley called for volunteers Mike's Irish blood stirred in unison with the throbs of patriotism in his heart and he enlisted for two years with the First Regiment, New Jersey Volunteers. He was made a sergeant of his company and was honorably discharged in September. During the war the New Jersey troops were stationed on the outskirts of Washington.

The following year Leonard went back to the Orange team and remained with that club until 1904, when he was signed by Manager Daab. Last season he played at Plainfield, and is one of the favorites among the fans of that city.

In connection with his war experience Mr. Leonard relates an unusual incident with Uncle Sam, in which he tried to be honest and as a result he was mulcted out of a month's pay, amounting to $21.60, through the dishonest of an officer. When Mike was discharged the government overpaid him a month's salary. Mike left the company before it disbanded at Sea Girt, and was entitled to a month's pay for camp duty despite the fact that he did not go there, as the other members of the company received *pay for it. When Mike re*ceived two checks when he was discharged he wrote to the government officials stating his case, at the same time asking what he should do with the other check. He also asked for the pay that was due him for the extra month at Sea Girt.

The matter drifted along for years without any definite advices from Uncle Sam. Finally, a few months ago he received a letter from the army department telling him that a month's pay was due him and to cash the old check. Leonard presented his check at the bank, but he was told it was "N. G.," as the account had been closed. Then Mike started an investigation and he discovered that the money had been drawn by one of the officers of the regiment. What the outcome of the matter will be is hard to conjecture ,as Mike has written to his old commanding officer giving him five days in which to settle. If the money is not forthcoming Mike threatens to place the matter before the War Department.

GAS MACHINE REFUSE BLOCKS THE SEWER.

City's Sanitary System Stopped Up by Waste from Acetelyne Machines.

A stoppage of the sanitary sewer system in Park and North avenues on Saturday led to an investigation by Street Commissioner Gavett, with the result that a large quantity of carbide of calcium was found to have caused the trouble. Substance from acetelyne gas machines was allowed to run in the sewer and instead of being washed down with the sewage matter had settled in the bottom of the pipe, causing a stoppage.

It was while looking after another connection to the sewer on North avenue that the trouble was detected, and further investigation showed that the manholes were full of sewage matter. A long jointed rod was then run through the pipes, but it did not clear them. Mr. Gavett finally decided to open up North and Park avenues at certain points. An excavation was made near the Kensington Hotel, at the point of the beginning of the trouble, at Park and North avenues and Park avenue and Second street. A gang of men worked until nearly midnight Saturday and Sunday until 4 o'clock in the afternoon, when all trouble was removed.

Users of independent gas machines wherein carbide of calcium is the active principle for light will no doubt be prevented from throwing this stuff in the sewer, and the councilmanic street committee will probably take some action in the matter soon.

The subject was discussed at the meeting of the Board of Trade last week and it was then stated by a member that he expected to hear of trouble from the use of the acetelyne gas machines where refuse was thrown in the sewer.

J. A. Staats, proprietor of the Hotel Kensington, who uses an independent system and who has been throwing the carbide of calcium in the sewer which caused the present trouble, has been notified by Mr. Gavett to discontinue the practice.

At the New Plainfield Theatre Monday Night.

Quite the most important theatrical event of local interest concerns the first engagement here of Florence Roberts, the clever emotional star who comes to the New Plainfield theatre next Monday night in the leading role of "The Strength of the Weak," a new modern play in four acts by Alice M. Smith. Contrary to the policy pursued by Miss Roberts in former years when she interpreted such roles as "Zaza," "Magda," etc., she begins this season a new regime of her career which provides for a new play each season for the next five years. In "The Strength of the Weak" Miss Roberts is said to have an excellent play and a part admirably suited to her ability as an emotional actress. The action of the play occurs in and near New York city, the first act showing a woman's college on graduation day. The story concerns a young orphan whose education has been provided for by her guardian. She has written a book, published anonymously, which reflects certain phases of her life and narrates her relations with the unscrupulous guardian. The latter's son becomes an ardent suitor for the woman's hand, although she is not aware of his relationship with her guardian. The complications arise when the authorship of the book is discussed and continues through splendid dramatic situations to a perfectly natural denouement. The characters have been drawn with bold, broad strokes and represent types of people who are real rather than those of theatrical creation. The scenes occur at a woman's college, a hunt club hall in a fashionable Long Island residence and the apartments of *the heroine in New York, all provid*ing excellent locales for the many strong situations.

Rev. Dr. and Mrs. W. S. Hubbell, of Central avenue, have returned from the South.

Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, of Central avenue, returned yesterday from a short visit in East Orange and New York.

BISHOP AT ST. MARY'S

Catholic Prelate Greeted by Throng of the Faithful.

CONFIRMED BIG CLASS

Nearly Two Hundred Candidates Renew Their Baptismal Pledges —Bishop Dunn Addresses the Father Bogan.

Catholics crowded St. Mary's church to the doors Sunday afternoon, to greet Bishop O'Connor, who came to the parish on his canonical visitation. When the prelate ascended the pulpit to deliver his address, the church was so packed that 200 members of a delegation from the men's societies of the parish which had met him on the street were unable to get in.

The bishop confirmed a class of nearly two hundred.

He arrived in this city on the 3:40 train. Rev. Father Delahanty, assistant priest at St. Mary's, met him with a carriage and they drove directly to the church.

When they reached there two lines of men, representing the Knights of Columbus, the Temperance Cadets, Holy Name Society, the A. O. H. and graduates of St. Mary's school, drawn up on both sides of Sixth street, greeted the bishop. There were at least 250 in the lines. The prelate walked to the church between the lines, and Rev. Father Bogan met him at the door.

The class of candidates fell in behind the bishop, coming from the school, as he walked between the ranks of men, and followed him down the aisle of the church. There were eighty-nine girls and seventy-seven boys, and twenty-five adults in the class. Seventeen of the latter were converted since the last mission services. The girls were dressed all in white, with long veils and bouquets, and the boys were clad in black suits, with white bows on their left arms, and white gloves.

The bishop addressed the congregation, urging them to live according to a high standard of morality, and spoke to the candidates on the solemnity and importance of the sacrament of confirmation. He dwelt on the necessity for the maintenance of moral living.

The candidates marched to the altar after the address and were received into the church. Dr. Boone acted as sponsor for the boys in the renewal of their vows, and Mrs. J. L. Slevin for the girls.

The service closed with the benediction of the blessed sacrament. After the service the bishop made formal examination of the books of the parish and the church paraphernalia.

The prelate was entertained at dinner by Father Bogan, in the rectory. Only the parish priests were present. The bishop returned to South Orange, where the Episcopal residence is maintained, on the 8:12 train.

Purchases Big Tract as Investment.

Doone & Doone, real estate brokers, of Park avenue, have sold to a New York client, as an investment, the entire tract owned by Norman K. Barnes, fronting on Arlington avenue, Woodbine avenue and Randolph road. Mr. Barnes has built six houses on this tract and the new owner will develop it further.

TO MUCH GLOATING OVER THE GRAFT EVIL

RECTOR SAYS PEOPLE OUGHT TO REJOICE OVER RIGHTEOUSNESS MORE.

Disapproval of the general tendency to hysteria over the evidences of corruption and vice in big corporations was expressed by Rev. George A. Warner, rector of the Protestant Episcopal Church of the Holy Cross, North Plainfield, in his morning sermon Sunday. Not enough attention was paid, he said, to the innumerable examples of rectitude and righteousness, not only in the business world, but in many other directions.

Mr. Warner's topic was "Sincerity," carrying on a series of sermons on the familiar definition of charity by St. Paul. He deplored the hysterical cries of universal corruption in the corporate world which appeared to mark the outpourings of certain magazines and newspapers. There appeared to be a desire to gloat over the wickedness discovered, he said, and a hysteric appetite for more disclosures of the same sort. It was time the people turned their eyes to the sweetness and purity of the lives to be found in thousands of homes, to be seen in many business houses and corporations; time to rejoice over the virtue and righteousness of those people, rather than to stand on the qui vive, with a morbid appetite, waiting for more disclosures of evil over which to gloat.

Conference Thanked Swackhamer.

The Methodist Conference at Jersey City passed a vote of thanks to former Assemblyman Samuel S. Swackhamer Saturday. The vote was given because he represented the Conference in the Court of Chancery last year and refused compensation for his services. Mr. Swackhamer is an earnest Methodist, and an active member of the church.

Couldn't Expect That.

"No," said Brokeleigh, "I don't know what time it is."

"Isn't your watch running?"

"I don't think so. I could hardly expect the pawnbroker to keep it wound up."

STEVENS

You want to HIT what you are aiming at and that is best, best or target. Make your shots count by shooting the STEVENS. For 41 years STEVENS ARMS have merited all PREMIER HONORS for ACCURACY. Our lines

Rifles, Shotguns, Pistols

Ask your Dealer—if he cannot supply you, write direct. If you cannot obtain, send 4 cts. in stamps for catalog describing our entire line, and prices, prepaid, which will be refunded to you on receipt of your first order from dealer.

Send 4 cts. in stamps for catalog describing our entire line of revolvers, and prices prepaid, which will be refunded to you on receipt of your first order from dealer.

Beautiful three-color Aluminum Hanger will be forwarded to users in stamps.

J. Stevens Arms & Tool Co.,
P. O. Box 4096
CHICOPEE FALLS, MASS., U. S. A.

POULTRY RAISING MADE EASY AND PROFITABLE

is the title of our large and complete catalogue for 1906, a handsome book 8' x 10½', 228 pages, replete with illustrations, information and advice. OF INTEREST TO ALL POULTRY RAISERS. Mailed free if you will name two friends interested in poultry raising.

Everything in Poultry Supplies.

CYPHERS INCUBATOR CO.,
22 BARCLAY ST. COR. CHURCH ST.

Radium Radia

Is admitted by the thousands who have used it to be

THE GREATEST REMEDY EVER DISCOVERED FOR THE CURE OF

RHEUMATISM

LUMBAGO, NEURALGIA, COUGHS, COLDS ON CHEST, SORE THROAT, PNEUMONIA, SPRAINS, SWELLINGS, ETC.

IT NEVER FAILS TO CURE

Hundreds have been cured with one Application

Recommended by Eminent Physicians

APPLIED EXTERNALLY

Sold at Drug Stores and 13 W. 26th St., N.Y. City

PRICE $1.00 and 50c. Write for Booklet

MAILED ANYWHERE ON RECEIPT OF PRICE

Reading System

New Jersey Central.

Passenger Stations in New York—West 23d St., N. R., Foot Liberty St., N. R.

Time Table Corrected to March 19, 1906.

For New York—2.17, 3.37, 5.36, 6.02, 6.29, 6.51, 7.05, 7.25, 7.45, 8.11, 8.36, 8.46, 9.09, 9.34, 11.00 a. m., 12.00 noon, 1.18, 2.31, 2.42, 3.40, 3.44, 4.12, 4.30, 5.20, 5.36, 5.46, 9.34, 5.59, 10.36, 11.00 a. m., 12.00, 12.44, 1.18, 2.31, 2.42, 3.40, 3.44, 4.12, 4.30, 5.20, 5.36, 5.46, 6.29, 7.40, 8.40, 10.17, 11.28 p. m. Sundays—2.17, 3.37, 5.36, 6.41, 8.01, 8.52, 9.09, 10.08, 11.10 a. m., 12.00 m., 12.55 p. m., 1.40, 2.40, 3.19, 3.50, 5.41, 6.42, 8.52, 10.22 p. m.

For Newark—5.36, 6.29, 6.57, 7.05, 7.25, 7.45, 8.11, 8.36, 8.46, 9.09, 9.34, 11.00 a. m., 12.00, 1.18, 2.17, 2.31, 2.42, 3.40, 3.44, 4.12, 4.30, 5.20, 5.36, 5.46, 6.22, 6.33, 7.08, 7.32, 8.36, 9.46 p. m. Sundays—8.41, 9.52, 9.49, 10.08, 11.10 a. m., 12.55, 1.40, 2.17, 2.40, 3.19, 3.50, 5.41, 6.42, 8.52, 8.32, 9.42, 10.22 p. m.

For Somerville—5.29, 7.12, 8.21, 9.12, 9.55, 11.00 a. m., 1.01, 2.02, 3.11, 3.33, 4.22, 5.00, 5.29, 6.04, 9.19, 8.35, 7.12, 7.38, 8.06, 8.21, 9.37, 10.52, 11.26 p. m. Sundays—12.53 night, 7.45, 9.42, 10.57 a. m., 2.09, 3.40, 5.37, 8.30, 10.15, 11.16, 11.35 p. m.

For Flemington—7.32, 11.00 a. m., 2.11, 5.29, 6.19 p. m. Sundays—8.42 a. m., 5.37 p. m.

For Phillipsburg and Easton—5.25, 8.21, 9.54 a. m., 2.11, 5.29, 6.41 p. m. Sundays—8.42 a. m., 2.09, 7.00 p. m.

For Bethlehem, Allentown and Mauch Chunk—5.25, 9.54 a. m., 2.11, 5.29 p. m. Sundays—8.42 a. m., 2.09, 7.00 p. m.

For Wilkesbarre and Scranton—5.25, 5.54 a. m., 2.48 p. m. Sundays—8.42 a. m., 2.09 p. m.

For Long Branch and Asbury Park, etc.—8.11, 11.00 a. m., 2.44, 4.12, 5.36, 11.35 p. m. Sundays—8.52 a. m., 2.30, 5.12 p. m.

For Red Bank—8.11, 11.00 a. m., 1.18, 2.44, 4.47, 5.42, 11.35 p. m. Sundays—8.52 a. m., 2.30, 5.12 p. m.

For Lakewood and Atlantic City—(7.11 Lakewood only), 9.27 a. m., 1.18, 2.49, (7.44 p. m., Lakewood only). Sundays—8.52 a. m.

For Toms River and Barnegat—8.11 a. m., 1.18, 3.40 p. m. Sundays—8.52 a. m.

For Philadelphia—6.11, 7.44, 8.51, 9.29, 10.44, 10.51, 11.42 a. m., 12.42, 1.39, 2.42, 3.42, 4.47, 5.46, 8.56, 9.56 p. m., 1.17 night. Sundays—7.17, 10.39, 10.44, 11.42 a. m., 12.39, 2.45, 3.42, 4.55, 5.39, 6.45, 7.46, 8.56 p. m., 1.17 night.

For Trenton—5.17, 7.44, 8.51, 10.51, 11.42 a. m., 12.42, 2.42, 4.47, 5.46, 9.46 p. m., 1.17 night. Sundays—7.17, 8.53, 10.39, 11.42 a. m., 12.39, 3.42, 4.55, 6.45, 9.46, 11.26 p. m., 1.17 night.

For Reading and Harrisburg—5.17, 5.25, 8.58, 9.54, (10.44, 11.44 Reading only), a. m., 12.39, (through car), 2.17 night. Sundays—5.17 a. m., 2.08, 5.37, 6.25 p. m., 1.17 night.

For Pottsville, Sunbury and Williamsport—5.17, 5.25, 9.54 a. m., 2.11, 8.21 p. m., 1.17 night. Sundays—5.17 a. m., 2.02 p. m., 1.17 night.

For Baltimore and Washington—1.17, 3.51, 5.25, 10.51 a. m., 2.45, 6.48 p. m. Sundays—10.51 a. m., 2.45, 6.48 p. m., 1.17 night.

Change cars at Bound Brook.

W. G. Besler, Vice Pres. & Gen. Mgr. G. M. BURT, Gen. Pass. Agt.

Lehigh Valley Railroad

Time Table in Effect Dec. 31, 1905.

LEAVE SOUTH PLAINFIELD, N. J.

8.00 a. m. daily (except Sunday) local to Mauch Chunk.

8.57 a. m. daily for Easton, Wilkesbarre, Rochester, Buffalo, and principal intermediate stations.

1.57 p. m. daily for Easton, Mauch Chunk, Hazleton, Pottsville and Shenandoah.

4.58 p. m. daily (except Sunday) "Wilkesbarre and Scranton Express" Solid Vestibuled train to Wilkesbarre, through Parlor Car via D. & H. R. R. to Scranton and Carbondale.

6.21 p. m. daily (except Sunday) local to Easton.

8.40 p. m. daily, solid vestibule train to Buffalo, Niagara Falls and principal intermediate stations except Rochester.

FRANK THOWLEY, City Ticket Agent, 218 West Front Street, Plainfield, N. J. Telephone 117.

Arrival and Departure of Mails.

PLAINFIELD POSTOFFICE.

Office opens 7 a. m., closes 7 p. m. On Sundays, 9 to 10 a. m. Money order office 8 a. m. to 6 p. m.

Arrive—7.30, 8.40, 11.20 a. m.; 2.30, 5.00, 8.30 p. m.

Close—7.30, 8.30 a. m.; 1.00, 2.30, 6.00, 7.45 p. m.

SOMERVILLE AND EASTON.

Arrive—8.40 a. m.; 1.20, 2.15 and 7.00 p. m.

Close—7.45 a. m.; 12.00 noon and 4.30 p. m.

ELIZABETH—Direct.

Arrive—8.40 a. m.; 2.30 and 8.30 p. m.

Close—7.45 a. m.; 1.00, 4.30, 6.00 p. m.

PENNSYLVANIA—West of Easton. Close 12.35 p. m.

PENNSYLVANIA—East.

Arrive—8.40 a. m., 2.30, 5.20 p. m.

Close—7.30, 9.20 a. m.; 1.00, 2.30 and 6.00 p. m.

PHILADELPHIA—Direct.

Arrive—7.30, 8.40, 11.20 a. m.; 2.30 and 7.00 p. m.

Close—7.15, 7.30, 9.20 a. m.; 12.35, 4.30, 7.45 p. m.

Through fast mail for West and South close 12.35 p. m.

Through fast mail for East close 1.00 and 7.15 p. m.

WATCHUNG, WARRENVILLE AND GALLIA—For Bethel.

Arrive—1.30 p. m. Close—9.00 a. m.

Watchung—Arrive 6.45 p. m. Close 5.30 p. m.

SUNDAY MAILS.

Office open 9 to 10 a. m. and 12.30 a. m.

Mail closes at 8.15 p. m.

E. H. BIRD, P. M

At the New Plainfield theatre next Tuesday night the Pixley & Luders cycle of musical comedy will be continued, when the presentation of "The Prince of Pilsen," a work which the boys deservedly a larger share of popular favor than often falls to the lot of this evanescent form of stage entertainment. Its story has much to commend in form as substance, the adventures of the rollicksome Cincinnati on his holiday trip to Pilsen being narrated in a manner that does no violence to the "eternal verities;" the songs are dainty and poetic and the music supplied by Gustav Luders suggests spontaneity and inspiration rather than the reminiscent patterings of made-to-order compositions. The company sent by Manager Henry W. Savage has in it many who have remained by the Prince during his entire reign, and the cast in its entirety suggests that the management experienced no trouble in keeping the organization fully up to the standard fixed by the original performance. Jess Dandy will be again the Cincinnati alderman with "splintered speech."

F. J. Huff, Esq., of West Front street, has been detained at home by illness.

Miss Frances Seaman, of New York, who has been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Howard A. Pope, of East Fifth street, has returned home.

JUDGE RUNYON JOINS COLBY MOVEMENT, PLEDGING TO HELP IN UNION CO. CAMPAIGN

Conference at Elizabeth Addressed by Everett Colby, G. L. Record and W. F. Runyon.

THIS CITY REPRESENTED

The Judge Pledges to Work for Success of the Movement—Another Meeting Saturday, April 28.

"I am heart and soul in this movement. In so far as I can be of any service, even though it be in a small way, I pledge my best efforts."—Judge William N. Runyon, at the meeting in Elizabeth Saturday night when a Colby movement was inaugurated in Union county.

Judge William N. Runyon, to whom much of the success of the Republican organization has been due for a number of years and who is one of the most popular men in the city, has joined with Senator Everett Colby, of Essex county, in the movement for good government and honest politics. This is the second surprise the judge has sprung on his legion of friends in the last fortnight, the first being when hepublically announced exclusively in The Daily Press that he was through with the political game. His statement then meant that the local organization would have to count him out when figuring upon its friends.

His avowal of the reform principles was made at a caucus of the friends of Senator Colby in Union county at Elizabeth Saturday night. Standing upon a platform facing a goodly number of Republicans from various parts of the county, conspicuous among whom were some Plainfielders, Judge Runyon made his pledge to consecrate himself to the effort now being made to rid the State of "graft politicians." He declared that he would use his endeavors to assist in the movement about to be inaugurated in Union, and his words were greeted with prolonged applause.

Prominent among the men in the caucus were Captain Robert Kirkland, one of the most influential party workers in Elizabeth, and Assemblyman Everard Tucker, of the same city. Included in the Plainfield delegation were Judge Runyon, Frank W. Runyon, former Freeholder J. Fred MacDonald, Councilman W. S. Tyler, Dr. Frank S. Wells, A. T. Stanson, G. W. V. Moy, John Cook, F. E. Kinsman and R. Henry Depew. George T. Rogers was the only one from North Plainfield, although the names of Samuel St. John McCutchen, of the State Board of Education, former Mayor W. W. Saunders and Charles W. McCutchen were on the roles.

Charles McBride, formerly editor of the Elizabeth Journal and now an editor of the Newark Evening News, called the meeting to order. Thomas Jones, of Elizabeth, was chosen temporary chairman, and W. F. Groves, also of Elizabeth, was named as secretary.

Amidst much applause, Senator Colby arose to explain the objects of the meeting, and in doing so set forth the reasons that prompted him to inaugurate a movement against bossism and graft in New Jersey politics. At the outset he declared that the caucus was really a mass meeting in comparison with some others that had been held. Noticing Captain Kirkland in the audience, he paid a tribute to him and then to Assemblyman Tucker.

"It is time," exclaimed the speaker, "that the people of this State got together and restored the old style of representation. Corporation representation is not representation of the people. The object of this gathering here tonight is to enlist the aid of Union county Republicans who are tired of boss rule and want to be represented themselves by their chosen representatives.

"Ninety per cent of the people in New Jersey," he went on to say, "demand representation and also welfare laws for their general welfare, and not for the interests of the corporations. I came here to get you together, and all together, for the accomplishment of this result.

"Part of the effect of this new movement is a law which will bring us $5,000,000 more in taxes from the railroads. This is only one thing. The Legislature has passed certain remedial measures which are uppermost in the popular mind, but has failed to act upon other measures, equally worthy, which have not gained such widespread attention."

He said Mr. Colby, the railroads allowed one bill to go through, they used this as leverage to crush other measures inimical to their interests.

The movement, as started in Essex county, was related by him at some length. He learned at Trenton, when first elected to the Legislature, he said, how the people were cut out in framing the laws and running the State. The party, he declared, has absolutely nothing to say as to the making of laws or carrying on the work of government. "I found that it was all done on the back stairs," he said. A few men representing the big corporations in the State get together and they decide what they want, and get it. They put the money into the local campaigns and always see that the political machines in the various counties and cities are well supplied with cash. In return for putting up the money to run the campaign the corporations get what legislation they want and prevent the passage of any measure harmful to their interests. It matters not whether the local machine is Republican or Democratic; all they ask is that the ring stands in with the corporations.

In telling how legislation is affected in Trenton, the speaker said that it was necessary for him to introduce a resolution instead of a bill when he wanted to put the members of the Legislature on record against free franchises. A few days after it was introduced, he declared that he was called into the office of an Essex county boss and told that the P. S. C. would not let the resolution go through in its original shape, and although the entire body of legislators had pledged their favor to the resolution, at the next meeting it was turned down and an alleged P. S. C. resolution substituted.

Senator Colby reviewed the efforts made by him and his friends for limited franchises and for equal taxation, bringing out some startling facts and figures. He also told of the new primary law and how it hurts the machinations of political ringsters.

In referring to the bill introduced by him for popular election of United States Senators, Mr. Colby exposed how the committee chairmen kill measures which they do not favor by refusing to report them. He declared that the chairman of the committee having that bill in charge had told him point blank that he "did not propose to report that bill." As a result the measure has not be brought up for consideration before the present Legislature. Bills are even stolen from members' desks, according to Mr. Colby, who related one significant instance which happened but a few days ago.

In concluding his speech, the Senator urged the men of Union county to concentrate their efforts in choosing Assemblymen. "Civic liberty is worth fighting for," he added.

George L. Record, of Jersey City, followed Mr. Colby. He told of the political conditions in New Jersey's second city and how it was in the grip of gigantic corporations when the people arose and elected Mark Fagan, the apostle of reform in the State, to the mayoralty. He scored the Pennsylvania railroad principally and incidentally the street railroad monopoly in his own city.

Fagan, he said, was treated as an outcast at Trenton and friends of good government throughout the State looked upon as representing everything that is bad. Like Mr. Colby, he urged friends of the movement to set right to work and pick out good material for the Assembly from Union county and to work from now on for their election.

Judge Runyon was given a fine ovation when he arose to speak in response to an invitation from Chairman Jones. He said in part:

"As one who has been an organization man for ten years, I feel that it is a good thing for all of us to have been here. While most of us in a general way have realized that corporations were the dominant influence in our Legislature, until now it has never been brought home to us in such concrete shape to what extent the corporations will go to attain their ends.

"I believe that this gathering tonight is one of great possibilities and that if a generous service is accorded by every one to the cause, Union county at least will this fall do its share toward the purification of the State.

"The coming campaign is one which will demand of every one interested in this movement personal sacrifice, but no great principle is ever attained without sacrifice.

"It will need more than an ordinary amount of conscientious work to put it through, and will need men, not only with capacity for work, but with the quality of stick-to-itiveness to win any kind of success."

"I am heart and soul in this movement. In so far as I can be of any service, even though it be in a small way, I pledge my best efforts."

After some informal discussion it was decided to hold a larger meeting on April 28. Chairman Jones was authorized to appoint a committee of five to arrange the details.

Will Entertain Women Friends.

Perseverance Lodge, No. 74, K. of P., is making arrangements for its annual reception to its women friends. It will take place in Company K armory on Thursday night, April 19, and will include an entertainment and dance. Asa D. Pope, Donald McInness and Robert Jahn comprise the committee in charge of the plans.

A GREAT SONG FESTIVAL PALM SUNDAY SERVICES

Eltborate Preparations For the Saengerfest to Held in Newark.

MONSTER CHORUSES

Gesang and Turn Vereis of North Plainfield to Participate—High Quality of Work Expected.

Arrangements for the Saengerfest of the Northeastern Saengerbund, to be held in Newark next summer, are progressing favorably. It is believed the attendance will equal, if not eclipse, that at any previous similar event in this country, and assurance has been received that all of the societies composing the organization will sing with larger choruses than ever before.

The victory of Julius Lorenz, leader of the Arion Singing Society, of Newark, in the contest for the prize offered for the music for the Emperor's grave song, is particularly gratifying not only to him and his friends, but to all who have the interest of the Saengerfest at heart, because he is to have the direction of the entire musical programme during the festival. The compositions were passed upon by a committee consisting of Victor Herbert, Arthur Mees and Max Spicker, all men of world wide reputation in music. Under the conditions of the contest they awarded the prize without knowing the names of any of the composers. About 150 competed. Mr. Lorenz has been the recipient of many congratulations since the result became known.

The lyric for the Emperor's prize song is also selected in open competition. For this Saengerfest the judges were Emil Wenzel, editor of the New Yorker Freie Zeitung; Dr. Carl Kayser and Robert Metzger, of Newark. he fortunate lyrist is Robert Schmidt, a teacher in the public schools of Berlin, Germany. His poem is entitled, "Hans and Grete."

The executive committee of the United Singers, in charge of the general arrangements for the Saengerfest, consists of the president of the organization, August Goertz; the first vice-president, C. W. Heilman; the second vice-president, Oscar Thun; the secretary, John Goehring. This committee chose Mr. Lorenz as leader.

In quality of work, as well as in numbers participating, it is expected the coming Saengerfest will be especially notable. At the big concerts there will be choruses of about 6,000 singers. Among the soloists thus far engaged is Mme. Schumann-Heinck, who makes a journey to this country to appear especially to appear at the Saengerfest. She comes direct from Bayreuth, after taking part in the Wagner festival, and after her engagement here will leave for Munich. Other soloists will be Campanari, the baritone who has been singing in grand opera at the Metropolitan Opera House during the last season, and Maud Powell, a violinist of international reputation.

One of the features will be the orchestral part of the programme, which will be in the hands of 120 musicians from the Philharmonic Society of New York. The festival will open with the arrival of the city's guests on Saturday, June 30, and will close on the following Thursday, July 5. On Sunday afternoon a reception concert will be given by the United Singers in Olympic Park, and on Monday and Tuesday nights there will be concerts at the First Regiment Armory. It is expected the one to be given there on the eve of Fourth of July will be attended by the Governor, the German ambassador, the Mayor and other civic notables.

On Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock there will be a concert in the armory, in which about five thousand school children will take part, under the direction of Miss Westwood, supervisor of musical instruction in the Newark public schools. Monday and Tuesday afternoons there will be prize singing by city unions and societies, the unions to be divided into two classes and the societies into three.

The competition for the Emperor's prize, one of the most interesting events of the festival, will be held at 10 o'clock on the morning of the Fourth. The societies which will enter are the Jungermannerchor, of Philadelphia, the present holder of the trophy; Arion and Germania Societies, of Newark; Franz Schubert Singing Society, of New York; Kreutzer Quartet Club, of New York, and Concordia Singing Society, of Wilkesbarre, Pa. The prize will become a permanent possession of the society which wins it three times consecutively. It has been competed for twice.

Such of the Fourth as is not taken up with the prize competition will be observed as volksfest, in honor of the national holiday.

To accommodate the great crowds that are expected the hall and other structures at Olympic Park will be rebuilt, and at the armory stages that will comfortably hold the massed choruses will be constructed. States that will be represented in the prize and concert singing are New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Delaware, Maryland, Connecticut, Rhode Island and Kentucky. The national capital will also send singers to compete.

The Catholic and Episcopal Churches Draw Large Congregations.

ST. JOSEPH'S CROWDED

Worshippers Fill the Aisles at the Main Service—Balmy Weather Brings Out Bright Crowds to Parade.

Bright with spring sunshine and freshened by soft breezes, Palm Sunday was like an earnest of the traditional Easter. It awoke Easter thoughts, and the people responded with a display of spring clothes, and large attendance at the churches. There was a noticeable church parade in the morning, and strollers were in evidence on all the residential streets in the afternoon.

Special music and sermons appropriate to the day marked the services in practically all the churches. In those of the Roman Catholic and Protestant Episcopal denomination the long, solemn services prescribed for the day's observance by the rituals impressively inaugurated Holy Week, the final seven days of the penitential period. The Catholic churches were thronged at high mass.

At the services of the Catholic and Episcopal churches the attendance was large. In the former the procession of the palms was a feature of the service, and at all the churches of both faiths, excepting the Mission Church of the Heavenly Rest, the blessing and distribution of the symbolic palms was the salient mark of the significance of the day's services.

It St. Mary's and St. Joseph's R. C. churches, palms and purple hangings were used in the decorations, purple being the prescribed ecclesiastical color for the week. In the Episcopal churches palms were banked about the altar.

As usual, five masses were held at St. Mary's R. C. church in the morning, beginning at 6:30 o'clock. The last one at 10:30 o'clock, was a full high celebration, with an augmented choir. The blessing and distribution of the palms to the throng at the service preceded the mass. No sermon was preached, the reading of the Passion taking its place.

The only special service at St. Joseph's church was at 10:30 o'clock, when solemn high mass was celebrated. There was such a large congregation that the aisles were crowded with worshippers. The Passion was read during the mass instead of the gospel for the day. The musical feature of the service was the singing of "The Palms." Rev. Father Miller, the rector, conducted the service, and preached. There was a low mass at 8:15 o'clock. The benediction of the blessed sacrament was celebrated in the afternoon, and in the evening the usual Lenten instruction was held.

Morning services at Grace P. E. church were early celebration of the communion at 7:30 o'clock, and morning prayer, litany and sermon at 10:30 o'clock. Rev. E. V. Stevenson, the rector, preached a Palm Sunday sermon. Mr. Stevenson preached in Somerville in the evening, and Rev. E. M. Stodman, rector emeritus, conducted the service at Grace.

There was a palm procession at the main service in the morning at Holy Cross P. E. church, North Plainfield. The palms were blessed at the early communion service at 7:30 o'clock. The o'clock service was full morning prayer, litany and sermon. Rev. George A. Warner, the rector, preached on "Sincerity," in his series of sermons on St. Paul's definition of charity. Evening service, with sermon, was held as usual, at 7:45 o'clock. The palms were distributed at both services.

Rev. Erskine M Rodman, rector emeritus of Grace church, conducted the two services at St. Stephen's P. E. church, Netherwood. Rev. A. S. Peck, the rector, is still too ill to take up his rectorial labors. There was full morning prayer, communion celebration and sermon at 11 o'clock, and evening prayer at 4 o'clock.

One service was held at the Mission Church of the Heavenly Rest, Clinton avenue, at 11 o'clock. Rev. Charles H. Doupe, the rector, preached. The palms were not distributed and there was no communion celebration.

DANIEL DETWEILER DEAD

AFTER SIX MONTHS' ILLNESS.

His Demise the First to Occur in the Ranks of the Local Lodge of Elks.

Following an illness of six months from a complication of troubles, Daniel Detweiler died at his home on Carlton avenue Sunday. He was thirty-eight years old and a native of Easton, Pa., but had resided in Plainfield for the past three years. He was general manager for the firm of V. Perrin & Co., glove manufacturers, formerly Perrin, Freres & Co. The sickness which resulted in his death had its beginning in a cold which he contracted while on a business trip to Kansas City last October.

Mr. Detweiler was a member of Plainfield Lodge, No. 885, B. P. O. E., and was the first member the organization has lost by death. He is survived by a wife and three children.

ADOPTS A CONSTITUTION

Plainfield Baseball Association Finishes Its Work of Organization.

ARRANGING FOR GAMES

No Contest Here on July 4—Series With Somerville—Signing New Men—Stock Certificates Ready.

Perfecting plans for the opening of the local baseball season on Saturday, May 5, engaged the attention of the Plainfield Baseball Association at the Hotel Iroquois, Saturday night. In the absence of President William N. Runyon, the vice president, Newton B. Smalley, was in the chair. There was a good attendance and encouraging reports were received from the various committees. Manager Daab was present and expressed himself well pleased with the situation.

Mr. Smalley presented the copy of the association's constitution drafted by President Runyon and it met the approval of every one and was adopted. This constitution is an agreement between the association and Mr. Daab, each being part owners, and provides for paying Mr. Daab $400 for half interest in his franchise. It also provides for the duties of the various committees and the executive committee, comprising the president, vice president, secretary and treasurer, is to work with Manager Daab during the season.

Mr. Daab is to engage players, arrange the schedule, and only in the case of a series of games is played with out of town teams, such as Somerville, is the executive committee to consult as to certain details. Every confidence was expressed in Mr. Daab, while he felt sure that the association had made his arrangements. The question of holiday dates came up and it was the opinion that if it can be arranged it would be well to play the Fourth of July afternoon game at Somerville, provided Somerville would play the Memorial Day afternoon game. These arrangements is desirable so as not to conflict with the race meet at the driving park on July 4.

Progress was reported on the work on score cards, privileges. George Voehl stated that he had seen Mayor Hockenbury and Chairman Frank Randolph, of the police committee, and thought that the city would furnish two policemen at each game at the city's expense. Mr. Randolph said that he would let him know definitely about it later.

Mr. Daab reported that he has signed Bertwhistle to play an outfield position, also "Phil" Reardon, who played in Connecticut last season, for the outfield in place of De May, who will return to the Manhattans. Henriques, who was exposed to play first base, will also go with the Manhattans, playing first base and captain the team. Mr. Daab said that he had several candidates for the initial bag, including a man named Samuel, who is a first baseman and pitcher. He is a Yale man and is anxious for a trial. He expressed the opinion that by May 5 he would have his team definitely chosen and it would be a good one in every respect.

The stock certificates were all ready for distribution with the exception of the signature of the treasurer, C. W. Runyon, and he promised to complete his task so that the committee can have them today and begin the work of collecting money. Already some money has been paid in.

There was a discussion as to the possibility of putting a fence around the oval and renewing the lease for another year. These matters will be attended to at once and if it is possible to secure a fence this will be done. Mr. Smalley expects to see what he can do in this line. As to the care of the grounds it was thought best to engage Arthur Venable, who has been in charge for five years. The work will be started at once so that the Jersey City Club can get the benefit of it during the week while the practice is continued.

MAY CONTEST TAX ACT.

Trenton, April 10—There is a persistent rumor about the State House to the effect that the railroads have determined to fight the Perkins equal taxation act, by which their taxes will be increased from $1,000,000 to $4,000,000 a year.

It is said they have already given instructions for their representatives to ignore the section of the bill which requires the filing with the State authorities of annual valuation statements. This will lead the State to begin litigation to compel the observance of the requirements of the law and the result will be that the courts will pass upon the constitutionality of the measure.

Now Mrs. Chandler.

On the advice of friends, Mrs. Florence Maybrick, who returned to the United States last year after her release from an English prison on a ticket-of-leave, has decided to assume another name in order to escape unpleasant notoriety. Henceforth she will be known as Mrs. Chandler.

Miss Elmira C. Runyon, of Arlington avenue, has returned home after a visit in Boston.

DISAPPROVES OF EASTER MUSIC ON GOOD FRIDAY

REV. E. V. STEVENSON URGES PARENTS TO SEND CHILDREN TO CHURCH.

Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson, rector of Grace P. E. church, urged his parishioners at the morning service Sunday to keep their children from school Good Friday and send them to the special services of the church. He laid emphasis on the fact that Easter music was rendered at the schools on Good Friday as a strong reason why the Episcopal children should not be allowed to attend the sessions.

Good Friday is the most solemn fast day of the church year, commemorative of Christ's agony and death upon the cross, and it is diametrically opposed to church practice to listen to or take part in music or exercises in keeping with the joyousness of Easter. In urging his parishioners to keep their children from school on Friday Mr. Stevenson merely spoke as a priest of the church, pointing the proper path to his people.

The Episcopal children are at liberty to stay away from school Good Friday under the rules of the Board of Education. Easter music is going on that day in the schools, because it is the last day before the Easter vacation, and Easter exercises are appropriate from the school standpoint on that day. The Episcopalians are the only Protestants who observe the day strictly enough to find such music objectionable at that time.

Mr. Stevenson made no request that the Easter music be cut out of the schol programme. It is his contention that all good church members, young or old, should put aside their work that day and attend church, not matter what their occupation.

HOW TO SAVE COAL.

Not in the Household, but in Great Industrial Plants.

In addressing the Glasgow University Engineering Society the other day the president, G. T. Beilby, said that there are in Great Britain steam engines and boilers with a yearly output of at least 5,000,000 horse power. The coal consumed by these is not less than five pounds per indicated horse power hour, or on the whole 40,000,000 tons. The use of gas engines and steam turbines the coal consumption might be reduced to one and one-half pounds per indicated horse power hour, or on the whole to 12,000,000 tons. The saving in coal, therefore, would be equal to 28,000,000 tons, valued at £9,800,000. The cost of making the change need not exceed £50,000,000, or, if the power is to be delivered as electricity, £60,000,000, or respectively, $220,000,000 and $300,000,000.

Theoretical economies of this kind, he added, were often disregarded, but in the present instance they would amount to over 16 per cent. on the capital expenditure, and still more would result if one took credit for more efficient plant reducing working costs.

Rome, April 11.—Prof. Odoul declares that the present eruption marks an epoch in the history of Mount Vesivus. Great eruptions of the volcano, he says, may be expected at intervals of thirty-four years.

John Gaub, of Duer street, is able to be out again after an attack of tonsilitis.

Sanitary Plumbing

Brick and Portable Furnace Gas Fitting, Tin Roofing, Etc., Etc., Etc.

I am prepared to do any of the above branches in strictly first-class sanitary and workmanship manner.

Having associated myself with the Master Members Association of New York City, I employ none but first-class mechanics and non-union men. I believe in every man running his own business, at all times and in all cases.

D. W. LITTELL,

No. 112 North Ave., Plainfield, N. J.

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE

PATENTS

TRADE MARKS DESIGNS COPYRIGHTS &c.

Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. HANDBOOK on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents. Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the Scientific American.

A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.

MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York

Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

NEW IN EVERY DETAIL!

My new barber shop at

143 NORTH AVE.

a now open ready for business. All the latest appointments in the toncorial line.

EDWIN B. MAYNARD.

CARNEY BROS.,

MADISON AVENUE,

Between Front and Second streets

Tinners, Plumbers Gas Fitters,

Grates and bricks for all kinds of stoves can be found here at Jobbers, prices. Bring your tinware mending to us. The best tinners, the best plumbers, and the best gas-fitters in this section. We use none but the very best of materials, and our work always gives satisfaction. Keys of all kinds are made here. Tinware made to order. Ranges, brick and portable furnaces. Sanitary plumbing.

DIME

Savings Institution,

Of Plainfield, N. J.,

Is now receiving deposits with interest, allowed on all sums from $5 to $3,000.

J. Frank Hubbard, President.
Wm. F. Arnold, } Vice-Pres
Jeremiah Manning, }
J. C. Pope, Sec'y and Treas.

Money deposited on or before January tenth will draw interest from the first.

"Beautify Your Home"

The Burr McIntosh Monthly

"Pictorial Perfection"

"THE MOST BEAUTIFUL MAGAZINE IN THE WORLD."

Ask your newsdealer for this superb magazine. If he does not handle it send us his name and address with your name and address and 10c. for sample copy. Regular price 25c. Mention this paper.

Burr Publishing Company
4 West 22d Street New York City

DIED.

HOLLY—On Tuesday, April 8, 1906, Emma, wife of John I. Holly, and daughter of the late Robert and Fany Camley.

DETWEILER—On Sunday, April 8, 1906, Daniel Detweiler, aged 38 years.

McGINLEY—In Fanwood Township, April 9, 1906, Catherine M., wife of John McGinley, aged 70 years.

McCANN—In this city, April 5, 1906, Mary, wife of Edward McCann, in her 63d year.

KENNEY—In this city, on Thursday, April 5, 1906, Agnes V. Kenney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Kenney, of East Fourth street, in her twenty-first year.

RANDOLPH—At her late residence, 502 West Seventh street, on Friday, April 6, 1906, Alice F., daughter of Mary F. and the late Daniel D. P. Randolph.

Guaranteed Salary $900 YEARLY.

Men and women of good address to represent us, some to travel appointing agents, others for local work looking after our interests. Salary guaranteed yearly; extra commissions and expenses, rapid advancement, old established house. Grand chance for earnest man or woman to secure pleasant, permanent position, liberal income and future. New, brilliant lines. Write at once.

STAFFORD PRESS,
23 Church St., New Haven, Conn

W. B. CODINGTON,

Counsellor-at-Law

Commissioner of Deeds, Master-in-Chancery, Notary Public. Offices Corner of Park avenue and Second street.

ALBERT HEDDEN

Livery & Boarding Stables

FOURTH ST.,

between Watchung and Park avenues. First-class Livery. Horses boarded by week or month. Telephone call No. 114.

Wm. A. Woodruff

Fire and Life

INSURANCE AGENT

OFFICE,

corner Front St. and Par k

Woolston & Buckle,

PAINTERS.

Wall Papers, Painters' Supplies, 141-145 North avenu

A TWIRLER AT $3,000

Why Lindeman Prefers Not to Enter the Ranks of Big Leaguers.

A HIGH PRICED MAN

He Sticks to His Business But Incidently Reaps a Harvest on the Ball Diamond.

Some baseball fans who follow the crack professional and independent teams in and around New York, cannot understand why so many of the players refuse to enter the league ranks. The truth of the matter is that they can earn more money by playing two or three games a week on independent teams at good figures as well as hold their positions, many of whom enjoy lucrative ones in well known mercantile houses and corporations.

One example in particular is the case of Ernest Lindeman, who pitches Sundays for the Ridgewood team and formerly did slab duty for the Hoboken and Plainfield clubs. Lindeman is on the reserve list of the New York Giants, but has spurned the offers of McGraw to join the team for the last three seasons. Financially speaking, the blonde haired twirler is better off in this world's goods than many league players of years' standing. One reason why is because he is economical and saves his money.

He is probably the highest priced twirler today in the independent ranks, and he meets with accidents this season he expects to clear up no less than $3,000 by playing ball. This is easily possible to accomplish when you come to figure it out. Lindeman has signed with Manager Hussey, of the Ridgewoods, to pitch Sundays for the munificent sum of $70 per game. Hussey paid Lindeman last season $55 per game, and his work was so brilliant that several other managers this spring raised the ante and finally Hussey, to secure his services, handed over a crisp $100 bill a sa bonus. Lindeman pitched his first game of the season last Sunday and will continue playing until the end of October. In addition to his Sunday games, he will play Wednesdays and Saturdays, the latter day with the Summit, N. J., team, and in these games he will receive no less than $25 every time he pitches.

Mr. Lindeman has declared that he will never play league ball, but will stick to his job and content himself playing on independent teams. He is employed by the Equitable Assurance Company, 120 Broadway, as a policy writer. He is an expert penman and is said to command a salary of $40 per week.

Of course, pitchers make the most money, but the other players are very well. Good catchers do not find it hard to pick up in the neighborhood of $150 a week by playing two or three games a week, while infielders and outfielders make all the way from $100 to $150 a month. The poorest paid individuals in the business seem to be the umpires, who are generally paid at the rate of $5 per game.

Ingenious Jerseymen.

Patents issued to Jerseymen reported by Drake & Co., solicitors of American and foreign patents, corner Broad and Market streets, Newark: typewriter, W. Baxter, Jr., Jersey City; forming castings, W. Brinton, High Bridge; sash cord fastener, L. H. Broome, Jersey City; piano, W. D. Callow, Newark; composition for covering or painting, R. W. Cornelison, Bloomfield; atomizer, I. Q. Gurnee, Butler; talking machine, H. J. Hagen, Orange; socket for bottles, H. F. Haviland, East Orange; typewriting machine, E. F. Kunath, Jersey City; bottle-washing machine, Mrs. Anna Mary Lange, Newark; means for adjusting the height of spring planks for railway trucks, M. Linton, Moorestown; switching device for electric lamps, J. McCullough, Newark; talking machine, E. A. Pancoast, Montclair; lubricating mechanism, C. C. Riotte, Jersey City; forming of molding device, I. A. Rommer, Newark; truck, J. Schreiber, Jersey City; basin sterilizer, H. W. Shonnard, East Orange; apparel pad, H. W. Thompson, Pitman Grove.

Celebrated Wedding Anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Schleif, of Park avenue, celebrated the fifteenth anniversary of their wedding Wednesday night, when they entertained a large number of relatives and friends. The evening was spent in dancing and at a late hour supper was served. Mrs. Schleif was Miss Ficke, daughter of Charles Ficke, of East Front street. She was married to Mr. Schleif fifteen years ago by Rev. Mr. Koechli, formerly pastor of the German Reformed church, but now of Somerville.

Firemen's New Fets.

Fire headquarters' collection of pets has been increased by the addition of four kittens having a curious combination of feet. Some have but four toes and the other proudly display six. The mother of the kittens is "Ragsy," a full blooded Angora cat that has an extra supply of toes. She was presented to Chief Doane by Guy Thomas, of Somerset street, who brought her from an Angora cat farm in Maine.

W. G. Holton Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., will initiate a candidate tomorrow night.

HOPE CHAPEL REVIEWS WORK OF THE PAST YEAR

MEMBERSHIP AND FINANCES NOW BETTER THAN EVER BEFORE.

Officers and members of Hope chapel met in the Sunday-school room, Thursday, and reviewed the work of the past year by means of written and verbal reports. In was shown that every department, with one exception, had made healthy gains and that the chapel is now in a better condition, financially and otherwise, than it has ever been before. In the election of officers, Robert Slorah, by unanimous vote, succeeded himself as treasurer; Walter Bradford, Thomas Hendry and Donald McInness were made assistants and Ralph Eckert was elected secretary.

There were sixteen reports in all, giving detailed statements of the receipts and expenditures for the year and the membership figures. The Boys' Club was the only one to show a loss in members, having three less than the year before, but its gains in other directions offset this backward step. Rev. L. R. Howard's report for the church showed a net gain of twenty-five members, the enrollment now being 395 as compared with 370 for the corresponding time last year. In the twelve months just ended, four members were lost by death, Mrs. Rachael Moran, Mrs. Henrietta J. Sorensen, Mrs. Jeannette Bowden and Mrs. Annie Mary Nelson. There were fourteen baptisms, twelve of whom were children.

Treasurer Slorah's report of the finances showed the total receipts to have been $1,054.27, a gain of $396. The expenditures were $1,044.96. Treasurer John H. Cose, of the Sunday-school, reported receipts of $1,057, as against $671.89 for 1905. The membership of this department is now the largest in its history. The average attendance for the year, despite the fact that on one very stormy Sunday there were only eleven scholars present, was 343.

Mrs. L. R. Howard, treasurer of the Ladies' Aid Society, submitted a report showing receipts and expenditures for the year of $297.56, a gain over last year. Of this sum, $170 has been contributed to the organ fund. The report of Secretary Mrs. C. H. Leland showed a membership of 44, a gain of six for the year.

Other reports were presented by H. C. Squires for the excursion fund; Mrs. John Johnson, for the flower committee of the Ladies' Bible Class; Mrs. Walter Bradford, for the Penny-A-Week Mission Society; Mrs. L. R. Howard, for the Women's Missionary Society; Miss Mary Nelson, secretary of the same society; Miss Edna Eckert and Miss Bertha Jones, secretary and treasurer of the Y. P. S. C. E.; Walter Firstbrook, representing the Boys' Club; Miss Grace Burke, for the sewing school, and Miss Jean Douglas, leader of the cooking class.

The pastor was appointed a ways and means committee and a vote of thanks was extended to all who had contributed reports.

SEEKING BETTERMENT OF TRAIN SERVICE

COMMITTEE FROM BOARD OF TRADE WILL STIR CENTRAL OFFICIALS.

Action on the complaints made by the travelling public over the train service of the Central Railroad to and from New York was taken by the Board of Trade last Monday. The Board, through a committee of one, will lay the complaints before the company, and seek better arrangements for travel.

Elston M. French brought the matter before the board in a communication asking the body's support in an effort to have the 11 and 12 o'clock morning trains from New York stop here. He said that local real estate dealers prefer these trains to bring prospective buyers to Plainfield. He also suggested that efforts be made to have the 11:20 morning train and the 12:39 and 1:20 afternoon trains to New York stop here.

The matter was referred to Charles W. Runyon and after he has gone over the time-table, he will consult with the New York Central officials to find out what can be done toward securing the improvements in train service.

Their Wedding Date Set.

Invitations have been issued for the wedding of Miss Anna Wensel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Wensel, of South Second street, and Fred Bowman, of New Market. The event will be celebrated at the home of the bride on Wednesday night, April 18, at 7:30 o'clock. The couple will reside in this city.

D. A. R.'s Colonial Tea.

Continental Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, will hold a colonial tea on Tuesday afternoon, April 24, at the Park Club. The members of the chapter will wear colonial costumes, and there will be an interesting programme of monologues, music and an old-time minuet. Tea will be served.

W. B. Smith is having another of his houses repainted.

TO TEAR DOWN THREE OLD FRAME STORES

DILAPIDATED STRUCTURE TO GIVE WAY TO A NEW BUILDING.

The old frame building on Park avenue, adjoining Charles W. McCutchen's new business block, will be torn down. The work will be done just as soon as the city gets ready to widen the avenue, which includes that strip between Second street and the railroad.

Clifton & Campbell, who has occupied a portion of the building for fourteen years, together with M. C. Dobbins, A. E. Hoagland and the families living on the second floor, will be permitted to remain where they are until the improvements in Park avenue are started.

It was originally intended to move the building back and next to the office of Boice, Runyon & Co., but it is doubtful whether the city building ordinances will permit it. In addition the structure is so old and dilapidated that John G. MacLaughlin, who holds the title, does not think that it will pay to move it.

It is said that a new building will be erected on the site.

WESTFIELD H. S. TEAM ANNOUNCES SCHEDULE.

The Westfield High School baseball schedule for 1906 has just been announced. Herbert R. Ferris is captain of the nine and Clinton D. Gilpin manager. L. G. Saunders and P. Regel, instructors in the high school, will be coaches. The home games are to be played at Recreation Park, in Westfield.

The schedule follows:

April 14—Rahway High School, at Rahway.

April 18—North Plainfield High School, at Westfield.

April 27—Battin High School, at Elizabeth.

May 2—North Plainfield High School, at Westfield.

May 4—Somerville High School, at Somerville.

May 9—Upsala College, at Kenilworth.

May 11—Rahway High School, at Westfield.

May 14—Upsala College, at Westfield.

May 16—Roselle High School, at Westfield.

May 18—Somerville High School, at Westfield.

May 23—Westfield Grammar School, at Westfield.

May 25—Battin High School, at Westfield.

May 26—Roselle High School, at Roselle.

June 2—Westfield Grammar School, at Westfield.

June 9—Summit High School, at Summit.

HEARING REFUSED TO THE PRINTERS.

Newark Conference Sustains Managers of Methodist Book Concern.

At yesterday's session in Jersey City of the Newark Methodist Conference the petition of Typographical Union No. 6, asking that a committee of printers be allowed to appear before the conference and explain the trouble between the Methodist Book Concern and the union printers, was unfavorably acted upon. Rev. Mr. Eaton, one of the managers of the concern, who was present, was allowed the floor. He asked:

"Do you want me to say a word about the rabid attacks that have been made upon the concern?"

"No," declared the members of the conference, "we will trust you."

Mr. Eaton denied the charge that the book concern had accepted objectionable advertisments.

At their own request these clergymen were taken from the active list and made supernumeraries: Rev. Joseph Daniels, of Ocean Grove; Rev. William S. Galloway, of Tottenville, Staten Island; Rev. Henry M. Simpson, of Metuchen, and William H. Haggerty, of Hibernia. Each has served a period in excess of forty years.

In his address to several theological students who are pursuing the conference course of study for admission, Bishop Hamilton warned the candidates not to make use of the Methodist ministry to advance any other business.

Bishop Hamilton attacked the vulgar rush for their extravagance and ostentation. He declared that the lust for wealth was never more prevalent than at present. Rev. Thomas Dixon, author of the "Clansman" and "The Leopard Spots," was the subject of criticism.

"The man who rails against a poor fellow who can not help himself," Bishop Hamilton said, "is unworthy writings excluded from the mails because they are incendiary."

Watching School Roll.

The roll of honor of the Watchung, N. J., school for March includes the following: Grammar grade—Theressa Schmidt, Leontine Texier, Elsie Schmidt, Mary Texier, Adele Herrmann, Chas. Wersing, Douglas Demler, Geo. Schmidt, Roy Herrmann, Victor Clements, Swift White; primary grade—Ruth Johansen, Helen Schmidt, Daisy Schmidt, Louie Clements, Hippolyte Texier, Richard Schmidt.

MAKING OF THE BIBLE

Dr. Chambliss Outlines History of Holy Writ From the Earliest Times.

A LABORIOUS TASK

Lucid Explanation of the Method of Translation—Lecture Well Illustrated.

Before the Young People's Society of the First Baptist church last night Rev. Dr. A. Chambliss, the pastor, gave a highly instructive illustrated lecture on "The Making of the Bible." He began at the earliest period and traced the history of the Word of God as it has been handed down from century to century. Today there is the finest and most complete Bible in the American revised version; so pronounced by all recognized scholars.

All of this had been possible, said the speaker, although the original writings were gone and only copies and versions remained. He displayed pictures of Greek writings on stones and tablets and explained how they have been translated into the English language with the greatest difficulty, thus giving to the world a book that has withstood the most severe criticism of the times. He also referred to the sacrifice of lives in making such a book possible and explained how the translations were made from the original Hebrew and Greek language.

Dr. Chambliss also took occasion to speak of the work of Constantine and Augustine, and especially of John Wycliff, to whom he said should be given the credit of being the first one to translate the Bible into the English language. He said he invoked the wrath of the Pope of Rome, his writings being condemned and ex-communicated. He spoke of the work of William Tyndall, who was arrested, tried and burned to the stake for printing copies of the Bible and circulating them. Three years later Henry VIII. ordered that a copy of the Bible be placed in all the churches within his realm.

Dr. Chambliss dwelt at some length on the work of James I., how he called a conference of the bishops and Puritans to discuss certain grievances because there were two versions of the Bible, and how he decided to have a new version, which was published in 1611, and which is known as the King James Version, and which has been used by people throughout the world for nearly 300 years.

The views shown throughout the lecture were excellent and out the lecture were excellent and gave all a better idea of the progress through the centuries in the "Making of the Word."

MOTHER AND DAUGHTER BOTH BADLY BURNED

TWELVE-YEAR-OLD GIRL'S LIFE SAVED BY PARENT'S QUICK ACTION.

Miss Hazel Morrison, the twelve-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Morrison, of 718 South avenue, was burned by fire Saturday, and her mother, who ran to her assistance, received painful burns about the hands, all the result of a bone-fire. Miss Morrison was burning some rubbish in the yard at her home and the brisk winds swept the fire toward her. Before she could escape, her dress caught and instantly she was enveloped in flames.

The girl's cries attracted the attention of Mrs. Morrison, who, picking up a blanket, rushed to her assistance. The mother threw it about her daughter, but before she was able to extinguish the flames, her own hands were badly burned.

Miss Morrison was carried into the house, where the partly burnt clothing was removed. Dr. Probasco was summoned and he had the mother and daughter taken to the hospital, where their injuries were dressed.

Miss Morrison's burns were chiefly about the left arm and side and being superficial will not prove serious. Mrs. Morrison's burns were confined to her hands entirely.

S. S. TEACHERS ELECT.

Annual Meeting of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian Church.

Reports for the past year and the election of officers for the ensuing year was the principal business at the annual meeting of the Sunday-school of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, Thursday. Of the forty officers and teachers, twenty-five were present.

The reports showed that $600 was raised during the year, all of which was expended for benevolent purposes. The membership of the school is about 300, a slight increase over a year ago. It was decided to continue the use of the Blakeslee lesson studies for the coming year. These officers were elected: Superintendent: H. J. Cochran; secretary, Harry Slauson; treasurer, L. R. Hopton. Mr. Hopton was elected in place of Charles Cook, who resigned after a service of seven years. The usual missionary and library committees were appointed.

ENTERTAINMENT FOR N.P.H.S.A.A. A SUCCESS

A MOCK TRIAL, THE FEATURE OF THE PERFORMANCE.

A packed house greeted the annual production of the North Plainfield High School Athletic Association last Friday in the assembly room of the Somerset Street School. The plan of past years of engaging outside talent to give the entertainment was abandoned last night an dthe entertainment given by the school boys was considered creditable.

The programme was in two parts, the first consisting of music and song, and the second of a mock trial. The entertainment opened with an instrumental quartet, "Under Southern Skies," which was well rendered by Miss Maude Emmons, Miss Myra Emmons, Miss Edna Smith and Herbert Smith. This selection was followed by a song, "The Hoodoo-doo-doo Man," by Clarence Steiner. So well did this please the audience that Steiner was forced to respond to frequent encores.

The second part of the programme consisted of a mock trial, "The Great Pumpkin Case of Guff vs. Muff." Excitement prevailed all through the trial, comedy and drama figuring in the proceedings of the trial. Frank Webster, as Judge Fobb, was amusing. Jack Peacock, as Lawyer Fozzle, showed ability as a dramatic actor, while George Bailey, as the tramp juryman, kept the house in an uproar of laughter all the time.

The cast of the trial was as follows: Juge Fobb, Frank Webster; Clerk Fizz, Wilbur Dunning; Lawyer Foozle, Jack Peacock; Lawyer Whipsaw, Ralph Kurz; Whipsaw, the bailiff, Lester Matthews; Hi Guff, plaintiff, Arthur Van Arsdale; Ab Muff, defendant, Stanley Fisher; Pike Whiffles, chief witness for plaintiff and owner of a cow, William Burtis; Sam Gump, witness for plaintiff, William Day; Abe Snooks, witness for defendant, William Demler; Doc. Poodle, witness for defendant, Leo Kenney. On the jury list—Arthur Dunning, Clarence Steiner, Fred McClintock, George Bailey, George Farquhar, Leslie Powlison, Charles Doughty, Harvey Smith.

The young folks enjoyed dancing in the small hall after the entertainment.

MARCH 1906 BREAKS A LONG STANDING RECORD.

Was the Coldest In Fourteen Years and Had Some Very Frigid Days.

According to Weather Observer Neagle the month of March just passed was a record breaker for cold weather. It was the coldest March in fourteen years and presented Plainfielders with some of the most frigid days of the winter. The mean temperature for the month was 6.2 degrees below the normal, while the precipitation exceeded the normal by 1.76 inches. Other details of the March weather are given as follows:

Highest temperature, 55; dates 3-4; minimum temperature, 11; dates 24; mean temperature, 33.7; greatest daily range, 25; mean maximum temperature, 40.9; mean minimum temperature, 26.4; normal for March, 39.9; total precipitation for month, 5.07 inches; greatest precipitation in 24 hours, 2.35 inches; dates 3-4; total snowfall, 14.9 inches; normal precipitation for March, 4.31 inches; number of days .01 inch or more precipitation, 12; clear days, 7; partly cloudy, 15; cloudy, 9; Solar halo on 24; dense fog, 26, 27; sleet, 15, 19; prevailing wind, northwest.

COMEDY CLUB WILL PRESENT "ON CHANGE."

Final Production to Be Given at the Park Club on May 4.

The Comedy Club, of North Plainfield, which, in its short existence, has won distinction in amateur theatricals, has decided to give its final play for the season at the Park Club on Friday night, May 4. The play chosen is a translation from the German by Miss Everetta Lawrence, called "On Change." It is a comedy centering round some speculations in the stock market by an absent-minded professor who doesn't even know the "just enough to be game." The cast is considered to be the best one selected and will include many favorites and a number of entirely new aspirants for amateur honors.

Alfred Young, well known here for his excellent coaching of "Diplomacy," "The Private Secretary," and W. L. Saunders are coaching the cast for "On Change." The cast follows:

"Mr. Burnett," Charles H. Lyman; "Prof. Peckering Peck," E. C. White; "Tom," Victor McCutcheon; "Joe," H. Raymond Cushing; "Mr. Bass," Ingham A. Pinto; "Monser," William R. Cock; "Mrs. Burnett," Mrs. E. C. White; "Mrs. Prof. Peckering Peck," Miss Mabel Van Deventer; "Iris," Miss Louise Saunders.

To Stop Carrying Weapons.

Some Italian residents of Orange have started a movement, the object of which is to put an end to the practice of carrying concealed weapons by their countrymen. The movement is headed by Court Marconi, Foresters of America. Circulars have been sent to all Italian organizations throughout the country, religious, political and social, asking their co-operation.

BEHOLD HOW BIG A FUSS A WINK CAUSED

CHORUS GIRL USED IT ON A MAN IN AN ORCHESTRA CHAIR.

Andrew Smith, a travelling salesman, thirty-two years old, was arraigned Thursday before Judge Mahon at Elizabeth on a charge of disorderly conduct. He was accused of having caused a disturbance Wednesday night in the Lyceum theatre during the performance of "New York by Night."

A chorus girl, according to the story told in court, started in to have a little fun with Smith during the performance. He occupied an orchestra chair near the stage. When the chorus girl winked at him he didn't like it and when she repeated the wink he became angry. After he had been the victim of a still more winkin he yelled angrily, "You quit," and then, it was alleged, he started for the stage.

He broke the backs of a couple of orchestra chairs in climbing over them, and wrecked two more in his struggle with the girl, who had been called in by Edwin Elroy, the manager. The whole house was in an uproar and the winking chorus girl was badly frightened. Smith was finally taken out, shouting and protesting, and the play then went on.

Smith's only explanation of his conduct was that the girl had been "making faces at him." He was fined $20 and costs of court, which amounted to $2.85 more. He paid with money which he stripped from a comfortable roll, and was allowed to depart.

P. P. A. EXPERTS AT WORK GETTING DATA

ASSOCIATION ARMING FOR CAMPAIGN—GAS MACHINES WILL CLOG SEWERS.

Discussion at the Board of Trade meeting Thursday brought out the fact that the Plainfield Protective Association has engaged gas and electric light experts who are now engaged in collecting statistics and other data to be used when it gets after the Public Service Corporation in earnest for cheaper rates. The association has $2,000 in its treasury and a portion of the amount is being used to pay the experts.

A discussion regarding the private gas machines being installed in the city was taken up and one member said that trouble with the sanitary sewers would arise if any great number of such machines were used. In explaining this, he said the refuse from the machines, which consists largely of lime, will cake when thrown into the sewer and the ordinary water pressure will not wash it down. It was expected that it would only be a question of time when the Board of Health or the city would have to take some action about the matter.

There was considerable talk of the poor quality of gas sold here, and the fact that Plainfield is one of a very few towns where single phase electric lighting system is in use.

Troublesome Question at Plainfield.

A question recently arose at Plainfield, N. J., as to the appointment of an assistant chief, which has given very much of politics and tends to impair the existing good discipline of the fire department. The force consists of one chief, one assistant chief, ten men and three captains, all full paid. Besides these there are one assistant chief, captain, two extra police men and one engineer of steamer on the call list. Some discussion arose, in which a lot of busybodies took part, as to the appointment of the call Assistant Chief John Cose being the nominee for the place. His name was twice submitted to the Council, but failed to carry the number of votes to elect; consequently, no appointment was made. An ordinance was then introduced in Council to abolish the position of second assistant, and it went to the third reading of that body. The argument was made that, as an assistant call chief no great good could be accomplished by continuing that office, more especially as his time was his own, and he could be away from the city, when, possibly, his services might be required. At the third reading some one may run against, the threat being made that, unless the second assistant named was not appointed and the office abolished, a raise of insurance rates would be made. This stopped action for the time being, but it is learned that such senseless talk emanated from an insurance broker, who was interested in Cose's appointment, but had no authority to speak for the National Board of Fire Underwriters. The movement in Plainfield there is a call immediate need of two assistant chiefs and, no doubt, Council will pass the ordinance to preserve the excellent reputation and fine discipline of the department. Chief Doane is one of the best men in the fire service of New Jersey, and it is a fact that he is opposed to any politics hampering his work—a stand in which he should be supported by all the people of that prosperous Jersey city.—Fire and Water Engineering.

ANGLING FOR A NEW MANUFACTURING PLANT

BOARD OF TRADE HAS SITE TO OFFER A NEW YORK CONCERN.

An effort is being made by the Board of Trade to induce the Atlas Bleaching Co., of Ithaca, N. Y., to locate here. The company is looking for a new site and the board has one on its available list that would probably meet all the requirements of the concern.

The Atlas company is looking for a site with 4,000 square feet, in a town where there are good schools and train service; where labor organizations are reasonable; where living is not high and rents are low. President Woolston, at the Board of Trade meeting Thursday, stated that Augustus J. Brunson recently informed him that he had a plant covering 200 square feet, a building, 100x35, equipped with a gasolene engine, that he would rent it at a reasonable figure. Mr. Woolston thought the plant might suit the Ithaca company and the company's communication to the board was referred to Mr. Brunson.

In a discussion on factories later in the meeting someone wanted to know what inducements Plainfield could offer manufacturers to locate here, and whether the Common Council has any right to remit taxes or guarantee a certain tax rate for a term of years. The question was asked with the idea of finding out what could be done to bring factories to Plainfield.

Councilman Buxton stated that he did not think that the Common Council would be willing to make any such inducements. He doubted whether it would have the right to do so.

President Woolston said that he had no desire to see Plainfield made a mill town, but he would welcome factories here employing high-class mechanics, such as live here now. He did not think that any town or city in New Jersey would be in a position to offer inducements until the taxation question was settled.

It was cited that an adding machine company contemplated to locate here some time ago, but at Wilkes-Barre, Pa., the citizens brought the plant there by subscribing for stock in the concern and building its factory. It was the opinion of the members that it was up to the New Jersey Central to offer some inducements in this line.

HELD COURT ON BANK OF CANAL.

Vice Chancellor Wanted to Find If Water Is Polluted by Paper Mills.

Vice Chancellor Henry C. Pitney held court Thursday afternoon on the west bank of the Morris Canal in Bloomfield. He was accompanied by the counsel and parties to the suit of the Morris Canal and Banking Company and the Lehigh Valley Railroad Company against the Diamond Mills Paper Company, of Bloomfield. The mills, it is alleged, have been polluting the canal.

In the party were Jesse R. Salmon, Vice Chancellor Pitney's official stenographer; former Justice Gilbert Collins, of Jersey City, and George S. Hobart, counsel for the complainants; Dr. Harry E. Richards, counsel for Thomas Oakes, whose woollen mills are located on the Third River, which receives water from the canal, and Frederick T. Johnson, counsel for the Diamond Paper Mills.

The first thing done was to draw two bottles of water from the canal to be used later in evidence. Vice Chancellor Pitney smelled the water and told his stenographer to make a note that the water smelled of chlorine. The others admitted the Vice Chancellor's statement.

Mr. Pitney also had Stenographer Salmon take down that there was fibre clinging to the stones. The water at this point was of a milky color.

Vice Chancellor Pitney advised that chemists be put to work immediately on the water drawn from the canal as well as on the sediment.

BAYWAY CROOKS ARE ENTERPRISING.

These Thieves Twice Carried Off Bodily Railway Station.

The third railroad station that the Central Railroad of New Jersey has put up at Bayway has just been finished. It is constructed of corrugated steel and concrete, built expressly to prevent its being carried away by thieves, as were the other two wooden stations.

The Bayway station is on the Sound Shore line and is used principally by employes of firms at that place. The flagman acts as station agent during the day, but at night there is no one in the station.

About a year ago a wooden station [illegible] disappeared and no [illegible] ever has been found. The [illegible] then put up another of similar construction, but one night shortly after it was finished it was carried off by thieves, who loaded it on a truck and carried it off.

Then it was that the company decided to build the steel station. The one just finished was used yesterday for the first time. It is only 25 by 25 feet, but the officials of the company say that feel reasonably certain that it will not disappear on some fine evening, as did the others.

BOROUGH SHY OF MONEY

Mayor Looks Serious When Councilman Suggests a Loan of $3,500.

RESOLUTIONS PASSED

No Fear of North Plainfield's Solvency—Temporary Condition Due to Taxes Yet Unpaid.

North Plainfield is shy of ready money. The fact that the municipality is in unusually hard straits financially was brought out at the monthly meeting of the borough Council Friday night, when Mr. McGee, of the finance committee, asked for authorization to borrow $3,500 with which to meet current expenses.

Mayor Smalley looked concerned when the resolution was read.

"That's rather a large amount to ask for at this time of the year," he said. "How much in taxes is outstanding?" he asked, turning to Clerk Rowley.

"The collector told me today that between six and seven thousand dollars was uncollected," replied Mr. Rowley.

"Hm. That looks as if we will be pretty well in debt by fall," said the Mayor seriously.

The members looked grave, but no comment was made. The resolution was passed. No fears are entertained over the borough's solvency. She may be a little hard up this year, but the Council expects her to escape attention from the Organized Aid Association.

Mayor Smalley announced that Engineer Pearson was unable to present his sewer report as expected. The weather, the Mayor explained, had been against the expert, and he wanted two weeks more in which to prepare his report. The extension was voted.

The Mayor said a ordinance arranging for a special sewer election was being prepared.

A resolution authorizing the street committee to macadamize Westervelt avenue, beyond Mountain avenue, to the bridge, at Middle street was passed. The work was asked for by the Union County Investment Company, which will bear half the cost.

Mayor Smalley explained that the work would not cost much and was needed only on a neighborhood otherwise well improved. Grading work would be practically unnecessary, he said, and the whole job would not take longer than a week or two.

In connection with the Westervelt avenue resolution, Mayor Smalley said that street improvements for this year were to be considered with reference to the sewer work.

"It is almost certain the sewer will be laid this year," he said, "and we must keep that in mind in preparing for street work. Sewer pipes are laid down the middle of the street, and to lay macadam along thoroughfares to be sewered would be economically unwise. The road-way would have to be ripped up for the pipes, and new work should be held until the sewer is down."

The New York & New Jersey Telephone Company was authorized, to tear up Somerset street and Somerset place for conduit work.

Mayor Smalley announced that the fire department was shy of three call men, but he wouldn't appoint them just now, because they were not needed just at this time.

An appropriation of $25 was made for the Memorial Day celebration of Winfield Scott Post, G. A. R. The donation is an annual custom.

Mr. Lee, of the police committee, reported that $7 had been collected in fines during March from seven prisoners. John McDonough was confirmed as a special marshal on his motion.

Mr. Lee, reporting for the street committee, stated that $100 had been spent on street work during March. Snow removal cost $33.

The Council adjourned to ——st in two weeks, when Engineer Pearson's report will be received. The clerk was instructed to notify the Board of Health of the meeting, and arrange for a joint session.

JOHN P. D. KIRCH'S FUNERAL

Conducted by Rev. Gibbs, Assisted by Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck.

In the presence of a large gathering of friends, the funeral of John P. D. Kirch was held at his late home on Duer street Friday afternoon. It was conducted by Rev. Peter Gibbs, of this city, assisted by Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck, of Trinity Reformed church. During the service two selections, "We Shall Sleep, But Not Forver," and "The Christians' Good Night," were sung by E. E. Runyon and Miss Agatha Badum. There were many flowers, several set pieces being included among the floral tributes.

Interment was made in Hillside cemetery. Those who acted as pall bearers were Harry C. Runyon, Franklin J. Blair, John Powers, William H. Hohl, George W. Bird and H. Vermeule.

Opened New Law Offices.

Percy Stewart, of West Seventh street, has leased a handsome suite of offices in the Mutual Life Insurance Company's building, New York, where he will continue the practice of law.

Bernard Siriski visited friends in Raritan yesterday.

JERSEY'S GROWTH IN POPULATION

INCREASE IN THIS STATE IS MORE RAPID THAN IN OTHER COMMONWEALTH

The New Jersey census of 1905 shows that New Jersey has gained in the last five years over a quarter of a million inhabitants.

New Jersey is not only growing faster than New York, but faster than any of the other Middle or New England States. In thirty years it has doubled its population, as compared with thirty-nine years for New York to show the same growth.

New York is popularly supposed to be growing faster than any other community on earth, yet as shown in the New Jersey census report, New York's ratio of increase in population in the last fifteen years has been sixty-one per cent., which is the same as the growth of Elizabeth. Some towns in New Jersey are growing twice as fast and some three times as fast as New York city. The causes of this unusual growth are chiefly due to the increase of suburban population in the vicinity of New York and Philadelphia, and the extension of the manufacturing industries of the State. The manufacturing cities, such as Newark, Trenton and Camden, flourishing and grow because of their location along the main lines of transportation, and within easy reach of the two great cities of New York and Philadelphia, which constitute their chief markets.

The growth of the suburban resident and industrial population of the State is certain to be rapid and continuous, and to all present appearances they are likely to add a half million to its population each decade for a long time to come.

The population and increase in the last five years of the cities, towns and townships lying between New York and Philadelphia are shown below:

	1905.	1900.	Increase P.C.
Jersey City	256,699	206,433	15
Newark	283,239	246,070	15
Elizabeth City	60,509	52,130	16
Linden township	1,096	619	77
Rahway township	3,935	2,925	34
Woodbridge t'wn'p.	10,221	7,631	34
Metuchen	3,967	2,796	41
New Brunswick	23,123	20,006	15
Milltown	1,210	561	113
S. Brunswick t'wp'p	2,629	2,307	4
Cranberry t'wp'p	1,465	1,423	3
W. Windsor t'wp'p	1,220	1,179	3
Hamilton t'wp'p	5,150	4,164	23
Trenton	84,159	73,307	14
Burlington city and township	9,040	8,453	7
Beverly city and township	4,429	3,754	18
Riverside t'wp'p	3,201	2,501	28
Delran township	1,340	890	50
Riverton	1,557	1,332	16
Palmyra t'wp'p	2,443	2,160	13
Camden	83,363	75,935	10

WOODFIELD ARRESTED ON FORGERY CHARGE.

President of Plainfield Tobacco Company in Trouble Over a Note.

John L. Woodfield, of Bound Brook, president of the Plainfield Tobacco Company, was arrested at his home Friday night by Detective Johnson Totten of Somerville, on a charge of fraud. He was taken before Justice Sutphen at Somerville and held under $1,000 bail. He was afterward paroled in the custody of his counsel, F. A. Pope, Esq., of Somerville.

Woodfield is alleged to have secured a loan of $600 on a note from Patrick Tynan, of Bound Brook. When the note came due, Mr. Woodfield renewed it and the second time it was due he is said to have paid the interest on it. It is then said that Woodfield later paid $140 on the old note and asked Tynan to accept a new note for $460, which he would take to the First National Bank, of Bound Brook.

It is further claimed that Woodfield went to the bank and got the $460 note discounted, appropriating the money, making $1,060 in all that Tynan claims is due him. Friday Sheriff Cooper attached all of Woodfield's property at Bound Brook.

CASUAL PHILOSOPHY.

What one goes into debt for nine times out of ten is a luxury.

A man always making excuses leaves himself no time to make anything else.

Business based upon friendship threatens both; friendship based upon business strengthens both.

That man can best ignore the enmity of those who dont understand him who goes home to a wife who does.

It is a good deal easier to pray for men's souls than to pour balm into their wounds, not to mention that it costs less.

The Supreme Court has not yet decided which is the weaker man—he who is not able to see his own weakness or he who has no faith in himself.

From an intellectual point of view that time of ones life is most wasted when he tries, in a spirit of dumb loyalty, to admire all those things that are popularly considered admirable.—Success.

But Nearly.

"The giraffe was telling me he felt sick all over this morning," remarked the antelope.

"O! that's just his imagination," replied Dr. Monk.

"Wasn't he really sick at all?"

"Not quite; just throat trouble."

Miss Lilian Teeter, of this city, has returned from a visit with friends in Bound Brook.

CO. TAX BOARD'S PLUMS

Some of Those Who are Mentioned For the Jobs.

SLATEMAKERS BUSY

Assemblyman Tillman Talked Of—Other Names to the Front—No Candidates Here.

While the Avis bill, providing for the appointment of a board of tax commissioners in each county of the State, hangs fire in the Assembly the anticipatory selection of candidates for the berths, started immediately after the bill had passed the Senate, goes merrily on. The bill was sent back to the House after an amendment had been added to it. The salary for the fortunate or unfortunate ones, according to developments, who may be selected to take care of the taxation interests of the whole people of Union county, is not a very munificent one, but any number of men are willing to take the jobs, and several are being named by their friends who probably wouldn't take a place on the board.

If the bill passed safely through the hands of the Governor it will be one of the most important pieces of legislation affecting Union county placed on the books in years.

The names of candidates may be heard in all parts of the county. Here are a few: George Stewart, of Elizabeth, of the Republican City Committee from the Twelfth ward; Dennis F. Burke, of Elizabeth, who fought for councilmanic honors in the Second ward; John Farrell, of Rahway, former freeholder and a member of the County Court House Commission; Assemblyman Peter Tillman, George Ford, and John Crowell, of Rahway; Joseph Hague, of the Ninth ward, Elizabeth. Then there are Hobart Sayre, John J. Lane, of Summit; John J. Farrelly, who has city valuations at his fingers' ends; Martin Kenely, William Miller and John W. Warren, a building and loan appraiser, who should know a lot about valuations. Besides these Judge J. Williams Crane has been spoken of with Edward C. Woodruff, of the Union County Savings Bank; A. D. Mulford and several others.

Considerable along with the selection of possible candidates is the discussion as to whence the commissioners will come and what the political complexion of the board will be when it is ready for business. The latter part of the discussion is not causing much anxiety among the Republicans and few Democratic enthusiasts bother with it. The most likely solution of the question, and one that has many backers, is that the commission will consist of one Republican from each abelis, one from some other part of the county, and a Democrat. No candidates have yet loomed up in this city.

PERSONAL NOTES.

Maxim Gorky, the author, will shortly start for America. He is at present in Switzerland.

More than $1,000 has already been contributed in Boston to the fund for the purchase of the old Paul Revere homestead.

With a view of entering business in California, Captain J. J. McCardy, auditor for the United States Printing Office Department, has resigned, to take effect May 1.

Secretary Taft will deliver an address before the Tuskegee Institute, Alabama, next Wednesday, the occasion being a celebration of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the founding of the institution.

Captain Henry Adams, in his tenton sloop Spray, in which he is making a tour of the world, has arrived at Georgetown. He left Boston three years ago and since then has been to nearly every corner of the world in the little vessel.

Prof. Frederick Starr, the famous anthropologist of the University of Chicago, who sailed for Africa on September 23 last, and about whose safety there was much anxiety, has been heard from from the town of Udôbne, in King Leopold's African possessions.

Among the signatures to the Declaration of Independence will be found that of John Witherspoon. The biography of this statesman, educator and theologian, who is claimed to be the real founder of Princeton College, has just been issued by his great-grandson, David Walker Woods, Jr.

Dr. Clifton F. Hodge, head of the biological department of Clark University, has started a movement that has for its end the establishment of a farm in the vicinity of Worcester, Mass., where an exhaustive study of birds and insects may be made for the purpose of ridding the State of insect pests by the propagation of their natural enemies—the game birds.

Vice Chancellor Stevenson Saturday refused to grant the petition of Joseph Cuparo, a barber, of Jersey City, to restrain the Bay Manufacturing Company and the Williams Farrant Company from carrying on a blacksmith business next door to Cuparo's barber shop, on the ground that because of the noise and vibration the customers in the barber shop were annoyed, the complainant was unable to study and his brother to take lessons on the violin. The court decided that there was no evidence to show that there had been any loss of business to the barber.

RICHARD BURBAGE.

He Was a Great Actor and Shakespeare's Leading Star.

March 16, 1618 or 1619, Richard Burbage, player, died at Shoreditch, London.

The first of the great English tragic actors, Burbage was in every way worthy to head the long roll of England's famous players. The son of an actor, the friend and companion of Shakespeare, it was through him that many of the heroes of the dramatist first spoke to the eager playgoers who thronged the Globe theatre. He was the original of Romeo, Hamlet, Lear, Othello, Macbeth, Shylock, Richard III. and many other of Shakespeare's leading characters, and his name stands next to that of the great poet in the licenses for acting granted by James I. in 1603 to the company of the Globe theatre.

His powers as an actor were not his only claim to distinction, for he was also a successful painter. The fame of his abilities held a prominent place in theatrical tradition for many years, a poem in his honor, dedicated to one of the great players of his day, being written as late as the time of Charles II.

His death, which was probably the result of paralysis, caused the poets to turn their thoughts to his successful career, and it is from the numerous elegies then written that most of the lamentable concerning him must be gathered. Few players have ever had the good fortune to be so well liked by the dramatists of their time, and all praised him, one even lamenting that his death "hath made a visible eclipse of playing."

A shrewd, careful man in his business affairs, Burbage left an estate producing a yearly income of £300, a large sum for a player in those days to bequeath to his heirs. Beloved and respected by all, he survived his great master but a few years, his grave bearing the simple, expressive epitaph, "Exit Burbage."—London Saturday Review.

CLIPPINGS OF CURRENT COMMENT.

In starting the use of railroad smoking cars for women, England has reached a stage of civilization a trifle too advanced for this country. —Cleveland Leader.

It's just this way: As individuals, the packers are immune, but as corporations they are in for it. Clear as daylight—and yet what is going to become of the individuals when the corporations are packed off to the penitentiary?—Newark Evening News.

The suggestion that courts issue no temporary restraining orders in rate litigation until both sides to the controversy have been given a hearing is one some people think might generally be applied with little danger of injuring the real interests of the litigants.—Omaha Bee (Rep.).

J. G. Phelps Stokes, the rich young reformer, says the evils we suffer can and should be cured. Will Mr. Stokes kindly forward an opinion as to the amount a violator of the anti-smoke ordinance should be fined after he has been sued for about the seventeenth time?—Chicago Record-Herald.

Judge Humphrey, of Chicago, has followed the President's decision in the Alton case by fining the corporation and not the individual is to be punished for rebates and violations of the anti-trust law. Chicago may proceed at once to build some jails large enough to hold a few packing houses.—Washington Post.

Our esteemed contemporary, the Brooklyn Eagle, has made a great discovery. It suggests that some inventor turn the Brooklyn Bridge stairs into a treadmill and store the power for industrial purposes. The only weakness in the proposition is that it would be impossible to accumulate and store the accompanying profanity.—Philadelphia Press.

Advice from a Neighbor.

Mrs. Nexdore—My daughter's piano is so scratched I'll have to get some furniture polish for it.

Mrs. Pepprey—Kerosene oil would be best for it.

Mrs. Nexdore—To remove the scratches?

Mrs. Pepprey—Yes. Saturate the piano with the kerosene and touch a parlor match to it.

His Case Exactly.

"By the way, John," began Mrs. Dresser, "I saw a milliner's sign today that reminded me—"

"Funny," her husband interrupted, quickly. "I saw a sign in a shop window today that reminded me of myself."

"Of yourself?"

"Yes. It simply said: 'Reduced to 98c.'"

But Not to Pay Back.

"I see Grapther has bought an automobile. I didn't think he had sufficient means to do that."

"O! he has all sorts of means of borrowing money and just as many means of spending it."

Regarding Wine and Men.

"Some men are like wine, they improve with age."

"Yes, but the likeness must be perfect."

"How do you mean?"

"Well, no wine can improve with age that is drunk too often."

Mrs. W. J. Mehary, of Philadelphia, has been spending the past few days with her sister, Mrs. W. J. Counihan, of Spooner avenue.

EVANGELISM AS KEYNOTE

Programme For the State Conference of Epworth League at Atlantic City.

BEGINS ON APRIL 25

Addresses by Prominent Methodists —Both Ministers and Laymen—Services Outlined.

Rev. Thomas S. Brock, president of the Epworth League of the New Jersey conference, has arranged the programme for the twelfth annual convention of the league, to be held at St. Paul's church, Atlantic City, April 24, 25 and 26. The leagues of the First, Grace and Monroe Avenue M. E. churches will be represented. The key thought of the convention will be "Evangelism," and the programme in full will be as follows:

Tuesday, April 24—7:45 p. m., opening service, Rev. Dr. E. R. Brunyate, Atlantic City; 8 p. m., address, Rev. Morgan Read, Camden; 10:15 p. m., "New Evangelism, Personal," Rev. J. Morgan Read, Camden; 10:15 a. m., address, "Social Culture," Rev. John S. Heisler, Camden; 10:45 a. m., appointing of committees; 10:50, address, "Young People and Missions," Rev. George H. Jones; 11:30, "The Meaning of the Morning Watch," H. E. Bariglt, editor "Daily Bible;" 12 m., words of welcome, Rev. M. E. Snyder; response, Rev. Thomas S. Brock; 12:15, adjournment; 2:15 p. m., praise service, Rev. D. E. Clair, Absecon; 2:30 p. m., address, "Women in the Church and League," Rev. J. W. Lee, Camden; 3 p. m., "Evangelism, Pastoral," Rev. George M. Hughes, Mt. Holly; 3:30 p. m., address, "Saving the Child," Rev. W. G. Koons, Smyrna; 4:15 p. m., junior rally, in charge of S. H. Thompson, Camden; 6:30 p. m., district meetings; New Brunswick district, St. Paul's church, Rev. J. L. Surtees, leader; Trenton district, Olivet Presbyterian church, Rev. C. L. Pittenger, leader; Bridgeton district, First Baptist church, Rev. L. I. Hand, leader; Camden district, Central Methodist church, Rev. J. L. Howard, leader; 7:30 p. m., vesper service, Rev. E. A. Miller, Pleasantville; 8 p. m., address, Rev. W. F. P. Sheridan, Baltimore; evangelistic service, Rev. George T. Harris, Camden.

Thursday, April 26—6 a. m., sunrise service, Young's Pier, Rev. W. W. Richley, Camden; 9 a. m., Bible study, Rev. J. G. Reed, Salem; 9:45 a. m., "Evangelism, Silent," Miss Bertha Fowler, Philadelphia; 10:15 a. m., address, "The Highlands of God," Rev. J. R. Mason, Collingswood; 10:45 a. m., executive session; 11 a. m., "Evangelism, Everyday," Rev. H. J. Zelley, Camden; 11:30, Men in the League and Church," Rev. J. Ward Gamble, Ocean City; 12:15 p. m., adjournment; 2 p. m., Department Conferences; Epworth Department, Central Methodist church, Rev. S. G. Pitt, leader, discussion, "Methods for Individual Soul Culture," "Face to Face Evangelism," "World Wide Evangelism;" St. Paul's church, Rev. J. B. Kulp, leader; discussion, "Mission Study Classes," "Christian Stewardship," "Mercy and Help;" St. Paul's church, Miss Anna Stiles, leader; discussion, "Mercy and Help that Count," "Young People and Temperance," "Social and Literary;" Olivet Presbyterian church, Miss Almira L. Dobbins, leader; discussion, "Social Ways that Win," "What Literary Work Can We Do?" "Junior Work;" Central Methodist church, S. H. Thompson, leader; discussion, "Up-to-date Junior Works," "Holding the Boys and Girls;" 2:45 p. m., covenant meeting, Rev. D. E. VanDright, Seaville; 3 p. m., reports from department conferences; 3:20, "Evangelism Following It Up," J. D. Bills, Camden; 3:45, "The Outlets of Life," Rev. C. B. Fisher, Merchantville; 4:10, exercises on the boardwalk; 7:15, love feast, Rev. H. L. Denlinger, Port Republic; 8 p. m., address, Rev. W. A. Fry, Trenton; closing service, S. G. Pitt.

SQUIRE COLLINS ASKS FARMERS TO A PICNIC.

Agriculturists Invited to Day's Outing in Westfield Township.

The farmers of Union county took advantage of the fine spring weather Thursday to prepare the soil for the reception of seed, and this was the reason there was such a small attendance of members at the meeting of the Board of Agriculture at Elizabeth.

The farmers had nothing but good words in commendation of Governor Stokes, who, they united in saying, with the exception of former Governor Newell, a Monmouth county man, had given more attention in message in the interest of farmers than any governor who had ever been chosen.

The members are yet hoping that legislation may be enacted compelling less speed for autos. They are also looking hopefully to the time when a parcels post, similar to the system in Germany, England and other countries, shall be established in this country.

Miss Edith Andrews, of Grove street, is out after two weeks' detention at home by illness.

GOLD MEDAL TROUPE OPENS UP ITS TOUR

PLAYED TO A PACKED HOUSE IN EXCELSIOR HALL, SCOTCH PLAINS.

Before a packed house in Excelsior Hall Scotch Plains, Friday, the Gold Medal minstrel troupe, of this city, opened up its second annual tour of suburban towns. It presented the best black-face show it has yet put out and the performance moved with a swing akin to professionalism. The audience numbered many Plainfielders who went down to watch the work of the artists and all were enthusiastic in their praise.

Joseph C. Martin acted as interlocutor in the customary first part and the funmakers on the ends were Will Doud, Bert Firstbrook, Thomas M. Muir and Harry Blimm. The latter made a big hit in his introduction of George M. Cohan's latest song success, "You're a Grand Old Rag," with a patriotic accompaniment. Ira C. Bowers got a "big hand" on his buck dancing and the Gold Medal quartette, composed of Joseph C. Martin, Harry Roberts, Harry Johnson and Jack Tod, furnished one of the most pleasing numbers in the show. The olio in the second part illustrated moving picture Brownies, illustrated songs by Elmer Cutting, instrumental and vocal selections by the Minion Brothers, of Newark, and a sketch, "Razor Jim," in which the characters were taken by Harry Robinson, Thomas J. Muir, Harry Blimm and Arthur Browning.

Mr. Muir really outdid himself. His droll vocalization and his screamingly funny antics as "Razor Jim" won him hearty applause.

There were sixteen vocalists in the chorus and Harry and Thomas DeMeza acted as stage managers. The show will be repeated at New Market on Tuesday, April 17, under the auspices of Friendship Council, Jr. O. U. A. M.

BALL PLAYER-ACTOR STARTS NEW CAREER

BERT MOORE LATE OF "DUKE OF DULUTH" A MERGENTHALER WORKER.

From the plaudits of the baseball diamond, to the glamor of the footlights and thence to the printing shop, is three interesting steps in the career of Bert Moore, of Grove street, a well known popular young man of this city. Mr. Moore has tired of the theatrical business having been a member of the famous "Floradora" sextette and lastly "The Duke of Duluth" company.

The ex-thespian now holds a position with the Winthrop Press, of New York, one of the largest printing houses in the metropolis. No sooner than did Mr. Moore inhale a few whiffs of printers ink in the composing room of the concern and hear the first clicks of the linotype machines in the printery, than did he decide that it would be very profitable for him to learn the art of manipulating a Mergenthaler machine.

Four weeks ago he entered the large manufacturing plant of the concern in Brooklyn and started on a course of instruction. He is now what is considered an expert among the students and can turn out on an average of 4,000 ems every sixty minutes. In addition to the machine operating end of the business Mr. Moore will take a course in the machine end of the business and when he has completed this branch he will not only be able to operate a machine but also to make repairs when necessary.

Mr. Moore said he has lost the theatrical fever and never expects to appear on the stage in a professional way again. He declares the business is too monotonous for him, and besides there is very little money in it nowadays.

Local baseball fans will remember Moore as one of the stars of the City League four seasons ago when he covered second bag for the Y. M. C. A. pennant winners. Mr. Moore also worked for a time at the local plant of the Manganese Steel Safe Works.

SOCIAL DICTIONARY.

Ball—An affair of Scotch or Bourbon; usually a fizzle.

Chaperon—A Bluff.

Debutante—A girl coming out; usually head and shoulders out.

Divorce—A pre-nuptial ceremony.

Divorcee—One whose sentence has expired.

Fiancee—One who looks for trouble.

Musicale—A conversazione with accompaniment.

Reception—A function given by a hostess who wishes to snub a few people.

Scandal—The things "they say."

Smart Set—Those who know more than they ought to and not as much as they should.

Wedding—An overture to divorce. —Judge.

Brutal Man.

Mr. Nagget—Well, are you going to the theatre?

Mrs. Nagget—I haven't made up my mind yet.

Mr. Nagget—Huh! That's not important. It's making up your face and figure that takes time.

CARNIVAL'S ATTRACTIONS

Hospital Affair Will be Bigger and Better Than Ever.

FAIR OF ALL NATIONS

Women's Auxiliary to Have a Large Building For Picturesque Sales Place—Circus and Sideshow.

W. S. Miller, of New York, who made a big success of the affair last year and is to have charge of the second annual hospital carnival, came to the city Friday to begin arrangements for the event in earnest. It will run from May 19 to June 3, on the West Fourth street grounds, and be bigger than ever.

Preparations for it are on a more elaborate scale than for last year's big affair. Shows and fair games, attractions of all sorts, will be on the grounds. One of the central features of the carnival group will be a big building conducted by the Women's Auxiliary as a Fair of All Nations. The structure, 80x80, will be surrounded by balconies, and articles of all kinds will be sold by women dressed as the different races and nations of the world.

There will be a big circus run under the direction of City Judge William N. Runyon. A lively sideshow attached to the circus will be conducted by Maze Edwards, manager of the Casino. An electric theatre will also be in operation.

Music, but lively, attractions will be scattered about the grounds. There will be an electric fountain, mystic maze, Punch and Judy, vaudeville show, Indian show, minstrel show, shoot-the-chutes, Ferris wheel, merry-go-round, one ring swings, snake show, gypsy camp, Indian novelty tent, and all the latest games.

Dancing will be a feature nightly. A big dancing platform is to be erected.

DEMOCRATIC COMMITTEE SHIES AT RESOLUTION.

Moody's Declaration Practically Rejected and State Platform Reaffirmed.

Emasculated of all the features dearest to the heart of its author, the Moody resolution, adopted at the recent "convention" of Democrats in Newark, was grudgingly adopted by the Democratic County Committee at its meeting in Elizabeth Friday.

A member who was present said this morning that the adoption was practically a rejection, because there was nothing to the resolution much like the original when it went through, with amendment holes all over it.

John Moody, author of the resolution, sat in the chairman's place while the instrument was being pounded.

Seventy-five or eighty committeemen attended the meeting, among them three or four from this city.

The resolution was warmly received just as soon as it came up. Debate over it raged hotly from early in the meeting until 11 o'clock. Mr. Moody could hardly have liked the way it was handled, but he made no public announcement of his feeling in the matter. He made a simple statement of the intent and purpose of the resolution.

Appended to the resolution as it was finally adopted was a declaration of faith in Mr. Moody's sincerity in his efforts to purify and strengthen the Democratic party. The committee reaffirmed the platform of the last State convention.

John L. Crowell was pushed off the county board of elections. His term expires this year, and the committee proceeded to the election of his successor. He was renominated, with Fred Zlor, secretary of the committee, running against him. Zlor won out by two votes.

ANNOUNCES FOOTBALL DATES.

Interacademic League Agrees on Schedule for Next Fall.

The struggle for the Interacademic Football League championship next fall will be a hard one. The new playing rules will help, in a large measure, the weak teams, as quick, active, light men will have an equal chance with their heavy opponents. In the league will be Newark Academy, Montclair Military Academy, Pingry, Leal and Morristown. The following schedule has been arranged:

October 13—Leal-Morristown at Morristown.

October 13—Pingry-Montclair Military at Montclair.

October 20—Leal-Montclair at Plainfield.

October 20—Newark Academy-Morristown at Orange Oval.

October 27—Pingry-Newark Academy at Orange Oval.

October 27—Montclair-Morristown at Morristown.

November 3—Pingry-Leal at Elizabeth.

November 3—Montclair Military-Newark Academy at Montclair.

November 10—Pingry-Morristown at Elizabeth.

November 10—Leal-Newark Academy at Orange Oval.

Miss Aimee Emmons, of Prospect place, the borough, had a prominent part on the programme at the meeting of the Middlebrook Country Club, of Somerville, last week. She gave several recitations.

COUNTY CHAIRMAN SMITH COUNSELS REFORM WITHIN THE PARTY ORGANIZATION

Declares County's Representatives Are Not Dominated By Corporation Influences.

FAGAN MAY SPEAK

Jersey City's Mayor Likely to Address Big Meeting at Elizabeth—

Judge Runyon to Head Committee of Five.

Not only in Plainfield, but throughout the county, the sole topic of conversation among the politicians was the Colby invasion of Union county, and particularly so the enlistment of Judge Runyon, heretofore known as an organization stalwart. As might be expected, there was general reticence on the part of those close to the powers that be in the city and county, but one or two of the leading lieutenants of the regulars guardedly expressed their views.

Naturally, everyone was eager to hear what County Chairman Frank H. Smith, the right hand man of Hamilton F. Kean, would have to say, knowing that he spoke ex-cathedra. In discussing the reform movement last night, the county chairman displayed the trait of successful politicians, such as the late Senator M. S. Quay. He had no words of reproach for those who would help in the Republican house-cleaning work, but suggested that the best way to pursue the task would be from inside the organization. That's what Matt Quay always championed.

Mr. Smith said:

"As chairman of the Republican County Committee, I don't care to lend my name or influence to any movement of reform outside of the organization. I have no comments to make or criticisms on anybody attending the Colby meeting or joining in the movement. I see no wrong in Republicans combining for the good of the party. Personally, I believe that more good can be accomplished by work within the organization than without.

"The organization always welcomes suggestions from men interested in reforming the party or placing it on a stronger or sounder basis. These men are sincere in their motives. They are working for the good of the party.

"I don't see here Plainfield has any need for a reform. Union county is well represented in the legislature and I fail to see how our representatives are dominated by corporate influences.

"You disagree with Senator Colby with what he says about graft in the Legislature?"

"I do so far as this county is concerned. Senator Colby certainly has no cause for complaint, for no representatives have done more to further the principles he advocates than the Union county Assemblymen. Assemblyman Perkins, leader of the House, presented the equal taxation measure, Senator Colby's measure. Assemblyman Tucker is a Colby man. Certainly he wouldn't do anything to antagonize his political leader, and I haven't heard of Assemblyman Tillman opposing any Colby measure."

Mayor James F. Buckle, in his usual cordial way, talked of the movement launched in Union county, and he had no words of condemnation for those who had allied themselves with the reform guards. He intimated, however, that he could see no real necessity for the movement. The Mayor has been an admirer and friend of Judge Runyon for many years and therefore it was not expected by the reporter that he would attack him for the step he has taken.

"I don't care to say anything about this matter," said the Mayor. "You know the history of Plainfield as well as I do and you know whether there is any real reason for complaint. If the people do not think things are run right, the power is in their hands to change conditions for what they think best. I think we have a pretty good government."

It was learned that the reason City Clerk James T. MacMurray could not be found yesterday was that he and his men was that he was lying ill in New York. His wife went on to his bedside yesterday afternoon.

Senator Ernest R. Ackerman was in Trenton attending to his duties in the Legislature and did not get home last night on account of the storm. Freeholder Wilbur was also in Trenton, it being his custom to attend the Monday night meetings while the Legislature is in session.

Former Mayor William L. Saunders, of North Plainfield, was among the boroughites who had been enrolled, but was not present at the meeting Saturday night. When asked last night why he did not put in an appearance, Mr. Saunders said that the best reason he could furnish was the famous remark of David B. Hill—"I am a Democrat."

"I received Mr. Colby's invitation," said he, "and in acknowledging it said that I was much obliged for the invitation."

Continuing, Mr. Saunders said: "I wrote him that I thoroughly agreed with him that there was need for reform in the State and in Union county particularly. But I told him I feared that my remedy was very different than his, for I would suggest that a Democrat be put in every job held by a Republican.

"This reform movement, I take it," said Mr. Saunders, "is within the Republican party. I am a Democrat, and therefore I can not see how I am interested."

Samuel St. John McCutchen, a member of the State Board of Education, is another boroughite whose name was found on the rolls. Like Mr. Saunders, he informed the reporter that he is a Democrat, and therefore could not identify himself with the Colby movement to reform the Republican party.

At Saturday night's meeting Chairman Jones was empowered to appoint a committee of five to arrange for the big meeting to be held in Elizabeth. It will take place on Saturday night, April 25. No place has been selected as yet, but probably a large hall will be engaged for the purpose. This meeting, it is said, will be a public one and a general invitation will be extended to every Republican in the county to attend.

A committee of five will be announced by Chairman Jones in a few days. It is known that Judge Runyon, of this city, will be chairman. The other members will no doubt be selected from Elizabeth, Summit, Rahway and Westfield, respectively.

Efforts are now being made to secure Mayor Mark M. Fagan, of Jersey City, the apostle of the reform movement in the State, as the principal speaker. The others who will talk will include Senator Everett Colby, Judge Runyon and Counsellor George L. Record. Possibly one or two others, influential men of Elizabeth and Plainfield, who have not been identified with politics, will be called on to speak.

It was said today that the reform fever is spreading in Elizabeth and Rahway and that the movement is already assuming large proportions.

HOSPITAL'S BOARD ELECTS MR. KAUFMAN

GOVERNORS ELECT HIM TO SUCCEED THE LATE PAUL TAYLOR BROWN.

Aside from the fact that William T. Kaufman was elected to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Paul Taylor Brown, the Board of Governors of Muhlenberg Hospital, at its April meeting Monday, considered business purely of a routine nature. Mr. Kaufman resides on West Seventh street, and has been identified with charitable enterprises here for many years. He is connected with the banking house of Harvey Fisk & Sons, New York. He has always shown an interest in the affairs of Muhlenberg Hospital and will doubtless prove a valuable member of the board.

The report of the carnival committee was received, indicating the progress being made in preparing for the annual event. Eleven members were present.

The medical board presented the following report for March:

Patients remaining at date of last report, 27; admitted, 61; discharged cured, 47; improved, 4; not improved, 3; died, 2; remaining, 32; total number treated, 88; operations, 57; hospital days, 974; dispensary patients, 48; visits, 61; operations, 5. The past month was the heaviest in point of operations since possession of the new hospital was taken.

GIRL'S BURNS SERIOUS.

Miss Morrison Suffering Terribly, but Will Recover.

The condition of Miss Hazel Morrison, the twelve-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Morrison, of South Avenue, who was burned on Saturday while watching a bonfire, is more serious than was at first supposed. Those in charge at the hospital believed the burns to be superficial, but when the first dressings were removed it was learned that they were deeper and covered a larger area. Not only the left arm and side, but the left leg was burned, and the patient suffers a great deal. It is believed that Miss Morrison will recover, but it will take a long time.

Mrs. Morrison, who was also burned at the same time in trying to rescue her daughter, suffers much. Not only her hands, but her arms were found to be badly affected.

Chief Doane's Throat Sore.

Fire Chief Doane is under treatment for throat trouble, the result of an old injury. His throat was injured at a fire some years ago, and its strength was weakened. The chief's hardship in connection with it, from the chief's standpoint, is that he can not smoke, but, like an old soldier, he stoically obeyed the doctor's orders, and has given up every one of the dozen or more cigars he smoked daily.

JR. CENTRAL COMMITTEE

Lodges of This Vicinity to Form a District Body.

EMPLOYMENT BUREAU

One of the New Organization's Features Will Be the Placing of American Mechanics In Local Shops.

All the Jr. O. U. A. M. councils of this city and vicinity are interested in a plan proposed by Benevolent Council for the organization of a central good and welfare committee to act for every Junior organization in the district in furthering their interests. A meeting of representatives of the councils of this city, Dunellen, New Market and Scotch Plains was held last week, and arrangements for the promotion of the committee were materially advanced.

Benevolent Council originated the idea of the committee for this vicinity, although similar organizations are in active existence elsewhere. The central committee takes charge of all arrangements for social affairs and for joint rallies. In Newark there is a strong and flourishing central committee, a great feature of which is an employment bureau. A bureau modelled on the lines of the Essex county committee will be conducted by the proposed local organization.

The first meeting of the organizers was held last Friday night at Benevolent Council's rooms. Delegations were present from Somerset and Franklin councils, of this city; William G. Holton Council, Dunellen; Friendship Council, New Market, and Twilight Council, Scotch Plains. Bound Brook Council, although not invited into the committee scheme, sent word that it would join, and the Westfield Council has since signified its desire to get into the committee.

There is scarcely any doubt of its organization. Final plans will be made at a meeting to be held next week.

The strong utilitarian feature of the committee will be the employment bureau. Through this bureau it is planned to bring home to the shop owners in this vicinity the fact that American-born and bred mechanics are the best workmen. Quite as important as that for the members, of course, is the fact that the bureau will be the means of getting the mechanics among them openings in the different shops as they occur. Already Benevolent Council has had some experience with a volunteer bureau, conducted by one enthusiastic member. He has a Mr. Garwood in his shop, and has gotten the different shop managers there to let him know whenever they need men. He has the calls for help read at lodge meetings here, and applicants for the jobs are referred to the proper place. Many mechanics have been placed that way. Trough the success of this man's volunteer work, other members have taken up the same practical method of spreading the principles of the American order. Small as the movement has been, it has served to demontrate that a bureau conducted by such a committee as is to be organized would be a great success.

FASHION TIPS FOR THE YOUNG WOMAN.

Sailor suits retain their popularity for small girls for they are always becoming, and make even those of the "awkward age" have a semblance of grace.

A stylish model is of dark blue serge, with blouse made to slip over the head, and cut to admit of a deep shield. The wide sailor collar is trimmed with red soutache braid, and a large red emblem adorned the left sleeve. A red tie and the tie completes this serviceable dress.

Russian suits are still in vogue for small boys, and are seen in both woolen and wash materials. When made of the latter they are usually finished with white linen collars and cuffs, with patent leather belts in black and colors as an attractive finish.

A gray Panama eton suit for a young girl has a short jacket with turn over collar and wide cuffs of soft mole, edged with narrow gold braid. The girdle is of cloth, and the skirt is cut in full circular style with a wide stitched box-plait in the front.

Patrolman Martin Out of Hospital.

Patrolman Theodore Martin, who recently underwent an operation for appendicitis, has been discharged from Muhlenberg Hospital. Though not able to go on duty he is rapidly gaining his strength and will soon be entirely himself again.

Will Build at Asbury.

Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Oliver, of Crescent avenue, who came here from Asbury Park last year, will return to the seaside next month to make their home. Mr. Oliver has completed plans for the erection of a home near the Park. The deal for the lot is about to be closed, and he already has the architect's designs.

Surveys in preparation for the macadamizing of Westervelt avenue from Mountain avenue to the bridge will be made next week. It is hoped to put the stone down at the present grade, saving considerable expense. The job will take about two weeks.

TROUBLE IN THE A.O.U.W.

Lodge Members' Scheme to Test Rule by Refusing to Pay an Assessment.

IS DUE THIS MONTH

Question Will Then Arise Whether Delinquent Member Can Be Dropped for Non-Payment of Dues.

The members of the Ancient Order United Workmen of this city and throughout the State are awaiting with considerable interest a test of the amendment to the constitution whereby an emergency fund is to be created. The amendment was passed by a very close vote, nearly one-half of those entitled to vote at the Grand Lodge meeting contending that the action of the State organization was not constitutional, and the others maintaining that it was.

The real test of the amendment will come on April 28, when the regular assessment is due. It is said that many members will force the issue to a final decision by refusing to pay the extra assessment of twenty-five cents on every $1,000 of insurance carried. Then the question will arise, can the lodge drop the member or declare him to be in arrears by his refusal to pay this assessment?

The refusal to pay the extra assessment will be based on the constitutionality of the Grand Lodge action, and if there is a general disinclination to pay then a decision will be expected from Grand Master Workman Fowle. It is possible that the matter may be taken to the Supreme Lodge for the final decision. Judging by the talk of several local members of the lodge, there will likely be a number who will refuse to pay the action by refusing to come up with the extra assessment.

The only differences existing among the members of the lodge here and elsewhere are confined to the constitutionality of the Grand Lodge action, otherwise there is perfect harmony. Those who oppose the Grand Lodge action are not against the establishment of a fund to meet the death rate, but they question the method of doing it.

One member, in speaking of the matter today, said that he realized that something would have to be done to meet the death rate, as has been done in other States, but he would like to see some other plan adopted.

An officer of a local lodge who supports the present plan insists that it meets the demands, that neither the old or young men will be called upon to pay the entire increase, it being divided in an impartial manner between the two classes of membership. This member maintained that had the Royal Arcanum adopted a similar plan that order would have escaped much criticism.

In the minds of many it is a question whether the Grand Lodge can force the payment of the extra assessment, inasmuch as the legality of the action is in doubt. It is probable that for the benefit of all the members a decision will be hastened by the Grand Lodge, so as not to complicate matters.

Conference of Workmen.

Members of the local A. O. U. W. lodges who are opposed to the recent action of the Grand Lodge in establishing an emergency fund, have been invited to attend a conference to be held Saturday afternoon in the law offices of William Newcorn on West Front street. The purpose of the meeting is to discuss a plan of action that is to be taken at the Grand Secretary Lippincott will attend and have something to say.

Cut His Foot With Axe.

William Handy, of East Fourth street, cut his left foot almost to the bone Saturday morning while chopping wood in the cellar of his home. The axe slipped and struck him on the instep. He was wearing woolen slippers and the blade cut into the flesh with unchecked force. He bound up the foot, unaided, and went to the hospital dispensary to have it sewn.

Entertainment for Hospital.

An entertainment will be given under the auspices of the Ladies' Auxiliary in Somerset Hall, Somerville, Friday night, April 27, for the benefit of Somerset Hospital. A one-act drama entitled "A Queen's Messenger," written by J. Hartley Manners, originally produced in London, and recently played in New York, will be given by Miss Bessie Robeson and George D. Anderson, of Bound Brook. Miss Robeson has on previous occasions served popularity in New York this season, where she has given readings with Amelia Bingham. A musical programme has been arranged which will be followed by another short play, entitled "Yellow Rosse," to be presented by Gerald Williams and Miss Loretta Reed, of New York.

Dog Poisoner Active Again.

The dog poisoning that has recurred along East Front street every spring has begun again. There are a number of very valuable dogs in the neighborhood, and one of the residents have broached the idea of a protective association, which will keep a reward for the detection of every dog poisoner standing.

CITY MAY LOSE FACTORY

Plan for Vacuum Company Considering Locating at Elizabeth Instead of Plainfield.

OWNS GROUND HERE

Local Board of Trade Inactive—What President Kenney Has to Say in the Matter.

An apparently well-founded rumor comes from Elizabeth to the effect that the Vacuum Cleaner Company, of which David T. Kenney, of the borough, is president, intends locating its factory in that city at a point near Elizabethport, adjacent to the New Jersey Central and the Pennsylvania Railroad Company and where the latter company contemplates making a number of improvements in the near future. It is a well-known fact that Mr. Kenney recently purchased a 1,400 foot tract of land lying along the Central Railroad, east of the Hygeia Ice Company plant here, and it was generally supposed that Mr. Kenney purchased this property for a factory site.

A man closely identified with the company when asked why the concern chose Elizabeth for a location, instead of Plainfield, said: "I do not know that we have fully decided to locate at Elizabeth, however, it is very probable that we will build our factory there. The high rate of taxation in Plainfield serves as a barrier *against industries locating here, al*though none of the industries in this town affects in any way the aristocratic residential section of the city proper or the borough of North Plainfield. Somerville seems to have an enterprising Board of Trade that is always on the alert and after any industry desiring a New Jersey location. We have been looking at property there, but as yet have given no decision in the matter."

"Has the Board of Trade of this city been informed that your company desired to locate somewhere between Somerville and Elizabeth?" was asked.

"No, I think not. In fact, I am sure the matter was never brought before that body," was the reply.

When David T. Kenney was asked about the matter of the Vacuum Company locating at Elizabeth, in preference to Plainfield, he said:

"We have been looking around for a factory site, the railroad and water facilities of Elizabeth tend to make that city a very desirable place to locate. However, the matter has not yet been fully decided."

"How large would your factory be and how many men would you employ and what would you manufacture?" *was asked. "We would prob*ably employ several hundred hilled hands at first and when our plans are fully developed we could furnish employment for 1,000 or more. Iron and brass fittings used in connection with the Vacuum Cleaner will be manufactured."

"Why not locate here in Plainfield where you live?" was asked again. "Well," said Mr. Kenney, "I would like to see the plant located here because I know it would greatly benefit the business men of the town and the working class and would tend to make the city more reliant, but there are things that must be considered before locating here, including the company's interests."

"It has been suggested that the tax rate is considered very high here and for this reason other places are deemed more desirable for locating industries than Plainfield. Is this true?"

"I don't know about that feature," replied Mr. Kenney, "and until I am better informed on the tax question would prefer not to discuss it. However, we have not yet decided just where our plant will be located."

CO. K PARTICIPATES IN REGIMENTAL DRILL

Complimented by Col. Collins For Their Showing at Trenton.

Forty-seven members of Co. K went to Trenton, Monday, to take part in the review of the Second Regiment, N. G. N. J., which was in charge of Col. D. F. Collins in the absence of Brig.-Gen. Gillmore, who was detained by illness. Despite the stormy weather the event was well attended. The local militia boys were honored in being called upon to escort the colors to Col. Collins.

After the review a regimental drill was conducted. Col. Collins handled the regiment in a masterly manner and many difficult movements in close order were performed. Dress parade concluded the programme. This proved a splendid military spectacle. Dancing followed and luncheon was served. On the return home Col. Collins accompanied Co. K and he complimented the boys on their fine showing.

Society Masque Ball.

Arrangements are about complete for the masquerade ball to be held at the Casino Easter Monday night. The affair will be an elaborate one and those taking part in the dancing will wear a masque until 12 o'clock. Space will be reserved for on-lookers who do not care to dance.

BISHOP TRANSFERS REV. GEO. MOONEY

REV. A. C. M'CREA AND REV. DR. PARSONS ARE RETURNED TO PLAINFIELD.

Contrary to general expectations the least number of changes were made in the appointments by Bishop Hamilton at the closing session of the Newark Conference Monday. It was after 11 o'clock when the appointments were read.

Only one change is made in this city, that of Rev. George Mooney, who goes from the Monroe Avenue M. E. church to South Orange. Mr. Mooney received a call from that congregation and it was expected that he would be sent there. His place at the Monroe Avenue church will be taken by Rev. E. E. Robeson, of Bound Brook.

Rev. A. C. McCrea was returned to the First M. E. church and Rev. Dr. C. W. Parsons will remain at Grace M. E. church another year.

Rev. Dr. J. M. Meeker, who was pastor of the Park Place church, East Orange, was made presiding elder of the Newark District in place of Rev. W. L. Hoagland, who takes Dr. Meeker's place. In many instances ministers were returned to their old charges for the ninth or tenth time, and so long as it was known that they are doing a good work and are in harmony with their people there was no disposition to make any changes.

Rev. Dr. Jesse Lyman Hurlbut, formerly of the First M. E. church, and who has been at South Orange, to which charge Rev. George Mooney has been sent, will be located at Bloomfield this year. Rev. S. K. Doolittle, of Dunellen, has been sent to the First M. E. church, Hackensack, and Rev. E. C. Deutcher, of Asbury church, Staten Island, goes to Dunellen. Rev. Dr. Hoagland, who has been at Flemington, goes to Bound Brook, succeeding Rev. E. E. Robeson, who has been sent to Monroe Avenue M. E. church, and Rev. C. S. Woodruff, of Bloomfield, goes to Flemington. Rev. Mr. Little, who has been at Hackensack, has been sent to Verona.

COLBY CAMPAIGN FORCES WILL GET TO WORK EARLY.

Preliminary Plans to Be Talked Over as Soon as the Legislature Adjourns.

As soon as the present session of the Legislature is over, Senator Everett Colby and the members of his Essex organization will set themselves to the task of making preliminary plans for the fall campaign and urging the formation throughout the State of organizations similar to those at Colby's command. According to the present plan, the headquarters in the Scheuer building will be retained as the central meeting place of the county organization and the rooms will be kept open every day for whatever work is to be done.

In the latter failure last year to name candidates for all positions within their reach the Colby men learned a lesson which they will not neglect to take advantage of. Had they chosen a full list of nominees for the county committee they might have succeeded that body. That they may attain control of it next fall will be one of the leading objects of their effort.

As last year, Mr. Colby will begin his campaign early, it is expected, and remain actively in the field. The United States Senatorial question will loom large in the coming campaign, with the Colby forces aligned sharply at the outset against the "machine," which has been loyal to Senator Dryden. Just what aspirants will go into the field against the Prudential's president remains to be seen. Idle gossip mentions all sorts of candidates. It is known that Governor Stokes has Senatorial aspirations, but there is still the question of eligibility, which does not appear to have been decided by the entire satisfaction of the citizens of the State.

It goes without saying that the Colby forces will take advaitage of whatever victories, direct or indirect, they will have accomplished during the legislative session, and whatever mistakes the "regulars" may have made. The machine, if it decides to enter into open hostilities with the Colby men, will try to show that the reformers have been unable to carry out their plans in legislation and that progressive and remedial measures that have been adopted during the period of lawmaking have been the work of the regular line party men, backed by the regular party leaders.

However the campaign may turn out, it will be a most interesting one —perhaps fully as interesting as the last.

Special exercises will be held at the Plainfield High School building Friday morning at 11:30 o'clock, when a programme of Easter selections will be presented by the pupils. All friends of the school will be welcome.

CITY MAY LOSE FACTORY

Plan for Parade of Sunday-School Children Approved by Local Ministers

Union Demonstration of the Churches Following Custom in Brooklyn and Elsewhere.

WHAT CLERGYMEN SAY

Suggested That It Take Place On a Saturday on Sunday Afternoon in June—Bands Playing Religious Tunes.

If present plans materialize citizens of Plainfield will witness this year one of the most remarkable religious demonstrations in the history of the city, in the form of a Sunday school parade conducted on the same lines and plans as the annual parade of Sunday school children in Brooklyn, which event is one of the most important of annual happenings in the City of Churches, and which has become famous throughout the country in both civic and religious circles.

Plainfield has in the neighborhood of 5,000 Sunday school pupils who would no doubt participate in such an event if it were arranged. Religious workers of the denomination who have been approached on the scheme unanimously agree that such a demonstration would be productive of much good and result in making a lasting impression on the large number of non-churchgoers in Plainfield. One prominent church worker in this city is very enthusiastic over the idea and said yesterday that he thought the plan, if carried out, would prove a powerful agency for accomplishing a world of good in this city and directly benefit every church and congregation that participated in the event.

The idea of holding such a parade in Plainfield was broached to Rev. H. L. Howard, pastor of Hope chapel, late last fall. Mr. Howard was enthusiastic over the scheme and intimated that he would be willing to lend his assistance to the movement. Now that the matter has gained publicity it is likely that Sunday school workers will join heartily in efforts to bring the plans to a successful determination.

It has been suggested that the parade be held in June or July, on a Saturday afternoon. Another suggestion has been that the event take place on the Sabbath, on a day to be designated as Children's Day by the different local churches. Others favor Saturday as the proper day for the event. However, these details will be settled at a later date. A conference of those interested in the movement will be called in a few weeks.

Several local pastors were asked for an opinion regarding the advisability of holding an annual parade of Sunday school children in the early spring or summer, and they seemed to favor it if conducted along right lines. These opinions were obtained:

Rev. A. C. McCrea, pastor of the First M. E. church—"It might be made a beautiful and attractive affair. It would mean plenty of work and to be a success all of the Sunday schools would have to join in the movement."

Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, pastor of the First Baptist church—"I have not given the matter any thought as yet. I would prefer to have a little more time to consider it."

Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson, rector of Grace church—"I haven't given the matter any attention, but off-hand would say that it might be a good thing."

Rev. Dr. C. W. Parsons, pastor of Grace M. E. church—"I am heartily in favor of the idea. I was a pastor in Brooklyn at one time, and it is the plan to hold such a parade on the second Sunday in June, Children's Day. I see no reason why such an affair could not be made a success here if all the Sunday schools unite."

Rev. A. E. Finn, pastor of Park Avenue Baptist church—"I prefer to think more about the matter before expressing an opinion. However, I would suggest that you interview our superintendent, George E. Hall. While I cannot speak authoritatively for him, I believe he would favor it."

Machinists' Ball Date Set.

Local Lodge, No. 167, International Association of Machinists, will hold its annual ball in Saengerbund Hall on Friday night, April 27. The committee having charge of the arrangements has planned to make it the most successful affair the lodge has ever conducted and will introduce several features.

Republican Committee Meeting.

The City Executive Republican Committee will meet at the law offices of William Newcorn on Tuesday night, when it is expected that the list of additional members to be added to the committee will be presented for confirmation.

Mrs. Elmer Volk, of Elmwood place, is very much improved from a long and tedious illness.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

VOL. XXXVIII. PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, APRIL 19, 1906 NO 16.

"Support the Constitution, which is the Cement of the Union, as well in its Limitations as in its Authorities."—Madison.

ELIZABETH PRESBYTERY

73rd Meeting Opened in the German Church, Elizabeth.

PLAINFIELDERS THERE

Henry A. Pearce Admitted to Examination — Other Business Transacted.

The seventy-third stated meeting of the Presbytery of Elizabeth held yesterday in the German Presbyterian church, Elizabeth, was largely attended. Among those in attendance were Rev. J. O. McKelvey, pastor of Warren chapel; Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie, pastor of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church; Rev. L. R. Howard, pastor of Hope chapel, and Elders Leander Lovell and William H. Shotwell, of the Crescent Avenue and First church respectively. Rev. C. E. Herring, of the First church, could not attend on account of illness.

The moderator, the Rev. William B. Stuchell, of Rahway, called the session to order and in the absence of the Rev. Dr. John E. Kerr, the Rev. Mr. Reeve, of Westfield, was elected active clerk. The Rev. Samuel Perry, of Pluckamin, the stated clerk, read the minutes as recorded in the book.

The roll call, the hearing of excuses and the dismissal and reception of members, the election of a moderator, which resulted in Dr. Stuchell being again chosen; the election of a temporary clerk and other routine business was then taken up.

The Rev. Eben B. Cobb, pastor of the Second Presbyterian church, Elizabeth; the Rev. W. W. Casselberry, of Dunellen, and the Rev. Joseph O. McKelvey, of this city, were elected a committee to nominate members of a standing committee, and the Rev. Dr. Joseph B. Ferguson, pastor of the Greystone Presbyterian church, Elizabeth, was elected chairman of the committee on sessional records for a term of three years.

Ernest R. Brown, the local evangelist who has been doing good work at Carteret, was admitted preliminary to ordination.

The reports of standing committees from the Revs. Hamilton, W. T. Stuchell, Condit, J. O. McKelvey, Wirth and others were read.

Henry A. Pearce, of this city, presented himself for admission to the ministry. His examination was deferred, however, until next June. Leander N. Lovell, of this city, was elected commissioner to the general assembly to be held at Des Moines the middle of next month, and Rev. L. R. Howard was elected alternate to Rev. Samuel Parry, of Elizabeth

BIG EARTHQUAKE AT SAN FRANCISCO.

Buildings Wrecked, Lives Lost and Many Fires Follow Shock.

A report received from New York early today states that a severe earthquake wrecked many buildings and caused loss of life in San Francisco this morning. The shock was felt at 5.13, San Francisco time.

Following the wrecking of the buildings many fires broke out. The Postal Telegraph office was wrecked and communication was lost at 8.50 New York time.

Telegraphic communication between San Francisco and New York is entirely cut off.

Chicago, Ill., April 18.—The telegraph companies are entirely without wires to San Francisco. The Sacramento office of the Western Union reports a very heavy earthquake on the Pacific coast with heavy damage in San Francisco.

Considerable damage from the earthquake is reported as having occurred in the city of Sacramento.

Retail Druggists Elect.

The Plainfield Retail Druggists Association elected the following officers yesterday: President, Clayton M. Nagle; vice president, John P. Powers; secretary and treasurer, Dudley Miller. A committee was appointed to arrange for the annual banquet to be held next month.

Co. K Invited.

Co. K has been selected as one of the State military organizations to attend the unveiling of a monument at Phillipsburg on May 10 and to attend another celebration at the Red Bank in June. At the latter place there will be pick companies from Ohio, New York and Pennsylvania.

When you want butter that is surely good butter, ask for either Rockdale print or creamery, or Elgin creamery. They represent the best in the market.

—For headache and neuralgia look to your eyes. Eye strain is generally the cause. Consult Stiles & Co., eye specialists, at 105 East Front street, tomorrow, Thursday. Free examination.

CHARGED TROLLEY RAIL

Front Street Business Men Say It Knocks Down Horses.

OLD MAN BOWLED OVER

Langton Harral Ran Over After Sudden Leap of Team, Shocked by Rail—Police Take Action.

Langton Harral, seventy-one years old, of 139 West Front street, was knocked down by one of the horses attached to Otto Ahrens' carriage, and run over, at Park avenue and Front street, this morning. He was bruised and shaken up, but not hurt seriously enough to require the services of a doctor.

The police were told by storekeepers about the corner that the accident resulted from a charged trolley rail. Eyewitnesses agreed that the horses gave a sudden leap as the carriage crossed the track to turn into Park avenue, and broke from the driver's control. The business men said two horses within two weeks have been knocked down as they touched the rail at the corner.

The driver of the Ahrens' carriage, who succeeded in pulling his horses up halfway down the block, said he couldn't understand the sudden jump. The pair is staid and insensitive, and something very unusual must have started them.

Chief Kiely investigated the charged rail stories, and learned that sparks come from it. He decided that it was time the P. S. C. did something about it, and sent Officer Overbaugh to the district office on Watchung avenue to order immediate attention to the case.

"Tell them this rail is charged, and it has to be fixed at once," said the chief.

It hadn't been attended to an hour later, but a man at the office told a reporter who asked about it that the trouble would be remedied "right away."

The reporter asked how the rail could become charged and the official explained that it wasn't and couldn't. He scoffed at the notion of a current leaking into the steel rail.

"Only the return to the power house goes through the rail," he said. "The sparks up there were caused by a broken bond wire. We'll fix that."

The reporter asked a district inspector of the telephone company, who holds his job because he knows a lot about electricity, whether a trolley rail could become charged. He said he didn't want to say anything like that about the trolley company. "Ask them," he advised, in the careful tone a man uses when he is discussing a friend's faults with an unfriendly critic.

IGNORED THE SUMMONS.

Board of Health Will Now Take Further Steps Against Mrs. Ruggles.

Mrs. Ruggles, the aged colored woman against whom a complaint was made before the Board of Health for maintaining a home that was considered unsanitary, did not appear before the board yesterday afternoon the time set for a hearing in the matter. The complaint was made by health officer Leon R. Thurlow, who, at the request of the board is trying to rid the city of old rookeries of the undesirable type, and the failure of Mrs. Ruggles to take cognizance of the summons to appear, will undoubtedly result in the matter being placed in the hands of Corporation Counsel Marsh for an opinion.

The Board of Health is acting in accordance with ordinances governing its duties and it will now be up to Mr. Marsh to further instruct the board as to what action can be taken. There are other places in the city in the same condition as that of Mrs. Ruggles and the board proposes to get after the owners of the property and see that they make them sanitary and fit to live in.

Books for P. H. S. Library.

Among the books recently presented to the Plainfield High School library are: Gordon's History of New Jersey, Lewpriere's Classical Dictionary, Mrs. A. Kennedy Gillen's Reports of the U. S. Geological Survey, Mrs. C. A. Fitz-Gerald. F. O. Herring has recently presented to the school a valuable bronze bas-relief medallion showing the head of Abraham Lincoln.

Missing Maid at Saints' Service.

Julia Suarez, a maid employed in the New Madison flats, was reported missing yesterday afternoon to the police. She was found later at the Church of God and Saints of Christ meeting in Reform Hall.

Announce Engagement.

The engagement is announced of Miss F. Ursula Krewson, daughter of Frank C. Krewson, of this city, and H. Clifford Brokaw, of New York.

PROGRAMME OF CIRCUS

Thrilling Acts to be Seen at the Boys' Club Show.

FIVE FUNNY CLOWNS

Difficult and Dangerous Feats Will be On the Bill—Roman Ladder Stunt to Climax the Performance.

All preparations for the first amateur circus of the Boys' club, Sycamore street, have been completed. The final rehearsal of the different acts will be held tonight, and tomorrow evening the first of the two-nights' performance will be presented at the club gymnasium.

A strong bill has been arranged. All of the turns will be thrillers, and the best semi-professional and amateur gymnasts and acrobats will appear in them. Nine acts are on the programme, and five funny clowns will keep the audience amused with their quips and merry antics all during the show.

Three of the acts will be of unusual nature, not at all the kind ordinarily seen at amateur circuses. Frank Shepherd, well known as a clever gymnast, will perform difficult slack-wire and juggling acts. To be able to walk inside of a bicycle run, pick a handkerchief from the wire while balancing in a difficult position, and walk up a ladder held by the teeth with the wire in full swin, as he does easily, stamps him as an artist of ability.

Louis Rhodier will be seen in the most dangerous of gymnastic acts. Although this is his first public exhibition, he will do a difficult flying trapese turn. Some of the work he does would do credit to professional performers. Bertie Hanson, who has long been recognized as champion acrobat of Plainfield, will do his acrobatic specialty, and a new act of his own creation, on a set of steps, standing on his hands on cigar boxes placed on milking stools and down the steps with apparent ease, and other difficult feats. Walter Morley's pyramid troupe will conclude the performance, presenting a series of pyramids requiring great strength and dexterity on Roman ladders.

Other acts include work by Walter Morley and Louis Slocum, clever gymnasts, in combination acrobats; the original Frank Leonard, baton twirling; Louis Slocum, equilibrist, in contortion extraordinary; Morley's Roman ladder troupe will consist of Louis Rhodier, Charles Southard, Herbert Hoover, Walter Morley, Charles Rhodier. The clowns will be Richard Day, Albert Renwand, James Richardson, Louis Corieli and Walter Southard.

The general staff of the circus is made up of Clarence Pope, general director; Charles Hunt, treasurer; Charles Southard, manager of properties; Charles Rodier, wardrobe master; John Brown, David Rogers and Joseph Burke, ring grooms.

TICKETS FOR OSHKOSH SHOW SELLING RAPIDLY.

Major Edwards Looks for Packed Houses at Both Performances.

Ickets for the Oshkosh's club's annual entertainment are selling like hot cakes. The first load of scenery, specially prepared for the production, arried today and is being placed on the casino stage.

The show promises to be as fine as any amateur performance ever given in this city. Major Maze Edwards, the casino manager, says that he expects the house to be sold out for both nights long before the time for the first production. Originality is the distinctive feature throughout and there is not a stale line in the whole show.

S. P. C. A. COMPLAINT.

Scotch Plains Italian Charged With Cruelly Abusing Horse.

Nicholas Delnero, an Italian living on Forest road, Scotch Plains, will be arraigned before Justice Hand Saturday morning, charged with cruelty to his horse. The complaint was sworn to by William M. Pangborn, agent for the S. P. C. A., yesterday, and Constable Manley served the warrant at Delnero's house.

It is charged that Delnero beat a bay horse, attached to one of his wagons, over the head with a club last Wednesday. It is alleged by Pangborn in his complaint that the Pangborn in his complaint that the insufficiently fed. Delnero is well known about Scotch Plains.

Miss Shirreffs to Sing.

Miss Grace Shirreffs, of Fitchburg, Mass., will render several soprano solos at the free organ recital to be given at Grace Episcopal church tomorrow night. She is the guest of Mrs. R. F. Stockton.

—Well, we are all going to hear Billy Redmond and Miss Parker at Band Carnival, Saengerbund Hall, April 21 to 26.

SAYS POLICE WERE SLOW

Assistant Head of Grossman School Protests to the Chief.

PRINCIPAL VEXED, TOO

They Believe the Police Have Not Been Active Enough in Searching For Daniel Norton, Missing Pupil.

W. Henry Grossmann, son of the head of the Atypical School, Watchaung Crest, called on Chief of Police Kiely this morning to register to protest against the school management considered the indifference and inactivity of the department in searching for Daniel Norton, the atypical youth who disappeared from the institution two weeks ago. No trace of the youth has been discovered, and Dr. Grossmann and his son think the police here have not done all that was to have been expected of them in looking for clues.

Dr. Grossmann himself expressed his vexation with the police over the telephone to Chief Kiely last evening.

Young Grossmann told the chief that he could not get no satisfaction from the subordinates left in charge of headquarters during his, the chief's, absence at the police convention in Arkansas, last week. He complained that the attitude of the desk man was high-handed in some ways, and that almost complete indifference in the search was manifested.

"Nothing has been done, except what was suggested by us," he said. "Your men did not even call up to find out if the boy was located."

Chief Kiely told the young man, with some sharpness, that the police were doing, and were always ready to do, their utmost in helping the school to effect the lost search. When Mr. Grossman left he seemed to feel more confident that the police would prosecute the search for Norton.

Mr. Grossmann was not aware that the Plainfield police department was in a different county than the Grossmann school.

Not the slightest hint of what happenedd to the missing youth has been devolved from the search. Circulars have been sent to all the police departments in this section, but the school is handicapped in preparing them by the lack of a photograph. Norton's father, who is an Idaho ranchman, refuses to have photographs prepared. The family they say, has heard from the boy, and had no hint that flight from the school was in his mind.

It is the theory of both the school management and the police that Norton is at work on some back country farm in this neighborhood, where the papers do not circulate and news of the disappearance has not been commented upon. A disappearance of that sort is the hardest to unrael, the police say, because the missing person does nothing to attract attention to himself.

BURGLARS ENTER TWO WESTFIELD RESIDENCES.

Secured $190 in Cash and a Gold Watch Valued at $100.

A gang of thieves visited Westfield at an early hour this morning, gaining entrance to two homes and making pretty good hauls. They first went to the residence of P. T. G. Sjostrom on Elm street, where they secured silverware worth $150. Next they forced a window at the home of George B. Dickerson at Prospect street and Dudley avenue, where they appropriated $40 that had been in Mr. Dickerson's trousers and also a gold watch valued at $100. They were frightened from this place by the sudden awaking of Mrs. Dickerson.

Two other houses were looked over, as the occupants reported hearing them on the premises, but the burglars evidently were scared away. The Westfield police are working on the case and have asked the assistance of the local force.

DANCE FOR MISS McCUTCHEON.

Mr. and Mrs. R. H. McCutcheon Give Delightful Affair for Their Daughter.

One of the delightful post-lenten events was the dance given at the Park club, last night, by Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. McCutcheon, of Plainfield avenue, for their second daughter, Miss Verna McCutcheon. About 150 guests attended the dance. Prior to the affair at the club, Mr. and Mrs. McCutcheon entertained at dinner about thirty friends from New York, Brooklyn and Boston.

Dancing began at the club about 8.30 and was continued until 1.30 this morning. The club was decorated in pink and green, the arrangement being very effective. Music was furnished by Austin's orchestra.

TO FORM COLBY LEAGUE

Union County Organization to Be Effected Saturday Night, April 28.

COMMITTEE AT WORK

Likely to Adopt Constitution and By-laws Similar to Those of the Essex County League—To Choose Officers.

Plans are being made by the committee on arrangements for the Colby meeting at Elizabeth on Saturday night, April 18, to have a permanent organization effected at that time. The idea is to form a Colby League for Union county and from what can be learned the scheme will be adopted in many respects the league will answer the purposes of a county committee and will be made up of representatives from every voting district.

Chairman William N. Runyon has been in communication with Gardner Colby, a cousin of Senator Colby, who is president of the original league in Essex county and is said to have obtained some valuable points on such an organization. The officers will consist of a president, vice president, corresponding and recording secretaries and a treasurer. There will also be the usual committees.

It is reported that in all probability the constitution and by-laws of the Essex county league will be adopted by the Union county organization. One of the rules of this league is that no candidate for membership can be voted on until his application has received the approval of a majority of the members in his own voting district. This has the effect of preventing those, whose purpose would be merely to keep the regular political organizations posted on what is being done, from getting into the councils of the Colbyites.

The meeting at Elizabeth is an invitation affair and only those who have already been enrolled and others who are to be especially asked will be allowed to participate in the session. Speeches will be made by Senator Colby, of Orange; Counselor Record, of Jersey City; Mayor Mary Fagan, of Jersey City, and Judge W. N. Runyon, of this city. In addition it is probable that there will be one or two others to address the meeting but their names have not been announced.

The meeting at the county seat is to be followed by one in Plainfield at which Mayor Fagan, of Jersey City, will be the principal speaker. The place for holding it has not been selected but the committee has its eye on Reform Hall. After the meeting here, similar ones will be held in Rahway, Summit, Westfield and other places until the "gospel of reform" is heralded throughout the county.

CHURCH WOMEN HOLD A DELIGHTFUL TEA.

Congregational Society Enjoys An Eastertide Affair With a Missionary Motive.

The Women's Missionary Society of the Congregational church held its annual Easter tea at the home of Mrs. Frank A. Weeks, yesterday afternoon. The affair was well attended and a delightful time. The decorations were pink and white.

Addresses and music were features of the afternoon. Miss Griswold, a Japanese missionary, was the principal speaker. She gave an interesting account of mission work in the Island Kingdom. Mrs. Curtis Bates, the president, spoke on the aims and outlook of the society.

Miss Alberta Waterbury played a piano solo, and rendered a duet with Miss Van Fleet. Mrs. Ralph Miner sang.

Mrs. Alexander Millar poured tea and Mrs. Charles Rice poured lemonade. Members of the Young Ladies' Missionary Club served as waitresses.

The Lenten envelopes were turned in, and a large sum was realized.

Receptions to Methodist Pastors.

The local Methodist congregations are planning to give their ministers an annual reception. The first will be held tomorrow night when Grace M. E. church will tender a reception to Rev. D. C. W. Parson, who has been returned as pastor for another year. On Friday night the congregation of the First M. E. church will give Rev. A. C. McCrea, who has also been returned for his second year, a reception. On Tuesday night, April 24, the congregation of Monroe Avenue M. E. church, will welcome its new pastor, Rev. E. E. Robeson, of Bound Brook, who succeeds Rev. George Mooney.

Eberlen Committed.

Auguste Eberlen, the young Frenchman arrested yesterday for an unnameable crime, was held without bail this morning by Justice Mosher, to await the action of the grand jury. He confessed his guilt.

REFORMED CHURCH CLASSIS IN SESSION HERE

Big Gathering of Both Clerical and Lay Delegates at Trinity Church Today.

COMMITTEES NAMED

George L. Bosterle Received As Candidate for Ministry—Newark Pastor Gets Letter of Dismissal.

The spring meeting of the Newark Classis of the Reformed Church convened in Trinity Reformed church at 10 o'clock this morning, the session opening with prayer by Rev. Albert Schneider, of Montclair Heights, after which Rev. Erish McClinchie, of Irvington, was chosen president. He appointed these committees:

Synodical Missions—Rev. H. Merle Mellen, Christ church, Newark; W. E. Bogardus, Brookdale; Elder S. S. Smith; finance—Elder Charles VanCleef, Newark; C. H. Nevius, East Orange; supplies—Rev. Dr. D. H. Martin, Clinton Avenue Reformed church, Newark; Rev. Orville Fisher, Hyde Park: Elder William Stevenson; doctrine—Rev. Dr. James I. Vance, North Reformed church, Newark; Rev. W. W. Connor, Belleville; Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck, Plainfield; president's report—Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck, Plainfield; Rev. Dr. James I. Vance, Newark; Elder William Jacobus.

George L. Bolsterie, of this city, a student in Rutgers College, where he is preparing for the ministry, presented himself before the Classis for examination. This proved very satisfactory, Mr. Bolsterie giving his religious experience in a clear and forcible manner. He said that it was while serving as a volunteer in the Spanish-American War that he was impressed with the idea of entering the ministry and this feeling continued to grow until he was led to give up his position at York, Pa., and begin his studies in preparation. After a few questions, the Classis voted to receive Mr. Bolsterie under its care as a candidate for the ministry.

Rev. A. F. Todd, of the New Brunswick Classis; Rev. J. Tucker Lansdale, of the New York Classis, now at Marconnier chapel; I. W. Dawson and Adolph Franz, of Newark, were invited to attend the sessions.

In view of dismissing Rev. Stewart Nye Hutchinson from the Presbytery of Steubenville, Ohio, to the Newark Classis, was received and Mr. Hutchinson was welcomed in due form. He has accepted a call to the First Reformed church, of Newark, and it was announced that his installation will be held on Monday night, May 14. Rev. Dr. James I. Vance will preach the sermon, Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck, of this city, being secundus; Rev. Dr. Henry Everson Cobb, of the Harlem Collegiate church, New York, will deliver the charge to the pastor, Rev. W. W. Connor, of Belleville, being secundus. Rev. Dr. John W. Kerr, of the Presbyterian Board of Publication, will deliver the charge to the people, Rev. John N. Merris, of Newark, being secundus.

An important part of the morning session was the presentation to the Classis of the resignation of Rev. John S. Allen, who has been pastor of the Newark Avenue Reformed church, Newark, for fourteen years, and he asked to be dismissed from the Newark to the New York Classis, the same to take effect July 1, 1906. He also resigned his position as stated clerk. Mr. Allen resigns his pastorate to become the associate to Rev. Dr. Burrill, pastor of the Marble Collegiate Reformed church, New York. The matter was laid on the table at the close of the morning session and taken up the first thing this afternoon, when Mr. Allen's request was granted. The afternoon session was taken up with the reception of reports of committees and other business of more or less importance.

In the report of the various churches in the Classis, the condition of Trinity Reformed church, this city, was stated as follows: Number of families, 274; received during the year, eighteen on confession, twenty-two by letter; dismissed, eleven; died, eleven; total in communion, 597; baptized, fourteen adults and six infants; Sunday-schools, two; total membership, 410; raised for denominational objects, $1,197.81; other objects, $513.73; for congregational expenses, $6,158.69. The report for the German Reformed church showed twenty-eight families in the church, two received on confession, one died, two dismissed, total in communion, thirty-seven; three infants baptized and $750 raised for congregational expenses.

THREE CANDIDATES FOR POLITICAL JOB

SENATOR ACKERMAN FAVORS F. H. ANDREWS FOR TAX BOARD POSITION.

The City Republican Executive Committee will meet tonight and probably the most important business will be the endorsement of a Plainfielder for appointment on the new county board of equalization of taxes. Harry C. Runyon, Charles H. Hand and F. H. Andrews are mentioned as candidates for the position. The board will consist of three members, two Republicans and one Democrat, to be selected from various parts of the county.

It is understood that Senator Ackerman favors the appointment of Mr. Andrews, while the other candidates have their friends and supporters in the committee as well as the party at large who are working for them. It is not certain that Plainfield will have a representative on the board. A prominent Republican stated yesterday that he doubted very much whether a local man would be chosen.

There are a large number of candidates seeking the position, and it is said that it will be a difficult matter to make the selection. Thus far the members of the local committee have shown no preference for any candidate and until a conference is held it cannot be said who is to receive the support of the Plainfield organization.

A HOSPITAL ROMANCE LEADS TO THE ALTAR.

Young Couple Who Met in Muhlenberg to Be Married Saturday Afternoon.

A romance that had its beginning in old Muhlenberg hospital, several years ago, will result Saturday afternoon in the marriage of George Meyer, of Watchung avenue, to Charles E. Meyer, of South Second street, and Miss Rilla Hand, of North Branch.

The young man was the victim of an accident and while undergoing treatment at the institution was attended at various parts of the day by Miss Hand. Acquaintance ripened into love and when Meyer was discharged he had received permission to call at Miss Hand's home. Their engagement was announced recently and the wedding will take place at the residence of the bride's parents.

Photograph Swindle.

Chief of Police Kiely issued a warning to householders this morning against Thomas J. Marsh, an old photographer, who is said to be engaged in working a swindle about here. Marsh's graft, for working which he has been arrested for in Newark, is to offer six photographs for $1, and collect half the money under promise to deliver the pictures a few days later. Mrs. Robert Lee complained to the police last week of a swindle like that, and her description of the man leads the police to believe that he was Marsh. The latter is an elderly man, five feet, five and a half inches tall, with a large nose which has been broken and turns to the left. His eyes are hazel in color.

Veteran Amateur in Cast.

Considerable interest is being shown in the amateur performance of "On Change," to be given at the Park Club, Friday night, May 4, by the Comedy Club. William R. Cock, a veteran in local production, will surely make a hit in his latest character sketch, considered the best he has undertaken. He takes the part of "Landlord Mouser," and the way he attacks the "know-it-all profes-sor" is amusing in the extreme.

Mission Work in Alaska.

Before the Women's Home Missionary Society of the First Baptist church, yesterday afternoon, Miss Coles read a very instructive paper on "Alaska," telling of the latest efforts being made there in the cause of missions. There was an informal discussion of plans for the coming year and the prospects of greater endeavor are excellent.

Preparing to Move.

Rev. George Mooney, former pastor of the Monroe Avenue M. E. church, is planning to move to South Orange the latter part of the week. Afterward, Rev. E. E. Robeson, the new pastor at the local church, will take possession of the parsonage vacated by Mr. Mooney.

An Extra Rehearsal.

There will be a rehearsal for the *comic opera, "Patience," at the Ca*sino, on Friday night. Excellent progress is being made in the rehearsals for the show which will be given at the Casino on Thursday and Friday nights, May 3 and 4.

CHURCH CONTRIBUTED $25,870 TO BENEVOLENCES

In All $38,464 Was Given By Crescent Avenue Congregation in the Past Year.

ALL RECORDS BROKEN

Sum Exclusive of Amounts Raised in Its Three Chapels—Congregation and Sunday-schools Growing.

Holding their annual meeting in the church parlors Wednesday the members of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church learned that the past year, so far as finances were concerned, had been the most remarkable in its history. During the twelve months ending April 1 the congregation had raised a total of $38,464.04, of which $25,870.70 had been expended in benevolent work. This is about $6,000 more than was contributed for the same causes last year and is a record that stands for any religious institution in the city. This is exclusive of the amounts raised by Hope, Warren and Bethel chapels, fostered by the Crescent Avenue people.

Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie acted as moderator of the meeting and Dr. B. VanD. Hedges was clerk. After the preliminaries of the business of the nature had been disposed of the reports were called for and were submitted by various officials for the home church and by superintendents and pastors of the dependent chapels. The home church report was read by the clerk and showed the total membership to be 1,675, divided as follows: Crescent Avenue, 942; Bethel chapel, 76; Hope chapel, 396; Warren chapel, 261. This is an increase of twenty-nine over last year for the parent congregation and fifty-six for all combined. The combined membership of the four Sunday schools is now 1,764, a gain of twenty-one, the evidence crediting the home school with 430, Bethel chapel with 289, Hope chapel with 634, and Warren chapel with 411. The report of Superintendent Henry J. Cochran, of the home school, showed that in the past year the receipts had been $627.-90 and the expenditures $511.89.

The total membership is 285, divided as follows: Officers, 10; teachers, 44; senior and junior departments, 167; intermediate department, 26; primary, 90; kindergarten, 48. The enrollment last year was 359. The average attendance has been 311, as against 187 for the previous twelve months.

Dr. Hedges also read the report of Treasurer Jacob Gavett, and as before stated, the total amount raised from April 1, 1905, to April 1, 1906, had been $38,464.04. The congregational expenses were $12,593.34, and the outside benevolences were divided as follows: For foreign missions, $5,718.29; home missions, $3,583.-96; Warren chapel building fund, $4,772.68; support of Hope, Warren and Bethel chaples, $4,537.17; education, $428.37; deacons' fund, $1,-437.25; ministerial relief, $2,020.-70; aid for colleges, $241.55; freedmen, $122.02; synodical home missions, $457.56; publication and Sabbath Society work, $112.80; church erection, $132.42; Bible Society, $54.25; general assembly, $129.82; temperance, $10; Plainfield charities (including Muhlenberg Hospital and the Children's Home), $868.16; miscellaneous items, $39.76.

All the societies were represented at the meeting and the reports showed excellent progress both in regard to membership and finances. These were presented by Howard Williams for the Young People's Society, Dr. Zelie for the Ladies' Aid Society and S. H. Whitney for the deacons. Superintendent Henry C. Squires and Pastor L. R. Howard spoke for Hope chapel, Superintendent F. H. Andrews and Pastor McKelvey for Warren chapel, and Superintendent A. W. Duxbury and Pastor P. D. Tildon for Bethel chapel. In reply to a query it was stated that new plans and specifications were being prepared for the new Warren chapel and that they would be ready in about three weeks. Because of the increased cost of materials the work has been delayed from time to time, but it is now hoped to have ground broken before spring is over.

In the annual election S. H. Whitney and T. F. Budlong succeeded themselves as deacons and W. D. Murray, A. W. Duxbury, G. H. Conklin and E. E. Parvin were named as elders.

WHO DOESN'T LOVE A BABY?

Who doesn't love the way she has
To dimple at everything?
Who doesn't love her baby ways?
And work for half his days?
Who doesn't love the way she has
Of talking with her eyes,
Or holding up her pouting lips
In sweet surprise?
Who doesn't love to feel her hand
Soft on his cheek?
While cuddling deftly in the way
That's but to babies known?
Who doesn't love a baby?
When baby's twenty-nine,
Her height just to his shoulder tip,
And she owns a silver mine?
—H. S. Barnes.

Charles E. Ball, superintendent of the Prudential Insurance Company, is slowly recovering from a severe injury to his foot.

RECOMMENDATIONS FRAMED INTO LAWS

IN SPITE OF MACHINE IDEAS OF GOVERNOR WERE EMBODIED IN MEASURES.

The 130th session of the Legislature, which has just closed, covered fourteen weeks, and was of unusual length. It passed a large number of important bills, and it is to be noted that nearly all the recommendations of Governor Stokes were enacted into law.

One exception is in the matter that was treated by the Governor in his message under the caption "Fewer Laws." The lawmakers of 1906, with the exception of the two bill rooms overtaxed, have shown little disposition to avoid the erroneous precedent pointed out by Governor Stokes that "legal advisers find it easier to induce the Legislature to pass a law to provide for the wishes of their clients than to search the statutes to find an already existing law that will serve the same purpose."

The Perkins bill, providing for the taxation of the main steam railroad property, has been passed and signed by the Governor and has been supplemented by the bill taxing second class railroad property; that re-defining main steam; that providing for the distribution of the railroad taxes; the maximum tax rate bill; the county tax board bill and the franchise tax bill.

The bill limiting the lives of public utility franchises was another of the important measures that was passed.

The bill abolishing fees and substituting salaries for county officers, which was urged by Governor Stokes in his message, has been passed and has received the approval of the executive.

Jury reform was another matter touched upon by Governor Stokes in his message and this has been acted upon by the Legislature by the passage of the Hutchinson jury bill.

The matter of automobile regulation, which, next to equal taxation and the liquor question, occupied a place of prominence before the present Legislature has been disposed of for this year by the adoption of the Frelinghuysen bill in a form very much modified. Many of the provisions demanded by the farmers were eliminated.

The bill for which the farmers of the State have so long been begging, permitting trolley roads to carry freight, has been passed and signed by the Governor. The Morris canal and the Passaic pollution questions, both of which have received considerable attention from former Legislatures, were treated by the 130th session in a manner calculated to make their final disposition less difficult than heretofore. The former is in the hands of the attorney general and the latter is to be solved between the parties in interest at a special session in September.

The question of municipal ownership of public utility franchises received the attention of the Legislature by the introduction of fourteen bills, some of which were passed, but the matter was closed for this session when Governor Stokes sent a message recommending that the whole subject be thoroughly investigated and a definite plan of action be reported upon.

The bill changing the death penalty from hanging to electrocution; a number of measures calculated to bring about clean elections; a bill to protect New Jersey fishermen from menhaden pirates; a bill to exterminate mosquitoes in the State; a forestry reservation bill; the remedy against over-capitalization of corporations; an assembly redistricting bill, and the new State military measure were among the other bills of general importance and interest that have received favorable consideration from this Legislature.

CAPTAIN MARTIN MAKES WONDERFUL RIFLE RECORD

SHOOTS A STRING OF 116 BULLSEYES AT COMPANY K RANGE.

Capt. Martin, commander of Company K, hung up a new record for straight bullseyes on the company range Thursday. He shot a string of 116 on the seventy-five foot range, the biggest record of its kind known in this or any other State.

Captain Martin is one of the crack marksmen of New Jersey, and ranks with the best in the country. For several years he has been well up with the leaders in the National shoots among guardsmen and army men. Two years ago he was a member of the team that went to England to represent this country at the international shoot.

This year, Captain Martin is in better shape than ever, and stands to win more laurels. He will be a conspicuous figure in the National match at Sea Girt this summer.

Leonard Gavett, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Gavett, of West Fifth street, is one of the candidates for the Cornell "Varsity crew.

Death of Showman Recalls Story Why Barnum & Bailey Gave Us "The Go By."

HARD LUCK HERE

James A. Bailey Cut Plainfield Out of Circuit Ten Years Ago—Railroad's Pleadings Futile.

The death of the veteran showman, James A. Bailey, at his home in Mount Vernon, N. Y., Wednesday afternoon recalls the fact that it was he who had Plainfield stricken out the route map of the Barnum & Bailey circus because of an alleged "hoodoo" that always attended its local appearance. The big tented organization has given this city the go-by for ten years, even in the face of urgings from the New Jersey Central to play it instead of smaller places nearby, but all to no purpose. Bailey had decreed that it meant hard luck to come here, and no amount of talking could make him believe any other way.

Previous to its final appearance in Plainfield the circus came to town in alternate years, but somehow or other it always struck a rainy day or one on which conditions kept down the attendance. Its last visit was in 1896, and though Old Sol looked his brightest the management took in less than it paid out, and then James A. said "cut it," or words to that effect. He still had in mind the fate of some other show, the Forepaugh-Sells Brothers, which got mired in the mud on the Richmond street lot in 1894, and never got away for two days, losing dates at Easton and Allentown.

Last year the Barnum & Bailey combination stopped at Elizabeth and Somerville, billing the latter place despite the protests of the Central officials that there was not sufficient yard trackage to accommodate the cars, and it would be better to visit Plainfield. Elizabeth gets the circus again this year, but the ban is still on this city. There is a prospect, however, that the Ringling show is to come here this summer, for although Bailey had an interest in it, he had nothing to do with the booking.

WHY P. S. C. INSPECTS ELECTRICAL WIRING

EMPLOYE SAYS IT IS IS FOR PROTECTION OF PROPERTY OWNERS.

There has been much discussion regarding the circular letter issued by the Public Service Corporation asking consumers of electricity to give their permission so that certificates can be issued in accordance with the rules of the Underwriters' Association of the Middle Department. Thursday the Plainfield Protective Association, organized to fight alleged extortion in rates and any other irregularities found in corporations, issued a letter warning the consumers of electricity not to give the information desired until the executive committee of the association consults the Underwriters' Association.

P. S. C. official said today:

"For the reason that the insurance companies are demanding a certificate of inspection on all work, an agreement was entered into between the Public Service Corporation and the Underwriters' Association of the Middle Department, under the terms of which the Underwriters' Association agrees to issue provisional certificates on all existing electric connections and making the inspection without charge.

"Most insurance policies contain a clause practically as follows: 'Permission is granted for the use of electricity for light and power provided the wiring has been inspected and the certificate issued by the inspection bureau having jurisdiction.' The only interest the Public Service Corporation has in the matter is to standardize wiring and protect the interest of the customer and to prevent incompetent and dishonest wiremen from installing work which is unsafe and dangerous."

Customers who fail to send the asked-for information to the company by April 15, may find the delay dangerous. In case a consumer is asked to show a certificate showing that the electric wiring in his house or store is all right and cannot do so, the companies, it is alleged, can compel an inspection and this may cost between $5 and $15, according to the extent of the inspection.

An Easter Tea.

The Easter tea of the Congregational Women's Association will be held tomorrow afternoon at the home of Mrs. Frank A. Weeks, 325 West Seventh street. Miss Frances E. Griswold, of Japan, will be the guest and speaker of the afternoon, and there will be an attractive programme of music. The Lenten envelopes will be received. There will be no meeting of the Girls' Club this week, and the members are especially invited to be present at the tea.

Mrs. and Mrs. Wallace Serrell, formerly of this city, but now of Chicago, are visiting relatives in Plainfield.

CHORAL LENTEN SERVICES

Chorus Choir and Soloists of First Baptist Church Render Sacred Composition.

"SEVEN LAST WORDS"

Philharmonic String Quartette With Mme. Rossini, Harpist—Mrs. Ward, Miss Harris and Others, Soloists.

"The Seven Last Words," a Lenten choral musical service, by Th. Dubois, from the English version by Dr. Theodore Baker, together with other appropriate selections for Holy Week, were rendered by the chorus choir of the First Baptist church Thursday, assisted by the Philharmonic String Quartette and Mme. Rossini, harpist, of New York. Howard M. Case presided at the organ and Edward J. Pitchugh was the conductor. The soloists were Miss Luella C. Harris, soprano; Mrs. Ferd. M. Ward, contralto; George H. Smith, tenor, and William Holmes, baritone.

There was a very large congregation of worshippers, and the entire musical programme was appreciated in its true sense. The work of the soloists as well as that of the chorus, augmented for the occasion with additional well trained voices, was up to the high standard set at this church during the season. It cannot be given the work of the string quartette, the harpist and that of Mr. Case. In several instances Mme. Rossini accompanied the soloists and the chorus and a harp selection was a feature.

Part first comprised these numbers: "Largo," in F minor, John Sebastian Bach, by the string quartette; evening hymn, "The Day Is Ended," J. E. Barnby, by Mrs. Ward and the choir, with violin obligato; "Ave Verum," Edward Elgar, by Mme. Rossini; "Andante," from quartette (opus 29), Franz Schubert, by string quartette; "By Babylon's Wave," Gounod, by the chorus; "Andante Expression," from quartette (opus 12), Mendelssohn, by string quartette, and "The Pilgrims," Henry Leslie, by the chorus.

Part second was devoted to the rendition of "The Seven Last Words," as follows:

Introduction—"O vos Omnes," Miss Marris; first word, "Father, forgive them, for they know not what they do," William Holmes, George Smith and chorus; second word, "Verily, thou shalt be in Paradise today with Me, Amen. So I tell thee!" duet, George H. Smith and William Holmes, with chorus; third word, "See, O woman! here behold they son Jesus!" Miss Harris, William Holmes, with chorus; fourth word, "God, my Father, why hast Thou forsaken me?" William Holmes; fifth word, "I am athirst," George H. Smith and chorus; seventh word, "It is finished," Miss Harris, George H. Smith, William Holmes and chorus. The musical service closed with a prayer sung by the entire choir.

The members of the Philharmonic String Quartette were Otto K. Schill, first violin; Clement Roentgen, second violin; Carl Schoner, viola, and Udo Gossweiler, violoncello.

BOY'S MIRACULOUS ESCAPE FROM DEATH

EDWIN SMITH, AGED SIX YEARS, FALLS THIRTY-FIVE FEET.

While playing inside Charles W. McCutchen's new building on Park avenue Friday afternoon, Edwin Smith, the six-year-old son of Mrs. William Smith, of 124 Second street, slipped and fell from the second story to the ground, a distance of thirty-five feet, receiving a fracture of the femur, the bone extending from the hip to the knee. The break extended over two-thirds of the bone. The lad was accompanied by a companion, Jakey Jones, and he saw Smith fall.

Young Jones rushed downstairs to where his playmate lay and found him helpless. He then carried the injured lad to his home in West Second street, and Dr. Marcus L. Clawson, the family physician, was summoned. When he arrived he made a thorough examination and at once arranged to have the lad taken to the hospital in the ambulance. There the fractured bone was set. Today the boy was reported to be doing well.

The lad's escape from being killed was miraculous. The fact that he landed on his side instead of his head is the only thing that saved him. He did not even lose consciousness, and as soon as his companion reached him gave directions to be taken home. There were no workmen in the immediate vicinity at the time of the accident, and they did not hear of it until young Smith called their attention to it. The boys had no business inside the building, and the foreman in charge of the work there has given strict orders to keep out all persons except those employed about the structure.

MANGLED BISHOPS' BILL

Machine Amended Measure Passes After Tucker and Perkins Hit at Each Other.

COLBYITES ASSAIL IT

Sergeant-at-Arms Called to Do Service—Stormy Scene in the House Yesterday.

The ex-Bishops' bill came up in the Assembly at Trenton yesterday afternoon in the House on second reading, and Assemblyman Miller offered the original bill as a substitute for the bill passed by the Senate, which is itself a substitute. Miller called the present measure a brewers' bill. The substitute was opposed by Crowthers and Martin. The latter said he would offer amendments of his own later, especially where the bill attempts to take authority away from Mayor Fagan, of Jersey City. Mr. Miller's substitute was beaten, 11 to 39.

After the stormiest debate of the session and after the bill had been riddled by amendments, it passed, 34 to 20.

Mr. Morgan offered an amendment striking out the section giving the appointment of excise boards to the Common Pleas judges instead of the Mayor or governing body in cities. Martin supported Morgan's amendment with vigor. He said the bill as it stood was putting the judiciary into politics. It was contrary to the decision of the courts. It was contrary to home rule. The Common Pleas judge, he said, had a good deal of influence with the grand juries, and if he was the executive and granted the licenses, he would be both the prosecutor and a juror.

Crowther favored the judge. He thought they were competent to act. Bierck favored the Morgan amendment. *He thought the section repre*sented pernicious legislation. The only reason for the section was to satisfy the political scheme of one man. It was a distardly piece of political trickery, and the Republican party would be responsible for a violation of the important decision of the Supreme Court.

Barber opposed the Morgan *amendment. He thought public pol*icy demanded a judge rather than excise commissioners. Perkins charged that the present Excise Board of Jersey City was composed of men who had been indicted and liquor dealers. He thought the judge of Common Pleas would be better. There were some further remarks along this line, and then the Morgan amendment was beaten by a vote of 21 to 28.

Scott, of Hudson, said he did not think Martin should be allowed to talk, because he was not a Republican. Martin came back with the statement that he was a good, loyal Republican, representing what he deemed to be the best principles of the party. This brought out a storm of applause. The amendment excluding first class cities from the provisions of Section 5 was beaten by a vote of 21 to 30.

Morgan then offered an amendment raising the license fee from $300 to $500, as the original bill provided. Thompson, of Mercer, said he might like to support the amendment, but too much time was being wasted and the Senate had thrashed it all out.

Martin rapped the Mercer man. He said the House was not subsidiary to the Senate and should take all the time necessary to discuss and determine important questions. The amendment was defeated, 17 to 30.

Bierck offered an amendment providing that the Excise Commissioners shall remain in office until their present terms expire. It was lost, 17 to 34.

Walsh put in an amendment that the excise boards shall order the screens down. The present bill says the boards may order them down.

Martin said that he defied the House to tell who was the father of the measure. If the bill were amended so that the screens would have to come down during prohibited hours, he said, the measure would be much better. This amendment was adopted.

The speaker offered an amendment making the age limit forty-one, which was in the original bill, instead of eighteen. The speaker said it was an outrage to provide that liquor could be sold to minors. He would rather see the entire bill fall than have such a provision inserted. The amendment was adopted, 37 to 4.

Bierck offered an amendment providing that where excise boards are now elected by the people they shall hereafter be appointed by the judge, so as to make the law uniform. It was beaten.

Tucker, of Union, said nobody wanted the bill. He said this in reply to Perkins, who said that, if the bill was going to be passed and amount to anything, the House must stop amending it. Tucker shouted: "We all known nobody wants it. I am willing to go before my constituents on the proposition."

Then came a fight, which many think presages closing scenes of bitterness. Martin said the whole business emanated from an attempt to legislate out of office Mayor Fagan, of Jersey City. That was all there was to it, and they (the Colby men) were ready to meet the proposition.

Bierck had previously put in an amendment. Barber said it was drawn by a prominent North Jersey man who was doing all he could to destroy the Republican party. He referred to George L. Record, many thought. Bierck was on his feet in an instant. He seemed very angry. He arose to a question of personal privilege. Before he could say anything, Perkins demanded that the lobbies be cleared. This was done after some delay.

Then Bierck denied emphatically that any one had drawn the amendment. He drew it himself and he wanted Barber to understand that he had no right to cast such reflections. Barber had previously said he would accept Bierck's amendment.

Bierck protested and refused to take his seat. Elvins, who was in the chair, ordered Bierck to take his seat. Then he requested the sergeant-at-arms to see that the Hudson man took his seat.

Miller moved that the House take a recess for one hour. Speaker Robbins, who sat at the rear of the House, protested, and the motion was voted down. The sergeant-at-arms had then reached Bierck, and the Bierck sat down. Berg got up and offered an amendment, Perkins moved the previous question. Berg refused to stop talking. Elvins, in the chair, ordered the sergeant-at-arms to compel Berg to take his seat. Berg, who is a big man, shouted, "It will take a pretty good sergeant-at-arms to make me sit down."

The sergeant-at-arms got an assistant of powerful physique, and when the two reached Berg, he dropped into his chair.

The bill then passed to third reading. Thompson made a short speech in favor of it. Then came the fusillade. Miller called the bill the most injurious political trick ever played in the State. He could not vote for it.

Then Martin pitched into the measure in terrific fashion. He said the bill was in the interests of the back rooms and the notorious blue fronts. It was conceived in sin, and the bishops and solely in the interests of the degraded men and women and the saloonkeepers. All that was meant by the men who drew the measure was to injure Mayor Fagan. That was all they had in view. The bill was now a lot of tatters; it allowed men to sell liquor without license. It might better be thrown away. The blue fronts could sell illicit liquor with impunity. He had been told—he did not know how truly—early in the session that the Bishops' bill was the work of James Smith, Jr., in order to put the Democratic party back in power. If it were true, the present bill would probably accomplish the same object. He hoped the measure would be beaten.

Barber, of Mercer, defended the bill on the ground that it was a good measure, although, perhaps, not good enough; he made no reference to the arguments advanced by Martin, except to declare he personally was not trying to slap any politician in the face.

Bierck said the odium of this measure would be upon the Republican party. The original bill had been torn to shreds and the members had not the courage to face the situation.

Speaker Robbins intimated that the Essex and Hudson members were carrying water on both shoulders. He believed the bill was a step in the right direction.

Morgan would not stand for a bill prepared by the bishops, which had been so amended that the bishops now abandoned it.

Miller attacked the "brewer ripper" as he called it. He said it was a dastardly measure intended to deceive the people. The people had their eyes open and would not be deceived.

Martin said his delegation had been charged with playing double. He read from the bill a section which showed that a saloon could be established within 200 feet of a church or school, thus repealing the present law. This came like a bombshell to the advocates of the bill. They simply had nothing to say. Martin said if this did not satisfy them, he would show some more tricks in the bill. The advocates were apparently satisfied. The bill then passed.

The bill now goes to the Senate for action on the House amendments.

BETTER FURNITURE FOR COUNCIL COMMITTEE ROOM.

City Fathers Appropriate $150 for the Purpose.

The Board of Assessors having called attention to the fact that it has no suitable place where it can meet to transact the business of the board or hold a conference with taxpayers, Mr. Daniel, chairman of the councilmanic finance committee, offered a resolution Wednesday appropriating $150 to properly fit up the council's committee room and that Councilman Hibbard be appointed a special committee of one to attend to the matter. The resolution was adopted.

Mr. Daniel stated that the committee room now contains a couple of pine tables, an old settee and a few old chairs. A large table and a number of chairs more in keeping with the tone of the councilmanic chamber will be purchased.

KREBS PRESIDES AT EDUCATIONAL COUNCIL

CLOSER RELATION BETWEEN KINDERGARTEN ELEMENTARY WORK URGED.

At the annual meeting of the council of education of the State of New Jersey at the Trenton high school Friday evening the report of the subcommittee on pepagogics on the "Relation of the Kindergarten to the Elementary School" was discussed. H. C. Krebs, superintendent of schools in North Plainfield, was in the chair.

The committee which prepared the report believes that a kindergarten teacher should have at least a full four years' high school course, and, in addition, a course in kindergarten teaching.

Dr. T. S. Shepherd, supervising principal of the schools at Asbury Park, opened the discussion on the report. Others who spoke were Randall Spaulding, of Montclair, N. J., J. J. Swartz, of Westfield, and Dr. James M. Green, of the State schools, Trenton.

Charles J. Baxter, State superintendent of public instruction, spoke particularly of the benefit which the schools will derive by the passage of the Perkins law. Superintendent Baxter also spoke briefly on the teachers' retirement fund bill. The main provisions of this proposed act is to make membership in the fund compulsory.

H. C. Krebs, of North Plainfield, president of the council, appointed committees on membership and nomination of officers. S. R. Morse, Atlantic City; Dr. Louis Bevier, Jr., New Brpnswick; Austin C. Apgar, of Trenton, comprise the former committee, and Dr. Levi Seeley, of Trenton; C. B. Boyer, of Atlantic City, and A. B. Meredith, of Nutley, comprise the latter.

The council met again this morning.

The officers of the council are: President, H. C. Krebs, county superintendent of schools, North Plainfield; vice president, W. L. R. Haven, superintendent of schools, Morristown; secretary, S. V. Arrowsmith, superintendent of public schools, Red Bank; treasurer, S. R. Shull, A. M., superintendent of schools, Perth Amboy. They will, in all probability, be re-elected today.

John B. Stilliger, of Brooklyn, spent Easter with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Stilliger, of Front street.

BUDGET FIXES $52,000 FOR GENERAL FUND

Figure Does Not Include School, State, County, Fire or Library Tax.

AN INCREASE OF $8,050

For Streets, $31,000; Fire Department, $25,600; Library, $5,-100; Poor, $6,500—Act On Tax Ordinance.

According to the annual custom, at the April meeting, the tax ordinance was presented at the adjourned session of the Common Council Wednesday, by Chairman Daniel, of the finance committee. It provides for a total increase of $8,050 over that of last year to be raised for all purposes.

Last year there was raised for general purposes, exclusive of school, library, poor, fire and State and county taxes, $49,500. This year the amount named is $52,000, an increase of $2,-500. There is an increase of $1,800 for streets, the amount desired being $31,000. Last year 29,200 was raised. Another increase is that in the interest on the sewer obligation. Last year the amount was $6,400, and the amount fixed this year is $8,800. An increase of $400 is given to the Public Library, the amount appropriated being $5,100, as against $4,700 last year. The fire department is given an increase of $600, the amount appropriated being $25,-800, as against $25,000 last year. The only other increase is in the interest on school bonds, the amount appropriated being $5,400, as against $3,700 last year, an increase of $1,-700.

The tax ordinance as adopted on first and second readings and ordered engrossed and advertised is as follows:

General fund, exclusive of school, library, poor, fire and State and county taxes, which also includes $18,000 of the amount appropriated for streets, $52,000; streets, $31,000; lights, $14,250; principal on sewer bonds, $4,000; interest on sewer obligations, $8,800; poor, which includes $1,000 appropriated to the hospital for the care of the indigent poor, $6,500; library, $5,100; fire department, $25,600; interest on school bonds, due in May, $5,400; principal on garbage plant, $700; dog tax, $2.

CITY JAILS AND LIBRARIES.

Difference Invested in Each by Some of the Larger Municipalities.

If reading is a preventive of criminality, as some persons declare, some American cities are short about putting the remedy for crime into effective operation, says the New York Sun. New York city, for instance, has $8,500,000 invested in jails and correctional institutions, and less than $6,000,000 in libraries.

Philadelphia has $2,150,000 in jails to $750,000 in libraries. Cleveland has $350,000 in jails and $325,000 in libraries.

These are the notable exceptions: Boston has $2,600,000 invested in jails, and $5,200,000 in libraries. Chicago has $1,000,000 in jails and $2,500,000 in libraries. St. Louis has an almost equal amount, $850,000, invested in each.

Pittsburg and Milwaukee have more than a million each in libraries, and Pittsburg stands fourth in this particular, exceeded only by Boston, Chicago and New York. Allegheny City, which is geographically a part of Pittsburg, has $730,000 invested in libraries, and Newark has $515,000. Baltimore, Buffalo and New Orleans have only a small investment in library buildings. San Francisco has $275,000, and Omaha, a much smaller city, $315,000.

NERVE OF THE "SOONERS"

Methods Taken by the Adventurers Who Try to Beat to the Front.

For many persons, a newly discovered fact is simply a spring-board from which they dive into a bottomless sea of speculation, says Samuel McChord Crothers, in Atlantic. They pride themselves on their ability to jump at conclusions, forgetting that jumping is an exercise in which the lower orders excel their betters. If an elephant could jump as far, in proportion to his weight, as a flea, there would be no holding him on this planet. Every new discovery is followed by a dozen extravagances, engineered by the Get-wise-quick people. There is always some Young Napoleon of Philosophy who undertakes to corner truth-market. It's like what happened at the opening of Oklahoma territory. Before the day set by the government when they all were to start fair in their race for farms, a band of adventurers called "Sooners" smuggled themselves across the line. When the bona fide settler arrived on his quarter-section, he found an impudent "Sooner" in possession. You can't find any fresh field of investigation that isn't claimed by these sooners. It all comes because people are no longer educated logically.

SLOW CURE FOR INSOMNIA

The Victim Took Beer for It, But in Extremely Moderate Quantity.

"Speaking of homeopathy," said the doctor, according to the Philadelphia Record, "reminds me of the case of Miss N—, who traces her ancestry back through a long line of Puritans, and has imbibed from strong wet unyielding principles as regards saloons and liquor. Miss N— has been troubled with insomnia, and has tried all sorts of remedies. Finally, she told me of her trouble. I suggested that her might help her to sound sleep. She was horrified, but at last a beer peddler stopped at her door and left a dozen bottles.

"The beer man returned in about three days for the empty bottles.

"'My dear man,' said Miss N—, 'the bottles are not yet empty.'

"The beer man waited several days more and again appeared.

"'Your bottles are perfectly safe,' Miss N— told him, and then a thought struck her, 'but if you need them, I have one nearly empty which you may have.'

"'I guess you don't drink it very fast,' suggested the man.

"'Why,' replied Miss N—, 'I take two teaspoons twice a day.'"

SCOURGE OF STOCKMEN.

Ravages of the Big Gray Wolf Far Worse Than Those of the Coyote.

Big wolves are found in both Texas and Oklahoma, but they are rare compared to the coyotes; and they are great wanderers, says Theodore Roosevelt, in Scribner's. Alone or in packs of three or four or half a dozen they travel to and fro across the country, often leaving a district at once if they are molested. Coyotes are more or less plentiful everywhere throughout the west in thinly settled districts and they are not hang about in the immediate neighborhood of towns. They do enough damage to make farmers and ranchers kill them whenever the chance offers.

But this damage is not appreciable when compared with the ravages of their grim, big brother, the gray wolf, which, wherever it exists in numbers, is a veritable scourge to the stockmen.

A Little More Credible.

A man who had been shooting on Cape Cod returned by train, and a stranger who was obliged to share his seat entertained into conversation with him, and asked if he had had good sport.

"Very good, indeed," replied the sportsman. "We got 109 head to two guns."

"You don't say so!" ejaculated the stranger, apparently lost in astonishment at the size of the bag. "Double-barreled guns, I suppose?"—Youth's Companion.

INDIAN HAS SAILOR WALK

His Step Is Nearly Flat-Footed and His Poise Is Like the Mariner's.

A woodsman walks with a rolling motion, his lips swaying an inch or more to the stepping side, and his pace is correspondingly long. This hip action, says Field and Stream, may be noticed to an exaggerated degree in the stride of the professional pedestrian, but the latter walks with a heel-and-toe step, whereas an Indian's or sailor's step is more nearly flat-footed. In the latter case the center of gravity is covered by the whole foot. The poise is as secure as that of a tightrope walker. The toes are pointed straight forward, or even a trifle inward, so that the inside of the heel, the outside of the foot and the smaller toes all do their share of work and assist in balancing.

Walking in the woods in this manner, one is scarcely conscious, either, to trip over projecting roots, stones and other traps as he would be if the feet formed hooks by pointing outward. The advantage is obvious in snowshoeing. If the Indian were turned to stone while in the act of stepping the statue would probably stand balanced on one foot. His gait gives the limbs great control over his movements. He is always poised. If a stick cracks under him it is because of his weight, and not by reason of the impact. He goes silently on and with great economy of force. His steady balance enabled him to put his moving foot down as gently as you would lay an egg on the table.

THE RETORT COURTEOUS.

Curried Tirade of Juvenile Caucasian Coolly Countered by Ebon African Recipient.

A little Afro-American was trying to sell papers near Times square. He evidently was a novice in the ways of newsboys, says the New York Times, for he displayed no timidity about poaching on others' territory. But his innocence of custom was not to last long. A boy of about his own age came along and looked his African rival over. Then he said unkind and even rude things to the newcomer. They were to the effect that if the African tarried long in the vicinity various and sundry unpleasant things would happen to him. They were calculated to make it difficult to identification after his body had been laid on a wet slab at the morgue.

The information was imparted partly in language far more forceful than would have been approved by the Gerry society. The young Caucasian also informed his rival that he was many things, which, it seemed, was news to the African, whose countenance was a picture of amazement and incredulity. The tirade of the white boy lasted about three minutes when he paused because he had run out of aratheums. Then he spoke once more, and followed his remarks with a swing for the right side of the other's jaw. The blow was neatly dodged, and the African hastened away he cried back:

"All them things what you said I is you is 'em."

THE FIGHTS OF BUFFALOES.

When Young Bulls Aspire to Leadership of the Herd Trouble Ensues.

The buffalo, like other animals, was horribly pestered and annoyed by fleas To rid himself of these and also to cool his hot sides, he wallowed in the earth in a manner peculiar to himself. Kneeling first, and then plieing one shoulder on the ground, he revolved by the use of his hind legs, thus making what was called a buffalo wallow. Standing water was often found in these hollow places far into the dry season. Every young bull aspired to become the leader of a herd. The question of rank, says Recreation, was invariably determined by tests of strength and combats fierce and furious, were of frequent occurrence. Sometimes the death of one or both of the contestants resulted, but usually the vanquished bull took his place far in the rear ranks of the herd. If the victor had previously been the leader, he retained his ascendency, but if he could not maintain his position he was supplanted by his antagonist, without even the consolation of honorable retirement. Might made right in the buffalo herd.

He Was "It."

"My wife," remarked the homely man at the church fair, "is never happy unless she has a grievance."

"How very happy she must be since her marriage," said the pretty girl at the flower booth, as she sized him up.

And in his hurry to get away the homely man forgot his change.—Chicago Daily News.

Her Unhappy Day.

"That girl has an unfortunate idea of repartee."

"Yes," answered Miss Cayenne. "She has an idea that she is saying smart things when she is merely saying things that smart."—Washington Star.

A Different Viewpoint.

Mrs. McSplurge—When I go out west this lovely white frock people will think I've been shopping in Paris.

Mr. McSplurge—Maybe they'll think I've been cracking a safe.—Cleveland Leader.

Odd Leprosy Condition.

A Frenchman who lived in Constantinople recently lost his nose in the following manner: M. D'Alle, who was employed on the staff of the [illegible] to Constantinople, [illegible] leprosy

WITH THE GARDENER.

Why One Should Not Break the Lawn with Flower Beds and Where to Place Them.

Flower beds or single specimens of flowering shrubs, no matter how handsome they may be, are out of place in the center of the lawn. They need a background. A group of Forsythias standing alone looks thin and cold, against a background of evergreen they are glorious. Their place is in a border with the taller ones behind and low growing plants in front.

The back edge of the border may well be straight, following the dividing line between adjoining wards or against a high board fence. In either case tall shrubs like lilac or luxuriant vines should eventually make the straight side a line of beauty and throw the bright flowers of the border into relief by supplying a rich green background. The front of the border should be a beautifully undulating curves, edged with the lowest growing things possible. The border should be well manured, the soil dug two feet deep and made fine on top. Give perennials plenty of room and fill in vacant spaces with annuals. The second year your perennials should fill the bed and give an uninterrupted succession of bloom from April to November, whereas most annuals are not sown till May and do not begin to flower until July.

Flower beds in the middle of a lawn interrupt the restful stretch of grass and make the lawn look smaller than it is. If you will have beds of geraniums or other plants that must be kept over winter in a greenhouse or cellar, put them near the house. Another point against flower beds in the lawn is they require so much care to keep them trim. The grass encroaches, a circle soon becomes a ragged oval, and a star loses one of its points. The hardy boarder is informal to start with and, while neatly kept edges will add to its attractiveness, they are not absolutely necessary to its good appearance.

Some of the annuals are shade-enduring, but it is easier to get too little sun on most of them than too much.

Dig the flower bed deep, so that the roots will go down quickly and require less watering in hot, dry spells. Plenty of well-rotted stable manure is the best fertilizer for a flower bed. If the only available space you have for the purpose is wet and soggy, two feet of soil should be dug out and stones, broken crockery, coarse ashes put in. A double purpose may thus be served in a small city yard where rubbish is hard to dispose of. The soil should be made perfectly fine. It should be fairly firm but not packed. Clods the size of a marble may cause delay in the growth of seedlings for several days.

The first of the tender annuals may be sowed by May 1, but seed should be saved for a second planting later.

WILHELM MILLER.

IN TAKING CARE OF FURS.

Before Putting Away White Furs Clean Thoroughly as Directed, and a Solution for Moth Eggs.

Furs are subject to being made the depository of moth eggs. A solution of acetate of potash in spirits of rosemary —15 grains to one pint, will destroy these eggs.

Before putting away white furs such as ermine or white fox, clean them. Dip a perfectly clean or new whisk broom in pure alcohol and mop the fur well with it, rewetting often, until the fur is soaked. Have ready an abundance of powdered starch and with a flour dredger or other perforated box fill the wet hairs full of starch, working it down to the skin with your fingers.

When dry powder again, and thickly, and shut up in a box for two days. Beat out the powder then, in the open air and with a whisk broom shake and beat until clear of starch, and put up as you would pack away other furs.

To clean white furs, lay them on a table and rub well with bran made moist with warm water. Rub until quite dry—afterwards using dry bran.

The fur should be put on with flannel, and the dry with a piece of book muslin. Another method is to carefully rub dry plaster of paris into the fur with the hands until all the plaster, which is ground fine like flour, is shaken out. Wipe over the fur with a clean, white, dry cloth.

Try the Russian method of cleaning furs. Put some rye flour into a pot and heat it as long as the hand can bear it, stirring constantly. Then spread the flour over the fur and rub well into it. Brush thoroughly with a clean brush, or beat gently till all the flour is removed.

Light furs, besides being subjected to the above process, should be rubbed well with magnesia or a piece of book muslin.

Orange Chips.

Put three pounds of sugar over the fire with a gill and a half of water and a fifth of a teaspoonful of cream tartar. Mix over the fire and cook, scraping down the sides occasionally, until it barely reaches the hard crack when tested in water. Turn it out on a buttered marble slab, and, as it cools, add a few drops of oil of orange. Fold together until this is worked in, then cut the lump in two. Color one-half of it with cochineal and pull the other until it is white. Work it out into a flat mass on a warm slab and flatten out the orange-colored part, wrap one around the other, white outside, and flatten out again with a heavy buttered iron if necessary to handle it. Pull out into a ribbon, cut into chips and lay on a cool marble; leave till cold and break apart.

TWO CLASSES.

There are two kinds of people
On earth today,
Just two kinds of people,
No more, I say.

Not the sinner and saint,
For 'tis well understood,
The good are half bad
And the bad half good.

Not the rich and the poor,
For to count a man's wealth
You must first know the state
Of his conscience and health.

Not the humble and proud,
For in life's little span,
Who puts on airs
Is not counted a man.

Not the happy and sad,
For the swift-flying years
Bring each man his laughter
And each man his tears.

No, the two kinds of people
On earth I mean,
Are the people who lift
And the people who lean.

Wherever you go you will find
The world's masses
Are always divided
In just these two classes.

And, oddly enough, you will find,
Too, I ween,
There is only one lifter
To twenty who lean.

In which class are you?
Are you easing the load
Of overtaxed lifters
Who toil down the road?

Or are you a leaner
Who lets others bear
Your portion of labor
And worry and care?

DECADENCE?

(A carboy of mineral water, put too close to a radiator, exploded in the Republican cloakroom of the House while J. Adam Bede, the recognised jester, was telling a funny story. A dozen members scrambled away. Nobody was hurt.—Washington News.)

No cloakroom made for our great men
A mineral water drinking den
When eloquence took foremost rank
And was the mode—
The things that Clay and Webster drank
Did not explode!

Or cold or hot these things were served,
And though the orator they nerved,
He knew their nature, bold and frank
No grudges owed—
The things that Clay and Webster drank
Did not explode!

"Decadence" has no pleasant sound;
Our oratory's almost drowned
In vichyous noise and horseplay prank
While ills forebode—
The things that Clay and Webster drank
Did not explode!
—Brooklyn Eagle.

EVERYBODY'S PAID BUT TEACHERS.

Everybody's paid but teacher,
Carpenter, mason and clerk,
Everybody's paid but teacher,
She gets nothing but work.

Everybody works but teacher,
Tolling day and night,
Everybody works but teacher,
Drawing her slender mite.

Everybody's paid but teacher,
Butcher, baker and cook,
Everybody's paid but teacher,
Grafter, fakir and crook.

Everybody's paid but teacher,
McCurdy, Schiff and Depew,
Everybody works (us) but teacher,
Lawson, Harriman and crew.

Everybody's paid but teacher,
Paid with a dirty smile,
Everybody's paid but teacher,
Whose work is not worth while.

Everybody's paid but teacher,
Sacrificing her youth,
Everybody's paid but teacher,
Living on ethereal love.

Everybody loves the teacher,
Everybody gives her praise,
Everybody says she's a wonder,
But nobody offers a "raise."

Everybody's paid but teacher,
Everybody works but teacher,
Everybody eats and everybody spends,
But nobody earns more than teacher.

Inventive Jerseymen.

Patents issued to Jerseymen the 12th day of April, 1904, reported by Drake & Burr, solicitors of American and foreign patents, corner of Broad and Market streets, Newark: Die for cutting out metal plates, C. B. Apgar, Camden; reciprocating bed-actuating apparatus for printing presses and other machines, C. Anderson, Paterson; coin-playing piano, G. Warburchett, Belleville; treating alkaline storage batteries, T. A. Edison, Llewellyn Park; cooking utensil, H. Elsner, Irvington; spring wheel, D. Farrand, Newark; Button, A. Hall, Jersey City; button or color photographs and making same, H. E. Ives, Woodcliffe-on-Hudson; clutch mechanism for exhibiting machines, J. C. Liebhardt, Belleville; signal system, J. H. Lynch and Bank; fire alarm signal box, H. [illegible] Bowan, Jr., Newark; apparatus for spring wheel, W. W. McKee, Belleville; stove, F. D. Moses, Trenton; plumber's lamp, R. Parker, Lakewood; gasoline dispensing can, W. H. Robertshaw, East Orange; door closer and check, A. J. Rossetreter, Rocketson; bell buoy, T. Weber, Bay Harbor City; lamp, R. M. Dixon, East Orange, three trademarks.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning April 23.

By REV. S. H. DOYLE.

Topic.—The Lord's day; how to keep it holy.—Luke vi, 5-10; Ex. xx, 8-11; Rev. i, 9-13.

The Lord's day is the title given in the New Testament to the Sabbath day. By the example of God and by His command it was observed in the Old Testament dispensation and until the resurrection of Christ on the seventh day of the week. But from the day of the resurrection the vast body of Christians have observed the first day of the week as the Christian Sabbath. No definite command for a change from the seventh to the first day of the week is recorded in the Scriptures; yet the actions of the apostles immediately following Christ's resurrection and their references in their writings to "the first day of the week" and "the Lord's day" are convincing proofs that such a change of days of the week is recorded in the greatest event in human history—the resurrection of Christ. The Jewish Sabbath commemorated the finished work of creation and the Christian Sabbath may well commemorate the last great act in Christ's life, which assures us of the completion of redemption through Jesus Christ. Instead of quibbling over the question of the change let us rejoice in it as a new reason for keeping one day of the week holy and sacred unto God.

The keeping of the Sabbath holy cannot be reasonably questioned. God commands us to do it, and His commands should all be obeyed. He Himself first kept it, as an example and an inspiration to all men to do so. Christ also enjoined the Sabbath in His day and taught men to do so, and, as He lived to give us a pattern of true living, His regard for the Sabbath should be an added reason for our keeping it holy. Moreover, human history abundantly proves that man needs the Lord's day. It was "made for man" and is absolutely necessary to his best physical, moral, mental and spiritual development. The man who strikes the Sabbath day out of his life is not only disobeying the command of God, but is doing himself an untold injury.

The method of keeping the Lord's day holy is the most difficult of all questions connected with the Sabbath. Some generations have been unduly strict in observing the letter of the law and others too liberal in interpreting the spirit of the Sabbath.

What, then, is a fair interpretation of Sabbath observance? What should we not do and what should we do to keep the Lord's day holy?

1. The Lord's day should not be a day of idleness. It should not be a day of idle lounging about the house, reading the Sunday newspaper or a day spent in sleeping the hours away. God has no use for the lazy or the sluggard. And if we are spending the Sabbath in these ways we are not keeping it holy.

2. The Lord's day should not be a day of license. It was never "made for man" in the sense that on that day a man can do as he pleases—as he is seeking personal pleasure or in visiting friends who are well and prosperous. But how many make it a day of pleasure seeking. A day of visiting friends, when the time is spent in idle gossip and in discussing secular affairs! And how many excuse themselves by saying, "It is the only day I have." This is not true. It is the only day man has not got. This day God has kept to Himself. Nor is it true so far as the man himself is concerned. Ten hours are a long working day in our age. Add to this eight hours for sleep and the average man has still six hours a day, or thirty-six a week, a day and a half in which to visit his friends and seek pleasure. Why, then, should he steal time from God for these things and in many instances keep others from God's house and service on this day? Sabbath visitation is one of the curses of our age. Hundreds are kept from God's house every Sabbath because friends "drop in" for the day or for the evening. Such visitors not only break God's law, but make themselves a nuisance to friends.

3. The Lord's day should be spent in Christian worship. The Bible should be read at home and prayer offered to God. The church should be attended by all. Unless prevented by a good excuse no one should be absent from God's house on His day. There are privilege, power, joy, instruction and inspiration in regular church attendance on the Sabbath.

4. The Lord's day should be spent in the spirit. John was "in the Spirit on the Lord's day" when he received the revelation. Under the control of the Holy Spirit. Put yourself under the Spirit's direction, especially upon the Sabbath. John saw visions. So will you—visions of what to do and what not to do.

5. The Lord's day is a day of rest. Christian service; not in idleness, not in secular pursuits, but in Christian service—service to suffering mankind in His name. Go on the Sabbath, if you must go, where you can do good and not where you are a nuisance. Visit a hospital. Take flowers to a sickroom. Go to some unsaved man and ask him to be a Christian. Be a member of the church and serve it in the Sabbath school or some other of its organizations and you'll find the Sabbath day a day of worship, of rest and of glory, and when you kneel in prayer at the close of the day you will thank God for the day and arise on Monday morning refreshed in body, mind and spirit for the toil of the week, with God's blessing upon you and your labors.

BIBLE READINGS.

Gen. ii, 1-3; Ex. xxiii, 10-12; Num. xv, 32-36; xxviii, 1-9; Deut. v, 12; Neh. x, 31; Isa. lviii, 13, 14; Mark ii, 24-28; Luke iv, 16.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

April 24: "Our Resources in Service." Phil. iv, 10-19; Ps. xxxvii, 23-26; Isa. xli, 10-13; Matt. vii, 7, 8; John xiv, 12-14.

By REV. WALTER J. TATE, D. D.

"There is no king saved by the multitude of a host." A mighty man is not delivered by great strength."

Numbers may usually give confidence and abundance brings a sense of security unless one thinks below the surface of things and has studied the lessons of history to some purpose. Then they are quite apt to bring anxiety and doubt as to the future.

Xerxes ought to have conquered Greece if numbers could decide victory. Grecian patriotism was a factor to be reckoned with in that case.

Napoleon should have conquered Russia if military skill and trained soldiery are the chief elements in warfare. But lack of horseshoes, fanaticism and fire with frost are sometimes disturbing factors which affect the solution of the problems of battle.

Great is the modern combination of greatest event in human history—the resurrection of Christ. The Jewish Sabbath commemorated the finished work of creation and the Christian Sabbath may well commemorate the last great act in Christ's life, which assures us of the completion of redemption through Jesus Christ. Instead of quibbling over the question of the change let us rejoice in it as a new reason for keeping one day of the week holy and sacred unto God.

The keeping of the Sabbath holy cannot be reasonably questioned. God commands us to do it, and His commands should all be obeyed. He Himself first kept it, as an example and an inspiration to all men to do so. Christ also enjoined the Sabbath in His day and taught men to do so, and, as He lived to give us a pattern of true living, His regard for the Sabbath should be an added reason for our keeping it holy. Moreover, human history abundantly proves that man needs the Lord's day. It was "made for man" and is absolutely necessary to his best physical, moral, mental and spiritual development. The man who strikes the Sabbath day out of his life is not only disobeying the command of God, but is doing himself an untold injury.

The method of keeping the Lord's day holy is the most difficult of all questions connected with the Sabbath. Some generations have been unduly strict in observing the letter of the law and others too liberal in interpreting the spirit of the Sabbath.

What, then, is a fair interpretation of Sabbath observance? What should we not do and what should we do to keep the Lord's day holy?

1. The Lord's day should not be a day of idleness. It should not be a day of idle lounging about the house, reading the Sunday newspaper or a day spent in sleeping the hours away. God has no use for the lazy or the sluggard. And if we are spending the Sabbath in these ways we are not keeping it holy.

2. The Lord's day should not be a day of license. It was never "made for man" in the sense that on that day a man can do as he pleases—as he is seeking personal pleasure or in visiting friends who are well and prosperous. But how many make it a day of pleasure seeking. A day of visiting friends, when the time is spent in idle gossip and in discussing secular affairs! And how many excuse themselves by saying, "It is the only day I have." This is not true. It is the only day man has not got. This day God has kept to Himself. Nor is it true so far as the man himself is concerned. Ten hours are a long working day in our age. Add to this eight hours for sleep and the average man has still six hours a day, or thirty-six a week, a day and a half in which to visit his friends and seek pleasure. Why, then, should he steal time from God for these things and in many instances keep others from God's house and service on this day? Sabbath visitation is one of the curses of our age. Hundreds are kept from God's house every Sabbath because friends "drop in" for the day or for the evening. Such visitors not only break God's law, but make themselves a nuisance to friends.

3. The Lord's day should be spent in Christian worship. The Bible should be read at home and prayer offered to God. The church should be attended by all. Unless prevented by a good excuse no one should be absent from God's house on His day. There are privilege, power, joy, instruction and inspiration in regular church attendance on the Sabbath.

4. The Lord's day should be spent in the spirit. John was "in the Spirit on the Lord's day" when he received the revelation. Under the control of the Holy Spirit. Put yourself under the Spirit's direction, especially upon the Sabbath. John saw visions. So will you—visions of what to do and what not to do.

5. The Lord's day is a day of rest. Christian service; not in idleness, not in secular pursuits, but in Christian service—service to suffering mankind in His name. Go on the Sabbath, if you must go, where you can do good and not where you are a nuisance. Visit a hospital. Take flowers to a sickroom. Go to some unsaved man and ask him to be a Christian. Be a member of the church and serve it in the Sabbath school or some other of its organizations and you'll find the Sabbath day a day of worship, of rest and of glory, and when you kneel in prayer at the close of the day you will thank God for the day and arise on Monday morning refreshed in body, mind and spirit for the toil of the week, with God's blessing upon you and your labors.

BIBLE READINGS.

Gen. ii, 1-3; Ex. xxiii, 10-12; Num. xv, 32-36; xxviii, 1-9; Deut. v, 12; Neh. x, 31; Isa. lviii, 13, 14; Mark ii, 24-28; Luke iv, 16.

TREATMENT OF WINDOWS.

Flowered Wall Calls for Plain Drapery and Flowered Curtains Prettiest with Plain Wall.

Windows are being freed from their multiplicity of draperies and over-draperies, through which neither light nor air possibly could find entrance. City houses are the only ones where three or four sets of curtains now are used, and even these there is simpler fashions used in the country houses are growing in favor. Two sets are all that are required, and one is sufficient. This depends entirely upon the texture of the materials used. If it is transparent two sets are unnecessary, although an additional inner hanging for the sake of its decorative qualities is permissible and often a great addition.

If the curtain is opaque and heavy it will be found advisable to have a transparent inconspicuous gauze drapery next the glass to soften the outline. These sheer casement hangings generally are draped, the heavier ones never.

They may be made of net, figured or plain, or of some of the attractive muslins. A rule which is not at all arbitrary, but which often is observed, is that of using net drapery and the less expensive muslins upstairs. The curtains usually are ruffled, all length, and draped at the middle sash with a band of same material. Whether they shall be crossed at the top or simply hung from the center is for the taste of the individual in terms of taste and of proportions of the window. A graceful draping may or may not demand it.

The newest material used in bedrooms is the printed linen known as the Aberdeen linen. It comes in quaint Dutch and old English designs, and the colors are wonderfully soft and artistic. A stripe with the English rose as the motive is attractive either in green and blue or in green and old gold.

The Persian cottons at 35 cents a yard are equally attractive, and unusual in the old-fashioned blues and greens of our grandmothers' patchwork quilts.

Experience teaches us that flowered papers require the contrast and repose of plain curtains, while plain papers furnish an agreeable background for the more elaborate materials.

The reps of different qualities, cotton, wool and silk alike, all hang with a peculiar softness and grace. There are fascinating weaves and colors in the cotton tapestries.

There are some striking designs in dark rich colors in the liberty cretonnes and linen taffetas which would be extremely effective in a library or dining-room combined with a plain or self-toned paper.—Chicago Tribune.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

Large pieces of silver, such as urns, baskets and the like, should be kept in canton flannel bags when not in active use. The furry side of the flannel should be turned inside and the bag closed with drawing strings at the top.

Stains may be easily removed from the inside of decanters, etc., by putting into them fresh tea leaves, direct from the teapot, with a little soft soap and hot water. Shake well, and when clean rinse thoroughly in cold water.

When turning out gelatin or gelatin preparations the dish in which they have formed, wet a knife in cold water before attempting to pass it around the mold. By the same token, wet your knife in hot water before cutting hot breads.

New cotton often causes needles to break because of its exceeding harshness. This difficulty may be overcome by rubbing along the part to be sewn with a dry piece of soap. The plan answers equally well whether the work be done by hand or machine.

Don't hang skirts wrong side out when putting them away. They are much better and more carefully done (so a professional dressmaker says) whatever dust has been collected by the lining and clung in spite of your brushing is bound to sift through to the right side and stick.

Go over skirt linings every couple of months with a cloth wrung out as hard as you can—of water. That cloth should be just one tiny remove from perfectly dry. But the amount of dust it will collect from what you probably thought was a perfectly clean lining is astonishing.

To mend cement mix the best powdered rice with a little cold water, slowly add boiling water till the right consistency is obtained, then pour into a saucepan and boil it for a minute. This paste is almost transparent, and well adapted for fancy paper work, for which a strong and colorless cement is required.

The whiteness of the boards, which shows that the work is well done, is obtained by careful scrubbing the right way of the wood—never across the grain—with cold water and plenty of soap. No soda must be used, or the wood will turn a blackish color. Change the water often—it is impossible to have the boards nice and white if you rinse them in dirty water.—Chicago Daily News.

Maple Fuffs.

Two cupfuls maple or brown sugar, one-half cupful water, one-half teaspoonful vanilla, one-half cupful chopped walnuts, white of one egg. Boil sugar and water until they form a soft mass in water. Beat slowly into well-beaten white of egg, add vanilla, and beat until stiff. Add walnut meats and drop by one-half teaspoonful on buttered paper.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

A DEMOCRATIC WEEKLY.

Published at

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Terms: $2.00 per year.

A. L. FORCE, Editor and Proprietor.

THURSDAY, APRIL 12, 1906.

Now it is up to Mr. Bryan to return the salutation "de-light-ted!"

That staid old grandmother of Park Row runs great danger of being "read out of meeting" by the hide-bound Republicans if she adheres to that newly-acquired faculty of being so independent in reporting New Jersey's political happenings.

As Mr. Roosevelt's views on the income tax, railroad rate and inheritance tax are so near the orthodox teaching of Jeffersonian Believers, all the President needs to do now is to come out in favor of tariff reform to make him available as a proselyte to Democracy.

BURGLARS WERE FOUR SLEEPY LITTLE CHICKS

SCARE IN UNDERTAKING SHOP SATURDAY NIGHT WITH EASTER EFFECT.

William Stransenbach, who works for T. A. Moore, the undertaker, and sleeps in the shop, on Watchung avenue, heard a noise in the shop cellar at midnight Saturday night. Muffled scratchings and soft footfalls came up through the floor and there was no mistaking the fact one, perhaps two, burglars was snooping about.

Stransenbach got up, dressed and stole silently into the street to seek help. William Newman, a hackman, was driving by, and Stransenbach stopped him. Newman headed his horse for the depot and whipped up, to get Officer Stillwell, who is on duty at the station.

On the way to the store Stillwell loosened his club and unlimbered his gun. Cop, hackman and undertaker's assistant reconnoitered outside the place. Stillwell listened carefully at a side window and heard the same noise that awoke Stransenbach. The officer pumped his revolver and tiptoed into the store and down the cellar steps. At the bottom he poked his revolver at the darkness.

"Hands up!" he ordered, "I've got you covered."

A sudden rustling noise answered him and the cop flashed his electric lantern. The light disclosed the burglars—four chickens roosting on the edge of a box.

"Darn!" said Stillwell, and put his gun away.

Stransenbach didn't know where the chickens came from. They must have found their way into the cellar some time during the day, and stayed to lay Easter eggs.

E. M. FRENCH AGENCY REPORTS MANY SALES.

Numerous Rentals Also Made Through the Busy Realty Concern.

Elston M. French reports the following sales and rentals: The beautiful property formerly owned and occupied by Joseph J. Blackmore on West Seventh street, near Monroe avenue, has been sold through him to Miss Ethelwyn Hoyt, who owns and occupies the property immediately adjoining, on the corner of Hobart avenue and West Seventh street. Mr. French has rented the Blackmore house for Miss Hoyt to H. Herndon, a New York lawyer, who will take up his residence here with his family, about May 1.

Mr. French has also renewed the lease on Mrs. Negley's property on West Seventh street and Hobart avenue, to John H. Greene, Jr., for another year. R. F. Goldsborough, of New York, has rented the house owned by Henry G. Atwater, No. 1107 East Front street from May 1. Mrs. Charlotte Fritz has rented the house owned by Charles P. Sebring, No. 37 Prospect place, in Washington Park. Richard Boardman, a Jersey City lawyer, has rented the property owned by Mrs. Swinton, No. 914 Putnam avenue.

Among the recent purchasers of lots at Highland Park are Mrs. Harvey R. Linbarger, of this city, and Thomas N. Brandon and John I. Brower, of New York. Charles Kofoed, of this city, has bought two lots of the Inter-Urban Realty Company, on McCrea place, and Angus Allen, also of this city, has bought two lots of the same company, on Wiley avenue.

John C. Byrnes, of this city, and Mrs. J. Saures, of Porto Rico, have moved with their families in the New Madison. Richard P. Elliott has bought the property formerly owned by Calvin Neighbor on Cottage place. Emil Brazard has removed his place of business from Park avenue to No. 113 East Fourth street. D. Dantzinger, formerly living on West Second street, has rented the house owned by Mr. Martens, No 329 East Third street.

Miss Edith Gilbert, of Crescent avenue, is spending the Easter vacation in Philadelphia visiting friends.

AMUSEMENTS.

John Philip Sousa's new military comic opera, "The Free Lance," will receive its metropolitan premiere at the New Amsterdam theatre next Monday evening. Klaw & Erlanger are responsible for the production, elaborately staged with beautiful scenery and costumes, and Harry B. Smith, well known to Plainfield, stands sponsor for the book and lyrics. The verdict of the critics in Springfield, Hartford and Philadelphia is that Mr. Sousa has never composed more brilliant and catchy music, Mr. Smith has never written a more comic story and Klaw & Erlanger have never made a more artistic production. The company numbers 125 people. A notable feature is made of the male chorus of 50 voices which greatly aids in the rendering of Mr. Sousa's spirited martial music, especially his new march number, "On to Victory," the finale of the first act. This is considered a worthy successor to "The Washington Post" march and "The Stars and Stripes Forever." "The Free Lance" is a genuine comic opera. The interest of the love interest is carried by Joseph Cawthorn as Siegmund Lump. The musical numbers are sung by Mr. Cawthorn as Siegmund, Nella Bergen as Princess Yolande, Jeannette Lowrie as Gretchen, Albert Hart as the Duke, Harry MacDonough as the Emperor and George Tallman as Prince Florian. Other noted principals are Sim Pulen, Louis Haines, Charles Santra, Junia Allen, Geraldine Malone, Monte Stone, Estelle Thebaud and Dorothy Southwick.

Manager John Cort will introduce a new star to the New York public at the Liberty theatre next Monday evening in Florence Roberts, who will appear in a new four-act modern play by Alice M. Smith, called "The Strength of the Weak." There is a problem in the piece and a betrayed girl, but the author has handled very differently from the conventional problem play. The action begins on graduation day at an American university for women. Pauline Darcey, the valedictorian, played by Miss Roberts, is a betrayed girl, who has written a book reflecting certain phases of her life and her relations with her unscrupulous guardian, with whom she sinned before realizing its enormity. From this point the problem assumes a very acute aspect. Her book is published anonymously and becomes the subject of much discussion. In the meantime Miss Darcey has fallen honestly in love with a young architect. They become betrothed and the complications thus lead through powerful dramatic situations to a natural denouement. The girl has to confess her sin and the young man forgives her, but it finally develops that he is the son of Pauline's guardian and betrayer. These are the salient points in Miss Smith's story. Mr. Cort has surrounded Miss Roberts with a strong company. The leading principals are Tyrone Power, Max Figman, H. S. Northrup, Eugene Ormonde, Robert DeWade, Julia Blanchi Richter, Donald Weldon, Adelaide Manola, Florence Robinson, Mary Bertrand, Ruth Allen, Fanny Cannon, Lucille Yorke and Emma Campbell. The scenes of the play are laid in and near New York.

Elsie Janis in "The Vanderbilt Cup," at the Broadway theatre, has an "auto" vehicle that is winning a endurance test. Before the season closes it will record one of the longest runs of the theatrical year on the great white way. One of the sensations is Barney Oldfield's auto race, which is the personification of realistic effect. There is not one dull moment in the whole show. From start to finish the big audiences are furnished one continuous round of enjoyment and amusement. Miss Janis' imitations of Eddy Foy, George M. Cohan and Maude Adams are the richest thing of the kind that has been done for a long time and has proven an immensely popular feature. Order your seats by mail. Broadway theatre, Broadway and Forty-first street. Evenings at 8:15. Matinees Wednesday and Saturday at 2:15. The best seats at the matinee performances are but one dollar, a popular price for suburban shoppers.

Maude Adams is in the fifth month of phenomenal triumph in the delightful Barrie fantasy "Peter Pan" at, the Empire theatre, New York. She is playing to capacity audiences and attracting the most wonderful matinee crowds twice a week that have ever been seen in New York. "Peter Pan" seems to have caught the fancy of New York theatregoers more generally and more thoroughly than any other production that has been made in years. Both men and women go into ecstacies over its charming scenes and delicious humor, and all are alike carried away by the exquisite and varied acting of Miss Adams in the role of the boy hero Peter. The matinees of course are mainly given over to women and children, the latter of whom are tremendously interested in the pirates, fairies, crocodiles, wild wolves and other romantic and fantastical ingredients of Mr. Barrie's play. The production itself seems to have the charm of making people all who see it, no matter whether they be gray beards or grandmas. It is this special and unusual virtue of the play, every moment of which is delightful, that recommends it so strongly to all classes of theatregoers, and that will keep the Empire theatre crowded to its capacity probably for the balance of this season and some part of next.

In the history of successful amusement enterprises all records have been broken by the New York Hippodrome. Though but a year since it opened, its two magnificent productions, "A Yankee Circus on Mars" and "A Society Circus," the present attraction, have been witnessed by over 3,000,000 persons, while the receipts were $1,000,000. These figures are unprecedented. The great success of the Hippodrome, now an established institution of New York, is due to the combined energy and genius of two men young in years, but giants in ability—Frederic Thompson and Elmer D. Dundy—the managing directors of the big playhouse. Success makes for success and crowded houses continue to be the rule. "A Society Circus," the most magnificent spectacle of modern times, combining drama, opera and ballet with the surpassing popularity and patonage. Never was a better circus programme presented to the public, including as it does the world's champions, seen for the first time in America. The great chorus of trained voices, the gorgeous ballet; the beautiful Court of the Golden Fountains, and the dramatic scene introducing a herd of pioneering horses, continue as the features of the big production. Matinees are given daily.

LITERARY.

"The Man With the Muck Rake" is the choice by Hilary Bridgewick, editor of the American Magazine, for a vigorous editorial in the May number protesting against the excesses of the "literature of exposure." After indicating the courses advocated by the nation by the extremists, both conservative and radical, the editor points out a third cause—that of the "square deal," which, he says, in the end will prevail. The cover of the magazine gives subsequent notice of the theme of this number; the first installment of "The Mystery," a novel of adventure by Stewart Edward White and Samuel Hopkins Adams. The "mystery" begins with the first chapter when the shaft of light shoots out of the sea and the schooner that steers herself," without a soul on board, is sighted. Interest in the new serial by no means overshadows the other contributions to this number. "Forged by Fire" is an attractive account of the training and life of New York firemen by Harvey O'Higgins. The article is illustrated with some exceptional "fire" photographs. Another article, profusely illustrated, is "The Finger Tips of Allah," a new picture of the East, by Broughton Brandenburg. "I Am Nothing: Freedom is All," the story of Ivanovitch Narodny, reported by Leroy Scott, is the story of Russia's struggle for freedom pictured in a personal narrative of absorbing interest.

A writer in the March Architectural Record Magazine recently looked in vain through the revivified city of Paris for evidence of the realization of hopes that in reconstructing the business quarter after the fire some general architectural scheme would be followed. What he saw in what seems to be the main street, was the kind of commercial architecture that one sees in any American town of the size of Paterson, an architecture pretentious, squalid and depressing. It is mainly depressing, one notes, by reason of the intensity of the individualism displayed in it. Each builder or, in this case, each rebuilder, does what he will with his own, does what is right in his own eyes, without the least sense of common decency or good neighborhood. And what is good in his own eyes is to make his confounded place of business conspicuous at the expense of everybody else. The great object of commercial art, Ruskin says somewhere, is conspicuousness.

The April-June Forum, just out, maintains the high position of this authoritative American quarterly review of politics, finance, science, literature, and art, and prints in addition several special articles of importance and timeliness. Henry Litchfield West, writing of "American Politics," discusses the great questions now before Congress, including the Philippine tariff, the statehood bill, and that for the regulation of railroad rates. "Foreign Affairs" are reviewed in illuminative style by A. Maurice Low, with special reference to the sweeping Liberal victory in the recent general election in Great Britain; and to the international conference, at Algeciras, on Moroccan matter. Alexander D. Noyes, on "Finance," is unusually instructive, especially in his analysis of the Armstrong Committee. "The Educational Outlook," according to Gestan H. Lang, shows research and investigation" as likely to become ruling fads in the school world; and this experienced writer urges the adoption of some plan for teaching morality in the common schools of the United States. Prof. W. P. Trent's literary paper treats entertainingly of the late Dr. Hayneh Hill, and his posthumously published edition of Johnson's "Lives of the Poets." "Applied Science," with particular attention to transportation problems, occupies the able and alert pen of Henry Harrison Suplee. Joseph Sohn, in his review of "Music" during the past season, will delight music-lovers.

Mr. and Mrs. Horsely Barker, their son-in-law and daughter and grandson, of Brooklyn, spent Sunday in town with friends.

BIG BALL SEASON AHEAD

Members of Plainfield Base Ball Association Enthusiastic Over the Outlook.

BAN ON DEAD-HEADS

Everyone Anxious for the Opening Game—Gossip Items for Fans to Thrive On Until They Can Sit on the Bleachers.

Baseball hysteria is a most aggravated form as has invaded Plainfield and the members of the local baseball association are each and every one keyed up to the highest pinnacle of frenzied enthusiasm awaiting the coming of May 5, when Jack Merritt will ring the bell and shout "Play Ball."

Plainfield is going to have the biggest season ever. This was evidenced Saturday night at the meeting of the association when glowing reports were heard of the prospects from every member present. The greater part of the meeting was devoted to a discussion of number details relative to making the venture a success. The duties of the various committees were laid out and with the exception of getting the uniforms ready everything is ready for the ball to ring.

It is possible that the team will be fitted out with new uniforms and efforts will be made to induce local merchants to provide the suits as an advertisement or at cost prices. The refreshment stand privilege was awarded to Thomas Dunbo, his bid of $175 being the highest received among a number of bidders. Treasurer Charles W. Runyon reported that payments on the stock were being collected satisfactorily and a motion was made and carried that a check for $100 be paid Manager Daab for one half of the franchise.

Manager Daab was present at the meeting and said that he was encouraged over the outlook and declared that the team would be a stronger aggregation than that which represented Plainfield last season, especially in the batting department. He also reported that he had written Manager Conklin, of Somerville, in reference to arranging a series of games but as yet he had received no replies to his letters.

ELIZABETH BOY KILLED ABOARD THE KEARSARGE

HE RAN AWAY FROM HOME TO JOIN THE NAVY.

Theodore Negeley, aged twenty-one years, of Elizabeth, a seaman, was one of those killed in the disaster on the battleship Kearsarge, on Friday last, while the ship was at target practice off Manzanillo Bay. Three years ago he ran away from home and enlisted as a landaman. He was rapidly promoted and at the time of his death was a seaman. Louis Graff, a well known Elizabeth lawyer, was appointed guardian of the boy two years ago on his request. Negeley expected soon to be appointed a gunners' mate.

A rigid investigation of the disaster will be made by the naval authorities. Rear Admiral Evans will be in charge of the inquiry at once and will summon witnesses upon whose statements will depend whether or not there will be a court-martial.

GATHERING IN HONOR OF VISITOR FROM SCOTLAND.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hendry Give the Affair at Their Home on West Fourth Street.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hendry, of West Fourth street, entertained a gathering of friends at their home Friday in honor of the former's brother, Robert Hendry, of Scotland, who is in Plainfield on a two-months' visit. The guests number twenty-five in all and the early part of the evening was passed in listening to musical numbers and playing games.

Piano selections were contributed by Miss Bertha Jones, Miss Sarah Head and Miss Thorburn, the latter of New York; violin solos by Hugh Gray, and vocal solos by Thomas and Robert Hendry, Nathaniel Hendry, Mrs. Donald McInnes, Mrs. William Gray and Miss Head. David Bowden made an appropriate address of welcome to the visitor and Robert Slorah was heartily encored for his artistic rendition of the "Highland fling." The serving of refreshments brought the affair to a close.

Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Slorah, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wharton, Mr. and Mrs. Donald McInnes, Mr. and Mrs. William Gray, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Keaney, Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel Hendry, Mrs. and Miss Head, Mrs. William Jones and Miss Bertha Jones, Mrs. George Wallace, Mrs. D. R. Martin, Miss Thorburn, David Bowden, Mr. Styles, Hugh Gray, David Wardrobe and William Ross.

Miss Mabel Hamilton, of Verdon street, is spending three weeks with relatives in New York and Brooklyn.

Mr. and Mrs. William Worth, who have spent the winter in New York, have returned to Plainfield for the season.

THREE TIRED OF LIVING, COMMIT SUICIDE

ONE KILLED HIMSELF BECAUSE WIFE CHIDED HIM FOR NOT GOING TO WORK.

Three victims of suicidal mania was the record of yesterday for Newark. Two of the self-murderers were old men; the third was only thirty-three years old. They were Conrad Nienergal, sixty-seven, of No. 83 Boyd street; Joseph Kenibily, sixty, supposed to be a resident of Montclair, and Frank A. Beck, of No. 183 Avon avenue. The suicides all were committed between midnight Sunday and 5 a. m. yesterday.

Nethergal was ill and despondent. He swallowed carbolic acid and died an hour later in St. Barnaba's Hospital. Kenibily shot himself in the head in a secluded nook in Branch Brook Park. He had been a patient at the city hospital, with an incurable disease and had been permitted to leave the institution on his promise to return. A letter in his pocket was addressed to Miss Jennie Kenibily, of No. 172 Glen Ridge avenue, Montclair. A young woman at that address said that the description of the dead man was given to her, convinced her that it was her father, who had been missing for some time.

Beck's death was the result of taking a dose of carbolic acid at his home after a quarrel with his wife. He was employed at the Central Stamping Company's plant, and when his wife awakened him yesterday he told her he did not feel like working.

Mrs. Beck chided her husband, telling him if he did not desire to support her and their two children she would go back to her mother's home to live.

"I'll soon give you the chance to do that," Beck replied.

He then arose and ate his breakfast, after which he left home, apparently to go to work. An hour later Beck returned. His wife noticed that he acted queerly. He bade her and the children goodby and went into his bedroom. His wife heard him cry out in pain and fall to the floor. He had taken poison and death came soon afterward.

Famous Fishing Schooner Sold.

The Asbury Park fishing schooner Emma A. was sold at auction at the yard of the Porth Amboy Dry Dock Company last week to Captain Henry F. Pierce, one of its owners, for $2,200. The sale was held by United States Marshal for New Jersey Thomas J. Alcott as part of proceedings instituted because the owners had been unable to agree upon a settlement in dissolving their joint ownership.

"Beautify Your Home"

The Burr McIntosh Monthly

"Pictorial Perfection"

"THE MOST BEAUTIFUL MAGAZINE IN THE WORLD"

Ask your newsdealer for this superb magazine. If he does not handle it send us his name and address with your name and address and 10c. for sample copy. Regular price 25c. Mention this paper.

Burr Publishing Company

4 West 22d Street New York City

All the Eggs Will Hatch

that it is possible to hatch if placed in a genuine CYPHERS INCUBATOR

& All the Chicks will live if housed in a CYPHERS Style A BROODER and if fed on CYPHERS CHICK FOOD

GET FREE SAMPLE

Get our free catalogue entitled Poultry Raising Made Easy and Profitable

CYPHERS INCUBATOR COMPANY

23 Barclay Street, Cor. Church Street, New York

Radium Radia

Is admitted by the thousands who have used it to be

THE GREATEST REMEDY EVER DISCOVERED FOR THE CURE OF

RHEUMATISM

LUMBAGO, NEURALGIA, COUGHS, COLDS ON CHEST, SORE THROAT, PNEUMONIA, SPRAINS, SWELLINGS, ETC.

IT NEVER FAILS TO CURE

Hundreds have been cured with one Application

Recommended by Eminent Physicians

APPLIED EXTERNALLY

Sold at Drug Stores and 13 W. 26th St., N.Y. City

PRICE $1.00 and 50c. Write for Booklet

MAILED ANYWHERE ON RECEIPT OF PRICE

P. H. S. MEETS DEFEAT FOR THE SECOND TIME

The Plainfield High School base ball nine met its second defeat of the season on Saturday afternoon at Crescent Oval at the hands of the Commercial High School team, of Brooklyn. The final score was 7 to 5 and the game was exciting throughout.

The local boys could do nothing with the delivery of Heunig, the visitors' tricker. When they had men on bases, and this was the main cause of their defeat. On the other hand, the Brooklynites hit the ball hard with men on base and this coupled with errors of the locals at critical times, gave the visitors the victory.

Mahaffey was on the slab for the Plainfield boys and he pitched a good game, but did not have the fielding support of his team. Eleven of the visitors could not solve his delivery, while they only managed to get seven hits. The playing of Harding, Douglass and Loizeaux, of the Plainfield High School team, was commendable. Stebbins and Heunig made the best showing for the visitors.

The Plainfield High School team will line up against the Camp Bowser team this afternoon, at 3.30, on Crescent Oval.

Summary and score:

P. H. S.	R.	H.	P.O.	A.	E.
Van Deventer, 2b	0	0	0	2	1
Douglass, 1b	2	2	13	1	0
Brakeley, 3b	2	0	0	2	1
Harding, l.f.	0	1	2	0	0
Mahaffey, p.	1	2	0	5	1
H. Freeman, s.s.	0	0	1	3	0
Loizeaux, c.	0	2	8	2	2
Davis, c.	0	0	1	3	0
Rittenhouse, c.f.	0	0	0	0	0
B. Freeman, r.f.	0	0	1	0	0
Flanders, r.f.	0	0	0	0	0
Bogardus, r.f.	0	0	0	0	0
Totals	5	7	27	13	6

"McGill" out but by batted ball.

Com. H. S.	R.	H.	P.O.	A.	E.
Minicking, l.f.	1	1	2	0	0
McGill, 3b	0	1	0	0	1
Stebbins, 1b	1	2	12	1	0
Newton, s.s.	1	1	0	0	0
Pearlman, c.f.	1	0	0	0	0
Heunig, p.	0	0	2	6	2
Collins, r.f.	1	1	0	0	0
Lyons, 2b	1	0	1	1	2
Williams, c.	2	1	12	2	0
Totals	7	7	27	10	5

Score by innings:

	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
Com. H. S.	0	0	0	2	0	4	0	1	0	—7
P. H. S.	0	0	2	0	0	1	2	0	0	—5

Summary:

Earned runs—P. H. S., 2; C. H. S., 1. Two-base hits, Loizeaux, First base on balls, off Mahaffey, 2; off Heunig, 2. Struck out by Mahaffey, 11; by Heunig, 15. Left on bases, P. H. S., 8; C. H. S., 8. Wild pitches, Heunig. Passed balls, Loizeaux. First base on errors, P. H. S., 2; C. H. S., 4. Hit by pitcher, McGill, Harding. Umpire, Mr. West. Time of game, 1 hour and 51 minutes.

Auto Line Incorporators Meet.

The incorporators of the new Elizabeth-Rahway auto line met Saturday in Rahway. A temporary organization was effected to facilitate the preliminary operations. The entire field of auto transportation cars will be looked over with a view to securing the best and most reliable machines for the new service. It is desired to make the project a purely local enterprise, and a part of the stock will be put out for popular subscription.

Stevens

"WHEN YOU SHOOT"

You want to HIT what you are aiming at —be it bird, beast or target. Make your shots count by shooting the STEVENS. For 40 years STEVENS ARMS has carried off PREMIER HONORS for ACCURACY. Our list

Rifles, Shotguns, Pistols

Ask your Dealer—if he has not the STEVENS list write us for it. If you cannot obtain a STEVENS arm from your dealer, write us and we will tell you where you can get one.

Send 4 cts. in stamps for our 144 page illustrated catalogue and 4 cts. more for present and Booklet on Rifle Shooting.

Beautiful three-color Aluminum Hanger will be forwarded for 20 cents in stamps.

J. Stevens Arms & Tool Co.,

P. O. Box 4096

CHICOPEE FALLS, MASS., U.S.A.

Reading System

New Jersey Central.

Passenger Stations in New York—West 23d St., N. R., Foot Liberty St., N. R.

Time Table Corrected to March 19, 1906.

For New York—2.17, 3.57, 5.56, 6.05, 6.29, 6.57, 7.08, 7.30, 7.48, 8.08, 8.46, 9.02, 9.48, 10.02, 11.13, 12.09, 12.44, 1.18, 2.31, 3.47, 5.48, 7.44, 8.13, 9.45, 11.45. 12.01 night. Sundays—2.17, 3.57, 5.56, 6.05, 6.29, 6.57, 7.08, 7.30, 7.48, 8.08, 8.46, 9.02, 9.48, 10.02, 11.13, 12.09, 12.44, 1.18, 2.31, 3.47, 5.48, 7.44, 8.13, 9.45, 11.45. 12.01 night.

For Somerville, Bound Brook and Intermediate Stations—2.17, 3.57, 5.56, 6.05, 6.29, 6.57, 7.08, 7.30, 7.48, 8.08, 8.46, 9.02, 9.48, 10.02, 11.13, 12.09, 12.44, 1.18, 2.31, 3.47, 5.48, 7.44, 8.13, 9.45, 11.45. 12.01 night. Sundays—2.17, 3.57, 5.56, 6.05, 6.29, 6.57, 7.08, 7.30, 7.48, 8.08, 8.46, 9.02, 9.48, 10.02, 11.13, 12.09, 12.44, 1.18, 2.31, 3.47, 5.48, 7.44, 8.13, 9.45, 11.45. 12.01 night.

For Elizabeth—2.17, 3.57, 5.56, 6.05, 6.29, 6.57, 7.08, 7.30, 7.48, 8.08, 8.46, 9.02, 9.48, 10.02, 11.13, 12.09, 12.44, 1.18, 2.31, 3.47, 5.48, 7.44, 8.13, 9.45, 11.45. 12.01 night. Sundays—2.17, 3.57, 5.56, 6.05, 6.29, 6.57, 7.08, 7.30, 7.48, 8.08, 8.46, 9.02, 9.48, 10.02, 11.13, 12.09, 12.44, 1.18, 2.31, 3.47, 5.48, 7.44, 8.13, 9.45, 11.45. 12.01 night.

For Newark—2.17, 3.57, 5.56, 6.05, 6.29, 6.57, 7.08, 7.30, 7.48, 8.08, 8.46, 9.02, 9.48, 10.02, 11.13, 12.09, 12.44, 1.18, 2.31, 3.47, 5.48, 7.44, 8.13, 9.45, 11.45. 12.01 night. Sundays—2.17, 3.57, 5.56, 6.05, 6.29, 6.57, 7.08, 7.30, 7.48, 8.08, 8.46, 9.02, 9.48, 10.02, 11.13, 12.09, 12.44, 1.18, 2.31, 3.47, 5.48, 7.44, 8.13, 9.45, 11.45. 12.01 night.

For Jersey City—2.17, 3.57, 5.56, 6.05, 6.29, 6.57, 7.08, 7.30, 7.48, 8.08, 8.46, 9.02, 9.48, 10.02, 11.13, 12.09, 12.44, 1.18, 2.31, 3.47, 5.48, 7.44, 8.13, 9.45, 11.45. 12.01 night. Sundays—2.17, 3.57, 5.56, 6.05, 6.29, 6.57, 7.08, 7.30, 7.48, 8.08, 8.46, 9.02, 9.48, 10.02, 11.13, 12.09, 12.44, 1.18, 2.31, 3.47, 5.48, 7.44, 8.13, 9.45, 11.45. 12.01 night.

For Philadelphia—2.17, 3.57, 5.56, 6.05, 6.29, 6.57, 7.08, 7.30, 7.48, 8.08, 8.46, 9.02, 9.48, 10.02, 11.13, 12.09, 12.44, 1.18, 2.31, 3.47, 5.48, 7.44, 8.13, 9.45, 11.45. 12.01 night. Sundays—2.17, 3.57, 5.56, 6.05, 6.29, 6.57, 7.08, 7.30, 7.48, 8.08, 8.46, 9.02, 9.48, 10.02, 11.13, 12.09, 12.44, 1.18, 2.31, 3.47, 5.48, 7.44, 8.13, 9.45, 11.45. 12.01 night.

For Bethlehem, Allentown and Mauch Chunk—2.17, 3.57, 5.56, 6.05, 6.29, 6.57, 7.08, 7.30, 7.48, 8.08, 8.46, 9.02, 9.48, 10.02, 11.13, 12.09, 12.44, 1.18, 2.31, 3.47, 5.48, 7.44, 8.13, 9.45, 11.45. 12.01 night. Sundays—2.17, 3.57, 5.56, 6.05, 6.29, 6.57, 7.08, 7.30, 7.48, 8.08, 8.46, 9.02, 9.48, 10.02, 11.13, 12.09, 12.44, 1.18, 2.31, 3.47, 5.48, 7.44, 8.13, 9.45, 11.45. 12.01 night.

For Wilkesbarre and Scranton—2.17, 3.57, 5.56, 6.05, 6.29, 6.57, 7.08, 7.30, 7.48, 8.08, 8.46, 9.02, 9.48, 10.02, 11.13, 12.09, 12.44, 1.18, 2.31, 3.47, 5.48, 7.44, 8.13, 9.45, 11.45. 12.01 night. Sundays—2.17, 3.57, 5.56, 6.05, 6.29, 6.57, 7.08, 7.30, 7.48, 8.08, 8.46, 9.02, 9.48, 10.02, 11.13, 12.09, 12.44, 1.18, 2.31, 3.47, 5.48, 7.44, 8.13, 9.45, 11.45. 12.01 night.

For Red Bank—3.11, 11.00 a. m., 1.18, 3.44, 5.47, 6.42, 8.13 p. m. Sundays—3.42 a. m., 6.37 p. m.

For Philipsburg and Easton—6.25, 6.21, 9.54 a. m., 2.11, 5.28, 6.41 p. m. Sundays—5.45 a. m., 2.05, 7.06 p. m.

For Bethlehem, Allentown and Mauch Chunk—6.25, 6.21, 9.54 a. m., 2.11, 5.28 p. m. Sundays—5.45 a. m., 2.05, 7.06 p. m.

For Wilkesbarre and Scranton—6.25, 9.54 a. m., 2.48 p. m. Sundays—5.45 a. m., 2.05 p. m.

For Long Branch and Asbury Park, etc.—8.11, 11.00 a. m., 3.44, 4.13, 4.47, 6.42, 11.25 p. m. Sundays—8.42 a. m., 8.30, 6.13 p. m.

For Red Bank—8.11, 11.00 a. m., 1.18, 3.44, 4.47, 6.42, 8.13 p. m. Sundays—8.42 a. m., 2.30, 6.13 p. m.

For Lakewood and Atlantic City—(6.11 Lakewood, 11.00 Atlantic City) 8.11, 11.49, (8.44 p. m., Lakewood only). Sundays—8.42 a. m.

For Toms River and Barnegat—8.11 a. m., 1.18, 3.44 p. m. Sundays—8.53 a. m.

For Philadelphia—8.11, 7.44, 8.51, 9.08, 9.47, 10.42 a. m., 12.42 p. m., 12.42, 1.29, 2.45, 3.43, 4.45, 5.46, 7.50, 9.46 p. m., 12.01 night. Sundays—8.11, 7.44, 8.51, 10.42, 11.43 a. m., 12.29, 2.45, 3.43, 4.45, 5.46, 7.50, 9.46 p. m. 12.01 night. Parlor Car via D. & R. R. R. to Scranton and Carbondale.

For Trenton—8.11, 7.44, 8.51, 10.42, 11.43 a. m., 12.42, 2.45, 3.43, 4.45, 5.46, 7.50, 9.46 p. m. 12.01 night. Sundays—8.11, 7.44, 8.51, 10.42, 11.43 a. m., 12.29, 2.45, 4.45, 6.45, 9.46, 11.25 p. m., 1.17 night.

For Reading and Harrisburg—5.17, 8.58, 9.54, (10.44, 11.44 Reading only), a. m., 12.42, 2.45, 4.45, 6.45, 9.46, 11.25 p. m., 1.17 night. Sundays—5.17 a. m. 2.08, 6.37, 6.35 p. m., 1.17 night.

For Pottsville, Sunbury and Williamsport—5.17, 8.58, 9.54 a. m., 2.11, 5.21 p. m., 1.17 night. Sundays—5.17 a. m., 2.03 p. m., 1.17 night.

For Baltimore and Washington—1.17, 5.17, 10.51 a. m., 12.42, 4.45, 9.46 p. m. Sundays—10.51 a. m., 2.45, 4.45 p. m., 1.17 night.

Through cars at Bound Brook.

W. G. Besler, Gen. Pass. Agt.
C. M. BURT, Vice Pres. & Gen. Mgr.

Lehigh Valley Railroad

Time Table in Effect Dec. 31, 1905.

LEAVE SOUTH PLAINFIELD, N. J.

8.00 a. m. daily (except Sunday) local to Mauch Chunk.

8.37 a. m. daily for Easton, Wilkesbarre, Rochester, Buffalo, and principal intermediate stations.

1.57 p. m. daily, local for Easton, Mauch Chunk, Hazleton, Pottsville and Shenandoah.

4.09 p. m. daily (except Sunday) "Wilkesbarre and Scranton Express" Solid vestibuled train to Wilkesbarre through Parlor Car via D. & H. R. R. to Scranton and Carbondale.

6.35 p. m. daily (except Sunday) local to Easton.

6.40 p. m. daily, solid vestibule train to Buffalo, Rochester, Easton and principal intermediate stations except Somerville.

FRANK ROWLEY, City Ticket Agent, 218 West Front Street, Plainfield N. J. Telephone 112.

Arrival and Departure of Mails.

PLAINFIELD POSTOFFICE.

Office opens 7 a. m., closes 7 p. m. Sunday office open half hour 9 to 10 a. m.

Arrive—7.30, 8.40, 11.30 a. m.; 2.30, 5.00, 6.30 p. m.

Close—7.00, 8.30 a. m.; 1.00, 2.30, 5.00, 7.45 p. m.

SOMERVILLE AND EASTON.

Arrive—8.40 a. m.; 1.30, 2.15 and 7.00 p. m.

Close—7.30 a. m.; 1.00, 5.00, 8.00 p. m.

ELIZABETH—Direct.

Arrive—8.40 a. m.; 2.30 and 8.30 p. m.

Close—7.30 a. m.; 1.00, 5.00, 8.00 p. m.

PENNSYLVANIA—West of Easton.

Close 12.35 p. m.

NEWARK—Direct.

Arrive—8.50 a. m., 2.30, 5.30 p. m.

Close—7.30, 8.40 a. m.; 1.00, 2.30 and 8.00 p. m.

PHILADELPHIA—Direct.

Arrive—8.40, 11.30 a. m.; 2.30 and 7.00 p. m.

Close—7.15, 7.30, 9.30 a. m.; 12.35, 4.30, 7.45 p. m.

Through fast mail for West and South close 4.30 and 7.15 p. m.

Through fast mail for East close 1.00 and 7.15 p. m.

WATCHUNG, WARRENVILLE AND DUNELLEN—Direct.

Arrive—1.30 p. m. Close—9.00 a. m.

Watchung—Arrive 6.45 p. m. Close 8.30 p. m.

SUNDAY MAILS.

Office open from 9.30 to 10.30 a. m.

Mail closes at 6.15 p. m.

E. H. BIRD, P. M

Mr. and Mrs. Edward N. Brown, of Westfield, who have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Tyler, of East Sixth street, have returned home.

CHURCHES GREET EASTERTIDE WITH GLADNESS

Music and Bright Flowers Mark The Services of All Faiths.

WEATHER VERY BAD

He Observed the Day Half Heartedly and Made the Woman With a New Dress Sad—Not Much of a Parade.

Their sartorial enthusiasm dampened by the downpour, the Easter paraders made only a feeble showing yesterday morning at church time. Feeble in numbers and hues. What glimpses of Easter finery struck the passerby came from momentary openings of raincoats or fleeting views in passing carriages. Unable to recover their enthusiasm after so stern a setback, the possessors of new gowns and spring suits did but little better when the sun crept out in the afternoon. Still, there were some things for the stay-at-homes to look at through the windows.

The church attendance naturally suffered in the morning, but the Easter spirit brought out congregations considerably larger than usual, in spite of the rainmaker's efforts. All the churches were bright with Easter lilies, flowering plants of many hues, and their vaulted roofs vibrated with the swelling tones of Resurrection anthems and chants.

Park Avenue Baptist.

The special Easter service was held at the Park Avenue Baptist church, at night, under the auspices of the Sunday-school. An elaborate programme was presented, assisted by an orchestra comprising G. W. V. Moy, violin; Dr. J. Hervey Buchanan, bass viol; Garrett Dunham, violin; Whitney C. Frazee, cornet; Martin Stutsman, and Stuart Freeman, mandolins; the Misses Arline and Marjorie Brown, violins. The church was beautifully decorated with palms, Easter lillies and the pulpit was banked with plants and flowers. Mr. and Mrs. Charles VanWinkle had charge of the decorations.

This programme was rendered: Opening chorus, "The Banner of the Risen King," school; carol, "Easter is Here," school; offertory, orchestra and organ; carol, "Sing of a Risen Saviour," Intermediate choir; exercise, "A Story of Faith," the Misses Arline Brown, Edith Lyons, Marjorie Miller, Nettie Stillman, Suste Whitney, Grace Stillman, Mabel Stutsman, Isabelle von Brakle, Gretchen Giebler, Marion Mortimer, Hannah Boyd; solo and chorus, "Glory to the King," Mrs. Clarke and intermediate choir; exercise, "The Easter Cross," the Misses Louise Harrol, Alice Brown, Bessie Giles, Elizabeth VanWinkle, Cora Brokaw, Mrs. Mary Mawhinney, Mrs. W. S. Lowry; carols, "Lo, the Song Exulting Ring," "Olden Gates of Easter Morning," "Sing We Allelujah," school.

At the close of the service Pastor Finn baptized Mrs. Clara N. Naylor, Walter R. Cuming, Clemens R. Bechtle, Rowland M. Stover and Cedric H. Ostrom.

Mrs. von Brakle presided at the organ, Miss Mary Clakre was the pianist and Superintendent George E. Hall had charge of the programme, which was arranged by Miss Florence Hawkins, Mrs. W. S. Lowry, Miss Mary Clarke, Miss Cora Brokaw and George E. Hall.

First M. E. Church.

Services appropriate to Easter were held at the First M. E. church, Sunday, morning and evening, while the Sunday-school had its exercises in Vincent chapel in the afternoon. The church was decorated with palms, lilies and flowers. In the morning the vested choir, under the direction of Organist Skiff, rendered several anthems and Miss Laura Gesswein, soprano, sang "He Is Not Here, for He Is Risen," by Broome.

The special service was held in the evening, when the choir rendered the cantata, "Easter Eve and Morn," in a most satisfactory and pleasing manner. The solo and chorus work was excellent. In addition to this cantata, Miss Conroy sang "Easter Tata, Miss Conroy sang "Easter Dawn," as an offertory. The choir was augmented by a portion of the choir from the Presbyterian church, Westfield. In the afternoon the combined choirs rendered a special programme at the Westfield Presbyterian church.

The Sunday-school exercises were held in Vincent chapel in the afternoon under the direction of Superintendent James R. Joy, when a special service, "Songs of the Resurrection," was given by the primary department as follows:

"Easter Greeting," Elton Greenleaf; exercise, Edawrd Crone, Mildred Burnett, Harry Staats, Manlis Symons, Harold Blackford, Ruth Lynn; selection, primary choir, Charles McCrea, Violet Sutton, Husband and Hile, Mildred Burnett, Edward Crone, Blanche McVoy, Chester Alpaugh, Manlis Symons; exercise, Edith Little, Hoyt Tompkinson, Jubilee Rowley, Russell Beekman; beginners' department, song, J. Squier, Dorothy McVoy, Lillian Apgar, Elizabeth Hicks, Charlotte Skiff, Frank Rowley, Jr.; recitations, Harold Seal, Ella Vail, John Bolsterle, Jr., Norman McGee, Carol Dunavan; main school, recitations, Zeta Voorhees, Anna Warnock, Ethel Clarkson, Raymond Mosher; intermediate department, recitations, Ingder Lindsey, Dorothy Lynn, Catherine Bingaman, Ruth Seal and Arthur Slade.

Crescent Avenue.

The morning and evening services at the Crescent Avenue church were very simple. The regular quartette choir rendered several anthems and Pastor Zelie preached appropriate sermons. In the afternoon the Sunday-school was joined by the schools of Hope, Warren and Bethel chapels for the usdal union Easter service. It was in charge of Dr. Zelie and Henry J. Cochran, the latter the superintendent of Bethel chapel. The other officers on the platform and who took part were Pastor Howard and Superintendent Squires, of Hope chapel; Paster McKelvey and Superintendent Andrews, of Warren chapel; Pastor Tildon and Superintendent Duxbury, of Bethel chapel. There were responsive readings, carols and addresses and Mr. Stanley, of the church quartette, rendered a solo. The attendance was 1,025, divided as follows: Home school, 312; Hope chapel, 336; Warren, 189; Bethel, 187.

Trinity Reformed Church.

"The Story of Calvary," a beautiful Easter cantata, was rendered at Trinity Reformed church, Sunday morning, by a chorus of forty voices, under the direction of Arthur L. Titsworth, organist and choirmaster, and in addition other selections were given. Despite the stormy morning there was a large congregation present to enjoy the festival programme. The pulpit platform was appropriately decorated with palms, lilies and potted plants.

The programme began with a prelude, by Laurendeau, Arthur L. Titsworth, organ; Miss Hazel Martin, piano, and Mrs. Robert T. Johnston, violin; followed by a processional, the entire choir marching in from the lecture room singing "Christ, the Lord, is Risen Today." After the usual opening service, the cantata was given in a highly pleasing manner. Not only the soloists, but the entire chorus, all of them members or attendants of the church, deserve much praise for the excellent work. Credit is also due Mr. Titsworth, organist, for his part in the rendition and rehearsals.

The soloists were Mrs. E. D. Young and Mrs. F. E. Woodruff, sopranos; Mrs. E. H. Bird and Miss Harriet Randall, contraltos; Dr. S. S. Cutter, baritone, and E. D. Young, tenor.

Following the cantata Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck, pastor, preached an impressive sermon from the text, "Wherefore Comfort One Another With These Words." In the course of his remarks he took occasion to say that at the last day the dead in the Lord would rise first and the living would be caught up in a cloud. The sermon was full of sympathy and comforting words especially to those who have suffered bereavement.

The offertory selection by the choir was "Christ Our Passover," and after the benediction, there was a postlude from Mendelssohn, organ, violin and piano.

The children's service in the evening attracted a very large congregation to enjoy the special programme under the auspices of the Sunday-school. W. C. Leek led in the singing and assisting were E. D. Young, cornet; Mrs. Robert T. Johnston, violin, and Miss Hazel Martin, piano, while Arthur L. Titsworth presided at the organ. During the exercises Superintendent F. E. Smith read the annual report of the Sunday-school, showing a steady substantial growth not only in numbers, but in the finances. Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck, pastor, also made a few remarks, congratulating the school and speaking of the significance of the day being celebrated. This programme was then presented under the direction of Mrs. J. M. Tier, superintendent of the primary department:

Recitation, "Sing Unto the Lord," Helen Leitheusser; exercise, "Easter Thoughts," Adelaide Cole, Clara Lee, Maud McAfee; exercise, "Spices for Christ," Nellie Gray, Helen Safron, Anna Kersting, Ella VanArsdale, Jennie Smalley, Evelyn Sokol; song, beginners' class, Margaret Smith, Wilmer Tier, Dorothy Seader, Alma Alliger, Elsie Zipp, Marjorie Dufford, Elsie Kurtzhals; exercise, "How the Lilies Grow," Louise Seadler, Ruth Hoffman, Marion Woolley, Laura Smith, Helen Reynolds; song exercise, "Lilies Pure and White," May Porter, Anna Lee, Elsie Bodine, Elsie Debele, Mildred Prosser, Hilda Bennett; exercise, Helen Roberts, Madaline Strader; song exercise, "Easter Rainbow," Beatrice Tier, Madeline Blair, Ruth Evander, Ella Porter, Adele Freeman, Magdeline Layton, Marion Blair, Mary Rolf, Mary Bennett, Helen Woodruff, Lillie Schiele, Marguerite Barkalew, Margaret Hope, Vivian Dunn; recitation, Rosamond Rogers; exercise, Clifford Cole, Herman Kling, Willie Day; recitations, Arthur Martin, Helen Woolley.

There was also an exercise by six children from the beginners' class and an anthem by the church choir.

Grace M. E.

The special music at Grace M. E. church was given at the evening service. The regular choir was assisted by Mrs. Thomas McDonald, soprano; Miss Winifred Carroll, contralto; Edson C. Martin, bass, and Dyckman Winckler, violin. The Sunday-school exercises in the afternoon were in charge of a committee composed of Miss Mabel Stevens and Miss Della Voehl and were as follows: Recitation, "Blessed Hope," Miss Edna Bodine; recitation, "The Angel Sheriff," Clara Bodenheimer; duetts, Rines brothers; recitation, "An Easter Legend," Miss May Smith; recitation, "An Easter Day," Helen Woolley; remarks by Dr. Parsons and Harry Rines. Miss Mary Steiner acted as accompanist.

Monroe Avenue M. E.

Easter carols were sung by the congregation and Rev. E. E. Roberson, the new pastor, made addresses of welcome and gave Easter sermons at the morning and evening services at Monroe Avenue church. The Sunday-school exercises were very interesting and comprised an address by Mr. Roberson; an exercise, "Telling the Easter Story" by Ada and Marion Thompson, Clara Brown, Helen Davenport, Ruth Martin, Mary McNeil and Sadie Ladd; an address of welcome by Theodore Schwartz; a reading by Clara Brown, violin selections by Miss Sadie Brouwer and Clarence Hume and carols by the kindergarten.

Church of the Heavenly Rest.

West End Episcopalians braved the weather in goodly numbers Sunday morning to attend the one celebration at Heavenly Rest Mission church, Clinton avenue. There was an elaborate musical programme, under the direction of Garret Dunham, the organist, with string quartette accompaniment by G. W. V. Moy, viola; Ernest Higham, violin; Mr. Muller, 'cello, and Dr. J. H. Buchanan, bass viola. The rector, Rev. Charles Doupe, preached. The altar was decorated with Easter lilies, azaleas, palms and ferns.

First Baptist.

Special Easter services were enjoyed by a large congregation at the First Baptist church Sunday morning, including anthems by the chorus choir, violin and organ selections and an appropriate discourse by the pastor, Rev. Dr. A. J. Chamblias. The decorations, consisting of beautiful flowers from the conservatory of Charles W. McCutchen, were very attractive. They comprised lillies, azaleas, palms and growing potted plants.

The morning service was as follows: Prelude, "Andante," Mendelssohn, Howard M. Case, organ, and Miss Florence Wohlfert, violin; anthems, "As It Began to Dawn," "Awake Thou That Sleepest," "Hosanna, Loud Hosanna" When We Stand Arr," "Te Deum," arranged by E. J. Fitshugh; "All Praise to God," adapted from Lohengrin; offertory, "Hosanna," Granier; organ postlude, "Hosanna," Wachs.

The solo work was taken by Miss Lena C. Harris, soprano; Mrs. F. M. Ward, contralto; William Holmes, baritone, and George H. Smith, tenor, and it aws thoroughly enjoyed as was also the excellent work of the chorus.

In the afternoon there was a special service under the auspices of the Sunday-school, the programme, as published on Saturday, comprising carols, recitations and anthems, being rendered. The Sunday-school of Faith chapel joined in this service, which was one of great delight to both young and old. An offering was received for the Children's Home, and there were selections on the organ, violin and piano in addition to the vocal music. There was no evening service at this church.

Faith Chapel.

The chorus choir of Faith chapel rendered special Easter music at the morning service Sunday, and the pastor, Rev. J. W. Musson, preached a strong and impressive sermon appropriate to the occasion. The musical programme was in charge of the organist, Mr. Conger. In the evening Pastor Musson preached again and the choir sang several Easter anthems. At the close of the service five new members were baptized.

Congregational Church.

At the morning service in the Congregational church, Rev. C. L. Goodrich preached an excellent sermon on "The Power of Christ's Revival." The musical numbers included a soprano solo by Mrs. Thomas McDonald and 'cello selections by W. Paulding DeNike; procession of primary class; prayer by George Fisher; solo, Helen Weseman; chorus, primary class; 'cello, Mr. DeNike; reading of Easter poem, written by Miss Minnie G. Morse, by Harold G. Nomer; solo, Miss Edith Robinson; address by Miss Griswold, of Japan. In addition there were carols by the school.

Marconier Chapel.

Easter day was happily celebrated at Marconier chapel Sunday afternoon, when the Sunday-school rendered a pleasing programme. There was the singing of Easter carols by the school, recitations by the boys and girls and an address by Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck, pastor of Trinity Reformed church.

The annual custom of having the egg hunt had to be given up owing to the dampness of the ground, but instead Mrs. S. W. Schenck presented the children with small baskets of eggs. A feature was the presentation of a large egg to Rev. J. Tucker Lansdale, minister in charge, and upon opening he found it filled with paper money. The contribution was from the school and was fully appreciated. Mr. Lansdale was in charge of the programme, and Horace J. Martin, who trained the school in the singing of Easter carols, was present and led in the rendition of the music.

St. Stephen's Church.

Rev. Dr. John Edgar, of North Plainfield, conducted the matin and vesper services at St. Stephen's church Sunday. The congregations were large. The afternoon service was for the children. Rev. Mr. Mulford, of Fanwood, was in charge of the early celebration.

First Presbyterian.

Special music was a feature at both services in the First Presbyterian church. In the morning solos were rendered by Miss Edna Nicholl and Elmer D. Cutting and in the evening Miss Etta Raybert and P. C. Iglehart, jr. The Sunday-school exercises were held in the afternoon.

$3,000 CONTRIBUTED BY GRACE PARISHIONERS

LARGE OFFERINGS MADE TOWARD LIQUIDATING PARISH HOUSE DEBT

Large offerings toward the liquidation of the debt on the new $20,000 parish house were made by the Grace P. E. church parishioners at the Easter services. Nearly $3,000 was contributed. The offerings were made at the morning services.

In spite of the weather, the congregations at the church at the early celebration, $1,000 was given and very nearly $2,000 at the full celebration. The collection was taken in accordance with announcements made several weeks ago. There is a mortgage of $10,000 on the building.

The musical features of the services were striking in their excellence. Under the skilful direction of Mrs. W. A. Freeman, the organist, the choir outdid itself in the rendition of the anthems and chants.

Rev. E. V. Stevenson, the rector, preached at both services. On account of the long musical programmes his sermons were brief.

FOWLER TO SPEAK AT THE YALE CLUB DINNER

PROFESSOR CHARLTON M. LEWIS, ALSO ACCEPTS COMMITTEE'S INVITATION.

The committee having in charge the plans for the annual dinner of the Plainfield Yale Club, to be held at the Casino next Saturday night, has secured Congressman Charles N. Fowler, of Elizabeth, as one of the speakers. Several other notable men have accepted invitations to be present and make addresses, among them Professor Charlton M. Lewis, of Yale University, and Dickinson W. Richards, of Orange. James R. Joy, president of the North Plainfield Board of Education; Walter A. Righton will represent Amherst; Henry L. Hall, Columbia, and Owen H. Fleming, Princeton.

From present indications the attendance will be larger than at any function the club has yet conducted and all local college men are more or less interested. All those who have not as yet signified their intention of being present will greatly facilitate the work of the committee if they will send their remittances to L. A. Williams, 41 Lafayette place, New York.

EARLY MORNING FIRE

CAUSES $400 DAMAGE.

Blaze Which Destroys Netherwood Barn Thought to Have Been Caused by Combustion.

A barn used as a storehouse, belonging to Fred I. Smith and located in the rear of his home at 110 Netherwood avenue, caught fire in some way at 1 o'clock Sunday morning, and was completely destroyed. The flames were first noticed by Patrolman Arthur McGinley and by the time he had turned in an alarm from box 18 they had reddened the sky with their glow. When the apparatus arrived the structure was beyond saving but the flames were quickly extinguished. The loss is estimated at $400, covered by insurance.

Chief Doane learned by investigation that Smith had given neighbors permission to keep paints and painters' clothing in the barn and it is thought spontaneous combustion may have resulted from these.

Dr. Huribut in Bloomfield Church.

Rev. Dr. Jesse L. Huribut, formerly of South Orange, and once pastor of the First M. E. church here, preached his first sermon as pastor of the Park Methodist church Sunday morning, and was greeted by a large congregation. The new pastor made a favorable impression. At the close of the services he was introduced to the members of the congregation by John W. Snedeker. A reception will be given Dr. Huribut in the church parlors the latter part of this month.

FERRIES CRASH IN FOG IN THE DENSE FOG

"Red Bank" Rams "Plainfield" in the North River.

BUT NO ONE IS HURT

Hole in "Plainfield" Big Enough for Horse and Wagon to Go Through—No One to Blame.

Crowded with men, women and children, two ferryboats Sunday rammed into each other on the North river. The crash was heard from the Manhattan shore to the Jersey side and captains of passing craft stopped their vessels, expecting to be called upon to lend aid to a ship in distress.

By an apparent miracle not a soul was injured, although the woman's cabin of one ferryboat was smashed and timbers fell into the apartment. A panic that threatened to result in injury and perhaps death from trampling began, but was stopped by the coolness of the crew.

The ferryboats Plainfield and Red Bank were the vessels concerned. In the Plainfield a hole big enough to permit the entry of a horse and wagon was torn. It was on the woman's side. Glass, woodwork and lamps went crashing down, yet, so far as the records show, not a woman received a scratch.

The two boats belong to the Central Railroad of New Jersey.

The fog, so dense that the eye of an eagle couldn't have penetrated twenty feet of it, hung languidly, immovably, over the river. Whistles were tooting. Bells were clanging.

COUNCILMANIC ROUTINE

Minor Matters Considered at the Adjourned Meeting of the City Fathers.

ADJUST ASSESSMENT

Elston M. French's Offer to Comprise Claim Accepted—Pay Bill of $300 For Auditing Work.

Elston M. French, who owns the property at 1357-1361 Evergreen avenue, over which there has been a dispute regarding the assessment for 1904 taxes, communicated with the Common Council Wednesday at the adjourned session, signifying his desire to compromise in settlement by paying the face value of the assessment and thereby agreeing to discontinue his appeal before the State Board of Taxation. As Corporation Counsel Marsh recommended a settlement up the terms offered by Mr. French, Mr. Daniel moved that this be done. The resolution providing for an adjustment of the matter was adopted.

H. C. Tracy and others asked for three electric lights on Prospect avenue, between Woodland and Hillside avenues, and the petition was referred to the light committee.

William Hand asked that an assessment for $4.62 on property owned by him be adjusted by refunding him $15.50, the amount paid in error. The matter was referred to the finance committee. F. J. Harris petitioned for the release of property on the southeast corner of Clinton avenue and West Seventh street, which has been assessed to W. H. Wells. He claimed that he is the owner of the property and has paid the taxes for years. The matter was referred to the finance committee.

The complete report of Auditor George E. Collins, who has been going over the city's books, was presented, and Mr. Daniel stated for the benefit of the members that it had been carefully examined by the finance committee and found correct, the various accounts in detail being found to correspond, and the departments are in good shape. He then moved that Mr. Collins' bill for $300 be paid, which was done.

Corporation Counsel Marsh reported that the First National Bank had redeemed some property for 1903 taxes which was sold under the Martin act and advised that the tax collector give the bank a copy of the certificate of sale, which had been recorded in the Union county clerk's office. Mr. Daniel, of the finance committee, to whom the matter was referred, reported on it later, following out the advice and instructions of Mr. Marsh.

Mr. Daniel also reported the adjustment of a tax assessment matter whereby Frank Cotterell, the complainant. She had been assessed for two house connections on East Seventh street, when it should only have been one. Mr. Cotterell, the other owner, had agreed to pay his share, and thus relieve the complaint.

Mr. Daniel offered a resolution fixing the annual appropriation for the Board of Health at $5,000, according to its request, and which provided that it be appropriated from the general fund. This resolution, as well as another one fixing the appropriation for the Plainfield Public Library and Reading room at $5,100, was adopted.

Still another resolution by Mr. Daniel, which was adopted, provided that $14,250 be appropriated for street lighting for the coming year. He stated that last year's appropriation was $12,800, but that there is a constant demand for lights, which must necessarily increase the appropriation. Mr. Daniel's resolution fixing $2 as the tax to be levied upon the owner of every ydog was adopted.

Mr. Daniel reported back the petition of E. R. Robinson & Co., of New York, asking the Common Council to purchase a new atlas and map of Plainfield, but suggested that it would not be wise to subscribe for it until it is completed, and this, he understood, would be four months off. Mr. Daniel's suggestion was adopted.

Mr. Gloak reported on the petition of the residents of Clinton avenue asking for the establishment of the proper grade, and he stated that the work was almost completed.

"DON'T ANSWER P. S. C."
SAY BANDED CONSUMERS.

P. P. A. Asks Public To Withhold Information As To Number of Lights.

The Plainfield Protective Association doesn't want the users of electricity in this city to furnish the P. S. C. with information regarding the number of lights in their houses, as per circular request just sent around to the patrons of the corporation here.

The circular was considered at a meeting of the executive committee of the association last night, and it was decided to ask the papers to request their readers not to answer the P. S. C.'s queries until the P. P. A. learned whether the information must be given. The association will communicate with the Underwriters' Association at once to obtain full information as to the necessity of complying with the P. S. C. request.

READY FOR SANITARY SEWER EXTENSION BIDS

MUST BE FILED WITH CITY CLERK BY MONDAY NIGHT, MAY 7.

Plans for extending the sanitary sewer system were introduced by Chairman Gloak, of the street committee, at the adjourned meeting of the Common Council Wednesday. It was the purpose of last year's street committee to do this work, but it was finally decided to lay the matter over for the incoming body. While the plans presented by Mr. Gloak do not cover all of the streets considered last year, they take in many of them. The extension will add about two miles to the system.

Accompanying the plans, specifications, maps, etc., presented by Mr. Gloak was a resolution fixing Monday night, May 7, as the time when bids will be received for the work. The resolution authorized the city clerk to insert advertisements in The Daily Press and other papers.

The plans call for an extension of the system in the following named streets: Darrow avenue, North Front street, Park lane, Park terrace, Essex street, between Spooner and Darrow avenues, Midway avenue, 125 feet east of Third street; East Sixth street, between Richmond and Central streets; Columbia avenue, between Frederick street and Leland avenue; Leland avenue, between Columbia and North avenues; East Seventh street, between Leland and Belvidere avenues; Berckman street, between East Front street and North avenue; East Fourth street, from Richmond street, 750 feet west; East Second street, from Berckman street to Netherwood avenue; North avenue from the end of the present sewer system at the water works to Terrill road.

PARK AVENUE BAPTISTS HOLD 50TH ANNUAL SESSION.

George E. Hall, G. W. V. Moy and R. C. Treadwell Re-elected Trustees.

George E. Hall, G. W. V. Moy and Roland C. Treadwell were re-elected trustees for three years at the thirtieth annual parish meeting of the Park Avenue Baptist church last Wednesday night.

Treasurer L. R. Schofield presented his report for the year as follows: Balance, April 1, 1905, $1.49; subscription to floating debt, $540; special subscription, $285.03; envelope collections, $2,867.65; basket collections, mornings, $101.14; evenings, $146.75; interest, received at bank, $200; rebate on coal, $8.77; total, $4,332.25. The disbursements were as follows: Pastor's salary, $1,700; sexton's salary, $200; gas and electric light, $147.63; interest, $483.09; music, $247.39; repairs, $317.96; pulpit supplies, $58; trustee notes, $640; sundry bills, $166.21; John Johnston's note for coal, $97.50; balance in bank, $74.76.

In submitting the financial statement it was reported that the standing debt on the church property had been reduced by $837.19. It was announced that Mrs. Clara M. Naylor, Miss Gladys Edsall, Walter H. Cumings, Clarence P. Rockwell, Roland McK. Stover and Cedric Ostrand would be baptized at the Easter service Sunday night.

Orders to Company K.

Company K has received instructions to be in readiness to go to Phillipsburg on June 11 to participate in the unveiling of a monument and also to go to Elizabeth on July 4, when similar exercises are to be held. There is a possibility that the company will be ordered to camp at Sea Girt in July.

YOUTH BEAT OUT FIRE WITH HIS NAKED HANDS

MIRROR REFLECTION LED TO DISCOVERY OF BLAZING TABLE CLOTH.

With his bare hands, Paul R. Collier, one of the High School athletes, put out a fire at his home on East Sixth street, Friday morning. He discovered the flames just in time to prevent them from spreading dangerously.

Collier went into an upstairs sitting room at 6:30 o'clock and struck a match. Part of the head broke off, but he paid no attention to the incident. He passed into the room beyond and started searching for a book. A few minutes later he chanced to look up into a looking glass hanging in the sitting room, and saw the reflection of dancing flames. Another look disclosed the fact that the cloth on the sitting room table was all ablaze, with the flames beginning to curl about varnished legs.

Collier sprang into the room and threw the burning cloth into the center of table in a heap and beat the flames out with his hands. He was only slightly burned. The cloth was ruined.

The Master Builders' Association has elected these officers: President, L. B. Woolston; vice presidents, John Abbott and W. C. Krause; secretary, David S. Dunavan; financial secretary, Philip Jahn; treasurer, Seaman Williams; finance committee, John Wyman and W. C. Krausse.

WATER ELECTION, JUNE 5

Date Agreed Upon Provided That Councilmanic Committee First Plan Line of Action.

REASONS FOR DELAY

Chairman Buxton Prevented by Chain of Circumstances from Getting Plans in Shape.

For more than 1 hour, the Common Council, in executive session Wednesday, threshed out the much discussed question of municipal ownership of the water supply, the particular subject of debate being whether a special election should be called for June 5. The upshot of it all was that the public affairs committee will plan out its mode of procedure fully in order that the voters, fathers, and the public as well, be fully informed as to just what is proposed, before any vote is taken on the primary question of allowing Common Council to appropriate a sum sufficient to conduct an investigation.

Councilman Tyler, an avowed champion of municipal worship, fought hard for immediate action on the question, but it became known that through a trend of circumstances, it had been impossible for the public affairs committee, of which Councilman Herbert Buxton is chairman, had been unable to map out any definite line of action. For that reason, the councilmen came to the decision that it would be preferable not to set a date for the election until every step in the matter is fully planned.

Not until March 24 did the governor sign the bill enabling Plainfield to hold an election for this purpose. As first announced in The Daily Press, the election held under the old acts was imperfect and invalid. Corporation Counsell Craig A. Marsh, who drew up the enabling act, had instructed Chairman Buxton that he could do nothing in the matter until the new measure became a law. For that reason, it was stated in the executive session last night, that no mode of procedure had been outlined.

At the meeting, Councilman Tyler argued against any delay on the ground that the franchise and plant of the Plainfield Water Supply Company is becoming more valuable every day.

Mr. Buxton stated to a representative of The Daily Press last night that he and the other members of the committee, Councilmen Frank Randolph, Mellick, Gloak and Daniel, would hold a meeting in a few days. At that meeting the line of action will be agreed upon and at the May session of the city the committee will be in chape to go ahead. In all probability a special election will take place before summer sets in and possibly June 5 will be the date.

2ND ASST. CHIEFSHIP IS FINALLY ABOLISHED

ONLY FOUR MEMBERS HELD OUT IN FAVOR OF MAYOR'S APPOINTEE.

Councilman George P. Mellick's ordinance to abolish the office of second assistant engineer of the fire department was passed on third reading Wednesday. Councilmen Tyler, Gloak, Charles C. Randolph, Mellick, Hibbard and Daniel voting affirmatively, and Councilmen Buxton, Montgomery, Frank Randolph and Tolles cast their votes in the negative.

From the beginning Chairman Mellick, of the fire committee, opposed the appointment of John Cose to the position of second assistant engineer to succeed John W. Murray, Jr., on the grounds that he believed that Captain Towns was entitled to it and also for the reason that he considered the appointment of Mr. Cose was in the nature of a payment of a political debt, as he stated on the floor at a previous meeting.

LITERARY NOTES.

One who goes moose shooting in the wilderness plays two games: one a game with the moose for his adversary, the other a game of solitaire. In the forest, the object being to get out and back to camp again. The latter is quite as interesting as the former. The game of solitaire, if one is satisfied with getting it crudely, is not difficult. If, for instance, your camp is on a river which flows east and west, and you go into the woods on the south side, it does not require much learning in woodcraft to hit the river again by going north. You can tell which way is north from the sun or from your compass. Once on the river you can get back to camp again. A man in the woods searching for game walks only about two miles an hour, so that in half a day he cannot well get to such a remote distance that, with the aid of a compass, he cannot in reason strike the river again, and strike it somewhere near his camp. But the niceties of the game of solitaire are infinite.—Weld Allen Rollins, in Recreation for April.

NOT ONE VOTE FOR SCHANZ APPLICATION

COMMON COUNCIL PLACES ITSELF ON RECORD AGAINST ANY MORE SALOONS

Naturally not wishing to put himself on record as favoring the application of Charles Schanz for a liquor license, Francis L. Montgomery, as chairman of the license committee, endeavored to evade the usual course in presenting such applications at the adjourned meeting of the Common Council Wednesday. On Mr. Montgomery's motion the members took a ten minute recess which last considerably over an hour. While out there was a discussion of the Schanz application and the remonstrance against it presented by a majority of the property owners on North avenue.

When the members returned to regular session Mr. Montgomery moved that a vote be taken as to whether the Common Council wanted to grant the application or not. There was exception taken to this way of putting the motion, and Mr. Buxton, who is now in charge of the minutes mentioned on roll call, stated: "I will vote that it be granted or not."

Mr. Daniel said that such a vote would not dispose of the matter, neither would it determine the question. Other remarks were exchanged, lost in sparring for points, Mr. Gloak arose and asked why Mr. Montgomery did not come out in a straightforward manner and put the motion as it should be.

These remarks nettled Mr. Montgomery somewhat, and then he moved that Mr. Schanz's application be granted, but not a single member would second the motion. He then moved that the application be rejected, which was seconded the motion, and on the roll call every member voted in the affirmative.

Mr. Schanz was applying for a license for the property at 126-128 North avenue, now occupied by Lazarus Paoli, but a majority of the property owners objected to a saloon being opened there.

DEBTS OF MADAME MANY AND VARIED

FOR ANTIQUES, SUMMER SCHOOL, FURS ICE AND SO ON.

Mrs. Florence J. Rosse, formerly of this city, now residing at 214 West Forty-fifth street, New York, has filed a petition in bankruptcy with liabilities of $7,000 and no assets. The debts were contracted between 1901 and 1905 in this city, White Plains, Flushing, Baltimore, Washington and London. They are for borrowed money, antiques, board, doctors, dresses, dry goods, clothing, furniture, furs, flowers, groceries, hairdressing, ice, jewelry, livery, millinery, photos, piano hire, shoes, stationery, summer school, tailoring, telephone, trunks, etc.

Mrs. Rosse was a student in a theatrical school in the Berkeley Lyceum and was the widow of a Washington physician. She was the author of a book called "Froth and Philosophy," always paid her bills at the lowest terms promptly and paid heavy telephone bills for talking to her brother-in-law, who is in the Postoffice Department in Washington, and to her boy at school in Pennsylvania.

UNION COUNTY WAS 49 YEARS OLD FRIDAY.

Union county was forty-nine years old Friday, the law setting it off from Essex county having been effective April 13, 1857. It is the youngest county in the State.

Those who have served as Senators since its incorporation till now were John R. Ayres, Joseph T. Crowell, James Jenkins, Philip H. Grier, Amos Clark, James T. Wiley, J. Henry Stone, William J. Magie, Benjamin A. Vail, Robert Livingston, James L. Miller, Frederick C. Marsh, Foster M. Voorhees, Joseph Cross and the present incumbent, Ernest R. Ackerman.

Those who have been Assemblymen are Benjamin M. Price, Cooper Parse, William Cross, Elisha Marsh, David Mulford, Israel O. Maxwell, Noah Woodruff, Philip Dougherty, Joseph T. Crowell, John R. Crane, Thomas J. Lee, A. M. W. Ball, Enos W. Runyon, John H. Whelan, DeWitt C. Hough, Albert A. Drake, Ferdinand Blanchard, Joseph Yates, Andrew Dutcher, John H. Lufberry, Jabez B. Cooley, William H. Gill, Elias R. Pope, Moses F. Corr, Benjamin A. Vail, John Egan, Joseph B. Coward, George M. Stiles, Philip H. Vernon, John T. Dunn, George L. Parrot, Frank L. Sheldon, Edward J. Byrnes, Asa T. Woodruff, Jacob Kinzler, Peter L. Hughes, William H. Corbin, William Chamberlain, John T. Matthews, Foster M. Voorhees, John Ulrich, Frederick C. Marsh, John Cairoll, George Kyte, Thomas F. Lane, Timothy M. Kelly, John N. Burger, Joseph Cross, Charles N. Codding, Henry Clause, J. Martin Roll, William R. Codington, George J. Squire, Roger P. Murray, Robert G. Houston, Ellis R. Mercer, Chester M. Smith, Charles S. Foote, Frederick Miller, William F. Hall, Edward S. Coyne, Charles L. Moffett, Joseph T. Hague, Joseph H. Gunn, and the present incumbents, Peter Tilman, Randolph Perkins and Everard K. Tucker.

CONGREGATIONAL MEETING

Pastor Says Midweek Meetings Are Not Attended Largely Enough.

STILL, YEAR WAS GOOD

Membership Touches Highwater Mark and Unusually Large Balance is on Hand—Dinner and Two Meetings Held.

In his report at the annual meeting of the Congregational church Wednesday Rev. Charles L. Goodrich, the pastor, told his congregation that there were two unsatisfactory things to the year's record. The attendance at the mid-week meetings was too small, he said, and the adult classes of the Sunday school were not as largely attended as they should be. Everything else about the church records, however, was encouraging. All the debts were paid and a balance of over $100 was on hand.

There were two meetings, as usual —the church first and the congregational society following that. Mr. Goodrich presided at the initial meeting and Roland D. Rice acted as clerk. The pastor's report was the first thing after the reading of the minutes.

Before calling attention to the weak places in the church activities, Mr. Goodrich referred to the fact that in January the membership touched highwater mark, with a total that lacked but one of 300. There were seventeen additions during the year, ten on confession and seven by letter. The membership now is 296. Touching on the adult classes of the Sunday school, Mr. Goodrich said the attendance of the men was larger than that of the women: The attendance at the mid-week meetings he characterized as "another weak place in the church." It was even smaller this year than last, he said.

J. M. Whiton and George S. Raynolds were re-elected deacons, and Henry Nomer, G. F. Fisher and Curtis M. Avery were re-elected to the official board. L. B. Morgan and Mrs. Goodrich were elected delegates to the coming convention of the Congregational Society in Washington, D. C.

R. L. Suffern was elected moderator of the society meeting, and R. D. Rice secretary. Considerable discussion was held on a suggestion to install electric lighting in the church and in the proposed inauguration of individual communion cups.

Acting on a request from the trustees, Treasurer M. C. Van Arsdale presented an estimate on the cost of replacing gas illumination with electricity. The work would cost $179, and Mr. Van Arsdale advocated it. After a long discussion, in which considerable opposition was manifested, the matter was referred to the trustees, with power.

R. I. Weseman moved the establishment of individual communion service. Alexander Millar objected to the motion on the ground that matters connected with the worship of the church should be brought before the Congregational Society. There was a lot of argument over the point, and the chairman finally ruled the motion out of order. On a test vote to table the resolution the supporters of the change appeared to outnumber its opponents by a goodly number. One of the women moved that the church submit a proposal looking to consider the change immediately after the society adjourned. Mr. Goodrich explained that a special meeting could only follow a written request to the pastor signed by seven members, and that the chairman would call the Sunday service preceding it. Three minutes after the session closed Mr. Weseman handed a request for a meeting duly signed by seven members, to Clerk Rice. The meeting will be held Wednesday, April 18.

Treasurer Van Arsdale's report showed that the church took in $3,682.48 in the twelvemonth and expended $3,559.15, leaving a balance of $124.32. It was announced that the general expenses would be heavier than usual this year, on account of certain repairs that must be made. The balance on hand is the largest recorded in some years.

M. Van Arsdale, J. E. Morse, Alexander Millar and C. A. Rice were re-elected to the board of trustees, and Philip Suffern was made auditer. At a meeting held immediately yafter the session the trustees elected the following officers:

President, J. E. Morse; secretary, Everett L. Morgan; treasurer, ? ?? Morris C. VanArsdale; chief usher, Clarence La Rue. They are all re-elections with the exception of Mr. La Rue.

Following a regular custom, the women of the church served a dinner before the meetings. It was catered by Mrs. Lena Hellstrom, who had full charge of the service. Covers were laid for 200. The tables were attractively set and the menu was delightful.

Such is the title of Charles Dana Gibson's latest picture to be issued as a supplement to the Sunday World next Sunday. It is full of pathos. Every one will want it. Tell your newsdealer today, so he may set aside a copy of next Sunday's World for you.

Mrs. Anna Chamberlin, of Phillipsburg, Pa., is making a visit with Mrs. O. E. Thorne.

GOOD FRIDAY SHOULD BE GOOD WEDNESDAY

WRONG DAY COMMEMORATED, DR. LEWIS, ANNOUNCES IN ADDRESS.

The address by Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis, editor of the Sabbath Recorder, at the Lenten musical service of the First Presbyterian church Wednesday, touched on the historical basis for fixing on Friday as the day commemorative of the Crucifixion. Dr. Lewis came prepared to speak on lines different from these followed. The music moved him to the expression of thoughts that seemed more time and opportune than the words he had in mind before the service opened. The service was deeply impressive in tone and atmosphere, and the audience felt its influence as plainly as the speaker.

"We have listened to the immortal story of eternal love—redeeming and sacrificial love," said Dr. Lewis, in opening. The story was eternal, he said, because human hearts longed for the consciousness that divine love was poured out upon them, for their uplifting and redemption.

Dr. Lewis referred with special emphasis to the fact that the service was held on Wednesday. He had wondered, he said, if those who arranged the service were in sympathy with the facts expressed by the noted evangelist, Dr. Torrey, who was conducting services in Philadelphia. Dr. Torrey said that for two or three centuries past noted scholars in Germany and this country had announced it as a fact that the day of the crucifixion of Christ had not occurred on Friday, but on Wednesday. This announcement had been made by Dr. Torrey in a booklet entitled "Hard Problems of Scripture," published by the Ram's Horn. The lecturer added that he had reached the same conclusion through historical investigation, and published his conclusions forty years ago.

"I am doubly impressed," he said, "that, according to Dr. Torrey's conclusion, it is just 1,876 years ago today that the crucifixion, to the story of which we have just listened, took place on Calvary."

DYING WHILE WIFE ENTERTAINED COMPANY

MELICK SUFFERED FATAL SEIZURE AS HE RESTED IN CHAIR.

While his wife was entertaining a friend in the front room of their flat, David B. Melick, thirty-five years old, of 122 East Front street, was seized with a fatal attack of heart failure late Friday afternoon. Mrs. Melick reached him before he died.

Melick's death was not wholly unexpected, he had been ill for two years with asthma, from which his heart weakness developed, and his health failed rapidly during the latter period of his illness.

Melick sat in a chair in a rear room yesterday afternoon, resting. Shortly before 6 o'clock a woman friend called on Mrs. Melick, and she took her to the front room a few minutes afterwards. Mrs. Melick heard a faint exclamation and sounds of a struggle from the rear room. She ran in to find her husband gasping for breath. A few minutes later he died in the chair to which she carried him.

Mr. and Mrs. Melick came here from North Branch two months ago. Mrs. Melick was Miss Edith Moulton, of North Branch, and is well known in the West End. When Melick, whose home was in North Branch, married two cars ago, he was in comparatively good health. Almost immediately after the marriage his health failed, and he was practically unable to work from that time on. The couple had no children.

Melick had a number of cousins in this city. He was connected with the Birds.

RATS OWN CITY HALL; BUILDING TO BE CHANGED.

Butcher Shops on Ground Floor Attract Rodents, So the Stalls Will Be Driven Out.

Because of the presence of rats, which at times have almost put the departments out of business, a number of changes are to be made in the City Hall at Elizabeth. When the hall, a brick building, occupying about a block, was built in 1845 part of the ground floor was used for a market, and it has ever since been occupied by butchers. The butcher shops attracted rats.

The members of the Board of Health, who have their headquarters in the hall, tried poisoning and tar paper, but they did little good, and on the death of a rat they have had to use creosote.

It has now been decided to do away with the butcher shops and changes of a fundamental character will be made which it is expected will cost about $5,000. Companies C and I, of the Second Regiment, which have their quarters on the upper floor of the building, are to be moved to the ground floor, and the offices of the Board of Health, Overseer of the Poor, Sealer of Weights and Measures and Board of Excise are to be moved upstairs.

Mr. and Mrs. P. A. McVoy, of East Front street, spent yesterday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Linbarger, of Brooklyn.

THOUSANDS APPLAUD HER

Miss Von Ohl's Horsemanship Amazes Hippodrome Audiences—$300 Per.

RIDES PLUNGING STEED

At Head of Body of Cavalry—Then Plainfield Girl Dashes Into Big Pool—Rose from a Chorus Girl.

From out of a mass of exaggerated stories sent broadcast by an enterprising press agent, it has become apparent that Miss Adele von Ohl, of this city, has really met with phenomenal success in her work at the New York Hippodrome and that at the present time her name and picture are familiar from the Battery to the Bronx. Everywhere in the metropolis where it is possible to erect a billboard she is pictured in the act of urging a horse to leap from a high precipice into a supposed river, and huge letters several feet high tell of her skill and daring. Not since the Thompson & Dundy playhouse was opened has any one artist received the notices she has, and there are indications that she will be made the star of "The Society Circus" when it is sent on the road in a few months.

Miss von Ohl, who lived with her mother on Central avenue, has always been known to Plainfielders as a daring horsewoman, and they were not surprised when she secured an engagement at the Hippodrome as one of the riders in "The Raiders." This spectacle depicts a battle between Union and Confederate soldiers, at the end of which a detachment of cavalry plunges into a river and gets away. Miss von Ohl was a member of the cavalry, and her absolute fearlessness in jumping her horse into the water attracted the attention of Messrs. Thompson and Dundy, but the taking of her by "The Raiders" prevented them from advancing her at the time.

It was succeeded by "A Society Circus," and the Plainfield girl became one of the sedate guests who are supposed to watch the spectacular acts. Her skill as an equestrienne had not been lost sight of, however, and when the management desired more action, they hit upon the plunging horses to feature Miss von Ohl. The first night it was tried, although it contained an element of danger, the young woman made the leap in such a clean-cut way every other rider was compelled to "sit up and take notice." The act became an instantaneous hit and the metropolitan newspapers devoted more space to Miss von Ohl than to the show itself. She accomplishes the plunge from a high bank to the cold water twice a day, and though she is in the middle of a mass of whirling hoofs for several minutes she has never yet lost her saddle or suffered the slightest mishap.

When Miss von Ohl was first put on the Hippodrome payroll it was at $15 a week. She is now receiving $300 a week, and is under contract with the management for a stated period. Some time during the summer "A Society Circus" goes to Atlantic City for a run and after that it will visit the largest cities in the country, the Plainfield girl remaining as the feature outside of the circus acts.

CHARLEY WOOLSTON A BENEDICT NOW

WEDDED THIS MORNING TO MISS NELLIE A. BECHTEL.

In the presence of only relatives of both families, Miss Nellie A. Bechtel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles P. Bechtel, of Carlton avenue, and Charles Stanley Woolston, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lemuel B. Woolston, were quietly married at 11:30 Saturday. The ceremony was performed at the home of the bride's parents by Rev. C. Dickerson, pastor of All Souls' Unitarian church. The guests in all numbered twenty-five.

Miss Bechtel was attended by Miss Dora Lipincott, of Philadelphia, as bridesmaid, and Marcus Hoyt acted as best man. The bride, who was attired in a gown of pale gray chiffon cut Princesse, was given away by her father. She carried a bouquet of violets and orange blossoms. Miss Lipincott's gown was of Alice blue trimmed with point lace. The parlor, dining room and hall were decorated with palms and southern smilax.

Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served and later Mr. and Mrs. Woolston took their departure for a wedding trip. As they left the house they were showered with rice and many of the younger guests followed them to the station, where they were subjected to noisy congratulations. The young couple will spend a short time at Atlantic City and later will go to Washington and then Niagara Falls. On returning they will reside at Trueil nn.

The groom is engaged in the clothing business on North avenue and is well known as a baseball and automobile enthusiast. His bride has been a resident of the city but two years, coming here with her parents from Brooklyn.

GREAT THRONG AT UNION GOOD FRIDAY SERVICES

Following Custom Protestant Congregations Join Together In Commemorating The Crucifixion.

"WORDS OF BEHOLDERS"

Theme for Pastor's Addresses—Appropriate Hymns by Quartette Choir and the Worshippers.

The Union Good Friday service held in the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church Friday night attracted a large gathering of worshipers from the local evangelical churches. In form the service differed from that used during the past ten years, when it was the custom for the ministers to speak on "The Last Seven Words on the Cross." Friday night the service was entitled "The Cross. The Words of the Beholders."

Rev. Charles L. Goodrich, pastor of the Congregational church, was in charge of the service, and conducted the "opening sentences" and the general confession, in which the whole congregation united, concluding with the Lord's Prayer. Rev. L. R. Howard, of Hope chapel, led the responsive reading, which was followed with an anthem by the quartette choir of the church. Rev. A. E. Finn, of the Park Avenue Baptist church, read the Scripture lesson, which closed the first part of the service.

Four pastors were chosen to speak on "The Cross—the Words of the Beholders," the first being Rev. A. E. McCrea, of the First M. E. church. His topic was the word of the soldiers: "Let us not rend it, but cast lots for it, whose it shall be." Referring to the garment of Christ, the speaker said that sometimes the most sacred things became profane in the hands of some people, while the most simple things are mighty in the hands of others. He described the garment as being the same one which the woman touched and was healed. Continuing, Mr. McCrea spoke in part as follows:

"If Christ had not come and taught the Golden Rule men would be cruel in their nature, and had he not touched their eyes they would be just as blind as were the men of old. Real value are not to be found in the material things of life. Unless we have the spirit of Christ we, too, will be blind. In grasping for the garment let us not forget to lay hold on Christ."

The word of those who passed by and the priests was the topic assigned to the second speaker, Rev. Erskine M. Rodman, rector emeritus of Grace church. He referred at first to the annual custom of the churches during the past ten or fifteen years in holding the union Good Friday service and of the rule to follow the subject of "The Seven Last Words on the Cross." He said that he could not help but note the great contrast between that subject and the one chosen this year. Dean Rodman then spoke of the great agony of the Lord at His crucifixion, and the ridicule of the crowd when he said that "He could destroy the temple and build it again in three days," also that "He had power to lay down his life and take it up again." "He had power to descend from the cross," said the speaker, "and if He had exercised this power it would have been no greater than other miracles performed by Him. The horrible taunts of Christ's enemies I believe were a part of the cup of bitterness He had to drink; yet he asked His Father to forgive them, because they knew not what they were doing. So here the blasphemous remarks, notwithstanding His sensitive nature, and I am inclined to believe that the insulting words, the mocking and scourging and the jeers of the crowd, caused the greatest suffering, and yet he suffered it all. May God give us grace and may this meeting give us grace to bear our suffering and help us to love Him more."

The word of the repentant thief was the third topic, and Rev. Dr. J. A. Chamblis, of the First Baptist church, was chosen to speak upon it. In his introductory remarks he spoke of the fall of Satan at the crucifixion and the triumph of the cross whose wonders would never cease.

"Who this robber was or for what crime he was hung on the cross beside the Saviour, we are not told," said Dr. Chamblis; "but we know that he was a criminal of the deepest dye. He was brought to the crucifixion, we believe, without one thought of regret, but as the hours passed by his views changed and he began to recall things he had heard, perhaps in his prison cell. Then it was the prayer of the Saviour. He was employed in the stock room office of the Pond Machine Tool Works. When the free delivery service was established at Cranford less than six years ago, he was appointed one of the letter-carriers. He filled this position until a few months ago when he was made a clerk in the postoffice. Now he has been appointed assistant postmaster at a substantial increase in salary, as this is a second-class office.

recently was that of the thousands of people who flocked to the churches because of the eruption of Vesuvius, and there in supplication call for help.

"What amazing faith we see in this robber as he addressed his words to the Saviour, who hung there on the cross weak, bruised and scarred and taunted by the crowd. 'Lord, remember me when Thou comest into Thy kingdom,' were his words. He was not referring to an earthly kingdom, for both Christ and himself were going out of the world. Being saved does not consist in church membership, baptism, works or some revelation, but by faith in the crucified one. Don't wait until about to die before accepting Christ, but say now, Father be merciful to me a sinner."

The word of the Centurion, "Truly this was the Son of God," was the topic assigned to Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie, of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church. The speaker said that the evidence was growing stronger with the Centurion that the crucifixion was different from any other, that it was strange and unique, and being impressed with this fact he was led to exclaim the remarkable sentence. He was impressed with Christ's power, that some sort of a secret was holding Him up and that He had a purpose, and was holding to it. "The words of the Centurion are words that can be understood by all classes," said Dr. Zelie, "and we judge our lives by them—this priceless utterance—by which everyman can give their life to serve Him."

Following Dr. Zelie's remarks, there was silent prayer and a prayer by Rev. L. R. Howard. During the offertory, which was for the Children's Home, the choir sang an appropriate selection, and after the singing of a hymn the benediction was pronounced by Rev. Mr. Rodman.

MARCONNIER CHAPEL TO HAVE A REGULAR PASTOR

REV. MR. LANSDALE WILL PROBABLY BE RETAINED TO TAKE CHARGE.

Rev. J. T. Lansdale, who has been serving at Marconnier chapel as temporary supply, is expected to become the permanent pastor of the chapel very shortly. The first step toward installing him in the charge was taken by Trinity church consistory Thursday, after Mr. Lansdale had made an interesting statement on his work at Oak Tree for the past seven weeks, and the prospects of developing the chapel membership.

Mr. Lansdale made a strong impression on the consistory members. When he finished his report they felt that he was the man to put at the helm of the chapel. Although Trinity is the mother church and Marconnier takes no important action in church affairs without seeking the approval of Trinity, the retention of Mr. Lansdale as permanent pastor must be voted by the chapel: the members must be prepared to assume a part of his salary. What the consistory of the church did last night was to vote that the Marconnier chapel committee raise one quarter of Mr. Lansdale's salary. Mr. Lansdale's work has been so satisfactory at the charge that there is hardly any doubt that the chapel congregation will ask him to stay with them.

In his statement Thursday, Mr. Lansdale expressed a conviction that conditions at Oak Tree were such that a healthy, if small, growth could be expected at the chapel. He was full of enthusiasm over the prospects. He reported seventy-seven families in the vicinity of the chapel, fifty of which attended the Sunday-school and a goodly number, the evening service.

If Mr. Lansdale is installed as permanent pastor, he will be the first one the chapel has had. He is an energetic, able young man, who has had experience in mission church work about New York city. He is anxious to secure a country charge, and is particularly interested in Marconnier's field. He said last night that he had been in many mission chapels, but none so delightful and attractive in appointments and keeping as the one at Oak Tree. The chapel is, as a matter of fact, one of the best-equipped of its kind.

The annual collection for Marconnier will be taken at Trinity church the latter part of May. The Trinity congregation will have an opportunity to head Mr. Lansdale on April 19, when he will exchange with Dr. Schenck in the evening.

If Mr. Lansdale is retained as pastor, he will settle with his family in a house at Oak Tree in the summer.

W. S. Reinhart's Job.

Walter S. Reinhart, formerly of Plainfield, has been appointed assistant postmaster at Cranford, where he now resides. Mr. Reinhart, previous to his removal to Cranford, was employed in the stock room office of the Pond Machine Tool Works. When the free delivery service was established at Cranford less than six years ago, he was appointed one of the letter-carriers. He filled this position until a few months ago when he was made a clerk in the postoffice. Now he has been appointed assistant postmaster at a substantial increase in salary, as this is a second-class office.

PLAN TO SAVE THE FALLS.

Engineer Has Evolved a Plan for the Preservation of Niagara's Cataract.

With the attention of most thinking people directed toward Niagara Falls and its threatened destruction, Alton D. Adams, in an article on "How to Save Niagara Falls," in the Technical World Magazine, offers what may prove to be the final solution of the problem. Mr. Adams says: "With a dam across Niagara river, between Lewiston and Queenston, and a reservoir six miles long and reaching to the cantilever bridge behind it, plants taking water from the dam would operate with it a substantially constant head. To connect such plants with the dam only short steel pipes would be necessary and the cost of the entire development per horse power would be very moderate. The water head of 100 feet at this proposed dam is only two-thirds of that which is available most of the time at the falls, but on the other hand the volume of water passing the dam is equal to the entire discharge over both the American and the Horseshoe falls.

With the normal discharge of Niagara river, which is 222,000 cubic feet per second, falling 100 feet the gross horse power developed would be 2,500,000. Making liberal allowances for losses of head in the penstocks and tailraces, and assuming only a fair efficiency for water wheels and generators, fully 60 per cent. of this 2,500,000 gross horse power, or 1,500,000, could be continuously generated at the proposed dam in the form of electric current. This output is about two and one-half times the actual and proposed capacities of all the hydro-electric plants now completed or under construction about Niagara Falls, and is six or seven times the combined capacity of all the electric generators now ready to operate at the falls."

NOT CAREFUL OF SAFES.

There Are Jewelers Who by Slack Habits Invite the Attention of Crackmen.

A recent robbery in New York calls attention to a very careless way in which many jewelers, both in and out of New York, place their safes, says the Jeweler's Circular Weekly. These dealers practically invite robberies by making them possible without interruption, in placing their safes in a position with the front opening into a store and the back absolutely hidden from view in the street. This offers an opportunity to the safe crackers, who may come in from the back, to operate upon the rear of the safe without the slightest chance of being seen by a watchman, or by pedestrians no matter how well the store is lit emanated.

Jewelers seem to be under the impression that the door of the safe is the only means by which it can be entered by crackmen, forgetting that in the case of most of the safes used by small jewelers, it is much easier to get through the rear steel in the back, chisel through the cement, and force a way directly into the inner compartments, than it is to break through the main door and then into the small compartments within.

"How long does it take to empty this hall?" asked the lecturer, looking about the auditorium. "I don't know exactly," replied the janitor; "but if you wish, when you begin lecturing I'll time 'em."

"This is the first time you have been to prayer meeting in a long time," said the pastor of a colored congregation. "I had to come," replied Erastus Pinkley. "I got a mighty wrathful sin." I've got a job whitewashin' a chicken coop an' buildin' a fence around a watermelon patch."

"That barber seems to be doing a rushing business." "Yes. He has invented a hair tonic that smells exactly like gasoline." "But—er—I don't see the point." "It tickles the vanity of his patrons. They go around smelling of gasoline, and this gives the impression that they own automobiles."

PEOPLE OF PROMINENCE.

Mrs. George Gould is to have published a book on her recent trip abroad. Among her intimate friends she is spoken of as being "in the distinguished list of automobile survivors."

Dr. Isaac H. Hazleton, of Wellesley Hills, Mass., the only surviving officer of the first Peary relief, was one of the guests at the recent launching of the new mammoth battleship Vermont.

Dr. Albert A. Van der Veer, of Albany, N. Y., has just received one of the highest honors that can be given to a surgeon. He has been chosen president of the National Surgical association. His record on surgery are standard.

Prof. Alexieff Toricony, one time of the University of Moscow, and who was imprisoned in 1891 for alleged complicity in the assassination of Alexander II., will shortly come to America from Japan to become a United States citizen.

William Kingsley, who was born in Ireland in 1783 and fought with Nelson at Trafalgar, is now living at the age of 122 near Bloomfield, Mo. He fought in the Crimean war, assisted in the raising of Estelopod and in this country fought in the Mexican and civil wars.

Mrs. Marion B. Baxter is at the head of the only free hospital in Seattle, Wash., the hospital ship Idaho. Roger S. Greene and other public-spirited men of the city bought the ship and gave it for the benefit of those too poor to pay for admission to hospitals. Mrs. Baxter has been for several years on the editorial staff of a Seattle paper.

Gov. Miguel A. Otero of New Mexico is one of the most extensive sheep breeders in the southwest, his flocks in Guadalupe county alone numbering 65,000 head. He is a native of the territory, a scion of one of its oldest families and speaks Spanish and English with equal fluency. The governor is now nearing the end of his second term and it is considered probable that he will be reappointed.

Thomas A. Edison came over to New York from his quiet New Jersey home to see some machinery in which he was interested. As soon as possible he hurried back again. "I want to get back to the quietude of my own workshop," he remarked on leaving. "I can't stand New York. You are too glaring and noisy over here, one of the chief reasons being that you are using so many of my contrivances."

MEANT FOR MERRIMENT.

"In Sweden a plumber is called a vattenledningsentrepenor." "He is eh? I'll bet he charges for the time while he is being called it, too."

"You're dreadfully untidy again, Mary! I don't know what the baker will think of you when he comes." "The baker don't matter, 'm. The milkman's bin!"

"Pa," asked Tommy, "what's the difference between 'insurance' and 'insurance?'" "Well, my son, one is what the agent has and the other is what he persists in trying to sell you."

"Pa," asked Tommy, "what's the difference between 'insurance' and 'insurance?'" "Well, my son, one is what the agent has and the other is what he persists in trying to sell you."

"How long does it take to empty this hall?" asked the lecturer, looking about the auditorium. "I don't know exactly," replied the janitor; "but if you wish, when you begin lecturing I'll time 'em."

"This is the first time you have been to prayer meeting in a long time," said the pastor of a colored congregation. "I had to come," replied Erastus Pinkley. "I got a mighty wrathful sin." I've got a job whitewashin' a chicken coop an' buildin' a fence around a watermelon patch."

"That barber seems to be doing a rushing business." "Yes. He has invented a hair tonic that smells exactly like gasoline." "But—er—I don't see the point." "It tickles the vanity of his patrons. They go around smelling of gasoline, and this gives the impression that they own automobiles."

AMONG SCIENTISTS.

Prof. G. Haberlandt, after studying the sensitiveness of the tendrils and hairs on plants, has come to the conclusion that some plants are capable of experiencing regular sensations.

The new method of producing general anesthesia proposed by Schnabedelin, of Berlin, consists in giving three hypodermic injections—two hours, one hour and half an hour before operation—of scopolamine with some morphine. Unconsciousness continues some hours after the operation.

A London chemist, Dr. McAlpine, has a new process of refining mineral oil, for which he claims that it will abolish the use of expensive chemicals, make two distillations do for the three now made, increase the yield of products 20 per cent., and improve the quality of all the products.

CENTER SHOTS.

Liquid courage is apt to evaporate!

People with high tempers when unduly excited are inclined to indulge in low language.

The husband of a [illegible] a lot more [illegible] anything.

The [illegible] hasn't [illegible] as [illegible]

The fellow who [illegible] to put you on to a [illegible] erally bear watching.

The great trouble with the [illegible] temperament is that it revolts at the idea of making a living.

CHURCH PERSONALS.

A large portion of the library of the late Bishop McLaren has been donated by his family to the Western Theological seminary library.

Rev. T. G. Harper, of Wilsey, the newly elected president of the Wesleyan Reform union, was originally a Bedfordshire tinker, reared at Elstow, where John Bunyan was born.

Ian Maclaren, who is just leaving the Liverpool church where he has been minister for a quarter of a century, has been making a collection of his sermons as a sort of farewell volume.

Dr. Julius Goebel, who was dismissed as head of the German department of Stanford university without a hearing, has been appointed by President Eliot as the head of a similar department at Harvard.

Rev. H. Olin Cady, now of Evanston, Ill., who has been connected with Methodist missions in west China for the last 19 years, has been retired with a pension by the board of managers of the Missionary society.

Mr. E. Vickery, a leading member of the Methodist church in New South Wales, has bought the Lyceum theater and hotel in Pitt street, Sydney, and some adjoining property, for about $170,000, and intends to hand the whole over to the Sydney Central Methodist mission.

O. C. Barber, of Akron, O., known as "the match king," will build in the city named one of the most beautiful churches in the country, for it will be an exact duplicate of the Madeleine in Paris and will cost $500,000. As in the original, there will be no windows, light being obtained through a system of skylights.

Rev. Charles Stelzle, who is labor representative for the Presbyterian church, is planning to have the Protestant churches of each large city select a fraternal delegate to the labor unions, and in turn a member of the unions it to be given the freedom of the ministers' meetings. In this way Mr. Stelzle hopes to bridge the chasm between labor organizations and the church.

TALES OF THE TOTS.

"Do you know where little boys who smoke cigarettes go?" "Yes, in behind our stable used to be the safest place, but ma's on to it now!"

"Do you know," said a Sunday school teacher, addressing a new pupil in the infant class, "that you have a soul?" "Course I do," replied the little fellow, placing his hand over his heart, "I can feel it tick."

Little Ethel was learning to sew, and one day, after vainly trying to thread a needle, she asked: "Mamma, don't they call the hole in a needle an eye?"

"Yes, dear," replied the mother.

"Well," continued the little miss, "I'll bet this old needle is cross-eyed."

Little Juana had noticed that nearly every Wednesday, the day her mother was supposed to be at home, her maternal relative went out. One Wednesday her mother made no move toward leaving, and Juana remarked:

"Mamma, this is your deception day; don't you think it's time to put on your hat and go out?"

Here is a bit of exact reasoning on the part of a little schoolgirl. The teacher wished to impress the idea of the value of millions. He did up to it by asking who were the persons who got all they could and did nothing in return. For some time there was silence, but at last the little girl, who had obviously reached out the answer indefinitely from her own home experience, exclaimed with a proud look of confidence: "Please, sir, it's the baby!"

INDUSTRIAL ITEMS.

The Cramps have orders enough on hand now to keep the 6,000 men employed in their shipyards busy for the next 15 months.

The number of persons employed in mining in Great Britain and Ireland last year was 877,057, of whom 5,487 were females.

The United States last year launched 227 merchant ships of more than 100 tons each, with a total tonnage of 338,518 tons. Besides these there were launched 19 war vessels, aggregating 170,885 tons.

Louisiana brimstone is now added to Texas petroleum. Alabama iron, Carolina cotton goods and southern cotton, rice and sugar, as a commercial article in which Dixie is a price maker and important source of supply.

The cotton trade in Austria is not carried on exclusively for home consumption. The exports of cotton and cotton goods, with yarns spelling, 000, showed an increase in 1904 of £156,000 on the preceding year. In Austria there are 3,250,000 spindles, and the yearly consumption of raw cotton is about 600,000 bales, whereas its neighbor, Germany, has about three times that number of spindles, and consumes about three times that quantity of raw material.

SO WE HAVE HEARD.

Night shows cause baldness.

The Japs carry money in their ears.

The best class eyes cost $50 apiece.

Persians can keep cool in any climate.

Passenger life of a ship is 26 years.

"Bow," or Chinese edible dog, [illegible]

Persians have a different name every day of the month.

Two per cent of the buildings struck by lightning last year were churches.

Work best at three in the afternoon and worst at nine in the morning.

THE STABAT MATER

As being appropriate to the day, Good Friday, The Daily Press reproduces what is considered by scholars of America and England, as well as Continental Europe, to be the best translation of the Stabat Mater. It is the work of Rev. Dr. J. A. Chamblis, pastor of the First Baptist church, of this city, widely known for the excellence of his translation. The original Latin is published for the purpose of comparison.

One of the greatest scholars of the day says of his English version:

"Dr. Chamblis's translation of the Stabat Mater appears to me distinctly superior to all the others I have seen. Taking the three given in "The Seven Great Hymns of the Medieval Church," I think it a more exact rendering than that of Gen. Dix, and more melodious and poetical in diction than that of Dr. Coles; while Lord Lindsay's translations, however excellent in some respects, fails to reproduce the metre of the original."

The Stabat Mater, universally regarded the most pathetic of hymns, was written in the latter part of the Thirteenth Century. Its author belonged to a noble Italian family (the house of Benedette), and began life as a jurist. Severe affliction, however, plunged him in gloom, and forsaking the world he joined the Order of Saint Francis. He is known in literature as Jacobus de Benedictis. He composed many "Spiritual Hymns," among which the one here given is most famous, being only second to the incomparable Dies Irae of Thomas de Celano.

THE STABAT MATER. (Latin.)

I.

Stabat Mater dolorosa,
Juxta crucem lacrymosa,
Dum pendebat filius.
Cujus animam gementem,
Contristatam et dolentem,
Pertransivit gladius.

II.

O quam tristis et afflicta,
Fuit illa benedicta
Mater unigeniti!
Quae moerebat et dolebat,
Pia mater, dum videbat
Nati poenas inclyti.

III.

Quis est homo qui non fleret,
Christi matrem si videret
In tanto supplicio?
Quis posset non contristari
Piam matrem contemplari
Dolentem cum filio?

IV.

Pro peccatis suae gentis,
Vidit Jesum, in tormentis,
Et flagellis subditum.
Vidit suum dulcem natum,
Morientem, desolatum,
Dum emisit spiritum.

V.

Eia mater, fons amoris,
Me sentire vim doloris
Fac, ut tecum lugeam.
Fac ut ardeat cor meum,
In amando Christum Deum
Ut illi complaceam.

VI.

Sancta Mater, istud agas,
Crucifixi fige plagas
Cordi meo valide.
Tui Nati vulnerati,
Tam dignati pro me pati,
Poenas mecum divide.

VII.

Fac me vere tecum flere,
Crucifixo condolere,
Donec ego vixero.
Juxta crucem tecum stare,
Et tibi me sociare
In planctu desidero.

VIII.

Virgo virginum praeclara,
Mihi jam non sis amara;
Fac me tecum plangere.
Fac ut portem Christi mortem
Passionis fac consortem,
Et plagas recolere.

IX.

Fac me plagis vulnerari,
Fac me cruce inebriari,
Et cruore nati.
Inflammatus et accensus,
Per te, Virgo, sim defensus,
In die judicii.

X.

Fac me cruce custodiri,
Morte Christi praemuniri,
Confoveri gratia.
Quando corpus morietur,
Fac ut animae donetur
Paradisi gloria.

THE STABAT MATER. (Translation.)

I.

Near the cross with tears of anguish,
Where her son was stretched to languish,
Stood the mother whelmed in woe.
Through her own soul, also, wailing,
Pangs of sorest grief assailing,
Did the sword, alas! now go.

II.

Oh! how sorrowful, heart-broken,
She who Blessed once was spoken,
Who the One-begotten bore!
Oh! what agonies did rend her,
While such stripes that mother tender
Saw her glorious son endure!

III.

Who, no tear for pity falling,
In her sorrow so appalling
Christ's dear mother could behold?
Who could see that mother sharing
All of the dear son was bearing,
Nor partake her grief untold?

IV.

Torments vile she saw inflicted,
Jesus to the scourge subjected,
Punished in his people's stead.
Him, by mortal pangs o'ertaken,
Her sweet son, she saw forsaken,
Till, dismissed, his spirit fled.

V.

Mother, fount of love, oppress me
With the sorrow of distress thee,
That my grief as thine may be.
Grant it, that my heart all burning,
Love to Christ divine returning,
He well-pleased may look on me.

VI.

Holy mother, I would have thee
Set the bloody marks of Calvary
Fadeless ever in my heart.
Of thy wounded son's affliction,
Guiltless borne for my protection,
Grant that I may bear a part.

VII.

While I live, O fix my station
With thee in thy desolation.
Suffering with the Crucified.
Near the cross with thee remaining,
Partner of thy sad complaining,
Let me evermore abide.

VIII.

Virgin, virgins all excelling,
View me not with frown repelling,
Let me mourn with thee with thine.
Death of Christ—O let me bear it!
His dread passion—let me share it!
Ope his wounds afresh in me.

IX.

Wound me with the wounds that tore him,
Let me from the cross that bore him,
Deeply drink the crimson tide.
Thus inflamed with zeal consuming,
To the day of judgment coming,
Shield me, Virgin, by thy side.

X.

By the guardian cross attended,
By the death of Christ defended,
Nourish me with grace divine.
And when flesh at last shall fail me,
May thy favor still avail me,
Glory, Paradise, be mine.

LITIGATION MAY FOLLOW REFUSAL TO PAY DUES

ANOTHER POINT RAISED IN THE A. O. U. W. CONTROVERSARY.

In connection with the current rumor that some of the members of the Ancient Order of United Workmen would refuse to pay the extra assessment as provided by the recent action of the Grand Lodge at its session held in Atlantic City, whereby an emergency fund is to be established, an officers of the organization said today:

"If any member refuses to pay the assessment it would be a matter for serious consideration and as to whether he would be entitled to sick or death benefits. It would probably lead to litigation, as the amendment adopted by the Grand Lodge is now one of the laws of the order and must be sustained until set aside by the persons who have authority to do so. Such action would complicate matters more than ever, and besides the Grand Lodge would be compelled to turn its relief fund over to the Supreme Lodge, and there is now no provision made for paying it back to help the local lodges in meeting their sick or death claims."

It is expected that some of the Grand Lodge officers will attend the conference of Workmen to be held at the law offices of William Newcorn,

OSHKOSH WILL BE A BIGGER SHOW THAN EVER

HEAVY MOUNTINGS AND NEW ACTS TO MAKE IT BRILLIANT.

If the Oshkosh show, which will appear for its second year at the Casino May 11 and 12, had a press agent, the newspaper offices would be jammed. Effects there are more good things to write about in the show than three good press agents could handle in a month.

Big and well staged af was the show last year, it will be far livelier and more brilliant in staging this season. Electrical effects are to be largely used.

The scenes will be laid in New York. Centers of interest known all over the country will be pictured, some of the settings being Chinatown, Bronx Park Zoo and Central Park.

New and fancy dancing steps will mark some of the acts. At a long rehearsal last night, a professional dancing master from New York directed the steppers. The rehearsal lasted until after midnight.

The advance sale of seats has begun already with a rush. Indications point to a complete sell-out before the show night arrives. Tickets are on sale at Armstrong's drug store.

FANWOOD BOY'S CAREER

John Cort, Born in Plainfield's Suburb, Now "Klaw & Erlinger of the West."

HERE ON A VISIT

Came East to Watch His Production, "The Strength of the Weak," at Local Playhouse Last Night.

In connection with the presentation of "The Strength of the Weak" at the New Plainfield theatre Monday night, Plainfield received a visit from one of the most influential theatrical managers in the country whose boyhood was spent in this vicinity. The individual is John Cort, owner of the show and known in standeon as "The Klaw & Erlanger of the West." He was born at Fanwood forty years ago but went west soon after attaining his majority and entered the theatrical field, in which he has met with phenomenal success.

Mr. Cort and his firm control sixty theatres west of Denver, Col., and have a dozen or more productions on the road, all high class attractions. Miss Florence Roberts, who in private life is Mrs. Lewis Morrison, of "Faust" fame, was added to his staff of stars five years ago and she has since been touring the Pacific coast cities where she is a great favorite. It was Mr. Cort's wish to introduce her on Broadway and an eastern tour was accordingly arranged.

The "Strength of the Weak" company came directly from Seattle, Wash., to Plainfield, the stop here being made to break the rest. This city is held by Mr. Cort because of old associations and though the production did not draw a large house, he was greatly pleased with the audience cordial reception of Miss Roberts and the treatment accorded him at the New Plainfield. He is an old friend of Manager Counihan, they having had business relations in the west for several years, and the two exchanged cordial greetings. The design of the local house attracted his business acumen and he spoke highly of the splendid acoustic properties and the general design. He also secured a set of the plans he used in connections with new theatres he has planned to add to his circuit.

As for the play in which Miss Roberts is being starred it may be said that no drama appearing in Plainfield this season made a more favorable impression. It is in four acts, all replete with strong dramatic situations and set with heavy scenic effects, each one marking the other by contrast of general design and color scheme. Miss Roberts' acting is the acme of naturalness and she has a distinctive charm that will last, perhaps, long after the play is forgotten. Her support included several of the best known artists in the east, among them Miss Ruth Allen, who also won favor; Max Figman, the well known comedian; Tyrone Power, late of "The Redskin" company; Lucile York and Adelaide Manola.

RECEPTION TO EVANGELISTS.

Farewell Affairs at the Christian Church.

The revival at the Christian church, which has been in progress for six weeks, closed Sunday night and a farewell concert and reception was given Monday night.

The programme included: Vocal and violin solos given by Mr. Sturges, solos by Mrs. John Manley and Rev. Phil Parsons, a duet by Mr. Sturges and Mr. Parsons, and a male quartette consisting of Messrs. Spiegel, Martin, Sturgis and Parsons, readings by Miss May Smith and Miss Helen Woolley were greatly enjoyed. Mrs. Sturgis rendered several vocal and instrumental numbers.

Light refreshments were served after the programme.

Mr. and Mrs. Spiegel and Mr. Sturgis have greatly endeared themselves to the members and friends of the church and many regrets were expressed at their departure.

Miss Marguerite Palmiter Will Sing.

Miss Jessie Utter, who has charge of the arrangements for the eleventh annual musicale to be held at the Seventh-Day Baptist church on Tuesday night, April 24, under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor Society, has secured Miss Marguerite Palmiter, of Westerly, R. I., as the soprano soloist. She has studied abroad and has appeared in several well known operas with marked success. In addition to Miss Palmiter there will be selections by a double quartette of women's voices, concert movement for organ and two pianos and on stringed instruments. Admission to the musicale will be by card of invitation.

Entertains at Heart Party.

Miss Helen R. Hassell, of West Seventh street, gave a heart party at her home Monday afternoon to a company of forty young people, including a number from New York and Jersey City, as well as this city. At the conclusion of the play prizes were presented to Miss Halfey, of Jersey City; Miss Godwin, of Netherwood; Miss May Murray and Miss Titus, the last named receiving the consolation prize. Refreshments were served afterward.

Miss Ruth Maxson, of West Seventh street, who has been critically ill, is now able to be about the house.

BURNED BY GASOLINE

Ignition of Fumes May Permanently Disfigure "Jack" Hall, Timbo Employe.

FACE BADLY SCARED

Accident Followed Emptying of Tank on Hoyt & Wolston's Bay Machine.

In an explosion of gasolene which occurred in Hoyt & Woolston's automobile shed, back of their store on North avenue, Monday afternoon, "Jack" Hall, the popular attache at Timbo's restaurant, received burns which will confine him to the house for many weeks and may result in disfigurement for life. A sheet of flame that enclosed him, seared his face and head, removing nearly all the hair; withered his eyebrows and lashes and stripped the skin from his neck, chest and arms. He was quickly removed in a cab to Dr. Dundon's office and after treatment was ordered to the hospital, but he insisted on going to his home on East Front street. He was reported today as resting easily but in great pain.

The automobile shed is also in the rear of Timbo's place and Marcus Hoyt invited Hall to take a ride. The former had just finished cleaning his big Rambler machine and gasolene which he had left in the tank had collected across the cement floor and into drain in the center. There was not very much of it but the fumes were sufficient to spread pretty much through the structure. As Hall came in the place, he lighted a cigarette, forgetting nothing about the gasolen ethrew the lighted match toward the drain.

The fumes ignited in an instant and Hall received the full force of the flame in his face and upward. He staggered to the open air but when he emerged he found that his eyes had not been injured in the least and he ran to Timbo's kitchen, calling for hot water. The chef, not knowing what was the matter, put it to him and Hall plunged his head and arsm in it, only aggravating the burns. As soon as his plight was realized cooling lotions were applied and he was hurried to the physician.

A peculiar part of the accident is the fact that though Hoyt was but four or five feet from Hall, he escaped injury entirely. He was evidently at a point where the fumes had not come in great volume. Figured the accident to George Vochi's automobile a short time ago and though Charles Woolston was badly cut and burned by the exhaust pan, the former emerged from the upturned machine without a scratch.

Hall is one of the most popular young men in the city and expressions of sympathy have poured in from all sides. He is a member of the Gold Medal minstrel aggregation and will have appeared with the troupe at New Market Tuesday night.

GUN CLUB WILL HOLD BIG SHOOT NEXT WEEK

FIRST EVENT OF THE YEAR—CRACK SHOTS WILL EXHIBIT.

This city will be the Mecca for well known professional shooters in this section next Tuesday. On that day the Plainfield Gun Club will hold a big shoot on its ground, East Second street. It will be the first shoot of the year, and arrangements have been made to start the new season, through the coming shoot, in a way that will add activity and interest to the club and the sport in general for the rest of the year.

Clubs all about this vicinity have been invited to take part in the shoot, and a big attendance of ambitious and capable amateurs are expected. The prize will go to the amateur shooters, and none of those who shoot outside of the professional ranks need hesitate to enter for fear some professional mug-hunter will be up against him all the way.

The professionals will appear merely as exhibition shootres. Shooting as such, they will serve as great drawing card. They ought to, because some of the cleverest marksmen in the country are among those who have already signified their intention of taking part. The list of cracks who will smash the blue rocks includes Apgar, Elliott, Heere, Waters, Fanning, Glover, Snyder, Nichols, Keller, Jr., Butler and Wells.

Ten events are on the card, with a full line of prizes. Two of the events will carry merchandise prizes; the others will be sweepstakes.

Dr. F. T. Clawson to Wed.

Invitations have been issued by Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Woodcock, of 673 West Seventh street, to the marriage of their daughter, Miss Marion Woodcock, and Dr. Frank T. Clawson, also of West Seventh street. The affair will be celebrated at the home of the bride on Thursday night, May 3, and Rev. Charles L. Goodrich, pastor of the bride, will perform the ceremony.

The Misses Shreve, of Grove street, have gone to Philadelphia to spend Easter week with friends.

EASTERTIDE MASQUERADE

First Post Lenten Society Affair Is Gay and Successful.

THEY UNMASK EARLY

Some Striking Costumes on the Floor —Several Dinners Precede the Dance—Supper at Midnight.

Gay music and gayer costumes, laughter, light and flowers, at the Casino Monday night marked local ciety's ending of Lenten retirement. From the Via Dolorosa and the simple life, the Country club set threw itself into the mazes of Terpsichore. The latter had something to do with religion herself, and she beamed a cordial welcome on the pleasure-seekers who had eschewed her pleasures for forty nights in deference to the Church.

Which means that the subscription masquerade dance, first important affair of the Easter season, was a great success. It was not as large as some of the casino dances have been, but it lacked nothing of the enjoyable sess, the color and the animation expected of it.

Between 140 and 150 dancers were on the ballroom floor, and eighty or more of them were in costume. The costumes ranged from all the usual ladies' dominos, from Colonial to wild and woolly Western and the baggy motley of Pierrot. The music was excellent.

The dance was more simply conducted than others of this kind have been. There was no march, and the dancers unmasked at 11.30. A delightful supper, catered by the casino restaurant, was served at midnight.

The committee was made up of Lewis G. Timpson, Dr. F. C. Ard, Thomas R. Van Boskerck and Owen H. Fleming. The patronesses were Mrs. John B. Dumont, Mrs. Chapman Fisk, Mrs. Howard Fleming, Mrs. Orville T. Waring, Mrs. Joseph W. Reinhart, Mrs. Henry McGee and Mrs. J. Edgar Cortles.

Some of the striking costumes:

Dr. F. C. Ard, Pierrrot; Dr. Norman Probasco, Chinaman; Owen Fleming, cowboy; O. G. Waring, Colonial; Elston M. French, domino; William Bull, Robin Hood; James D. Middledith, domino; Miss Waring, Colonial; Thomas Van Boskerck, clown, "The biggest ever," said one o f his admiring friends; Miss Mary Fleming, Watteau; Miss Otterson, Pierrette; Miss Martin, Colonial; Miss Titus, summer girl; Miss Burt, summer girl; Mrs. George A. Beaton, Bo-Peep; Miss Beaton, Spanish girl; Mrs. E. W. T. Maxwell, Nigita; Miss Bushnell, French maid; Willard Wadsworth, Dark Secret; Augustus R. Fisk, bachelor, in pink.

A number of dinner parties preceded the dance.

STATE COMMANDERY.

COLORED, MEETS HERE.

At Annual Election Wm. Jones Is Chosen Grand Commander of the State.

The annual conclave of the Grand Commandery, K. T., colored, of New Jersey, was held in the rooms of Cypress Commandery, this city, last Monday. The most important business was the election of officers: These were chosen:

Grand Commander, William Jones, Plainfield; deputy grand commander, William Noble, Trenton; generalissimo, Arthur Venable, Plainfield; captain general, William Scott, Newark; prelate, Edward Robinson, Newark; treasurer, William Douglass, Plainfield; grand recorder, Nathan J. Williams, Fair Haven; grand senior warden, Edward Johnson; grand junior warden, Wm. Randolph, Plainfield; grand warder, Nelson Batts, Plainfield; standard bearer, Charles Irby, Plainfield; sword bearer, Frank Jones, Trenton; inner guard, Joseph Dunham, Plainfield; outer guard, William Brown, Trenton; associate outer guard, Joseph Derry, Westfield.

Twenty-eight representatives attended the conclave and after the transaction of business Cypress Commandery entertained the visitors at a banquet.

DR. BUCHANAN PRESIDENT.

Chosen Head of Somerset Medical Society.

At the recent meeting of the Somerset County Medical Society Dr. Braden Kyle, of Philadelphia, read a paper on "Diseases of the Tonsils." A general discussion followed. The following officers were elected: President, J. H. Buchanan, North Plainfield; vice president, J. B. Beekman, Pluckemin; secretary, W. H. Long, Jr., Somerville; reporter, C. R. P. Fisher, Bound Brook; treasurer, T. H. Flynn, Somerville; censor, A. L. Stillwell, Somerville; delegate to State Society, F. B. Landt, Harlingen. The visitors were Dr. F. C. Ard, Plainfield; Dr. Clark and Dr. Ward, of Trenton.

At the banquet, which was a [illegible] affair, covers were laid for twenty.

Harry and Albert Rines, the singing evangelists who conducted services for the Y. M. C. A. last week, left for Binghamton, N. Y., their home, yesterday, to spend a week.

GERMANS' MUSIC FEAST

Eight Singing Societies From Various Cities Compete For the Trophy.

NEWARK THE WINNER

Arion Club Makes Best Showing—Dancing Follows the Contest —Saengerbund Thronged.

Vocal music of the sort that is seldom heard in this city, delighted a gathering that filled Saengerbund hall to the doors, Monday, when the Gesang and Turn Verein gave its annual Easter musical and dance, in a programme of interesting numbers, singing societies from various parts of the state competed for a prize and their efforts to combine harmony and quality were rewarded with outbursts of applause. The Arion club, of Newark, with eighteen men, was declared the winner and was awarded a handsome statue of Schiller. This organization gave two selections, "Mutterspracher" and "Sandmaenchen," both of which were remarkable for sweetness of tone.

Among the other societies which took part were the famous Concordia of Carlstadt, numbering twenty-five, which won the state trophy at Trenton recently; the Phoenix society, of Newark, twenty men; The Aurora, of New Brunswick, twenty men; The Eintracht, of New Brunswick, fifty men; the Maennechor, of Elizabeth, twelve men, and the Leiderkranz, of Jersey City, which brought home the prize-winning double quartette. The individual solos were given by Herman Eichorn, of Elizabeth, the possessor of a splendid tenor voice, and Edward Johannisman, of Carlstadt, also a tenor. The Plainfield Gesang and Turn Verein singing section proved its right to be listed among the best in the state and the audience was not satisfied with the allotted two numbers but called for more. In the end the competitors united in the grand chorus. The programme in detail as rendered in charge of Henry Haurand was as follows:

Overture, Prof. B. A. Paroubek's orchestra; (a) Der Schicker, Plainfield Gesang and Turn Verein; bass solo, Was Hasset Du, Carl Dressell; Weinrise, Zollner, Aurora, New Brunswick; baritone solo, Fluestere Linde, Kreutzer; J. Franckfurter, Arion society, Newark; (a) Elnkhr, by Mel Mutter Han ist Ni, Concordia, Carlstadt; tenor solo, selection from Der Meistersinger, Prof. H. Eickhorn, Elizabeth; (a) Muttersprache, (b) Sandmannchen, C. Hoin, Arion society, Newark; tenor solo, an Rhein Beim Wein Schubert, Edward Johanimann, Carlstadt; violin solo, Phanthasien, B. A. Paroubek, accompanied by Herbert Harold; Heimweh, J. Heine, Eintracht, New Brunswick; Bass Solo Preis Lied, Melsnet, Phoenix, Newark; Deutschland Auf, Spicker, Plainfield Gesang and Turn Verein; Daheim, Gounod, massed chorus.

With the closing of the programme, the floor was cleared for dancing and when Paroubek's orchestra struck up the first waltz, almost every bit of available space was taken by the devotees. Fritz Schmidt and Charles F. Meyer, Jr., acted as managers and under their guidance the dancing was kept up until an early hour this morning.

The committee of arrangements consisted of Henry Haurand, William Classen and Otto Keller.

MISS LUCY RUCKMAN'S WEDDING IS ANNOUNCED.

Now the Wife of Francis C. Pursell, of this City—Ceremony Saturday Night.

Miss Lucy Pearl Ruckman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Levi Ruckman, of 204 Plainfield avenue, and Francis C. Pursell, also of this city, were married Saturday evening by Rev. A. C. McCres, pastor of the First M. E. church. The ceremony was performed at the home of the officiating minister in Central avenue.

The couple was attended by a number of relatives who witnessed the marriage. Miss Georgianna Ruckman, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid and Frank F. Ruckman, a brother, was best man.

After the ceremony a reception and supper were held at the home of the bride's parents. Later the couple left for a ten days' trip to Niagara Falls. Upon their return they will go to housekeeping at 961 Arlington avenue, in a home presented to the bride by the groom as a wedding present.

Exempts' Relic Moved.

The silver plated Amity hose cart, the most precious relic of the Exempt Firemen's Association, has been taken from its resting place in B. A. Mumford's barn to F. W. Runyon's barn, Madison avenue. Mr. Runyon's barn is [illegible] and better adapted to [illegible] cart.

[illegible] Mat. [illegible] present occupants, [illegible] years. The firm contemplates making extensive improvements to increase its business of manufacturing silk petticoats and underwear and will employ a large number of hands.

TAYLOR KILLED HIMSELF

Former Manager of Swift & Co.'s Beef House Puts Bullet in His Brain.

IN MT. VERNON, N. Y

Ill Health Believed to Have Been the Cause—Took Charge of New Branch Ten Weeks Ago.

Herbert S. Taylor, until a year ago manager of the local branch of the Swift Beef Company, shot himself to death in a boarding house in Mt. Vernon, New York, Tuesday morning. He went to Mt. Vernon ten weeks ago to take charge of a new branch of the Swift Company. Ill health is believed to have led to the act.

Word of the suicide came to this city in a telephone message to R. I. Tolles, manager of the Armour house, from the New York office of the Swift company.

Taylor roomed with a clerk at the beef house, in a residence opposite the branch. When his roommate got up to 6 Tuesday morning, Taylor told him he intended to lie a while longer. He complained of a bad night's rest, but did not seem to be unusually depressed. The clerk dressed and left him lying quietly on his bed. A few minutes later from the office of the beef house across the street, the clerk heard a pistol shot from the window of his room. When he reached the house, Taylor was breathing his last with a bullet hole through his temple.

The suicide left two letters, one to his roommate and the other to a Capt. Nicholson, his brother-in-law, who lives in Massachusetts. With the latter note he left a packet of money, papers and trinkets. The letter to the clerk gave no cause for the suicide; the other letter was not opened.

None of those associated with him in the beef house had any idea why Taylor shot himself Tuesday, but they said he had complained of poor health ever since he came to the branch and his friends here believe that the cause lay there. His wife died here two years ago, and it is not improbable that grief over her loss contributed something to the gloom of mind that killed his desire to live.

Taylor lived here ten years, in charge of the Swift branch all that time. He left the Swift company's employ a year ago to go with another corporation in Philadelphia. He came back here on a visit, shortly after he took charge of the Mt. Vernon branch.

He belonged to the Elks' lodge here, and a query as to the disposition of his body was made over-night. Arrangements for the disposition of the body had been made up to noon.

MR. WHIDDEN CHOICE FOR GRAND COMMANDER.

Trenton Man Will No Doubt Be Chosen as Leading Officer.

Elaborate preparations are being made for the annual meeting of the Grand Commandery, Knights of Malta of New Jersey, which meets in Trenton Wednesday, May 2. The most important matter to be brought before the convention is the election of a grand commander to succeed Right Eminent Sir Jacob Kirkner, of this city.

This officer is usually elected by the votes from the eight commanderies in the state before the annual meeting. This year there were four candidates and they all failed to get a majority. Consequently this yeaves the matter in the hands of the grand commendery. George W. Whidden, of Trenton has been named as a candidate and his friends will endeavor to secure him the office, although Mr. Whidden, it is believed, will not be able to fight the competition himself because of a recent serious illness.

The order in this state publishes a paper quarterly and the convention will decide whether this is to be continued or discontinued. There are a number of unimportant matters to be brought up. About 60 delegates from all parts of the state will attend.

GRAND COMMANDER INSTALLS NEW OFFICERS.

Right Eminent Sir Kirkner Officiates at Trinity Commandery Ceremony.

Right Eminent Sir Jacob Kirkner, of this city, Grand Commander of the State of New Jersey, assisted by Sir Knight Henry Woodland, installed the officers of Trinity Commandery, No. 17, K. T., Monday as follows:

Eminent commander, Robert Rushmore; generalissimo, George Kirkner; captain general, W. A. Pinto; senior warden, Clarence Goss; junior warden, J. E. Hatfield; prelate, B. Frank Corfell; treasurer, Calvin H. Rugg; recorder, Charles Hall; standard bearer, Charles A. Sturtevant; sword bearer, Ralph T. Willis; warder, S. H. Craig.

After the installation the sir knights were entertained by a couple of professionals from New York, who gave a number of musical selections, his was followed by a smoker and general good time.

NEW JERSEY'S AUTO LAW

Provisions of the Statute Which Will Become Effective on July 1.

OLD LICENSES EXPIRE

Entries to Close Tomorrow for Big Bench Tournament at Atlantic City.

As the Freilnghuysen bill has been signed by Governor Stokes and will be a law in New Jersey after July 1, motorists are very much interested in its provisions. It has been amended so often since its introduction that some uncertainty exists as to just what is required by it. Succinctly stated, the new law provides:

Automobiles must be equipped with signal trumpet, two white lights in front, and one red light in the rear.

Licensed numbers at least one inch high on front lights.

Two brakes on cars of more than ten horsepower.

Tire chains prohibited except when one inch of snow or ice covers other road surfaces.

There is to be a new automobile department with the assistant secretary of state as chief commissioner at $1,500 a year. This commissioner has authority to revoke licenses and to renew them at his pleasure.

Applicants for licenses must not be less than sixteen years of age, and must pass an examination.

All motor inspectors, seven in number, are given the power to arrest without warrant, provided they wear their badge of office conspicuously.

Cars must bear only the numbers of the New Jersey license, both front and rear, as at present.

Motor vehicles at less than 30-horsepower are to be licensed at $5 a year. Those of more than 30-horsepower are to be licensed at $15 a year. Where hyphenated horsepower is given the greater horsepower is recognized.

Transfers of automobiles make licenses void, but the license may be validated upon payment of the fee of $1. Motor cycles must be registered in the same way at $1 each.

Manufacturers' and dealers' licenses good for five cars, may be obtained for $20, in which case, the letter M must be displayed on the license number tags.

Chauffeurs are license for $1 per year for cars of less than 20 horsepower, and $2 a year for cars of greater horsepower.

Registration numbers must be kept clean and free from dust or grease, and must be not less than four inches high.

In case of an accident, the automobilist must stop and give his name and address, and the names and addresses of each male occupant of his car.

Speed is limited to one mile in seven minutes on curves, one mile in four minutes at crossings in the open country, one mile in five minutes at crossings in cities, one mile in four minutes within 200 feet of horse, and twenty miles an hour in other places. Automobilists must step for horses at the request of the latter so request with the uplifted hand.

Motor vehicles may be accepted as bonds. Defendants may appeal from the rule of magistrate by giving a bond not exceeding $500, such an appeal to constitute a stay.

Arrests may be made without warrant.

Penalties include a fine of not more than $100 for failure to properly register or display numbers, failure to pay which means ten days' imprisonment. Other penalties are provided for a second offense. Fines or imprisonment are also provided for failure to give information and address when required, for failure to make a serviced registration with the secretary of state, and for driving on a wager. All old licenses are void *after July 1, when the new act be*comes operative. All moneys derived from the license fees shall be used for road improvement except $3,000 that may be expended for the erection of guide posts, warnings, etc.

TO REPEAT EASTER MUSIC.

Elaborate Programme at St. Mary's Church Next Sunday.

On account of the rainy weather, one of the prettiest features of the Easter service at St. Mary's R. C. church, the march of the children in the processional, was left out Sunday. The congregation will have an opportunity to see it next Sunday, however, when the service is repeated.

The children march into the church from the outside, dressed in white and garlanded with flowers, and Father Hogan did not deem it right to risk their health in the damp. Next Sunday, the whole elaborate service will be repeated, number for number, and if the weather does not again interfere, the children's processional will be one of the striking features of the repetition.

Fred Hankinson, of Newark, was visiting his aunt, Mrs. L. C. Phoebus, of Plainfield avenue Easter Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Garrett Dreier, of New Brunswick, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Harry Dreier, of West Front street.

WHAT COLBY MOVE DID

Fight Will Go Right on Until September Primaries.

BATTLES LOOKED FOR

Machine's Sidetracking of Reform Party's Bills Generally Understood—Talk Through the State.

There will be no interregnum in Jersey politics this year. Nobody in the business will get a vacation. The contest that resulted in the reform victory in the legislative session just closed goes right on. In almost every county there will be a battle from now until the primaries are held, in September, and from the primaries until elemtion. The man who stops to dream or idle will soon find himself out of the ranks.

There is only one opinion regarding the recent session. Had it not been for the Colby movement there would have been no equal taxation, limited franchise, maximum tax, municipal ownership or anti-corporation acts of any kind. That is admitted by the oldtime regulars as well as by the people. Only a few backwoods bigots refuse to recognize the purport of recent events. This can be stated without in the least reflecting upon the men who came in and helped the fight. Edward C. Stokes and Frank O. Briggs, and especially the latter, accomplished wonders when they went to work, but they would not have gone to work on the current lines had it not been for what is termed the Colby movement. They would have been no such message as the Governor issued. There would have been no corporation defeat. There would have been no Perkins act had there been no Colby last fall and no Colby and Fagan sweep in Essex and Hudson.

This all goes without argument. The public understand it in North Jersey, and the public will understand it all over the state before summer is over. The reform campaign has really been in progress all through the session. Quiet meetings have been held in half a dozen counties, and organizations have been effected for the advancement of reform and the downfall of bossism. Now that the legislature has adjourned, active and unceasing canvassing will begin. Men formerly identified with the machine are leaving the organization and joining the 'progressive Republicans," as they be called.

Runon, of Union, and Fordyce, in Middlesex, are the latest adherents, and they promise to shake things up in great shape. Gradually the intelligent and representative newspapers in the county districts are leaving the old parties and coming into the liberal lines. One of the most prominent, and decidedly one of the ablest, rural weeklies in the state is expected to come out against the county machine and for the Colby movement in less than a month. The letters received constantly by Colby, Martin, Sheriff Sommer of Essex, and Fagan, of Hudson, indicate how rapidly yet quietly the people are grasping the trend of affairs.

Of course there will be many pitched battle and some setbacks for the reformers. Really the machine surrendered weeks ago, but the surrender was a shrewd one. The machine played the old but often effective game of asserting that all the great measures were its own. While Colby and Martin introduced about all of the measures whose principles were cut, the machine sidetracked them all in committee or on the floor, and then an organization man promptly introduced almost the identical bill and had it named after himself.

Hillery was substituted for Colby in the Senate and Perkins for Martin in the House. It all became transparable, and the public is not deceived.

So far as the House was concerned, Martin became the real leader before the first month had passed. He stood so far above his fellows that the organization had all it could do to keep its men in line. It can be said with a good deal of truth that had the session lasted another month the machine would have lost control of the House. Nothing proved it more conclusively than the bitterness displayed by the machinites in the last week. Not being able to answer Martin, Morgan, Miller and others of the reform side, they resorted to ridicule of a stale kind and to abuse that almost bordered on the disgraceful.

These unpleasant episodes aside, the session was really the best in results for years. Probably the greatest victory was in the defeat of the great corporations. Bill after bill was passed which was opposed to the best of their power by the corporations, the trolley companies, the water companies, the traction combination and all the large organizations went down, one after another. They fought hard, and they had a lobby here, despite the anti-lobby sentiment. But it was useless. With one exception, there was not even an intimation of bribery or attempted bribery. It was the cleanest session for years.—New York Tribune.

Rev. C. E. Herring, of the First Presbyterian church, has been detained at his home by illness.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

VOL. XXXVIII. PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, APRIL 26, 1906 NO 17.

"Support the Constitution, which is the Cement of the Union, as well in its Limitations as in its Authorities."—Madison.

FIRST $1,000 FOR SAN FRANCISCO RELIEF WAS WIRED TO MAYOR SCHMITZ YESTERDAY

In the name of the donors, the first $1,000 in the relief fund for the stricken people of San Francisco was wired to Mayor Schmitz yesterday afternoon. That amount is now in the hands of the citizens' committee at the Golden Gate and will be disbursed as is seen fit.

The fund was transmitted through the generosity of the Plainfield Trust Company, which has also promised to remit the remainder of the fund without charge. As they are received at The Daily Press office, all contributions are promptly deposited with the trust company, which volunteered as soon as it learned that this paper had started a subscription list to send its collections to California.

Following is a notice of the trust company of having transmitted the first $1,000:

"THE PLAINFIELD TRUST COMPANY,
"Plainfield, New Jersey
"April 24, 1906.

"Editor The Daily Press.

"We beg to advise that we have this day deposited with the Sub-Treasurer of the United States at New York, one thousand dollars ($1,000), stating that the amount was received from The Daily Press of Plainfield on account of subscriptions for this fund made by the Citizens of Plainfield and North Plainfield, N. J. It was agreed that this sum would be immediately wired to the Mayor of San Francisco for the use of the Relief Committee of which he is chairman.

"Very truly yours,
"J. H. CASE,
"Treasurer."

FIVE WITNESSES HELD

Prosecutor Has Men Connected with Fusco Killing Committed.

ONE GETS $500 BAIL

Slain Man To Be Buried This Afternoon, But No One Knows Where—His Brother Doesn't Care.

The body of Paolo Fusco, who was shot to death by Francesco Cerbo on Cottage place Monday morning, will be buried this afternoon. Nobody knows where. A brother, Luigi Fusco, is held by the police as a witness, and he doesn't seem to be concerned over the disposition of the remains anyway. Apparently, Fusco has no other relatives on this side of the water, and he will most likely be interred in the Potter's field.

All the witnesses, five in number, have been held under bail. Italian witnesses in murder or manslaughter cases have a habit of hiding from the authorities when they are wanted, and the prosecutor instructed Chief Kiely to have all the men concerned in the crime detained under arrest. He asked that they be put under $500 bail, and Justice Mosher acted accordingly yesterday afternoon.

John Falconi, who was nailed as a witness after he had tried to lit out of connection with the case, was the only one of the quintet who succeeded in securing a bondsman. The others, Vincenzo Zambella, Luigi Fusco, Lorenzo Parmiero and Salvatore Bolamonte, were committed in default of bail. The latter is a new witness, run down yesterday afternoon. He corroborated the story told by the others.

The police are curious to solve one little mystery in connection with the case. When the officers went into the room where the shooting occurred they found a greasy and much-used pack of cards scattered over the table and about the floor, but the witnesses all swear that they were not playing cards. It is believed that they were engaged in some gambling game, but are afraid to acknowledge it for fear they will suffer under the anti-gambling ordinance.

ONE-ARMED HOBO.

Arrested by Patrolman Overbaugh—Some One-armed Road Humor.

Frank Grady, one-armed and homeless, was picked up on Park avenue yesterday afternoon by Patrolman Overbaugh, for vagrancy. He was released under suspended sentence this morning by Judge Runyon, on his promise to get out of town.

Grady is something of a humorist. "I am not such a bad chap," he said deprecatingly as he was arraigned. "I'm only half as bad a panhandler as most of the ducks on the road because I only got one hook to graft with."

To Talk on Oppenheimer Cure.

Mrs. Isabelle Charles Davis, who was formerly identified with the King's Daughters, and who is now a representative for the Oppenheimer cure, will speak at Warren chapel tonight under the auspices of the Mission and Sociology. It is urged that all men attend.

Removal.

Fred Ivamy's seafood market removed today from 232 West Second street to 126 West Second street, near theatre. Everything new. Finest market in the State. Cleanliness a specialty. Telephone numbers remain the same.

MISS MARSH BRIDE OF MR. HOLLINGSWORTH

WEDDING OF PROMINENT COUPLE IN SCOTCH PLAINS YESTERDAY.

Miss Josephine Myer Marsh, daughter of Mrs. Margaret Marsh, and Albert Darby Hollingsworth, son of Loftus Hollingsworth, both residents of Scotch Plains, were married at the home of the former's mother in that place at 4.30 yesterday afternoon. Rev. James Hoffman, of Drew Theological Seminary, performed the ceremony which was witnessed only by relatives and a few intimate friends, numbering fifty in all.

The bride was attended by Miss M. Florence Nichol, of Scotch Plains, and was given away by her cousin, William Ferris Hueston, of this city. She was gowned in white Brussells net over silk and carried a shower bouquet of roses. Miss Nichol's gown was of pink de'esprit over pink silk; she carried pink roses. Samuel Hollingsworth, brother of the groom, acted as best man and Miss Marion Goodwin played the Lohengrin wedding march. While the vows were plighted, the young couple stood beneath a large arch of palms and flowers arranged in the parlor.

Following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Hollingsworth received congratulations and a collation was served after which they left for a two weeks' trip, the destination of which has not been revealed. At its conclusion they will make their home for a short time at Detroit where the groom holds a lucrative position in the government civil engineering service. They received numerous presents, among them a chest of solid silver.

When Mr. and Mrs. Hollingsworth first started on their journey from the house, they used a coach but abandoned this after going toward Fanwood for an automobile. They then went to Summit to catch a train, followed all the way by another machine bearing friends. They missed the train and then went to Elizabeth and afterward Westfield where they finally eluded the shadowers and boarded a train without an accompaniment of rice.

WILL PLAY FOR FUND.

New Brass Band Arranging First Concert for 'Frisco's Benefit.

The first public appearance of the recently organized brass band, under the directorship of Louis Clauss, will be for the benefit of the San Francisco sufferers. A full concert is to be held next month, and all the proceeds will be sent to the Red Cross Society.

The band is preparing hard for the concert. From twenty to twenty-five pieces will play.

The organization is now on a firm and permanent basis. Uniforms for twenty-five of the active members have been ordered and will be received tonight.

More Money for San Francisco.

In aid of the San Francisco sufferers, International Association of Machinists, local lodge No. 167, will hold a ball in Saengerbund hall Friday night. Since the machinists announced their intention of thus assisting in the movement tickets have been selling like hot cakes and judging from present indications a substantial amount will be raised for the project. The money will be forwarded through the Daily Press fund to Mayor Schmitz of the stricken city, who is a member of the machinist's union of that city. The committee in charge of the benefit is composed of Andrew McConnell, James Smith, C. Laughlin, Joseph Rutledge, Charles Becker, James O'Counell, William Delke, F. Stranzenback.

SHE IS STILL MISSING

Miss Kuenlen Traced About the County But Has Not Been Found By Police.

A PINKERTON ON TRAIL

Description of Young Woman Who Left Home Saturday and Has Not Returned—Keeping Up Search.

Although Miss Helen Kuenlen, the daughter of Mrs. Marie Kuenlen, of 912 West Front street, who suddenly disappeared from her home Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock, has been seen a number of times, at Westfield, Aldene, Roselle, El Mora and Elizabeth, those who are conducting the search have not been able to find her. The Pinkerton detective who was put on the case Monday is still following up every clue without results.

Henry Leitke, a neighbor of Mrs. Kuenlen, spent yesterday between here and Elizabeth. He was able to trace Miss Kuenlen to different places, but could get no definite knowledge as to her whereabouts.

Mr. Leitke learned among other things that Miss Kuenlen stopped at the home of a Mrs. Williams, 527

Miss Helen Kuenlen.

Westfield avenue, Elizabeth, Sunday night, at 10.20. She was seen on the porch when the family returned home from church. In reply to a question, Miss Kuenlen is alleged to have mumbled a few words unintelligibly and walked down the street. Mrs. Williams not having heard of the disappearance paid little more attention to the incident.

Marshal Kenney, of Roselle, saw Miss Kuenlen Sunday afternoon at that place. She got off a trolley car that he got on, but he had received no word of her disappearance and gave the matter no further thought until the police began to inquire about the woman. Mr. Leitke says he saw a number of persons between Westfield and Elizabeth who said they noticed such a woman as he described wandering about. He says he thinks that possibly Miss Kuenlen may have stopped at some home in a rural district and that someone may be holding her for a ransom, or else, not having heard of the disappearance may be keeping her until they learn something.

Chief of Police Kiely today had circulars, bearing the picture of Miss Kuenlen, distributed about the city and has also sent them to the police departments in various places in the State. The circular gives this description of the missing woman:

"She is well educated and intelligent; speaks German; is twenty-seven years old, five feet 7¼ inches in heighth; weighs 130 pounds; is of neat carriage. Has light complexion, brown eyes; wore tailor-made gray gown, red straw hat and No. 5 shoes." She is an accomplished musician and as artist. The missing woman had nervous troubles and had been unable to sleep for several months. It is believed that this has affected her mind and she may not be able to give her name or residence. She has many friends in New York, Brooklyn, Jersey City and Newark, and they have been informed of the disappearance and are on the lookout for her.

Grand Master Workman Expected.

Grand Master Workman F. P. Fowle, of Irvington, is expected to visit Central Lodge, A. O. U. W., on Friday night, when there will be a discussion regarding the recent action of the Grand Lodge in adopting a resolution to establish an emergency fund.

Benefit for Sufferers.

On Saturday night, May 5, the musical clubs of the Plainfield High School will give an entertainment and the proceeds will be devoted to the fund for the San Francisco sufferers. The entertainment will be given at the new High School.

Marie Blume.

Marie Blume, the two-months-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Christopher H. Blume, of Watchung, died yesterday. The funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon from the home of the parents at 2:30 o'clock.

MISS HUNTER CHOSEN P. H. S. VALEDICTORIAN

MISS WINTER IS SELECTED AS SALUTATORIAN OF CLASS OF 1906.

Following the regular exercises at the Plainfield High School today, Principal L. W. Travell announced that Miss Gertrude L. Hunter has been selected as valedictorian of the class of 1906, and Miss Elizabeth C. Winter as salutatorian.

Miss Hunter has been away from school for some time because of illness, but she returned to her studies today. Miss Hunter has been editor-in-chief of the school publication, The Oracle. She is president of the Girls' Athletic Association and captain of the girls' baseball team. She is also president of the Plainfield High School Debating Society and vice president of the class of 1906. Miss Hunter will probably enter Barnard College in the fall.

Miss Winter is the dramatizer of "Ruggles in the Rear," and "The Princess," plays which the class of 1906 have given in the sophomore and junior years, respectively. Miss Winter will also be seen in a leading part in this year's senior production, "The Nephew As Uncle," by Schiller.

CARD FROM 'QUAKE SCENE.

Mrs. William L. Smalley, Jr., Receives Message Sent by Friend.

A postal card mailed in Berkeley, Cal., an hour and a half after the great earthquake last Wednesday reached Mrs. William L. Smalley, Jr., of Somerset street, yesterday morning. It was in the first mail that came east with news of the disaster, which made a remarkably fast trip. The postal authorities had that mail rushed at top speed to bring messages to anxious ones in the east.

The card was sent by Mrs. Walter Christie, wife of the trainer at the University of California, Berkeley, who is a close friend of Mrs. Smalley. The message tells of the awful conditions that confronted the city and the surrounding towns immediately after the shock and the start of the fire.

"Berkeley is on the map and that's about all after this awful earthquake and fire," writes Mrs. Christie. "I never want to pass through such an ordeal again."

Mr. Christie was formerly trainer of the university at Princeton, where Mr. Smalley made his acquaintance.

MAYOR'S COMMITTEE HAS RAISED $1,800.

Custodian Arnold's Report Shows a Nice Increase.

City Treasurer William F. Arnold, cashier of the City National Bank, made the following report today as custodian of the mayor's committee for the relief of San Francisco:

Previously acknowledged	$1,587.00
Mrs. Samuel Milliken	50.00
Cash	100.00
F. J. Hubbard	5.00
O. T. Waring	50.00
A Friend	3.00
Hugh F. Fox	5.00
	$1,800.00

More Sprinklers to Come.

All of the city sprinkling carts are not yet in use, owing to the painting and repairs necessary to put them in condition for service. In consequence the sprinkling is not quite as satisfactory as it will be when all of the wagons are put on the streets. The Public Service Corporation has begun its work of sprinkling along its trolley lines and this is quite a help to the city, where the travel is so heavy.

Mr. Crone's Deserved Promotion.

Arthur E. Crone was appointed assistant cashier of the City National Bank this morning, at a meeting of the board of directors, as a reward for his faithful services. Mr. Crone has been with the bank since 1893. He held the position of teller.

Death of Wayne Roberts Crudup.

Wayne Roberts Crudup, aged twenty-three years, died at the home of his mother on East Third street, yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock. He had been ill a long time. The funeral will be held at Bethel chapel Friday afternoon at 2:30.

D. A. R. Head Her Guest.

Miss Ellen Mecum, of Salem, State regent of the D. A. R., was the guest of Mrs. Norman W. Currie, of Central avenue, overnight. Miss Mecum came here yesterday to attend the colonial tea of Continental Chapter, D. A. R.

Playlet and Sale.

Miss Louise Saunders and Roy Cox will appear in a short play to be given at Grace church parish house on Tuesday night, May 1, at a sale to be held under the auspices of the Women's Guild of the church.

PLEAS OF NOT GUILTY

Three Plainfield Men Arraigned in the Somerset County Court.

TRIALS ON MAY 8

Woodfield Gives $500 Bail—Richard Mattis and Louis Milligan Held to Answer Grave Offenses.

In the Somerset county criminal courts at Somerville yesterday afternoon the persons indicted by the April grand jury were arraigned before Judge Schenck.

John L. Woodfield, president of the Plainfield Tobacco Company, who is charged with fraudulently inducing endorsement of a valuable security, entered a plea of not guilty. He was released in $500 bail to await trial on May 8.

Richard Mattis, of this city, charged with a grave offense, pleaded not guilty and was held in the sum of $1,500 for trial on May 8.

John Jeroloman, charged with grave crimes, pleaded not guilty and was held in $2,500 bail for trial May 8.

Louis Milligan, of this city, Jeroloman's croney, who is charged with grave offenses, pleaded not guilty also and was held in $1,000 bail to await trial on May 8.

A large number of people were indicted for illegal selling of liquor. They will be tried about the middle of May, having in nearly each case entered pleas of not guilty.

KNOCKED DOWN BY RUNAWAY.

Louis Moraller Slightly Injured at Fourth and Liberty Streets.

Louis Moraller, head of the jewelery firm of L. Moraller & Son, of Park avenue, was knocked down by a runaway horse at Fourth and Liberty streets this morning. He was shaken and bruised but not seriously hurt.

The horse was attached to one of the delivery wagons of John Storm, a Liberty street butcher. It started from in front of a house at Spooner avenue and Fourth street, while the driver was delivering an order and ran unchecked down Fourth avenue. It turned at Liberty street, heading for its barn, and struck Mr. Moraller on the crosswalk.

The old man was carried to Malfinson's drug store on the corner, where he rested and recovered himself. Michael Virginia, a hackman, took him to his home at 671 West Fourth Street.

The horse was stopped a few feet beyond the corner.

A Fine Production Assured.

The rehearsals for the comic opera, "Patience," to be given at the Casino on Thursday night, May 3, by the Plainfield Operatic Association, are meeting with great success. William Holmes, who is directing the affair, predicts that the performance will be the best ever given here by amateurs. Much of the original scenery has been secured and the production will be given with every detail complete. On Monday night the entire scenery was rehearsed and the chorus and soloists were highly commended for their excellent work. As this is the first amateur opera company ever organized in Plainfield it should receive the hearty support of all lovers of music.

Macadamizing to Be Extended.

The street committee of the Common Council is considering the advisability of continuing the work this summer of macadamizing streets outside of the business area of the town, especially in streets where the sanitary sewer is to be extended. Plans are now underway to extend the sewer and bids will be received at the May meeting of the common Council for the work. The plans call for an extension of two miles to the sewer system. Streets will not be macadamized until this work is done.

Completing His Contract.

C. M. Meeker, who had the contract to macadamize a number of streets last year, is now engaged in putting on the finishing touches, made necessary by not completing the work before the arrival of frost last fall. These streets include Monroe avenue, Randolph road and many short streets in the West End of the city.

Will Preach Baccalaureate Sermon.

Rev. Dr. William R. Richards, pastor of the Brick Presbyterian church, New York, will deliver the Baccalaureate sermon at the New York University this year. Dr. Richards is a member of the board of directors of the university.

Freedom Castle Active.

Freedom Castle, No. 42, Knights of the Golden Eagle, conferred the third degree on two candidates, last night, after which a social time was had and refreshments were served.

CASH POURING INTO DAILY PRESS OFFICE FOR RELIEF OF SAN FRANCISCO SUFFERERS

The Fund is Now Nearly $1,500 and There is No Let-up and Mayor's Committee Has Received $1,800 to Date

THE TOTAL FOR PLAINFIELD MORE THAN $3,500

The fund being raised by The Daily Press for the relief of the San Francisco sufferers amounted to $1,475 at noon today and there is no sign of any let-up in the flood of contributions.

Custodian Arnold reports that $1,800 has been received by the the Mayor's committee. With what has been raised independently, the grand total for Plainfield is now more than $3,500. It is desired to make the aggregate sum at least $5,000.

Following are the contributions received by the Daily Press today:

Previously acknowledged	$1,390 50
Thomas McNeill	2 00
Joseph Kingston	1 00
Freedom Castle No. 42, Knights of the G. E.	10 00
William F. Moore	10 00
Friend	2 00
Poor Woman	1 00
From Employees of the Public Service Gas and Electric Co., of Plainfield	31 00
"No Name" (First M. E. church)	5 00
Garwood Presbyterian Chapel	11 50
Friend, L. W. R.	50
Samuel Montrose	25
Debele & Stahl	5 00
Anonymous (left at post office)	5 00
Miss	25
	$1,475 00

PROFESSIONALS AT GUN CLUB'S SHOOT

SOME GOOD AVERAGES MADE DESPITE HEAVY NORTH WIND.

The Plainfield Gun Club conducted an all-day shoot on its East End grounds, yesterday, drawing a good-sized crowd from this city and other places. Many of the attendants were amateurs but a number of professionals added to the importance of the occasion. Among those noted were Harry Welles, Sim Glover, Jack Nicol, "Applejack" Hoffman, "Honest" Milton and W. R. Hobart, the last named a member of the American Field staff.

There were twelve events on the card, ten sweepstakes and two merchandise. The winners of the latter and prizes were as follows: Event No. 5, first prize, shotgun case, Al. Emmons; second, razor, Matthews; third, jocket flash lamp, Brantingham; fourth, watch, Bissett; fifth, fishing line, Gavin.

In the other events, the highest professional average was made by H. S. Welles, who made 84 per cent. The highest amateur average was made by Frank Muldoon, who hails from Freehold. He got 82 6-7 per cent. There was a strong northwest wind blowing which made the shooting very difficult and 80 per cent. was considered good.

The shoot was in charge of a committee composed of Henry Vosseler, Harry Dreier, P. J. Jones, F. S. McCarthy and Elmer D. Cutting. The club extends its thanks to Drs. Hunter and Lackey for their assistance to the scorer and referee.

"On Change."

The Comedy Club will give its final play of the year at the Park Club on Friday night, May 4. The title is "On Change," and it is a German play translated from the original by Miss Erroretta Lawrence. Tickets are on sale at Armstrong's. The prices are $1.50 and $1.00. The cast follows: Mr Burnett, Charles Lyman; Prof. Peckering Peck, E. C. White; Tom, Victor McKutcheon; Joe, H. E. Loder; De Haas, Effingham A. Pinto; Tilla, Morgan Townsend; Mrs. Burnett, Mrs. E. C. White; Mrs. Peck, Miss Overton; Miss Millicent Peck, Miss Mabel Vandeventer; Iris, Miss Saunders. Alfred Young is coaching the play and he agrees with several other competent witnesses that the cast is the best brought together in Plainfield. The play itself is a ripping good comedy full of life, energy and amusing situations, and the actors have been especially picked for their parts. It is natural that "On Change" should arouse a great deal of interest and curiosity and have an enthusiastic audience.

* * *

Mayor Edwards' Brother Safe.

The Stock and Exchange Board, of San Francisco, of which Col. William Edwards, brother of Mayor Mase Edwards, is the president, which was burned out, has opened temporarily at 1,407 Gough street, the home of Col. Edwards. This would indicate that Col. Edwards and his family are safe and that his residence was not damaged.

VOORHEES FOR CONGRESS

Report That Former Governor May Be the Successor of Charles Newell Fowler.

THE RUMORS ARE RIFE

Politicians Profess to Know Nothing About Alleged Reason Why Voorhees Declined Judgship.

According to a report in Elizabeth this morning, if Voorhees becomes a candidate for Congress he will be named by the friends of John Kean. This, it is explained, would be for the purpose of putting Fowler out of politics once and for all. The former Governor, it is said, is not in good health and for that reason he declined the circuit court judgship.

Close political bunkies of Representative Charles N. Fowler profess to be unaware of any plan that has for its object the choosing of former Governor Voorhees as Mr. Fowler's successor in Congress.

The story that Mr. Voorhees had such an ambition followed close on the heels of his letter to Governor Stokes declining the Circuit Court judgship to which he had been appointed.

According to the story going about, the Fowlerites in Union county, as well as in Morris and Warren, do not feel sanguine of again landing their leader at Washington, and have been casting about for the most available man in their ranks to succeed him. Their object, it was pointed out, is not to let the berth go to friends of Senator Kean at all hazards, and, it was further reported, strong pressure has been brought to bear on the former Governor to allow his name to be used at the proper time.

Park Avenue Widening Held Up.

It is not known definitely when the work of widening Park avenue, between Second street and the railroad, will be started. Nothing can be done until the contractors on The Plainfield Trust Company building remove all obstacles from in front of this property. There has been some talk that the street committee would favor the laying of a permanent brick pavement through the widened section, but no definite action has been taken yet. This will undoubtedly be done, if not right away, and if the work is delayed the least possible expense will be put on the street in macadamizing it until a permanent pavement is laid.

"A Proposal Under Difficulties."

"A Proposal Under Difficulties," the annual junior production, will be given Saturday night in the auditorium of the new Plainfield High School. A reception will follow. The Misses Gilbert, Howard and Ferry, members of the faculty, have been coaching the pupils for the play.

Volcano Lecture.

The volcanic destruction of the city of St. Pierre will be the subject of an illustrated lecture that will be given by W. R. Brokaw under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. on Saturday evening, April 28. A silver offering will be received.

BOROUGH SEWER PLANS

Engineer Pierson Outlines Methods of Construction and the Probable Cost.

THE CITY DILATORY

Failure to Reply to Council's Letter Ancnt Using Plainfield Beds Holds Back the Investigation.

Meeting for the third time in joint session, Friday night, the Borough Council and Board of Health discussed the sewer project and received the report of Engineer George H. Pierson, who has been making the preliminary surveys. In this the probable cost was outlined and Mr. Pierson asserted that connection with Plainfield's disposal plant would be the least expensive but he had been hampered in his plans by the failure of the city to answer the borough's letter asking if the beds could be used. The communication was sent to Mayor Buckle and he in turn gave it to a committee which has it yet and is using Philadelphia methods in framing up a reply.

The engineer has gone over the ground thoroughly in the past few weeks and he has figured out four plans for the council and health board's consideration. The first details a system of sewers intended to provide for residences on streets where water pipes are laid, having the outfall terminate at a pumping station, from which the effluent can be pumped into the Plainfield beds. The second plans differs from the first only in that it calls for an independent outfall and disposal point. The third plan is in many more extensive than either of the preceding two and is intended to cover the entire area of the borough. It calls for the establishment of grades from the bases of the sewers in Plainfield, the outfall sewer being on grade to receive the sewage from Plainfield and Dunellen if required at any time. The fourth plan is one that is considered out of the question, calling for a gravity system to an outlet in the Raritan river.

In telling of the project, Mr. Pierson discussed the matter as follows:

"In contemplating this improvement we must not look at the actual requirements of North Plainfield as they now exist, but with a broader view that will include the best practical results for the future; with a system of sewers the future of North Plainfield may be looked upon with the full assurance that the advantages she possesses in the topographical lay of the land within the corporate limits and adjacent territory will be speedily appreciated, the high borough will become the best residential section, and the mountainside the estates of the wealthy.

"The location of an outfall sewer for the North Plainfield district has been provided by nature with a natural line that involves no expensive construction, and will be so situated as to be the most practicable receptacle for the sewage on both sides of Greenbrook.

"After careful study of the conditions I am recommending for your adoption the system of purification commonly known as the Bacterial system, embracing septic tanks and contact beds. Before the application of sewage to the proposed beds it is given a preparatory septic treatment, which will result in removing a substantial percentage of suspended matter. In this form of treatment the beds are laid out in units and filled with proper filtering materials, all of which are topographically united by means of which they can be aerated with great dispatch. The septic affluent is applied to the beds intermittently, a period of rest for aerating purposes being given each bed after each application, which results in an oxidation of the organic matters contained in the sewage, brought out by bacterial action.

"The first plan includes the location of a pumping station from which the effluent is pumped into the Plainfield purification beds. This station may be located at any point west of Washington avenue, and the effluent pumped into the main leading to the sewage purification plant, located on West Third street, in Plainfield proper, providing, however, that the consent of Plainfield be obtained to so deliver the effluent.

"The second plan presents a system of sewers, the outfall from which terminates in a system of sewage purification beds which may be located at any point west of the confluence of Green and Stony brooks. If the location of such plant be near the Plainfield beds it would seem that the objection would arise that if located at any other point, but from a business standpoint another location is suggested which might be more advantageous. Below the borough of Dunellen, being just as desirable so far as gradient lines are concerned, would offer a possibility of accomodating the sewage from that borough from which a certain revenue would be derived, which might be small at the start, but would gradually increase until the item would materially affect the fixed charge of your system. At either location an elevation is found which will permit of operating the plant by gravity."

Estimating the cost of construction, it was stated in the report that a system according to the first plan would cost $67,220, exclusive of real estate. The cost of a system according to the second plan, with purification beds and their equipment, less the cost of a pumping station and force main, would be $81,199. Plan No. 3 includes the general piping of the whole borough and a continuation of the outfall sewer to a point below Dunellen, embracing a total of over 19 miles, and together with the necessary purification plant and its equipment, would cost $118,498.

In concluding his report Engineer Pierson said it had only been possible for him to present it in its present state of advancement through the courtesy extended to him by way of assistance from the borough engineer and also for much valuable data that had been so cheerfully given by City Engineer Andrew J. Gavett.

Instead of presenting the ordinance authorized prepared by counsel at the last meeting, Counsel Chas. A. Reed sent a communication setting forth the process that will necessarily have to be gone through with before such an election can take place. "The matter of installing a sewerage system," the communication read, "is governed entirely by statutes and the decisions of the courts construing the meaning of such statutes. Incidental to the work is the assessment of damages and benefits to property taken or benefited and the raising of large sums of money by the issue and sale of bonds. In order that the assessments and the bonds shall be legal it is absolutely mandatory that each and every step in each and every proceeding shall be taken with the greatest care and in strict accordance with the statutes and decisions."

The communication further set forth that it would be unlawful for council to adopt any ordinance for the construction of sewers until there shall have first been presented the consent in writing that such sewers shall be constructed, signed by a majority or all of the owners of real estate in the borough. This, it is thought, would prove a hard matter.

Former Mayor William L. Saunders was an interested spectator at the session meeting and took active interest in the discussion that followed the presentation of the report. Engineer Pierson will have more to say at the next session and if possible the preliminary steps toward getting the taxpayers' opinion will be taken.

LOCAL THEATRE OFFERED FOR BENEFIT PERFORMANCE.

Manager Counihan Extends Use of the Playhouse Free of All Cost.

In addition to the money contributions that have been pouring into The Daily Press office for the San Francisco fund, other offers of aid have been made all day. One of the most generous comes from Manager Counihan, of the New Plainfield theatre, who declares his playhouse can be used without a cent of cost for any benefit performance that might be arranged. He will provide his full staff of stage hands and employes and do everything possible to promote anything in this amusement line. It is possible that someone of the local organizations will grasp the opportunity and secure local talent for an entertainment.

Plainfield Lodge, No. 167, International Association of Machinists, decided at a special meeting last night to donate the receipts from its ball to be held in Saengerbund Hall next Friday night. Every penny received above expenses will be contributed to the cause. Columbia Lodge, No. 58, A. O. U. W., will meet in Helvig Friday, appropriated $10 to be sent to the Grand Master Workman of California to be applied to the relief fund.

TESTS PATIENCE.

The Most Patient Plainfield Citizen Must Show Annoyance at Times.

Nothing spoils a good disposition,
Nothing makes a patient cross,
Like any itchiness of the skin.
Itching piles almost drive you crazy.
All day it makes you miserable,
All night it keeps you awake.
Itch! Itch! Itch! with no relief.
Just the same with eczema.
Can hardly keep from scratching it.
You would do so, but you know it makes it worse.
Such miseries are daily decreasing.
People are learning they can be cured.
Learning the merit of Doan's Ointment.
Plenty of proof that Doan's Ointment will cure piles, eczema or any itchiness of the skin.
Read the testimony of a Plainfield citizen.
Thomas Haskard, of 941 West Third street, Plainfield, N. J., says: "I was a member of Co. A, 71st Regt., N. J. Vols., under Col. Montgomery. I was in the 3 years of the Civil War and was wounded once in the leg and once in the neck. During the Rebellion I contracted itching piles and they bothered me off and on ever since. No one who has not suffered from this trouble knows what the irritation is. I tried about every salve, wash and ointment known in the hope of finding a cure but nothing helped me until I got Doan's Ointment and it took just three boxes to put me in shape so I could rest nights and cure me so that I have been entirely free from any trouble arising from piles."
For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.
Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

POLITE TO THE GIRLS

MALE STUDENTS OF YALE ON THEIR GOOD BEHAVIOR.

Manifest No Displeasure at Having to Study with Young Women—Cupid Is Not Busy at Present.

The Yale students are more polite than the Harvard students, at least that is what the co-ed of so Yale co-eds say, reports the New York Sun. Although the Yale men did not grow enthusiastic when it was announced a few years ago that Yale was going to follow the example of the Cambridge university and allow the women to study with them, at least in the graduate school, they didn't make any violent objection to the plan, and started in at once to take the change as pleasantly as possible. Now they have grown accustomed to reciting before an occasional schoolma'am or a young college alumna, and apparently they are more at ease than the young women themselves.

"The Yale men, even if they don't like us around," said one of the girl students of the graduate school, "are too polite to show it, at any rate, and in that they are one ahead of the Harvard students. They didn't like us in the class room up there, and they are not so careful to hide their preference," she laughingly added.

The young women who come here generally are interested only in their work, and are not looking for any social features incidental to college life. Thus one young woman who graduated from Mount Holyoke college in 1905 and is taking work in economics here is studying sociological problems by living at a mission hall.

There she has an opportunity to study practical problems in sociology. She lives among the people whom she is studying, and her daily round of pleasure or work, when not on the Yale campus, is among the foreigners in that part of the city.

But although the Yale co-eds don't mingle much socially with the Yale undergraduates or the graduate students or young professors, they have their own club. "No men allowed," is the club's motto. Some of the club members do a good deal of their studying and writing there, while others only go there at rare intervals for recreation.

In the last winter the co-eds have had some social affairs away from the club, generally at the boarding houses where the young women live. Occasionally the wife of a young professor has been invited to one of these gatherings, but she was always obliged to leave her husband at home, for the rules of the club bar men strictly enforced at these gatherings.

The men students, on the contrary, welcome their associates among the young women at their classical, mathematical and other clubs here, frequently the co-ed's theme is being read by one of the co-eds. These clubs are, however, societies for research, and the members are interested more in the intellectual side of the affair than the social.

Cupid cannot be said to be busy or to do a land office business among the Yale co-eds, a romance is sometimes the result of study here at the graduate school. Last year two of the members of the school surprised their friends and even the instructors under whom they had worked together by sending out wedding announcements just about commencement time when both were taking a degree. They are teaching together this year in a school in Texas.

Attention Moves the World.

"Knowledge," it is said, begins in wonder." But wonder is the result of attention, and by attention the world is moved, mendicantly, or madly, as in the blind and bloody turmoils of the people, actively at last to their wrongs and the possibilities of liberty. Without the attention of individual and collective minds, nothing goes forward on an earth so full of objects and ideas that selection must be made from the outside, or deliberately exercised from the inside, before anything good or bad can be done. It is the business of the good man to study means of attracting attention to good causes, to necessary betterments, and to all that is fair and lovely and wholesome in this distracting, distracted and multitudinous universe.—Century.

Into a Society Pitfall.

Modern society is full of pitfalls and perils, as a certain smart young man related in the smoker the other day.

"Oh, I've met you before," he declared to a pretty woman, whose name, of course, he had not caught. Ignoring the warning frown from a friend, he rushed on. "Why, of course, I used to see you around a lot with Blank-Dash; lovely and wholesome in'?" And he smiled triumphantly.

"I can't deny it," she returned, sweetly, "but I couldn't help it. I used to be married to him."—N. Y. Sun.

Dignity.

Mr. Q. Ponze—No, sir! My daughter would starve if she married you.

Mr. Nocoyne—Oh, well, if you're the sort of man that would let your own daughter starve, I've no desire to become a relative of yours. I withdraw my request, sir.—Cleveland Leader.

How, Indeed?

She—I guess you didn't know, George, that violets make the proper best bouquet for Lent.

He—But, my dear girl, how can I give you violets on a carnation salary? —Cleveland Plain Dealer.

HE THOUCHT THEY WOULD

And the Mashers Very Naturally Came to the Same Conclusion.

The two young men with the sway-backed overcoats and the nobby hats sat beside the middle-aged gentleman with the iron-gray mustache and goatee in the trolley car. As it turned a corner, two handsome young women on the sidewalk turned and looked after it, and smiled. The two young men in the sway-backed overcoats lifted their hats and smiled and nudged each other. Then they turned and saw that the man with the iron-gray mustache and goatee was looking at them, relates the Chicago Tribune.

"Did you notice it?" asked one of the young men.

"Yes," said the man with the goatee.

"Freshes, huh?"

"Do you think so?"

"Sure. Say, that tallest one is a stunner!"

"Ever seen them before?" asked the elderly man.

"Just copped 'em out as we turned the corner. Got a notion to get off the car at the next corner and take another look at them."

"I would if I were you," said the elderly man.

"Say, you're a sport yourself, eh?"

"Not very much of one."

"Mebbe not, but I see you've got blood in you yet."

"I have that, and my advice to you is to get off at the next corner."

"Believe you will. Say, did you notice the dimples in the smaller girl's cheeks?"

"No, but I have noticed them. You're getting off here, aren't you?"

The car had reached the next corner, and the young men arose and looked out. Two overcoats were looking back along the street. The one who had been doing the talking replied:

"I dunno. Got a notion too, though."

"You'd better. Those young women are my daughters, and they were nodding goodby to me. If you don't get off at this corner I'll throw you off."

The young men got off—and walked rapidly in another direction from that which would have led them toward the young women. Then the man with the iron-gray mustache and goatee smiled grimly to himself and confided to a fellow passenger that he had never seen the young women in his life.

STYLES IN WALL PAPER.

New Patterns Produced Every Year by the Hundreds for Season's Trade.

"In England and Germany," said an American wall paper man, "they get out new styles, to be sure, every year, and plenty of them, but they continue more styles from year to year than we do. Here we get out practically all new styles every year.

"You would expect them and the dealers look for them and they must have them. If we carried forward the old styles a dealer looking over a book of samples would say when he came to an old style: 'Why, here's something we had last year.' And that wouldn't do.

"There may be a few styles that have particularly caught the fancy and that we run for a second season, but practically all the wall papers offered here at the beginning of a season are new.

"When a season closes, about July 1, we have worked our stocks down just as close and fine as we can, and after that we begin getting ready for the next season, almost a year ahead. There are many designers, men and women, who devote themselves solely to wall paper designing, working at that the year around, just as one might at any profession or calling; and now we begin getting out the new papers, with new designs, or new colorings and combinations of old designs, the new styles thus produced numbering hundreds annually.

"And when our styles are all ready and we have begun to print we make up our sample books for the trade; we get these out for the next season along about January 1. Like great albums these books are; only bigger, each book containing hundreds of pages, each page a wall paper sample of the full width of the paper and in length of page a little longer than the width, enough to show the paper nicely.

"Of these great sample books we send out thousands, tons in weight of them, annually, and with these books at hand the dealer begins ordering his wall papers of the new styles in readiness for the new season."

Reform in China.

It would have been hard to find, ten years ago, a more hopeless undertaking than that for which a little company of fashionable ladies in Shanghai organized the Wen Tsu Hui, or Natural Feet society. For many years missionaries had been trying to induce their converts to give up a practice—the binding of the feet of young girls—which one-tenth of the girls of China were tortured, and condemned to a life of suffering and comparative uselessness. The Natural Feet society gave and collected little sums of money, offered prizes for essays, printed and distributed tracts, held public meetings, beset officials and memorialized the empress dowager. Now the results are showing themselves. The empress issued an edict, one by one the great viceroys issued proclamations against binding the feet, and now the letters from the east declare that among the younger girls unbound feet are the rule.—Youth's Companion.

ODD CHARACTERS ON THE DIAMOND

HUMOROUS INCIDENTS IN LIVES OF WELL-KNOWN PLAYERS IN THE PAST.

Base ball as a profession deelops more queer characters than any other sport. In the first place, it brings a great crowd of half-developed men into the limelight of publicity and affords the latter opportunity to develop their cranks and conceits. Besides, they have plenty of spare time to accentuate their peculiarities.

It seems to me sometimes that the day of the "character" is past, and that never again will the game reproduce the unique figures that are historic. We have now no Mike elly, no Brudder Bill Gleasons, no Dad Clarkes, One-Armed Dalys, Gladiator Brownings—or that kind of fellows. True, we have Rube Waddell—but where can the present game find the duplicates of Rube Waitebeau, Bill Joyce, Bad Bill Egan, Tony Mullane; his catcher, Kid Baldwin; Tacky Tom Parrott, Dave Orr, Scissors Routz or Cherokee Fisher? In those days it seemed in every position or on individual character, known both on and off the field, while nowadays a ball player is much like any other worker. He plays the game, doffs his uniform, and little more is known of him until the next day.

Tacky Tom Parrott was one of the greatest characters that ever broke into the game. He could pitch some, and when he landed on the ball he ticketed it for the fence. One day in Cincinnati Tom caught a fast, straight one on the piccolo and sent it into the corner of the lot for a home run. He completed the circuit of the bases before the ball came back into the field, but, instead of stopping, he started for third again, and, still going at top speed, went around the bases again. The crowd was howling when he finished the second circuit, so Tom started around again. Four times he raced around the bases, and then one of his team mates caught him and led him to the bench.

Tom was a cornet player—and a good one. When he was pitching for St. Louis one afternoon Von der Ahe employed a female band to discourse sweet music between innings, and the plan made a hit with Tom. He would pitch the inning; then, after retiring his opponents, he would climb up the front of the stand, take his place in the band and play a cornet solo, after which he would go out and pitch some more.

One night—at 2 a. m.—we were in the Gault house in Louisville when I was awakened by a great uproar. Curses, yells and imprecations filled the air, and above the confusion the notes of a cornet. Tom's room connected with mine, and, rushing into his room, I found him in his nightshirt, with his bare feet in the window and a cornet to his lips, playing away for dear life.

"What in thunder do you mean, waking up everybody in the hotel?" I demanded.

"I just remembered a tune I hadn't thought of for years," said Tom, "and I was fixing it in my mind."

Scissors Routz was another odd one. He drank some, and also he played poker, and on one occasion this combination beat a crowd of San Francisco sports out of a big bunch of money. Scissors was pitching for a Louisville aggregation that was on the coast and he was carded to pitch against Chicago the following day in Central Park. He got drunk during the afternoon and sat in a poker game that evening in the Baldwin Hotel. He kept right on drinking, and late in the evening the story got out among the sports that Routz was drunk and playing poker. So they began to bet heavily that Chicago would win, qualifying the bet with "if Routz pitches for Louisville." As he was the star pitcher many of the bets were snapped up.

At 7 o'clock the next morning Foutz still was playing poker and drinking, and the betting was lively. The game broke up shortly before 10 o'clock in the morning. The betting then was 3 to 1. Foutz went to bed, slept two hours, and that afternoon let Chicago down with two hits.

One-armed Daly was a real character. His left arm was cut off just above the elbow, and he wore a leather pad, hollowed a bit, on the stump, and with it and his good hand he could catch fly balls and field grounders excellently. He was the greatest hit that ever happened in the south during training seasons, and the negroes would come for miles to see the one-armed man pitch and field.

The trouble was that the stump of his arm was tender, and he hated to catch thrown balls, which was a source of constant trouble between him and his catcher, Tom Deasley, who always returned the ball hard.

"Ach! em, Tom; arch 'em," pleaded Daly, but Deasley continued to put on the speed until one day Daly called him down into the diamond and swung the stump of his arm against Deasley's jaw, dropping him to the ground, and remarking, "Now will ye arch 'em?"

One spring Rasty Wright and Big Head Miller were playing in the outfield of a southern team. Both had arms deader than Brooklyn's pennant chances and neither of them could get the ball back to the infield in two heaves. Suddenly they received the startling news that Billy George had been signed to play the other outfield position.

"That guy'll come down here and show us up throwing," remarked Rasty.

There was consternation in the outfield when Billy showed up and the dead-armed duo approached the new man anxiously.

"How's the whip, Billy?" asked Big Head.

"Finer 'n silk," said Billy, swinging his throwing arm. "It's zingo, to the plate, on the line."

That afternoon the trio took their places in the outfield. In the first inning some batter caught the ball square and drove it a mile out over Billy's head. He gave one look at the flying ball, and, turning, pleadingly toward Rasty and Big Head, he called "Help—me!"

VAMOS, JOHN!

John Chinaman, my jo, John,
You patient, pig-tailed cuss,
Why did you ever come across
To interfere with us?
Why did you bring the flowery lead
Where'er we and tea plants grow,
To vex the pious hoodlums' hearts,
John Chinaman, my jo?

John Chinaman, my jo, John,
It fairly curls my hair
When I am told that you by Joss
And your ally Confucius were
And thus you are no Christian, John—
The godless lot, I know.
And much you shock their piety,
John Chinaman, my jo.

John Chinaman, my jo, John,
In an individual matter,
While the hoodlums go to church and swear,
Which is a better thing,
The sand-lot civilization, John,
Or yours? Let's ask Confucius to know.
Hence you're a poor barbarian,
John Chinaman, my jo.

John Chinaman, my jo, John,
On our Pacific slope
They speak of you as most unclean—
The less they say the more we grin,
And they whose faces fertile crops
Of rank blasphemy surpass,
Are shocked at such a leprous wretch,
John Chinaman, my jo.

John Chinaman, my jo, John,
You should have known 'twas only done
For graft and your commercial sense,
'Twas heads I win, and tails you lose.
With right to come and go,
But not to affect the white as you,
John Chinaman, my jo.
—Thomas Dunn English.

NEGRESS A CLEVER CROOK

Police Believe She Entered Two West End Houses.

IDENTITY IS UNKNOWN

Places Entered Boldly During Day-light Thursday Afternoon—Door in One House Smashed With An Axe.

A nervy crook, whom the police believe to have been a negress, broke into two houses in the far West End Thursday afternoon. Considerable swag was secured.

The houses entered were those of Samuel Kriney, 34 Marriner's avenue, and L. B. Morgan, 45 Albert street. At both places the families were away at the time. Mrs. Kriney returned home, from a trip downtown, at 3 o'clock, to find every drawer and closet in the house ransacked and the contents turned upside down. Two children's banks, containing $5, a diamond ring, a woman's gold watch, and a lot of linen were missing.

Entrance had been gained through a cellar door. The door from the cellar to the kitchen, which had been left locked, was smashed open with an axe.

Not long after Mrs. Kriney's discovery, Officer Kelly, patroling the West End, found a similar assault on the ground floor of the Morgan house. Evidences of burglarious work were plain. The Morgan family was out of town, and the officer could not learn what had been taken.

Chief Kelly then got busy. From the neighborhood of the two houses as soon as Kelly's report came in. They learned that a small, chunky colored woman, muscular looking and very black, had been seen hanging about both places. The description of the negress and of the Kriney house tallied exactly with that of one noticed in front of the Morgan place. The latter was told by a neighbor that the family was out. "It don't matter," she said. "I was told to wait," and she held her place.

A negress of the same general description was afterwards seen in another part of the city carrying heavy bundles. The city and vicinity will be scoured for traces of black, chunky negresses.

Mrs. Lena Hellstrom will again have charge of the restaurant at the Plainfield Country Club this season.

The members of the B. Y. P. U. held an enjoyable meeting last night in the church parlors.

Mrs. A. A. Liddell, of Grove street, who has been ill with typhoid at Muhlenberg Hospital, is steadily improving.

John P. Hall, of East Front street, who was severely burned by an explosion of gasolene, is recovering nicely and is now able to be out of doors.

Employes of the Plainfield Country Club are busily engaged in putting the course in condition for play. The use of the putting greens and tees is not allowed until notice is given by the golf committee.

According to a new rule of the Plainfield Country Club all caddies seeking employment at the club this season must register at the caddie house. Caddies will be furnished the players in the order in which they are registered.

COUNTRY CLUB ISSUES ITS TENNIS SCHEDULE

The tennis committee of the Plainfield Country club has issued an unusually attractive schedule for the coming season, showing that there will be a sufficient number of events to interest the lovers of the game.

In addition to the special events there will be a continuous tournament extending throughout the season. The players of the club will be arranged by the tennis committee, primarily, as nearly as practically in the order of their playing ability. The first six players will constitute class one, the second six will constitute class two and the third six, class three, and so on for as many classes as may be necessary.

Each player may challenge any player rated above him, provided that the challenged player be within the same class or the next higher class. If the challenger wins two out of three sets, he takes the number of the defeated player, who drops back to the challenger's former number. If the challenger loses, both players retain their former numbers.

An unplaced player may challenge only a member of the first class, unless a special permission from the tennis committee. Matches must be played off promptly. If the challenged player fails for more than two weeks to play, he loses his number to the challenger by default, unless he can show reasons for the delay, reasons, otherwise orders. If defeated, the challenger may not challenge the same player again for one month thereafter. The members of class one will be regarded as the regular club team, and of class two, as the substitutes. Changes in the tennis committee, may, in its discretion, make other selections for team matches. Male members of the club, of any class, are eligible. A cup will be awarded to the player, who, in the opinion of the tennis committee, has maintained during the season the best standing in this tournament.

This is the schedule of events:

Saturday, May 5, 3 p. m., men's doubles; Saturday, May 19, 10 a. m., women's handicap singles; Saturday, May 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, men's doubles tournament of the East Jersey Lawn Tennis Association begins. Cups offered by the association; Monday, May 28, 3 p. m., women's singles tournament of the East Jersey Lawn Tennis Association begins. Cups offered by the association; Monday, May 28, 3 p. m., women's singles continued; Saturday, June 2, 3 p. m., team match with Elizabeth Lawn and Country club; Saturday, June 9, 10 a. m., boys' doubles. Boys under 18 years are eligible; Saturday, June 16, 10 a. m., boys' singles. Boys under 15 years are eligible, cup presented by Henry L. Hall; Saturday, June 23, 10 a. m., girls' singles, girls under 18 years are eligible, cup presented by Henry L. Hall; Wednesday, July 4, 10 a. m., women's doubles; Saturday, July 7, 10 a. m., junior mixed doubles, boys and girls under 18 years who have never won a tennis prize at this club are eligible, cups presented by Henry L. Hall; Saturday, July 14, 3 p. m., Plainfield open tournament, men's singles, open to all players in Plainfield and North Plainfield, cup presented by Thomas M. Day; Saturday, July 28, 3 p. m., team match with Park club; Saturday, September 1, 10 a. m., boys' singles for club championship, cup presented by George P. Mellick; Tuesday, September 4, 11, 10 a. m., boys' handicap singles, boys under 18 years are eligible; Thursday, September 13, 10 a. m., women's singles for club championship, cup presented by Albert B. Beers; Saturday, September 15, 3 p. m., final rounds of men's and women's singles for club championship.

Other events will be arranged by the committee, but will not be offered as prizes by the clubs in events, other than matches, where cups have not been presented. All matches are scratch unless specified as handicaps. Entries should be made not later than 6 p. m., on the day preceding each tournament, to Miss Schuyler, 316 East Seventh street, in the women's and girls' events, and to Thos. M. Day, 740 Carlton avenue, in the men's and boys' and mixed doubles events. An entrance fee of fifty cents per head is charged in the men's events and conducted by the club. An entrance fee is also charged in the East Jersey Lawn Tennis Association events.

The tennis committee of the Plainfield Country club comprises Thomas M. Day, chairman; Frederick W. Goodyear, Owen J. Fleming, Miss Brown, Henry A. Cochran, J. Hartley Mellick, Miss Sarah E. Schuyler and Miss Elsie Burke.

—William A. Woodruff, the Plainfield agent for the Atlas Assurance Co. (Ltd.) of London, received the following word on Saturday from the company's New York office: "Our home office cables me to meet all San Francisco obligations promptly and honorably by drafts on London, also to subscribe $5,000 to relief fund.

The clubhouse of the Plainfield Country Club was opened on Saturday, although the active season will not begin until this week Saturday, when the course will be ready for play and the restaurant will be opened. There will be a clerk at the clubhouse this season and the members can secure all information from him.

ALL DERELES LOOK ALIKE.

That Was Why a Traveling Man Came to Be Wearing a Second-Handed Hat.

A hasty man told this one to a Baltimore street hatter a few days ago, relates the Sun of that city:

"Late one night while in Washington I dined in a cafe on Pennsylvania avenue and took away some one else's hat. I did not discover the mistake until I got on the train bound for Baltimore. It had the other fellow's initials there in bright gilt letters on the inside and there was no excuse for the blunder.

"The next morning I began to realize that the hat did not fit me as well as it had seemed to, so I dropped in a hat store and bought a new one. The hatter asked me if I wanted my initials put in the new hat, and I told him yes. He perforated them into the sweatband with a big chopping machine. The next time in church I happened to glance in my hat. The initials were the same as those in the hat which I picked up in Washington. Of course, the hatter concluded that the initials in the old hat were my own.

"Every time I visit a house where there happens to be hats on the rack looking like mine I have to make this long-winded explanation. They are getting to doubt whether I ever have any hat second-hand hats, especially the women. Funny, isn't it? Women think all derbies are alike."

"Yes; seems some men have trouble in distinguishing them," said the clerk.

BALTIC AMBER HUNTERS.

Work Only in the Roughest Weather and Earn But a Scant Livlihood.

The poor people who earn a precarious livelihood by gathering amber on the shores of the Baltic sea work only in the roughest weather. When the wind blows in from the sea, as it often does with terrific violence, the boulders are tossed and tumbled at the bottom and great quantities of sea wrack are washed up on the beach. This is the harvest of the waves for hidden in the roots and branches of the seaweed lumps of the precious gum may be found.

In other parts of the coast divers go crawling on the bottom of the sea for the lumps of amber hidden in seaweed and under rocks. It is believed that once a great pine forest flourished here, where the great billows roll, and that amber is the gum exuded from the trees, of which not a vestige remains.

The finds are very variable. The largest piece known, weighing 18 pounds, is in the Royal museum in Berlin. The usual finds range from lumps as big as a man's head to particles like grains of sand. The larger pieces are found jammed in rocks or in tangles of marine vegetation. Divers work from four to hours a day in all seasons except when the sea is blocked with ice.

VERBAL MESSAGE BY MAIL.

A Phonograph Record Invented by Frenchman Is Hard Enough for Transmission.

Instead of sending a cold and more or less formal written letter to a distant loved one, it is now possible to send by mail a verbal message, which may be as warm and thrilling as the sender desires, says a writer in the Technical World Magazine.

This has been made possible by the invention of three Frenchmen, MM. Bucherioux, Marotte and Tochow, who have perfected a phonograph record of sufficient hardness to go through the mails, withstand the rough usage of the post, and be ready to voice the message it contains upon delivery at its destination.

A material called "sonorine," which has all the advantages of wax, and the added quality of being indestructible, is spread on cards, which conform to post office regulations and requirements. Then the chemically prepared card is laid flat and the voice is thrown into a small funnel, through which it passes to the registering needle. The record is cut by a spiral, which begins writing at one edge of the card and travels toward its center, filling the card completely with the exception of a small circular spot in the middle. A card will hold about 80 words.

Sonorine has not as yet been introduced in America, but no doubt will be within a short time.

Robbery on Board Ship.

"Some exporters have a peculiar custom in shipping certain kinds of goods," said a merchant the other day. "They found out by sad experience that if they shipped a pair of shoes in pairs the longshoremen would manage to break open at least one box during the loading. Then they would pick out some and dump the rest back into the broken box. They did that for a long time until some one put onto them. Now when shoes are exported rights are packed together and sent out on one line of boats and the corresponding lefts are shipped in a different way. That stopped the graft and the number of broken crates and boxes is cut almost in half."

Society for Young Wives.

The Society of Whales is a new organization. Every young wife in town belongs and the title of the society is taken from the faith a bride has in her husband. She would believe him if he said he saw a whale swimming up Commercial street. After she has been married for a few months she drops from the club.—Atchison (Kan.) Globe.

A GIRL'S OWN ROOM.

An Inexpensive and Lovely Bed Chamber Described, and What Pictures Are Now Favored.

Imagine for yourself a nook with white woodwork, a chintz pattern paper (floral) upon the walls. The chairs are of green enameled wood or wicker. There are large mattresses cushioned for the chairs of a cretonne or chintz matching or closely resembling the wall paper, and tied with large bows of ribbon. The bed has one of the new spreads, which goes over the counterpane made of chintz with a deep ruffle. I know of a room built on this plan. You wouldn't believe without seeing it, how pretty it is. And it was not expensive, either.

Never before has it been possible to get such exquisite patterns in upholstery goods as at present. Cotton and silkoline imitations which make very artistic curtains retail as low as seventeen cents a yard. Dimity, lawn, holland, unbleached goods of several kinds and coarse toweling, costing in the neighborhood of ten cents a yard, are now embellished with stenciled designs, embroidery, or appliques of some other or their own material to make portiers, curtains, couch covers, table tops and cushions.

And speaking of lovely cushions reminds me of one I saw in a smart decorator's shop the other day. The price was ten dollars. Girls, any one of us could have made that ten-dollar pillow for nothing and a ten-dollar bill! Women think all derbies are alike."

"Yes; seems some men have trouble in distinguishing them," said the clerk.

BALTIC AMBER HUNTERS.

Work Only in the Roughest Weather and Earn But a Scant Livlihood.

The poor people who earn a precarious livelihood by gathering amber on the shores of the Baltic sea work only in the roughest weather. When the wind blows in from the sea, as it often does with terrific violence, the boulders are tossed and tumbled at the bottom and great quantities of sea wrack are washed up on the beach. This is the harvest of the waves for hidden in the roots and branches of the seaweed lumps of the precious gum may be found.

In other parts of the coast divers go crawling on the bottom of the sea for the lumps of amber hidden in seaweed and under rocks. It is believed that once a great pine forest flourished here, where the great billows roll, and that amber is the gum exuded from the trees, of which not a vestige remains.

The finds are very variable. The largest piece known, weighing 18 pounds, is in the Royal museum in Berlin. The usual finds range from lumps as big as a man's head to particles like grains of sand. The larger pieces are found jammed in rocks or in tangles of marine vegetation. Divers work from four to hours a day in all seasons except when the sea is blocked with ice.

VERBAL MESSAGE BY MAIL.

A Phonograph Record Invented by Frenchman Is Hard Enough for Transmission.

Instead of sending a cold and more or less formal written letter to a distant loved one, it is now possible to send by mail a verbal message, which may be as warm and thrilling as the sender desires, says a writer in the Technical World Magazine.

This has been made possible by the invention of three Frenchmen, MM. Bucherioux, Marotte and Tochow, who have perfected a phonograph record of sufficient hardness to go through the mails, withstand the rough usage of the post, and be ready to voice the message it contains upon delivery at its destination.

A material called "sonorine," which has all the advantages of wax, and the added quality of being indestructible, is spread on cards, which conform to post office regulations and requirements. Then the chemically prepared card is laid flat and the voice is thrown into a small funnel, through which it passes to the registering needle. The record is cut by a spiral, which begins writing at one edge of the card and travels toward its center, filling the card completely with the exception of a small circular spot in the middle. A card will hold about 80 words.

Sonorine has not as yet been introduced in America, but no doubt will be within a short time.

Unique Course.

If you want to serve something absolutely unique for the cheese course at dessert try the ridiculously simple preparation of Roquefort cheese and apples. To make it take a slice of Roquefort cheese and a piece of butter the size of a walnut. Mix them together into a paste and thin this down by the addition of three or four tablespoonfuls of cream. When of the consistency of thick cream spread it over slices of russet apples and you will have a novelty that will create both surprise and delight among your guests.

Scissors in the Kitchen.

A kitchen convenience which is not present at every household is a pair of sharp scissors. Scissors are used to trim lampwicks—which is a wrong—and to cut papers and string; but seldom for trimming bacon and ham rinds, skinning parts of fowls which need skinning, and trimming salads. These are proper uses for scissors, and the use of them saves much labor.

Lemon Cookies.

To two cups sour cream add two cups sugar and one teaspoon soda. Flavor with lemon or caraway seed, or both, add flour enough to thicken, roll thin and bake in a quick oven. Globe.

BEARS CHAMPAGNE SCARS.

The Workman in the Cellars of Rheims Is Exposed to Constant Danger.

The Frenchman's face was packed and notched, says the Cincinnati Enquirer.

"Have you been a duelist?" one asked.

"No, no," the man replied. "I have been a champagne maker. He touched his face. 'All honorable nicks,' he said, 'are on the other hand.'

"Champagne scars," he went on, 'decorate the visages of the workers in the underground champagne cellars of Rheims. They are caused by the bursting of the bottles. About one bottle in every ten bursts.

"There are miles and miles of champagne cellars in Rheims, caves that are built into the rocks, where in a natural temperature of 45 degrees, Fahrenheit, the wine ages.

"The workers down there almost both the champagne all day long, champagne coming from casks, bottles and the various stages along the route. Bottles burst frequently—two or three daily—but are continually filled with the liquid. And the flying splinters of glass and little fountains of champagne penetrate the damp air.

"Day after day each bottle must be turned, turned 50 times altogether, till the sediment in it has all mounted to the neck. Then the workers, old-fashioned potato sack! The material was coarse sacking, nothing more, finished perfectly plain all around without ruffles or cord as most of the new pillows are at present. On one side was a posteresque design of a purple garden flag.

For pictures for her room the modern girl goes in chiefly for photographs or prints of the old masters, costing all the way from one cent to 25 or more apiece, and which are usually framed in wood chosen or tinted to match the tone of the picture. These copies of old masters, even the cheapest ones, are pictures worth having, which grow in meaning from day to day as one comes to know them better, and which educate one's love of the beautiful.—American Agriculturist.

TO HAVE A GOOD LAWN.

A Moderately Rich Soil Is Essential as Grass Needs a Good Deal of Nourishment.

A moderately rich soil is essential to a good lawn, because grass needs a good deal of nourishment. If the nourishment is not already in the soil it must be supplied in the form of fertilizers. The proper fertilizer to use is a study in itself. Important as the question is, it receives in most cases only scant attention. That is the reason why grass does not grow up to one's expectations.

The top soil should be broken up so finely that in a handful there are few lumps of any size, and the subsoil also should be broken up. This is chiefly to allow perfect drainage for the grass and is a part of lawn making which is almost invariably slighted. As a rule, the subsoil is left undisturbed so that water may collect there to the detriment of the tender roots.

There are few harder sorts of work than digging with a spade in the garden, although lawn mowing is a good second to it. The safest plan is not to try to do too much. But be sure to do something. The more one does the more one will enjoy the result of one's labors; and of garden work, as of most other sorts of work, it is impossible to get results without effort.

There is no doubt that gardening is the fashion; many women who do not care to be at the trouble of growing them are, nevertheless, discussing box borders and perennials with conventional enthusiasm. But the woman who really does love flowers has also come to her own. The flower catalogues of to-day rather than trees, the lore of the old and of the new, the breeding heart and Canterbury bells of her great-grandmother's garden and the newest Japanese primrose and iris, while the poorest soil and bleakest exposure do not daunt the vigorous varieties that are cultivated for all sorts of unpromising places.—Washington Star.

ANCHORS THAT FOLD.

MODERN MUDHOOKS THAT OCCUPY LITTLE SPACE.

Constantly Increasing Demand for Them Occasioned by the Growing Number of Pleasure Craft.

"Folding beds are not the only things made to shut up," said the marine hardware man. "There is, for instance, the folding anchor.

"Originally all anchors were made with the stock stationary, and as the stock, at one end was a shank, was set at right angles to the shank and in effect parallel with the arms and flukes at the other end—the object of the stock, of course, being to tilt the anchor and make one of the flukes engage—a big anchor would take up a lot of room.

"The fixed stock of the old anchors were made of wood. Later they came to make them of iron, and these iron stocks they made movable so as to occupy less space when not in use. This was the first folding anchor.

"In these anchors, while the stock folds down, the arms, with flukes attached, still extend rigidly from either side at the foot of the shank. Then came the paint anchor, without a stock, and with flukes in line at the ends of an arm pivoted through the end of the shank.

"Thus pivoted the flukes can swing to either side of the shank, and the flukes are forged so that when the anchor is dragged on the bottom their points are inclined downward and, made to bury. With no stock attached, the shank of this anchor is pulled right in through the hawsepipe, the flat flukes lying snug against the side of the vessel.

"And now we have for smaller vessels folding anchors, anchors that actually fold up—of which there are a number of styles.

"One sort has no stock, but has four arms, somewhat like a grapple, so that one or more arms will engage on whatever side the anchor may fall. These four arms are each hinged where they are joined to the shank. They are held outward in place by a collar that slips down the shank upon them and locks them at the base.

"Another folding anchor is one that has four arms, somewhat like a grapple, so that one or more arms will engage on whatever side the anchor may fall. These four arms are each hinged where they are joined to the shank. They are held outward in place by a collar that slips down the shank upon them and locks them at the base.

"Another folding anchor is one that has no stock at all, but has the arms folded up against the shank, the collar being then slid down over their points to hold the arms there. So the anchor can be folded up completely.

"Another folding anchor is of the typical anchor form, with two arms terminating in flukes and with a stock in the regulation manner at right angles to the arms, with arms and stock both hinged where they join the shank. A pin holds the arms in place when extended and in like manner another pin holds the stock.

"When the arms are folded up against the shank their pin holds them in place there, and when the stock is folded down against the shank the stock pin holds that there.

"Folding anchors all of galvanized iron are made in sizes ranging in weight from six pounds to 1,000 pounds. A six-pound folding anchor, folded, you could carry in your pocket easily. It might make your pocket sag a little, but there would be plenty of room for it there.

"How much of a boat an anchor will hold depends of course on the kind of boat and on the waters in which it is used, but that little six-pound folding anchor would do for a rowboat.

"Folding anchors are, of course, so made in order to save space. They are used on small boats, launches, power boats, yachts, pleasure craft of various sorts and often as spare anchors. Folded they can be stowed in a locker or in any convenient place. Thus form they occupy but very little space.

"We have been selling folding anchors for some years, but now we sell more than ever, what with the constantly and greatly increasing numbers of pleasure craft in use."

Somewhat Fishy.

The best fishermen in the world are preachers, doctors and actors. And some of them are mighty hunters. Dr. Rainsford was without a peer. Good old Dr. Robert Collyer once said: "I think a trout really loves to be caught by a nimble angler and breathe out its life on the beautiful green grass." Bishop Dudley, of Kentucky, used to be a famous duck hunter of each year and was regarded as the crack shot of the blue grass state. Joseph Jefferson was one of the most expert anglers President Cleveland ever knew. He used to be said of Jefferson: "The President was fishing one day while Joe and Grover were wetting their lines and the spokesman said: 'Fellows, I want the first nibble at the old man's bait. All of you stand back. He may be smarter than I am, but I don't believe it. However, accidents happen in the best regulated families. If Rip lands me don't worry. It is always an honor to be a strapphanger on his line.'"

Not Important.

"Here is a letter for you. I've carried around in my pocket for two weeks," said the trembling husband.

"That's all right," said his wife, with a smile. "It's only my dressmaker's bill."—Detroit Free Press.

Some Mistake.

Millie—Jack, I hear you can't meet your creditors.

Jack—Mistake, dear, really; I meet one about every five minutes!—Illustrated Bits.

HIGH WINDS RARE IN ROME

An Average Speed of Five Miles an Hour Is the Greatest Attained.

Gales are very rare in Rome and never blow with extreme violence. The most striking peculiarity of the Roman climate is the absence of high winds. The air is pure and clear owing to the almost complete absence of smoke even in the winter months.

The average rate of movement of the air is only five miles an hour. This is of enormous advantage in winter, since the "tramontana" (north wind), which is the prevailing wind in this season, is, if strong, extremely cold and penetrating. But worse than cold and sour is delightful for most people, including invalids. The south winds are essentially unhealthful. They frequently alternate with the tramontana. The sirocco (southeast wind), which fortunately does not often blow, is moist and enervating. It gives rise to languor in most individuals.

Fat and Lean Men.

Modern scientific investigation in a medical way no declares that the plump man is not necessarily the "healthiest" or the best able to resist disease. The lean man not only enjoys greater resistance to weakness and debility, but he is stronger in the performance of a given task. In other words, a large fat deposit in the general tissue is no evidence of good general nutrition. The rich and lavish beauty of the plump man, sometimes called Fatty, may delight the eye, but when it comes to walking down town in the morning or running four blocks to a fire Fatty blows out a fuse and is sent to the repair shop, while his lean brother is merely put into condition for the day by his little burst of exercise.—Minneapolis Journal.

Wrong Pew.

"Yes," explained the guide at the asylum, "this patient is perfectly aware that he is insane."

"He ought to exchange places with some people on the outside," said the visitor. "A whole lot of people in this world are crazy and don't know it."—Detroit Free Press.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

April 23: "City Evangelization, Perils of Prosperity and Civic Unrighteousness"—Neh. xxvii, xxviii.

By REV. WALTER J. YATES, D. D.

The development of the highest personal life can only be by associating with other people. No individual can in solitude become the best style of man or woman. God made us for companionship.

Men have from the beginnings of history felt the impulse to congregate together. We need the help of others in our work. Two hands unassisted are inadequate for many of the tasks of life. Even the cultivation of the soil is best done when men unite.

The needs of life lead to exchange of productions. This is best done when we are settled close together. The tendency to city life is inevitable with progress in civilization. The more prosperous we become the more pronounced is this tendency to congregate in convenient centers. With increase of resources comes opportunity for social recreation and intercourse. This, again, is sought together. In all of this centralization of population there is great possibility for benefit.

But there is also a corresponding peril. The temptations to and opportunity for vice and fraud and evil of every kind are multiplied in proportion to the number is settled thickly in cities. No great city of the world has ever yet been a pure place morally. Nor has any great city of the world ever yet shown a good example of righteousness in government.

It is not that the finest specimens of organized charity and the great philanthropic schemes of the present are to be found in the great metropolitan centers. But it is not a fact that the forces of good have ever so dominated business, government and social life that our cities are yet Christianized.

This is the task which confronts us. The tide is unmistakably setting toward our great cities. If things are not to improve morally we may well be alarmed. The church has never up to this time set herself to the task rationally and resolutely to Christianize the city. We have been saving individuals. We have not even thought of the problem of the salvation of society, much less attempted its realization. This is the task now on our hands. The city must be saved or the fate of Tyre and all the great cities of old will be the doom of ours. We must gospelize the cities or God will wipe them out.

No task the church has ever attempted equals this in magnitude and importance. Are we equal to its accomplishment?

We are if we are wholly true to God and use faithfully the appointed means in unfailing faith.

God help us save the cities. Rather let us help God save the cities.

Body and Soul.

If you think of the material side of man's existence, he is more wonderful in his strength, as in his beauty, than anything else God has made. And yet what is this frame of mine? It is the carbon upon which the light of God is to play and have its work. As is this the carbon to the electric light, so is the body of man to the spirit of man. Only that, nothing more! It is the basis of life, that upon which the rest maintains itself for the time being, and only for the time being. This body is fearfully amazing in its world all human understanding, is for today, not tomorrow. In God's great tomorrow I must have a body of another form—no longer the earthly and material, but the heavenly and the spiritual. This is the tabernacle for the spirit in the day of its probation, more marvelous in its mechanism than sun, stars, tree or plant or any other form of matter, and yet being but the lowest stratum in the complex life of man.—Rev. G. Campbell Morgan.

Stop and Think.

As we cannot judge of the motion of the earth by anything within the earth, but by some radiant and celestial point that is beyond it, so the wicked, by comparing themselves with the wicked, perceive not how far they are advanced in their iniquity. To know precisely what lengths they have gone they must fix their attention on some character and exact character that is not of them, but above them. "When all move equally," says Pascal, "nothing seems to move, as in a vessel under sail," and when all run by common consent into vice none appears to do so. But stop from time to time and contemplate vice in the future—more prayer, more praise; more unselfish service, more self-denial, more earnest, more effective witness to Christ, more outspoken avowal of sympathy with our enterprises approved to God and man.

Our new era opens most auspiciously. The world's need of Christian endeavor never so bright as today in all the world. It does not become us, for personal reasons, to boast of the great plans inaugurated and carried out by my honored colleagues in my absence to further the cause of Christian Endeavor; but, when accomplished, this endowment will not only relieve some of us of a burden, but will, with God's continued blessing and our continued fidelity, confirm the work of the first twenty-five years and cause it to be felt for good in the world for centuries to come. God help us all to hear His "Forward, march!" as we step out into the new quarter century.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning April 23.

By REV. E. H. DOYLE.

Topic.—Home missions among foreigners in America.—Eph. ii, 12, 13.

The population of the United States, according to the census of 1900, not including our insular possessions, was 76,303,387. Of this number 10,400,085 were foreign born and 15,687,322 the children of foreign born parents. Thus the population of one in seven in the United States is foreign born or the child of foreign born parents. And from 1900 the tide if immigration has not receded. In 1901, 487,918 foreigners arrived on our shores, and in 1903 they came 1 million strong!

Nor do the tremendous numbers of our increasing foreign population alone appall us. Their character is a feature that must be taken into consideration. The tide of immigration from such European countries as Great Britain, France and Germany and Greece has decreased largely in comparison with the past, and these armies of new population are coming from Russia, Austria-Hungary and Italy, and especially southern Italy. They are illiterate, morally in many cases below our standards of morality and with practically no conception of the principles of our government or the essentials of true Christianity. They crowd into our large eastern cities, into our great industrial sections and there is no small menace to constant peril to the American government, and especially to American institutions. They cling to their native customs, their native speech and their native religion, or the absence of any religion, which are as far from American as the east is from the west.

The dangers from this undesirable element in our midst must not be overlooked by state or church. Both have a grave responsibility upon them. Stricter immigration laws should be enacted and strictly enforced. The Chinese can be kept out of our land and ought to be. Any one who has had the least opportunity to study the life of the Chinamen already in our country cannot desire the addition of exceeding others of a similar character from our land. The Chinatown of any of our great cities is a best hole of dirt and filth and usually of vice and of sin. But if Chinese can be excluded from our shores why not the undesirable hordes of the European nations? The nation should at least have a breathing spell which can be occupied in missionary work among those who are here.

The government is awakening to its responsibility in more vigorously enforcing such laws as we have and adding stricter ones to the statute books. The church is also getting wide awake, and missionary work among the foreign population of our country is most active and aggressive. In New York, Philadelphia, Pittsburg and Chicago much successful work is being done among foreigners. This is also the case in the states where they have segregated in large numbers. And God is blessing Philadelphia in a great work is being done by the Presbyterian evangelistic committee among the Italians. A commodious tabernacle has been erected for their use. The children are daily taught, and a vigorous Sabbath school is in operation. A church has been organized which has several hundred members. A number of young men are studying for the ministry that they may preach the gospel to their own people. This is only one blessing that God has given unto Philadelphia as

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

A DEMOCRATIC WEEKLY.

Published at

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Terms: $2.00 per year.

A. L. FORCE, Editor and Proprietor.

THURSDAY, APRIL 26, 1906.

AMERICA MOURNS.

Never in the history of America in times of peace has such a catastrophe visited this country to compare in magnitude to the calamity at San Francisco and other parts of California Wednesday. The people of Pompeii had some warning of their impending fate when Vesuvius destroyed that ancient city, but the death-dealing horror at the Golden Gate came in the twinkling of an eye, bringing with it untold destruction to property to say nothing of the hundreds of precious lives. From the heart of every American springs the deepest feeling of sympathy which will find its true expression in the measures of relief that will be afforded to the inhabitants of that stricken city.

Mayor Smalley's sensible suggestion that New Jersey extend succor to its stricken sister, California, by appropriating one million out of the surplus fund, is being followed in a measure by the State of New York. Governor Higgins has sent a special message to the Empire State's Legislature recommending that $250,000 be appropriated for the relief of the Golden Gate. If Governor Stokes should call an extra session of our own Legislature and advise the appropriation of at least twice the amount given by New York, and it can be agreed easily, his action would meet with the hearty approval of every man, woman and child throughout the length and breadth of the State.

STEVENSON R. HOPE DEAD AFTER A LONG ILLNESS

HAD BEEN JANITOR OF THE BRYANT SCHOOL FOR TWENTY-FOUR YEARS.

Stevenson R. Hope, for twenty-four years the janitor of the Bryant school and who was only recently retired by the Board of Education, died at his home of his son, John Hope, of East Fifth street, shortly after 6 o'clock Sunday night. He had been ill for almost six months with a complication of troubles and had been steadily sinking for a long time. A short time ago Mr. Hope was made speechless by paralysis of the tongue and Sunday afternoon he kept beckoning with his hand in a way which led his attendants to believe that he wanted his only brother, Auctioneer William Hope, of Raritan. When asked if this was so, he nodded assent and a hurry call was sent for the relative. He reached the house fifteen minutes before death came and received a warm handshake as an indication that he was recognized.

Mr. Hope was born at Raritan in 1839 and removed to Plainfield forty years ago. On first coming here he was a salesman for Cook Brothers, the lumber dealers, eventually succeeded by Boice, Junyon & Co. In 1882 he was appointed janitor of the Bryant school and served faithfully until his illness compelled him to relinquish his duties. In recognition of his faithful services the school board awarded him his pay until the close of the present school year and passed resolutions of regret that he was unable to continue. He was a special policeman for thirty *years, an exempt fireman and a mem*ber of the First M. E. church.

Mr. Hope leaves one daughter, Mrs. E. R. Harris, of Roselle, and one son, John Hope, of this city. The funeral was held from the son's residence Wednesday afternoon at 2.30.

BUILDING CO. ENLARGING NETHERWOOD PARK.

Tract of Land Purchased by Mr. Thompson from Mr. Hand.

A. D. Thompson has purchased for the Plainfield Land and Building Company a tract of land from David Hand adjoining Netherwood Park, *and will open it up at once as an ad*dition to the park, which he opened up some years ago, and which is now entirely built up with handsome residences.

*Mr. Thompson will extend Den*mark road through the property and put in cross streets running into Ravine road. The property will be laid out in park style, with fine shade trees, streets graded and macadamized and all city improvements. This new addition to Netherwood Park will comprise about twenty acres. Maps are now being prepared, and can be seen in a few days at the office of the Plainfield Land and Building Company, 207 North avenue.

Under the auspices of the Women's society for Christian Work of the Seventh-Day Baptist church a sale of fancy and useful articles will be held in the parlors of the church on Wednesday afternoon, May 9.

PLAINFIELD TEAMS WIN

P. H. S. Shuts Out Montclair and Leals Defeat South Orange.

SMITH IN GREAT FORM

He Is a Puzzle to Montclair Boys, Striking Out Twelve, and Only Allowing Two Hits.

Baseball teams representing the Plainfield High School and Leal's School journeyed from this city Saturday morning to play opponents abroad. Both teams returned home with good-sized victories, P. H. S. having shut out the Montclair H. S., score 8-0, while Leal's opened the season by defeating the South Orange H. S. nine, score 6-2. The game scheduled to be played between Plainfield High School and Orange H. S. in the afternoon, was cancelled by the latter team at the last minute, because they could not use the grounds in the afternoon. A game between these two nines will be arranged for later in the season.

The Montclair team and that of the locals met at the close of last season on Crescent Oval, and after three innings had been played, rain put an end to what looked like a close game, with the score of 3 to 2 in Montclair's favor. Since the issue was left doubtful last year, both teams were anxious to do something decisive this season, and each team practiced hard during the past week in anticipation of a close contest. That the training which Captain Davis has been giving the local team was beneficial, was evident from the all-around excellent showing made by the Plainfielders. The greatest improvement shown by the locals was in the batting line, where there was a marked increase in hits made by the Plainfield team.

"Phil." Smith occupied the slab for Plainfield High School and to him in a great measure falls the credit of the victory. "Phil." has not been up to the scholarship requirements of the school up to this time and therefore could not play till he passed off his tardies, but the lack of practice in games did not seem to effect him, for he pitched in this, his first game of the season, in midsummer form. The Montclair boys acknowledged that Phil. was the hardest proposition which they had been met with for a long time, and allowed but two hits to the heavy *hitters of Montclair. Phil. also dis*tinguished himself by hitting the ball for a triple, a double, and a single, out of four times at bat. Davis caught Smith in fine style. Doug*lass, H. Freeman and Mahaffey, of* P. H. S., accepted many chances faultlessly, the latter in particular making two phenomenal catches. Captain Harrison and Gates starred for Montclair.

Summary and lineup:

Plainfield High School.	R.	H.	O.	A.	E.
Van Deventer, 2b.	0	0	1	3	2
Douglass, 1b	1	2	7	0	0
Brakeley, cf	0	0	0	0	0
Harding, lf	1	1	0	0	1
Davis, c	2	0	13	0	0
Smith, p	3	3	1	2	0
Mahaffey, 3b	0	1	2	1	1
Loizeaux, rf	0	0	1	0	0
H. Freeman, ss ..	1	1	1	4	0
	8	8*27	7	4

Montclair High School.	R.	H.	O.	A.	E.
Gardiner, cf	0	0	0	0	0
Jacobus, 2b	0	1	2	0	0
Harrison, ss	0	0	1	6	0
Gates, 3b	0	0	4	2	0
Bowman, lf	0	0	0	0	0
Dodd, 1b	0	0	14	1	1
Reynolds, c	0	0	6	4	1
King, Uhler, rf ..	0	0	0	0	0
Moffett, p	0	1	0	2	1
	0	2	27	15	4

*Gates out, hit by batted ball.

Summary: Earned runs: P. H. S., 5. Two base hit: Smith. Three base hit, Smith. First base on balls: Off Smith, 2; off Moffett, 4. Struck out: By Smith, 12; Moffett, 4. Left on base: P. H. S., 5; M. H. S., 9. Double play: Van Deventer to Douglass. Passed ball: Reynolds. First base on errors: P. H. S., 3; M. H. S., 3. Hit by pitcher: Uhler. Umpire: Reynolds, Harvard. Time of game: 2 hours.

The Leal's school team played a fast game, although this was their opening, and there is much credit due the local private school in winning a game from so strong a team as South Orange H. S. The final score was 6 to 2.

Murchie, of South Orange, who pitched against Plainfield High School two years ago so well, was pitted against Bergen, of Leal's, in the box, and the game resolved itself into a pitchers' battle. Murchie pitched excellently for South Orange, and had he received proper support from his team would easily have won, for he struck nineteen Leal men out. Leal's backed up Bergen in faultless style, and with men on base, always hit the ball. For Leal's, Howard, Wilcox and Glenny did brilliantly, while Murchie starred in all departments for South Orange.

The oyster supper which was announced for Friday night at the Y. M. C. A. has been indefinitely postponed.

LITERARY.

The current number of the "most beautiful magazine in the world," is now on all news stands. The cover is a fine portrait of that popular stage favorite, Miss Ethel Barrymore, and is presented in colors. Among the prominent people portrayed are Chancellor Pritchard, the eminent financier, the late Susan B. Anthony, and the Emperor of Austria. Among the people famous for their work in the drama of opera are De Reszke, the famous basso; Lillian Russell, of grand opera fame; Paula Edwards, *Virginia Earle, Adele Rit*chie and Yvette Guilbert, the celebrated French character actress who is now making a farewell tour of this country. Altogether this Mac*Issue is quite equal to any which* precede it. Burr Publishing Co., New York.

JOURNALISTIC OPINIONS

The High License Sentiment.

Montclair affords very pertinent evidence that the high license sentiment in this State is not satisfied with the "license" act" passed by the recent Legislature. Its license fee last year was $400, but retail dealers must, from this time forth, pay $600 for the privilege of selling liquors in that town. The age limit has been advanced also and the rate raised in Montclair from eighteen to twenty-one years in conformity with the State law, and there is little doubt that youngsters between the ages stated will encounter some difficulty in getting drinks, for the reason that the penalty for selling to them is the revocation of the license without power to secure a renewal for a whole year.

The increase in the license fee was made for good reasons. Montclair has been charging $150 a year more than Newark and $100 a year more than the minimum required by the new act. The effects there, as in East Orange, have been to reduce the number of saloons and to compel a better observance of the law and a better class of saloons. The idea is to carry these advantages still further, and some of the town Coun*cilmen were strongly in favor of* placing Montclair on a plane with Plainfield, by increasing the license fee to $1,000.

The jump at Englewood from $150 to $500 has already been referred to, and now that Montclair has doubled the license fee it is probable that other cities and towns will follow the example. The muni*cipalities are benefited in many* ways. The number of saloons is decreased, the police are not required to watch so many drinking places and are enabled to give better service and protection elsewhere. The saloon-keepers who pay high licenses are careful not to forfeit them, and, therefore, keep a better class of saloons. The cities and towns adopting high license do not, as a rule, lose much revenue, but if they do the loss is offset by better police service, better saloon management and better conditions generally.—Newark News.

The Colby Wave Rising.

One of the prominent regular" Republican organs of the State has announced that "prominent Republicans of Newark say that the new idea in politics' is getting played out in that city" and that "it is admitted among sagacious leaders that the 'in*surgents' could not carry that city* again, and there is widespread sentiment in favor of going back to the old regime when Republican victories in Essex were certain. Any one sup*porting the 'insurgent' movement* this fall will be simply working for the success of the Democratic party, which is really behind the movement and doing all it can to help it along. This is interesting reading for the "regulars," but that does not make it truthful.

The facts are that the Colby movement was never so strong in Newark and Essex county as it is right now. This is admitted by every close observer of events with one or two exceptions. Those who do not admit it are politically blinded, just as they were last fall, when they asserted that no one could secure a nomination and election in this county without the indorsement of the Republican county committee. The shock of the revolution in politics last November has been followed by an exodus from the ranks of the old machine men, leaving but a handful of supporters of the old regime. This is particularly true in Newark, and the evidences of the spread of the movement in the county are numerous. The organization of the friends of Senator Colby in East Orange Saturday night is the latest outcropping of public sentiment there, where a resolution was adopted to organize a "Republican movement in sympathy with the platform of Senator Everett Colby." But the activities along this line are not being confined to Essex and Hudson counties. There is a strong tidal wave of reform setting in all over the State, and before the summer is ended it will be so manifest in every county that the "regulars" will be forced to swim for their lives on primary day.—Newark News.

Choir Boys Win.

Holy Cross choir defeated Denton's team by a score of 17 to 5, on the Cricket field, Mercer and Girard avenues, Saturday morning. The batteries were: Holy Cross, Ira Vail and Earl Moran; Dentons, Louis Sleeum, "Budgy" Clark and Earl Oakley.

VIEWS OF THE FRIENDS

Statement of the Society's Belief and Worship at Conference.

A SQUARE DEAL FAITH

Many Friends From Six Out of Town Meetings Attend Gathering — Sapp Precedes First Session.

What the Friends believe and how they live their religious and religious-business life was the theme of a highly interesting address delivered Sunday afternoon by Henry W. Wilbur, of Swarthmore, Pa., at the close of the week-end conference, which opened Saturday night. The address was the chief feature of the conference. It was designed to make the basis of belief and practice in the Society plain to those outside the faith, among whom, it is said, is a considerable misunderstanding of what the tenets and worship of the Friends are.

There was a large attendance at the session, which was announced especially as a public one.

The speaker said that no one held a commission to state what the Society of Friends really believes, or the things for which it stands, and at the best he could only represent the case as it passed through the filter of his very imperfect mind. It may be admitted that the beginning of the Society the founders believed the current theological propositions of the time. But they made a distinct contribution to the evolution of religious ideas. They revolted from both the arbitrary authority of the church and the arbitrary authority of the book. They formulated the claim that the source of supreme authority was the spirit by which the scriptures were brought forth. In this claim of the immediate divine immanence the Society presents its one unifying principle. Regarding the disputed theological doctrines, the Society makes no demand and requires no assent, great diversity of opinion being allowed. Unfortunately Friends have been generally known by their peculiarities. But these peculiarities of speech and dress are no essential part of the Friendly system. The speech and the address at the beginning were magnificent protests against the class distinction in speech, and the almost lyrical ornament in dress that prevailed in the seventeenth century in England, but neither mean much now. Quakerism is really a fellowship, a unity of the spirit, in the midst of diversity of theological belief. Underlying our forms rests upon the existence of the common universal father, which establishes the universal brotherhood. If there is such a universal father, the most natural thing is that he should seek to and succeed in giving his children guidance, and this makes the logical basis for the present divine immanence. The Friends' meeting for worship and for business is a pure democracy, all, both men and women, meet in a plain of absolute equality and mutual helpfulness. The Society is a religious association, but a broad fellowship, to which there is a constant invitation, and from which there is little forced severance. The Society of Friends stands for the "square deal" in the broadest sense. It ought to mean the widest spiritual, social and industrial opportunity for struggling men and women.

Joel Borton, of Woodstown, made a brief speech in compliment to Mr. Wilbur's address. He said there was too much misunderstanding of the Friends, and advocated a wider distribution of books and literature, of a modern kind, on the faith. William W. Williams spoke in the same strain.

The conference opened Saturday night at 8 o'clock, with a question-box meeting. Representatives of six meetings in other places to the number of fifty, attended. New York, Philadelphia, Media, Pa., Purchase, N. Y., and Trenton were represented.

A supper to the out of town delegates was served in the meeting house at 6 o'clock. A committee composed of Elveretta C. Vail, Marietta V. Adams, Mercy Vail, Clarence B. Vail and Margaret Vail was in charge.

Mr. Wilbur conducted the question box. The queries pertained to the Society and its officers. Sunday morning a meeting for worship was held, at which Joel Borton spoke.

His text was "The Gift of God Is Eternal Life." He spoke of the spiritual relation between God and church.

The members of the Yale College Club who attended the annual dinner at the Casino last Saturday night, speak in highest praise of the excellence of the delightful menu prepared by Manager Max Edwards. From a gastronomical standpoint it was a banquet fit for royalty, equalling Sherry's, Delmonico's or any other noted resort in New York. The cooking by Mrs. Freda Collem was artistic, and service unexcelled. The Casino restaurant is an attractive place, and is being patronized by many automobile parties and private families, who here find every comfort and convenience. Dinner and supper orders are specialties and to insure attention a telephone message will "do the rest."

GREAT EARTHQUAKES SINCE THE TWELFTH CENTURY

Year.	Place.	Persons Killed.
1137	Sicily	15,000
1158	Syria	20,000
1268	Cilicia	60,000
1531	Naples	40,000
1531	Lisbon	30,000
1626	Naples	70,000
1638	Scharnaki	80,000
1692	Jamaica	3,000
1693	Sicily	100,000
1703	Aquila, Italy	5,000
1704	Tokat, Asia Minor	200,000
1746	The Abruzzi	15,000
1746	Algiers	20,000
1751	Palermo	6,000
1781	Pekin	100,000
1797	Lima and Callao	18,000
1796	Grand Cairo	40,000
1755	Kashau, Persia	40,000
1755	Lisbon	50,000

Year.	Place.	Persons Killed.
1759	Syria	20,000
1784	Kotaghian, Asia Minor	7,000
1797	Country between Santa Fe and Panama	40,000
1805	Naples	6,000
1822	Aleppo	20,000
1822	Murcia	6,000
1835	Canton	6,000
1842	Cape Haytien	5,000
1857	Calabria	10,000
1859	Quito	3,000
1860	Mountains of South America	4,000
1868	Towns in Ecuador and Peru	25,000
1875	San Jose de Cucuta, Colombia	14,000
1881	Scio	4,000
1886	Charleston, S. C.	41
1891	Island of Bondo, Japan	10,000
1894	Venezuela	2,000

This table does not include the eruptions of Mount Vesuvius which destroyed Pompeii and Herculaneum, A. D. 79, nor the present eruption, in which 2,000 are supposed to have perished.

SON OF MAYOR FISK WEDS CINCINNATI GIRL

BRILLIANT FUNCTION WITNESSED BY 500 FRIENDS.

Augustus R. Fisk, son of former Mayor Charles J. Fisk, was married in Cincinnati Saturday, to Miss Edith Collings, daughter of Critender T. Collings, of that city, a Standard Oil millionaire. The ceremony was performed at Calvary P. E. church, at high noon, by the rector, Rev. George B. Cox.

The wedding was brilliant. Over 500 guests attended it, and the day was perfect. The women were beautifully gowned.

The bride was dressed in white satin, princess, with high point yoke, and wore a tulle veil, caught up with a spray of natural orange blossoms. She carried a bonquet of lilies and white orchids.

The maid of honor was Miss Christine Collings, sister of the bride, and Miss Annie G. Fisk, sister of the groom, was the only other attendant. Both were gowned in pink chiffon and wore white Leghorn hats, trimmed with pink roses. They carried bonquets of pink roses.

The best man was C. W. Fisk, brother of the groom. The ushers were Louis Young, of New York; L. E. Waring, Plainfield; J. A. Moorehead, Pittsburg; Joseph Gatins, New York; Shelby Bonnie, Louisville, Ky.; Morris Dumont and Harvey Fisk, Plainfield.

A wedding breakfast was served at the Collings home after the ceremony. It was catered by Folger, famous throughout the South.

Mr. and Mrs. Fisk will spend their honeymoon in Asheville, N. C. They will probably live here, although plans for their permanent residence have not yet been made. The groom is connected with the Boston office staff of Harvey Fisk & Sons.

Oh! Glory Plans Affair.

Old Glory Council, No. 17, D. of L., is arranging for a big initiation affair on May 5. The Cranford Daughters will be entertained that night, and a lively programme is being prepared. At its meeting Saturday night, the council voted the death claim on the late Mrs. Augusta Jennings to her daughter.

School Talent to Help.

The High School Musical Clubs voted this morning to hold a concert for the benefit of the San Francisco sufferers next Saturday night, April 28. The committee will arrange a programme with several new features.

FORMER LOCAL COLORED MAN MURDERS TWO

ESCAPES TO PHILADELPHIA AND THEN SURRENDERS.

William Perry, colored, a former resident of this city and who worked for a long time in the Pond shop, shot and killed his sweetheart, Alice Merrett, and also his rival for her affections, Lewis Williams, in New York, last Thursday. He escaped and fled to Philadelphia where he gave himself up Saturday night, induced as he says "by the girl's cries ringing in his ears."

Perry lived on Plainfield avenue at South Second street and left here a short time ago to enter the employ of Mayor Ten Broeck at Asbury Park. From there he went to New York where he had since been employed as a waiter.

Williams had been paying attention to the Merrett girl and last Thursday night as he was bound uptown on an "L" train, he saw them get aboard. He determined to kill both at once, but was prevented by the presence of a policeman, who sat directly opposite him. When the couple alighted at the One Hundred and Tenth street station he followed and began firing at them. The first shot struck the woman in the back and he then fired three more shots that struck Williams and caused him to pitch foremost down the stairs. Perry was chased by a mob but got away by jumping on a trolley car.

He told the police his only relative was his mother who lives in New York, but he also has a brother and sister who reside in Plainfield.

College President Here.

Dr. Rush Rhees, president of Rochester University, spent Sunday at the home of his uncle, Charles W. McCutchen, of Rockview avenue.

"Beautify Your Home"

The Burr McIntosh Monthly

"Pictorial Perfection"

"THE MOST BEAUTIFUL MAGAZINE IN THE WORLD."

Ask your newsdealer for this superb magazine. If he does not handle it send us his name and address with your name and address and 10c. for sample copy. Regular price 25c. Mention this paper.

Burr Publishing Company
4 West 22d Street New York City

that it is possible to hatch if placed in a genuine

All the Eggs Will Hatch

CYPHERS INCUBATOR

All the Chicks will live if housed in a

CYPHERS Style A BROODER

and if fed on

CYPHERS CHICK FOOD

GET FREE SAMPLE

Get our free catalogue entitled Poultry Raising Made Easy and Profitable

CYPHERS INCUBATOR COMPANY

23 Barclay Street, Cor. Church Street, New York

Radium Radia

Is admitted by the thousands who have used it to be

THE GREATEST REMEDY EVER DISCOVERED FOR THE CURE OF

RHEUMATISM

LUMBAGO, NEURALGIA, COUGHS, COLDS ON CHEST, SORE THROAT, PNEUMONIA, SPRAINS, SWELLINGS, ETC.

IT NEVER FAILS TO CURE

Hundreds have been cured with one Application

Recommended by Eminent Physicians

APPLIED EXTERNALLY

Sold at Drug Stores and 13 W. 26th St., N.Y. City

PRICE $1.00 and 50c. Write for Booklet

MAILED ANYWHERE ON RECEIPT OF PRICE

STEVENS

RIFLES, PISTOLS, SHOTGUNS

Also Telescopes, Microscopes, Field Glasses, etc.

Illustrated catalogue describing our guns sent free on request. Dealers can supply you. Ammunition, Etc.

Pamphlet describing "Stevens" Rifle sights will be forwarded for 10 cents in stamps.

J. STEVENS ARMS AND TOOL CO.,
P. O. Box 3090
CHICOPEE FALLS, MASS., U.S.A.

New Jersey Central

Passenger Stations in New York—West 23d St., N. R., Foot Liberty St., N. R.

Time Table Corrected to March 19, 1906.

Leave New York—2.17, 4.17, 6.02, 6.39, 6.57, 7.05, 7.20, 7.48, 7.55, 8.02, 8.11, 8.30, W. 8.32, 8.38, 9.02, 10.02, 11.02 a. m., 12.02, 12.44, 1.11, 2.11, 3.02, 3.49, 4.44, 4.47, 5.02, 5.32, 6.29, 6.43, 7.06, 7.32, 8.26, 9.32, 10.32, 11.32 p. m. Sunday—2.17, 3.32, 5.05, 7.41, 8.01, 8.32, 9.49, 10.03, 11.19 a. m., 12.06, 12.58, 2.06, 3.06, 4.06, 5.06, 6.06, 6.45, 6.52, 8.13, 8.52, 9.42, 10.32 p. m.

Leave Hoboken—2.36, 4.36, 6.21, 6.57, 7.00, 7.25, 7.45, 8.15, 8.30, 8.36, 9.00, 9.30, 10.00, 11.00, 12.00 a. m., 1.00, 1.15, 2.31, 2.49, 3.44, 4.13, 4.47, 5.42, 5.52, 6.33, 6.53, 7.08, 7.53, 8.23, 9.40 p. m. Sunday—7.41, 8.32, 9.49, 10.03, 11.19 a. m., 12.06, 12.58, 1.45, 3.17, 3.3., 5.41, 6.45, 6.52, 8.13, 8.52, 9.42, 10.32 p. m.

For Somerville—6.28, 7.12, 8.21, 9.37, 9.55, 11.00 a. m., 1.01, 2.07, 2.11, 2.32, 4.23, 5.02, 5.19, 6.04, 6.19, 6.45, 7.42, 8.32, 8.56, 9.11, 9.37, 10.23, 11.28 p. m., 12.58 night. Sunday—8.45, 9.37, 9.55, 11.00 a. m., 2.03, 3.46, 5.37, 8.30, 10.16, 11.16, 11.25 p. m.

For Flemington—7.12, 11.00 a. m., 2.11, 5.29, 6.19 p. m. Sundays—8.42 a. m., 5.37 p. m.

For Philipsburg and Easton—5.36, 8.21, 3.54 p. m., 2.11, 5.29, 6.41 p. m. Sunday—5.46 a. m., 2.03, 7.06 p. m.

For Bethlehem, Allentown and Mauch Chunk—5.36, 8.21, 3.54, 5.29 p. m. Sundays—5.45 a. m., 2.03, 7.06 p. m.

For Wilkesbarre and Scranton—5.25, 5.54 a. m., 1.01 p. m. Sundays—5.45 a. m., 2.03 p. m.

For Long Branch and Asbury Park, etc. —6.12, 11.00 a. m., 5.44, 6.13, 6.47, 6.22, 11.28 p. m. Sunday—8.52 a. m., 3.36, 8.13 p. m.

For Red Bank—8.11, 11.00 a. m., 1.18, 3.44, 4.47, 6.13, 11.28 p. m. Sundays—8.52 a. m., 3.36, 8.13 p. m.

For Lakewood and Atlantic City—(7.11 Lakewood only), 2.36 a. m., 1.18, 3.49, (4.47 p. m. Lakewood only), Sundays—8.52 a. m.

For Toms River and Barnegat—8.11 a. m., 1.18, 3.44 p. m. Sundays—8.52 a. m.

For Philadelphia—5.11, 7.44, 8.51, 9.39, 10.44, 11.42 a. m., 12.42, 1.39, 2.45, 3.42, 4.45, 5.46, 7.46, 8.50, 9.44 p. m., 1.17 night. Sunday—5.17, 10.39, 10.44, 11.42 a. m., 12.42, 3.42, 5.45, 7.46, 8.50, 9.44 p. m., 1.17 night.

For Reading and Harrisburg—5.17, 8.25, 9.38, 9.54, (10.44, 11.44 Reading only), a. m., 1.15, (5.45, through train), 7.11 night. Sunday—5.17 a. m., 2.08, 5.37, 6.36 p. m., 1.17 night.

For Pottsville, Sunbury and Williamsport—5.17, 8.25, 9.38 a. m., 2.11, 5.41 p. m., 1.17 night. Sunday—5.17 a. m., 2.08 p. m., 1.17 night.

For Baltimore and Washington—1.17, 5.11, 10.51 a. m., 2.45, 5.45, 7.47 p. m. Sundays—1.17, 5.51 a. m., 2.45 p. m., 1.37 night.

Change cars at Round Brook.

W. G. Besler, Gen. Pass. Agt. G. M. BURT, Vice Pres. & Gen. Mgr.

Lehigh Valley Railroad

Time Table in Effect Dec. 31, 1905.

LEAVE SOUTH PLAINFIELD, N. J.

6.06 a. m. daily (except Sunday) local to Mauch Chunk.

8.37 a. m. daily for Easton, Wilkesbarre, Rochester, Buffalo and principal intermediate stations.

1.57 p. m. daily, local for Easton, Mauch Chunk, Hazleton, Pottsville and Shenandoah.

4.58 p. m. daily (except Sunday) "Wilkesbarre Express" for Wilkesbarre, Solid vestibule train to Wilkesbarre, through Parlor Car to E. & H. R. R. to Scranton and Carbondale.

6.21 p. m. daily (except Sunday) local to Easton.

6.40 p. m. daily, solid vestibule train to Buffalo, Toronto and Chicago and principal intermediate stations except Rochester.

FRANK ROWLEY, City Ticket Agent, 213 West Front Street, Plainfield, N. J. Telephone 117.

Arrival and Departure of Mails.

PLAINFIELD POSTOFFICE.

Office opens 7 a. m., closes 7 p. m. On Saturdays office closes half hour later.

Arrive—7.30, 8.40, 11.20 a. m.; 2.30, 5.00, 6.20 p. m.

Close—7.30, 9.20 a. m.; 1.00, 2.30, 6.00, 7.45 p. m.

SOMERVILLE AND EASTON.

Arrive—8.40 a. m.; 1.20, 2.15 and 7.00 p. m.

Close—7.30 a. m.; 12.45 and 4.25 p. m.

ELIZABETH—Direct.

Arrive—8.40 a. m.; 2.30 and 6.20 p. m.

Close—7.30 a. m.; 1.00 and 4.25 p. m.

PENNSYLVANIA—West of Easton.

Close 12.30 p. m.

NEWARK—Direct.

Arrive—8.40 a. m.; 2.30, 6.20 p. m.

Close—7.30, 9.20 a. m.; 1.00, 2.30 and 6.00 p. m.

PHILADELPHIA—Direct.

Arrive—7.30, 8.40, 11.20 a. m.; 2.30 and 7.00 p. m.

Close—7.15, 7.30, 9.20 a. m.; 12.30, 4.20, 7.15 p. m.

Through fast mail for West and South close 4.20 and 7.15 p. m.

Through fast mail for East, close 1.00 and 7.15 p. m.

WATCHUNG, WARINENVILLE AND GALLIA (Mt. Bethel.)

Arrive—1.20 p. m. Close—9.00 a. m. Watchung—Arrive 6.45 p. m. Close 1.20 p. m.

SUNDAY MAILS.

Office open from 8.30 to 10.30 a. m.

Mail closes at 11.15 a. m.

E. H. BIRD, P. M.

—Louis Bond has resigned his position as a linotype operator at the Sabbath Recorder office, and will prepare himself for the position of a chauffeur.

FOWLER TALKS AT THE YALE CLUB BANQUET

Congressman Gives Explanation Why Plainfield is Best Place in the State.

RUNYON TOASTMASTER

Dr. James R. Joy, Prof. C. M. Lewis and Others Speak—Dinner at the Casino.

The "Sons of Old Eli," members of the Plainfield Yale Club, to the number of about fifty, gathered at the Casino Saturday night and enjoyed their annual banquet and reunion. In every particular the affair was decided to be the most successful in the history of the club. A majority of the patrons were Plainfielders. The dinner was a good one and pleased all. The assembly room was appropriately decorated with the Yale blue.

City Judge William N. Runyon was the toastmaster, and the toasts were as follows:

"Plainfield Yale Club," James R. Joy; "Columbia," Henry L. Hall; "Yale," Prof. Charlton M. Lewis, of Yale; "Old Nassau," Owen H. Fleming; "Yale in Public Life," Hon. Charles M. Fowler; "Amherst," W. L. Righter.

One of the principal addresses of the evening was that by Congressman Fowler. By way of introduction he said that he had been trying to figure out why Plainfield was better than any other city in the State. He had found a solution to the problem when he was informed that there are between eighty and one hundred Yale men living here, which is ten to one the number to be found in Elizabeth.

The greater part of Congressman Fowler's remarks were devoted to the achievement of Yale men in public life, especially that of William H. Taft, Secretary of War. He referred to his unselfish devotion and sacrifice to his country in the various official positions he has occupied.

The Congressman referred to the fact that two Yale men are Supreme Court justices, Messrs. Brewer and Brown, that there are ten Yale men in the United States Senate and six in the House of Representatives, and the college is also represented in the President's Cabinet, the Secretary of War Taft and Secretary Metcalf of the Department of Labor and Commerce. Mr. Fowler also complimented the Plainfield Yale club and of its loyalty to its alma mater.

Prof. Lewis, of Yale University, spoke especially of the loyalty of the alumni, and that while a college is always in need of money and substantial aid, in realitr it is the loyalty of the alumni that is of the greatest benefit to a college. In this respect he thought Yale would never suffer as the graduates from that seat of learning have always proved themselves to be worthy and ready to stand by their college.

James R. Joy, who spoke for the Plainfield Yale club, gave a brief resume of the local organization and its objects, as well as its growth. He thought that every member was a loyal Yale man and spoke of the great advantage in such a club whereby the interest and enthusiasm could be maintained.

During the evening Mr. Joy offered a proposition which was carried unanimously that the members subscribe individually a fund in aid of the San Francisco sufferers. In a few minutes about $200 was contributed to the worthy cause.

Brief remarks were made by Henry L. Hall, representing Columbia; Owen H. Fleming, representing Princeton, and W. L. Righter, representing Amherst, each one showing his devotion to his alma mater and congratulating Yale for her achievements.

A happy feature of the affair was the singing of famous Yale songs, printed lists containing thirty or forty such songs. These were sung many times during the evening. An interesting sight was witnessed when all hands joined in the singing of the "Omega Lambda Chi" song, both young and old clasping hands and marching about the hall displaying unbounded enthusiasm.

After the affair broke up the members of the club and their guests spent a social hour.

This was the menu enjoyed by the club:

Oysters.	Blue Points.
Potage.
Cream of Asparagus.
Hors d'Oeuvres.
Celery.	Olives.
Poisson.
Boiled Salmon, sauce Hollandaise.
Cucumbers.	Potatoes.
Filet de Boeuf, aux Champigons.
Frappe.
Roman Punch.
Rote.
Birds on Toast.
Salade, al la Casino.
Dessert.
Meringue Glace.
Gateaux Assorte.
Fromage.	Roquefort.
Cafe Noir.
Cigars.	Cigarettes.

Those who arranged and had charge of the affair were as follows: President, T. M. Day; vice-president, Edwards Stevenson; secretary and treasurer, Lewis A. Williams; executive committee, Carroll S. Runyon, Harry B. Lovell and W. B. Tyler.

TROLLEY TRUST TO TAKE BACK YOUNG

UNOFFICIAL ANNOUNCEMENT THAT HE WILL CONTROL ITS OPERATING DEPT.

Unofficial announcement was made yesterday in Newark that an important change is soon to be made in connection with the control of the operating department of the trolley systems of the Public Service Corporation.

It is understood that negotiations have been concluded for the return of David Young as general manager of all the lines operated by the company. Mr. Young was formerly first vice president and general manager of the North Jersey Street Railway Company. When the lines of that company were merged with the Jersey City, Hoboken and Paterson lines, of which Mr. Young was also general manager, and with other lines, notably the Elizabeth, Plainfield and Central Jersey and the Orange and Passaic Valley, Mr. Young retired. He since has been managing the extensive trolley interest in various large cities controlled by Brown Brothers, of New York.

Mr. Young probably will divide the management of the lines of the Public Service with Vice President Charles A. Sterling, who will devote his attention to improving and extending the present systems. Mr. Young will attend to the operating.

The deal by which the services of Mr. Young are to be secured is said to be an outcome of the recent move by which new capital was secured to the Public Service through the banking house of Winthrop & Co. and the United Gas Improvement Company of Philadelphia.

Mr. Young is classed among the most expert and successful operators of trolley systems in the United States.

The Prudential Benefits New Jersey People.

The benefits which have come to New Jersey people through the fact that The Prudential Insurance Company is a New Jersey institution are shown by the statement that nearly 18 million dollars have been paid by The Prudential to residents of this State and that more than 900,000 policies are now held in The Prudential by New Jersey people. The Prudential wrote more new business and paid more claims in New Jersey last year than any other company operating in this State. In purely voluntary concessions alone (that is dividends, etc., granted by The Prudential which were not provided for in the policyholders' contracts) New Jersey people have benefitted to the extend of over $1,000,000. These figures show that The Prudential is of great value to the people of wealth to the State. In other respects this big institution is also important to the State. A great life insurance company is something more than an indemnifier against risks; it is incidentally a great investor, a great employer of labor and a source of wealth to both city and State. Figures showing The Prudential's status in these various aspects are given. Thus the amount loaned on bond and mortgage in New Jersey is over $6,000,000; an investment which must have its effects in the development of productive industry. Again, The Prudential finds a livelihood for between 3,000 and 4,000 New Jersey people who have dependents representing perhaps two or three times that number. As a taxpayer, The Prudential has paid to New Jersey the great sum of $2,860,000 which somebody would have had to pay if The Prudential had not located in New Jersey. This leaves out of account the reduction of taxation that has taken place through the decrease of public funerals since the introduction of Industrial Life Insurance. The Prudential carries over $155,000,000 of paid for life insurance on the lives of New Jersey people, which is the best evidence of the confidence held by the citizens of the State in that great institution.

Musical Entertainment.

The Ithaca Conservatory of Music Concert Company gave a musical entertainment at the Y. M. C. A. Saturday night. One of the members of the quartette was too ill to appear, and the numbers were made up of solo and duet selections. Miss Stoll, the elocutionist, filled out the programme with some clever club swinging.

Fred Dunavan has been chosen chairman of the library committee of Trinity Reformed church Sunday-school, succeeding Charles M. Dolliver, who has resigned.

Miss Edith Fisk, of West Seventh street, in company with her uncle, Alexander Fisk, of New York, has gone abroad on a pleasure trip.

W. B. Smith and his big Winton touring car have returned to Caldwell. Bill was quiet and neighborly while here.

ITALIAN SHOT DEAD IN A REVOLVER DUEL

Quarrel With Francesco Cerbo Leads Paolo Fusco to Sudden Death In Cottage Place Shack.

FORMER'S VAIN FLIGHT

Escaped to Elizabethport, Doubled On His Trail to Shake Off Pursuit, Only to Be Captured In Westfield.

Paolo Fusco, 30 years old, an Italian laborer, was shot dead by Francesco Cerbo, 24 years old, another laborer, in a quarrel at John Falconi's house, 331 Cottage place, at 12:30 o'clock Sunday morning. Cerbo was captured in Westfield six and a half hours later. He was traced, after fleeing in the darkness two hours ahead of pursuit, through a passport that fell into the hands of the police.

The shooting was witnessed by five other Italians. One of them, Francesco Parmiero, who was found and held by the police, told the latter the only story of the affair they could gather through the night. According to Parmiero, Fusco died in a pistol duel, which arose out of protracted bickering between the two men. Fusco, Cerbo and himself were out together early in the evening, he said, drinking beer and having what they considered a good time. Shortly after 10 o'clock they went to Falconi's house, where Fusco boarded. That part of the story is corroborated by Patrolman McKeon, who saw the trio at Cottage place and Washington street about 10:30. Two fellow-country-men joined them at the house. Fusco and Cerbo started nagging one another, and then took to calling names. The clash grew warmer and the three others tried to separate them, but they persisted in quarreling and finally revolvers were drawn. Then a rapid exchange of shots, Parmiero says, and Fusco fell, with a bullet in his brain. Parmiero swears by all the saints that he does not know who fired first.

As Fusco dropped, Cerbo thrust his revolver into his pocket and leaped through a window to the yard, disappearing in the darkness. An hour and a half elapsed before the police heard of the shooting. The information came to them through Falconi, who, said he, was not home when the fight occurred, but had learned of it an hour later from Parmiero. When Chief Kiely, who was called out of bed as soon as the larm came in, heard where Falconi got his tidings, the dragnet was thrown out for Parmiero, and he was nabbed and brought to headquarters.

He denied all knowledge of the affair at first, but the chief clapped him into a cell and he weakened, and told his story of the shooting. Cerbo's room was immediately searched, and in his trunk a passport issued to him by the Italian government was found. The passport contained a complete a word picture of Cerbo and his physical peculiarities as anybody in the police business could ever use. They do those things well in Continental governments. Within half an hour Chief Kiely had every man on the force and the police of nearby and surrounding cities in possession of his full description and on the lookout for the fugitive.

Tidings of Cerbo came in at 4 o'clock, when the Westfield department telephoned that he boarded the 3:48 train, eastbound, there. The railroad police at Jersey City were telephoned to watch for him, but he had added two and a half hours to his freedom by getting off the train at the Spring street station, Elizabethport. The conductor reported that as soon as the officers approached him at the terminal, Chief Kiely, on receipt of that news, sent Detective McCarthy and Patrolman Higgins to Elizabethport, but Cerbo doubling on his trial, got by them; only to run into the grip of Chief O'Neil, of the Westfield force.

O'Neil, watching the railroad, shortly after 7 o'clock, saw Cerbo walking westward on the track. The Italian, haggard and weary, submitted quietly to arrest. Chief Kiely, with Sergeant Frederickson, went to Westfield on word that they had got the capture and brought Cerbo to the city jail. Parmiero, who was being held a. a witness, identified him.

Cerbo had a bullet wound in his left wrist. A .32 calibre revolver with two chambers empty was found in his pocket.

Cerbo is unable to speak English intelligibly, and Chief Kiely made no immediate attempt to get a statement from him. The wound in his wrist and the appearance of the Falconi house when the body was examined bore out Parmiero's story of a heated quarrel and a revolver duel. The chairs in the room where the shooting began were overturned, and a lamp had been flung over. Half of the cloth on the table was burned, and part of the clothes and about five inches of the skin on Fusco's body showed where the fire that followed the overturning of the lamp had been at work.

Fusco's body was found in the hall, to where it was dragged by the witnesses, who put out the fire before fleeing from the house. The body was lying face downward with a revolver beneath it. Two chambers were empty. The police found a flattened bullet on the floor and the mark of a ball on the ceiling.

Chief Kiely had his men at work all day Sunday in search of witnesses, and added Falconi and Francesco Zambella to his bag. It was learned that Falconi saw the shooting, although he pretended to have heard of it through Parmiero, and he was promptly corralled. Zambella was one of three witnesses the police started to look for Sunday morning. Two of the witnesses, Chief Kiely says, have skipped.

Both the new witnesses substantially corroborated Parmiero's story of the affair.

Through an interpreter Monday afternoon Chief Kiely got a partial statement from Cerbo. As far as the chief could understand him, he said Fusco drew a revolver during their argument and he shot with his own weapon to return the fire.

Although a dirty and much used pack of cards was found on the floor of the room, none of the witnesses will acknowledge that they were playing.

The dead man has a wife and two children in Italy. Cerbo is unmarried. Both men lived here for about two years.

"BEWARE OF THE NEGRO UPRISING."

The Rev. Dr. Holmes Warns the White Race in Speaking of Need of Education.

The Rev. Dr. Richard S. Holmes, of Philadelphia, editor of The Westminster, preaching in "The Race Problem and Higher Education of the Negro" to the congregation of the First Presbyterian church, Orange, Sunday morning, warned the white race to beware or they would be overwhelmed. Within a century, he declared, there would be 100,000,000 negroes in the United States.

"The Lord help the present dominant race when this great giant awakens," prayed Dr. Holmes.

Dr. Holmes said that the negro problem was well nigh impossible of solution because of three prejudices—that of the American people against the negro, which was greater than that of any other nation; that of the negro against the white, and that of the negro against his own race.

He likened the negro to a whip top. "In days of the civil war, he said, this great top was spinning pretty well; then came the emancipation which cut the lash of the whip. The negro though had inertia, and the top began spinning as the force of inertia gained from the slave driver's whip, but it is now gradually dying down, and as it dies the race is not rising and the uprising is pending.

"Would you have this giant awake in ignorance and with a hatred for the white race?" inquired the minister.

Speaking of conditions in the south he said that few out of thousands of negro girls reached the age of thirteen with unblemished purity. The responsibility for these conditions he placed at the door of the white people.

SPEED OF NOVEL WRITERS.

Some Who Can Turn Out Many Thousands of Words in a Day.

The recent statement of a lady writer of fiction that her average output is over 5,000 words a day is so remarkable to anyone who has any practical knowledge of the labor of the pen that it ought to be interesting to compare the rates at which well known authors produce their work, says London Tit-Bits.

If this industrious lady had merely claimed that she frequently wrote 5,000 words or more in a day the statement would have caused surprise, but quite a commonplace feat with rapid writers. In his early and enthustastic days H. G. Wells on several occasions actually wrote with his own hand more than 7,000 words in a day—a performance which he now looks back on with mingled envy and penitence. Nowadays he considers that he has done excellently if he has as many thousands words to show as the net result of a week's steady work, after destroying at least as much as he allows to survive. A thousand words a day, or less than a column and a half of Tit-Bits, is his average output the year round, and he thinks this is "quite enough for any man to give to the world."

A Birthday Party.

Miss Madeline J. Lewin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John M. Lewin, of Watchung avenue, the borough, was given a party, Saturday, in honor of her tenth birthday anniversary. Her young friends were in attendance and they passed several hours delightfully in playing games. Miss Lewin received a number of pretty presents.

Miss Ruth Maxson, of West Seventh street, improves slowly from a severe and tedious illness.

Robert Nagle has entirely recovered from his attack of pneumonia and returned to work.

PLAYERS LOOM UP STRONG

Exhibition at Jersey City Yesterday Backs Up the Opinion of the Cranks.

TEAM LOOKS INVINCIBLE

Team Doped Out to Be a Heavy Hitting Combination Balanced With Fast Fielders.

That Plainfield this year will have the strongest team that ever represented the city this season is now beyond doubt. The exhibition of the players against Jersey City proves the belief of Manager Daab and the members of the association. Everybody is now anxiously awaiting the opening game on May 5 with the All Cubans.

It is not hard to dope out the strength of the team. Starting behind the rubber, where is the catcher who can play in "Jack" O'Neill's back yard? Jack is recognized as the best strike and foul tip receiver in the business, not by independent managers alone, but by Eastern League magnates. It would be an easy matter for "Jack" to find a berth in the Eastern League if he so elected. His standing as a ball player and a man is made, but he has never been questioned. On the contrary, when clubs in the Eastern League are crippled in the catching department the first thing to do is to telegraph "Jack" O'Neill to come on and get in the game. Last season he helped out both Newark and Jersey City in painful periods. Where is there a catcher who can beat him? None to be found in this section, it is believed.

Manager Daab is well supplied with twirlers and on his staff are Deegan, Leo Kelley, Dwyer and Russell, in addition to Phil Smith of the High School. Deegan's status is also well known to local fandom. What he doesn't know in the art of curvology isn't worth knowing, declare the wise ones. Deegan has speed and a frost-blesome drop which is puzzling to all batters. When the warm weather opens up "Silent Willie" will be in his best fighting trim. Leo Kelley is a promising youngster. Last year he played with Jersey City early in the season. He was fast enough to stay with the team, but preferred to retain his grip on a lucrative position with the subway people in Brooklyn and play independent ball. He is a left-hander, 22 years old, with plenty of speed and curves.

Russell and Dwyer are "try-outs." Russell has never played in these parts, but claims a fast record in the northern New York State League, where he played last season with Jamestown. He is a first class baseman. He will be worked out with the team Sunday. Dwyer is a lanky chap, about 6 feet 2 inches in height. He hails from West Hoboken, and has twirled for a number of teams in that section. He appears to have the proper quality of stuff that goes to make a twirler and will exhibit his prowess in practice tomorrow.

In Dave Driscoll's place on the initial sack will be Hearnquez, who played with the Dover team in the Lackawanna league last season, and Sundays with the Manhattans. He is a fast fielder and capable of executing heavy stick work. Second baseman "Jimmy" Brogan or "The Kid," as he is familiarly known, needs no introduction to the local baseball public. Manager Murray thought so much of "The Kid" that he tried him out with the Jerseys in their training trip. Brogan is in excellent condition and is sure to duplicate his brilliant and sensational work of last season, while substituting for Dalton during the latter's incapacitation.

"Tommy" Curley, the short field artist, is another new face on the team. He comes from Montclair and won his spurs playing on the strong professional clubs in and around Newark. Last year he blossomed out as a Lackawanna league star on the Summit team, where he played short stop. Curley is alive and aggressive throughout the game. In fielding he cannot be surpassed by his predecessor. He is an accurate thrower to base and a heavy batsman. In the last game with the Cedars two weeks ago he distinguished himself by driving out four hits. Captain "Mike" Leonard, on third base, will complete the infield. Leonard is known by all managers as the premier third sack artist in these regions, and expects to add to his laurels this season by surpassing all past records. The infield is what can be termed as stonewall in its construction.

The outfield was never better. Bertwhistle, who is known as a terror to all pitchers in the metropolitan district, will be in "Pete" Cregan's place in left field. "Bert" takes all manner of chances and seldom misses what he goes after and then he is "Johnny on the Spot" when there is any plunking to be executed. George Mallen, in centre garden, is not an unknown quantity to followers of the national game in this city. He is aggressive, fast in the field and clever with the stick.

Manager Daab completed his outfield by signing Heffron, a Jersey City player who has made a record on the St. John's Catholic Club nine during the past two seasons. Heffron accompanied the Providence team on its training trip this spring. His work greatly pleased Jack Dunn, but his services could not be utilized at present because the Providence team is well stocked with outfielders. Heffron looks like a player and according to his record with St. John's Club he has developed the art of slugging and for two years has led the team in hitting.

MAJOR LEAGUE NOTES.

Jack Cronin, whose great pitching was such a factor in the winning of the Eastern League pennant for Providence, has come to terms with President Powers and signed his contract.

Left Fielder McFarland, of the Providence Eastern League team, has jumped his contract and gone to the outlaw Altoona Club. President Pat Powers, of the Providence Club, offered McFarland more money than he was getting last season. McFarland demanded more, which was also granted, but he failed to report with the team last month, and when next heard of was a full-fledged outlaw.

Last year was most successful in professional base ball. It is the general feeling that the season of 1906 will be better. Never were more elaborate efforts made to strengthen the clubs all along the line. Money has been expended lavishly to secure the best players the market affords. It is recognized on every side that to the victor belong the spoils and that there is little sympathy and use for the clubs that bring up the rear. The two major leagues—the American and the National—vie with each other in the contention that every club in their organization made money last season. There was a wide margin, however, in the amount of profits achieved by the first and last clubs in both leagues.

More base ball clubs will be on the diamond of the United States this year than ever before played in the history of the country. There will be more leagues than there were in 1905 and there will be more independent clubs. Dealers in base ball supplies say that the demands for the summer trade are far in excess of any season in their history. Had they not anticipated such a possibility it might have been that some of them would have found it out of the question to supply advantageously all their customers.

Predicting winners in a race for a base ball championship is "mighty onsartin" pastime, but it has its charm. The speculative feature of sport is one of its most gratifying attributes. Now is the time for the partisan prophets to begin operations.

Here's a story on Laporte, the New York Americans' new third baseman. In Buffalo one day Laporte invited his landlady and her daughter to the game. "Come out and see me break a couple of bats," he grinned. "I'll leave passes at the box office." In the excitement of dressing he forgot the tickets until the car was just started. An usher notified him that two ladies were waiting. He had no time to see the manager so he gave the boy $1. "Tell them to buy seats." The usher followed instructions, but when the mother got back she asked her daughter if she couldn't rather go somewhere and see something good. "Sure," replied the daughter. And they went.

Willie Keeler is a wonder. In eleven years he has not ranked lower than sixth in the batting list. In that time he led his league twice, was second once and was third four times. In thirteen years he has a grand batting average of .362.

William Trembath, of Chatham street, has several relatives in San Francisco, including his mother and sisters. He has telegraphed them, but so far has not been able to learn whether they are all right or not.

MARRIED.

FISK—COLLINGS—On April 21, 1906, at Calvary P. E. church, Cincinnati, Ohio, by the Rev. George Cox, Edith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Crittenden D. Collings, to Augustus Richey Fisk, of Plainfield, N. J.

DIED

MARTIN—On Wednesday, April 18, 1906, William H. Martin, in his 48th year.

DAVISON—On Thursday, April 19, 1906, William Davison, in his 73d year.

ADAMS—On Thursday, April 19, 1906, Margaret, wife of Charles R. Adams, in her 68th year.

LAWLER—In this city, April 21, 1906, Patrick J. Lawler.

MORRISON—On Saturday, April 21, 1906, Hazel Avis, youngest daughter of Joseph B. and Anna W. Morrison, in her 13th year.

BROWN—At Bristol, Conn., on Saturday, April 21, 1906, Burtt A., son of Ann M. and the late Moses Brown, aged 36 years.

BREBRAND—In this city, April 22, 1906, Hannah Brebrand, in her 62d year.

HOPE—In Plainfield, Sunday, April 22, 1906, Stevenson R. Hope, in his 77th year.

BOWMAN—In this city, at 1114 Dunellen avenue, April 22, 1906, Albert Henry Bowman, in the 63d year of his age.

Sanitary Plumbing

Brick and Portable Furnaces

Gas Fitting, Tin Roofing,

Etc., Etc., Etc.

I am prepared to do any of the above branches in strictly first-class sanitary and workmanship manner.

Having associated myself with the Master Members Association of New York City, I employ none but first-class mechanics and non-union men. I believe in every man running his own business, at all times and in all cases.

D. W. LITTELL,

No. 112 North Ave., Plainfield, N. J.

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE

PATENTS

TRADE MARKS, DESIGNS, COPYRIGHTS &c.

Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Handbook on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents. Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the Scientific American.

A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.

MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York

Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

NEW IN EVERY DETAIL

My new barber shop at

143 NORTH AVE.

is now open ready for business. All the latest appointments in the toilet line.

EDWIN B. MAYNARD.

CARNEY BROS.,

MADISON AVENUE,

Between Front and Second streets

Tinners,

Plumbers

Gas Fitters,

Grates and bricks for all kinds of stoves can be found here at Jobbers' prices. Bring your tinware needing to us. Our men are skilled plumbers, and the best gas-fitters in this section. We use none but the very best of materials, and our work always gives satisfaction. Keys of all kinds are made here. Tinware made to order. Ranges, brick and portable furnaces. Sanitary plumbing.

DIME

Savings Institution,

Of Plainfield, N. J.,

Is now receiving deposits with interest, allowed on all sums from $5 to $3,000.

J. Frank Hubbard, President.
Wm. F. Arnold, } Vice-Pres
Jeremiah Manning, }
J. C. Pope, Sec'y and Treas.

Money deposited on or before January tenth will draw interest from the first.

Guaranteed Salary

$900 YEARLY.

Men and women of good address to represent us, some to travel appointing agents, others for local work locating agents' interests. $900 salary guaranteed yearly; extra commissions and expenses; steady employment, old established house. Grand chance for earnest man or woman to secure pleasant, permanent position, liberal income and future. New, brilliant lines. Write at once.

STAFFORD PRESS,
23 Church St., New Haven, Conn

W. E. CODDINGTON

Counsellor-at-Law

Commissioner of Deeds, Master-in-chancery, Notary Public. Offices Corner of Park avenue and Second street.

ALBERT HEDDEN

Livery & Boarding Stables

FOURTH ST.,

between Watchung and Park avenues. First-class Livery. Horses boarded by week or month. Telephone call No. 114.

Wm. A. Woodruff

Fire and Life

INSURANCE AGENT

OFFICE,

corner Front St. and Par A

A THRILLING EXPERIENCE

'Frisco Disaster Recalls to Former Councilman Pray His Contact With a Big Quake.

IN SAME TERRITORY

Was 400 Feet Below the Earth's Surface When Seismic Shocks Occurred—Barely Escaped With His Life.

When former Councilman E. E. Pray, of West Seventh street, read the newspaper accounts of the San Francisco horror it recalled to his mind an experience he had with an earthquake in California thirty-five years ago. He hadn't thought of it much in all that time, but the descriptions of the terrific shock at the Golden Gate brought back his recollections vividly. He had thrills enough to remember and to spare. It was a tremendous earthquake, and he was thrown into intimate association with it for the short time it stayed in his neighborhood. The shock was greater, he believes, than the one that wrought the ruin in San Francisco, and he knows just about how the people of that city felt when the cataclysm of Wednesday occurred.

Mr. Pray met the earthquake 400 feet below the level of the earth. He was in Mono county, California, 250 miles east of Frisco, where he lived in his younger days, at the time. Although but twenty years old, he was manager of a big silver mine, and it was in the depths of this mine that he felt the quake.

The shock came just before midnight. Mr. Pray had been playing cards until after eleven o'clock in his office-cabin at the mouth of the shaft. After the game he went down into the mine to take a look at the indications along a new prospecting level. He took one of his assistants with him. Before he entered the mouth of the shaft, he noticed that the night was remarkably still and beautiful. That seems to be a condition which always precedes great earthquakes at night.

Mr. Pray and the miner went down to the end of the main tunnel, 400 feet below the surface, and then up about fifteen feet to an ore chamber. Mr. Pray carried a miner's candlestick, and another one had been stuck in the side of the ore chute leading from the chamber to the 400-foot level. Mr. Pray was feeling about the walls for a place in which to stick it, when he heard a hollow rumble from a distance. The two men looked at one other. They thought the giant powder stored in the mouth of an abandoned shaft had blown up. They abandoned that theory a second later. The terrifying earthquake roar burst on them suddenly, in full, paralyzing volume, and with the earth trembling and shaking about them, and the sounds of cracking timbers and of falling rocks above the shaft in their ears, they were toppled from their balance. A few seconds later another tremendous shock came as the earth-crust settled back into place. That second shock was worse than the first.

"As the great shock came, Mr. Pray's candle dropped from his hand and was lost, but the candle in the chute burned on, showing a path of light to the tunnel below. The two men made a simultaneous leap for the chute and flung themselves down to the level. They had no particular acquaintance with seismography, but they knew an earthquake when they met one; and they wanted to get out of that mine as fast as they could. They didn't stop to pluck the candle from the side of the chute, but felt their way along the tunnel by the beams that ran up its side. The beams were twisted, or down, pretty much all along the wall and their progress was slow, but they finally reached the shaft. They found the ladderway in useable shape and made their way to the surface.

When daylight came they learned the tremendous force the earthquake had exerted. A fissure had formed at the side of a stream forty times as big as Greenbrook at high water, so large and deep that it took the river months to wash it together. Cliffs had been torn loose from the Sierra Nevada mountains nearby, and boulders four times as big as an ordinary house were sent crushing down the mountains. All the stone and brick houses in towns about were wrecked, and a stage road was twisted and pushed back a good bit from where it was laid out. San Francisco felt the tail end tremor of that quake, but no damage was done there. Little tremors continued in Mono county daily for two months afterward.

Some scientific observer said at the time that if the Mono county shock had been felt in San Francisco the damage there would have been appalling. Mr. Pray believes that it would have done more harm than the one of Wednesday.

Fanny as Ill.

Friends here have received word from Worcester, Mass., that John Crawley, a former Plainfielder and an old Pond employe, is having a hard time. Mrs. Crawley was recently paralyzed in both legs, Crawley has been tied up with rheumatism for months and his daughter has contracted hip disease.

FEARED BIGAMY CHARGE

Newark Couple Came Here to Get Married But Woman Backed Out.

UNCERTAIN OF STATUS

Mrs. Elizabeth Bull's Husband Wandered Away Four Years Ago—She Wanted to Get Married to Frank Fallon.

Frank Fallon, a Newark machinist, and Mrs. Elizabeth Bull, a young widow—at least, she hopes she is a widow—of the same place, came to Justice Hand's office Wednesday afternoon to be married. They weren't, because the bride to be backed out at the penultimate minute.

Fallon and the bride to be explained to the justice, as soon as they reached the office, that they wanted to get married but that the lady had scruppules as to her right to take part in the ceremony. Her husband skipped and left her with two children four years ago, and as she heard nothing directly from him since. She got word indirectly, however, not long after he left, that he had died in Pennsylvania. She believes the information was correct, and she ardently hopes it was, but she has never received positive confirmation of it.

Fallon tried to get trace of the husband and failed. He felt, after the fruitless search, that the unappreciative Bull was dead enough for him, and he urged Mrs. Bull to marry again. He said he had advice from lawyers that convinced him the second marriage contained little or no risk to her. Mrs. Bull finally consented. They had read of some of the marrying feats of Justice Hand, and they decided to take the trip and combine an outing with the nuptials.

Mrs. Bull's fears of bigamy grew large as they approached the Justice's office, and when she finally reached it, she was afraid to proceed with the ceremony. She wanted a week in which to think it over. Fallon begged her to keep her promise, but she pleaded for another week's delay, and finally insisted on it. When the couple first came in and mentioned marriage, Justice Hand's round face beamed like that of a mature and mellow Cupid, but as the bride spoke for delay and showed that she meant to get it, the Judge's smile faded before a disapproving frown. He is an inveterate foe of delay or celibacy, and he strongly supported the pleading young man. He quoted law, philosophy and the Scriptures at the bride to prove that she ought to get married and that delays were dangerous.

But the bride, a bride no longer, set her foot firmly for delay, and left the office with the disconsolate young man following. Fallon was discouraged, and showed it. "I'm through," he said hopelessly. "I'll never try you again."

Justice Hand was almost as disconsolate as the disappointed groom.

"This is the first time in all my career as a marrying justice that I have ever taken this book down and put it away unused," he sighed, as he gazed sadly at his sheaf of blank certificates. "If anybody was to come along right now and offer me twenty-three cents for my marriage business I'd give it to him and skidoo."

LOCAL REALTY CHANGES.

Recent Property Conveyances Recorded at the County Clerk's Office:

Lucetta L. Smith et al. to Ira L. La Rue, northeasterly side Arlington avenue, corner Gilliet land $1

Sophie Davidson et al. to Augustus C. Durling, southerly side Jackson avenue, 253 feet northwesterly of North avenue $1

Cornelia Sheehan to George Mehl, Jr., Madison avenue, corner Fourth avenue, corner Gilliet land $1

George W. Mundy to George H. Mundy, southeasterly side West Third street, 31 feet southwesterly of Spooner avenue $700

Jacob R. Henderhot et al. to Jennie L. Opdyke, southwesterly side Spooner avenue, 97 feet southeasterly of A. Thomaschanski $1,150

Same to same, southwesterly side Spooner avenue, 65 feet southeasterly of A. Thomaschanski $1,250

Frederick M. Pollion et ux. to Louise Man, westerly side Kensington avenue, 175 feet northerly of Putnam avenue $1

SEMINARY DANCE.

Affair In Honor of the Senior Class Given by Miss Kenyon.

Miss Kenyon gave a dance at the Seminary Friday night to the senior class. The affair went off delightfully.

The decorations were green and gold, the class colors, worked in daffodils, palms and ferns. The dancers numbered 100.

Those who are the Misses Dorothy Averill, Lucie Budlong, Marie Perkins and Marion Hall, received with Miss Arnold and Miss Elvire Kenyon. The music was by Westervelt, of Newark.

The school commencement will be held on June 12. All the graduates will go to college.

BIG CROP OF BALL PLAYERS

Manager Daab Deluged With Applications From Nearly Every Part of North America.

Baseball players this reason are as plentiful as mosquitoes will be on the Elizabeth swamp bogs in summer time. If you don't believe it ask Manager Daab. The Plainfield manager during the past week has had enough applications from aspiring players to play on the Plainfield and Hoboken teams to run a circus.

Some of them had all chimes, and of course they come well fortified with good opinions of themselves, and granting them the benefit of the doubt, that they are all stars, Plainfield is in the power of Manager Daab to get a team that would easily beat the best the Giants nine games out of ten. Sure this is true. Every applicant swears by General Bingham's "nine Gods of war" that he is the best that came over the pike and can deliver the goods. Manager Daab doesn't attempt to discourage them in their belief and let them off by putting their names down on a list.

One of the applicants yesterday was Wilson, the stocky young catcher who practiced here with the Jersey City team during the winter. He leases before and has decided to play independent ball in the future. Wilson is employed in the offices of the New York Steamship Company and is satisfied with his lot. Wilson is also a fast infielder and will most likely land a job if Brogan is taken by Jersey City.

"Jim" Skeggs, of Savannah, Georgia, was another applicant who sent his papers on last week. He has played in all parts of North America according to his letter and perhaps in South America, too, but he didn't say so. He must be a terrible swatter for he said he "harpooned" a pitcher's curves for seven hits in a game down Texas last season.

Another fellow who wanted a job carried the name of Beggs, and his letter was postmarked Cohocton, Ohio. By trade he is a piano tuner. In addition to getting a position on the ball team he requested Manager Daab to look around in Hoboken for a job in this line to work at when not playing ball. Manager Daab wrote back to him telling him to come along if he had sufficient musical ability to lead a German band he might come East and he would at least be sure of a try-out.

A player by the name of Bob Heinkle from Flagtown (a suburb of Somerville) says he thinks he is fast enough for Plainfield and wants to take Jack O'Neill's place behind the bat. Outside of stating that he played on the Red Stockings, of Hacketstown, fifteen years ago, he also said that he stood six feet, 2 inches, in his stocking feet and wore a 38 belt. Manager Daab advised this aspirant to get some spring practice with New Market or Dunellen.

Just to say there are few persons looking around for the jobs as umpires, the crop of aspirants in this direction being very limited.

WILLIAM E. DAVISON DIES AT MUHLENBERG.

Taken With Chill a Week Ago That Rapidly Develops Typhoid-Pneumonia Symptoms.

Following an illness of about one week, William E. Davison, the well known Netherwood real estate dealer, died at Muhlenberg Hospital last Thursday. He was first taken with a chill last Thursday and it developed symptoms of typhoid-pneumonia. Yesterday his condition became alarming and he was removed to the hospital but sank rapidly.

Mr. Davison was seventy-four years old and came to Plainfield from Hoboken twelve years ago, making his home in the Netherwood section. He had been for many years engaged in the manufacture of car springs but on removing here entered the local real estate field. He leaves a widow and two children, Ralph Davison, associate editor of the Railway Gazette, who resides in the Hellman building, and Miss Clara Isabella Davison.

OLD SWINDLER HELD.

Photograph Flim-flammer Waives Examination.

Under the name of Andrew Cody which the police say is the one his folks started him in life with, Thomas Marsh, the hoary photograph flim-flammer, was held to await the action of the grand jury by Justice Mosher this morning. He waived examination through Counsellor Francis J. Blatz. Bail was fixed at $200.

Cody was confronted by eight complaints in this city. Chief Kiely says he has evidence enough to convict him six times over.

One of the complaining witnesses, with bitterness in her heart, came to court to see Marsh started for jail. She said Marsh promised to come back to take her picture the morning after he collected her fifty cents, and she sat around the house for hours, dressed in her swing-to-be-my-picture-taken furbelows, waiting stiffly and in vain for the return of the smooth-tongued old scamp.

The Ballot.

A weapon that comes down as still
As snowflakes fall upon the sod;
But stilled as a hurricane,
As lightning does the will of God.
—John Pierpont.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH ENDS GOOD YEAR

COLLECTED $5,216; SPENT IT ALL BUT HAS NO DEBTS.

Pure routine, uncnlivened by even the mildest discussion, was the keynote of the annual meeting of the 1st Presbyterian church Wednesday. The two sessions—church and parish—were made up of a succession of reports and elections. The reports were all good; the church begins the new year free of debt and stronger spiritually.

Rev. C. E. Hefring, the pastor, presided over the church meeting, with J. M. Bettman clerk.

Elder L. H. Gates and Deacon Hummer were re-elected. At the parish meeting, over which E. M. Cave presided, and of which H. A. Pope was secretary, John Abbott, A. V. Searing, Jr., and Frederick T. Dickerson were elected trustees for three years. The two first named succeeded themselves and Mr. Dickerson fills a vacancy created by the state law that increases boards of eight members to nine.

The treasurer's report, read by W. H. Shotwell, showed total receipts of $5,215. The envelope system realized $2,230; pew rents, $1,064; collections, $643; and special Easter collection last year, $500. The disbursements balanced the receipts. The two biggest single items were pastor's salary and church music. The latter cost $1,000. The pastor's salary is $3,000 at the same figure, and the amount of money to be expended on music was left like last year, with the music committee.

The moneys received and expended by the various societies of the church during the year are as follows:

Home missionary society, receipts, $215; expenditures, $215. Foreign missionary society, receipts, $149; expenditures, $149; Y. P. S. C. E., receipts, $191; expenditures, $85. King's Messengers, receipts, $10; expenditures, $10. Little Light Bearers, receipts, $3; expenditures, $3. Deacon's fund, receipts, $180; expenditures, $175. Missionary fund, receipts, $451; expenditures, $390.

RECEPTION TENDERED REV. DR. AND MRS. M'CREA

AFFAIR ARRANGED BY CONGREGATION OF FIRST M. E. CHURCH.

The members of the First M. E. church joined in giving Rev. and Mrs. A. C. McCrea, the pastor and his wife, a reception in Vincent chapel, Friday, recognizing their return to the church for another year. The affair was informal, no attempt being made to arrange a set programme. The evening was given up almost entirely to sociability.

A short programme was presented which included a piano monologue by Clarence Rittenhouse, a piano solo by Clifford Braider and two tenor solos by Elmer D. Cutting, all of which were well received and afforded much pleasure Nelson A. Miller was master of ceremonies and helped to make the occasion one of enjoyment for all. An attractive feature were the decorations, consisting of palms, flowers and potted plants, arranged about the platform in the chapel. During the social hour, the Ladies' Aid society and the Epworth League, under whose auspices the affair was given, served refreshments.

Rev. A. C. McCrea now begins the second year of a successful pastorate, and the members of the church and congregation took occasion last night to give him a cordial welcome and wish him continued success in his work for the coming year.

CRUELTY CASE WAS SETTLED OUT OF COURT

DELENARO PAID $25 TO S. P. C. A. AGENT; LEGAL PROCEDURE.

Nicholas Delenaro, the Scotch Plains Italian who was to have been arraigned before Justice Hand Saturday on a charge of cruelty to his horse, preferred by the S. P. C. A. through William Pangborn, its agent in this section, settled the case with the agent Friday by paying him $25. Settlements of such cases, on payment of the minimum fine, may be effected under the law, with the consent of the court. The necessary consent was obtained from the justice.

The settlement was made possible, legal protest in connection with the case. Delenaro had retained "Count" Van Ness, a one-time practicing lawyer in New York, to defend him, and the lawyer's appearance in court would, it is said, have been objected to by a representative of the bar of Plainfield. Until three years ago, anybody might defend a case in a justice's court, but at that time a law was passed providing that only lawyers admitted to the New Jersey bar be admitted to practice in the small cause courts, except where the defendant desires to conduct his own case. Van Ness is a lawyer under the New York statutes, but he is not a member of the New Jersey bar.

CLASSIS FINISHES WORK

Delegates Appointed to the General and Particular Synods.

AID FOR MARCONNIER

Newark Classis Votes $200 Towards Support of Chapel—Next Meeting May 14.

With the opening of the afternoon session of the Newark Classis of the Reformed church in Trinity Reformed church Wednesday, the resignation of Rev. John S. Allen as pastor of the New York Avenue Reformed church, Newark, was taken up. A committee comprising Rev. Dr. James I. Vance and Rev. Dr. Denis Wortman was appointed to draft resolutions expressing the deep feeling of appreciation for Mr. Allen's faithful work and sincere regret that he is to leave the Newark Classis.

These resolutions were prepared and presented later in the afternoon. They were ordered spread on the minutes and a copy will be given to Mr. Allen.

Rev. W. C. Connor, Rev. Dr. James I. Vance, Rev. Dr. Denis Wortman and Rev. Henry Merle Mellen were appointed delegates to attend the Particular Synod meeting to be held in Philadelphia, on Tuesday, June 19, and the same members, with the exception of Dr. Wortman, and Elders A. A. Clark, F. E. Smith and Philip Bech, the last named of this city, were appointed delegates to attend the one hundredth session of the General Synod to be held the first week in June in the Marble Collegiate Reformed church, New York.

The Classis nominated Rev. Dr. E. P. Johnson, of Albany, as a candidate for the professorship of ecclesiastical history and church government at Rutgers College.

Rev. Henry Merle Mellen, of Newark, was elected stated clerk and treasurer to succeed Rev. John S. Allen, who tendered his resignation because of his intention to join the New York Classis.

An application was received to assist Rev. J. Tucker Lansdale in the new work he has undertaken as pastor of Marconnier chapel at Oak Tree. Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck made a brief statement commending the pastor and work to the Classis and it was unanimously decided to vote $200 towards the work. It was also voted to aid the work at the Montclair Reformed church.

Rev. Dr. Wortman made a statement regarding the widows' fund and urged the ministers and laymen to give in their careful thought and attention.

In many respects the Classis was one of the best yet held and considerable was accomplished at the morning and afternoon sessions. When the session was closed, it was to meet again at the First Reformed church, Newark, on Monday, May 14, when Rev. Stewart Nye Hutchinson will be installed as pastor.

NEW INCORPORATIONS OF LOCAL INTEREST

PLAINFIELDERS PRINCIPAL STOCKHOLDERS IN BLOOMSBURY WATER CO.

A certificate of incorporation has been filed in the office of the county clerk by the Bloomsbury Water Company, organized principally by Plainfielders. The incorporators named are John A. Staats, John F. Auten, Harry C. VanEmburgh, Clarence E. Teel, Ellsworth C. Driscoll, Samuel F. Newton, all of Plainfield, and John DeHart, of Bloomsbury. The total authorized capital stock is $25,000, divided into 250 shares at a par value of $100 each. The principal office will be in this city.

Another certificate was filed yesterday by the Mutual Benefit Society, Duke of Abruzzi, of Scotch Plains. The objects for which the corporation is formed are mutual aid, protection for its members and to practice benevolence and charity toward all who are in need and deserving of assistance.

PERSEVERANCE LODGE ENTERTAINS FRIENDS.

Enjoyable Affair Arranged for Their Benefit and Given in Company K's Armory.

Perseverance Lodge, No. 74, K. of P., gave an entertainment and dance in Company K's armory, Thursday, principally for the benefit of its women friends. The gathering was quite large, the feminine guests being in the majority.

A programme given under the direction of Donald McInness comprised the following numbers: Songs, monologues and imitations by John J. Ronney and James J. E. T. McLean, of New York, the latter formerly of this city; vocal selections by Judge Runyon, Thomas M. Muir and Harry Roberts, and an address by Donald McInness. Refreshments were served at the close and dancing followed, continuing until after midnight.

The committee in charge consisted of A. D. Pope, chairman; Donald McInness and Robert Jahn.

AN INVASION OF ELKS

Delegation of 150 From New Brunswick Entertained By Plainfield Lodge, No. 885.

A FINE PROGRAMME

Feast of Song, Music and Addresses Followed By a Banquet—George O. Stevens in Charge.

Plainfield was invaded by an antlered host, Wednesday, in the persons of 150 members of the New Brunswick lodge of Elks who came over on invitation from Plainfield lodge, No. 885, B. P. O. E. They made the trip in special trolley cars and arrived in town amid a streak of red fire that lighted up the streets for blocks.

The visitors were met at Park avenue and Front street by a reception committee and escorted to Knights of Columbus hall where the festivities took place. George O. Stevens acted as master of ceremonies and under his direction a delightful programme was rendered. The features included humorisms and vocal and instrumental selections by a quartette of professional artists from New York, Messrs. Jones, Skidmore, Gill and Roue. The last two named are clever imitators and they kept the big audience laughing for nearly an hour while they recited, impersonated and sang.

The Minion brothers, who were a feature of the recent Elk show, gave several vocal selections with mandolin and guitar accompaniment, and Exalted Ruler W. S. Runyon delighted with excerpts from the operatic repertoire. The New Brunswick lodge gave a minstrel show Monday night and the delegation included several of the artists who contributed to the programme.

Interspersing these numbers, addresses dealing with Elkdom in Elkdom were given by Exalted Ruler Runyon and George O. Stevens, of Plainfield, and Exalted Ruler Burt and Past Exalted Ruler Peter F. Daly, of New Brunswick. At the conclusion of this part of the entertainment, the guests were made to the banquet hall where supper was served by Caterer Timbo. The visitors left for home shortly after midnight.

The committee which arranged and had charge of the affair consisted of Herbert W. Stover, chairman; Geo. O. Stevens, S. P. T. Wilbur and Clarence Teel.

MISS WENZEL NOW MRS. FRED DAYTON

NEW MARKET MAN COMES TO PLAINFIELD FOR A BRIDE.

Miss Anna Louise Wenzel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Wenzel, and Fred Dayton, of New Market, were married at 7:30 Wednesday night at the home of the bride's parents, 1143 South Second street, in the presence of about sixty relatives and friends. Rev. George Mooney, former pastor of the Monroe Avenue M. E. church, of which the bride is a member, performed the ceremony. The groom's pastor, Rev. Frank Fletcher, of New Market, also Rev. E. E. Robeson, the new pastor of Monroe Avenue church, attended.

The bride was gowned in white Persian lawn and lace and carried bride roses. Her attendant, Miss Mary Cumberson, as bridesmaid, wore a gown of white dotted Swiss and hand embroidery, and she carried pink carnations. John Wenzel, a brother of the bride, was the best man. The wedding march was played on the piano by Miss Irene Day, of New Market.

The parlor, where the ceremony was performed, was decorated with palms and flowers. In the dining room pink carnations and ferns were used effectively.

After congratulations, supper was served and at 9 o'clock Mr. and Mrs. Dayton left on a wedding tour. Upon their return they will probably reside at the home of the groom in New Market for the present.

The bride received a large collection of handsome and costly presents, including silverware, linen, cut glass, china, furniture and a check for $25 from the fellow-employees of the groom in Newark.

Mr. Dayton is employed as a bookkeeper in the business office of the Newark Evening News.

Mr. Randolph to Retire.

The announcement has been made that former Mayor L. V. F. Randolph, of East Front street, president of the Consolidated Exchange, New York, would not be a candidate for re-election at the annual meeting in June. It is said Mr. Randolph will take a trip abroad, accompanied by his wife.

The Fraternal Hand Extended.

Rt. Eminent Sir Jacob Kirkner, grand commander Knights Templar, state of New Jersey, has wired the grand commander of California a message of sympathy and has tendered aid to the sufferers of San Francisco. He has also sent a circular letter to the commanderies of the state asking for subscriptions.

PROF. BEVIER ON POETS

Rutgers College Professor Talks Interestingly Before Baptist Men's Club.

SOME CLASSICAL MUSIC

Master Pasquale Tallerico Gives Exhibition at the Piano—His Work Arouses Enthusiasm.

An evening of music and poetry was enjoyed by the members and friends of the Men's Club of the First Baptist church Monday. The programme opened and closed with several classical selection by Master Pasquale Tallerico, the gifted boy pianist, and his performance aroused the much enthusiasm. Although but sixteen years old, this youthful musician executes the difficult compositions with true expression and in the rendition of one of his own selections there was perfect harmony and a peculiar charm that won hearty applause. He was obliged to respond to two encores, in addition to the five regular numbers.

The greater part of the evening was occupied with an informal talk by Prof. Louis Bevier, Jr., teacher of Greek and literature at Rutgers College, who spoke for over an hour on "Two American Poets—Holmes and Lowell."

Prof. Bevier briefly sketched the career of Holmes first, stating that he was graduated from Harvard in the Class of 1829, which afterward became famous because of the fact that Holmes was a member of it. He then told of his efforts to save the frigate "Constitution," through a poem which he wrote. Prof. Bevier declared this same poem to be responsible for the recent action of Congress in appropriating $10,000,000 for the construction of a new "Constitution," which will be even bigger than the "Dreadnaught," the largest and newest battleship in the English navy, and to appropriate $100,000 to preserve the old "Constitution."

The professor then said that Holmes started to study medicine, going abroad to complete his education. Upon his return to Boston he began to practice, but with little success. He afterward became a professor in Harvard Medical School, when the faculty consisted of seven members. After a service of thirty-five years the faculty increased to seventy.

The speaker referred at some length to "The Autocrat of the Breakfast Table," one of the best known writings of Holmes and commented upon it, also reading extracts from the book. His also spoke of "Over the Tea Cups," written by Holmes in 1888, and said that he could write a metrical essay, something rather difficult to do.

Particular reference was made to the poems written annually by Holmes that would lift one out of occasional verse to real poetry. He read some of the best known poems, including "Bill and Joe," "Boys," "The Last Leaf," and "Aunt Tabatha," all of which illustrated some of the poet's best endeavor. In the opinion of the professor Holmes could not be dull no matter how serious.

Regarding Lowell, he said that he was born in 1849, like Holmes was a graduate of Harvard and destined to be a literary man, he began to study law, but had a distressful time in doing so. He received his inspiration in hearing Daniel Webster plead a case, but finally gave up the law and began to write for the "Literary Freeman," at a salary of $500 a year. He was married soon afterward and Prof. Bevier said, "that wife steadied him to his true life purpose, but the death of three children gave Lowell a certain pathos which is plainly seen in his poem 'She Came and Went.' He was a little austere and never able to get in close touch with students and that fact saddened him. He was a man of the greatest versatility. In 1848, at the age of twenty-nine years, he wrote the famous 'Biglow Papers,' and 'A Fable for Critics,'" in which there is much true literary merit. I consider him the most profound of our nature poets."

In his concluding remarks about Lowell he read his well-known selection, "The Courtin'," and in his comparison of Holmes and Lowell he said it would be difficult to find two poets more unlike. Holmes was polished to the last degree, while Lowell was rugged and critics even objected to the spirit of some his writings. While Holmes was a versatile man he was not so as a poet. He gives one the impression that he wrote all that was within him, while Lowell, who had a wider range, there appears a spirit of mourning on his part that he didn't do the great things that he might have done.

Prof. Bevier said in closing that he had often been asked whether there were any great American poets, and in reply stated that while possibly there were no American poets as great as the English, the American poets all served great causes.

The programme concluded with four selections on the piano by Pasquale Tallerico.

Love.

A little boy, a little love.
Shooting a very little shaft.
'Tis then that love the puppy old world
Go round, and broks and daft.—Puck.

MANY NEW COMPETITIONS

Plainfield Country Club Offers An Attractive Schedule.

QUEEN'S BIRTHDAY CUP

Events Arranged for Men, Women and Boys—Conditions Announced.

The golf schedule announced Friday by the Plainfield Country Club is conceded to be the best in its history and the prospects for a successful season of play are very bright. The schedule includes a number of new competitions for which the club has offered prizes, as will be noticed by glancing through the list of events. There will be the usual play for the Golf committee cup to be continued throughout the season on Saturdays. The Queen's birthday cup is a new competition and the events for the women and boys will make strong attractions. The various conditons under which the competitions will be conducted are as follows:

Men's Competitions.

Championship cup.—Presented by George A. Chapman.

Active members only. Scratch. Qualifying round, at 18 holes, medal play; prize for best gross score. Eight players qualifying to compete at match play, 18 hole rounds. Medals for winner and runner up.

Consolation cup.—Presented by the club.

Scratch. Second eight in qualifying round of championship to compete in same manner as those in championship.

Third eight cup.—Presented by the club.

Scratch. Third eight in qualifying round of championship to compete in same manner as those in championship.

Golf committee cup.—Presented by the golf committee.

Active members only. Handicap. All Saturdays and holidays, from April 28 to October 27 inclusive, at 18 holes, medal play, either morning or afternoon. Players returning three lowest net scores to receive three, two and one point respectively. Cup to be won by the player scoring most points during season.

Golf committee consolation cup.—Presented by the club.

Players winning or tying for first place on any play for golf committee cup, to compete at handicap match play, 18 hole rounds. Dates set for this cup are subject to change.

Golf committee consolation cup.—Presented by the club.

Players defeated in first round for golf committee consolation cup to continue for this cup at 18 hole handicap match play rounds. Dates set for this cup are subject to change.

Holiday cups.—Presented by the club.

Active and non-resident members. Handicap. Medal play, 18 holes. Lowest net score on each holiday to win cup named for that day.

Semi-scratch cup.—Presented by E. T. Barrows.

Active and non-resident members. Players making lowest gross score on any Saturday, from June 9 to August 25 inclusive, to qualify for match play. Players having qualified are not eligible to compete for this cup on subsequent qualifying days. Players qualifying to continue at handicap match play, 18 hole rounds. Handicap limited to five strokes.

Mug cup.—Presented by E. B. Shoemaker.

Active members only. The four players making lowest net scores at 18 holes, handicap, medal play, on four Saturdays in May, to play off at handicap match play, 18 hole rounds, on Decoration Day.

June cup.—Presented by J. A. Lane.

Active members only. Handicap match play, 18 holes, against bogey. The three players making best scores against bogey on first three Saturdays in June, to compete against bogey on fourth Saturday in June, at 18 holes handicap match play. Player making best score against bogey on fourth Saturday, to win cup.

July cup.—Presented by H. C. Munger.

Active members only. To be won by player making lowest net score, at 18 holes, handicap medal play, during month of July, on any Saturday or holiday.

September cup.—Presented by R. F. Murray.

Active members only. The four players making lowest net scores, at 18 holes handicap, medal play, on first four Saturdays in September, to play off at 18 holes handicap, medal play, on fifth Saturday of that month. Lowest net score in final play to win.

October cup.—Presented by C. A. Stover.

Active members only. Three players to qualify as follows: (1) Player whose handicap is under 10, making lowest net score, on first Saturday in October; (2) player whose handicap is between 10 and 18 inclusive, making lowest net score on second Saturday; (3) player whose handicap is over 18, making lowest net score on third Saturday. Three players qualifying to compete at 18 holes medal play, handicap, on fourth Saturday. Lowest net score on that day to win.

November cup—Presented by E. A. Cruikshank.

Active players only. To be won by the player whose best scores, at 18 holes, handicap, medal play, made on any Saturday or holiday during November, average the lowest.

Scratch cup.—Presented by the club.

Active members only. Players making four best gross scores on May 26, to compete at match play, 18 hole rounds, on Memorial Day.

Consolation scratch cup—Presented by the club.

Active members only. Players making four best gross scores, next after those qualifying for scratch cup on May 26, to compete at match play, scratch, 18 hole rounds, on Memorial Day.

Men's handicap cup—Presented by the club.

Active and non-resident members. Handicap, 36 holes, medal play.

Cross country cups—Presented by the club.

Conditions to be announced later by the golf committee.

Four ball foursome cups—Presented by R. F. Murray and E. B. Shoemaker.

Active members only. 18 holes, handicap, medal play. Handicap of each pair to be that of lowest handicapped player of the pair.

Women's Competitions.

Championship cup—Presented by the club.

Active, associate and junior associate members. Scratch. Qualifying round at 18 holes medal play. Eight players qualifying to compete at match play, 18 hole rounds. Cup also for runner-up.

Consolation cup—Presented by the club.

Four players defeated in first match play round of championship to compete at match play, 18 hole rounds. Scratch.

Queen's birthday cup—Presented by the club.

Active, associate and junior associate members. Handicap, 18 holes, medal play. Lowest net score to win.

Women's handicap cup—Presented by the club.

Conditions the same as for the Queen's birthday cup.

Women's clock golf cup.—Presented by the club.

Active, associate and junior associate members. Four players winning on the Saturdays during May to compete on May 30 at one round of clock. Lowest score wins. All ties to be played off on the day of play when they occur, or on the next Saturday. Winner on any Saturday not eligible to compete again until final round May 30.

Clock golf cups for women.—Presented by the club.

All classes of members. One round of clock, lowest score to win.

Boys' Competition.

Junior championship medal.—Presented by the club.

All associate and junior associate members. Scratch, match play, 18 hole rounds.

Boys' championship medal.

Associate and junior associate members under 16 years of age. Scratch, match play, 18 hole rounds.

All semi-finals and finals in match play competitions must be played on the day scheduled or the player must default unless permission for change of day is received from the golf committee. Other competitions will be arranged during the season by the golf committee.

The golf committee is comprised of the following persons: T. R. Van-Boskerck, chairman, E. E. Iremonger, J. W. Baker, W. L. Glenney, Howard Huntington and C. B. Morgan.

AMERICA'S CATASTROPHES.

The earthquake at Charleston, S. C., occurred August 31, 1886, and consisted of a successive series of shocks, beginning about 9 p. m. Fifty persons were killed and all the property loss amounted to more than $5,000,000.

The Johnstown flood, the most disastrous ever known in America, swept the Conemaugh Valley on May 31, 1889. The Conemaugh Lake, two and a half by one and a half miles in extent, being flooded by heavy rains, broke down its dam and a flood wave many feet high ran eighteen miles in seven minutes. Its course was arrested by the railroad bridge below Johnstown, which caused the waters to rise with terrific destruction to life and property. The total loss of life was 2,142, including ninety-nine entire families. Relief contributions were raised all the world over, amounting to nearly three million dollars.

The flooding of Galveston occurred September 13, 1900. Approximately 6,000 human beings were destroyed, 4,121 private residences alone were wiped out and the financial loss approached $18,000,000. It was caused by the rising of the Gulf waters during a severe storm and was not the first disaster of its kind to the city, whose entire eastern end had been wiped out by a tidal wave in 1872.

Will Build New Bridge.

The Union County Board of Freeholders will join with the freeholders from Morris county in erecting a new county line bridge for Elkwood Station, near Summit. The present bridge is forty years old.

Spencer Heirs Lose Suit.

In the suit of the heirs of the late Surrogate H. N. Spencer, of North Plainfield, against John W. Mundy, a contractor, also of the borough, to recover a sum of money alleged to have been borrowed by the defendant several years ago, a Jury in Justice Kitchen's court, Somerville, returned a verdict for the defendant.

P. C. C. GOLF SCHEDULE

Season Opens Saturday, April 28 and Closes on Thanksgiving Day.

LIST OF CONTESTS

Play for Queen, May, Clock Golf, Mixed Foursomes, June 1, Independence Day and Many 4 Other Cups.

The Plainfield Country Club has issued its golf schedule for the season, which starts Saturday, April 28, and ends on Thanksgiving Day, Nov. 29. In tomorrow's paper will be found the conditions governing the play for the various trophies. The schedule follows:

April 28, 1 p. m., Opening day cups for best gross and best net scores. 18 holes medal play; Golf Committee cup, first competition; May 5, 1 p. m., May cup, first competition; 2 p. m., Women's clock golf cup, first competition; May 19, 2 p. m., team match, Columbia University; May 24, 2 p. m., Queen's birthday cup; May 26, 1 p. m., Scratch and consolation scratch cups, qualifying rounds; May 30, (Decoration Day) Decoration Day Cup, morning or afternoon; 10 a. m., scratch cups, semi-final rounds; May cup, semi-final round; 1 p. m., scratch cups, final rounds; May cup, final round; 2 p. m., Women's clock golf cup, final round.

June 2, Mixed foursome cups, 18 holes, medal play, handicap, morning or afternoon; 1 p. m., June cup, first competition; June 9, 1 p. m., semi-scratch cup, first competition; team match, married men versus bachelors; June 12, p. m., Boys' championship medal, first round; June 30, 2 p. m., June cup, final round; July 4, (Independence Day) Independence Day cup, morning or afternoon; 10 a. m., Men's championship cup, qualifying round; 1 p. m., Men's championship, first round; Men's consolation and third eight cups, first round; 3 p. m., Clock golf cup for women; July 7, 2 p. m., July cup, first competition; Men's championship, semi-final round; Men's consolation and third eight cups, semi-final round; July 14, 2 p. m., Men's championship, final round; Men's consolation and third eight cups, final round.

September 1, 1 p. m., September cup, first competition; 2 p. m., semi-scratch cup, first round match play; September 3, (Labor Day) Labor Day cup, morning and afternoon; Men's handicap, 36 holes medal play, all day; 1 p. m., semi-scratch cup, second round; 3 p. m., Clock golf cup for women; September 4, 2 p. m., Junior championship medal, first round; September 8, 2 p. m., semi-scratch cup; semi-final round; September 15, 2 p. m., semi-scratch cup, final round; September 25, 2 p. m., Women's championship cup, qualifying round; September 26, 2 p. m., Women's championship, first round; September 27, 2 p. m., Women's championship, semi-final round; women's consolation cup, semi-final round; September 28, 2 p. m., Women's championship, final round; women's consolation cup, final round; September 29, 1 p. m., September cup, final round.

October 6, 1 p. m., October cup, first competition; October 13, 1 p. m., four ball foursome cups; October 16, 2 p. m., Women's handicap cup, 18 holes, medal play; October 27, 1 p. m., golf committee cup, last competition; November 3, 1 p. m., golf committee consolation cup, preliminary round; November 6, (Election Day) Election day cup, morning or afternoon; 10 a. m., golf committee consolation cup, first round; golf committee inconsolables cup, first round; 1 p. m., golf committee consolation cup, second round; golf committee inconsolables cup, second round; November 10, 1 p. m., golf committee consolation cup, semi-final round; golf committee inconsolables cup, semi-final round; November 17, 1 p. m., golf committee consolation cup, final round; golf committee in consolables cup, final round.

November 29, (Thanksgiving Day) 10 a. m., Cross country golf cups.

BIRTHDAY PARTY FOR JOHN C. D. MARTIN.

His Sister, Mrs. E. F. Stoeckle, Plans Happy Event.

In honor of his nineteenth birthday anniversary, John C. D. Stoeckle arranged a party Thursday for her brother, John C. D. Martin, of 968 West Fifth street. There were twenty-one in the company, and the evening was passed in dancing and in addition there were vocal solos by Irving Stoeckle, Mrs. E. F. Stoeckle. Music for dancing was furnished by Prof. Jacob Emery and James Emery. At midnight refreshments were served.

The guests: J. B. Martin, Mr. and Mrs. David B. Martin, Miss Lottie Martin, Miss Gladys Martin, Mrs. E. F. Stoeckle and children, Edward, Charles and Ruth; Mrs. Nat. Henry and son, James; Miss Anna L. Martin, Irving DeHart, Norman L. Barnes, Jacob Henry, James Emery, Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Boylan, John C. D. Martin, all of this city, and Miss Lillian Cockley and Miss Maudeline Adams, of Westfield.

Spring lamb of the tenderest kind at J. W. Van Sickle's store, North avenue. Buy all your meats there. Finest quality.

SCHOOL LAW CHANGES

Governor Has Signed Three of Ten New Bills Passed

1,000,000 MORE FOR FUND

Conditions of New Teachers' Retirement Act—Distribution of State Moneys.

A summary of the ten acts concerning schools and school matters passed by the recent Legislature has been compiled by J. Brognard Betts, assistant superintendent of education of New Jersey, and sent to the various school officials in the several school districts of the State. Of the ten acts passed three have been signed by the Governor.

Under the Perkins' tax distribution act, House 274, half of 1 per cent. of the $1,000,000 the railroads will pay, will be retained for school purposes by the State and the balance of the additional revenue from new taxation will be devoted toward the reduction of the $6,500,000 raised locally for all taxation purposes. The additional amount to the school fund will be about $1,000,000.

The new laws are Assembly bill No. 57, Assembly bill No. 204, Assembly No. 241, Assembly No. 274, Assembly No. 288, Assembly No. 300, Assembly No. 381, Assembly No. 414 and Assembly No. 447.

The most talked-about bill is the new teachers' retirement fund law. It takes the place completely of the old law. Under it the trustees of the fund are to consist of the State superintendent, three persons, not teachers, chosen and appointed by the Governor and five teachers who are members of the fund at the annual meeting. The annual meeting of the members of the funds is to be held at the State House on the last Saturday in September. The investments of the fund are hereafter to be restricted to such securities as are authorized by la wfor savings banks.

Under the present law a person cannot be retired unless he is incapacitated from earning a sufficient livelihood. The amendment provides for the retirement in case a person is incapacitated from performing the duties of a teacher, and in order to be retired the annuitant must have first paid into the fund an amount equal to at least the amount of his annuity for one year, instead of an amount equal to one-half of the average annual salary for the five years immediately preceding retirement.

Instead of the percentage of salaries to be paid by teachers now in force, the new act provides as follows:

Two per cent. of the monthly salary of persons who have been teachers ten years or less when they joined the fund, and one-half per cent. of the monthly salaries of persons who have been teachers over ten years, but less than fifteen, when they joined the fund.

Three per cent. of the monthly salaries of all persons who have been teaching fifteen years or more when they joined the fund provided, that the amount paid by teacher shall not exceed $50 per annum. The deduction from the teachers' salaries are to be paid to the State Treasurer quarterly instead of monthly, as heretofore.

The new act is binding upon all persons who are not members of the fund, who shall, prior to January 1 next, signify their acceptance of its provision. Those teachers who are now members of the fund who did not signify their acceptance of the new law shall continue under the same conditions as heretofore. No teacher who is now employed in the schools can join the fund after December 31 next. A teacher appointed after the new law goes into effect and prior to January 1, 1908, cannot become a member of the fund after December 31, 1907. All persons who begin teaching after January 1, 1908, are compelled to become members of the fund.

Assembly 57 amends the act for special industrial schools by increasing the maximum amount of State aid from $5,000 to $47,00 per annum.

In Assembly 204 the teachers pension act is amended by decreasing the time a teacher must have taught from forty to thirty-five years, and by decreasing the time he has taught in the district by which he is retired from 40 to 30 years. The latter need not be consecutive. The act applies also to a principal or superintendent.

Assembly 240 amends section 121 of the old school law. It provides that a teacher or pupil may be excluded from school who successfully inoculated or revaccinated. If teacher or pupil be an unfit subject for vaccination a certificate to that effect must be furnished by the medical school inspector. The new act provides for the exclusion of a teacher or pupil who has been exposed to contagion from specified diseases, designated by the Board of Education.

Assembly 241 amends section 152 of the school law and adds arithmetic *to the required subjects. It also pro*hibits the employment of any child between the ages of 7 and 14 years at any gainful occupation during school hours. The truant officer may visit and inspect all places in which gainful occupations are carried on. A penalty of $50 may be recovered for violations or for hindering any truant officer in an inspection.

Assembly 288, amends section 189 of the school law by requiring the custodian of school moneys to make reports to the Board of Education, as well as to the county superintendent.

Assembly 300 amends section 182 of the school law and provides the following method of apportioning school moneys by the county superintendent:

First, $600 to each district having a city superintendent or supervising principal; second, $400 each assistant superintendent, each other supervisor, each permanent teacher in a high school having a four years' course approved by the State Board of Education; third, $300 for each permanent teacher in a ungraded school or in a kindergarten, primary or grammar department or in a high school department having an approved course of study of less than three years; fifth, $200 for each temporary teacher employed not less than four months; sixth, $80 for each evening school teacher employed according to the present law; seventh, $25 for each pupil attending a high school in a district not where he resides; eighth, $25 for each pupil attending other than a high school in a district where he does not reside; ninth, $200 for transportation as at present; tenth, the remainder of the money to be apportioned on the basis of total days attendance as heretofore.

Assembly 381 amends section 76 of the school law and increases the limit of bonded debt in a city school district from 3 to 5 per centum of the taxable property in the municipalities affected by that section.

Assembly 414 amends section 30 by giving members of the county boards of examiners $25 for each examination, instead of $10.

MISS SUSAN GUYRE BRIDE OF NEW YORKER

PRETTY HOME WEDDING HELD IN DUNELLEN LAST NIGHT.

Before a large gathering of friends and relatives, Miss Susan Guyre, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nathan F. Guyre, of Dunellen, was married last Wednesday to Jos. Edward Little, of New York. The ceremony was performed at the Guyre home, on Wash*ington avenue, at 8:30 o'clock.*

Between 150 and 200 guests were present. Several Plainfielders were among them, but the majority of those present were New Yorkers. Some of the guests, however, came from points as distant as Florida, Alabama and Michigan.

The house was charmingly decorated with palms, smilax, carnations, roses and ferns. In a corner between two broad windows of the parlor was a bower, beneath which the young people were united.

Rev. A. S. Phelps, rector of Holy Innocents' P. E. church, Dunellen, performed the ceremony. Miss Guyre's maid of honor was Miss Mabel Rossell, of Jersey City, a close friend, and the best man was Hiram Carroll, of New York, an intimate friend of the groom. The ushers were J. Frank Guyre and Charles Guyre, brothers of the bride.

When the bridal party marched in, Mrs. C. D. Wade, of Brooklyn, played the Lohengrin march. She sounded soft harmonies through the ceremony, and greeted the close of the ceremony with the crashing volume of the Mendelssohn march.

Miss Guyre was gowned in white silk mull over white taffeta, trimmed with Irish point lace, and wore a veil caught up with lilies of the valley. She carried a trailing bouquet of lilies and bride roses. Miss Rossell was dressed in white mull, over white silk, trimmed with thread lace. She carried bridesmaid roses.

Following the ceremony a reception was held. Mr. and Mrs. Little will spend two or three weeks on a bridal trip through the South. On their return they will live for the *summer in Dunellen, leaving the de*cision as to their permanent place of residence until fall. Mr. Little is employed in the general ticket office of the New York Central Railroad Company, in New York. The bride received many handsome gifts, one of which, a chest of silver, was from fellow-employees.

Will Have "Bump the Bumps."

The Mayor and Council of Bound Brook borough have voted to construct "bump the bumps" for those drivers of automobiles who have been in the habit of making a speedway of Union avenue. This is one of the choice residential streets of the borough. Councilman Field introduced a resolution to have all the crossw'alks on the avenue raised and three new ones installed where they will be the most useful.

George H. Ballentyne, of East Second street, who was operated upon at Muhlenberg Hospital, recently, is now considered out of danger and is rapidly improving.

*Miss Ada Decker, of West End ave*nue, spent Sunday with friends on Staten Island.

Louis I. VanAlstyne, of East Fifth street, has returned from a business trip to Chicago.

THE BOYS' CLUB CIRCUS

Capacity Audience Witnesses the Efforts of the Youthful Performers.

A CREDITABLE AFFAIR

Appearance of Walter Morley's Roman Ladder Pyramid Troupe the Feature of the Evening.

An audience that tested the seating capacity of the club-rooms witnessed the first performance of the amateur circus given at the Plainfield Boys' Club, on Sycamore street, Thursday, under the direction of Kenneth Robbie, who is now acting as physical director for the Y. M. C. A.

The circus was a most creditable affair. Everyone taking part, with the exception of Louis Slocum, is a member of the club. Frank Shepherd opened the programme with a clever exhibition of walking on a slack wire. Walter Morely and Louis Slocum then displayed their ability as acrobats, the gymnastic feats winning much applause.

Bert Hansen, a local favorite, was rounds of applause in presenting his stair balancing act, a daring acrobatic feat. The original Frank Leonard, expert baton manipulator, gave an excellent performance, and Louis Rhodier, the champion trapeze artist, exhibited the skill and strength in his performance.

Louis Slocum appeared a second time in a contortionist act that displayed his skill as an equilibristic wonder. Bert Hansen also appeared again, presenting some of the latest feats in tumbling.

The feature of the evening was the appearance of Walter Morely's Roman ladder pyramid croupe composed of Louis Rhodier, Charles Southard, Herbert Hoover, Walter Morely and Charles Rhodier. It was one of the best exhibitions of the kind ever given here by amateurs, displaying strength, skill and daring. This number concluded the programme, but during the evening the audience was entertained by Richard Day, Albert Renwanz, James Richardson, Louis Coriell and Walter Southard, who appeared as clowns. Their work was of a high order and kept the audience in good humor by their actions.

The committee in charge comprised Clarence R. Pore, general director; Charles Hunt, treasurer; Charles Southard, master of properties; Charles Rhodier, wardrobe master; John Brown, Dave Rogers and Joseph Burke, ring grooms.

The circus is being given for the benefit of the Boys' Club, which was recently taken in charge by the Y. M. C. A., and the proceeds, in excess of the expenses, will be used to make some improvements at the club house so that the work can be carried on more successfully. Kenneth Robbie has succeeded in stimulating an increased interest among the boys and the prospects for a good work in this direction are bright.

WOMAN KILLED ON NEW MARKET CROSSING

VICTIM WAS RETURNING FROM VISIT TO THIS CITY.

Miss Annie Mulligan, who had been employed as a domestic in the family of F. Percy Vail at New Market for over thirty years, was killed by a Lehigh Valley train, passing through the village Thursday. Her lifeless form, mangled almost beyond recognition, was found alongside the west bound track opposite the Prospect avenue crossing at 6 o'clock this morning. Appearances indicated that she had been struck at the New Market-Dunellen road crossing and that the body had been carried down by the engine and then dropped. Small articles and bits of clothing were picked up every few feet between the two thoroughfares. The remains were removed to the New Market section house and the county physician and coroner were summoned.

The Vail family went west on a visit a short time ago and during their absence Miss Mulligan had been working for Postmaster Charles S. Day. She accepted leave of absence yesterday afternoon to do some shopping in Plainfield but spent several hours calling on friends in the village. She failed to return home in the evening and Mr. Day, who had remained until midnight, decided she had stopped to remain with acquaintances in this city. She evident*ly reached New Market at a late hour* and was struck as she was crossing the tracks to the Day residence. There are gates and a watchman at the crossing and it is a mystery as to how she was struck in front of them.

Miss Mulligan was sixty years old and a native of Ireland. As far as known she had no relatives in this country, and the body will be held pending instructions from Mr. Vail. Miss Mulligan had made seven trips across the ocean and had planned to go to Ireland again this summer.

Miss Sadie Lee entertained friends from out of town over Sunday.

FLORAL VEHICLE PARADE

Spectacular Event to be Held In Connection With the Carnival.

PRIZES TO BE OFFERED

Everything Used for Locomotion to Be Represented in the Line—

"Floral Symposium of Locomotion."

Progress in the preparations for the hospital carnival, which will open on May 19, is going on steadily. New features are being thought of, and planned, daily. When the affair in its entirety is opened to the public the people in this vicinity will have something to talk about for more than the proverbial nine days.

The latest scheme in connection with the event is a gig floral parade of vehicles, business as well as pleasure, to be held the afternoon of the opening day. Charles J. Fisk announced it last night.

It is the aim of the carnival committee to have every possible form of carriage and wagon represented in the parade. It will be called a professional symposium of locomotion, or something like that. Automobiles, carriages, business wagons, bicycles, motorcycles and every other sort of things people use to get about, or deliver their goods, in will be drawn into line. If an ox-cart can be found it will have a place. Even a stray Sedan chair or two will be welcomed to the procession.

All the vehicles are to be trimmed with flowers, and prizes will be offered for the best efforts at decoration. The judges' stands will be located at the carnival grounds.

The parade is to be an early afternoon affair. The various committees and sub-committees will be announced next week.

Two big free night acts have been arranged for the carnival. The first week an invisible wire rider will shoot through the air between two high posts. The week after a daring unicycle rider will shoot down a circular incline in a blaze of red fire, after a thrilling act at the top.

TRINITY BIBLE CLASS PROVIDES ENTERTAINMENT.

Pleasing Evening Spent in Sunday School Room of Reformed Church.

For the purpose of promoting a more extensive acquaintance among the members of the Bible classes, an entertainment and social was given by Bible class No. 2, of which W. C. Leek is the teacher, to the other Bible classes at Trinity Reformed church, Thursday. Mr. Leek's class, the largest in the Sunday school, numbers thirty-eight, and he originated the idea of bringing the members of the other nine classes to*gether for a social evening.*

The programme opened with phonograph selections by William McDowell Cornell. William G. Tunison then sang "My Name is Morgan, But it Ain't J. P.," and this was followed with a soprano selection by Miss Edith Leek, accompanied on the piano by Mrs. W. G. Tunison. A piano solo by Miss Hazel Martin, preceded a vocal duet by Miss Edith Leek and W. C. Leek.

This concluded the programme and the intermission games of all kinds were played, affording much amusement during the evening. Brief remarks were made by Mr. Leek, who explained the object of the gathering and expressing the hope that it would result in other similar affairs being held from time to time. The members of Class No. 2 provided and served refreshments after the playing of games. All agreed that an evening of profit and pleasure had been spent and expressed the desire that the gatherings be continued.

PLAINFIELD LEGION ORGANIZED THURSDAY.

Charter Roll Signed by Forty-One Members—Officers Elected.

District Manager F. C. Meeker, of Paterson, organized the Plainfield Legion with forty-one charter members at Coward Hall Thursday. It is a branch of the National Protective Legion with headquarters at Waverly, N. Y.

The following officers were elected and installed:

Dr. Wood, past president, Albert C. Rogers; worthy president, Mary A. St. John; worthy vice president, J. William Waters; secretary, Arthur C. Hunting; treasurer, Dr. Martha Rose Stillman; conductor, Lottie A. Walker; guard, Robert P. Mitchell; sentinel, Lewis W. Niles. Trustee for one year, William Mosher; trustee for two years, Otto Moor; trustee for three years, Alfred Seidel.

The trustees were instructed to find a place for holding meetings and to report at a session of the legion to be held at the home of A. C. Hunting, 310 West Fourth street, Thursday, April 26, at 8 o'clock, when definite arrangements as to future meetings will be made.

The order is conducted for insurance and sick benefits and both men and women are admitted to membership.

ADAM FRITZ SUFFERS HEAVILY IN CATASTROPHE

Boroughite Half Owner of $500,000 Worth of Property Wiped Out at 'Frisco.

PART OF AN ESTATE

Letter That Reached Him Yesterday Declared Not a Building in Which He Was Interested Had Been Saved.

By the terrible calamity that visited San Francisco and wiped out hundreds of fortunes, property worth half a million dollars belonging jointly to Adam Fritz, of the borough, and Charles W. Buhr, of Los Angeles, was destroyed. The former had feared it from the time he received the first intimation of the earthquake and fire and confirmation came in a letter that reached him yesterday. The property consisted principally of large buildings in the heart of the business district and not one of them was left. Mr. Fritz has sent no instructions as far as he is concerned and we leave for the scene in the near future.

The property was left to Fritz and Buhr only a short time ago by Adam Billinger, a one time resident of near Mount Bethel, who went west when a young man to make his fortune. He located on the Pacific coast and from the start prosperity smiled on him. As soon as he had amassed a small amount of money, he invested it in real estate in San Francisco, where values were increasing with great bounds, and he quickly found himself independently wealthy. He also bought business blocks and ground in Los Angeles and other places and invested large sums in mining property in Arizona and South America.

Billinger died recently and his will directed that the estate be divided equally between Fritz, who was named after him but not of kin, and two nephews, Charles and George H. Buhr, providing the latter could be located within a specified time. The executors made every effort to find eGorge but without success and a few months ago Fritz was informed by Charles, who is now at Los Angeles, that the property would soon be divided among them. Its estimated value was $750,000 and of this more than $500,000 worth was in San Francisco.

Fritz and Buhr, together with the executors, will have an inventory of the estate made as soon as possible in order to collect insurance and clear the ground. They have small hopes of realizing any large amount but the property in the adjacent cities and that in Arizona and South America will still leave them nearly $200,000 for division.

DIES FROM STROKE; UNCONSCIOUS 3 DAYS

ALBERT HENRY BOWMAN'S DEATH CAUSED BY APOPLEXY.

Albert Henry Bowman, for thirty years a prominent member of the New York Produce Exchange, and a resident of this city for that length of time, died at his home, 1114 Dunellen avenue, Monday afternoon, after being in an unconscious condition since Friday afternoon. Death was due to apoplexy.

Mr. Bowman returned home from New York early Friday afternoon, and after conversing with his wife for a short time, went out to his garden, accompanied by his son, Harold Bowman, to take measurements for an outbuilding he proposed to erect. While engaged in this work he told his son that he would go to the tool shed and get a measure. His continued absence caused the son some anxiety and upon going to the shed was horrified to find his father lying in a semi-conscious condition across a wheelbarrow.

Mr. Bowman recognized his son and called him by name, but his speech was very much affected. He also called for his wife, who hastened to the scene to learn the cause of the trouble. Mrs. Bowman and her son carried Mr. Bowman into the house where he was placed on a couch. He at once sent all acquaintances and remained in that condition until his death yesterday afternoon.

Mr. Bowman is survived by a wife, three sons, Fred, Harold and Martin Bowman, and three daughters, the Misses Louise, Florence and Ethel Bowman. Miss Louise Bowman, a trained nurse, was in constant attendance upon her father during his illness. The funeral services were private.

Mrs. Erickson Perkins, of Rochester, N. Y., who has been visiting her mother, Mrs. S. A. Ginna, of Watchung avenue, has returned home.

Danish Lutheran services will be held tonight in the W. C. T. U. rooms.

Bishop Scarborough will confirm a large class at Grace church on Sunday.

TAX BUDGET TO BE ADOPTED ON MAY 1

BOARD OF ASSESSORS WILL THEN BEGIN ITS WORK OF ASSESSMENT.

The tax ordinance which was adopted on first and second readings at the last meeting of the Common Council will be passed on its final reading at the regular session to be held on Monday night, May 7. The finance committee has acted independent of the Hillery act which proposes a uniform tax rate for the State. In adopting the tax ordinance there is no interference with the Hillery act.

The finance committee secures the estimate from the various committees and departments as to the amount of money needed for the coming year and this is drafted in an ordinance. After the adoption of the ordinance the finance committee communicates with the Board of Assessors informing that body of the amount to be raised and the board acts accordingly in its work of assessing real and personal property. After that the Union County Board of Assessors meet at Elizabeth and go over the various estimates. The county rate is fixed and then follows the rate for the various cities and towns in the county. It is up to the Plainfield Common Council to pass on the books of the assessors and approve or disapprove the assessments and if one rate is made for the State the assessors will have to govern their work in accordance with that rate. Whichever way the matter is decided it will make but little difference to Plainfield taxpayers, as a certain amount will have to be raised and the assessors will be obliged to equalize the assessments accordingly.

W. S. ANGLEMAN NAMED AS FIRST COUNCILOR

NEW JR. O. U. A. M. LODGE COMPLETES DETAILS OF ORGANIZATION.

The charter members of the new Plainfield Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., met in Junior Hall, 114 East Front street, Monday night, completed the organization by electing these officers for the ensuing year:

Councilor, Winfield S. Angleman; vice councilor, George B. Cratsley; recording secretary, Julius G. Williams; financial recording secretary, F. E. Sebring; financial secretary, Harry H. Webb; treasurer, George W. V. Moy; conductor, Dr. R. D. Tomlinson; warden, Daniel G. Vanwinkle; inside sentinel, Theodore Lisor; outside sentinel, Charles T. Leland; representative to State Council, Peter H. Bennett; trustee until July 1, 1906, Peter H. Bennett; trustee for six months, John Franklin; trustee for twelve months, Winfield S. Angleman.

There was a good attendance of members at the meeting and arrangements were made for the institution of the council on Monday night at Junior Hall, at which time the new officers will be installed and other details perfected. State Council Secretary William H. Miers and Rev. J. Morgan Reed will be present to institute the new body and it is expected that there will be representatives from other councils in this vicinity.

SAYS HUSBAND CUT TABLE WITH AN AXE

THREW DISHES IN AIR, BROKE MIRROR, AND NOW SHE WANTS DIVORCE.

Mrs. Minnie Long, of Elizabeth, has brought suit for divorce before Vice Chancellor Howe at Port Richmond, Staten Island, where they lived together nine months.

Mrs. Long declares she has not lived with her husband since August 19, 1902, when, as the bill recites he broke up their home on Staten Island during a spell of drunkenness; that on this occasion he demolished the dining-room table with an axe, and also threw dishes in the air, broke a mirror and toilet articles belonging to the petitioner, and acted in this manner because petitioner would not give him money for whiskey; that a policeman had to be called before he could be quieted."

It is further set up by the wife that Long and a woman lived in Elizabeth and now are living in Bayonne as man and wife.

As to prevention, the great stress was to be laid on the necessity of preventing the indiscriminate spitting of infected persons. The one great source—almost the only one—of infection was the dried sputum, flying about the air. The disease was not hereditary, and there was no reason why it should not be wiped out.

HEALTH TALKS AT CLUB

Men of Grace Church Hear Interesting Symposium on Hygiene.

BAD GARBAGE DISPOSAL

Health Officer Thurlow Strongly Disapproves of System In Operation Here—Dr. Hedges On Cure and Prevention of Consumption.

How the State and local boards of health do their work and something about tuberculosis and its prevention was learned by the members of the Grace church Men's Club Monday night, when three addresses were delivered before them in a "health symposium." The meeting was a postponed one.

Dr. W. H. Murray, Dr. B. vanD. Hedges and Leon Thurlow, local health officer, were the speakers. Hugh F. Fox, president of the club, introduced them.

Dr. Murray spoke on the State board of health, of which he is a member. The board was non-political, he said, although, unfortunately, the State was very much in the hands of politicians and the politicians were unwilling that the board have its way in everything.

Health legislation was for the purpose of promoting hygiene. There were 500 sanitary districts over which the State board looked in New Jersey. These districts usually follow natural lines—Plainfield, Watchung and North Plainfield, for instance, were sanitary districts. In districts like Plainfield the board had no worries; the local board did its work well. It was in places like Warren township, where the board might be composed of any sort of material and meet once in two years, that the State board found work of correction.

There were certain boards and bodies in the State that guarded its health with the main board, such as the physician's examining board, the sewerage commission and officers at ports of entry. There were building commissions, systems of school inspections in various cities—Plainfield had one—the tuberculosis hospital and the epileptic village. The great value of the latter lay in the discouragement of intermarriage between the unfortunates.

One of the chief activities of the State board was to watch legislation bearing on hygiene. As had been said, the board was non-political, but the politicians in control of the State were not. At the present time it was to be found that the admirable law requiring every health officer to be a qualified person was on the point of being emasculated by a bill making it applicable only to cities over 8,000, cutting out all but thirty cities in the State.

The board received $35,000 last year, but hoped to get more for 1907. It is to increase its staff of inspectors, look into food adulterations and drug frauds, from four to six.

Mr. Thurlow spoke of the local board's work. He strongly condemned the garbage collection system here, characterizing it as the most unsatisfactory and unsanitary sort.

"For about one-half of what some of the houses now pay for garbage removal," he said, "the city could remove it from all the houses. It costs from $12,000 to $15,000 a year to get the city's garbage out of the way under the present archaic method, and for $6,000 the municipality could do it admirably."

He advised the citizens to keep at the Common Council until it passed in favor of the latest plan to solve the garbage disposal problem. He suggested constant and increasing petitions.

Mr. Thurlow told how the board quarantined the houses and watched the cases of scarlet fever, diphtheria, cerebro-spinal meningitis and smallpox and the methods of disinfection followed.

He devoted some time to the story of the milk inspection. Plainfield drank 8,000 quarts of milk a day and got her supply from 130 different dairies, so the close watching of the sources of supply was important.

Dr. Hedges spoke on consumption. He opened picturing the start and progress of the disease, describing the tubercle bacilli and the way in which they work destruction on the lung tissue, leading to erosion of the blood vessels and filling the circulation with weakening poison, the source of fever and night sweats.

Was there hope for recovery? Yes, if the case was taken in hand early. Three things were necessary to a cure—plenty of good food, all the fresh air it was possible to get, and rest. Medicine was a negligible quantity; it figured least of all in the scheme of cure. Nature would cure the disease herself if she were but strengthened for the battle by wholesome food, revivifying air and refreshing rest. The accepted and most successful diet was milk and eggs. The doctor had known of cases where patients ate from twenty-five to thirty eggs and drank four, five, and six quarts of milk a day.

Bishop Scarborough will confirm a large class at Grace church on Sunday.

KIPLINGS TRIP THROUGH 'FRISCO

TELLS OF AN UNSYSTEMATIC EXPLANATION OF THE STREETS.

Rudyard Kipling, in "From Sea to Sea," describes his visit to San Francisco. After detailing his difficulties in getting to his hotel, and incidentally relating his impressions of various persons he met, he says:

"Later I began a vast but unsystematic explorations of the streets. I asked the Hillery act which proposes a uniform tax rate for the State. In adopting the tax ordinance there is no interference with the Hillery act.

The finance committee secures the estimate from the various committees and departments as to the amount of money needed for the coming year and this is drafted in an ordinance. After the adoption of the ordinance the finance committee communicates with the Board of Assessors informing that body of the amount to be raised and the board acts accordingly in its work of assessing real and personal property. After that the Union County Board of Assessors meet at Elizabeth and go over the various estimates. The county rate is fixed and then follows the rate for the various cities and towns in the county. It is up to the Plainfield Common Council to pass on the books of the assessors and approve or disapprove the assessments and if one rate is made for the State the assessors will have to govern their work in accordance with that rate. Whichever way the matter is decided it will make but little difference to Plainfield taxpayers, as a certain amount will have to be raised and the assessors will be obliged to equalize the assessments accordingly.

W. S. ANGLEMAN NAMED AS FIRST COUNCILOR

NEW JR. O. U. A. M. LODGE COMPLETES DETAILS OF ORGANIZATION.

The charter members of the new Plainfield Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., met in Junior Hall, 114 East Front street, Monday night, completed the organization by electing these officers for the ensuing year:

Councilor, Winfield S. Angleman; vice councilor, George B. Cratsley; recording secretary, Julius G. Williams; financial recording secretary, F. E. Sebring; financial secretary, Harry H. Webb; treasurer, George W. V. Moy; conductor, Dr. R. D. Tomlinson; warden, Daniel G. Vanwinkle; inside sentinel, Theodore Lisor; outside sentinel, Charles T. Leland; representative to State Council, Peter H. Bennett; trustee until July 1, 1906, Peter H. Bennett; trustee for six months, John Franklin; trustee for twelve months, Winfield S. Angleman.

There was a good attendance of members at the meeting and arrangements were made for the institution of the council on Monday night at Junior Hall, at which time the new officers will be installed and other details perfected. State Council Secretary William H. Miers and Rev. J. Morgan Reed will be present to institute the new body and it is expected that there will be representatives from other councils in this vicinity.

SAYS HUSBAND CUT TABLE WITH AN AXE

THREW DISHES IN AIR, BROKE MIRROR, AND NOW SHE WANTS DIVORCE.

Mrs. Minnie Long, of Elizabeth, has brought suit for divorce before Vice Chancellor Howe at Port Richmond, Staten Island, where they lived together nine months.

Mrs. Long declares she has not lived with her husband since August 19, 1902, when, as the bill recites he broke up their home on Staten Island during a spell of drunkenness; that on this occasion he demolished the dining-room table with an axe, and also threw dishes in the air, broke a mirror and toilet articles belonging to the petitioner, and acted in this manner because petitioner would not give him money for whiskey; that a policeman had to be called before he could be quieted."

It is further set up by the wife that Long and a woman lived in Elizabeth and now are living in Bayonne as man and wife.

As to prevention, the great stress was to be laid on the necessity of preventing the indiscriminate spitting of infected persons. The one great source—almost the only one—of infection was the dried sputum, flying about the air. The disease was not hereditary, and there was no reason why it should not be wiped out.

THE BASEBALL OUTLOOK

Further Reports Made at Saturday Night's Meeting of the Local Association.

CHANGES AT GROUNDS

Those Who Have Not Yet Received Stock Certificates Requested to Send Money to Treasurer.

An enthusiastic meeting of the Plainfield Baseball Association was held at the Hotel Iroquois Saturday night, in the absence of President William N. Runyon, who attended the Yale Club dinner. Mayor Newton B. Smalley, vice president, was in the chair. There was considerable discussion of details in preparation for the opening of the season on Saturday, May 5, when Plainfield will meet the fast All-Cuban team.

The latter part of the week the work of repairing the grandstand and bleacher sets and making other improvements will be attended to and it is also the intention to lower the bank in left field, throwing that dirt into the hollow and the spectators formed a basin for a lake. It is also planned to make different arrangements for autos and carriages entering and leaving the grounds, so that the former will not frighten the horses. It is proposed to make room back of the grandstand so that autos can stand on one side of the field and horses and carriages on the other. There will also be a path for patrons on foot.

The flag pole, fully equipped for the flying of the championship pennant on the opening day and every day there is a game, will be in position, the ground committee having charge of this work.

It was estimated that with a clear warm day there should be an attendance of one thousand or over at the opening game, and it is believed that the attendance at every game this year will average more than last season. Treasurer C. W. Runyon received additional subscriptions and distributed several certificates of stock. It is desired that those who have not yet received their certificates and who can conveniently do so, send their money or check to Charles W. Runyon and he will mail them their certificate at once.

The plan proposed this year is to have a sufficient fund on hand in the treasury to meet the weekly expenses so that the receipts from the games can be put in the treasury and not touched. By doing this there is little likelihood of there being a shortage at the end of the season, while on the other hand there is a strong probability of there being a profit.

It is urged that there be a full attendance of members at the meeting of the association on Saturday night at the Hotel Iroquois so that all details can be completed for the opening one week later. Mr. Smalley, chairman of the ground committee, wants to see as many of the members as possible so that the committee can arrange with those who are to assist at the games. It was announced that the city will furnish two policeman for each game free of cost to the association.

MILITARY SHOW WEEK.

Full Military Programme Nightly at Madison Square.

The Military Athletic League began Soldier Show week in New York at Madison Square Garden, last night with their tenth annual tournament. The show will be as brilliant as usual with the grand reviews of the U. S. Troops, National Guard, Marine Corps, U. S. Marines and bluejackets and detachments from the coast regiments. After this, each night, there is a full military programme, with rough riding and musical rides by the famous Troop G, 5th U. S. Infantry, from Fort Ethan Allene, Vermont, and Co. A, 5th U. S. Infantry, from Fort Jay. In the nightly Manual Drill and battle exercises, platoon drills, making and breaking camp and riot drills to be seen each night.

The U. S. Marines, in bayonet exercises, street drills, and a superb artillery exhibition in the flying platoon drills, on the 3d Friday, N. G. N. Y., are on the programme for the show.

There is a change of programme each night and tent pegging, contests with the bayonet, and contests of the sabre against the lance and sword—enough to be seen at every performance and on Friday and Saturday nights, an added feature in the review and exhibition drill by the 42d Regiment Canadian Militia, known as the Duke of Cornwall's own Rifles from Toronto.

The show on Wednesday and Saturday will have the full military programme, except the reviews, and there will be complete drills by the young men from the Military Schools, in contest for the league prizes.

The athletic events, each night, beginning at 7:15, precede the reviews, and the best men of the National Guard are entered in the contests.

George Meyer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Meyer, of South Second street, and Miss Rilla Hand, of North Branch, were married at the home of the latter's parents, Saturday afternoon. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. E. Kiernan and was witnessed by a gathering of friends from this city and other places.

CHURCHES GIVE LIBERALLY

Crescent Avenue Congregation Contributes $422 and Others Respond Generously.

H. G. RUNKLE GIVES $250

D. H. Rowland and R. H. Depew Each Donate $100—Mayor's Committee Report of Subscriptions.

In some of the church offerings were received Sunday in for the San Francisco sufferers and the response was quite generous. In some instances the money has been sent to The Daily Press to be forwarded through The Plainfield Trust Company to the Mayor's committee in San Francisco, while other collections are being sent to W. F. Arnold, custodian of the fund being raised by the committee named by Mayor Buckle. In many instances yesterday the pastors of the churches made brief reference to the San Francisco calamity and urged large collections.

It was announced by Father Bogan at St. Mary's church that $5,000 had been appropriated from the diocesan cnancery account and that a collection would be received at the church on Sunday and forwarded to the diocesan treasurer. This action was taken so os not to cause any delay in relief. The money was sent last Thursday to the Archbishop of California with instructions to use as he thinks best.

At the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church $422 was contributed to the relief fund and the amount was sent to William F. Arnold.

The Unitarian church received an offering of $64 which has been sent to the president of the National Association of the church to be forwarded.

The collection of $140 which was received at the First M. E. church will be sent to The Daily Press office to be included in its general fund. The sum of $10 appropriated by the Christian Endeavor society of the Seven-day Baptist church, and $25 appropriated by the Bible society of the First Baptist church, have also been added to The Daily Press fund.

The Park Avenue Baptist church raised $100 yesterday.

Morris C. Van Arsdale, treasurer of the Congregational church, reports amounting to $111.23 which he forwarded to Jacob Schiff to be sent to the Red Cross society.

William F. Arnold, custodian of the fund being raised by the Mayo's committee, reports these contributions:

H. G. Runkle	$250
D. H. Rowland	100
R. Henry Depew	100
James T. Clossen	100
A. C. Sherman	25
Geo. T. Leighs	5
Philip Cottrell	2
Crescent Ave Church, col.	422

BON FIRE ACCIDENT RESULTS IN CHILD'S DEATH.

Hazel Morrison, the Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Morrison, Victim.

As the result of peritonitis brought on by burns she received in an accident two weeks ago, Saturday, Hazel Morrison, the 12-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Morrison, of South avenue, died at Muhlenberg Hospital, Saturday afternoon. When first taken to the institution it was not thought her injuries were serious but peritonitis developed and her death had been momentarily expected since Thursday.

The child had been watching a bon fire near her home and getting too near her clothing ignited. Her screams were heard by her mother and the latter in beating out the flames was also badly burned. Both were taken to Muhlenberg but Mrs. Morrison was able to leave Saturday.

A Double Surprise.

Miss Florence Churton, a teacher in the Whittier school, and Helen Ryder, of Central avenue, were tendered a double surprise by the schoolmates of the latter at her home, last night. It was Miss Ryder's birthday and when plans had been completed to help her celebrate it, Miss Churton was also invegited to the house and made a co-victim. Everyone had a delightful time playing games and enjoying piano selections and refreshments were served in conclusion. Miss Ryder received a number of pretty presents.

Among those in attendance were Ethel Rogers, Helen Smith, Joan Gillies, Elsie Tier, Corinne Tennyson, Adella French, Amy Horner, Ethel Searing, Florence Ryder, Ralph Martin, Russel Abbott, William Pessler and Winfield Ryder. The affair was arranged by Amy Horner and Ethel Searing.

Police Will Contribute.

In pursuance with a suggestion in a circular letter sent out by Major Sylvester, of the Washington police department, president of the International Association of Police Chiefs, Chief Kiely will have a collection taken up among his men for the benefit of San Francisco policemen. Many members of the force there lost all their belongings in the catastrophe, and all of them have suffered hardship and loss in battling with the conditions arising out of it. The contributions will be sent directly to Chief J. F. Dinan, of San Francisco.

F. H. ANDREWS GETS PLUM

Senator Ackerman's Candidate Appointed By Governor to New Tax Board.

THE OTHERS NAMED

Caleb Pollard, of Elizabeth, and J. Williams Crane, of Union Township, Also Lucky—Each to Get $1,000 a Year.

Frank H. Smith, chairman of the Union County Republican committee, has announced the appointment by Governor Stokes of the new county board of tax assessors. Those appointed are Frederick H. Andrews, of this city; Caleb Pollard, of Elizabeth, who was chairman of the Union County Board of Assessors, and J. Hand's extensive knowledge of real estate made him a strong candidate who was on the Martin Act commission. The salary of each assessor is $1,600, which is paid by the State. Thomas Manna, of this city, is a candidate for the position of secretary to the commission. The salary of the secretary is fixed by the Board of Freeholders. The new board takes office May 1.

The appointment of Frederick H. Andrews as a member of the board is quite a surprise. He was recommended by Senator Ernest R. Ackerman and it is understood that he was also favored by many others. Charles H. Hand and Harry C. Runyon, who are members of the Plainfield Board of Assessors, were also candidates for the position, Mr. Hand claimed to have the support of the local Republican organization and the promises of several persons of influence. He also received a letter from Governor Stokes this morning informing him that the appointment would not be made until due consideration had been given to his application. Mr. William Crane, of Union township, for the position and many believed that he would receive the appointment. Mr. Runyon has also had considerable experience in this work and had the support of many friends who favored him.

The new Board of Assessors is appointed for the purpose of equalizing the assessment of taxes in the county and taxpayers who have any grievances that cannot be adjusted by the local Board of Assessors can appeal to the county board for relief.

The law provides that the board shall consist of two Republicans and one Democrat. Messrs. Andrews and Mr. Pollard are the Republican members and Mr. Crane is a Democrat.

PINKERTONS IN SEARCH

Mrs. Kuenlen Hires Private Sleuths to Hunt For Her Daughter.

CRITICIZES LOCAL MEN

Too Slow and Indifferent, Is the Complaint—Ponds Dragged In Vain Yesterday—Clue From Roselle.

Dissatisfied with the way in which the local police have conducted the search, Mrs. Marie Kuenlen, mother of the girl who disappeared Saturday afternoon, has placed the case in the hands of the Pinkertons. One of the detectives on the New York agency staff was put on it Monday.

Only one faint clue to the girl's whereabouts has been discovered, and Mrs. Kuenlen's friends say the police here, acting with apparent indifference, did not secure that nor anything else that might shed light on the mystery. It was said by the friends that the department here made no effort to place the girl's description in cities nearby until complaints were registered this morning.

Chief Kiely stated this forenoon that it was not until 11 o'clock Sunday morning that the case was called to the department's attention, and that up to this morning he had been unable to secure a photograph of the girl. Mrs. Kuenlen gave the girl's photograph to Officer Kelly yesterday. Orders for circulars were issued by the chief this morning.

Chief Kenny, of Roselle, furnished the one faint clue to the girl yesterday. A traced wished by Mrs. Kuenlen that he saw her daughter in Roselle Saturday night. Henry Lietke, who is directing the search for Mrs. Kuenlen, went to Roselle to see Kenny this morning.

All the ponds in this neighborhood were dragged without result yesterday. Messages from all the girl's friends in neighboring cities, to whom she might have gone, shed no light on the disappearance.

The family do not know how much money Miss Kuenlen had with her. It is not believed to have been much, but she may have had enough to carry her a considerable distance.

Gets Calvary Mission.

Rev. P. T. Morris, who was involved in the recent squabble over the pastorate of Calvary Baptist church, colored, has taken charge of the Calvary church mission at Bound Brook.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

VOL. XXXVIII. PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, MAY 2, 1906 NO 18.

"Support the Constitution, which is the Cement of the Union, as well in its Limitations as in its Authorities."—Madison.

CARNIVAL'S PROGRAMME

Big Lot of Attractions Scheduled For the Second Annual Exhibition.

SOME GOOD SHOWS

Circus, Vaudeville, Minstrels, Curio World, Punch and Judy and Indian Encampment.

In the programme of attractions and acts announced by the management of the second annual carnival for the benefit of Muhlenberg Hospital today there are things enough to give the pleasure sense of normal people a plethoric feeling even in anticipation. Attraction follows attraction, and act after act rolls from the list in a way to make the ordinary mortal feel that he will require a year to do justice to the Carnivalia that will open up to him on May 19 on the West Fourth street show grounds.

In the big show, the Excelsior Bijou Circus will present in one ring, Mlle. Edwards, the only woman ringmaster before the public; Nellie Wilson, on the flying trapeze; Billy Lowanda, funniest acrobatic clown in the country, and Nellie, the famous cakewalking pony; Dick Chantry, the singing clown, and his fiery but well trained horses; Tommy Wilson, the Dutch juggler; Mlle. Lowanda, and her trick pony; Frank Burt, "the fellow that does everything;" and Peterson's Excelsior Band.

In the Polite Vaudeville Show will be seen Joy Schuyler, comedienne; Frazier Trio, greatest of international dancers before the public; T. McNichol, acrobatic musical comedian and comedy roller-skater; Allen and Dalton, blackface musical comedians; and Charles Emerson's orchestra.

Harry Lander's big minstrel show will be great. In the first part will appear: Interlocutor, E. Search; bones, Jim Havell; tambo, Harry Landers; vocalists, T. East, W. Curtis, R. Goodman and W. West. The olio will include Serell and Cranford, musical comedians; Harry Landers, the juggling moke; George Shady, comedian; and a one-act comedy. Hammil's orchestra will play.

Maze Edwards will conduct a World of Curios. He will present Libbera, the remarkable double man, one of the greatest freaks in the world; Mlle. Ella, snake charmer; Balbramo, fire eater; Mlle. Nellie, barefooted sword walker; and a case full of the mysteriously mysterious and the humorously humorous.

Gus White's great Punch and Judy show will be seen again. It made a big hit last year, and anxious inquiries over its return were made as soon as the second carnival became a sure thing. The Electric Theatre will be bigger and better than ever, with a big feature in the form of Mlle. Verona in the Fountain of Life. Prof. Don Ford, the famous handcuff king and mystery purveyor, will show.

Charles Hobby will run a tintype tent, and sell views of the carnival in action. Chief Dark Cloud will present a troupe of seven Apache Indians in sketches, singing and all the wierd and creepy Indian dances. In Taylor & Miller's tent of illusions will be shown the marvelous ojee, latest Parisian novelty.

Shaffer & Wilson's cane and knife rack will be there, with the best of canes and knives. The striking machine, an old and loved friend, will be on hand ready for chesty thumps. Your feminine companions will be interested in the products of Hickey & Furman's candy kitchen. There will be the Ferris Wheel, the latest and most improved model, and a chute the chute for toboggans. A new baseball game, with a bat in the hands of a hitter for a mark will catch the baseballists. L. Furman will show the Whole Damn Family, and the populace will have a chance to make the old man work. Madam Cooper, the only clairvoyant palmist in the world, will tell your fortune.

Old Aunt Sally, the only woman in the world with nerve enough to do it, will hold a clay pipe in her mouth, and let you try to knock it out with a shillelagh. She'll give you a cigar if you do, and the ha-ha if you don't. There will be the Hooligans, the popcorn tent, Long Chief Feather with his Indian novelties and archery court, fish ponds, candy machines and other lively booths and coin-lures in great multitude and variety.

A brand-new and glittering, musical, brightly-lighted merry-go-round will be on the grounds where everybody can see it and enjoy it. It will be covered by a new tent, just from the makers.

A stately pavilion of all nations will be conducted by the Women's Auxiliary of the hospital, and a spacious dancing platform. They may quaff enticing drinks at a place called "Klondike," where only soft and harmless beverages will be sold.

HEALTH BOARD TO EVICT COLORED WOMAN

HOUSE IN WHICH SHE LIVES SAID TO BE UNFIT FOR HABITATION.

Emeline Ruggles, colored, who failed to appear before the Board of Health, last month, to answer to a complaint about the sanitary condition of the property occupied by her on West Third street, will be served with a ten days' notice to vacate the property. This action was taken at a meeting of the Board of Health, yesterday afternoon, when a resolution was adopted instructing Health Officer Leon R. Thurlow to proceed in the case.

It was reported that Emeline Ruggles was duly served with certified copies of the complaint made by Health Officer Thurlow, dated April 2, and that the woman did not appear at the appointed time for a hearing, neither did any one appear for her. It is further stated that the property at 507 West Third street, owned by Emeline Ruggles, is unfit for human habitation and is likely to cause illness.

FREEHOLDERS GET BIDS FOR NEW COURT HOUSE

MANY CONTRACTORS WANT TO BUILD SOMERSET'S STRUCTURE.

The Somerset County Board of Chosen Freeholders met at the bridge at Scotch Plains on Monday, when it was decided to accept the structure. One bill of William Farrier for masonry was ordered paid.

The board will meet at the bridge across Green brook, at Leland avenue, May 17.

The board met in the Court House, at Somerville, yesterday for the purpose of opening bids for the new court house. The bidders were James W. Lanning, of Trenton; M. B. Leavy Building Co., New York; David Bohst, Bernardsville; Fassell & Wagner, Richard & Easton, Somerville; Cramp & Co., Philadelphia; E. M. Waldron & Co., Newark. The specifications called for 12 separate bids on different materials in substory, superstructure and trimmings.

The contract will be awarded in a fortnight.

FREEHOLDER CONNOLY WAS BURIED TODAY.

Late Westfielder Spent Half a Century in Public Life.

Freeholder W. W. Connoly died at his home on Elmer street, Westfield, Monday afternoon, after an illness of over a month. William Wallace Connoly was born in Rahway, April 8, 1825. He came to Westfield in 1853 and had resided there ever since. Since 1860, he had been engaged in the undertaking business and was a member of the New Jersey Funeral Directors' Association.

The flag on the county courthouse is at half-staff in honor of Mr. Connoly.

The funeral services were held this afternoon at his late residence, on Elmer street, at 3 o'clock. Interment takes place at the convenience of the family.

Mary Robinson Held.

Mary Robinson, arrested yesterday with William Mowrey, on a charge preferred by the latter's wife, was held in $200 bail by Justice Mosher this morning, after a hearing in which damaging evidence was presented. The man will be arraigned tomorrow morning. J. Henry Crane conducted the prosecution and W. G. De Meza appeared for the defendant. Mr. De Meza is confident that he will crumble up the prosecution's case if the grand jury indicts.

Runaway Breaks Wagon.

The horse attached to the delivery wagon of Herman Baumer, a grocer whose store is on South avenue, ran away from in front of the Dog Corner hotel yesterday afternoon and smashed the wagon against a tree a short distance beyond. The horse was tangled in the harness and thrown, and a bystander seized it when it regained its feet. The boy who drove the wagon was not in it when the runaway started.

Vital Statistics for April.

During April, according to the Health Board's report, there were ten marriages, thirty births, one stillbirth and thirty-two deaths. Of the thirty-two deaths, twenty-five were persons over forty years of age.

Jury In Contract Case.

The contract case of G. E. Merrill against H. Hanson, in Justice Hand's court, will be tried this afternoon before a jury of twelve men. F. J. Huff will appear for the defendant and J. P. Owens for the plaintiff.

PICK HORSE SHOW JUDGES

Five are Named By the Riding and Driving Club For Annual Exhibition.

SELECT PRIZE LIST

Eight More Classes Than Last Year —Valuable Cups Offered In All of the Events.

The executive committee of the Plainfield Riding and Driving Club met at the Casino last night and made preliminary arrangements for the annual horse show. Most of the time, and it took until after 12 o'clock, was spent in preparing the classes and arranging the prize list.

There will be eight more classes than last year and special inducements will be made to secure local entries. These will be open to Union, Somerset, Middlesex and Essex counties. There will be valuable cups for each event.

The following judges were appointed: For heavy horses, J. W. Ogden, of Morristown, and J. Carlisle, New York; roadsters, George Willing, of Philadelphia. An effort will also be made to secure Victor Mather, of New York, to judge hunters, and George C. Clauson, of New York, for saddle horses.

The boxes were sold last night, every one being drawn for in order to show no partiality. Applications were sent in and held until all were at hand and in this way each was given an equal chance. There are a few of the $40 boxes remaining.

Word has been received by the committee that some of the best known exhibitors in the country will enter horses. Among them are Mr. and Mrs. Alfred G. Vanderbilt, who will bring twenty blue-ribbonners direct from the Philadelphia show; Mrs. John Gerken, owner of the famous "Newsboy" and "Shop Girl;" Miss Vera Morris, Miss M. C. Maxwell, O. H. Kahn, J. Larocque, Jr., and C. W. Watson.

HEAVY HEADS HAD TO FOOT THE BILL

NOVEL WAY OF SELLING ICE CREAM AT A CHURCH SOCIAL

The King's Daughters' Circle, of the Park Avenue Baptist church, adopted a novel method at a social held last night, to raise its pledge for the support of the city nurse. The social was entitled "The Weighing Way." As each person arrived he was given a ticket. The men and women were supposed to find partners holding the corresponding number. The couples would call on Harry C. Runyon, who had charge of the scales. The one weighing the most was obliged to pay for the ice cream. In a majority of cases the men had to treat.

The highest weight recorded was 203 pounds and the smallest sixty-five pounds. In this way, as well as in the sale of candy, cake, fancy articles and at the Japanese tea room, a considerable sum was realized for the benefit of the King's Daughters.

G. W. V. Moy's orchestra rendered a programme of popular selections, while the rest of the time was spent in playing games of all kinds. Miss Olive De Lany was the chairman of the affair. Mrs. Charles F. Dayton was in charge of the ice cream, Miss Alma Runyon the cake, Mrs. S. A. Krom the candy and Miss Cora Brokaw the fancy articles. Those in the tea room were Mrs. DeLany, Mrs. A. M. Laggren and Mrs. Clayton M. Neagle. The Sunday-school room was elaborately decorated with the King's Daughters' colors by A. M. Laggren.

ALL MILKMEN MUST BE LICENSED IN 10 DAYS.

Board Instructs Health Officer Thurlow to Act.

Health Officer Thurlow has been instructed by the Board of Health to notify all milkmen who have made no application for a permit, that they will be allowed ten days in which to apply for a renewal of their license and pay the necessary fee. In case of failure to do so, steps will be taken to prevent the delinquents selling milk in Plainfield.

The same action was taken relative to the failure of plumbers to file their bonds.

Justice Smalley's Court.

The Rochester Nursery Company against M. Sorensen, on contract, returnable tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock; Rochester Nursery against P. B. Robinson, on contract, returnable tomorrow afternoon; Rochester Nursery Company against W. W. Drake, on contract, returnable next Monday morning. F. J. Huff is lawyer for the plaintiffs in each case.

GEO. T. PARROT FOR COURT JUDGESHIP?

THAT WAS THE TALK AMONG LAWYERS AT COURTHOUSE AT ELIZABETH.

There was much discussion in legal circles yesterday concerning the probable identity of the governor's choice for judges of the Circuit Court, and in the little knots of lawyers gathered in the corridors of the county court house the name of Judge Vail as the most likely choice of the executive was frequently mentioned. This idea was somewhat strengthened by a little episode in the Supreme Court.

Two lawyers were deciding as to which court a certain case should be sent to for trial. One said that he would prefer to have the case tried in the Circuit Court. His opponent expressed a desire to have it tried before Judge Vail in the Court of Common Pleas. Considering both suggestions Judge Fort remarked: "It may be the same."

This remark is now looked upon as very significant, and many are satisfied that Judge Vail is the coming man on the Circuit Court bench.

Previous to calling the list of causes Judge Fort announced that in all probability another Circuit Court judge would be appointed within a day or two, and under the circumstances no causes for that court would be tried before May 14. He stated that Judge Heisley had written him that if he were to come to Elizabeth again it would not be before May 28.

The name of Surrogate George T. Parrot has been mentioned about the courthouse as a successor to Judge Vail in the event of the appointment of the latter to the Circuit Court bench. Lawyers seemed to place considerable faith in the story that Parrot would become a judge.

LITTLE CONTAGION IN THE CITY NOW

ONLY TWO DEATHS FROM CONTAGIOUS DISEASE IN APRIL.

Plainfield is particularly free from contagious disease at the present time, there being but two cases of scarlet fever under quarantine. During April there were two deaths from contagious disease, William Connett, colored, who died on April 28, from scarlet fever, and Anna Bogan, aged six years, who died of diphtheria, on April 30.

Considerable work was done on dairy inspection and milk analysis. Owing to the fact that the milk permits expired May 1, an effort was made to inspect every dairy supplying milk in Plainfield. Eighty-nine dairies were visted, the majority of which were found to be in good condition. Forty-one samples of milk were analyzed, most of which was found to be of good quality. There were, however, several of poor quality, both chemically and bacteriological. As this is the time of the year for poor milk, the Board of Health considers itself fortunate in having so little trouble.

Notices were prepared during the month asking property owners to connect with the sewer and abolish vaults and cesspools in those districts bounded by East Front street, Watchung avenue, Green Brook and Norwood avenue; also West Fourth street, Park avenue, West Seventh street and Grant avenue. These notices will be served as soon as possible. The total number of inspections made during the month was 288.

The following milk permits have been granted:

Lindsay Dairy, Charles Johnson, J. P. La Fleur, J. I. Findley, J. W. Beetham, L. C. Meeker, C. F. Drake, F. M. Suydam, B. H. Brandon, Claus Peterson, S. Hetfield, Geo R. Wooden, Frank Weiland, A. Kunzman, P. J. Regan, Jacob Schuck, J. V. Barrett, Chris. Kelly, L. D. Morris, E. P. & D. E. Gavin, Mrs. George Schuck, W. H. Moffett, Charles Keller, Marchant Bros., B. R. Waldron, Thomas King, D. D. Cole, I. W. Fisher, A. Smith, Fred Kunzman, A. P. Voorhees, L. Pollock, John Hummel, W. W. Drake, Mrs. George Giebelhouse, Wm. Olsen, Willswood Farms Dairy Co., K. Rottberg.

The following plumbers bonds were ordered filed:

John J. Leahy, F. M. Masker, J. J. Heidelolf, A. S. Giles, M. Armstrong, George Kuldoshes, A. H. Enander, A. M. Griffen, Daniel Hogan, George J. Tobin, D. H. Pound & Bro.

Death of Mrs. Joseph Crane.

Mrs. Mary E. Crane, wife of Jos. Crane, died at her home on South avenue early this morning. She had been ill for a long time with a complication of troubles. She leaves one daughter. The funeral will be private and interment will be made at Ridgefield.

KILLED AT THE TANKS

A Philadelphia Brakeman Struck by a P. & R. Flyer at Greenbrook.

DEATH INSTANTANEOUS

Body Hurled 100 Feet and Almost Severed In Two Lengthwise— Remains Carried On In Caboose.

John Harding, of Philadelphia, a brakeman employed by the P. & R. railroad, was struck by an east-bound Philadelphia flyer at Greenbrook and instantly killed this morning.

Harding was struck by the train due here at about 9:27. His train, a freight, was west-bound, and stopped at the Greenbrook tanks to get water. While the engineer was loading his boiler, Harding dropped from the caboose to the east-bound track for some purpose. The flyer, running at high speed, was almost on top of him as he dropped, and struck him before he could make a move to save himself.

He was hurled a distance of 100 feet, and must have died instantaneously. His body was almost cut in two lengthwise.

The remains were put in the caboose of the freight and carried on to Philadelphia.

BAYONNE COPS GET FUGITIVE "DUTCH" IDES

MUCH-WANTED AGAIN IN JAIL AND POLICE WILL GET REWARD.

Frank Ives, alias "Dutch" Ides, who was wanted by the police of twenty cities in New Jersey and Pennsylvania for burglaries, was arrested yesterday in Bayonne as a fugitive from justice by Policemen Keating and Noonan, of the Bayonne police force. A reward of $125 offered for his capture will be divided between these officers.

Ides escaped from the Rahway Reformatory last November. At the time the guards fired at least forty shots at him, but not one took effect. He was reported in various localities throughout this State as well as in Pennsylvania, and despite the vigilant search the authorities could not locate him until yesterday. He made no resistance when arrested. He was taken back to the reformatory last night, where he will be heavily guarded.

PLANNING FIFTY HOUSES.

Big Syndicate After a Tract for Development Here.

With plans that include the erection of fifty small houses of modern construction, to rent for from $12 to $15, a New York syndicate has sent agents here to secure a tract of property for development. Lawyer F. J. Huff is acting for the syndicate in this city, and the names of the men in the deal will be withheld until their plans are more matured.

They have secured options on three pieces of land and it is practically an assured thing that one of the options will be closed in. The syndicate is said to be very rich, and engaged in systematic development of suburban home towns and factory neighborhoods.

Woolston & Buckle Get a Verdict.

Because the defendant failed to appear in the case of Lemuel B. Woolston, et al., partners, against Ellsworth D. Middlekauff, to recover $250 on a promissory note, given by Mr. Middlekauff on February 7, 1905, Justice Fort, in the Union County Court, this morning, directed the jury to return a verdict for the plaintiff for $269.90, representing the face of the note and interest. This was done on the motion of Charles A. Reed, of the firm of Reed & Coddington, counsel for the plaintiffs. There will be no more court until Monday, May 14, when the Circuit Court cases will be taken up.

Invitation Came Too Late.

An invitation was received last night at a meeting of the directors of the Plainfield Public Library and Reading Room, from the Free Public Library, of Summit, requesting the presence of the directors at the New Jersey Library Association meeting to be held at Summit. As the invitation came too late the directors sent regrets at not being able to attend. The library committee reported the purchase of 110 volumes from the library of Park Benjamin. There was no other business of importance and the meeting adjourned early.

—Neuman Brothers are now receiving Carolina strawberries fresh daily. No dealer in the city ever handled any half so nice while the prices are surprisingly low.

JUDGE VAIL GRANTS COUNTY LICENSES

SOME APPLICATIONS LAID OVER BECAUSE OF REMONSTRANCES.

In Court of Common Pleas yesterday Judge Vail granted licenses for inns and taverns throughout the county as follows:

David J. Ruhlly, township of Linden; Louis Zacher, Linden Borough; Herman O. O. Schmidt, Cranford; Joseph Kuntz, New Providence; Charles Ward, Garwood; John J. Maher, New Providence; John Klopf, Mountainside; Charles J. and Herman W. Sauer, Roselle Borough; Louis A. Kling, Linden; Thomas A. McDevitt, Roselle Borough; Amelia Becker, Garwood; Sophia Seider, Linden Township; William H. Lee, Fanwood Borough; James N. Naylor, Fanwood; John C. Bender, Roselle Park; Barthold Heim, Fanwood Borough; Baltusrol Golf Club, Springfield.

The following applications against which remonstrances were entered were laid over: Joseph Cutinella, Roselle Park; Eugene M. O'Reilly, Union; Walter F. Orielbaugh, Fanwood; Joseph M. Steiner, Fanwood; Nicola de Vito, Cranford.

PHYTHIAN KNIGHTS HOLD A BIG RALLY

MEMBERS OF THE ORDER IN NEARBY PLACES GATHER AT SOMERVILLE.

Lodge of the Castle, No. 82, K. of P., of Somerville, had a big rally Monday evening, when large delegations from Somerset Lodge, No. 56, of Bound Brook; Perseverance Lodge, No. 74, and Unity Lodge, No. 102, of Plainfield; Friendship Lodge, No. 30, of New Brunswick, and Neshanic Lodge, No. 131, of Neshanic, were entertained.

Deputy Grand Chancelor Gustav Wissert, of Somerville, presided and the address of welcome was made by Clarence E. Case. Addresses were made by Grand Chancelor Joseph Wilson, of South Amboy; Grand Master of Exchequer John Patrick, of Rutherford; Grand Keeper of Records and Seals Elmer E. Margerum, of Trenton; Grand Inner Guard A. L. Drucker, of Elizabeth; Grand Outer Guard Harry C. Keeler, of Newark; Grand Master at Arms H. A. Heinrich, of Paterson; Wm. H. Mays, of New Brunswick; A. A. Corteleyou, of Neshanic; W. B. R. Mason, David Hastings and M. W. Banter, of Bound Brook; Asa Pope and Jeremiah Van Winkle, of this city, and William D. Quick, John E. Wehrly and Joseph Fitzsa, of Somerville.

Among the guests were ex-County Clerk M. H. Van Derveer, who was one of the founders of the organization.

Refreshments in abundance were served. Those in charge of this branch of the entertainment were Harry L. Dietz, H. F. Mooshrugger, David Lacey and J. E. Sherman. The committee for entertaining the G. L. officers was Wm. D. Quick, John A. Maxwell and Peter Hardcastle.

LECTURE ON JAMAICA.

Returned Traveller Tells of His Journey at Congregationalist Club.

A talk on Jamaica and Nassau by William McIntosh was the feature at the monthly social meeting of the Men's Club of the Congregational church last night. Mr. McIntosh spent the month of March on the islands, and his descriptions were clearer for the freshness of his recollections. He touched on all the interesting points of the islands, from the breakfast of the natives to the peculiarities of vegetation and the miserable character of the hotel service.

Miss Myra Emmons, piano, and Miss Edna Smith and Herbert Smith played two selections. Refreshments were served.

Next month the club will hold its last meeting prior to summer suspension, when Rev. Dr. Clay Slate Senator Ackerman will mark the event. Women will be invited.

Carnival Committee Meeting.

There will be a meeting of all committees of the hospital carnival and fair at the Casino on Friday night, and every member is urgently requested to attend.

To Administer McCann Estate.

Through Lawyer F. J. Huff, Catherine McCann was made administratrix of the estate of the late Charles McCann in the Orphans' Court yesterday.

Case Dismissed.

The contract case of V. G. Miller against Harold Hanson, in Justice Hand's court, has been dismissed. F. J. Huff appeared for Hanson.

Hugh Hastings, New York State historian, has returned from a trip to Albany, N. Y.

COMMITTEE OF HUNDRED

Republican Organization to Work With Representative Advising Body.

EVERYTHING NOW OPEN

All Meetings of the Hundred Will Be Public and They Will Meet In a Hall.

Undiscouraged by the doubting smiles with which their announcement of absolute independence from dictation in nominations and their disapproval of back stairs' conferences, the members of the Republican City Executive Committee have gone steadily on their way to throw the party councils and the primaries wide open. At a meeting held last night it was voted to organize a committee of 100, to act in an advisory capacity with the City Committee, in arranging for the primaries and the conduct of party matters. A resolution on the new move was passed as follows:

"Whereas, it is the intention of the Republican City Executive Committee to exert all the means within its power for obtaining a fair and impartial selection of candidates as delegates and representatives of the Republican party, irrespective of affiliation, for the purpose of upholding the best principles of Republicanism, and for that purpose it is desirous to enlist the co-operation of as many of the Republican voters of the city of Plainfield as can be secured.

"Therefore, let it be Resolved, that the chairman be authorized to appoint a committee of one hundred, to be composed of a representation from each of the wards as near as possible, to attain the object of this resolution, who shall be known as an Advisory Committee, and whose duties will be to co-operate with the Republican City Executive Committee of the city of Plainfield in formulating plans for the promotion of the best interests of the Republican party of the city of Plainfield."

The Hundred will hire a hall for their meetings and all sessions will be public. On its part, the City Committee will name judges and papers, prepared by a committee of four appointed last week, on the primary laws, making the way for political activity plain to the common people. After the body gets through with its campaign of organization, it is claimed, no one will have any excuse for not having had a part in making the party nominations and in outlining its policy.

At the meeting last night Secretary Newcorn announced that fourteen acceptances had been received from men picked to fill the newly created vacancies on the City Committee. The complete list will be made public next week, it is expected.

RANDOLPH FARM SOLD.

Mrs. Josephine Cheever, of Brooklyn, Purchases It As Home.

The old Randolph farm in Park avenue, which has been in the family for over 100 years, has been sold by Edward F. Randolph to Mrs. Josephine Cheever, of Brooklyn. She will improve the place and live on it. The sale was closed in the office of Lawyer F. J. Huff, who acted for Mrs. Cheever.

The farm was purchased long before there was a Park avenue in existence by Mr. Randolph's father, Asa F. Randolph. In 1849 Mr. Randolph bought the property after his father's death, from the heirs. The deed he received then is a document written by hand on stiff, ruled paper, and the notary's signature is that of John H. Van Winkle, who was then at his law studies.

Co. K to Sea Girt.

As Co. K is one of the State military organizations that will go to camp at Sea Girt this summer, plans are already underway for the trip. The boys expect to make the best showing ever on the rifle range and hope to qualify every man with a good score.

Emil Woltmann Suffered Losses.

Emil Woltmann, formerly of West Seventh street, but now of San Francisco, was among those who suffered great business losses as a result of the earthquake. His home in Berkeley was also seriously damaged. The family escaped personal injury.

Sesame Club's Election.

The regular weekly meeting of the Sesame Club will be held tomorrow morning at the residence of Mrs. Arthur Chamberlain, No. 318 East Sixth street. The annual election of officers will take place.

Announce Engagement.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick R. Stevens, of Second place, announce the engagement of their daughter, Jessie Kathrine Stevens, to Mr. Eaton Cahoone, of [illegible] avenue.

TRINITY REPORT NIGHT

Talk By Marconnier Chapel's Pastor Interests the Congregation.

RECEIPTS, $6,158.69.

Total Benevolences $1,711—Number of Communicants 597—Rev. Dr. Schenck Speaks.

Encouraging reports of the past year in every department of work were presented at a specially appointed meeting in Trinity Reformed church, last night. It was what is termed "report night," and there was a large attendance of members who were interested and gratified with the excellent results shown. Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck, pastor, had all of the reports summarized and instead of a member of each department presenting a report, he read them all, as follows:

Number of families, 274; number of communicants, 597; received on confession, 18; received by certificate, 22; dismissed, 11; died, 11; baptized, adults, 6; infants, 14; Sunday schools, 2; enrollment of home school, 598; average attendance, 339; Marconnier chapel, 70; average attendance, 40; number of Home Department Sunday school, 206.

Benevolent offerings from church and societies: Foreign missions, $608.98; domestic missions, $497.11; church building fund, $32.38; Board of Education, $27.08; disabled ministers and widows' fund, $51.26; total, $1,917.91; benevolent objects—McAll Auxiliary, $31.00; Salvation Army, $30.24; Muhlenberg Hospital, $25.21; deacons' fund, $82.30; Sunday school, $23.95; Marconnier chapel, $223.88; sundry objects, $96.42; total $512.72; total for benevolences, $1,711.54; total for congregational purposes, $6,-158.69.

In addition to the reports there was considerable interest in a brief talk by Rev. J. Tucker Lansdale, who recently took charge of the work at Marconnier chapel. He is the first pastor the chapel has had and since his coming there has been renewed activity and the prospects for substantial growth are excellent.

Mr. Lansdale said that there are eighty-two families in the vicinity of Oak Tree, where the chapel is located, and the nearest place of worship to the chapel is about two miles. The average attendance at the Sunday evening services is fifty and one night recently there were sixty-five persons present. The seating capacity of the chapel is one hundred. The average attendance at the Sunday school is forty. Mr. Lansdale said that while he does not think that the prospects are good for the establishment of an independent church, he believed that a strong mission will result. Souls are being saved there and this is considered a most encouraging feature. The pastor has found that many persons are now attending service who have not done so in years and there are as many men as women in the weekly congregations. He expects to receive several new members on confession at the next communion service.

Mr. Lansdale spoke especially of the great work among the children in that neighborhood. It was with particular satisfaction that he stated that the chapel is free from debt, the last payment of the loan being paid this week. He said that in case the village ever has a boom the community will have the foundation for a strong Reformed church.

Supplementing Mr. Lansdale's remarks, Dr. Schenck took occasion to say that if the Lehigh Valley Railroad company would decide to improve its local passenger service and believe that such traffic would receive as much attention as that of hauling coal, it might be the means of building up the locality.

This part of the meeting was then closed and the rest of the evening was devoted to sociability, during which light refreshments were served by members of the Christian Endeavor Society. This feature was greatly enjoyed and all agreed that the meeting was one of much help and profit for all. Dr. Schenck congratulated each and every department of the church for the excellent work accomplished during the year and encouraged all to greater effort for the coming year.

His First Arrest.

Patrolman McDonald, a new cop, made his first arrest last night, on West Front street. He pinched Harvey Sturtevant, colored, as a suspicious character. Sturtevant was loitering about the street and couldn't give an account of himself that was satisfactory. There was nothing against him this morning when court opened, and Judge Runyon released him.

Orra S. Rogers, of Madison avenue, is visiting at Alfred University, Alfred, N. Y. While there he will deliver several lectures on the subject of insurance. He will also go to Lockport, where his wife is visiting and they will return home together next week.

Mrs. W. C. O'Donnell and son, of Jersey City, are visiting Mrs. O'Donnell's parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. O. [illegible], of Franklin place.

Endicott, son of Dr. G. W. [illegible] is ill with scarlet fever, but is improving.

DR. HURLBUT'S TRAVELS

Former Plainfield Minister Gives Illustrated Talk of His Journeys Abroad.

"ON THE RIVER RHINE"

Pictures Switzerland and Its Good Roads—Told of Some Famous Castles.

"On the Rhine" was the subject of an illustrated lecture given under the auspices of the Brotherhood of the First M. E. church, in Vincent chapel, Thursday, by Rev. Dr. Jesse Lyman Hurlbut, formerly pastor of the church. As it was Dr. Hurlbut's first appearance here in a long time he was given a hearty welcome, after an introduction by James R. Joy.

The views shown by Dr. Hurlbut were exceptionally fine and gave the large audience a clear and comprehensive idea of the famous river. At the outset, Dr. Hurlbut mentioned the good roads to be found in Switzerland and said that it is possible for a person to travel throughout that country on a bicycle.

The speaker then took his audience over mountains and through cascades in following the course of the Rhine, showing the forty odd castles to be found along its banks. His talk was made all the more interesting because of the many legends related about the castles, all of the fairy tale kind. In showing a view of the Rhine Falls, considered the most beautiful along the river, he said that it was less than one-eighth of a mile in width and about one quarter the height of Niagara Falls. It is growing deeper each year, by the constant rush of the waters.

The famous clock in the Cathedral of Strassburg was described, the speaker stating that people travel thousands of miles to see it. Quaint buildings in Heidelberg were shown and historical incidents related about them. Dr. Hurlbut also told of the birth of the Reformation and showed views of statue of men who were leaders during this period.

The speaker referred to Homer, Dante, Shakespeare and Goethe and said that in his opinion he believed that Goethe was being appreciated more than ever as a real literary genius.

Dr. Hurlbut devoted considerable time to the peculiar romance of various stories and the castles which were occupied by noblemen prior to the Thirteenth Century. He characterized them noblemen as robbers, telling how they heavily taxed all persons who plied their boats up and down the Rhine. While the true beauty and grandeur of the Rhine was given due prominence, Dr. Hurlbut's views served in the least from the beautiful rivers and scenery in America, and after all believed that it would compare quite favorably with those to be found abroad.

After the lecture the audience adjourned to the supper room, where a strawberry and ice cream festival was enjoyed. At this part of the affair the Brotherhood entertained the vested choir of the church.

Miss Elizabeth Martin Honored.

Miss Elizabeth R. Martin, daughter of Horace J. Martin, of Watchung avenue, has been elected president of the class of '06 of the Krouse-Bolte Seminary for kindergarteners at Seventy-fourth street and Central Park West, New York. Miss Martin has been studying at the seminary for the past two years and the honor was conferred upon her because of her popularity.

I. N. Wyckoff, the painter and decorator, is making contracts for spring and summer work. Get his figures.

The coal that burns the best is sold by John Johnson, South avenue. Order from him whenever you need coal. Deliveries prompt.

Carriage jobs of all sorts done by W. J. Conroy, Somerset street. Done right, and at reasonable cost. All sorts of carriage supplies.

When you need a caterer, retain D. Demolli & Co. Their service is par excellence. Only the finest service is attempted by them.

Looking for a reliable, reasonable-charging carpenter? Louis Beck, South avenue, is the man. Give him you contracts, big and little.

Bellô Mead Sweets are the best and purest obtainable. Plainfielders can secure them at P. B. Hodge's pharmacy, East Front street.

A. Le Vine, the Watchung avenue tailor, cleans and presses clothes so that they look as good as new. You will like his charges reasonable.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin H. Frost, of Yonkers, N. Y., formerly of this city, sailed on the Koenig Albert, on Saturday, for Gibraltar. They will spend a month in Spain and visit other foreign countries.

Now is the time to secure plants, shrubbery, etc., for the grounds about your home. Place your order at once with the Belleview Nursery before the season gets too far advanced.

Why allow your watches and clocks to run until the dirt in the works clogs them to stoppage? Have them cleaned, before that happens, by William Brown, Watchung avenue, and save the mechanism.

DEATH ENDS LONG ILLNESS OF MRS. DAY

AGED MOTHER OF NEW MARKET POSTMASTER SUCCUMBS TO GANGRENE.

After a long illness, Mrs. Stanley Day, of New Market, mother of Postmaster Charles Day, of New Market, and of George W. Day, editor and proprietor of the Dunellen Call, died last Friday shortly after 8 o'clock. She was over seventy years old.

Mrs. Day's death was caused by general debility resulting from a persistent and peculiarly malignant attack of gangrene in her foot. The member was affected months ago. Operation after operation was performed, but the disease continued and the patient's great age prevented her from rallying from the effects of the malady properly. The end was indicated weeks ago and the death did not come as an unexpected shock.

Mrs. Day, with her husband, who survives her, had lived in New Market in this vicinity for the past twenty-five years. They came to this section from Canada, to where they had returned after a previous residence in New Market. Four sons and three daughters are living—George W., Charles, James, Stanley, Jr., Miss Irene and Mrs. Frank Van Nuis, all living in New Market or Dunellen. A married daughter lives in Canada.

AUTOMOBILES AROUSE BOUND BROOK NOW.

Speeding Machines Stir Up Residents and "Bump the Bumps" Will Be Built.

The recklessness of automobilists while driving their cars through the streets of Bound Brook has thoroughly aroused the residents, and the Town Council has been appealed to to take some steps that will prevent the flagrant violation of the automobile speed law. A horseman and brother of Councilman Runyon Field was driving a spirited horse on Mountain avenue, between Bound Brook and Somerville, Sunday afternoon, and had two exciting experiences with autoists. Mr. Field says that in both cases the horse nearly got beyond his control, and despite the fact that he signaled to the machine drivers with his hand to reduce the speed of their cars, they ran the machines past him at a terrific rate of speed, never turning out an inch.

The Town Council has decided to elevate all crosswalks on Mountain avenue, between the autoists have protested against this being done, but the majority of residents favor it.

PLAINFIELDER WILL HELP REBUILD 'FRISCO.

Bailey Peyton Legare To Work On Railway Construction—William Hazell's Sisters Safe.

Bailey Peyton Legare, of this city, son-in-law of Jan van Heverden, will have a part in the reconstruction of San Francisco's street railways. Mr. Legare, who is an engineer on the staff of the Union Railways Investment Company, started for 'Frisco on an engineering mission the Monday before the quake. He arrived the day after the fire, to find a far greater need of his services than he had in mind when he started. He knew what to expect, however, before he reached the wrecked city, from newspapers read on the journey.

Mrs. Legare, who is staying with her parents, received word from her husband yesterday. He has secured lodgings in a barn adjoining a hotel in Oakland—the best he could get in all the city. He is now engaged in searching for the company's office in the ruins.

William Hazell, of East Second street, has received word from his sisters, who lived in San Francisco. They are both safe in Alameda. Mrs. McCord's house was still unharmed at the time of writing.

E. G. FOSTER WEDS MISS SOUTHERLAND.

Ceremony Performed at the Madison Avenue M. E. Church, New York, Yesterday.

Miss Florence L. Southerland, daughter of A. F. Southerland, and Eugene Gray Foster, son of Scott Foster, of New York, and nephew of D. D. Winner, of Madison avenue, were married yesterday afternoon in the Madison Avenue Methodist Episcopal church, by Bishop McCabe, of Philadelphia, and the Rev. Dr. Wallace MacMullen, pastor of the church. A reception followed at the bride's home, 145 West Fifth-eighth street, New York.

Miss Anna P. Southerland was her sister's maid of honor, and J. Hegeman Foster was the best man. The ushers were Howard C. Foster, brother of the groom; Joseph S. Stout, cousin of the bride; William Peake, Robert S. Talmadge, A. Fillmore Hyde, D. Walter Gibson, Daniel C. Adams and Glen Wright.

Aboard the Band Wagon.

Union county machine politicians are not slow. They have taken note of what happened in Essex and in some other places, and are reported to have decided that the politic thing to do is not to fight the Colby movement, but to capture it by strategy. This is a new game that will be watched by other bosses with considerable interest.—Newark News

MACHINISTS' BALL NETS $300 for 'FRISCO

CROWD AT SAENGERSUND HALL ONE OF THE LARGEST IT HAS EVER HELD.

One of the largest crowds that has ever attended a ball in Saengerbund hall was present Friday night when Local No. 167 of the International Association of Machinists conducted one for the benefit of the San Francisco sufferers. There were fully 1,000 people in attendance and the floor at times was so congested it was almost impossible to dance. Suhr's Imperial orchestra furnished the music and a competent committee looked after the interests of everyone. It is possible that the net receipts for the 'Frisco fund will reach $300.

William Waglow was floor manager and he was assisted by James Scott and John McClelland. The committee proper composed of Andrew McConnell, chairman; James Smith, Charles Backer, Cornelius Laughlin, James McConnell, James Rutledge, Fred Stranzenbach and William Delke.

P. H. S. SHUTS OUT THE JERSEY CITY BOYS

S. FREEMAN OF P.H.S., IN RARE FORM DEFEATS OPPONENTS, 5 TO 0.

The team representing the Jersey City High School visited this city Saturday and were defeated at the hands of the Plainfield High School nine by the score of 5-0. The game was played on Crescent park.

The local team hit consistently, Douglass distinguishing himself by getting three hits out of four times at bat. Davis and Smith also batted well.

Stuart Freeman was on the slab for the Plainfield High School team and he was in rare form, striking out nine men and allowing only three hits. He was supported suberply by his team-mates, Smith, in right field, and Van Deventer behind the base, fielding flawlessly. Jersey City got off two snappy double plays.

The line-up:

P. H. S.		J. C. H. S.
S. Freeman	P	W. Wright
Davis	C	Regan
Douglass	2b	Wright
Van Deventer	2b	Callahan
Mehaffey	3b	Inglis
H. Freem.an	S. S.	Oliver
Harding	L. F.	Klonce
Brakeley	C. F.	Gatsow
P. Smith	R. F.	Gregory

Score by innings:

J. C. H. S. . 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0—0
P. H. S. . . 3 0 0 2 0 0 0 0 x—5

Summary—Earned runs, P. H. S., 2; first base on balls, off Freeman, 3; struck out by Freeman, 9; W. Wright 5; left on base, P. H. S., 5; J. C. H. S., 3; double plays, Gregory to C. Wright, Callahan to Oliver; wild pitch, Mehaffey; passed ball, Brigman; first base on error, P. H. S., 1; J. C. H. S., 1; hit by pitcher, Mehaffey. Umpire, Howard Craig. Time of game, 1 hour and 30 minutes.

Realty Transfers.

Recent property conveyances of Plainfield realty recorded in the county clerk's office at Elizabeth, are as follows: Peter Garretson et ux. to Clara N. Naylor, northeasterly corner lot 11, on West Third street, 32 feet northeasterly of Garretson, $1; same to same, southeasterly side West Third street, 32 feet northeasterly of lot 11, $1; Clara N. Naylor et al. to Peter Garretson, southeasterly line Loomis' land, corner Phineas M. French, $1; Leo Booker et ux. to Lewis Booker, northwesterly side East Third street, corner Angeline Gates, $1; William E. G. Pearson et ux. to George W. Cole, northwesterly side West Third street, 60 feet northeasterly of Prescott, $1; Mary M. Grifter to John H. Borman, East Second street, opposite No. 1, centre line of Washington street, $1.

The Mosquito Obtains a Respite.

There will not be so much warfare against the mosquito this season as planned. The new Jersey State Conference Committee on Mosquito Extermination were especially delighted when they learned that the Governor had signed the bill providing for an annual appropriation hot to exceed $75,000 for the work, but the realization that the funds would not be available until next November somewhat dampened the committee's ardor. It is the intention, however, to keep busy in perfecting plans for the rapid prosecution of the work when the first allowance of funds is procurable so that when a new start is made the results at the end of the season may be such as to show clearly that the pest may be entirely disposed of by the methods suggested.

Mrs. Kurtz Safe.

Mrs. Louise Kurtz, a sister of the late Charles Dencklau, of Fairview avenue, who was in San Francisco at the time of the earthquake, has been heard from. She is safe, but her home was destroyed.

Grace's Church Fair Postponed.

On account of the critical illness of Mrs. E. M. Rodman, the fair which was to have been held in the parish house of Grace church on May 1 and 2, is indefinitely postponed.

TUTTLE FOR CHAIRMAN

He May Succeed John Moody as Head of Democratic Committee.

OTHERS AFTER THE JOB

A Half Dozen Or So Are Mentioned for the Honor, But Westfielder's in Lead.

Every effort is being made here to induce William E. Tuttle, Jr., of Westfield, to accept the nomination for the Democratic County Chairmanship. He is looked upon as the logical successor to John Moody, of Cranford, who resigned, when the County Committee refused to accept his ideas for the reformation of the Democratic party upon radical theories. At the next regular meeting of the committee, which will be held Friday evening, May 4, at the Democratic headquarters, in Elizabeth, a successor to Mr. Moody will probably be named.

Tuttle wanted to resign from the committee at the March meeting. The reason for his offering to retire from the committee was because he was not in accord with Mr. Moody's views. In a letter to Mr. Moody, who is a personal friend of Mr. Tuttle, the latter said: "The reason for withdrawing from the County Committee is because I cannot conscientiously support your views for the reformation of the party in their entirety and, after mature reflection upon the matter, I am of the opinion that I can best serve my party in the county by withdrawing from the committee rather than be mistaken as an obstructionist in the work you have undertaken."

His resignation was laid upon the table. In the meantime Mr. Moody resigned, when he found he was not being given the support he believed he could count upon, and at the next meeting Mr. Tuttle will be asked to reconsider his action, and it is believed that he will be prevailed upon not only to remain a member of the committee, but also to accept the nomination for the chairmanship.

Mr. Tuttle, will not, however, accept the nomination unless it is unanimous. John L. Crowell, of Rahway, the predecessor of Mr. Moody in that office, would like to have the position again, and it is understood that Col. Dennis F. Collins, of Elizabeth, is also considered. George A. Ford, former president of the City Council of Elizabeth, has also been asked if he would accept the position. He has not yet made his intentions known in this particular.

Judge Owen P. Mahon, of Elizabeth, is now acting in the capacity of County Chairman, which duties were thrust upon him as first vice chairman of the committee. He is not desirous of being understood as being the chairman of the County Committee this year.

Tuttle is an organizer. He is a man of considerable executive ability, and the opposition which he has at the present time is not looked upon as being really serious. The situation, in a few words, is, he can have it if he wants it.

PASSES ARE SENT TO LEGISLATORS.

Railroads Present Members With Coveted Slips at Adjournment.

Annual railroad passes for the benefit of members of the Legislature have made their appearance now that that body has adjourned and legislative passes have expired with it. Some surprise has been expressed at the receipt of the valuable little pasteboards, but there does not appear to have been any marked objection on the part of any particular recipient.

The Pennsylvania Railroad has been liberal in this respect and the Central Railroad of New Jersey is also said to have extended a glad hand.

News comes from the Camden end of the State that these two railroad companies, as well as the West Shore, have been busy also in the work of distribution of annual passes among members of the Legislature of 1906.

Looking After American Interests.

Senator Ernest R. Ackerman has returned from Washington, where he went in the interest of the Lawrence Cement Company, of which he is president. There is considerable rivalry for the contract of furnishing cement for the construction work of the Panama Canal, and thus far the foreign manufacturers have appeared to have the advantage. Mr. Ackerman appeared before the Congressional committee having this work in charge, in the interest of the American manufacturers.

Notable Visitors at the High School.

These persons have visited the Plainfield High School during the past week and inspected the work of the classes: Prof. Louis Bevis, Jr., State inspector of high schools; Miss E. O'Brien, assistant teacher in London County Council Elementary School, England; Mrs. M. O'Brien Harris, D. Sc., head mistress of a London County Council higher grade school; V. C. Brugh, of the High School, Belvidere, N. J.

BIRTHPLACE OF JERSEY INN WAS BUILT IN 1750

Legislature Makes Appropriation For Meeting Place of the Original Committee of Safety.

Contains Many Revolutionary Relics —The Home of Dolly Madison.

Standing in Haddonfield is an ancient tavern house now considered the most interesting building in the State, from the fact that it is the only historic building owned by the State, and also from the fact that the Legislature has made special provision for its complete renovation and restoration.

It was last New Year's night that Governor Stokes visited the building for the first time to make investigation as to the propriety of securing an appropriation from the State for that purpose.

The Haddon Fortnightly, an organization for the protection of women's interests, secured and carefully preserved the old manuscripts and tales of the place that will make it possible to restore "Ye Olde Tavern House" to its original condition.

When Governor Stokes visited the building with the commissioners, appointed by the legislature to purchase the historic structure, he accepted two handsome and costly flags, one the gift of the Fortnightly and the citizens of the town and the other the gift of Mrs. S. V. Gildemeyer.

A water color painting of the coat-of-arms of the State, painted by Miss Sarah E. Lewis, was also presented to the State.

The building was erected in 1750 by Matthias Aspen, an Englishman, who came to Philadelphia, but afterwards moved to Haddonfield. It originally had ten acres of ground. It was bequeathed to the son of the builder, Matthias Aspen, Jr., who, in 1775, sold it to Thomas Redman.

It has since changed hands several times, but from the time of its erection, over 155 years ago, it has remained a public house until purchased by the State for preservation.

It is now popularly known as the birthplace of the State of New Jersey, and a tablet that has been erected on the wall over the front door announces that "Within this building, when a tavern house, the Council of Safety for New Jersey was organized March 18, 1777. Herein, also, in September of the same year, the Legislature unanimously resolved that hereafter the word 'State' should be substituted for 'Colony' in all public writes and commissions."

One bit of romance connected with the house is told by W. J. Mills:

"Sweet Dorothy Payne," who became the famous Dolly Madison, sported with her good Uncle Crighton and the Crighton cousins in the "best room," hall and chambers of this ancient inn, that is much the same today as when the house was built.

As a girl of 18, in the year 1786, she is described as being of slight figure, possessing a delicately oval face, a nose tilted like a flower, jet black hair and blue eyes of wondrous sweetness. Those beautiful blue eyes, with their power to scintillate with playfulness or mellow with sympathy, wrought great havoc with the hearts of the Quaker lads of Haddonfield.

Although many years have flown since she tripped through the quiet streets and lanes of the place, her memory is alive there. Elderly people still repeat what their fathers and grandfathers once said of her, and of the many tributes paid to her youthful charms it is easy to imagine that many a good Quaker lad's love was laid at her shrine before stern John Payne ever made her accept the hand of John Todd.

In those early Haddonfield days she often took frolicsome rides with her cousins in the small coaches that stopped twice daily at the tavern, driving a mile or two out on the highway and walking home.

In one of the quaint, unaltered rooms, where the State Legislature and the council of safety met in the old tavern during the revolution, the ancient strap hinges are on the door —said to be "the very hinges which looked upon those bands of ardent souls in the days ago," and many other antique reminders of those days of turmoil in the history of our country are still cherished today within the ancient building erected 155 years ago.

Since the special efforts made to restore the ancient building an "antique room" has been established, in which are collected many relics of revolutionary days, when the tavern was the scene of fashionable events and of important colonial affairs.

On the second floor is the council chamber and ballroom, which contains a huge open fireplace, and where the council sat while in session.

The mantel has been restored and the whole room gives an air of colonial times.

The Senate last week passed the House bill appropriating $12,000 for the complete restoration of the interior and to remove the stucco which covers the outside and bring to the surface the original beauty of the exterior walls, and also to furnish a fund to meet the expenses of keeping the building forever in its original condition.

BIG GOLF TOURNAMENT

Programme For Eighth Annual Contest of Metropolitan Golf Association.

ON ST. ANDREWS LINKS

Big Golf Event Will Begin May 23 and Continue for Four Days—The Programme.

Announcement is made of the eighth annual tournament of the Metropolitan Golf Association to be held on the links of the St. Andrews Golf Club, Chauncey, New York, May 23, 24, 25 and 26.

The "Metropolitan Championship" will consist of a qualifying round of thirty-six holes medal play; the sixty-four players making the lowest scores to compete at eighteen holes match play for the following events, except the finals, which will be at thirty-six holes match play in each competition:

The first thirty-two to compete for the championship and prizes. The third sixteen to compete for a prize. The fourth sixteen to compete for a prize. The defeated sixteen of the first thirty-two to compete for the President's cup. Players entering for this event must be members of the secretary of a club as representing that club. Only players having a rating on the Metropolitan Golf Association handicap list of seventeen or less are eligible. Entries for the Metropolitan Golf Association championship must be made through secretaries of clubs and will close at the office of the secretary, Leighton Calkins, 25 Broad street, New York, Saturday, May 19, at noon. The entrance fee of $2 must accompany entry. Drawings and times of starting will be announced later.

"Metropolitan Club Pairs Four Ball Match." Eighteen holes medal play. Teams to consist of two players, both of whom must be members of the same club. Best ball of players at each hole to count. All members of a club without regard to handicap, are eligible to compete in this event. Any club may enter more than one team. In addition to the individual prizes a banner will be given to the club represented by the winners. Post entries. Competitors will be posted at the tee.

"Metropolitan Handicap." Eighteen holes medal play. Open to all members of clubs belonging to the Metropolitan Golf Association. Handicaps limited to eighteen strokes. No association player is eligible to compete, except at scratch, unless he has an association handicap. Players not having ratings can obtain them by applying to Secretary Calkins. No player will be allowed to start after 1:30 p. m. in this event.

Metropolitan Golf Association championship plate. On this plate shall be engraved each year the name of the winner of the tournament of that year; and it shall be held during the rest of the year by the club which the winner may have represented. Should this plate be won three times by any player or players of any one club, it shall become the property of that club.

Metropolitan Golf Association championship gold medal. This medal to be awarded to the winner of the championship. Gold medals to be awarded to the runner up, for the best score in qualifying round, to the winner of the sixteen next to the winner of the fourth sixteen and the President's cup to be presented to the winner of the defeated sixteen of the first thirty-two.

Metropolitan Golf Association club pairs four ball match. Two gold medals to be awarded to the winners of the club pair four ball match. A banner to be given to the club represented by the winners.

Metropolitan Golf Association handicap. A silver cup to be awarded to the winner of the handicap. A gold medal *to be awarded to the play*or turning in the best gross score.

This will be the programme of play:

Wednesday, May 23—9 a. m., qualifying round for championship, thirty-six holes. Thursday, May 24—9 a. m., first round for championship, eighteen holes match play; first round for third and fourth sixteens, eighteen holes match play; 1:30 p. m., second round for championship, eighteen holes match play; second round for third and fourth sixteens, eighteen holes match play; first round for President's cup, eighteen holes match play. Friday, May 25—10 a. m., third round for championship, eighteen holes match play; semi-finals for third and fourth sixteens, eighteen holes match play; second round for President's cup, eighteen holes match play; 1:30 p. m., semi-finals for championship, eighteen holes match play; semi-finals for President's cup, eighteen holes match play; club pairs four ball match, eighteen holes medal play. Saturday, May 26—9:45 a. m., finals for championship, thirty-six holes match play; for third and fourth sixteens, thirty-six holes match play; finals for President's cup, thirty-six holes match play; 10 a. m., Metropolitan handicap, eighteen holes medal play.

The tournament committee comprises Paul Wilcox, chairman; Arden M. Robbins and Charles P. Watson, and the members ex-officio are Daniel Chauncey, Lionel H. Graham, Leighton Calkins and W. M. Baldwin.

THINGS THAT WENT WRONG

That Is According to the Commonly Understood Order of Doing Them.

As affording an instructive example of the effect of wealth upon some human minds the story may be told, briefly, of the marriage of Jeroboam Kincade, a prosperous young farmer residing not far from Gaona, Ill., which took place a few weeks ago, says the Chicago Tribune.

Mr. Kincade, who is the owner of more than a square mile of land, all under cultivation, selected as his bride the only daughter of a rich farmer whose broad acres adjoined his on the west.

They were married by the pastor of a struggling church in a neighboring village. The invitations were limited to the immediate relatives of the families and a few intimate friends of the contracting parties. The bride and groom were plainly attired and the decorations of the parlor in which the ceremony took place were of the simplest character.

After the words had been pronounced that made them husband and wife the bridegroom took the preacher aside and asked him, in an embarrassed way:

"Mr. Skiles, how much do I owe you?"

"Why, whatever you please, Mr. Kincade," said the preacher. "I never make any regular charge."

The young man seemed relieved.

"But there's a legal fee, isn't there?" he said.

"Yes; I think a justice of the peace could collect two dollars."

The happy bridegroom fumbled in his trousers pocket and pulled out a tightly folded note.

"Well," he remarked, with a sigh, as he handed it over, "I want to do what's right, of course."

As the preacher ascertained later, it was merely a sort of engraved certificate, issued by Uncle Sam, and promising to pay the bearer—

One hundred dollars in gold.

Sometimes, as a general thing, you can't always tell.

MOTHER-IN-LAW'S SPIRIT.

Was Present in the Form of a Thief and Stole Hotel Guest's Valuables.

"Who's there?" shouted the occupant of a hotel bedroom, as he heard a noise in the corner of his room. There was no answer and the queer noises stopped, relates the Portland Oregonian.

"Anybody there?" No answer.

"It must have been a spirit," he said to himself; "I must be a medium. I will try." (Aloud.) "If there is a spirit in the room it will signify the same by saying aye—no, that's not what I mean. If there is a spirit in the room it will please rap three times."

Three very distinct raps were given in the direction of the bureau.

"Is it the spirit of my sister?" No answer.

"Is it the spirit of my mother-in-law?" Three very distinct raps.

"Are you happy?" Nine raps.

"Do you want anything?" A succession of very loud raps.

"Will you give me any communication if I get up?" No answer.

"Shall I hear from you to-morrow?" Raps are very loud in the direction of the door.

"Shall I ever see you?" He waited long for his answer, but none came and he turned over and fell asleep.

Next morning he found the "spirit" of his mother-in-law had carried off his watch and purse, his trousers and his great coat.

Life in Mars.

Those weary of the world might find it pleasant on Mars. Camille Flammarion details many advantages in favor of Martians. They at least can always tell with almost absolute certainty what sort of weather is to be their portion no less than two weeks in advance. Besides this they themselves are extremely clever and might furnish amusement for the blase of earth. They are supposed to be several millions of years ahead of the earth dwellers, an intellectual race far superior to our own, as astronomical observations increasingly tend to indicate. They are also in a better position than we to free themselves from the heaviness of matter, since they weigh less. Their years are twice as long as those on earth. And their climatic conditions are always more agreeable than ours.

Vast Traffic of the Lakes.

The interior water ways of the United States steadily grow in commercial importance. There has been an enormous increase in the tonnage of the shipping on the great lakes and it is reported that all the lake shipbuilding plants have contracts for all the work they can turn out this year, with contracts signed beyond that. Besides 60 ships of 10,000 tons each in commission record contracts were made for two ships 625 feet long, of 12,500 gross tons. The ever-growing work of carrying iron ore and grain is swelling the volume of lake commerce to mammoth proportions.

Between Friends.

Ethyl—But Jack is a little too fond of wine, is he not?

Mayne—Yes, I suppose so; but he has agreed to stop drinking if I'll marry him.

"Well, you'll probably find it easier for him to begin again than it is for you to get a divorce."—Detroit Free Press.

OLD-TIME ILLUMINATION.

When an Ordinary Lantern Was Counted Something Extraordinary.

In these days of electric lights, with all their capabilities for brilliant illumination, it is amusing to read what the subjects of George II. considered a dazzling effect, says Youth's Companion. A Frenchman, visiting in London at time of the coronation of that Monarch in 1727, wrote enthusiastically in praise of the lighting of the city as well as of a banquet display.

"Most of the streets," writes M. Saussure, "are wonderfully well lighted; in front of each house hangs a lantern, or large globe of glass, inside of which is placed a lamp which burns all night. Large houses have two of these, suspended outside the doors on iron supports. Some even have four."

How one arc-light would have dazzled the good people of that day!

"When the coronation procession entered Westminster hall," the writer continues, "the light of day was beginning to fade. Forty chandeliers, in shape of a crown, hung from the ceiling, each having 36 wax candles.

"On the king's appearance all suddenly lighted, and every one in the room was filled with astonishment at the wonderful and unexpected illumination. Little cords of cotton wool, imperceptible to the eye, saturated with sulphur of saltpeter, spirits of wine and other ingredients, had been prepared and arranged so as to carry the flame rapidly from one candle to another. The arrangement had been so skilfully prepared that scarcely a candle failed to take fire."

HOW TO JUDGE YOUR DOG

Information for Those Who Own an Animal Fit for Exhibition Purposes.

The average man is greatly puzzled to find one dog awarded a first prize, and another, which to him appears to be quite as fine a specimen, awarded no prize at all. A man who knows the relative values of the different points in all breeds of dogs is a veritable walking encyclopedia.

Generally speaking, the best dog is one which comes nearest the standard of requirements for its own particular breed, about 25 per cent. of the points being usually awarded for fine head proportions, an equal number for legs and feet, a similar number again for body and color, and the rest for symmetry.

In the Dalmatian, for instance, 30 points are given for color and markings, while head, eyes and ears have only 15; the bulldog, on the other hand, has 45 for head and ears, while coat and color count for but five points; the collie has 25 for coat, color being immaterial, and 15 for head and ears.

The St. Bernard has 40 for head and ears, and five each for coat and color; the Pomeranian, on the contrary, has 25 points going for coat, color and tail, with 15 for appearance. It may be set down as governing in all breeds of dogs that what ever is the typical feature of that breed is the feature upon which stress is laid in the allotment of points.

Make Salt from the Ocean.

All the salt produced in California is obtained by evaporation from ocean water, there being but few salt springs or wells. Probably not less than 25 large salt plants are in operation around the lower arm of San Francisco bay. It is estimated that the total output of salt per year in Alameda county alone reaches 100,000 tons; while not less than 50,000 tons are annually produced in other parts of the state. The salt produced from sea water has no superior in the world, in strength and purity. There is every grade produced down to the very finest table salt, by certain refining processes. The salt output of California is shipped to the northern states of the Pacific coast, British Columbia, Mexico, Central and south America, Japan, Japan, Russia and even the Philippine islands.

Progressive Matrimony.

"You can always tell a young husband from an old one by the way he acts when he goes for a bucket of water," said Uncle Hiram. "Three months married, he swings the pump-handle, whistles and casts covert glances at the house as though some one were looking at him from the window. One year married, he swings the pump-handle more slowly, smiles occasionally, and seems to be annoyed because the meal is late. Two years married, he looks sour and glum, kicks the cat over the wood pile, and wishes the house on fire he would like to choke somebody. Three years married, he sits on the doorstep and smokes, while his wife works the pump-handle."—Kansas City Journal.

Simplicity of France.

For real democracy one has to look to the president of France. M. Fallieres since his elevation to that exalted office, has been criticised for his simple taste in neckwear. A blue butterfly of the machine-made variety, the kind that is fastened to the collar with an elastic band, has pleased M. Fallieres for 30 years, and there is to be no change in style. Are we to judge France by her novels or her presidents?

Resources of Genius.

The editor looked over the manuscript submitted by the village poet and frowned.

"Here is one line," he said, "in which you speak of 'the music of the cider press.' How would you undertake to imitate the 'music' of a cider press?"

"I should think it might be done with a juice harp," answered the poet.—Chicago Tribune.

HOW TO MANAGE A WIFE.

Kansas Man Thinks He Has Got the Right Idea to Insure Success.

A great many persons have suggested methods as to the best way to manage a husband, but it remained for a Eureka man to reduce to writing a set of rules for the successful management of a wife, says the Eureka (Kan.) Herald. The following rules were handed to a reporter after much persuasion and many promises not to reveal his identity by a business man who claims to have followed them to the letter during the last year and says they have never been found at fault in a single instance during that time.

Never contradict her. You are right, of course, nine times out of ten, and she knows it, but to tell her so makes her always unmanageable.

Never oppose her. When she suggests that in the absence of the cook you get up and light the fire do so at once, willingly and cheerfully. If she wishes you to walk the floor with the baby obey with alacrity.

Never deny her. Possibly she will exceed her allowances, but this is always your fault, because you are not man enough to support her.

Never be cross. When you come home at night, having failed once or twice that day, and been insulted by a total stranger, or with a large, powerful pain in your stomach, laugh it off and conceal your real feelings.

Never tell her the truth. When she asks you how you like her new hat or cloak or what you think it is the greatest thing for the money you ever saw. When she shows you her new gown be lost in admiration. When she is cross and irritable tell her she is an angel.

Never disagree with her. When she suggests that you have a cold and need a hot mustard plaster grin and bear it. When she tells you she needs a change tell her you are glad she mentioned it.

Never interrupt her.

This is the only way to manage a wife.

PRAIRIE DOG MEAT IS GOOD

Is Fine Eating and Should Become Popular Says an Oklahoma Farmer.

Prairie dogs make good eating. This is not generally known and even where it is known civilized people do not care to be called Igorrotes because they eat dog meat, says the Lawton News-Republican. The other day I met a prominent farmer of the Faxon neighborhood, "who eats prairie dogs and if we had a few more of his kind we would soon get rid of the little pests on our prriales.

"I had gone to Nelma," he continued, "to attend to some business, and on the road met a couple of wagons containing a man and woman and about ten children. They stopped to make some inquiries about the road to Chattanooga and in the course of our conversation the man remarked: 'There is plenty of meat in them parts.' By questioning him I learned that he referred to prairie dogs, and then he told me that he and his family had been living on prairie dog meat for ten days and avowed they had never in their lives eaten better meat.

"And the fellow was right. I have eaten them, too, and they are fine, especially the young ones. The hind quarters are a little heavier than a squirrel, but the fore quarters and other parts are better than squirrel. When two hundred fullblood Sioux were feasting a number of years ago we carried prairie dog tallow with which to grease our guns, and there is none better. At that time we ate lots of prairie dogs.

"The only reason why people haven't learned to eat prairie dogs is because of the name. The little animals feed strictly on vegetation and are clean. Their meat is better than that of any other animal that lives in the ground, better than rabbits or even than squirrels. We could get rid of the prairie dogs if our people would learn to eat their meat."

Development of Talking Machines.

Manufacturers of talking machines are elaborating their enterprises to an extent never dreamed of before. It will not be long before an entire opera cast will be heard on one of these machines. Formerly a tenor or a prima donna was enough. Now the costly artists from the opera house sing duets, trios and quartettes. The services of a whole orchestra are made possible by the fact that all of these celebrities are now content to take a royalty on the sale of their songs rather than a fixed price. It was formerly customary to pay a certain sum, but the composer chose to do it on royalty, since there is such a great demand to hear them in this way.

Quarrelsome Ocean Cannibal.

The life story of a single lobster family of 30,000 brothers and sisters is entertainingly told by Henry Morrow in the Metropolitan Magazine. Within a month after they were hatched 29,990 members of the family were eaten by fish and other lobsters, leaving only ten survivors. Yet the experts of the government fish commission estimate that if only 10,000 of the baby lobsters survive the species will be maintained at its normal number.

Costly Dictionary.

In the preparation of a new dictionary of the English language $400,000 has been spent in Philadelphia and 2,000,000 more will be necessary before it can be delivered entire. The work has been going steadily on for 12 years.

SUNDAY, DAY OF MURDERS

New Orleans Policeman Says Sensational Crimes Are Committed on Sabbath.

"Have you ever noticed how many murders are committed on Sunday?" asked the old police captain, according to the New Orleans Times-Democrat. "This thing has bothered me for many years, and I have never been able to figure out why it is that most homicides assume white people are committed on Sundays. With the negroes it is different. Saturday night is the favorite time among the negroes, and this, I guess, is due to the fact of Saturday night being a pay night, and a night looked upon by the negroes as a night for jollification. In many cases these occasions of jollification wind up in murders. The majority of the most sensational murders that have occurred in New Orleans in the last year or two have been committed on Sundays and there is no apparent reason for it. If you will search your memory you will find that what I say is so. Many will tell you that these murders are the results of Saturday night excesses, but these I have in mind cannot be classed there. In the majority of cases they have been committed by persons not under the influence of liquor, and in nearly every case this has been shown to be so. In nearly all cases where the murder is out of the ordinary and where it attracts more than usual attention the following Sunday is the day on which the crime is committed. This is a problem which I will leave to others to figure out. It's by me."

A REMARKABLE TIMEPIECE.

Clock Contrived by Pittsburg Railroad Man Is Something of a Wonder.

One thousand four hundred and forty different kinds of time at the same instant is one of the attainments made possible by means of a strange clock contrived by a Pittsburg railroad man, and which, says the Pittsburg Dispatch, was for the first time introduced before the public recently through the efforts of Rev. W. Hall of the Butler street Methodist Episcopal church. The pastor desired some instructive feature for the regular meeting of the Lowther Brotherhood, and finally prevailed upon the inventor, A. M. Lockhart, to speak to the members on the subject of "Time and Its Effects," using the clock to illustrate his theories. The lecture hall was crowded with railroad men and their friends.

The clock is more than nine feet high and supports a dial four feet in diameter, upon which is adjusted a correct map of the world that revolves and by means of which it is possible to ascertain at a glance the exact hour at any point on the earth's surface. It moves according to the movement of the world, which is contrary to the hands of the clock, and what is more the hands of this particular timepiece are stationary. The clock was contrived by Mr. Lockhart, and every particle of it was shaped and put together by him.

MAKING SURE OF THE TIP.

How Waiters Provide the Change So as to Insure a Certain Rake-Off.

"Bring the change in quarters," said the man who had paid for a four-dollar luncheon with a five-dollar bill.

"Shall I get the change so as to put a dime in each quarter?" asked the woman opposite.

"Because if hadn't that fellow would have brought in half dollars and then I'd have had to give him a 50-cent tip. That is a trick most waiters have. When it is possible to bring the change in dollars and half dollars they do it, so the tip will be correspondingly large. Of course, in restaurants where 25 cents is the usual tip, they are not quite so greedy, and get the change so as to tip it a shall contain at least one quarter. They are afraid that if that is not handy they may get turned down without anything, and they don't want to take chances of losing all the way round. In all restaurants times are avoided in making change whenever possible. Every waiter considers his services worth more than that, and he takes precautions to prevent a patron from disgracing himself by offering him one.

"Nobody will get left for lack of change. They take care to make it in coins that will insure the waiter a satisfactory tip; so unless the customer has the forethought to ask for a little chicken feed he is doomed to a ruinous contribution."

To Thibetan Mountains.

A representative of the department of agriculture has lately been ordered to explore the Kuen-lun mountain range, for the discovery of hardy fruits and grasses that may be profitably introduced into the United States. The Kuen-lun range is the boundary between Thibet and Chinese Turkestan and traverses a country of which white men know little. It is in this region that the peach is supposed to have originated. The expert is commissioned to learn also what he can of the fruit in its native habitat.

Couldn't Lose Her.

He—If you loved me, why did you at first refuse me?

She—I wanted to see how you would act.

"But I might have rushed off with out waiting for an explanation."

"Oh, I had the door locked."—Chicago Journal.

At Disadvantage.

"I've bought an absolutely noiseless auto," said Mr. Newrich.

"Great, Hiram!" exclaimed his wife "if it doesn't make any noise, how are we ever going to attract attention?"—Detroit Free Press.

VERITABLE AMERICAN EDEN

Most Favored Region of All the Earth Is Among the Ozarks of Missouri.

The Ozark mountains, where it has been proposed to remove the capital from Washington, is the most favored section in all the world. In no locality on earth has nature done more for man than in southwest Missouri, writes a Washington Star correspondent of that section. It has been duly and fervently described as the "Garden of the Gods." Italy has no fairer skies than the Ozarks. There verdure-clad hills alternate with sunny prairies, and babbling brooks course through rich meadows; the rich, golden grain waves like the Illinois sea, or is gathered in countless sheaves; fruits of all kinds wear down the creaking branches and lend their bright colors to contrast pleasingly with the green of the foliage, the great gifts of the Creator are here and in their fullest and most beautiful realization. In winter the farmer of the Ozarks is abroad in his fields, and mayhap his daughters are gathering wild flowers and strawberries. Although the summers are long, they are very mild. The evenings and nights are delightfully cool and pleasant. There north and south meets on terms of equality.

Springfield, the capital of that section, is known as the "Queen of the Ozarks," a daughter of the gods deservedly fair, and well does she live up to the name. It is 1,500 feet above the sea level and over 1,000 feet higher than St. Louis. In such a climate the spiritual and intellectual becomes as pure as does the material. Graft could not exist in such an atmosphere. With our capital situated so fortunately, not only this government but the entire world would be benefited.

COACHING IS ANTIQUATED.

People Stare Now When a Four-in-Hand Is Seen in the Metropolis.

That motor cars have dealt a very serious blow to coaching it is no longer possible to deny. Until this year, says a New York exchange, it was confidently asserted that there was room for both, and that drag and motor could flourish side by side.

Spring, summer and fall of 1905 have shown this belief to be a fallacy. Several road coaches that formerly were wont to run out of New York to Lakewood, have been abandoned this year.

The parking places for drags at the races and open-air suburban horse shows are now entirely monopolized by motors, coaches being few and far between, while private four-in-hands on the avenue are nowadays so rare as to cause people to turn around and stare as if at some antiquated mode of conveyance.

Indeed, it is a question whether New York will ever witness again another coaching parade, for the last one, which took place in the spring, was so manifestly attended as a matter of duty rather than pleasure that it is by no means certain we will be possible to assemble again a sufficient number of drags in line to warrant a meet of the club.

In Europe matters are still worse from a coaching point of view, and in France the coaching season has been the most disappointing and discouraging ever known since four-in-hand driving was taken up as a popular form of sport.

DAIRIES IN FAR SIBERIA.

Are Now Exporting Annually More Than 80,000,000 Pounds of Butter.

A firm of London importers of foodstuffs predicts that there will be a slump in the price of dairy products the world over as soon as Siberia strikes a steady gait in butter production. The reason assigned for this astonishing prophecy is that Siberia is now exporting annually a little more than 80,000,000 pounds of butter, while the dairy regions are capable of producing 15 times as much, or more than the imports of Great Britain from all her possessions.

The London firm, having studied the Siberian dairy products on the ground, thinks that it will be so difficult for Canada and New Zealand, the chief sources of Great Britain's butter supply from her colonies, to compete with Siberia that they will probably have to drop out of that department of dairy exporting and confine their attention to cheesemaking. It adds that Denmark is already feeling the strain of Siberian competition.

However this may be, it is certain that butter making is becoming nearly as important in Siberia as all her other industries put together. Yet it is possible that the great slump in the dairy business will be averted. There is a range of a great many degrees of butter among the far eastern Asiatics. If those countless millions add butter to their bill of fare the cows will have a busy time of it.

Faith and Works.

Giles—I had occasion to call on Deacon Easychap this morning. I found him in the dining room praying for warmer weather.

Miles—What was his wife doing?

"She was shoveling snow off the front walk."—Chicago Daily News.

Just One More Chance

Judge (to prisoner just condemned to death)—You have the legal right to express a last wish, and if it is possible it will be granted.

Prisoner (a barber)—I should like just once more to be allowed to shave the district attorney.

POWER OF LIFE AND DEATH

Trick with a Possum-Playing Adder That Was Too Much for the Natives.

There is a pugnosed belligerent little reptile known as the hognosed adder that has a trick of playing possum when attacked. If it once gets started on the role the snake can be tied into knots and handled indiscriminately for an hour or more.

While snake hunting in the south a year or two ago relates the New York Sun, Mr. Ditmars plotted to win the admiration of his guide and the population by announcing that he had marvelous powers. He was endowed with the gift of destroying life by a sign.

The natives had never heard of this possum stunt of their dreaded adder and when the performer formed them in a circle around a specimen found in the fields they quaked in their boots; such as had boots.

The magician advanced rapidly as if to attack the indposed snake, pointed his finger to the sky, muttered to himself, and the adder obediently turned on its back. It was timidly passed from hand to hand.

The performer beamed with satisfaction. His world go one better. If the audience would form a larger circle he would restore life to the dead reptile.

The audience obeyed. The snake found all surrounding peaceable after the first swing in the street,

T CONSTITUTIONALIST.

A DEMOCRATIC WEEKLY.

Published at

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Terms: $2.00 per year.

A. L. PORCE, Editor and Proprietor.

THURSDAY MAY 3, 1906.

SENATOR ACKERMAN.

The Newark Evening News wants to know just where Senator Ackerman stands. Its doubts as to his position politically have arisen because of some of his recent actions. Incidentally the News says:

"Senator Ackerman is not a pronounced Colby reform man. It was announced at the opening of the last Legislature that he would be found aligned with the Colby contingent, but his record in this respect has been disappointing. His present attitude toward the Republican organizations may mean that he has heard from his constituents in Plainfield since the Legislature adjourned, for Plainfield has, in the past few months pendulated from a boss-ridden, machine-regulated city to a perfect hotbed of Colbyism.

"The situation in Union county is decidedly mixed. There is a report to the effect that there will be only Colbyites in Union county in a short time, for the organizations are considering the scheme of indorsing him and his principles, thus putting the whole party on a reform plane and eliminating all schism. How far Senator Ackerman is cognizant of and involved in this scheme remains to be seen."

The thing that puzzles the News the most is the independence of the Senator in naming the new county board of taxes, but it must know that an office-holder does not necessarily have to be a Colbyite to be faithful in his trust.

CITY COMMITTEE'S SLOGAN.

Appreciating the responsibilities of his position, former Mayor Charles J. Fisk as chairman impressed upon the Republican City Committee last night that "bossism" in politics must go and that the people alone must dictate nominations. His views were shared by other members of the committee and appropriate resolutions were adopted. The chairman's utterance after the meeting adjourned is worthy of note. He said: "There is to be an end of backstairs conferences, of predetermined nominations. We are a purely representative body, and we will not stand for dictation from anyone. We have no candidates of our own, and will push nobody. We will wait for the word of the people, and whomever they choose as their candidates we will work to elect. We play no favorites—in any direction. Let the voters turn out at the primary, and let us know who they want. We have arranged for the publication of all practical information as to the primary for the purpose of making it easy for voters to understand what they are to do in order to indicate their will." With Mr. Fisk at the helm, the people may expect much.

"Why not establish a Hall of Shame for the muck rakers?" queries the Trenton State Gazette. The propounding of this question is evidence of great foresight on the part of the organ of the "regulars."—Newark News.

What, assign the Newark Advertiser and Trenton State Gazette to such a place?

An appeal has been made by Chairman Phelan, of the San Francisco citizens' committee, for more funds. He states that for the hospitals alone $1,000 a day is being spent. This leads naturally to the question whether you have contributed to the fund being raised by this paper.

The people of Plainfield can congratulate themselves that Elias H. Bird has been reappointed postmaster. His services in that capacity have been eminently satisfactory to the community and no better selection could have been made by the President.

"Presidential possibilities" are again ripe. Woodrow Wilson has been "mentioned" as a Democratic choice and on the other side of the fence along comes the boom of Philander C. Knox. Next!

The price of ice has been made as high in Philadelphia as it has been for the last month in Plainfield. The Quaker City people fortunately, however, have a trait of knocking out combines.

Instead of decrying the fact that Mr. Colby is making too much use of the "muck rake," the machine organs could spend their time better in doing away with the muck.

Former Governor Voorhees says that he declined the judgeship to go to farming. In other words "back to the woods" for Foster.

What's the game of Fowler and Voorhees, anyway?

Will Build Parish Hall.

Rector A. S. Peck, of St. Stephen's church, Netherwood, will soon appoint a committee of three to take charge of the building of a parish house hall, the cost of which is not to exceed $1,500. This does not include the fittings, fixtures and furni-

AMUSEMENTS.

At the Broadway theatre, where "The Vanderbilt Cup" continues to draw crowded houses, Miss Elsie Janis is repeating former triumphs with her imitations of well known artists. This dainty and talented star is one of the most talked-of young women in the metropolis while she has risen from obscurity to the front rank of the profession within two years. Last Monday night she revived her imitation of "Le Domino Rouge," which is admittedly one of the best characterizations she has given and which is always received with favor. She also continues to imitate Eddie Foy, George M. Cohan, Maude Adams and several other Broadway favorites.

F. F. Proctor has secured from Richard Mansfield the rights to present at his Fifth Avenue theatre, the week of April 30th, "Monsieur Beaucaire," which was produced at the Herald Square theatre a few seasons *ago was considered a capital success*or to his "Beau Brummel." "Beaucaire" is a picturesque drama, founded on a story by Booth Tarkington. It is especially suited to the requirements of Mr. Proctor's all-star players. A. H. Van Buren will appear in the title role made memorable by Mr. Mansfield, and James Young will appear in the part created by Mr. Andrews. As her name implies, leading lady parts will be played by Beatrice Morgan and Isabelle Evesson, and other popular favorites in the cast will be Robert Cummings, George Howell, Walter Greene, Albert Howson, Al. Roberts, Louise Randolph, Mathildo Beshen and Beatrice Goldcen. This will be the only presentation of "Monsieur Beaucaire" by a stock organization in America.

There is no abatement in the popularity of "Charley's Aunt" at the Manhattan theatre, New York. In fact, as the run extends, this highly amusing comedy by Brandon Thomas seems to increase in vogue. The audiences that now enjoy it are as large and enthusiastic as those that originally greeted it years ago, conclusively showing that time has had no effect to age the play or affect its appeal. "Charley's Aunt," in short, is as bright and catching as ever, and its complications enforce hilarious merriment. It stands as a model for plays of its sort, and more than successfully disputes popularity with the best of the long line of farces made known since it was first seen here. In fact, many a comedy that has been produced since "Charley's Aunt" was first seen in New York has been put forward to great popularity and with long tenure of stay that has yet most of these are now forgotten, while the Thomas play is as effective as ever, and shows not the least sign that it will ever disappear wholly from the boards. It must be admitted, however, that to the success of this play has been due to the fine work as a comedian of Etienne Girardot, who originally here played the part of *Lord Fancourt Babberly and still de*lights in it. Mr. Girardot's art finds full scope in this role, and it is not to be wondered at that he pleases in it as of old. The supporting company is a capital one, and every possibility of the play is developed at the Manhattan. But one matinee a week of "Charley's Aunt" is given—on Saturday.

"The Pit" will continue every evening with Wednesday and Saturday matinees this week, which will also be its final week with Mr. Lackaye as Curtis Jadwin. Monday evening, May 7th, the last week of Wilton Lackaye's engagement, a special production and company will appear in Du Maurier's "Trilby" in which Mr. Lackaye will portray his original role of Svengali. "Trilby" was among the first of the many plays dramatized from popular novels which came into vogue 10 or 12 years ago, but unlike most of its contemporaries it achieved enormous success. While its skillful dramatization by Paul M. Potter has much to do with its success it must be conceded by both author and dramatist that the drama's triumph in this country was due to the strikingly intense characterization of the malignant hypnotist afforded by Mr. Lackaye. As a brilliant piece of stage work it was the theatrical sensation of the period. Lackaye's Svengali is estimated by many prominent and conservative critics as his ablest piece of work. His performance of this role has certainly left a lasting impression upon all who chanced to witness it. Its revival on the Academy at a time when this actor is at the height of his powers will unquestionably prove an exceptional attraction to admirers of the histrionic art exemplified by one of America's leading actors. Mr. Lackaye will be assisted by a competent supporting company provided by Manager Brady, which will include Jane Oaker in the title role. Miss Oaker has been credited my judicious playgoers in the principal role, with presenting an ideal embodiment of Du Maurier's barefooted heroine.

Ephriam Pyatt has entered the employ of Mr. McCrawley.

Warren Family Safe.

Reassuring intelligence has been received from Mrs. Edward Warren and family, former residents here, who have been living in San Francisco. They are all unharmed. The news came to a friend here in a letter from one of the family living in Montclair. The note did not say whether Mrs. Warren's household goods suffered, but it is supposed they did, because the family lived in the heart of the city.

HOBOKEN DEFEATED BY CONN. LEAGUERS

JERSEYMEN LOSE HARD FOUGHT CONTEST WITH DEEGAN PITCHING.

The Bridgeport, Connecticut State League Club, defeated Hoboken at St. George's Cricket Grounds, Hoboken, Sunday, by a score of 6 to 4. Although the hits were even, each twirler being touched for eight, the players for the Nutmeg State had the advantage. "Willie" Deegan pitched his first game and showed up well, although he walked four men. He fanned three batsmen to one for Neuman.

Features of the game were the two base hit by Bertwhistle and three base hit of Wilson, who played second base in place of "Kid" Brogan, who has signed with Jersey City. Every member of the Hoboken team secured a hit but Heffron and Deegan. Leo Kelly batted in the ninth for Deegan, but could do nothing. The score:

Hoboken.	R.	H.	O.	A.	E.
Bertwhistle, lf	1	2	9	0	0
Wilson, 2b	0	1	3	2	0
Henriquez, 1b	0	1	12	0	1
Mallon, cf	0	1	2	0	1
Leonard, 3b	0	1	2	5	0
Heffron, rf	1	0	1	1	0
Curley, ss	1	1	2	2	0
O'Neill, c	1	1	9	2	0
Deegan, p	0	1	1	3	0
Kelly *	0	0	0	0	0
Totals	4	8	27	15	2

Bridgeport.	R.	H.	O.	A.	E.
O'Rourke, 2b	1	0	1	4	0
Odell, lf	1	1	0	0	0
Bock'ter, rf	1	1	2	0	0
Ladd, cf	2	3	1	1	0
Dwyer, 1b	0	1	15	0	0
Farrell, c	0	1	3	0	1
Phoenix, ss	0	0	1	5	1
Castle, rf	0	0	4	0	0
Neuman, p	1	1	0	0	0
Totals	6	8	27	15	3

*Batted for Deegan in the ninth inning.

Hoboken .....0 0 0 3 0 0 0 0 1—4
Bridgeport .....3 0 0 1 0 0 2 0 0—6

Two base hits—Bertwhistle, Odell, Dwyer. Three base hit—Wilson. Sacrifice hits—Leonard, O'Rourke. Left on bases—Hoboken, 9; Bridgeport, 8. Stolen base—Bertwhistle. First base on balls—Off Deegan, 4; off Neuman, 3. Hit by pitched balls—Henriquez, Farrell. First base on errors—Hoboken, 2; Bridgeport, 2. Struck out—By Deegan, 3; by Neuman, 1. Double play—Ladd and Phoenix. Time of game—2 hours. Umpire—Mr. Merlty.

BLOOMFIELD IS TO HAVE A BIG FACTORY.

One of the Largest in the World for Making of Incandescent Lamps.

One of the largest manufactories of incandescent lamps in the world is to be erected in the Watsessing section of Bloomfield, opposite the plant of the Sprague Electric Works, for the Sawyer-Man Electric Company, of No. 522 West Twenty-third street, Manhattan. The latter company is subsidiary to the Westinghouse Company. A contract has been awarded to Westinghouse, Church, Kerr & Co., of No. 10 Bridge street, Manhattan, which carries out the Westinghouse engineering projects for the erection and equipment of the plant.

The plans call for a main building 500 by 100 feet in size, and two stories in height, and another structure 75 by 150 feet. Both will be of brick. It is understood that work is to begin soon. The plans are now in course of preparation.

It is said to be the purpose of the Sawyer-Man Company to abandon its plant in Manhattan and do all its manufacturing in Bloomfield. The new buildings will be erected upon the land now occupied as baseball grounds by the Watsessing Club and close to the tracks of both the Lackawanna and Erie Railroads.

There is considerable speculation as to the plans of the Westinghouse people for their Newark concern. The Atha Steel Casting Company, recently organized to take over the plant of the Benjamin Atha Company, has been made subsidiary to the Security Investment Company, of Pittsburg, of which George Westinghouse is president, and there have been inquiries in Pittsburg for pig iron to be used at the Atha plant. Westinghouse, Church, Kerr & Co. have been buying equipment for additions to be made at the Atha plant, but no information is given as to what the casting plant is to be used for. It is believed, however, that the Westinghouse schemes for the enlargement in Bloomfield and vicinity include plans in which the new casting company is concerned.

Describes 'Frisco Horror.

Major Maze Edwards, of the Casino, has received a graphic description of the San Francisco fire in a letter from his brother, Col. William Edwards. Col. Edwards and his wife lived in Knob Hill. Their residence escaped both earthquake and flames.

Sold His Property.

J. V. E. Vanderhoef has sold the property he recently bought on West Second street from the Marclay Estate to Mrs. Martha Walker, who will occupy it.

REV. MR. LANSDALE PREACHES AT TRINITY

DRAWS LESSONS FROM SAN FRANCISCO CATASTROPHE.

In his discourse on "The Bright Light in the Dark Cloud," at Trinity Reformed church, Sunday, Rev. J. Tucker Lansdale, of Mariemader chapel, who exchanged with Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck, touched upon the recent calamity on the Pacific Coast, where so many homes were wrecked and thousands of families were made destitute.

"We know practically nothing of the magnetic power that turns the needle to the pole; yet it guards the mariner in safety to the harbor," said Mr. Lansdale. "We believe in electricity, but what constitutes its force? The insect so small that one has to use a magnifying glass to see it has little knowledge of the vast forests it inhabits. Yet in the bright light in the clouds we recognize that God reigns and is back of the controlling forces in nature.

"We sometimes wonder at the seeming partiality in the distribution of knowledge and power, but a divine explanation some day. In the vast suffering we wonder why it is permitted to exist if God loves us and is supreme. If we had control of things we would leave out all the heartaches and pain. Some say this is a case of sin, but why did God permit sin to enter the world? Many persons have been asking similar questions of late since the earth's disturbances in San Francisco when many good people as well as bad ones were made to suffer.

"These questions that won't down. Some people ask them as cruelty to man and not in accord with righteousness. They say where is your God? There is a bright light in the cloud. Reason teaches that God is righteous and that He is not the author of sin. God is love and cruelty is impossible to His nature. He doeth all things well and His goodness endureth forever.

"In the light of our own personal experience we know what suffering is and disappointment. We know what the dark cloud of calamity, trial, adversity and bereavement is, the vacant chair and the voice that is missed. Yet there is a bright light in the clouds. Christ says 'He that hath seen Me hath seen the Father.' There is no such thing as chance. Even the hairs of your head are numbered.

"There are many of these problems I cannot solve, such as the reasons for the calamity in San Francisco. Many thousands will learn from it and it shows the power of God. It has resulted in a great object lesson of general sympathy at a time when there is such a rush for wealth. No country has seen such an outpouring of Christian charity. The bright light is there, because it must be. The Scriptures teach it and reason affirms it. One breath from those celestial hills will roll the dark clouds away. Then we will understand our misfortunes and losses, through which will come blessings, to those who trust in the bright light of God's will."

LITERARY NOTES.

The Popular Science Monthly for May opens with a beautifully illustrated article by Professor Ralph S. Tarr, of Cornell University, giving an account of the scenery and geology at Watkins Glen and other Gorges of the Finger Lake Region of Central New York. The article is timely in view of the fact that an effort is being made to set aside Watkins Glen as a state reservation for the benefit of the public. The Rectorial address, entitled, "A League of Peace," given by Andrew Carnegie before the University of St. Andrews, recounts the progress that has been made in substituting arbitration for war and the creation of the Hague Tribunal. Mr. Carnegie suggests that the five great nations that co-operated in quelling the recent Chinese disorders might form a league of peace, inviting other nations to join and requiring all nations to refer their disputes to arbitration. He thinks that this could be accomplished by the league agreeing to non-intercourse with any nation refusing compliance but that it might properly reserve to itself the right to use force.

Delegates to Diocesan Convention.

The 127th annual session of the Diocesan convention of the Episcopal Church in New Jersey will be held at Atlantic City, Tuesday and Wednesday, May 8 and 9. The delegates from the Holy Cross church will be Rev. George A. Warner, Dr. J. H. Carman, C. L. Nichols and W. L. Saunders. Those from Grace church will be Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson, George S. Clay and John B. Dumont.

A Book Worth Having.

The Standard Book of Knowledge, an American Home Educator, a useful book in many ways, superbly embellished with hundreds of phototype engravings, adding beauty and value to the work. Ten books in one volume, William Paquett, of Lee place, has taken the agency for Plainfield, and already has a number of subscribers, as the book is selling on sight.

MRS. FREEMAN'S LAST SERVICE AS ORGANIST

PRESENTED WITH STERLING SILVER BY FRIENDS IN CONGREGATION

Mrs. W. A. Freeman, who resigned as organist of Grace P. E. church recently, after twenty-five years' continuous service, played at her last service as organist there Sunday. Next Sunday, W. E. MacClymont, the new organist, will play. He took charge of the choir today.

Mrs. Freeman's resignation from Grace church marks her retirement from active work in music. She has been engaged in choir work since her eleventh year. "I think I am entitled to a rest now," she said this morning.

Under Mrs. Freeman's direction, the music at Grace reached a high plane of excellence. Special musical services at Grace have always been events in the musical life of the city.

Her personality, as well as her splendid work, won Mrs. Freeman high esteem from the members of the parish. The extent of their regard was shown Saturday, when Mrs. Freeman received a handsome Gorham silver service, the gift of a number of her friends in the congregation. It was presented by Mrs. Charles Brooks and Miss Elizabeth Cock, as committee from the donors.

WAS TIRED.

"Ham and," said the messenger boy. "Plate o' sinkers. Draw one."

It was 2 o'clock in the morning, and the boy ate vigorously. While he ate he talked.

"I've had more queer jobs this week," he said. "It's enough to make you sick. Say what I've been a-doin'? Listen here:

"Monday I hocked a di'mond anklet for an actress.

"Tuesday I exercised a white poodle in the park.

"Wednesday and Thursday I escorted women to shows.

"Friday I played detective on a girl what her feller suspected wuzn't true to him—and she led me a chase for fair.

"Saturday I saw three married men home from a bachelors' dinner at a club. They was pickled."—Philadelphia Telegraph.

Honeyman Party Starts Home.

The Honeyman party, which sailed from New York on February 12, and visited Honolulu, China and Japan, sailed from Yokohoma Saturday on the return trip. They are due to reach San Francisco on May 15 and from there will visit Portland, Seattle, and thence through British America to Montreal, stopping at the principal cities, and reaching New York on May 28. Word from the party states that everyone has been enjoying excellent health and that the trip has been one of keen enjoyment.

Bird Gets Third Term.

Postmaster Elias H. Bird's reappointment by the President has been confirmed by the Federal Senate. He was endorsed by the Republican city committee and the local party organization. Mr. Bird's third term begins on May 29. He has already served for eight years.

Postal Examinations.

Postmaster E. H. Bird announces that on Wednesday, May 9, there will be an examination at the office for clerks and carriers. Further information can be obtained from Mr. Bird.

BISHOP SCARBOROUGH ON HIS ANNUAL VISIT

CONFIRMED CLASSES AT GRACE AND HOLY CROSS CHURCHES YESTERDAY.

Bishop Scarborough, head of the Protestant Episcopal diocese of New Jersey, paid his annual visit to Grace and Holy Cross churches Sunday. Between the visits to the local churches he went to All Saints' church, Fanwood.

The bishop arrived in town, from Trenton, on Saturday night. He was met at the station by Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson, rector of Grace church, at whose house he was entertained Saturday night and last night.

He confirmed a class of ten candidates at Grace church yesterday morning. After dinner at the rectory with Mr. Stevenson, he went to the Fanwood church.

With Rev. George A. Warner, rector of Holy Cross, the bishop was entertained at tea at the home of Francis G. Moore, of West Seventh street.

In the evening he confirmed a class of twelve at Holy Cross. It was the bishop's first visit to the church since Mr. Werner was made rector.

He referred to the change in the rectorate. In speaking of Mr. Warner, he complimented him highly, and expressed confidence in steady and gratifying progress in the parish under Mr. Warner's guidance.

The bishop left for Trenton right after breakfast this morning, on the 8:36 train.

QUIETLY MARRIED.

Miss Kathryn Honan Wedded to Joseph Burke at St. Mary's.

Joseph Burke, of Avon Park, and Miss Kathryn C. Honan, of West Fourth street, daughter of Mrs. Catherine Honan, were quietly married at St. Mary's church Sunday afternoon. The ceremony was performed at 5 o'clock, in the presence of a dozen intimate friends, by Rev. Father Bogan, the rector.

Thomas F. Quinn, of Avon Park, a close friend of the groom, was best man, and Miss Estelle Ruoff, of Brooklyn, was maid of honor. Mr. Burke is well known in this city. He is a grading and ditching contractor.

The bride was gowned in white China silk over silk and carried a shower bouquet of white roses. The bridesmaid wore blue chiffon and carried a shower bouquet of pink roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Burke will keep house in Avon Park, where the groom has purchased a pretty home. They received a large number of handsome gifts.

Druggists Give $60.

The Retail Druggists' Association of Plainfield has contributed $60 towards the fund being raised for the relief of San Francisco pharmacists. Each member contributed $5. Elizabeth gave $90 for the same purpose and Rahway, Summit and other places made the fund $250. The Union County Druggists' Association will forward the $250 to the treasurer of the National Druggists' Association, which is endeavoring to raise $500,000.

Holy Cross Team Won.

The Holy Cross team defeated Denton's team for the record time this season by the score 19 to 7 Saturday. Conroy of the Holy Cross team knocked out a home run. J. Yall pitched for the victors and E. Bohan and E. Morgan caught. R. Denton Ludgate and D. Rodgers pitched for the loosers and E. Vokley caught.

that it is possible to hatch if placed in a genuine

All the Eggs Will Hatch

CYPHERS INCUBATOR

All the Chicks will live if housed in a

CYPHERS Style A BROODER

and if fed on

CYPHERS CHICK FOOD

GET FREE SAMPLE

Get our free catalogue entitled Poultry Raising Made Easy and Profitable

CYPHERS INCUBATOR COMPANY

23 Barclay Street, Cor. Church Street, New York

Radium Radia

Is admitted by the thousands who have used it to be

THE GREATEST REMEDY EVER DISCOVERED FOR THE CURE OF

RHEUMATISM

LUMBAGO, NEURALGIA, COUGHS, COLDS ON CHEST, SORE THROAT, PNEUMONIA, SPRAINS, SWELLINGS, ETC.

IT NEVER FAILS TO CURE

Hundreds have been cured with one Application

Recommended by Eminent Physicians

APPLIED EXTERNALLY

Sold at Drug Stores and 13 W. 26th St., N.Y. City

PRICE $1.00 and 50c. Write for Booklet

MAILED ANYWHERE ON RECEIPT OF PRICE

New Jersey Central

Passenger Stations in New York—West 23d St., N. R., Foot Liberty St., N. R.

Time Table Corrected to March 19, 1906.

For New York—5.47, 6.37, 7.36, 8.02, 8.39, 9.07, 9.36, 10.07, 10.36, 11.07, 11.36 a. m., 12.07, 12.36, 1.07, 1.36, 2.07, 2.36, 3.07, 3.36, 4.07, 4.36, 5.07, 5.36, 6.07, 6.36, 7.07, 7.36, 8.07, 8.36, 9.07, 9.36, 10.07, 10.36, 11.07 p. m. Sundays—8.02, 8.39, 9.07, 9.36, 10.07, 10.36, 11.07, 11.36 a. m., 12.07, 12.36, 1.07, 1.36, 2.07, 2.36, 3.07, 3.36, 4.07, 4.36, 5.07, 5.36, 6.07, 6.36, 7.07, 7.36, 8.07, 8.36, 9.07, 9.36, 10.07, 10.36, 11.07 p. m.

For Newark—5.26, 6.29, 6.57, 7.06, 7.38, 8.06, 8.41, 9.09, 9.39, 10.09, 10.41, 11.09, 11.39 a. m., 12.09, 12.39, 1.09, 1.39, 2.09, 2.39, 3.09, 3.39, 4.09, 4.39, 5.09, 5.39, 6.09, 6.39, 7.09, 7.39, 8.09, 8.39, 9.09, 9.39, 10.09, 10.39, 11.09 p. m. Sundays—7.12, 8.06, 8.41, 9.09, 9.39, 10.09, 10.41, 11.09, 11.39 a. m., 12.09, 12.39, 1.09, 1.39, 2.09, 2.39, 3.09, 3.39, 4.09, 4.39, 5.09, 5.39, 6.09, 6.39 p. m. Sundays—8.42 a. m., 5.37 p. m.

For Elizabeth—7.12, 11.09 a. m., 2.11, 6.19 p. m. Sundays—8.42 a. m., 5.37 p. m.

For Philadelphia and Easton—5.26, 6.21, 8.06, 9.39, 11.39 a. m., 2.11, 5.39, 6.43 p. m. Sundays—5.45 a. m., 2.02, 5.05 p. m.

For Bethlehem, Allentown and Mauch Chunk—5.26, 8.06, 11.39 a. m., 5.39 p. m. Sundays—5.45 a. m., 2.02, 7.05 p. m.

For Wilkesbarre and Scranton—5.26, 8.06, 11.39 a. m., 5.39 p. m. Sundays—5.45 a. m., 2.02 p. m.

For Long Branch and Asbury Park, etc.—8.11, 11.00 a. m., 2.45, 4.12, 4.47, 6.23, 11.25 p. m. Sunday—8.52 a. m., 2.30, 8.12 p. m.

For Red Bank—8.11, 11.00 a. m., 1.18, 2.45, 4.47, 5.42, 11.25 p. m. Sundays—8.52 a. m., 2.30, 8.12 p. m.

For Lakewood and Atlantic City—8.11 Lakewood only, 9.27 a. m., 2.45, 4.47, 11.25 p. m. Lakewood only Sundays—8.52 a. m.

For Toms River and Barnegat—8.11 a. m., 1.18, 2.44 p. m. Sundays—8.52 a. m.

For Philadelphia—5.17, 7.44, 8.51, 9.30, 10.44, 10.56, 11.42 a. m., 12.42, 1.35, 2.45, 3.42, 4.45, 5.50, 6.46 p. m., 12.42 a. m. Sundays—8.17 a. m., 2.03 p. m., 7.45, 9.46 p. m., 12.42, 1.17 night.

For Reading—5.17, 7.44, 8.51, 10.51, 11.42 a. m., 12.42, 3.42, 6.45, 8.50, 9.46 p. m., 12.42 a. m. Sundays—8.17, 9.56, 10.51, 11.42 a. m., 12.42, 4.16, 6.45, 9.46, 11.25 p. m., 1.17 night.

For Reading and Harrisburg—5.17, 8.56, 8.56, 10.44, 11.44 Reading only), a. m., 2.11, (5.46, through train), 7.27 night. Sundays—8.17 a. m., 2.03, 4.37, 6.55 p. m., 1.17 night.

For Pottsville, Sunbury and Williamsport—5.17, 8.56, 11.44 a. m., 2.11, 7.27 p. m., 1.17 night. Sundays—8.17 a. m., 2.03 p. m., 1.17 night.

For Baltimore and Washington—1.17, 5.51, 10.51 a. m., 2.45, 8.45, 7.47 p. m. Sundays—5.51 a. m., 12.42, 8.45 p. m., 1.17 night.

Change cars at Bound Brook.

W. G. Besler, Vice Pres. & Gen. Mgr. G. M. BURT, Gen. Pass. Agt.

Lehigh Valley Railroad

Time Table in Effect Dec. 31, 1905.

LEAVE SOUTH PLAINFIELD, N. J.

8.08 a. m. daily (except Sunday) local to Mauch Chunk.

8.27 a. m. daily for Easton, Wilkesbarre, Hazleton, Sunbury, and principal intermediate stations.

2.47 p. m. daily, local for Easton, Mauch Chunk, Wilkesbarre, Hazleton and Shenandoah.

4.58 p. m. daily (except Sunday) "Wilkesbarre and Scranton Express" Solid vestibule train to Wilkesbarre, through Parlor Car to Mt. Jr. R. to Scranton and Carbondale.

6.21 p. m. daily (except Sunday) local to Easton.

6.40 p. m. daily, solid vestibule train to Buffalo, Toronto and Chicago and principal intermediate points except Rochester.

FRANK ROWLET, City Ticket Agent. 218 West Front Street, Plainfield, N. J. Telephone 112.

Wanted

Summer Board.

By thousands of Brooklyn people. Can you take a few? If so, list your house in the BROOKLYN DAILY EAGLE FREE INFORMATION BUREAU, for which purpose a printed Blank is provided.

The service of the INFORMATION BUREAU

Will Cost You Nothing

The Brooklyn Eagle is the best advertising medium in the world. It carries more paying advertisements than any New York paper. It stands PRE-EMINENTLY at the head.

An ADVERTISEMENT in the Eagle costs little, but brings large results, because the EAGLE INFORMATION BUREAU is constantly helping it.

Write for listing blank and Advertising Rate Card. Address

INFORMATION BUREAU,
BROOKLYN DAILY EAGLE,
Brooklyn, N. Y.

Mention the paper in which you see this advertisement. 5 2 2m

STEVENS

ON YOUR HUNTING TRIP

Because he has personally studied conditions, the STEVENS Rifle and you CANNOT GO WRONG.

RIFLES . . . from $2.25 to $160.00
PISTOLS . . . from 2.50 to 50.00
SHOTGUNS . . . from 7.50 to 35.00

Ask your dealer and insist on having a STEVENS. If he cannot supply make, send for illustrated catalogue. If interested in Target Rifles, Pistols or Shotguns, send 2c stamp for 32-page Booklet, containing charts, pointers and valuable information. Mailed free. Send 5c for 128-page Encyclopedia of Firearms. Mailed on receipt of price. Send 2c stamp for Catalogue of Sporting Goods. Mailed free. Cover postage.

Our catalogues are free—Ask your dealer. They will be sent anywhere for 2c each in stamps.

J. STEVENS ARMS AND TOOL CO., P. O. Box 3085
Chicopee Falls, Mass., U. S. A.

CAPT. HUMPHREY INJURED

Military Officer and His Wife Had Thrilling Experience in San Francisco.

SHE WAS UNHURT

Mrs. Humphrey, Formerly Miss Waring, Was Thrown From a Window—Helping the Victims.

The letters which have been received by Mr. and Mrs. O. T. Waring, of this avenue, from their daughter, Mrs. Humphrey, and her husband, Captain Chauncey Humphrey, who is stationed with the 22d Regiment, U. S. Infantry, at Alcatraz Island, San Francisco, tell of their thrilling experience during the earthquake.

Although they escaped injury during the heavy shock that did so much damage on the Pacific Coast, Captain Humphrey was thrown down the second day by another shock and received a painful injury to his knee. He was on duty in San Francisco at the time, under General Funston. He is now laid up at his home.

Mrs. Humphrey graphically describes the scenes and incidents the morning of the heavy earthquake. She says that she was awakened early that morning with a severe headache; something very unusual for her. The air in her room was extremely oppressive and she walked to a window to get a breath of fresh air. The atmosphere was very warm and she says it felt as though it was rising from a furnace. As Mrs. Humphrey stood leaning out of the window the heavy shock occurred. So severe was it that she was thrown head first out of the window onto the porch. She escaped injury. Captain Humphrey, aroused by the disturbance, rushed from the room and assisted his wife back to the house.

Soon afterwards the bugle call was sounded summoning the officers to headquarters. From that time on the soldiers have been on duty in San Francisco and other nearby important points. It was while in the performance of duty that he received the first shock that Captain Humphrey was thrown down by another disturbance of the earth. His knee was hurt.

Mrs. Humphrey says that so far as she has been able she has distributed clothing among the out-of-doors. The Island is crowded with refugees and she describes the sight as simply heart-rending. Her home was more or less damaged inside, pictures, bric-a-brac and other furnishings being ruined.

Lieut. Llewellyn Bull, of this city, who arrived at San Francisco a few days before the earthquake, being sent there under the command of Captain Humphrey, lost everything he had in the way of clothing and supplies. They were in the commissary department and he did not have time to get them out.

LOUIS DURAND BURNED IN SAN FRANCISCO

SEVERELY INJURED IN RESCUING INVALID WOMAN FROM BUILDING.

Louis Durand, a former resident of Park avenue, had an experience in the San Francisco fire that was lively even in comparison with the general run of experiences in the city. The fire left him to severe injuries after he had escaped from the quake with a shaking up.

He was hurt the afternoon of the first day, while rescuing an invalid woman from the third story of a burning house. The heat of the fire and friction resulting from his burden set fire to some matches in his pocket. He did not realize it until he felt the fire touch his flesh on the street. He laid the woman down, but his clothes burst into flame and although willing hands put the fire out he was badly burned.

A policeman stopped a passing buggy, ordered the driver out and took Durand to the county hospital. The nurses there dressed his burns, but could not receive him into the institution on account of the crowded condition of the wards. The policeman drove him back to where the soldiers were dealing out supplies and he was laid out in the open with a blanket and pillow. He lay under the sky, in the hot daytime and chilly nights from Wednesday until Friday afternoon, when he was taken to the emergency hospital, where he now is.

"The soldiers were kind to me," writes Mr. Durand in a letter to friends here, "but it was a sight for me to lie there and see the city burning all around. As they drove me to the hospital I saw nothing but desolation. My place of business is burned down."

Young Folks Entertain.

Miss Carolyn Ross and her brother, Master Jack Ross, entertained fifty-five of their young friends Saturday afternoon from 5 until 8 o'clock at their home, 323 East Seventh street. There were games on the lawn, a May pole dance, followed by supper and the playing of more games.

JOINS GREAT MAJORITY

Former Plainfielder Passes Away in Her Ninety-Second Year.

LEFT HERE IN 1855

Settled in Wisconsin and Then Removed to Montana—Sketch of Her Life.

Mrs. Eliza Williamson, aged ninety-one years, who was born near Plainfield, died at the home of her son, A. P. Williamson, south of Stevensville, Montana, on Saturday. She was preceded by her husband on November 6th, 1903, and was laid in that place by his side in Victor cemetery on Sunday, April 15.

Mrs. Williamson, whose maiden name was Curtis, was born within three miles of Plainfield, New Jersey, September 10th, 1814. Her ancestors were Scotch and French, with a little English blood. Her great grandparents migrated to this country, but the date is forgotten.

Mrs. Cornelius Williamson, whose demise occurred about two-and-a-half years ago, was born at Plainfield, New Jersey, May 3rd, 1812, and was raised on the farm, which became life's work. His parents were of Holland, Dutch and English desent. Mr. Williamson at the age of 19 years met Miss Curtis and formed a lasting acquaintance which culminated in marriage two years later, March 25th, 1833. As was said by Grandpa Williamson to an admirer of such fidelity as they had shown for each other: "We have always been together since our marriage, I have hardly ever been away from home over night. When I went to town, to mill or to church or to the timber for wood she nearly always went with me." Old Glory had only 24 stars when they were married and 19 met have guided the great ship of state since that time. Their names appear on seven decennial censuses of the United States.

Mr. and Mrs. Williamson moved to Wisconsin from New Jersey in 1855 and in 1882 moved to the Bitter Root valley, Montana, where they lived on a farm, that being his occupation through life. Three years ago this spring they gave up farming and moved into a snug little house in Victor where they lived till Mr. Williamson died November 6th, 1903.

In the old family Bible at the Williamson home are the following entries: "Cornelius, son of John and Martha Williamson, was married to Eliza Curtis, daughter of John and Mary Curtis, March 25th, 1833." Of May, in the year of our Lord, one thousand eight hundred and thirty-three, by Stephen Day, pastor of the New Providence Methodist Episcopal church, at the residence of Israel Wilcox, Peter Hill and wife being witnesses; Also Israel Wilcox and John Crane, etc., were witnesses to the marriage ceremony there performed between the contracting parties above named."

Fourteen children blessed the union, five girls and nine boys, the five daughters and eight of the sons passed to the great beyond, only one son, Abraham P., who together with twelve grand children, and five great grand children, relatives and friends mourn the departure of mother, grandmother and great grandmother. —Northwest Tribune, Stevensville, Mont.

Plainfield Band to Conduct a Ball.

The Plainfield Band, which was recently organized and is now becoming an important social club, will conduct a ball in the band hall, North and Park avenues, Friday night, May 11. The band now numbers about twenty members and gives promise of becoming one of the best in the county.

Re-organizing Wholesale Business.

L. F. Hirsh & Bro., the big wholesale concern at Elizabeth, has assumed charge of the grocery department of Dunham & Co., the Somerset street firm. Employes of the former are now taking stock with a view to reorganizing the business. It was started originally by C. Frank French.

Surprised Mrs. William Thompson.

Martha Washington Council, No. 23, Daughters of America, gave a surprise party to Mrs. William Thompson, of West Fifth street, Saturday night. The evening was spent in playing games and listening to a programme of vocal and instrumental music, after which refreshments were served.

Farewell to Mrs. Ward.

Rev. Dr. Chambless, of the First Baptist church, spoke a few words of hearty appreciation of the faithful services of Mrs. F. Ward, who has been the contralto soloist in the church for ten years, singing not only with a voice full of charm and sweetness, but with a heart full of Christian love. He voiced the sentiment of the church in his hearty good wishes for her future.

Will Start New Bridge Soon.

It is expected that work will be started soon on the construction of the new bridge over Green brook on West End avenue. William Farrier, the contractor, who received the job, has been very ill, but is now recovering and he hopes to begin operations at an early date.

HUNG TO GUTTER OF ROOF TO SAVE HIMSELF

AND CAT HARRY ROBERTS TRIED TO RESCUE SAVED ITSELF.

In trying to rescue a cat from the roof of his home on Prospect place early Monday evening, Harry Roberts had a narrow escape from a forty-foot fall to the ground. He barely saved himself by clinging to the gutter of the roof and his escape involved a hard journey by his hands along the gutter of the roof. The cat saved itself after Mr. Roberts abandoned it in the stress of self-preservation.

The feline, a pet in the Roberts family, made its way to the roof of the house in some manner, but couldn't find a safe way down. It yowled plaintively and attracted Mr. Roberts' attention to its plight. He put a tall ladder against the side of the building, climbed to within reach of the roof's edge and called the cat to him. He tucked her under the arm and steadied himself for the journey downward.

Just as he was about to start, the ladder slipped from under him. He dropped the cat and grabbed the edge of the roof gutter as he fell. He put his hands on just in the nick of time and the yank he got made his teeth snap together like a bear trap in action, but he hung on. When his breath came back he felt something sticking in his thigh and looked down. The cat had caught fast to his trousers as it fell and was hanging on, regardless of where her claws sank. A good bit of them was in Mr. Roberts' sensitive skin.

"All right," he said unselfishly, "hang on. You're welcome to the hold. I'll get out of this you'll get through, too. What happens to the superficial covering of my anatomy doesn't seem important just at this moment."

He took a hasty look about and saw that the quickest way to relieve the strain on his arms and end the chance of dropping to the ground from exhaustion lay in working his way to where the gutter overhung the roof of a porch, where a drop of about nine feet would lead to safety. He made the slow journey finally, with some pangs above and below, the cat clinging tenaciously. When he dropped to the porch the cat relaxed her hold grip and scamped down the side post with a joyful yowl. Mr. Roberts, his arms aching, his knee hurt, and a smarting leg to remind him where the cat held on, crawled painfully through a window into the house.

"The next cat that gets on the roof may stay there until an earthquake shakes it off, for all of me," said Mr. Roberts with bitterness as he uncorked the witch hazel.

LOAD OF HAY BURNED ON ROAD TO NEWARK.

William Schwartz and One of His Team Slightly Injured at Mountainside.

William Schwartz, of Clinton avenue, a hay carrier, was slightly burned in the destruction of a load of two and a half tons of hay he was taking to Newark early Monday morning, at Mountainside. One of the horses was slightly burned also.

Schwartz started from here at 1 o'clock. Two hours later, at Mountainside, right after a peddler's wagon passed him, he heard a crackling sound in the rear of the cart. When turned the load of hay was all afire in back on one side. Before Schwartz could unhitch the horses the fire had enveloped the whole load, and one of the team was burned a bit. Schwartz was painfully burned, and the load of hay was totally destroyed. Schwartz's injuries were dressed at the Mountainside hotel where he stayed until morning.

It is supposed someone in the peddler's wagon threw a match in the hay as the cart passed, for mischief.

FRIENDS LAST TRIBUTE TO MRS. MARY A. MARSH.

Funeral Services Held Here Before Remains Are Taken to Cincinnati.

Mrs. Mary A. Marsh, mother of A. L. C. Marsh, the architect, who died Sunday at her home, 821 Hillside avenue, was taken ill with acute Bright's disease on Tuesday, April 24, and passed into an unconscious state on Friday in which she remained until the end.

Mrs. Marsh was a member of the Hicksite Society of Friends and attended services at the Watchung Avenue meeting-house. The minister in charge of the funeral services held from the late home Monday, was William D. Williams. He spoke tenderly of her beautiful Christian character and her motherly advice and counsel to him and others.

Rev. Vicars Stevenson, of Grace church, read the Episcopal burial service. There were many flowers from friends and acquaintances. The remains were taken Tuesday on the 10 o'clock train to Cincinnati for interment.

Mrs. Marsh is survived by four children—William E. Marsh, of San Francisco; Richard Marsh, of Spokane, and A. L. C. Marsh and Miss Anna Marsh, who lived with their mother.

Freeholder Wilbur On His Job.

Freeholder S. P. T. Wilbur, learning that there was a hole in the West End avenue bridge, visited the bridge on Saturday and repaired the break by nailing a board over the opening.

COLBY AT COMMENCEMENT

Borough Board of Education Suggests That He Be Invited to Address Students.

EXERCISES, JUNE 15

Two Properties Needed at Park Place and Vine Street to Beautify Somerset School Grounds.

There is a possibility that Senator Everett Colby may be asked to speak at the Commencement exercises of the North Plainfield High school on Friday night, June 15. Preliminary plans for the yearly graduation were made by the Board of Education Monday and the senator was suggested as being available to make the usual address. All arrangements for the exercises will be completed by a committee composed of Rev. J. O. McKelvey and John Johnson and they will undoubtedly extend the invitation.

In the regular order of business, Mr. Townsend informed the board that in order to put the grounds about the Somerset school in presentable shape, it would be necessary to purchase the two properties at Park place and Vine street. This would complete the Board's holdings at that point to about three-quarters of the block between Manning avenue and Park place. In the shape that the yards of the two private properties are, it is impossible to beautify the school grounds. To secure the remainder, it would be necessary to get the consent of the voters in order to begin condemnation proceedings if necessary. One owner is willing to sell out but the other is not and this course would probably have to be followed out. Mr. Townsend offered no resolution but asked the members to think it over until the next meeting.

The teachers' committee reported that twenty-nine teachers have been engaged for the coming year and that two or three others are to be considered. Among the twenty-nine are one new one, Miss Pauline C. Webster, of Bay Shore, L. I., who will take charge of the third grade. Miss Terry, of Somerville, who had been offered the appointment as head of the history department, notified the committee that she had decided to remain in her present position because of an advance in salary.

It was reported that Miss M. E. Howlett's collection of birds had been placed in the Somerset street building and a vote of thanks for the loan of it was extended her; and also to Captain W. G. Smith who had been instrumental in securing it for the school.

SOMERSET'S NEW JAIL NEARLY READY

NEW BUILDING ABOUT COMPLETED—ESTIMATING FOR A COURTHOUSE.

The new Somerset county jail at Somerville is now nearly completed, and is a buff brick building, which will cost about $50,000. Contractors are now making estimates on the new courthouse from plans prepared by the architect. Bids are invited on a marble structure and one of pressed brick with terra cotta trimmings. The kind of material used will depend largely on the figures submitted.

The plans show an imposing structure in which the architects have attempted to preserve to some extent the style of the old courthouse, with its massive pillars and many steps leading to the courtroom on the second floor. The building will be capped by a dome which will shed light into a spacious rotunda running from the top to the bottom of the building. All rooms on the second and third floors will open into the rotunda.

On the first floor will be located large rooms for the use of the county clerk and his records, as well as for the surrogate and sheriff. The second floor will be devoted to the main courtroom, a judges' room, a freeholders' room and a small courtroom. Jury rooms and a number of other apartments will occupy the third floor.

The new courthouse will cost in the neighborhood of $250,000. The ground in which the new jail is located and the buildings now standing at Main and Grove streets will be removed and the entire space used for the courthouse grounds.

Miss Woolley's Party.

Miss Helen Woolley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lindsey Woolley, of the New Madison, had a birthday party on Friday when she entertained a company of young folks. The afternoon was spent playing games and having a good time in general, after which refreshments were served. Miss Woolley received several gifts as pleasant reminders of the event.

$60 Contract Suit.

James W. Truesdell has sued the Garwood Foundry and Machine Co., on contract, before Justice Mosher. The sum involved is $60. The case is set for next Tuesday. F. J. Hiats is counsel for the plaintiff.

WESTFIELD GOLF EVENTS

Attractive Competitions Arranged For Lovers of the Scotch Game.

MANY PRIZES OFFERED

Qualifying Rounds Will Be Played Monthly With Special Holiday Programmes.

The Westfield Golf Club which began its active season the latter part of April has issued an attractive schedule of events for the coming season. The course is pronounced to be in the best of condition and the members are looking forward to a successful year.

On the four Saturdays in May—5, 12, 19 and 26, there will be handicap match play by the players who qualified in April for the May prizes. On these same Saturdays there will be qualifying rounds for players in classes A and B for handicap match play during June. The eight lowest scores each Saturday to qualify for a fifth round on the first Saturday in June. In the fifth round the lowest sixteen net scores will qualify for handicap match play during June. In these qualifying rounds the players in class B will add 10 to their handicap, as this event is for both classes. The prize for the June handicap match play competition is presented by the handicap committee.

On Memorial Day in the morning there will be a handicap medal play for both classes, with prize to the winner. In the afternoon there will be handicap medal play for mixed foursomes, prizes presented by R. H. Stern.

On the first Saturday in June the thirty-two players who qualified in May for June match play, will play a handicap medal round of the sixteen lowest net scores to qualify for handicap match play on the remaining four Saturdays—9, 16, 23 and 30. On the last Saturday in the month there will be a qualifying round, active members only, in both classes for the Governor's cup, which will be played for at handicap match play in July. This round will be at handicap medal play, the players in class B to add 10 to their handicaps. The lowest sixteen net scores to qualify.

In July there will be handicap match play for the Governor's cup on the four Saturdays—7, 14, 21 and 28, by the players who qualified on the four Saturdays of July for handicap match play during August. The four lowest net scores in each class on each Saturday to qualify. Prizes for the August handicap match play competition presented by H. W. Gladwin and J. B. Barr.

On Independence Day in the morning there will be handicap medal play. Classes A and B, prize to the winner. In the afternoon there will be handicap medal play for mixed foursomes, nine holes, prizes to winners.

The events for August will be a handicap match play on the four Saturdays—4, 11, 18 and 25, by players who qualified in July. Qualifying rounds for classes A and B on the four Saturdays for handicap match play during September. The four lowest net scores in each class on each Saturday to qualify. Prizes for the September handicap match play competition presented by John Platt and E. R. Perkins.

The competition for September will be a handicap match play on the first four Saturdays—1, 8, 15 and 22, for players who qualified in August. On the last Saturday there will be the qualifying round for the club championship, a scratch event and open to all members of the club. The lowest sixteen scores to qualify for match play during October. The Labor Day event will be a handicap medal play competition, thirty-six holes for classes A and B with prizes for each class.

The October event will be match play on the four Saturdays—8, 15, 20 and 27, for the club championship. The final round will be at thirty-six holes. Gold medal to the winner.

On Election Day there will be a cross country competition, scratch event, prize to the winner. This will close the active season.

Several events for women have been arranged. On May 18 and 19 there will be a handicap medal play at 18 holes. Prize for the lowest score. Beginning on May 19 and continuing for the next three Saturdays there will be a putting contest at clock golf. Prize to the winner. On June 15 and 16 there will be a handicap medal play at 18 holes. Prize for lowest score. Beginning on September 8 and continuing for the remaining three Saturdays in September there will be a putting contest at clock golf. Prize to the winner.

During October there will be play for the De Lamater cup, handicap match play. All entries for this competition must be in before October 1. Drawings will be made on October 2 and the matches may be played at the convenience of the entrants, a forfeit, however, being taken if the match is not played within a week's time. Beginning the afternoons of May 30 and July 4, there will be handicap medal play for mixed foursomes. Prizes to the winners. Scoring at the purring contests will be as follows: The five lowest scores on each Saturday will receive 5, 4, 3, 2 and 1 points respectively.

DR. RODMAN'S WIFE GOES TO HER REWARD

LOVEABLE CHARACTER PASSES AWAY AFTER MUCH SUFFERING.

Mrs. Sadie W. Rodman, wife of Rev. Erskine M. Rodman, rector-emeritus of Grace church, died at 6 o'clock Monday afternoon at her home in this city, following an illness of five weeks. Her condition was such that little hope for recovery was entertained and death had been expected momentarily. She bore her suffering patiently and with Christian fortiture.

Mrs. Rodman, previous to her marriage was Miss Sadie Wickham Sharpe, daughter of William F. Sharpe, of Goshen, N. Y., at which place she was born. Thirty-five years ago she was married to Mr. Rodman at Goshen and immediately moved to this city, where she continued to live the rest of her life. There was no more faithful member of Grace church, where her husband served as rector for many years. She was a lovable character, a devoted wife and mother and not only in the home, but the church will she be greatly missed. Her cheerful disposition was the help and encouragement of all with whom she came in contact.

Besides a husband, she is survived by a daughter, Miss May Rodman, of this city, and a son, Randolph Rodman, of South Orange. The funeral services were held from Grace church Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock and interment was in Hillside cemetery.

General sympathy will be extended to Rev. Dr. Rodman in his present bereavement. Mrs. Rodman was a loveable character and was greatly respected in the community in which she spent the most of her life.

MR. PERKINS' GOAL THE GOVERNORSHIP

BACK TO ASSEMBLY, THEN TO SENATE AND THEN TO HIGHEST OFFICE.

Randolph Perkins, of Westfield, the organization leader in the House, is said to have mapped out his political ambitions for the future, according to the New York Tribune. The story is that he wants to go back to the Assembly next year, go to the Senate from the same county the succeeding to Ackerman, and thus get in trim for the nomination for Governor in 1910. These ambitions are generally thought to be praiseworthy. On the other hand, it is pointed out that a lot of things can happen in the meantime.

For example, says the Tribune, unless the energetic young man looks out he will have to join the independent ranks to be successful, for Union county Republicans are rapidly changing front, as was instanced by the action of the Plainfield Republican Committee at its meeting the other night. Mr. Perkins has the consolation, however, that he can always fall back on his position as Mayor of Westfield, an office he can probably fill through the year 1910 if he so desires.

Tennis Court in Shape.

The tennis court of the Y. M. C. A. at Norwood and Brook avenues, will be opened to play for the first time this season next Saturday. A match is being arranged.

DIED.

BLUME—At Watchung, N. J., on Tuesday, April 24, 1906, Marie Blume, daughter of Chris H. and Belle L. Blume.

RODMAN—Entered into rest on Sunday evening, April 29, Sadie Nickham, wife of Rev. Erskine M. Rodman and daughter of the late William F. Sharpe, of Goshen, N. Y.

MARSH—On Sunday, April 29, 1906, Mary A., widow of Richard Marsh, aged 73 years.

DAY—At New Market, N. J., on Friday, April 27, Maria Isabella, wife of Stanley Day, aged 77 years and 22 days.

PHIFER—At Bayonne, N. J., on Monday, April 23, 1906, Josephine, wife of Philip H. Phifer.

FLANDERS—On Wednesday, April 25, 1906, Nancy H., widow of William Flanders, in her 79th year.

SEWARD—In this city, April 27, 1906, Catherine Seward.

"Beautify Your Home"

The Burr McIntosh Monthly

"Pictorial Perfection"

"THE MOST BEAUTIFUL MAGAZINE IN THE WORLD"

Ask your newsdealer for this superb magazine. If he does not handle it send us his name and address with your name and address and 10c. for sample copy. Regular price 25c. Mention this paper.

Burr Publishing Company

4 West 22d Street New York City

Sanitary Plumbing

Brick and Portable Furnaces

Gas Fitting, Tin Roofing, Etc., Etc., Etc.

I am prepared to do any of the above branches in strictly first-class sanitary and workmanship manner.

Having associated myself with the Master Plumbers Association of New York City, I employ none but first-class mechanics and non-union men. I believe in every man running his own business, at all times and in cases.

D. W. LITTELL,

No. 113 North Ave., Plainfield, N. J.

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE

PATENTS

TRADE MARKS DESIGNS COPYRIGHTS &c.

Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Handbook on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents. Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the Scientific American.

A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.

MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York

Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

NEW IN EVERY DETAIL!

My new barber shop at

143 NORTH AVE.

is now open ready for business. All the latest appointments in the toncoria

EDWIN B. MAYNARD.

CARNEY BROS.,

MADISON AVENUE,

Between Front and Second streets.

Tinners,

Plumbers

Gas Fitters,

Grates and bricks for all kinds of stoves can be found here at Jobbers' prices. Bring your tinware mending to us. The best tinners, the best plumbers, and the best gas-fitters in this section. We use none but the very best of materials, and our work always gives satisfaction. Keys of all kinds are made here. Tinware made to order. Ranges, brick and portable furnaces. Sanitary plumbing.

DIME

Savings Institution,

Of Plainfield, N. J.,

Is now receiving deposits with interest, allowed on all sums from $5 to $3,000.

J. Frank Hubbard, President.
Wm. H. Arnold, } Vice-Pres
Jeremiah Manning, }
J. C. Pope, Sec'y and Treas.

Money deposited on or before January tenth will draw interest from the first.

Guaranteed Salary

$900 YEARLY.

Men and women of good address to represent us, some to travel appointing agents, others for local work. Salary $900 and interests. $900 salary guaranteed yearly; extra commissions and expenses, regular advancement; old established house. Grand chance for earnest man or woman to secure pleasant, permanent position. Liberal income and future. New, brilliant lines. Write at once.

STAFFORD PRESS,

23 Church St., New Haven, Conn.

W. R. CODINGTON,

Counsellor-at-Law

Commissioner of Deeds, Master-in-chancery, Notary Public. Offices Corner of Park avenue and Second street.

ALBERT HEDDEN

Livery & Boarding Stables

FOURTH ST.,

between Watchung and Park avenues. First-class Livery. Horses boarded by week or month. Telephone call No. 114.

Wm. A. Woodruff

Fire and Life

INSURANCE AGENT

OFFICE,

corner Front St. and Park

REPUBLICAN CITY COMMITTEE STEALS THE THUNDER OF THE COLBY MOVEMENT

Chairman Fisk Says There Will Be No More Dictation of Nominations.

"PLAY NO FAVORITES"

County Chairman Smith Declares the People Will Rule—Primary Laws As a "Cure All."

On all sides today, politicians are discussing the surprise sprung by the Republican city committee in coming out for free nominations and no boosism. What the action of the committee at its prolonged session last night really means is a matter of conjecture and the point of view varies according to a man's political affiliations.

Chairman Charles J. Fisk sums it all up in saying that there are going to be no more "back stairs conferences" and no "predetermined nominations." Friends of Senator Colby, on the other hand, declare that the local Republican organization has read "the handwriting on the wall," but that the move is not a sincere one.

The Colbyites say that the city committee has taken the step to block the reform movement in Union county and particularly in Plainfield. It is alleged by them, however, that there is no hope of "anti-machine" government through that source.

For nearly two hours last night the committee discussed the subject and then passed a resolution setting forth that the body represents no faction and will work for the election of candidates chosen by the Republican voters without dictation from anyone. In addition a committee was appointed to arrange for acquainting the voters with the provisions of the new primary election laws.

The committee as named by Chairman Fisk consists of County Chairman Frank H. Smith, former Sheriff B. Frank Carroll, Lewis Adams and J. Herrey Doane. No means of having the laws brought to the attention of the voters is mentioned but the whole matter is left entirely in the discretion of the committee.

"The City Committee is a representative body—representative of the people," said Mr. Fisk. "We are organized to give the people what they want, and we will do just that. We want to know what candidates they desire. We will follow the wishes of the people faithfully, as expressed at the primaries.

"There is to be an end of backstairs conferences, of predetermined nominations. We are a purely representative body, and we will not stand for dictation from anyone.

"We have no candidates of our own, and will push nobody. We will wait for the word of the people, and whoever they choose as their candidates we will work to elect. We play no favorites—in any direction.

"Let the voters turn out at the primary, and let us know who they want. We have arranged for the publication of all practical information as to the primary for the purpose of making it easy for voters to understand what they are to do in order to indicate their will."

Frank H. Smith, chairman of the county committee, as well as a city committeeman, echoed Mr. Fisk's statement.

"We are in business as a committee to support the candidates desired by the people," said Mr. Smith emphatically. "If they want the present officeholders continued, we will support them; if they want new ones, the old men will have to go. We have no favorites."

"Senator Colby couldn't say much more than that," suggested a Daily Press reporter, turning to Mr. Fisk.

"I am just as much in favor of good government as Colby," said Mr. Fisk. "I believe in giving the people just what nominations they want—providing they are good men—whenever the choice is indicated. If the people want Colby, give them Colby. Colby is a good man.

The resolutions follow:

"Whereas, the City Republican Executive Committee of the city of Plainfield, believing that the operation of the Primary Act of 1902 is conducive towards obtaining a fair and impartial selection of delegates and candidates to represent the Republican party in the city and county;

"And Whereas, the said Committee represents no particular faction, but all the Republican voters of the city of Plainfield, and is solicitous in educating the Republican voters of the State in the method of nominating and electing representatives of the Republican party at the State primary elections, believing it to be conducive to good government and resulting in the selection of the best material obtainable for the various offices to be filled;

"Resolved, that the chairman appoint a committee of four to be composed of one member from each ward to examine the changes made in the primary law of the year 1903 and issue a statement through such medium as in their wisdom they may select, giving concise instructions to the voters of the city of Plainfield of the means to be pursued in placing candidates and delegates in nomination together with forms required by the State act and such other information as may be necessary to carry out the intent of the said act."

WOMEN'S CLUB HOLDS ANNUAL ENTERTAINMENT

STORY OF A NEW ENGLAND VILLAGE UNIQUE FEATURE OF THE AFFAIR.

The annual entertainment of the Monday Afternoon Club, marking the close of the season's study, was held in the Casino, Thursday, and like previous events was a great success. The programme which occupied the great part of the evening was devoted to the illustration of a story of an old New England village. Mrs. Mercie E. Reed, of Rockland, Mass., related the story, while a large company of people represented the various characters.

A large album was placed on the stage and as the story was being told the characters were represented in a series of tableaux. These persons took part: Mr. and Mrs. George Ring, Mrs. D. N. Van Vliet, Miss Dorothy Van Vliet, Miss Barbara Van Vliet, W. L. Gleaney, J. R. Hutchinson, Mrs. N. Barnhardt, Laurence Heely, Mrs. E. J. Patterson, Miss S. B. Terrell, Miss Helen Harman, Miss Ruth Titus, Miss Eva Browne, Miss Marjorie Fleming, Miss Lilian King, Miss Helen Browne, Miss Maizie Day, Mr. and Mrs. William C. Hubbard, James Everett Kimball, John Neal, Mrs. Malcolm McKenzie, Rev. W. E. Honeyman, Miss Helen Joy, Miss Jeanette Van Vliet, Mrs. Howard Tracy, Edward J. Fox, Lawrence Tweedy, Miss Hyatt, Miss Hutchinson.

Other features included vocal selections by H. T. Barleigh, baritone, of New York, and the singing of old songs by a quartette composed of Miss Mary Hubbell, Miss Ursula Rowland, Arthur Masters and Willard Wadsworth. After the entertainment refreshments were served by members of the club.

This committee was in charge of the affair: Mrs. A. V. Healy, chairman; Mrs. Duncan Taylor, Mrs. William M. Stillman, Mrs. Charles King, Mrs. J. H. Steven, Mrs. S. B. Warren and Mrs. Walter M. McGee.

STONY HILL PARISH IS 60 YEARS OLD

IN SAINT MARY'S PLAINFIELDERS WORSHIPPED GENERATIONS AGO.

The parish of St. Mary's R. C. church at Stony Hill will complete the sixtieth year of its existence on April 10, 1907, and in commemoration of the occasion, Rev. Linus A. Schwarz, the pastor, has planned to issue a souvenir book. The church was organized by Rev. Father John S. Raffnes in 1847 and the publication will contain the names, records and history since that time, together with such information as is deemed advisable during the present year.

The committee of ways and means of the parish has adopted this course as a means to procure sufficient funds to liquidate the church debt and to enable them to make needed repairs to the edifice before the anniversary exercises. As Plainfielders formerly worshipped at Stony Hill there are many descendants of the original parishioners now living in the city who will appreciate the souvenir book and aid the cause.

The ways and means committee is composed of S. P. Debble, Charles Eller, Andrew Schaefer and George Derber.

EUCHRE PARTY.

Prizes Are Won by the Guests of a Hostelry.

Under the patronage of the guests, a progressive euchre party was held at Truell's Court, Thursday. There were fifteen tables. Mrs. J. S. Birmingham won first honors for the women, Mrs. John Evans second and Mrs. William Morris third. For the men Wilbur M. Alling won first prize, Dr. H. L. Lowerie second and William De Long third.

During the evening there were humorous recitations by Mrs. I. Combs, violin solos by Mrs. Violet Truell Johnston, piano selections by Miss Hess and soprano solos by Miss Birmingham.

Afterward refreshments were served. The affair was arranged by Eugene M. Laing, John Evans and Miss Tree

RAPS SNAPPY TEACHERS

Dr. Schaeffer Tells Local Pedagogues to be Bright and Happy.

EVIL OF CRABBEDNESS

Rasping Teachers, and Not Overwork, Breaks Down Pupils, State Superintendent of Peeps. Intimates.

Things calculated to make pedagogues think more of their work, in both senses of the phrase, were said to the school teachers of the city last Thursday by Dr. Nathan C. Schaeffer, State superintendent of schools of Pennsylvania. He spoke to them at the new High School, on "Work and Play in Education."

Dr. Schaeffer emphasized the reflex influence of school work on both teacher and pupil. He spoke strongly of the teacher whose work grated upon her and whose nervous, high-strung, rasping manner held the pupil at a tension that led to sheer breakdown; of the class of work that made the pupils glad to be clear of books and mental advancement, and sent them, after school days, to amusements morally degrading and mentally suffocating.

There was something wrong with the system of teaching, the speaker said, that did not lead young people to frequent libraries, where they might sink themselves and the recollections of their work in the companionship of great minds of all times.

Schoolrooms should be sources of happiness to the pupils; but it was impossible for the pupils to be happy if the teachers were not happy. "And how can they be happy," he asked, "if they regard their work as drudgery? If the happiest hour of the day is when the classes are dismissed?"

The child should know no happier hours, the doctor held, than those in the schoolroom and the teacher should be happiest at her work.

The teacher whose voice had an edge, whose manner was like a pychic saw, received the full point of the sharpest shaft loosed by Dr. Schaeffer. He called here, in effect, the one great cause of sleeplessness for superintendents. He laid at her door, by intimation that was very plain, the responsibility for the more or less general charge that modern schooling caused pupils to break down from overwork.

"I had three children in the public schools," he said, in this connection, "and I took them away because they couldn't get work enough. All the work they got there didn't interfere with their appetite, their sleep or their propensity for fighting."

Dr. Schaeffer said a source of nervousness in teachers lay in insufficient salaries, and told an inspiring tale of salary-boosting campaign in Pennsylvania.

He spoke forcefully against the annual examination of teachers insisted upon in some States. Constant examinations hampered and harrassed the teacher. After the stimulus growing from it the first few years, the teacher was checked in her mental broadening, and starved intellectually at the end of the other that held her to the annually recurrent bugbear. The speaker said he pitied the superintendent who could not find a better way to keep his teachers occupied than by annual examinations.

School Superintendents Maxson, of this city, and Krebs, of North Plainfield, heads of those of surrounding places were at the lecture, a number of teachers from adjoining boroughs and villiages helped swell the attendance.

P. O. S. OF A. CAMP WANTS IMMIGRATION RESTRICTED.

South Plainfield Organization Has Petition for Congress.

Aroused to what is considers its sense of duty, Washington Camp, No. 41, Patriotic Order Sons of America, of South Plainfield, has drafted a petition to be sent to the Congressional Committee on Immigration at Washington, urging Congress to pass a bill regulating immigration.

The petition sets forth that the undersigned citizens of the United States regardless of partisan of sectarian affiliation, earnestly petition for the immediate consideration of the problem of immigration of aliens, which has been reported with amendments. It further recites that "the need of such legislation is apparent to every unbiased, intelligent resident of the United States and production of overwhelmingly demanded by the people."

A committee has been appointed to secure signatures to the petition.

New Industry in the East End.

Max Krischer and Henry Holland, organizers of the New York Metal Goods Company, have bought the old oil cloth factory in the East End and will install their business in it at once. They will commence with a force of twenty men but expect to double the number within a few weeks. The concern manufactures a large variety of metal goods on order. The purchase was made from the Paine estate through Counsellor W. S. Angleman.

An After-Dinner Story.

THE LETTER.

"Now, if the countess will put the count's present address on the letters the carrier will call for them on his way back to the post office."

Gilberte hesitates and looks over the pile of letters in her hand. The sealed envelopes speak a language which she understands. She knows the oblong envelopes containing bills and business communications; the letters from her husband's friends are easily recognized by the club stationery, and there is a letter from the Chamber of Deputies, which must be from Uncle Honore.

"Just like Uncle Honore not to know that Henry is away with his regiment during the manoeuvers, and will not be back for two weeks."

With firm hand she readdresses the letters—all but one. She turns the square linen envelope with the fine yet firm handwriting several times, smells it to find out if it is perfumed.

"I wonder who wrote that letter—surely a woman, judging from the handwriting, and Henry is not in the habit of receiving letters from women."

She looks at the cancellation stamp, which reads: "Place des Vosges." "We do not know anybody in that part of Paris," she mumbles, and turns the letter to see if it is securely sealed. The flap is firmly gummed down all the way.

"If he were only here we would open it together. I am sure I never saw that handwriting before."

Suddenly she remembered that it is always her husband who receives the mail, and that it would be easy for him to remove any letters which he does not want her to see.

"Perhaps he has received many letters like this without my knowledge," she thinks, and her eyes fill with tears.

"Maybe that old love affair from before our marriage is still going on. Maybe he still corresponds with Mme. de Lantosque."

And her slender fingers seem to feel the secrets of the letter. She suddenly realizes more than little she knows of her husband's soul, how little it belongs to her. And to think that perhaps she now holds in her hand the key to his secret, hidden behind this fine thin paper. She remains undecided a moment, then she decides to address the letter to be sent to fill in the address of his regiment. But again she hesitates, her fingers tremble—she cannot do it.

"Perhaps they have agreed to meet while he is away. I ought to have gone with him."

Her fingers again run over the fatal envelope, and hardly knowing what she is doing, she flings it into the open fire.

As she sees the letter devoured by the flames she suddenly realizes what she has done and bursts out crying. "What have I done!" she moans. "How could I mistrust Henry! And now I shall never know what was in the letter," she said, irrelevantly.

The train comes rushing around the curve, standing on the platform Alberte sees Henry's face behind the window of a first-class compartment. Their eyes meet and speak a mute language of love.

"What a darling you are to come and meet me at the station!" he exclaims, as he kisses her.

The soft, warm coupe carries them swiftly across the wintry fields toward the chateau.

Suddenly he asks, in a tone of anxiety: "Are you sure you sent me all my letters?"

She feels all the blood rush to her heart and her voices trembles as she replies, in a voice which she tries to make calm:

"Why, certainly—but why do you ask?"

"I was expecting a letter, and I do not understand why it did not come."

He looks at her, and notices how pale she is. His hand seeks hers, and he asks, alarmed:

"What is the matter, darling? Are you not feeling well?"

"Yes, I am perfectly well, only a little chilly. Have you heard of Valentine's wedding?" she asks, striking a new subject. "It was not such a great affair as everybody had supposed it would be.

"No, I have heard nothing from anybody. I did not even get the letters I expected."

Alberte feels her heart throbbing so hard that it seems to her he must surely see it even through her heavy fur coat.

Eight days have passed since Henry's return, and both of them feel that something has come between them, though both try to act as before.

Count Henry is seated in the library opening his mail when he calls out to his wife in the next room:

"Now, I got your letter after all! I was sure I did not get all my mail!"

"Are you never going to stop speaking about that letter?" she answered, impatiently. "It must have been of great importance to you."

"Why, I should say it was. Now, here I have just received a letter from Noirot—my attorney in Paris, you know—in which he writes that he has been waiting to hear from me ever since he wrote me about a month ago, and that, not having received an answer, he has surrendered an option he held on that palais in Avenue Victor Hugo, which you like so much."

"And that letter was from Noirot?"

"Did you see it—a letter like this?"

The square linen envelope, the fine yet firm handwriting! There was no doubt.

Albert could have fainted from joy.

"Oh, Henry, darling! I do love you so!" she cried, sobbing. "And I do not see how I could suspect so—but why does your attorney write like a woman and use such effeminate stationery?"—Exchange.

"THE FREE LANCE" A HIT.

Klaw & Erlanger's New Sousa Opera Co. Makes Sensation.

Klaw & Erlanger's Sousa Opera Company, headed by the clever comedian Joseph Cawthorn, presented the new military comic opera, "The Free Lance," by John Philip Sousa and Harry B. Smith, at the New Amsterdam theatre last Monday evening and created a sensation, scoring the most pronounced and emphatic hit made in New York in many years by a production of this character. The following are opinions expressed by the metropolitan critics:

Telegraph—"The Free Lance' a distinct success last night at the New Amsterdam."

World—"The Free Lance' is an amusing opera, well mounted and carefully rehearsed."

Daily News—"There are stirring marches and pretty melodies as few as write like the 'March King.'"

Herald—"The Free Lance' is real comic opera, tuneful and humorous, without the slapstick methods too familiar to Broadway."

Times—"The lines of 'The Free Lance' are full of chuckles, the costumes are pretty, the music has the characteristic Sousa touch and go—and something more."

Evening Telegram—"The story is more closely knit than has been the fashion of late years in stage concoctions of this sort. It is prettily staged, well sung and well acted."

Evening Globe—"The lines are really funny. Harry B. Smith has not written so good a book in years, if ever, and the humor of Cawthorn will make many merry for many moons to come."

Sun—"The house was crowded and the audience, which was most friendly, was enthusiastic in its reception of the players, recalling many of them several times and insisting upon a speech by the composer himself."

Commercial—"There was more in the piece than the triumvirate of comic opera. The first act is one of the nearest approaches to real opera we have had this season and the second is full of genuine fun."

Evening Mail—"'The Free Lance' wins at the New Amsterdam theatre. * * * 'On to Victory' is not the only effective number Sousa has introduced in this work. He displays a versatility in composition not noticed in any of his previous outputs."

FRANK O. REINHART ABANDONS THE LINKS

ANNOUNCES THAT HE WILL DEVOTE HIS TIME TO BUSINESS.

To the great surprise of all lovers of the game of golf, announcement was made Friday by Frank O. Reinhart, of Belvidere avenue, that he had retired from the game and would devote no time to play this season. Mr. Reinhart has just recovered from an attack of typhoid fever and although he is rapidly gaining strength, he has decided to give up golf and direct his attention to business in the future.

Mr. Reinhart will be greatly missed not only at the Plainfield Country Club, where he was a familiar figure on the course, but at the many amateur tournaments throughout the east, where he has played with such marked success. In the defeat of Walter Travis, the Plainfielder won world-wide distinction and many of the crack players of the country have fallen down before his strong play, but he retired from the record score at the Plainfield Country Club and at the Baltusrol Golf Club and he was always considered a formidable opponent to the strongest player following the game. He has many records of which he is justly proud and may be considered as one of the best if not the best golfer that has hailed from Plainfield.

When seen Friday, Mr. Reinhart said: "I have decided to give up the game and devote my time to business. As I cannot do both I think it will be more profitable to attend to business, as one cannot make a living playing golf."

Lippincott's Mules Get Frisky.

A team of mules belonging to Charles Lippincott and attached to one of the borough sprinkling carts, ran away on the driver was filling the vehicle from a hydrant on Duer street, Thursday morning. The hose was jerked from its coupling and the animals took to the sidewalk near Craig place where the vehicle got jammed between a tree and a fence. The mules had to be unhitched and brought to the rear of the cart to get it back to the road.

MOTHER OFFERS REWARD

Mrs. Kuenlen Will Give $500 For Her Daughter's Return.

WHETHER DEAD OR NOT

No New Clue To the Girl's Whereabouts—Daniel Norton's Disappearance Is Also a Mystery Still.

Mrs. Marie Kuenlen offered $500 reward for the return of her missing daughter, dead or alive, this morning. he search for the girl has been hopeless so far, and she offers the reward to inject added stimulus in the searchers and spread the knowledge of the case.

There is some ground for the suspicion that the girl is being held by someone in the hope of receiving a reward, and the offer covers that contingency.

No later clue to the girl's whereabouts than was secured Friday, when her progress eastward was traced to Newark on Monday, has been obtained. Chief Kiely went out on the search personally again this morning, after a consultation with friends of the family who have been directing the hunt.

The reward offered will be printed in the Sunday Evening News today and will probably be repeated in New York papers tomorrow.

As hard as the friends of Miss Kuenlen are searching for her, the authorities of the Grozsmans school are hunting for Daniel Norton, the 16-year-old physical youth who disappeared from there several weeks ago. The Norton search has been a hopeless as that for Miss Kuenlen, and the mystery is deeper. While Miss Kuenlen has been seen since her disappearance, no one can be discovered who saw Daniel Norton after he dropped from sight on Somerset street. New circulars, bearing a picture of the youth at work in the manual training room of the school, have been sent out.

FOUR WOMEN THROWN FROM AN AUTOMOBILE

AFTER RETURNING FROM PLAINFIELD THEY ARE INJURED SLIGHTLY.

Chester R. Hoag, who is a member of the Whitehead & Hoag Company, of Newark, his wife and her three sisters, were in an auto accident on Clinton avenue, Newark, Friday. The party was in Plainfield during the day, being patrons of Mrs. J. R. Truell at Truell Inn. They left Plainfield late in the afternoon to return home.

The trip to and from Plainfield was made in a new touring car, which Mr. Hoag recently purchased. He was running down Clinton avenue behind a trolley car. He turned out to go over High street and struck another trolley car going in the opposite direction.

Mr. Hoag kept his seat after the shock, but the women were all thrown out of the wrecked car. The names of the girls were Dorothy, Edna and Rose Osborne, all of whom were bruised and cut. Dorothy received a cut across her forehead which had to be stitched up. None of the injuries are dangerous, however. The women are all daughters of H. Frank Osborne.

The members of the party are all well known her where they visit frequently.

OSHKOSH'S BIG SALE.

Unprecedented Sale of Tickets, Casino Reports.

On Friday and Saturday nights, May 11 and 12, Plainfield will again have a chance to welcome "Oshkosh" and that the welcome will be hearty is proven by the sale of tickets, for already nearly three-quarters of the house, for each night, has been engaged. Such a sale is quite unprecedented, but assurances from "Oshkosh" are in effect that the plans this year promise to out-do all previous efforts in originality, music and dancing. Resulting from these plans an entire new set of scenery has been contracted for and is now being "set up." Over seventy costumes have already been contracted for and will be not only unusually attractive, but also unique. A well known New York professional has charge of all dances, both chorus and individual. Needless to say, music and words are practically original. The voices are well known and consist chiefly of ex-glee club men reputedly practically all of our Eastern colleges.

A few good seats are left for both performances, particularly Friday night, but attention need only be called to the unusual advance sale to suggest to any one desiring seats the necessity of purchasing without delay, for from present outlook the tickets will all be sold at least a week before the eleventh of May.

Dr. Moldenke Home.

Dr. Richard Moldenke, of Watchung, has returned from a western trip as far as San Francisco. He left the ill-fated city three days before the earthquake and fire occurred.

KIRCH ALIVE AND WELL

False Report That Plainfielder Had Jumped Into the River is Groundless.

WIFE GETS A NOTE

Mrs. Kirch Says She Expects to Hear From Her Husband Soon—Is In New York.

Philip Kirch, who closed out his cigar and tobacco store on North avenue by auction Monday, left town Thursday afternoon. His wife says she didn't know he was going, and the first information of the departure came to her in a letter which Kirch left on the table in the dining-room of their flat in the Woodhull & Martin building, East Front street. In the letter, Kirch said he was going to look for employment and would let her hear from him when he had found it.

Yesterday afternoon a rumor that Kirch had committed suicide by jumping from a North River ferryboat was all over the city. Relatives and friends of the young man went to New York last night to investigate the story and could find no basis for it. It was learned this morning that Kirch was alive and well in New York.

It was known about town that the sale of Kirch's store had been practically forced and that he was despondent over the collapse of his business, and this knowledge, in connection with his absence from town, probably gave rise to the rumor.

Mrs. Kirch said this morning that she expected to hear from her husband soon. She was worried over the suicide rumor and correspondingly relieved to learn that it was untrue.

Kirch has a young son by a previous marriage. In the letter to his wife he instructed her to give the boy into the care of Mrs. Samuel Boss. The letter gave directions as to the disposition of their furniture.

MRS. FREEMAN TELLS OF WORK AT ELLIS ISLAND.

Took the Place of Miss Troeck, Kept Away by Illness.

Owing to a severe illness, Miss Troeck, one of the missionaries at Ellis Island, who was to have addressed the Christian Endeavor Society at the Park Avenue Baptist church, Friday night, was prevented from being present.

In the absence of Miss Troeck, Mrs. W. H. Freeman took charge of the meeting and related a few facts regarding the work at Ellis Island. An incident of interest was that Easter Sunday is the only day in the year when there is no work done on the island and on Monday, April 16, the day following Easter, 52,000 immigrants arrived at the island. This, according to the New York papers, was a record-breaking crowd for one day. One can imagine the task when it is realized that those in charge of this work examine on an average of about 5,000 immigrants a day. Mrs. Freeman stated that last year over one million immigrants came to this country. In connection with her talk, Mrs. Freeman gave some special readings of the work at the island, which told of the efforts on the part of the various missionaries.

Rev. A. E. Finn, pastor of the church, also made a few remarks concerning the great need for religious work among those who are constantly arriving here from all the countries of Europe, and he briefly told of the part being taken at Ellis Island by the Baptist missionaries.

As soon as Miss Troeck recovers from her illness, she will go to Ellis Island to secure her presence at one of the missionary meetings.

Miss Ball Heard From.

Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Ball, of Rockview avenue, have received a letter from their daughter, Miss Catherine Ball, who is at Berkeley, across the bay from San Francisco. She writes that she is safe and well and suffered no trouble from the earthquake. Miss Ball is a teacher in the Plainfield Public Schools and was granted a year's leave of absence.

Famous Race Track Sold.

The famous race track at East Millstone owned for many years by the Fleischmanns, has been sold by Udo Fleischmann to New York parties. This is one of the best half mile tracks in the State and many famous trotters and runners owned by the Fleischmanns have been trained there.

Approaching Wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Christopher Kleb, of Fanwood, have issued invitations to the marriage of their daughter, Miss Ruby Gilbert Kleb, and Laurens Hardy Van Buren, of this city. The ceremony will take place at Grace church, Saturday evening, May 12, at 7:30 o'clock.

Guessing on the Senatorship.

"The Montclair Herald" has started early on guessing the name of the successor of United States Senator John F. Dryden. According to "The Herald," the prize will fall to either Governor Stokes or George L. Record.

PLAINFIELD LIBRARY NOTES

A selection of the best books published in 1904 in the Public Library.

Each year the book board of the New York State Library selects and annotates a list of 250 of the best books of the year. Such of these books as are in the Public Library are here given, the annotations being taken from the New York State Library Bulletin.

Drama, Essays, etc.

Phillips, Stephen.—Sin of David.

Of high literary quality. A modern version of the old Hebrew story of David, Uriah, and Bathsheba Scene, England during Cromwellian wars.

Perry, Bliss.—Aamteur spirit.

Other essays: Indifferentism; The life of a college professor; College professors and the public; Hawthorne at North Adams; Fishing with a worm.

Reppiler, Agnes.—Compromises.

As clever and delightfully heretical as her older 'Points of view.' There is the same felicity of bookish allusion, the same keen edged analysis and unfailing wit.

Stephen, Leslie.—English literature and society in the 18th century.

The buoyant and energetic style never flags, holding the reader to the close. We have here the quintessence of our 18th century literature—the rich cream of criticism.

Maeterlinck, Maurice. — Double garden.

Sixteen essays ranging from motor cars and gambling tables at Monte Carlo to destiny of human race. Lackink nother of Maeterlinck's distinctive literary charm but somewhat less abstract and elusive than his former work.

Wells, Carolyn, comp.—Parody anthology.

Grouped by poets parodied, from Spenser parodied by Keats to Kipling as echoed by Guy Wetmore Carryl.

Description and Travel, and History.

Arnim, M. A. B., graflin von.—Adventures of Elizabeth in Rugen.

By the author of "Elizabeth and her German garden.' Elizabeth, accompanied by her coachman and incomparable maid, makes a 12 days' driving tour round the island of Eugen. A guide full of piquant personal flavors.

Hamilton, Angus.—Korea.

Describes people, customs, social and political conditions. Author, English correspondent, some years resident in Far East. Introduction estimates strategic resources of Japan and Russia, December, 1903.

Knox, G. W.—Japanese life in town and country.

Much more of history and influences of older thought than usual in this descriptive sorties. Author prominent student of Japanese Confusianism.

Munsterberg, Hugo.—The Americans.

Popular philosophic study of American political, economic, intellectual and social life. Written for German as compliments his "American traits," addressed to Americans.

Bateson, Mary.—Mediaeval England.

Authoritative, popular account of English society from 1066 to 1350, describing court, nobility, clergy, learning, art, education and town and country life.

Asakawa, Kanichi. — Russo-Japanese conflict: its causes and issues.

Clear, logical presentation of causes leading up to present struggle, diplomatic negotiations, and issues at stake. Author Japanese lecturer on East Asian history and civilization at Dartmouth.

Kakuzo, Okakuro.—Awakening of Japan.

Briefly sketches political and intellectual history, pointing out that the new Japan is the outcome of inherent forces and ideals and that western influences should in many instances be resisted.

Colquhoun, A. R.—Greater America.

Discusses American interests in Asia, the Pacific and the Caribees, problems of national defense, expansion, colonization and government of dependencies.

Hart, A. B., ed.—American nation: a history from original sources by associated scholars. v. 1-5.

By specialists, based on original sources, for general reader. Thus far takes high rank.

Sparks, E. E.—United States of America. 2v.

Not narrative of events, but interpretation of history in its consecutive phases.

Biography.

Talbot, Mrs. E. A.—Samuel Chapman Armstrong.

Simple, sincere story of the life of the founder of Hampton Institute for negroes and Indians.

Conway, M. D.—Autobiography, memoirs and experiences.

Contains reminiscences of most prominent men of his time in England and America. His experience among famous people and historical movements has been rich and varied.

Ruskin, John.—Letters to Charles Eliot Norton. 2v.

Tragic record of the perplexities of a great and generous soul, the troubles of a tender heart, the spendthrift use and at last the failure of exceptional powers. Charles Eliot Norton in preface.

Spencer, Herbert. — Autobiography. 2v.

Will live, by reason of its intellectual elements, and because it is contribution to the intellectual history of the race.

LITERARY.

WAS IT FOR THIS WE MET?

Was it for this we met—to part like this!
Was it for this we loved—to lose this way!
Can this be April reddening into May,
And will the woods grow green, and never mine,
Beneath their boughs the murmur of our bliss,
The happy children of a Summer dawn?
Was it for this we loved—to lose this way!
Was it for this we met—to part like this!

O little haunted river, will you run
Still through the trees and leap the rocks in foam,
Yet hear no more our voices blent with yours?
If thus the painted scene of love endures,
Earth's floor of flowers and heaven's azure dome,
O can the play be ended, quite, quite done?
—Richard Le Gallienne in the May Metropolitan Magazine.

There is a constantly increasing number of magazines of out-of-doors, but a "garden number" of one of the standard magazines is a pleasing novelty, and this is what the May Century offers its readers. "The Gardens of Cornish"—Chat Cornish where so many American artists and writers live and garden—are described by Frances Duncan, author of "Mary's Garden." "The Architectural Treatment of a Small Garden" is discussed; and George W. Cable, the Northampton authority and genial writer, tells how, among "Where to Plant What," a sketch to inspire every reader to set about making things grow. Helen Evertson Smith describes "An Ancient Garden" (an old garden at Sharon, Conn., "sketched in in Revolutionary times)—a garden of delight by the picture of it; Miss Betts furnishes a colored frontispiece of "Nelly Custis in the Mount Vernon Garden," and there is an account, by Francis E. Leupp, Indian commissioner, of "The Old Garden at Mount Vernon." Full advantage is taken of the opportunities for illustration offered by these articles, and a number worthy of May is the result. But there are other notable features in the May Century. The second of the late William Sharp's papers on Sicily, "The Sicilian's Island," is made illustrations by Jay Hambidge. Luther Burbank, the California wonder-worker, in "The Training of the Human Plant," advances some suggestive and radical ideas on the effects and possibilities of heredity, environment and education. It is a paper likely to provoke wide discussion, and so also is Charles Francis Adams' treatment of the race problem in America, under title of "Reflex Light from Africa."

Most notable, perhaps, among several notable articles in the May Everybody's Magazine, is Lindsay Denison's "Making Good at Panama." Mr. Denison's is the first authoritative story of the work being done on the canal. He went to Panama armed with a letter from President Roosevelt instructing all Government officers and employes to tell the bearer the whole truth "whether it hurts or not." "Making Good at Panama" will give you real impressions as if you were looking with your own eyes, and, best of all, the truth will not hurt; it will line you up enthusiastically with the President and Taft and Stevens. "The Condemned-Meat Industry," Upton Sinclair's merchant ready to J. Ogden Armour's defense of the Beef Trust, backed up by documentary evidence, will require a deal of answering. Part II of "The Coal Trust, the Labor Trust, and the People Who Pay," by Thomas Davis, is particularly timely just now—more especially than most of us wish. Thomas W. Lawson recounts a recent experience with Heinze. Readers of Everybody's will recall the chapter some months ago in which he described Heinze; but in spite of that marvelous skinning, Heinze bobs up a few months later with a proposition that Mr. Lawson join forces with him to hornswoggle the public. He showed Mr. Lawson where they could both make millions. "Fresh Air and Their Money" is the suggestive title of the article in which Mr. Lawson tells about it.

By 1895 the partition of Africa had become an established fact. Almost every square mile of its surface having been scrambled for (there is no better word) by the great powers of Europe, the most remarkable circumstance of this gigantic acquisition of territory was the absence if international strife. Africa emerged from the struggle of the chancelleries of Europe to find itself provided with new wards in many directions. Portugal had become the possessor of 3,300,000 square miles of territory, 1,600,000 of which lay in the Great Sahara Desert; Great Britain of 2,200,000; Germany, a new comer, of nearly 1,000,000; Italy, also a new arrival, of 550,000; including a doubtfully assigned claim upon Abyssinia; Spain of 150,000; the three free states or republics—Liberian, Belgian, and Afrikander Dutch—of 1,150,000. The oldest colonizers, Turkey and Portugal, claimed 2,200,000 and 825,000. A total in all of 11,370,000, leaving the poor little fraction of 230,000 unallotted, of which 70,000 lay in the great lakes and most of the remainder in the balance of boundary commissions.

Africa possessed unique, though perhaps untoward features for successful development. Lying mainly, as it does, thirty degrees north and south of the equator, it was essentially the tropical continent. Its physical features resembled no other continent—From "The Railways of Africa," by Col. Sir Percy Girouard in the May Scribner's.

McClure's begins a new volume with May. If the forthcoming numbers are to be gauged by this first one the readers of this magazine have a rare treat ahead of them. Two universally important and interesting series begin: Rudyard Kipling's "Robin Goodfellow—His Friends," and the Life Insurance articles by Burton J. Hendrick. In "The Getturion of the Thirtieth," Kipling comes back to us more the wizard than ever. No one who reads English should miss these stories, for they are about a British-born Roman, who held the great Wall of Hadrian for his Emperor against the "Painted People" and the "Winged Hats," in the days before England was English. "The Story of Life Insurance" for the first time gives both sides of the case, and explains, in a simple consecutive form, the whole story, which for a year we have been trying to glean. The first installment is "The Surplus: The Basis of Corruption," and it tells how certain men have been pulling the surplus down while a few have been struggling to save it. These are facts about the "Before the Deluge" officers that will make you open your eyes. George Edward Woodberry contributes another chapter to his "Great Masters of Literature," throwing some entirely new lights on John Milton.

"Success Magazine" for May makes a feature of the life and accomplishments of George Westinghouse, inventor of the Westinghouse air brake, and the head of the great manufacturing companies of that name all over the world. Arthur Warren, who was associated with him for so many years, presents under the heading, "The Genius of George Westinghouse," an intimate sketch of this great master mind, who has had so much to do with the development of the great American railway systems, and who has maintained his high position without even the shadow of financial or political scandal. In "The Habit of Governing Well.—Manchester," Samuel Merwin gives the second of the suits of municipal government. He describes the business-like administration by the city of Manchester, England, where municipally-owned tramways and gas companies turned over their profits to the city, amounting one year to a reduction of a quarter of a million dollars from the taxes.

One of the liveliest numbers of Good Housekeeping ever issued, and a rich contribution of practical work, that for May. From Ellis Parker Butler's richly humorous sketch, "Her Clothes as Seen by Him," to President Myrick's breezy outline of "Our Great Constructive Policy" of advertising, every department is lively, is interesting and every line counts. Something entirely new, and nationwide in its scope, is involved in Our Constructive Policy. Which College for My Daughter is a searching and fearless but just analysis of the strong and weak points of the various colleges for women. Louise Forsslund, author of Dutchtown Stories, etc., writes entertaingly and suggestively of Woman's Influence in House Decoration, describing the achievements of notable women decorators. Gelett Burgess' illustrated account of a unique dinner diversion known as The Pudding Center Fire Department is highly amusing. A valuable department is devoted to Vacation Plans, there are original and charming designs for homemade lingerie waists, an illustrated article is devoted to the revival of darning, and the regular departments are overflowing with good things.

FLOWERY GLOVES ARE NEW.

If the Easter girl isn't as gorgeous as a butterfly this year, it won't be the fault of those who are preparing her toggeries. From hand to foot she will bloom like a rose, with flowers on her fingers, and flowers on her toes—which is poor poetry, but literal truth, for as everybody can see, all the pretty spring slippers are embroidered with posies, and the very latest thing in gloves is flower-trimmed.

These floral hand coverings are embroidered, of course. A pair of black silk elbow gloves has a lovely design in yellow daisies embroidered right on the back of the hand. Part way up the wrist there is more decoration, and the top is scalloped, buttonholed in yellow and dotted with yellow French knots.

If this seems a little too giddy—though it really is most fetching—observe this long pair of white kid mousquetaires, whereon bloom pale evocuses, or that pair decorated with delicate sprays of lilac blossoms.

Like as not such gloves must be bought to match the flower trimming on the spring bonnet.

Won't the Easter girl be a whole garden of lilies and roses and delights?—Philadelphia Telegraph.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Eaton, of New York, are spending a few days in town. They contemplate returning here to live.

Rev. Dr. Jesse Lyman Hurlbut, of Bloomfield, who gave an illustrated lecture at Vincent Chapel Thursday night, has returned home.

CORRECT BREATHING.

Reasons Why the Air Should Be Taken Through the Nose Instead of the Mouth.

"The nose is an organ with two important functions," says Dr. Kate Lindsay, in the Housekeeper, "it exercises the sense of smell, and acts as an air passage and an air strainer. Infectious disorders of the respiratory organs are usually caused by disease germs in the infected dust in the air inhaled. The nasal passages of the nose are provided with a special air-filtering apparatus which is so perfect in action when the nose is free and the glands and mucus surfaces normal, that no germ can escape alive beyond the outer opening. The cells from which project minute hair-like bodies; the nasal passages and mucus cells secrete a clinkiecing gold when healthy, and this mucus flows outward in tiny streams and washes the little, hair-like projections free from all foul matter, as well as killing all air-borne disease germs. Not only is the air filtered, but it is heated to a proper temperature in entering the bronchial tubes and lungs. The nasal air passage serves to protect the respiratory organs from infection and from irritation due to breathing air of too low a temperature. As most cases of mouth-breathing begin in infancy from repeated attacks of catarrh, the result of taking cold, or some disorder of digestion, mothers should appreciate the need of attending at once to a case of cold in the head or a nursing baby. Often this stopping up of the nose in a nursing infant results in the latter in time, the baby being unable to nurse when its nose is stopped up, because it cannot close its mouth without ceasing to breathe.

The predisposing causes of infantile nasal catarrh are, first, improper washing and dressing of the baby. Another is the inhalation of impure air loaded with dust and foul gases; another is the nicotine-laden atmosphere of father's pipes and cigars. Improper clothing, too much or too little, and failure to the changes of temperature to which it is subjected. Sleeping under the bed clothes, when compelled to sleep with parents and forced to inhale air reeking with foul excretions from the skin and lungs of two adults, are some of the causes which should be remedied."

MISCELLANEOUS.

Strong hot vinegar will remove paint from window glass.

Calicoes ginghams and chintzes should be ironed on the wrong side.

Glass should be washed in cold water, which gives a brighter and clearer appearance to it than when washed in warm water.

Very dirty, greasy towels should not be put into hot soapsuds. This sets the dirt and increase the difficulty of washing them. Wash in luke-warm water first.

The liberal supply of carbonate of soda placed around the kitchen hearth and any other favorite haunt of black beetles will cause their complete disappearance from those places.

Hot Tea and Coffee Stains.—Soak the stained part in cold water, rub, spread out, and put on a few drops of glycerine on each spot. Let it stand several hours then wash with cold water and soap.

Faded carpets should, after beating and sweeping, be rubbed with a cloth wrongside out of ammonia and water—a teaspoonful to half a gallon. The cloth should be turned as it gets dirty, and the water frequently changed.

As soon as a nail driven in the wall gets loose and the plaster begins to break around it, it can be made solid again by the following method: Saturate a bit of wadding with glue, wrap as much of it around the nail as possible, and reinsert the latter in the hole pressing it home as strongly as possible. Remove the excess of glue, using it with a sponge and warm water. Then leave to dry. The nail will thus be firmly fastened in its place.—Good Literature.

DELICIOUS CODDLED EGGS.

Pour Boiling Water Over Eggs in a Hot Dish and Let Stand Covered a Few Minutes.

Until you have eaten a coddled egg you don't know how delicious a soft boiled egg can be. Have your water boiling, and have ready an earthen bowl or jar of some thickness, which you have previously made hot. Place your eggs in the bowl and pour on the boiling water. Then cover the bowl with a tight cover and put over it also a cozy or a folded napkin.

In five or six minutes the eggs will be done, soft boiled to a consistency that is impossible to gain in the ordinary way. One beauty of this plan is that the eggs are placed on the table together with the fruit, cereal and coffee, and by the time one course is finished, the eggs are ready, without the trouble of watching over a stove or of getting up from the table to go after them in the absence of a maid.

To Renew Cane Chairs.

If the seats have become limp and stretched, so that they sink in the center, they may be made as good as new, if some of the strips of cane are broken, by well washing them in hot water and then placing them in a current of air to dry. This causes the cane to tighten up, and when dry, the seat will be quite flat as when first woven.

A Pleasant Odor.

Dried orange peel on a red-hot shovel or hot stove will kill any disagreeable odor and leave pleasant one.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

May 8: "Our Call to Service"—John xv, 16; xvii, 18; Acts i, 8; Rev. xxii, 17; II Cor. ii, 3.

By REV. WALTER J. YATES, D. D.

We are called by Christ to service. Every one who professes to be His follower is commissioned to go forth and call others to discipleship. This is so inevitably a part of our Christian life that there is no surer test of our spiritual condition than the interest which we consciously have in the salvation of others.

The test of magnetism in the piece of steel is its power of affecting other pieces of steel. The test of our discipleship in Christ is our power to bring other men to the Master.

Yet how many who call themselves by His name have never seriously considered it any part of their work to be interested in the spiritual well being of others! How many people of your acquaintance ever spoke a sentence to you outside of meetings on any religious theme? To how many have you ever spoken on the matter of religion unless it was in some church service?

Some would be almost shocked if told they have any responsibility for the salvation of any one but themselves. Is not that the work we pay our minister to do, and if we pay him to do it why should we interfere in his work? This is the way some will put it.

It will be worse than useless to undertake to discharge these duties in a mechanical or routine fashion. Sometimes in periods of revival people with more zeal than discretion feel impressed with their duty to speak to the unconverted and urge them to seek salvation. Even with limited experience and scant sense of social amenities and proprieties, they frequently give grave offense and make mischief where they intended to do good.

The basis for all efficient service of any kind is love. A real and genuine interest in the ones to be reached. There must be heart sympathy for them. Any spirit of harshness will certainly defeat all good intentions. The soul that really and keenly feels for another has a hold which will have influence for good. Study of means of approach and methods of help will be sure to yield results of value. The earnest desire to be helpful to the Master will keep us in constant waiting on Him in the spirit of prayer for guidance and will so pervade us as to give our manners and speech a quality of attractiveness which will draw others to Him.

Let us remember that He has called us and we must call others. Let us make our whole being and all our words and acts one continuous call to men to seek Him.

Service For Christ.

In return for the love which brought the Son of Man down from heaven, in return for the love which led Him to die for us on the cross, we cannot give Him holy lives, for we are not holy; we cannot give Him pure souls, for our souls are not pure. But this one thing we can give, and this is what He asks—hearts that shall never cease from this day forward till we reach the grave to strive to be more like Him, to come nearer to Him, to root Him within us the sin that keeps us from Him. To such a battle I call you in His name. And even if at the last day you shall not be able to show any other service, yet be sure that when thousands of His saints go forth to meet Him and to show His triumph He will turn to embrace with arms of tenderness the poor penitent who has nothing to offer but a life spent in one never ceasing struggle with himself, an unwearied battle with the fiends that had taken possession of his soul.—Frederick Temple.

Silent Worship.

Take time to be silent from all friends and all duties, all cares and all joys; time to be still and quiet before God. Take time not only to secure stillness from man and the world, but from self and its energy. Let the word and prayer be in stillness, and remember even these may hinder the quiet waiting. The activity of the mind in studying the word or giving expression to its thoughts in prayer, the activities of the heart, even its desires and hopes and fears, may so engage us that we do not come to the still waiting on the All Glorious One. Though at first it may appear difficult to know how thus quietly to wait, with the activities of the mind and heart for a time subdued, every effort after it will be rewarded. We shall find that it grows upon us, and the little season of silent worship will bring a peace and a rest that give a blessing not only in prayer, but all the day.—Andrew Murray.

Very Near to Heaven.

We are very near to heaven
When the wondrous snowflakes fall,
When we hear the babbling brook
In the woodland's shady nook,
Or the wild bird's tuneful call.

We are very near to heaven
When we bask in nature's light,
When we see the steadfast stars
Or when cloud their brilliance bars
In the darkness of the night.

We are very near to heaven
Mid the tumult of the seas,
Whether calmly sails our bark
Or to dashing waves we hark
And the blast blows loud and free.

We are very near to heaven
In the presence of the young,
When at eventide the prayer
Comes upward through the air,
With their childish lisping sweet.

We are very near to heaven
When we others' burdens bear,
When in friendship's fervent clasp
Some poor brother's hand we grasp
And with him our lot we share.

We are very near to heaven
When we soothe a troubled soul,
Seek the broken heart to bind
And with tender touch and kind
Strive to make the wounded whole.
—John A. Offord in New York Observer.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning May 6.

By REV. S. H. DOYLE.

Topic.—Among the wheat for the tares, where am I?—Matt. xiii, 24-30. (Consecration meeting.)

The parable of the tares is one that is easily understood and also easy of interpretation. It is one of the sad parables of Christ. It sets forth the fact that God has an enemy and the further fact that man has an enemy willing and desiring to destroy his soul. An enemy of the body is bad enough, but an adversary of the soul is infinitely worse. God sows wheat, but amid this very wheat sown by God Satan sows tares, and tares are not only worthless in themselves, but also injurious to the best development of the wheat. But to bodily uproot the tares endangers the very life of the wheat, and hence Christ declares that wheat and tares are to be allowed to grow until the harvest, when they can safely be separated.

The parable of the tares seems to declare against all discipline in the church. But this cannot be its significance. Discipline is clearly taught in other portions of the Scriptures, and Scripture cannot contradict Scripture, for that would be God contradicting Himself, which is an utter impossibility. It must mean, therefore, that there must be a patient, tolerant spirit in the church of Christ because of the impossibility of having a perfectly pure church in this world, and because extreme intolerance always does more harm than good. Not every trivial offense must be made a subject of discipline by the church. No standard of perfection is to be set up or demanded. For such a church would soon have no members and no adherents, for no one lives a perfect life.

The weakness of human nature is to be taken into consideration and instead of the church being in a continual agitation by the disciplinement of its members it is to be cautious and conservative, forbearing and long suffering, trying to win back by "the charity of meekness" all who have gone astray. The church is not infallible. What seems to it to be wheat may be wheat, and what seems to be wheat is very often found to be but tares. The apostles may have been suspicious of Judas, but they waited for God to expel him from their fellowship. The early church may have had many doubts as to the character of Ananias and Sapphira, but it waited for God to expose them and to punish them.

The topic puts the question of wheat and tares where it should be put. There are tares to have in all are today in our churches and Endeavor societies two classes of members—the good and the bad. And each one should answer for himself the question as to which class he belongs. We ourselves know or can know by self examination whether we are wheat or tares. We know our motives in confessing Christ. We know why we are members of Christ's church. We know the kind of lives that we are living and whether our hearts are really right with God or not. Let us search ourselves deeply and pass judgment only upon ourselves and leave the judgment of others where it belongs—with God. Ask yourself the question in the most searching way possible, Am I wheat or tares? Be honest with God and do not deceive Him. If tares, do not even pull yourself out of God's vineyard. God can transform tares into wheat. In any field he could make the stubbles and thistles good grain. Desire that He transform you. Ask Him to do so, and He will do it, and you'll be no longer a hindrance to the growth of others, but a help to them. Do it, and do it now.

BIBLE READINGS.

Job xx, 4-9; Dan. xii, 2, 3; Matt. vi, 1-7; vii, 1-6, 21-23; xiii, 41-43; John v, 28, 29; Acts v, 1-11; I Tim. iv, 1-5; I Pet. ii, 1-3; Rev. iii, 1.

President of the Irish Union.

Rev. John Pollock is a past master in many arts. Besides the designing of a pretty design for a convention badge to the drafting of a constitution for a national union. The latter has recently been claiming his attention, and as a result they are to have a capital constitution for the European Christian Endeavor union, which will probably come into existence next July, when the world's Christian Endeavor convention meets in Geneva. Rev. John Pollock is chairman of the provincial committee. He has written many of the Christian Endeavor songs most used in the British Isles. His present pastorate is in Belfast, Ireland.

REV. JOHN POLLOCK.

Messages to Committee Workers.

One of our Victorian societies sends these original and ingeniously arranged messages to committee workers:

To president—
You Presidents Should Be Earnestly.
Officers—
Your Powers Shall Crown Endeavorers.
Prayer meeting committee—
You Pray Silently Concerning Endeavorers.
Lookout committee—
You Pay Some Calls Evenings.
You Pacify Some Cranky Endeavorer.
Social committee—
You Pour Sunshine Continually Effectual.
Your Plants Surely Cheer Everybody.
Missionary—
You Put Some Christianity Everywhere.
Young Prohibitionists Shall Conquer Evils.
—Australian Christian Endeavor Link.

ADVANTAGE IN BEING DEAD

Obituary Notice of Value in Case of an Application for a Loan.

Col. Henry Watterson tells of the astonishment and chagrin with which a certain well-known citizen of Louisville, named Jenkins, read a long obituary of himself printed in a morning paper of that city, relates the Success Magazine. He at once proceeded to the editorial office of the paper and, after much difficulty, succeeded in obtaining an audience of the busy city editor. Laying a copy of the paper before him, he observed in a mild, almost humble way, that he had come to see if the city editor could "tell him" anything about it.

With a snort of impatience the busy editor grasped the paper and hastily read the article. "It appears to be an obituary of one Jenkins," he growled. "What is there to tell about it? What's the matter with you, anyhow?"

"Oh, nothing especially," responded the mild Jenkins, "only I thought I'd like to know how the obituary came to be printed; that's all."

"Came to be printed?" repeated the editor, in irritated tones; "why, the man died, of course. My paper doesn't print obituary notices of living men."

"Perhaps not, as a rule," gently replied the visitor, "but in this case I happen to be the Jenkins referred to."

Thereupon the city editor began a profuse apology, "because a correction is one," he said.

"Well, after all," observed the mild Jenkins, "perhaps it would be better to let it stand; I'll show it to my friends when they try to borrow money of me."

HIGH FINANCE IN OLD ROME

Modern Spendthrifts Not to Be Compared with Antony and Caligula.

That the accumulation of vast fortunes was a possible in ancient Rome as it is in the United States to-day is shown in a Scrap Book in the following table compiled from authoritative records.

While it may be true that the wealth of the czar of Russia and John D. Rockefeller may exceed nearly all of these, there is no doubt that there is no question of the fact that as spenders of enormous fortunes Antony and Caligula have never been surpassed:

Croesans' landed estate was valued at	$ 4,333,300
His house was valued at	400,000
Cassius Isidorus, after having lost much, left	5,200,000
Demetrius, a freedman of Pompey, was worth	1,875,000
Lentulus, the augur, no less than	16,666,600
Tullius, Maximus, Rome, paid for his house	700,000
He once swallowed a pearl worth	60,000
Apicius was worth more than	5,000,000
His poisoned himself after he had spent in his kitchen and otherwise squandered immense sums in the pursuit of	4,160,000
The establishment belonging to M. Scaurus, and burned at Tusculum, was valued at	4,166,000
Gifts and bribes may be considered as a part of his fortune	200,000
Caesar presented Servilia, the mother of Brutus, with a pearl worth	200,000
Paulus, the consul, was bribed by Caesar with	200,000
Curio contracted debts to the amount of	2,500,000
Milo contracted one debt of	2,813,000
Antony owned one estate of	2,000,000
Marcus, which he paid before the calends of April	1,600,000
Sebeon had a fund of	37,500,000
Tiberius left at his death and Caligula spent in less than nine months	118,120,000

Jury Paid the Fine.

A Texas correspondent tells how an obstinate juryman was circumvented by his fellow judges of the facts. The offense charged was assault with intent to murder. After the jury had been out about two hours it returned the following verdict: "We, the jury, find the defendant guilty of aggravated assault and assess his punishment at $25 fine and herewith pay the fine." On inquiry as to the meaning of the last clause of the verdict it came out that 11 of the jurors had decided that the defendant was not guilty, but the twelfth doggedly hung out for a conviction for aggravated assault and would not consent to a punishment less than a fine of $25. Finding it a hopeless task to bring over the obstinate one to their way of thinking, the 11 finally decided to agree with him and "chipped in" enough to pay the fine.—Law Notes.

Alfonso's Wilfulness.

King Alfonso of Spain was so deeply interested in the recent balloon tournament near Madrid that he followed the airships in his motor car, determined to see their descent. Finding one of the still inflated balloons stranded in a field, where it had been left by its owner for a time, he jumped into the car and announced his intention to cut it loose from anchorage. His aid begged the king not to undertake such a perilous journey, but the young monarch was not to be dissuaded. He was just drawing his sword to cut the anchor ropes when the aid quickly slit the silk envelope of the balloon with his saber, and at once all possibility of ascent was out of the question. Alfonso was furiously angry for a moment, but later forgave the aid.

Something to Be Thankful For.

"Had a good day?" said one stockbroker to another.

The other shrugged his shoulders with a gesture of depression.

"Everything I sold went up, everything I bought went down," he answered in a tone of deepest gloom.

Then the bright side of the situation occurred to him. "Thank goodness, they can't go sideways," he added, with heartfelt thankfulness.—Stray Stories.

That Depends.

She—Do you think silence is golden?
He—Not in my business.
motor.—Detroit Free Press.

THE GOLF SEASON OPENS

Course of Plainfield Country Club Well Occupied All Saturday.

CUP CONTEST STARTS

First Points Won by Edward J. Patterson; Second and Third by W. B. Tyler and C. A. Stover.

The Plainfield Country Club had an auspicious opening on Saturday, the delightful weather having a tendency to attract a large number of enthusiasts to the clubhouse and course. Throughout the day the course was well occupied with players, many of them taking part in the opening events scheduled. Although the links are in what is considered good condition, the ground is a little soft in some places and for that reason play on the regular greens is prohibited for the present. This did not interfere with the play on Saturday to any extent.

Many improvements have been made about the clubhouse, as well as on the course, all of which are appreciated and enjoyed by the members. The clubhouse has been thoroughly renovated and the restaurant was opened on Saturday. Many members took occasion to visit there and enjoy the privileges. Everything has a bright, clean and attractive appearance and with the additional room is sure to be exceedingly popular during the season. One of the improvements about the grounds is the cinder path, almost completed, which extends from the end of the trolley at the entrance to the course to a point near the clubhouse. By the use of this dumping across the course will be unnecessary.

The new system for the caddies was used for the first time on Saturday and worked satisfactory. Now every caddy will be registered and will have to take his turn. Martin O'Loughlin is in charge of the boys and gives good service.

Considerable interest was shown in the initial play for the Golf Committee cup, a weekly competition, the same as last year. Edward J. Patterson won the first three points with a score of 75. W. B. Tyler won two points with a score of 78, while Chas. A. Stover took the third point, returning a score of 82. The other scores were good, considering that it was the first day out for some of the players. These scores were returned for the Golf Committee cup:

Edward J. Patterson, 98, 23-75; W. B. Tyler, 92, 13-78; Charles A. Stover, 92, 10-82; Stuart H. Patterson, 100, 17-83; D. H. Rowland, 99, 14-85; W. Lester Glenney, 85, plus 2-87; S. D. Lounsbery, 94, 7-87; Henry D. Hibbard, 94, 5-89; W. L. Glenney, 108, 19-89; A. E. Barclay, 113, 17-95; C. B. Andrews, 112, 16-96; J. P. Murray, 111, 13-98; W. F. Merrill, 116, 17-99; L. R. Hopton, 133, 21-112.

In line for the opening day cups for the best gross and best net scores, W. Lester Glenney won the cup for the best score, returning an 85, while Edward J. Patterson won the other cup with a score of 75. The scores:

Edward J. Patterson, 98, 23-75; E. A. Stevenson, 104, 27-77; W. B. Tyler, 97, 19-78; Alex. Gilbert, 106, 27-79; D. H. Rowland, 95, 14-81; Stuart H. Patterson, 100, 17-83; W. Lester Glenney, 85, plus 2-87; W. L. C. Glenney, 108, 19-89; Henry D. Hibbard, 94, 5-89; Townsend Rushmore, 102, 13-89; A. E. Barclay, 113, 17-95; C. B. Andrews, 112, 16-96; W. F. Merrill, 116, 17-99; M. D. Rae, 110, 10-100; L. R. Hopton, 133, 21-112.

A Newspaper You Must Have.

These special features make next Sunday's North American the greatest Sunday newspaper ever offered in this territory:

Fiction Section.—First instalment of "A Rock in the Baltic," corking romance by Robert Barr. Printed before book publication. Complete during month of May. First of $150,000 series of twelve novels by great authors. One each month.

Baseball Section.—Sixteen pages in color. Contains schedules, records and prospects of national game in big leagues, minor leagues and among the semi-professional and amateur clubs. Articles by experts and players. Scores of pictures.

A Sunday Gallery—To be cut out and mounted. Scientific and practical. For rainy days and evenings at home. When properly mounted it is as good as any 25-cent game that you can buy.

An Art Supplement—A picture of the champion athletics. American League. Fine printing. Perfect photographic reproduction. Ready for framing.

Regular big Sunday section and newspaper.

Orders must come early. Demand never equaled.

This will be the biggest and best Sunday issue of a newspaper printed in Philadelphia.

"Cuba and Porto Rico."

The monthly meeting of the Women's Home Missionary Society of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church will be held Friday afternoon at 2:30. The topic will be "Cuba and Porto Rico." The programme given [illegible] number of the Home [illegible] will be used.

GETS BACK FROM FRISCO

Charles R. Vincent Describes His Experience in the Earthquake.

IN A HOTEL AT THE TIME

Plaster Fell On Him As He Dressed Put Plains Man Got a Breakfast Before Fleeing From Hostelry.

"Back from the jaws of death," Charles R. Vincent, of Fanwood, reached his home on Saturday after experiencing all the perils and hardships that befell those fortunate enough to escape being killed in the San Francisco earthquake. He is the first nearby resident to return after the terrible disaster, and though the story is familiar because of newspaper accounts, personal narration brings it nearer home. Mr. Vincent was in the stricken city on business and had been stopping at the St. Frances hotel, one of the largest hotels in California, which escaped wrecking by the seismic shocks only to fall prey to the hungry flames that devastated miles of territory.

"Like the majority of the residents," said Mr. Vincent to a Daily Press reporter to-day, "I was asleep when the first shock came at 5:13 on that eventful Wednesday. I was aroused by the shaking and trembling of the hotel and leaping out of bed discovered the entire city to be rocking as would a ship in a storm. The buildings were swaying and many of the smaller structures were toppling into the street. Although badly shaken, the St. Frances withstood the vibration and it occurred to me that I was just as safe in my room as anywhere else. Plaster cracked and fell all about me but I dressed with care and after securing my effects, made my way downstairs.

"Downstairs everybody was excited but the management made an attempt to serve breakfast and each guest who could be rounded up was given coffee and rolls. It was the last meal served in the place as it was burned soon afterward.

I ventured into the streets and with difficulty made my way along. Evidences of the dreadful earthquake were everywhere; buildings in ruins or badly wrecked, darting up here and there and the people running hither and thither bemoaning lost ones and the destruction of property. The firemen made gallent efforts to prevent a conflagration but without success as the mains were broken and barely enough water could be secured for drinking purposes.

"To add to the terror of the situation, a report that the whole country had been shaken spread like wildfire and everybody believed that New York and Chicago were in ruins. The panic, instead of diminishing, increased every minute, and disorder prevailed until the arrival of the state militia at 8 o'clock, the companies taking charge of the city. Their presence stopped looting and they conducted the dynamiting to stop the fire from spreading."

Mr. Vincent spent Wednesday night without covering of any kind in Alamo Park and remained in the city until Friday when he started East. In detailing his experience he declared the newspaper men have overdrawn the pictures and the scenes he witnessed could never be adequately described.

BLAZING STREAMS

IMPERILLED SHIPS.

Spectacular Fire at Elizabethport—

Bayway Oil Plant Damaged $45,000.

The plant of the Bayway Oil Refining Company, on South Front street and Staten Island Sound, at Elizabethport, was damaged $45,000 by a fire which began at midnight Saturday and burned until 8 o'clock Sunday morning. The entire Elizabeth Fire Department, aided by Fireboat Erie, owned by President William T. Cox, of Elizabeth's Board of Fire Commissioners, and the engine, steamboat and tug of the Standard Chemical Company, fought the blaze.

It was the most spectacular fire seen in Elizabeth in years, and was watched by fully 10,000 persons. Four large oil tanks exploded with terrific reports. Blazing oil floated on the water into Staten Island Sound, making a brilliant sight, and for a time imperilling shipping. Fortunately there war little wind, and an ebb tide helped to prevent the flames from spreading to the big fleet of the New Jersey Dry Dock Company, the extensive lumber yard of Frederick L. and August Heidritter, and the large plant of the William H. Rankin Tar Roofing Paper Company.

The buildings destroyed were the mixing department, the cooper shop, the barrel shed, containing more than 1,000 empty barrels, and some minor structures. This is the second time the plant has been on fire. By the former blaze $50,000 was lost. Yesterday's fire started in the compound room and was discovered by J. L. Correy, the night watchman. Its origin is unknown.

Crescent Team Wins.

The Crescent Athletic Club swamped the Jackson A. C. by the score of 26 to 1 at Mountain avenue Saturday morning.

THREE SISTER ORGANIZATIONS

In Charge of Plainfield Council Ceremony.

SOME SPEECHES, TOO

State Councilor and State Council Secretary Both Present—The First Officers.

With a charter list of forty-five members, Plainfield Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., was instituted Monday in Junior Hall by the combined initiatory team from Franklin, Benevolent and Somerset Councils, of this city, assisted by a detachment of Juniors from Co. K. State Councilor Rev. Mr. Mount, of Asbury Park, and State Council Secretary William H. Mier, of Trenton, were also present and took part in the ceremonies. Delegations attended from the other three councils of this city and those of nearby towns.

The institution and initiation were in charge of these officers from the local councils: Franklin Council—Past Councilor Russell Hazard and Warden Harry Goelier; Somerset Council—Vice Councilor J. A. Dow, Outside Sentinel E. D. Ga Nun; Inside Sentinel C. F. Hulit; Benevolent Council—Past Councilor G. Adams, Conductor Horace G. Adams, Chaplain Raymond Carver.

These are the officers of the new council:

Councilor, Winfield S. Angleman; vice councilor, George B. Cratsley; recording secretary, Julius G. Williams; assistant recording secretary, F. E. Sebring; financial secretary, Harry H. Webb; treasurer, George W. V. Moy; conductor, Dr. R. D. Tomlinson; warden, Daniel G. Van-Winkle; inside sentinel, Theodore Lister; outside sentinel, Charles T. Leland; representative to State Council, Peter H. Bennett; trustee until July 1, 1906, Peter H. Bennett; trustee for six months, John Franklin; trustee for one year, Winfield S. Angleman.

After the initiatory and institution work and the officers were inducted into office, the rest of the evening was devoted to speech-making, beginning with Councilor Winfield S. Angleman, and the other officers. Remarks were also made by State Councilor Mount, Secretary Mier, and Rev. W. E. Roberson, the new pastor of the Monroe Avenue M. E. church.

The new council will meet every Monday night in Junior Hall and the prospects for a strong organization are good. Several persons are now waiting to join and it is quite likely that at the next meeting they will be initiated.

WHOOPING IT UP FOR LANKY BOB

FITZ'S 40 CENT TIP CHANGES THE MIND OF "PROF" GEORGE RUGGLES.

"Dat man Fitz is de real stuff. I do honestly believe dat he can done knock de block off of any of 'dese guys dot done call demselves pugilists. Fitz for me, he can lick any of 'em." "Prof." George Washington Ruggles, champion bootblack of Plainfield in a statement yesterday.

George Ruggles has followed prize fighters all his life. He has always been a great admirer of James J. Corbett, who was knocked out by Fitz eight years ago. Corbett's defeat did not tend to diminish Mr. Ruggles' admiration one iota, on the contrary it only tended to increase his faith to the extent that his pocketbook suffered on several occasions. During his career Mr. Ruggles has expended a good many pounds of steam in well put arguments trying *to convert other sports to his be*liefs with regard to Corbett. Fitz didn't have to introduce himself. George had seen his face in thousands of cartoons, read thousands of papers about him—but to shine the great man's shoes—well he never thought he would have such a golden opportunity—and so he shined.

"Prof." Ruggles, generally speaking, hasn't much love for people with big feet, but this didn't count for a cent in the case of Fitz. George gave him a tripple decked XXX polish and he derived more pleasure from shining the champion's shoes than he has had in a single afternoon for some time.

When it was all over Fitz went down into his "jeans," pulled out a bright half dollar and told George to keep the change.

This thoughtful act of Fitz touched George's heart. He had been converted and is proclaiming that there isn't a stronger man in the wide world who can show Fitz anything in the punching line. "I always thought Corbett was a good man, but Fitz is the king of 'em all. He's good enough for my money. He is by the only real scrapper since the days of John L. Sullivan and will be the champion again." (Amens and you're right, you're right," from the crowd.)

"Yes, and he'll knock the pins from under that bloke by the name of Burns.—Who is he, anyhow?—Jack' O'Brien,also. Fitz can knock the pair out in one night."

ESCAPED ONE SMASH TO SUFFER ANOTHER

PENEY DODGED GATES AND TRAIN TO SEND RUNAWAY IN GULLY.

Silas Peney, who works for D. F. Glinn, on Woodbrook farm, his wife and two children, started to drive from the farm to this city Saturday night. Near the Lehigh Valley railroad crossing the horse was scared by the whistle of an approaching train and started to jump. Peney pulled sharply on the reins and the bit broke. The horse, completely uncontrolled, leaped forward at full speed.

Peney yelled desperately to the gateman to raise the gates, which had been lowered as the train approached. The gateman swiftly calculated between train and horse and saw that the chance to prevent a smashup was good. He raised the gates just as the horse rocketed them, and the runaway clattered across the track.

The crossing was made well in front of the train, and Peney was congratulating himself on the other side of the track when the wheels on one side of the wagon slid down the bank at the side of the road into a deep gully. The rig overturned, throwing the Peney family in all directions. The horse, dragging the wagon on its side, went on at the same clip.

Peney, his wife and one of the children escaped with cuts, bruises and soiled clothes, but the other child was severely hurt. It was rendered unconscious and its head seemed hurt. It was taken home at once and placed under the care of a Metuchen doctor. The latter was still unable to tell the full extent of its injuries yesterday.

The horse was stopped in South Plainfield. The wagon was found all along the road.

ORDERS ARE ISSUED FOR REGIMENT'S INSPECTION.

Substitutes Not Permissible In Place of Regulars Under Eagle Eye of Seaching Officer.

Colonel Collins, through Adjutant John M. Rogers, has issued orders for the inspection of the Second regiment by National Guard officers. The order follows:

In compliance with general orders No. 1, headquarters Second brigade, Trenton, April 23, 1906, the annual inspection of the various organizations of this regiment will be made on the dates hereto designated:

Field staff, non-commissioned staff, band and field music, Companies A, B, D and E, at the armory, Trenton, June 4; Companies C and I, at drill hall, Elizabeth, May 11; Company F, at drill hall, Lambertville, May 17; Company G, at drill hall, Freehold, May 15; Company H, at drill hall, New Brunswick, May 10; Company K, at drill hall, Plainfield, May 14; Company L, at drill hall, Princeton, May 21; Company M, at drill hall, Somerville, May 28.

Any uniform to be worn at this inspection will be cap, blouse, blue shirt, trousers with leggings, black shoes and white gloves.

At the inspection there shall be furnished by each company commanding officer muster rolls in triplicate of the company, which shall have endorsed thereon a certificate of the average number present at all company drills and pa*rades throughout the year.* The muster rolls will be examined by the inspector, and by him certified to as to the military appearance, condition of arms, equipments, clothing and company books.

Under no circumstances will any substitute be accepted or permitted to parade for inspection. Surgeons' certificates will be present for all reported as "absent sick," and a copy of the furlough for all "absent with leave." Those absent without leave will be tried by court-martial as soon as possible after the inspection.

Such transportation as may be necessary will be furnished by the quartermaster-general on approved requisition forwarded through the regular channels.

Battalion commanders will attend the inspections of the companies of their battalions.

Company commandants will forward return, as soon as possible after the inspection, of the officers and enlisted men present and absent.

A Very Busy Week at the Casino.

Because of the occupancy of the Casino by the Plainfield Operatic Association, in preparation for "Patience" next week, there is a lull at the Casino. Next week the Oshkosh Club will have entire possession of the pretty play house, rehearsals taking up the first four nights and the performances on Friday and Saturday. The seats are selling rapidly for the show.

First Baptist Church Gives $111.26.

In part the First Baptist church and congregation has contributed $111.26 through The Daily Press fund for the relief of the San Francisco sufferers, and this will be forwarded with other contributions through The Plainfield Trust Company to San Francisco.

UNION CO. COURT OPENS

Number of Cases are Transferred to Circuit Court.

MURDER CASE CHARGE

Justice Fort and Judge Vail on the Bench—Plainfielders On Grand Jury.

The May term of the Union County courts opened at Elizabeth Monday morning with Justice Fort on the bench. Owing to the fact that there are no cases of great importance on this term the attendance at the opening was small, although there was the usual number of lawyers in attendance.

In the selection of the Grand Jury, Postmaster Palmer H. Charlock, of Elizabeth, was made foreman. The Plainfield members are Augustus Jenkins, William A. Westphal, J. J. Kenney and George O. Stevens.

Justice Fort's charge to the jury was brief.—He said that there was only one case of magnitude that would come before it, the recent Italian murder on Cottage place, this city. He said that from what he could learn the two Italians were en*gaged in a quarrel, that Francesco* Cerbo, who is charged with killing Paoli Sacco, in a room, loaded his revolver and when he returned, Succo shot at him first. Justice Fort said that if the jury learned that murder was committed with malicious intent, an indictment should be returned. If it was evinced that the shooting was done with malicious intent an indictment for manslaughter should be returned. On the other hand if the killing was in self-defense no indictment should be returned.

All of the Circuit Court causes were put off until Monday, May 14. In the meantime it is likely that another Circuit Court judge will probably be appointed, Foster M. Voorhees having declined the appointment. There is a rumor that Judge Vail may get the position.

The list of Supreme Court causes of interest to Plainfield are as follows:

Armitage T. Oakley and Anna K. Oakley, by his wife, against John P. Emmons, et. al., executors, on contract; W. S. Angleman for the plaintiff, Isaac P. Runyon for the defendant; Lemuel B. Woolston, et. al., partners, against Ellsworth D. Middlekauff, on contract; Reed & Coddington for the plaintiff and James P. Powers for the defendant; Fred M. Meelick against the Lehigh Railroad Company, of New Jersey, in tort, referred to the Circuit Court; G. W. V. Moy for the plaintiff and N. C. J. English for the defendant; Garret A. Powers against John P. Powers, on contract; Edward Kenny for the plaintiff, and Reed & Coddington for the defendant; referred to the Circuit Court; Ira C. Bowers, administrator, against Elizabeth, Plainfield and Central Jersey Railway Company, et. al., in tort; William G. De Mesa for the plaintiff and John A. Bernhard for the defendant; referred to the Circuit Court; Isaac Richards and Gussie Richards, his wife, against Frederick M. Masker, in tort; William Newcorn for the plaintiff and Craig A. Marsh for the defendant; referred to the Circuit Court; George H. Jones against the Calvary Baptist church, on contract, William Newcorn for the plaintiff and Harry C. Runyon for the defendant; to be tried before Judge Vail without jury.

The Circuit Court causes listed are as follows:

Charles F. Stahl, et. al., against John Rafferty, on contract; Isaac P. Runyon for the plaintiff and James P. Powers for the defendant; Abraham Shanbron against John B. Cornell, et. al., partners, etc., as Plainfield Brass Foundry, on contract; John P. Owens for the plaintiff and William G. De Mesa for the defendant; Aaron D. Thompson against Ellsworth Middlekauff, on contract; Raymond T. Parker for the plaintiff and James P. Powers; issue joined March 1, 1906.

Among the justice jury appeal cases are the following:

Frederick W. Yates, trustee, etc., *appellant, against George Staats, ap*pellee, on contract; Louis A. Clement for the plaintiff and Francis J. Blair for the defendant; Samuel W. Rushmore, appellant, against Charles Vincent, appellee; Riker & Riker for the plaintiff and L. D. H. Gilmour for the defendant.

FRESH AIR CAMP OPENING.

Netherwood Institution Will Start Up Again July 2.

Preliminary arrangements for the opening of the Netherwood Fresh Air Camp were discussed by the executive committee at a meeting last night. The session was brief.

Miss Carry, the matron, was there to give the committee an idea of the supplies needed for the institution. She will bring her first batch of tots on July 2.

The home will not be enlarged. Minor improvements are being made, but the project to build an auditorium, for which the Hand legacy was left, has been put over for the present.

G. E. Hall presided over the meeting in the absence of Rev. E. M. Rodman, whose wife died Sunday.

JUNIOR PLAY A SUCCESS

"A Proposal Under Difficulties," Produced Saturday Night at the P. H. S. AUDITORIUM FILLED

J. N. Van Deventer and Miss Berry Do Star Work—Other Numbers Rendered.

The largest audience of the season greeted the annual junior class entertainment at the Plainfield High School Saturday night. The programme, which was rendered in the auditorium of the building, consisted of four numbers, the last, the event of the evening, being entitled "A Proposal Under Difficulties," a farce in one act, by John Kendrick Bangs.

The entertainment opened with a selection by the Plainfield High School orchestra, S. B. Howe, Jr., of the faculty, acting as director of the orchestra.

The second number was a one act play entitled "The Courtin'," by James Russell Lowell, and the quaint wit introduced was greeted enthusiastically by the audience. Miss Elizabeth Pound did all the reading for this number, while the action of the play was confined to Roy Dutcher, as Lekie; Paul Brakeley, as Huldy; and Miss Cornelia Lounsbury, as Ma.

A selection by the Plainfield High School male quartette followed, and as at past performances, the work of these young men found many admirers.

The final and most important number on the programme was about the best of its kind produced in recent years by any junior class at the Plainfield High School. As the title "A Proposal Under Difficulties" suggests, the play was a love story, and by its complications had the audience in a state of uproar nearly the entire time.

The story tells of how Robert Yardsley and Jack Barlow are suitors for the hand of Dorothy Andrews, a beautiful young lady. Yardsley wishes to get the best of Barlow, as is natural, and he screws his courage up to make a proposal. He enters Dorothy's home and waits for her to come downstairs. While waiting he begins to lose confidence in himself and as he rehearse his proposal. He falls before a sofa and begins, but fails to notice the entrance of Jennie, the maid, who stands by. He finishes his proposal, and Jennie thinking it for her does not know what to make out of it, because she is already engaged to Hicks, the coachman. Yardsley is enraged to think that Jennie has heard him but tries to bribe her. Just then Barlow enters, and Yardsley tries to coax him to leave, but to no avail. Just then Dorothy Andrews enters.

In the conversation that follows each fellow tries to be more brilliant than the other in his speech. While all are drinking tea, Jennie, the maid, comes in to give Yardsley her answer. Dorothy demands an explanation first from Jennie, who seems to tell the truth. Then Yardsley explains his side of the story and Jennie says he tells the truth. Dorothy is convinced that Yardsley is straight and consents to be his wife under the very nose of Barlow, who consents to be best man. Jennie gets Hicks again, too.

Joseph Van Deventer, as Yardsley, in the leading part, did excellently, and shows that he has much dramatic talent. Miss Mildred Berry, as Dorothy Andrews, shows much ability in the way she interpreted her part. Fred Smith, as Barlow, Miss Helen Johnson, as Jennie, and Samuel Reid, Jr., as Hicks, the remainder of the cast, performed finely.

The affair is regarded as a most successful one from all points of view. Miss Mabel Manson, of the Plainfield High School faculty, assisted by Clarence Heaume, and Percy Mygrant, furnished dance music for the young folks.

The credit for the success of the affair falls in large measure to Miss Adriadne Gilbert, Miss E. M. Howard and Miss M. E. Ferry, members of the Plainfield High School faculty, who have labored tediously, coaching the play to be the success it was.

Fisherman's Luck.

Charged with fishing with a net within 900 feet of the dam at Bound Brook, Timothy Dorn and Daniel O'Keefe, of South Bound Brook, were arrested last week by Game Warden Miller. Yesterday they were arraigned before Justice Sutphen, who released O'Keefe, because there was not enough evidence to hold him, and fined Dorn $25 or 50 days in the county jail. He was committed.

Engagement Announced.

Announcement is made of the engagement of Miss Ada Dunham, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Garret T. Dunham, of West Front street, to Willard Martin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Horace J. Martin, of Watchung avenue.

Dr. Wilcox's Mother Dead.

Mrs. E. C. Wilcox, mother of Dr. F. E. Wilcox, of Crescent avenue, died Sunday night at the home of her son, A. C. Wilcox, in New Rochelle, N. Y. The interment will be at McPherson, Kansas. Dr. Wilcox will accompany the remains.

"FITZ" IS LOCATED HERE

Ex-Champion Pugilist Will Train on the Stage of the New Plainfield Theatre.

STAYING AT IROQUOIS

Will Give a Performance at the Local Playhouse for the Benefit of the San Francisco Fund.

It is now an assured fact "Lanky Bob" Fitzsimmons, ex-champion heavyweight pugilist of the world, will train in this city for his coming fight with "Kid Burns, of Philadelphia, on Decoration Day. The big fellow likes Plainfield, he said so from the start, and Sunday all his paraphernalia arrived in town and was installed on the stage of the New Plainfield theatre. He will go there each day to punch the bag and perform other stunts to build up his muscle and get himself in something like his old time form.

The season at the theatre closes next Monday night and the stage was secured from Manager Counihan by "Bob" himself, the two having been close acquaintances for many years. The treatment accorded him by the theatrical man made him fall completely in love with the city and when he was given the glad hand by Proprietor Leary at the Iroquois his cup of happiness was complete. The Iroquois will be his home and Mrs. Fitzsimmons will join him there this week. With her will come the world-famous Fitzsimmons team of hays and enough vehicles to equip an ordinary livery. The good roads in and about Plainfield caught Fitz's practiced eye and he will undoubtedly cover the greater part of them before he goes away.

To a Daily Press reporter today, the big-hearted pugilist announced that some time within a week he would give a performance at the New Plainfield for the benefit of the San Francisco relief fund. He and his wife have been appearing in vaudeville for the past year and they will give their sketch exactly as it was put on the New York stages. In addition Fitz will have some of his professional friends to assist him and he will demonstrate the art of boxing and scientific bag punching and show the audience just what a heavyweight should get in shape for a fight. Each penny received will go into the fund, Manager Counihan having offered his end gratis also.

The ex-champion has also promised Mayor Smalley that he will attend the opening game of the Plainfield team Saturday and do anything to start things going. The management has decreed that he throw the first ball over the plate and that Mayor Smalley catch it.

"I'll umpire the bases if they want me to," said Fitz, full of enthusiasm, "or even do a boxing stunt; anything ye' know, just to let the Plainfield boys know I 'm with 'em."

"Bob" is still negotiating for the Edward White property at Dunellen and it is practically a certainty that he will get it for his proposed physical culture school.

"I will take the place if the deed and title are all right," he said today, "and my lawyer is looking that part of the deal up now. I'm satisfied they're all right; the delay is only a formality."

BOUQUET FOR DIRECTOR.

Y. M. C. A. Orchestra Marks the Close of Concert Series.

The Y. M. C. A. orchestra, in repeating the programme of a week ago, Monday, played its last concert of the present season. There was a large audience, and the playing pleased it. Applause was frequent and generous.

Toward the close of the second part, a bouquet of big Jack roses was handed to Director Martin A. Korff across the footlights. Surprised at the gift of the players, for the perfection of whose concert work he has labored long and faithfully. The cluster contained twenty-three roses, equalling the number of concerts given.

Another feature of the concert was a collection for the benefit of the Y. M. C. A. Emergency and Relief Fund. The offering was generous.

At the Park Club.

Although the round of functions which marked the Easter season at the Park Club is over, there is still a well defined activity in the social life of that club. Quite a number of the members were at the club house, Saturday evening, when a bridge whist was in order. The bowling alleys, which have been rather deserted, now that the warm weather is at hand, were quite popular for the evening. Members of the Comedy Club, together with a few favored friends, were on hand for the rehearsal of the farce, "On Change," which is to be given for the public Friday evening.

Postponed Opening Until Fall.

The work of alteration is now going on at the new parish house of St. Stephen's church. There will be two guild rooms for the women, one also being used for the library and reading room. It has been decided to postpone the opening of the parish house until fall, at which time it is hoped to have Bishop Scarborough present to make an address. It is proposed to make the occasion a notable one.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

VOL. XXXVIII. PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, MAY 10, 1906 NO 10.

"Support the Constitution, which is the Cement of the Union, as well in its Limitations as in its Authorities."—Madison.

CONVENTION OF DIOCESE

Bishop Scarborough Presides at Opening Session at Atlantic City.

PLAINFIELDERS THERE

Howard Fleming on New Parishes Committee; J. B. Dumont On Finance Committee—The Plans.

The 134th annual convocation of the diocese of New Jersey opened in the St. James' P. E. church, Atlantic City, yesterday. The sermon was preached by the Rev. Hamilton Schuyler, of Trenton, and was followed by the celebration of the holy communion by the Right Rev. Bishop Scarborough, assisted by Dean Baker of the convocation of New Brunswick, and Dean Perkins, of the convocation of Burlington. Rev. E. M. Rodman, Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson, Rev. A. C. Peck and Rev. George A. Warner, of Plainfield, were present, together with lay delegates of Grace, St. Stephen's and Holy Cross churches, of this city.

The convention was called to order by Bishop Scarborough. At the conclusion of the services the Rev. Chas. Fiske, of Somerville, was elected secretary, vice the Rev. Herbert Stanley Smith, who has gone out of the country. The Rev. Howard E. Thompson, of Freehold, was appointed assistant.

These preliminaries out of the way, Bishop Scarborough named the following committees:

Rules of Order—The Rev. H. S. Sleeper, Elizabeth; the Rev. Samuel H. Jobe, Bordentown; the Rev. M. M. P. Pierce, South Amboy; James H. Carpenter, Camden; William J. Harrison, Lakewood; General A. A. Woodhull, Princeton.

Unfinished Business—The Rev. W. Dutton Dale, New Brunswick; the Rev. Gilbert R. Underhill, Camden; the Rev. William G. Sneed, Riverly; H. A. Rambo and J. Forman Sinnickson, Salem.

Certificates of Lay Deputies—Messrs. Harry Humphries, Camden; Warren R. Dicks, Philadelphia; Charles W. Buck, Freehold; Franklin B. Lewis, Mount Holly; H. A. Smith, Somerville.

Admission for new Parishes—The Rev. J. Brogder Shepard, Princeton; James L. Lancaster, Perth Amboy; the Rev. Robert McKay, D. D., Moorestown; Messrs. Bayard Stockton, Princeton; John J. Pearse, South Amboy; Howard Fleming, Plainfield.

Finance—Charles Ewan Merritt, Ht. Holly; John M. Carpenter, New Brunswick; Augustus DeVoe, Spottswood; J. Bingham Woodward, Bordentown; John B. Dumont, Plainfield; William D'Oller, Burlington.

There is a plan on foot to change the method of naming the standing committee, which is really an advisory committee to the bishop. There is a feeling among some of the younger members of the diocese that they would like the opportunity of being named on that, one of the most important of all committees and in the past it has been so that once a man was named it meant that he might be on the committee continuously. The new plan is to name two men each year for a period of two years, and fix it by rule so that no man shall be able to exhaust himself at the completion of his term.

In his address, Bishop Scarborough said that it was nearly a third of a century since he had made his first address before the body.

He touched upon the liquor traffic as one of the greatest evils of the day, and spoke of the bishop's bill of this State, passed by the last Legislature, and gave the credit for its inception to the Catholic church. While it was not just exactly what he would like to have, yet he was thankful that the question had come and this much accomplished. The discussion which the bill had aroused had, in the bishop's estimation, been infinitely beneficial to the whole State.

Last evening there was a missionary service in the church, and the speakers were the Rev. J. R. Atkinson, rector of Trinity church, Elizabeth, and the Rev. F. L. Pilsbaugh, rector of St. John's church, Salem.

The concluding business session of the convocation was at 10 this morning.

Will Lecture In Stirling.

Edward Nelson, the real estate agent, will deliver a lecture on rural England before the Stirling Y. P. S. C. E. on May 14. Mr. Nelson gathered material for the lecture on a trip abroad three years ago. His talk will be illustrated with slides made from photos taken by himself and two companions.

Preparatory Service.

Preparatory service will be held in Hope chapel tomorrow night. Rev. L. R. Howard, the pastor, will deliver a preparatory address. The communion service will be held Sunday night.

WOMEN'S EXCHANGE CALLS FOR SUBSCRIBERS

ITS WORK MUCH BETTER IF MORE WOULD AID FINANCIALLY.

The past year has been one of the most successful in the history of the Women's Exchange, according to the report of the secretary, Mrs. T. W. T. Maxwell, which has just been presented. The exchange starts the new year free and clear with all debts paid, which is an encouraging fact and will result in renewed vigor.

The exchange has been successful in the useful and necessary work of helping the many women who look to it for support to help themselves and those dependent on them, and also in supplying patrons with pure and wholesome food at reasonable prices.

Increased competition during the past year has compelled the exchange to appeal to the public and its friends in general to assist by becoming subscribers. If the annual subscription list could be enlarged at $5 per year, it would mean to those subscribing an outlay of less than two cents a day, but to the exchange an increase in this field of usefulness and enable it to continue the work with more confidence.

The receipts for the year beginning March 1, 1905, and ending March 1, 1906, were $5,644.22, of which amount $4,573.67 went directly to the consigners, showing how much good is being done by the exchange. Miss Shelton, the present superintendent, reports the present number of consignors to be ninety-six.

During the year Mrs. Howard Tracy, corresponding secretary, gave her house for a talk on Japanese flower arrangements by Miss Averill and the president, Mrs. O. T. Waring, gave her house and grounds for a lawn party which proved a great success. An entertainment was given by Miss Beatrice Herford, of New York, at the Casino, on February 16, in her original monologues. She was assisted by Miss Constance Trowbridge, of Brooklyn, contralto soloist, and by Miss Hyatt and Dr. Charles Dawson, violin duet.

The following liberal donations were received for the benefit of the exchange: Miss Morris, $25; Mrs. Greenleaf, $50; Mrs. Lounsbery, $200. During the year the exchange sustained a great loss in the death of Mrs. Rowland B. Stover, who for ocer ten years was the faithful treasurer of the organization. Plans are now being formed for the coming year and the officers and members hope to make it even better than the last one.

GEORGE BALL BACK IN POLITICS AS A COLBYITE.

Retired Scotch Plains Leader in Harness Again for Reform.

The Colby movement in this county has drawn former County Committeeman George Ball, of Scotch Plains, a retired Republican leader of years, back into politics. Mr. Ball, who announced his retirement from the game about two years ago after long service in the ranks, enrolled in the reform organization at Elizabeth Saturday night.

Several months ago, when the first groundswell of the Colby wave struck this section Mr. Ball declared that he was ready to espouse the movement. When Judge Runyon's declaration of independence was issued, Mr. Ball was one of the first to recognize the Judge as the best rallying figure for the reform movement in Union and stated immediately after the young Second ward leader's move that he would follow him into the reform ranks if he took the leadership.

Mr. Ball knows the political game thoroughly, and will be a valuable factor in organizing a branch of the Colby League in Scotch Plains. He is slated to start and head the movement there, and will probably get to work in the organization of the branch next week, after the executive committee of the league, which will meet for the purpose next Monday, outlines the general plans for organization throughout the county.

Mrs. Ignace Comecez Arrested.

Mrs. Mack Wronchnek has had Mrs. Ignace Comecez arrested on a charge of disturbing the peace. The warrant was issued by Justice Hand. The compalinant alleges that Mrs. Comecez called her vile names and quarrelled in a loud and boisterous manner at her house on North avenue Monday afternoon. The case will be heard Saturday morning. J. P. Owens is the complainant's lawyer.

Will Improve House.

John B. Brown has ordered a number of improvements made on his property at 535 West Fifth street. City water and sewer connections will be made and the house interior will be somewhat remodelled.

CARRIED OFF A BIG RUG

Nervy Negro Crook With an Odd Taste For Loot.

FROM LINCOLN SCHOOL

Got As Far As Railroad With His Swag Only To Be Nabbed By a Watchful Cop.

There is a colored prisoner at police headquarters whom the police believe is an old and daring crook. He was captured early this morning by Patrolman Dobson in the Netherwood section with the fruits of a nervy burglary in his possession. He is being held for a thorough probing into his past history.

The prisoner says his name is Lewis Johnson. When questioned at headquarters after his arrest he gave 331 Clark street, Elizabethport, as his address, but the Elizabeth police say there is no Clark street at the 'Port. There is a Clark place, but the numbers do not run into the 300's. Johnson's evident attempt to conceal his identity fits in with the police idea that he is an old crook, with a damaging record.

Johnson's operations this morning were at the Lincoln school. He cut a circle in one of the lower window panes big enough to admit his hand, undid the catch, and crawled in. He gathered a lot of pencils and small articles from various desks into his pocket, and then rolled up a $30 rug. He pushed the roll through the window, shouldered it, and went down lonely streets and back ways for the railroad.

Patrolman Dobson spotted him at the tracks, a short distance beyond the Netherwood station, at 4.30 o'clock. He didn't know anything about the robbery, but a strange colored man with a big rug was too suspicious a circumstance to pass over. Johnson's explanations didn't explain, and the officer headed him for the station house.

Three hours later, when the janitor of the school telephoned to police headquarters that somebody had broken in and carried off the best rug, the police saw light. The janitor, called to headquarters, promptly identified the rug, and the pencils found in Johnson's pockets.

Johnson was remanded pending investigation. The police will send his description to all surrounding cities. He may be wanted on a more serious charge than the one they have against him.

ASK FREEHOLDERS TO IMPROVE WATCHUNG ROAD.

Petition From Valley Residents Filed For Reference; Old Board's Final Session.

A formal petition for the improvement of the Watchung-Warren township road, which has been agitated for some time by residents along the thoroughfare, was laid before the Somerset freeholders, yesterday afternoon, at the final meeting of the old board. The petition asks that the road be improved from Watchung store to the Warren township line. It was filed for future consideration.

Other petitions for road improvement referred to the thoroughfare known as the New Amwell road, from Millstone to South Somerville; the road from the Flagtown Station to South Branch and from there to the Duke estate in the township of Hillsborough. The petitions for these roads were also filed.

A communication from the clerk of Bound Brook borough asking permission to raise the crosswalks on the Union avenue bridge was read, and, on motion, tabled.

The claim of William Eltizer for $40 for damages alleged to have been sustained by him by reason of a defective bridge near Oak Stump in Bernards township was presented. The matter was referred to a committee consisting of Messrs. Bunn, Philhower and Demler.

Beautifying the Borough.

The borough Board of Health is seeking to induce residents to beautify the thoroughfares on which they live by making suggestions as to the improvement of lawns, yards, etc. A systematic campaign was conducted along Watchung avenue, Chatham, Pearl and Warren streets and as a result many double-down fences were removed, curbs straightened and lawns trimmed. The attempt has brought about such good results that a systematic campaign has been planned.

Party for Miss Sharkey.

A party was tendered to Miss Blanche Sharkey, of Whitewood avenue, last night. There were twenty-five young people present and the evening was spent playing games and listening to vocal and instrumental music. At midnight supper was served.

WOMEN'S CLUB MEETING

The Monday Afternoon Club Largely Represented at Federal Convention.

EQUAL SUFFRAGE UP

Members Eulogize the Late Susan B. Anthony — Mrs. Ballington Booth Speaks.

More than 500 women delegates from various parts of New Jersey attended the semi-annual meeting of the New Jersey State Federation of Women's Clubs yesterday morning and afternoon in the Presbyterian church, Metuchen. The Monday Afternoon Club, of this city, was represented by Mrs. John M. Whiton, Mrs. F. O. Herring, Mrs. Isaac L. Miller, Mrs. Florence Howe Hall, Mrs. Israel C. Pierson, Mrs. Josiah Browne, Mrs. W. L. C. Glenney, Mrs. Craig A. Marsh, Mrs. Phillips, Miss Scribner, Mrs. W. F. Merrill, Mrs. Gilbert, Mrs. Ruth Leonard and Miss Leonard. The Plainfielders made the trip to and from Metuchen in a stage.

The morning session was occupied with the reception of reports from the various departments of work and all were of an encouraging nature. There was a good deal of a flutter during the morning when a decided note for woman suffrage was struck in the presentation to the body of a resolution urging the endorsement of suffrage principles and agitation to secure the ballot for working women. Heretofore suffrage has been determinedly avoided in all federation proceedings, and the conservative element is in fear of fruits of the seed sown yesterday.

The women united in honoring the late Susan B. Anthony, and a eulogy of her life was given by Rev. Antoinette Brown Blackwell, the veteran woman suffragist, and resolutions were adopted. A most delightful part of the afternoon session was the address of Mrs. Maud Ballington Booth, who told of her prison work. The meeting throughout was a great success and was considered the best held in several years.

LE ROY GATES' FATHER DIED IN NEW YORK.

Former Head of Big Baking Powder Concern Passes Away.

Charles Otis Gates, former president of the Royal Baking Powder Company, father of Le Roy Gates, of Second place, died last night in the Waldorf-Astoria, New York. Mr. Gates was taken ill about three weeks ago with acute indigestion, but blood poisoning was the cause of death.

Mr. Gates had intended to sail for Europe about the time he was taken ill. His wife and daughter are now in Carlsbad and were awaiting his arrival when he became ill. He leaves two young sons, who are in school in this country. Mr. Gates was fifty-four years old and was born in Iowa. He came to this city twenty years ago to take the professorship of English literature in Adelphi College, Brooklyn, and later was married to Miss Elizabeth Hoagland, daughter of Dr. Cornelius Hoagland, of Brooklyn.

Up to last February, Mr. Gates was the president of the Royal Baking Powder Company. He retired from active business at that time and sold his home in Brooklyn, intending to join his wife and daughter in Europe as soon as he had arranged his business affairs. He was a director in the Columbia Trust Company, the Manufacturers' Trust Company, the Hale Desk Company and the Greenwich Bank.

HARRY BARTON'S FUNERAL.

Conducted at the Home of His Father-in-law, Herman Overland.

With a large gathering of relatives and friends in attendance, the funeral of Harry P. Barton, who died at Council Bluffs, Ia., was held at the home of his father-in-law, Herman Overland, of West Fourth street, yesterday afternoon. Rev. John M. Egar, of the borough, officiated, and three hymns were sung by George F. Watts, "Abide With Me," "Lead Kindly Light" and "Nearer My God." There were numerous floral tributes, among them a large pillow from Somerset Council, Jr. O. U. A. M.

At the grave in Hillside cemetery, where interment was made, a further service was conducted by the Juniors in charge of Councilor Wade. The pall bearers were William Hartmeyer, William Alberts, J. A. Dowe, C. F. Hulet, William Latourette and E. G. Wilson.

—James T. Closson has had a number of minor improvements made about the grounds of his residence on East Front street.

GOVERNOR SEES COLBY

Reform Senator Confers With Stokes on Latter's Invitation.

HEART TO HEART TALK

After the Pow-Wow Governor Says Election of Record to U. S. Senate Is Now the Issue.

Trenton, May 9.—Governor Stokes and Senator Everett Colby had a heart to heart talk yesterday. It lasted nearly two hours, and was held in the Governor's private office at the Mechanics' National Bank. It is spoken of as a heart to heart talk because things were said by each that must have touched the heart of the other. No knives were used, and each of the parties kept his temper admirably. But there were psychological moments, so to speak, when there grips on each other's pericardium that must have pinched pretty hard.

Governor Stokes, when asked last night about his views of the latest development in Colbyism as derived from his talk with Colby yesterday, said:

"I am now positively satisfied that Record for United States Senator is the issue from now on in the reform movement, in fact Senator Colby admitted that was the cause."

Mr. Colby was requested to come down. The Governor wanted to talk over the appointments from Essex on the County Board of Equalization. The Essex Senator came down early in the day, because he was due this evening at the home of General Edward Burd Grubb, at Edgewater, where a meeting was held for the organization of a Colby movement in Burlington county. General Grubb, who was the Republican candidate for Governor in 1889, is out for reform and Colby, and hopes to turn the county over to the reformers next November.

The Governor and the Senator had their conference between 11.30 and 1.30 o'clock. They first discussed the County Board of Equalization outlook. The Governor stated that among the names mentioned were those of Halsey M. Barrett, of Bloomfield; Lathrop Anderson and Henry Dickinson, of Newark, and Thomas A. Davis and Coleman Kissam, of Orange. James Smith is understood to have presented the name of James Nugent.

Colby emphatically opposed the nomination of Mr. Barrett. He said he could not stand for him. The Governor said he did not know when he would make the appointments. He proposed to take his time and did not care for criticism, so long as he succeeded in making good appointments.

Then the conversation drifted to other things. Each asked the other about various speeches which they had made lately. Just what the various more or less pleasant interchanges of views were, each declined to state in detail. Both declared they had spent several enjoyable hours, but neither placed any accent on the "enjoyable." The Governor seemed to express himself in a friendly way toward George L. Record, but just why is not known. He believed Record's attitude would make Dryden more prominent in the Senatorial fight.

There was considerable gossip around the State House all day as to Record's candidacy for the United States Senatorship. The consensus of opinion seemed to be that his boom would materially injure the reform movement. Senator Colby, however, took the opposite view. He was very positive that it was absolutely necessary for the reformers to have a candidate that they could all indorse, and whom the public would approve when it knew more about him. Colby would not listen to any doubts that were expressed on the subject. He said he felt sure all talk of injurious attacks upon Record would fall to the ground. He would prove to be one of the strongest, as he was one of the ablest, men in the State. When the Governor was asked how he stood on the United States Senatorship he declined to answer definitely, although he left the impression on Senator Colby that he expected to enter the race. The Senator and Governor were so much interested in their talk that the latter missed the opening of the bids for the construction of the new State House wing, and allowed half a hundred callers to gather around the corridors of the State House until he arrived.

Mrs. Jackson's Funeral.

The funeral of Mrs. Amos Jackson was held at her late home on Clinton avenue, yesterday afternoon, and was largely attended by relatives and friends. The service was conducted by Rev. Mr. Doupe, rector of the Mission Church of the Heavenly Rest. Interment was made in Hillside cemetery, six sons acting as pall bearers. They were Henry, Robert, Arthur, Harold and Ernest Jackson.

C. N. CODDING SOLID FOR RANDOLPH PERKINS

SAYS THERE ARE NO FACTIONS IN WESTFIELD NOW.

Charles N. Codding, of Westfield, was asked yesterday about reported friction between himself and Randolph Perkins, in Westfield. Mr. Codding said reports of the kind were to be laughed at, as he and Perkins were the best of friends, working in harmony. Mr. Codding said that Westfield's vote will be for Perkins at the primaries and that there is not likely to be any opposition to him in his home town.

A Plainfield newspaper said Perkins was likely to have some opposition if reports coming from Westfield were true. "Well, you can say that reports coming from Westfield are not true," said Mr. Codding. "Perkins's career in the Legislature has been above reproach, his name has been given to some of the best laws ever placed on the statute books. There is neither Kean nor Fowler faction, nor any kind of a faction so far as Westfield is concerned. Perkins is our man."

It is said that Mr. Perkins will not again be a candidate for the mayoralty in Westfield.

UNION CO. W. C. T. U.'S ANNUAL SESSION

MRS. EMMA BOURNE, OF NEWARK, AMONG THE SPEAKERS AT CONVENTION

Rahway was alive yesterday with white ribboners, as the annual convention of Union County W. C. T. U. being held there in Trinity M. E. church in that place. Among the officials present were Mrs. Mary D. Tomlinson, president; Mrs. M. L. Earle, Mrs. C. Scriven, Mrs. M. T. Cox, Mrs. Scriven Stoddard and Miss Julia Baker. There were a number of the local W. C. T. U. members present.

The morning session opened at 10 o'clock with an address of welcome by Rev. Dr. T. C. Mayham, pastor of Trinity church. Devotions were led by Miss Julia A. Barker, followed by greetings from J. N. Underhill, responded to by Mrs. E. A. Chapman. Other speakers were Miss Emma L. Starr, Mrs. G. A. Powell, of Chatham, N. Y.; Mrs. M. F. Francis, Mrs. Emma Bourne, of Newark, State president of the W. C. T. U. The morning session closed with an address by Mrs. L. M. N. Stevens, the national president.

The afternoon session was addressed by Mrs. Scriven Stoddard, Mrs. L. H. Noe, Mrs. C. W. Scott, Miss M. Howlett and others, who spoke in the morning. Tonight the speaker will be Miss Helen P. Strong, of Matawan.

NEARLY NINETEEN HUNDRED NOW IN RELIEF FUND.

Three More Contributions Are Reported Today.

The Daily Press' San Francisco Relief Fund has now reached a total of $1,868.37. The following contributions have been received in the past two days:

Previously acknowledged	$1,825.50
First Baptist church (additional)	16.00
"Mother and Daughter"	5.00
Picture show at theatre	11.87
Total	$1,868.37

Death of Mrs. F. R. Morse.

Announcement is made of the death yesterday morning of Mrs. Emma B. G. Morse at her residence, 1497 Broadway, New York. Mrs. Morse was the widow of Rev. Dr. Frank Rogers Morse, associate pastor of Calvary Baptist church, New York, who died two years ago. She was the daughter of John Giles, of New Market, and had many friends in this vicinity who prized the worth of her Christian character. Her funeral will be held tomorrow at the Calvary Baptist church, West 57th street, between Sixth and Seventh avenues, at 10 o'clock a. m. Interment will be made in Evergreen cemetery.

Court Adjourned for One Week.

There were no sessions of the County or Orphans' Court at Elizabeth, this morning, County Clerk James C. Calvert adjourning court for one week, owing to the fact that there is no judge to try the cases, Judge Vall having been elevated to the Circuit Court judgeship. The case of Garret A. Forrest against John P. Powers, of this city, on contract, was called yesterday before Judge Vall, but was adjourned for a further hearing later on.

—The best place in the city to get strawberries is at Neuman Brothers.' They receive consignments from North Carolina every day.

NAME W. L. HETFIELD, JR.

County Committee Sends in His Name For County Board of Elections.

FOR MURRAY'S PLACE

Job Pays About $400—Bright Young Lawyer Has No Opposition.

Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., of this city, received the endorsement of the Union County Republican Committee, at its meeting last night, for the appointment to the vacancy in the county board of elections, caused by the resignation of Tax Collector John

Walter L. Hetfield, Jr.

W. Murray, Jr., of this city. Mr. Hetfield was the only candidate for the position. The salary is about $400 a year.

County Chairman F. H. Smith has sent the endoresement to State Chairman F. O. Briggs, who will convey the name to Governor Stokes and he is expected to make the appointment.

John W. Murray, Jr., has been on the county board for over twenty years and is one of the best informed men in the State on election laws and procedure. His term expires in August and he devotes all his time now to his duties as city collector of taxes he declined reappointment.

Hetfield had the endorsements of Mr. Murray, himself, County Chairman Smith and the local leaders. He was unopposed.

SENIOR CLASS ELECTS IMPORTANT COMMITTEES.

TO Attend to the June Oracle and Class-Day Exercises.

At the meeting of the class of 1906 at the Plainfield High School yesterday, it was unanimously voted to follow the custom of former classes of the school and make the June number of the Oracle an exclusive commencement and senior number; President Freeman appointed as a committee to prepare the issue, the following: Miss Gertrude Hunter, chairman; Benjamin Herman and Arthur Whitney. Herman has also been elected manager of the senior play, "The Nephew As Uncle," to be given Tuesday night, May 29, in the school auditorium.

The following class-day committee was also elected at the meeting: Miss Louse Klein, chairman; Miss Gertrude Hunter, George Rittenhouse, Howard Freeman and Malcolm Davis.

Company K Keeping Busy.

The coming few months will be among the busiest that the members of Company K have had since its organization. In addition to routine drills, they have a number of important events to look forward to. Tomorrow they go to Phillipsburg to take part in the unveiling of a battle monument and on July they participate in a similar event at Elizabeth. The annual inspection has been ordered for May 14 and on May 30 the company will act as escort for the G. A. R. in the Decoration Day parade. The boys start for Sea Girt on July 14 to remain in camp a week.

Will Exhibit Silver Hose Wagon.

The Exempt Firemen's Association met Monday night and instructed the trustees to have the Amity silver hose carriage put in first-class condition for the firemen's parade to be held in Elizabeth in October. It was announced that there would be a meeting of the representatives of the association to the State Exempt Firemen's Association in the office of Liefke & Laing on Saturday night. The State meeting will be held at Nutley on Wednesday, May 16.

Arrested for Drunkenness.

John Kelly was arrested [illegible] on West Fourth st[illegible] McCue for drun[illegible] not look like a h[illegible] test in court this [illegible] Runyon suspen[illegible]

HEAR FROM REV. WALZ

Missionaries Lose Heavily in the San Francisco Earthquake.

A VIVID DESCRIPTION

Letter to William D. Murray From Wife of Minister—Couple Well Known Here.

William D. Murray has received the following letter from Mrs. E. L. Walz, wife of Rev. Mr. Walz, dated San Francisco:

Fort Mason, San Francisco.

My Dear Mr. Murray:

There have been so many inquiries from all directions as to Louis' and my welfare that we will write you as a central point for those in the Crescent Avenue Church who may inquire. Our church and our home were both burned to the ground, and all but about four of our parishioners were burned out. Louis worked as volunteer fireman so that we couldn't attempt to save much. We knew that when he went, but we saved more than we thought would be possible. A mahogany chair and table, a wide margined Bible with many notes, all of Louis' sermons, some of our silver and my violin were all saved. Over a thousand books we had were burned. The Lord has never repeated a sermon, he is now going to do that for a while for though we have no church, all our people are united in wanting us to keep the church together and in rebuilding as soon as possible.

We have been urged to cross the bay and be with different friends in Oakland and Berkeley. Rev. and Mrs. Charles Newhall, brother and sister of M. Henry Newhall, have been particularly kind in every way. We have felt that we ought to stay here in San Francisco with our people, and not for one moment have we regretted doing so, not even when ten of us were in one tent trying to rest on the ground. Later on "Uncle Sam" had more tents and Louis and I have one for ourselves, and all are equally well off. For four days and nights we darted not undress—nobody could we haze done so for we had nothing to change to. Since then the Newhalls fitted us out with a complete change. We could not before this communicate with any one outside of San Francisco nor could any one communicate with us. Even now we can only return to San Francisco on a pass if we go to Oakland.

We love our people as never before—most of them are fine, plucky people and the sacrifices they are willing to make for us is most touching. One man who had no insurance, but had a wife and three children, came to us and said, "I have ten dollars and I want you to have half, and so long as I have a penny it is yours." He and his wife had not asked us if we had anything before they said this, but just wanted to "help us out." We different ones have come over and over again that they "were desperate until they saw Mr. and Mrs. Walz—then they felt safe," and so we have a goodly community around us, of which we are the parents, happy in the trust of our big family.

We have $2,500 insurance on our church, and are very anxious to rebuild on our good lot. It will take $7,000 to build anything like a satisfactory building, and we want help from outside. Could you help us raise money? Our people say they want the church rebuilt before they want their homes, and Louis and I feel the same. One working man with $3 in his pocket and $50 pay due him, has headed the rebuilding fund from our own church with the $50 that his employer was about to pay him, and we have it now. That seems to be the spirit of our church—to rebuild at whatever sacrifice to ourselves. We will all do every bit we can, but we need help from outside besides—to the amount of $3,500, at least. Many Plainfield people will want to help in this much needed work.

Louis joins me in warmest regards to all our good friends in Plainfield.

Very sincerely,
Pauline Humphrey Walz,
(Mrs. E. L. Walz.)

Address, Rev. E. L. Walz,
Fort Mason,
San Francisco, California.

Warning to Bad Boys.

A number of boys have again been engaged in the practice of destroying property at Crescent Oval and only within a few days new locks have been broken off the dressing-room doors there. Mayor R. S. Smalley, who is chairman of the grounds committee, is determined that this practice shall cease and will adopt severe measures to do so. On Thursday the P. H. S. second team played a game of baseball on the oval with the Whittier School. Neither team had any right to play on the grounds, and it is said that the new locks were tampered with that day. Mayor Smalley wants it clearly understood that outside of the regular Plainfield and North Plainfield High School teams, no other nine has any right to use the oval and anyone caught doing so will be severely dealt with.

Music for all sorts of affairs furnished by A. F. Naylor, East Fifth ... Good music. It is easy to ... find, but it isn't the ... you.

MISSIONARY EFFORTS IN FLOWERY KINGDOM

ADDRESS BY REV J. H. BALLAGH AT TRINITY REFORMED CHURCH.

Rev. J. H. Ballagh, a returned missionary from Yokohoma, Japan, addressed the Young Women's Mission Band, of Trinity Reformed church, Friday afternoon. Mr. Ballagh, who represents the Board of Foreign Missions of the Reformed church in America, has been engaged in mission work in Japan for forty years and is thoroughly conversant with every phase of it.

In his talk yesterday Mr. Ballagh reviewed in an entertaining manner the work accomplished in Japan for Christ. He said that rapid strides are being made there by the missionaries and the Japanese are becoming more receptive every year to the teaching of the Bible. The missionary finds the natives very anxious to learn about Christ.

Mr. Ballagh referred to the recent act of Japan in sending $100,000 to the San Francisco sufferers, and used it as an illustration as to the readiness with which the empire responds to appeals of this kind. There are many thousand Japanese in San Francisco who have suffered by the earthquake, and while the money contributed by Japan will be used to help the Japanese who are destitute, there were no restrictions placed on the contribution, the committee in charge being allowed to spend it according to its best judgment.

The missionary related some interesting facts about the workers in foreign fields, telling of their particular work. Mr. Ballagh denied the published statements that missionaries are often times responsible for disturbances in Japan or China. He said that these troubles are due to the interference of natives who are constantly plotting against the government.

In the course of his remarks the speaker said that one fact above all others is rapidly spreading over Japan and that is that while the nation is heathen in some respects it is Christian at heart and this is doing more to Christianize the empire than anything else, and Mr. Ballagh predicts a great future for that people.

The address was one of great encouragement for the members of the mission band and no doubt in the future they will be more deeply interested in the foreign work.

TWO CONCERNS LOOK HERE FOR LOCATIONS

ONE $750,000 CAPITALIZATION WANTS GIFTS AND PERQUISITES.

Two factory proposition were brought before the Board of Trade at its meeting Thursday, in communications received by Secretary F. H. Smith. Both seekers after sites want gifts from the city or citizens.

John A. Thompson, 35 Wall street, says he is looking for two and one-half acres, on which an automobile factory is to be put up by a $750,000 corporation, to be soon organized. The company wants the two and one-half acres for nothing, exemption from taxes for six years, and $15,000 in subscriptions to preferred stock from citizens. Mr. Thompson didn't mention anything else the promoters wanted, but his last letter was written in a hurry and he may have forgotten one or two things.

The second proposition is from a cut glass factory in Lawrenceville, Pa. It gives work to 100 men and is running, seemingly, steadily. The owners want to move nearer to New York. The welcome they want from the city is not so expensive—just a suitable building deeded over to them after a certain stipulatory period of activity, with so many men employed, has passed.

Both propositions were referred to committee. The board was not wildly excited over them.

An answer from the Central Railroad regarding the kick on the curtailment of fast service to New York was read by Secretary Smith. The company says it took the Philadelphia-New York trains from this station because the service was inaugurated for the benefit of long haul traffic, and the needs of that traffic dictated the arrangement of the schedule, and not those of the stop-points. The express service from here to New York was better, as it was, than the service to or from any town of the same approximate distance from New York on any road.

WOMEN.

Women are born, not made.
There is only one kind of women namely, women.

Against the eternal feminine the daily male has no chance at all.

Schopenhauer did not approve of women. Women did not approve of Schopenhauer.

The chief topics of conversation in female society are husbands and servants. The distinction seems arbitrary, and doubtless is seldom drawn.

Those whom the gods love (i. e., ladies of the chorus) dye young.

The popular idea that women have no sense of humor is quite mistaken. They marry us.—London Punch.

BOROUGH FATHERS' WORK

Reports and Petitions Take Up Time of the North Plainfield Council.

BALANCE OF $1,062

John Reinman, Appointed Special Marshal—No More Firemen Just Now.

Several petitions of more or less importance were received at the May meeting of the Borough Council, last Friday. J. W. Coddington asked for an electric light on Watchung avenue, between Pearl and Chatham streets; L. J. Bremmer asked for two lights on Walnut street, and they were both referred to the light committee.

Mayor Smalley appointed John Reinmann as a special marshal and the appointment was confirmed. It was reported that during the past month eleven arrests were made and $35 collected in fines.

The report of Collector George F. Brown showed that there has been received during the month $176.35 as taxes and licenses, $797.50 for liquor license, $3.88 as interest from the bank. Bills payable by note note amount to $3,000. The balance on April 1 was $143.06. The total receipts were $4,346.62; disbursements, $3,278.16, leaving a balance of $1,062.46.

Mr. Lee, chairman of the street committee, reported an expenditure of $153.80 for street work during the month.

Mayor Smalley presented a claim from North Plainfield township for $61.19 for the medical attention, care and board of a sick child living in the borough. The child, it appears, was taken ill in the township with scarlet fever and could not be removed. The parents being unable to pay for the care of the child the township had to do it. At the suggestion of Counsel Reed the bill was referred to the borough overseer of the poor for settlement.

A resolution, offered by Councilman Smith, authorizing the purchase of two uniforms for regular firemen at an expense not to exceed $20 each, was adopted, as was a resolution by Councilman Lee that the New York and New Jersey Telephone Company be allowed to open Grove street, near Park place, for the construction of underground conduits. Another resolution by Mr. Lee provided for the advertising for bids for flagging and curbing, with the granting of power to the street committee to award the contract. This resolution was adopted.

The question of appointing an additional fireman was raised, but Mayor Smalley said that there is no present need for an extra man and until such time, he would not make the appointment.

WIFE IS MISSING;
MYSTERY ABOUT IT.

Last Seen Going Toward Railroad Station With Boarder's Suit Case.

Mrs. Robert Newing, who conducted a boarding house at No. 288 Gregory avenue, Passaic, has not been home since Thursday and efforts to trace her have failed. Mrs. Newing is thirty-six years old and good looking. Her husband formerly kept a grocery in Englewood, but now is in business in New York.

When he returned home Thursday night he found a note from his wife saying she had gone to Englewood. When she did not return he went there to look for her, but did not obtain any trace of her.

Joseph Strauss, a Passaic butcher with whom Mrs. Newing traded, appears to have been the first person to see her. She called at his store Thursday afternoon, he says, carrying a suit case which she told him belonged to one of her boarders who was going to leave town. She said she was carrying the case to the station for him because he had something else to carry himself.

She went on to say that she was going to Englewood to try to collect some of the bills owed to her husband by persons there. She then left the butcher's and went in the direction of the railroad station. None of the Newings' friends at Englewood saw her there Thursday afternoon, and so far as can be learned she did not collect any of the outstanding accounts there.

The suit case Mrs. Newing was carrying belonged to John Hoppe, one of the boarders. He has not been at the boarding-house since Thursday.

A Possible Reason.

Willie—The jaybird is the same as the bluebird, ain't it, Pa?

Pa—I believe so.

Willie—Well, if it's a bluebird, why is it called a jay?

Pa—Probably because it comes along predicting the arrival of Spring and then gets caught in a blizzard.

On Lake George Committee.

Plans are being made at the Y. M. C. A. for the sending of a good representation from here to the association summer resort at Lake George, N. Y. F. H. Andrews, of this city, is head of the Lake George committee, and W. D. Murray will be a speaker at one of the student conferences.

KING OF ITALY STINGY?

Royal Couple Live in Accordance with Severe Lessons of Economy.

Romans have one criticism to make of their king, Victor Emmanuel III. It is that he does not live like a king. His wife's democratic manners form a strange contrast to the etiquette which still surrounds her mother-in-law, Queen Margherita, while the king himself, when he appears in public usually does so with a lack of ostentation which causes the admirers of his father, the late King Humbert, to shake their heads in mournful prophecy.

As a matter of fact, Queen Helena learned the severe lesson of economy at the frugal court of her father, Nicholas of Montenegro, while the king had many shrewd examples of prodigality *left him by his father and grand*father ever to feel inclined to follow in their footsteps.

Just now, King Emmanuel is being blamed by the Romans for having shirked the ball, and the two court balls which he annually holds, at the Quirinal. The censure is unjust, for the court went into mourning on account of the death of King Christian, and the king was not to blame if the first ball had to be postponed. It was later given, but with less than the usual ceremony. The second ball also took place as usual on the last day of the carnival, but the voices of pessimists continue to be heard.

SEA GULLS AS PIRATES.

They Will Steal Like Politicians and Commit Murder Like Sea Lovers.

There may be an advantage in birds living in colonies, but I cannot see how any other birds would want to live near a colony of gulls, says a writer in The World Today. A gull in his own country will steal like a politician and murder like a pirate. They swarm about us like vultures after a battle. The minute our approach drove a marre or cormorant from his nest, the saintly looking scallawags swooped down to eat the eggs and young. While the gulls are freebooters and robbers on the island, it is only when other birds are frightened from their nests that they have a chance to carry on their nefarious trade. Eternal vigilance is the price the latter pay for their eggs and young. Except when they are frightened by approach of some person, their possessions are never left for an instant without a guard. But the fittest manifestation of life on the rocks, and these gulls are the most useful birds in the bays and rivers about the waterfronts of our cities. They are valuable as scavengers and should be protected in every way. Three of them are equal to a buzzard. Ten of these gulls are equal to a pig.

TYPEWRITERS CATCH COLD

Machines Soon Get Out of Order If Left in a Chilly Atmosphere.

The employer looked on with a puzzled expression while the new stenographer worked the typewriter across the room and placed it on a chair in the immediate neighborhood of a steam radiator, says the New York Press.

"I'll be ready in just a minute, Mr. L.," she said. "The typewriter is cold while the heat was turned off and it sticks dreadfully."

"Does the cold affect them?" he asked. "That's something new."

"Yes, sir. I find that it does, very much. Some machines particularly cold if left long in a cold room. It's especially hard on old machines that are pretty well worn, making them very unmanageable sometimes. I've known the cold to remain in an old one until it has taken several hours in a warm room, when it gradually became better; but usually a machine yields to three or four minutes of warmth."

Weighing the World.

This world is to be weighed once more, doubts being entertained by scientists as to the accuracy of previous estimates; but whether the error be a case of short weight or overweight has yet to be settled. An expedition is to set out to Egypt, where the great pyramid will be utilized by the investigators. First, the weight of the pyramid will be ascertained, and then the weight of the earth estimated from its proportionate size. The swinging of pendulums will be the gauge. From the force exerted by the pyramid in pulling the swinging pendulum from its natural course the weight of the pyramid can be estimated, and that of the earth—the exact size of which is known, can then be calculated easily.

Demand for Laborers.

Labor is very scarce in New Zealand that the government of that colony has asked its high commission in London to find in England and send out 1,000 laborers for the construction of a new railway in the North island. The year's work are guaranteed, and inducements will be offered them to remain permanently. There is also great demand for agricultural laborers in western Australia.

London Telephone Calls.

Presiding at the half yearly meeting of shareholders in the National Telephone company Sir Henry Fowler said the number of messages transmitted during 1905 was 1,053,000,000. To understand these figures shareholders should know that the number of inland telegrams transmitted by the post office was only 88,000,000.

WOMEN'S GOLF SCHEDULE

Annual Series of the Metropolitan Association is Announced.

PLAINFIELD IS IN IT

Plainfield Country Club Visits Essex County Country Club on Tuesday in First District Match.

The schedule of home-and-home matches to be played this year in the team championship series of the Women's Metropolitan Golf Association was announced yesterday. There will be first and second districts as last season, and, according to the conditions, the final match for the title between the winners of the first and second districts must be played over a neutral course before November 15.

The membership in the first district consists of the Morris County Golf Club, Baltusrol Golf Club, Essex County Country Club and Plainfield Country Club, while the second district is composed of the Englewood Golf Club, Nassau Country Club, Richmond County Country Club and Apawamis Club.

The first team match of the season will be a second district affair between Englewood and Nassau over the former's links on May 10. A start will be made in the first district on May 15, when the Plainfield Country Club visits the Essex County Country Club.

Sections 8 and 19 of the bylaws have been amended. Section 8 reads as follows:

In the event of a team being short of players, the defaulting player defaults to the player holding the corresponding position on the opposing team.

Section 19 has been amended to read:

In team competitions the opposing captains shall prepare lists of the players of their teams arranged in order of merit, and these lists shall be mailed the night before the match to the club over whose course the match will be played and the players shall play as named.

The schedule follows:

May 10, Nassau Country Club at Englewood Golf Club; 15th, Plainfield Country Club at Essex County Country Club, and Baltusrol Golf Club at Morris County Golf Club; 18th, Richmond County Country Club at Apawamis Club; 29th, Englewood Golf Club at Richmond County Country Club; 31st, Apawamis Club at Nassau Country Club; Plainfield Country Club at Baltusrol Golf Club, and Morris County Golf Club at Essex County Country Club.

June 12, Essex County Country Club at Baltusrol Golf Club; 19th, Plainfield Country Club at Morris County Golf Club; 21st, Richmond County Country Club at Nassau Country Club; 23d, Englewood Golf Club at Apawamis Club.

September 20, Englewood Golf Club at Nassau Country Club; 25th, Apawamis Club at Richmond County Country Club; 27th, Morris County Golf Club at Baltusrol Golf Club; 28th, Essex County Country Club at Plainfield Country Club.

October 12, Baltusrol Golf Club at Plainfield Country Club; 16th, Essex County Country Club at Morris County Golf Club; 18th, Richmond County Country Club at Englewood Golf Club; 19th, Nassau Country Club at Apawamis Club; 23d, Nassau Country Club at Richmond County Country Club; 30th, Apawamis Club at Englewood Golf Club.

November 2, Baltusrol Golf Club at Essex County Country Club, and Morris County Golf Club at Plainfield Country Club.

He Opened His Door.

I know a woman who spent last winter down South. In the room next to her was an elderly man, and everybody in the hotel was worked up as much as could be to know whether he wore a toupee. If he did, it blended so beautifully with his black hair that you couldn't tell where it left off; but the semi-bang arrangement in front made everybody suspicious. Everybody tried to find out about that hair, but nobody could. Every evening at 8 the elderly gentleman retired to his room, and, of course, nobody could tell what he took off after the door was locked. The woman next door stood it as long as she could, and then she determined to find out or die in the attempt. About 10 one night she knocked furiously at that man's door.

"Oh, Mr. Blank!" she cried, "get up quick. I'm sure the hotel is on fire and we'll all be burned in our beds."

She heard Mr. Blank scuttle out of bed, and an instant later he opened his door with every evidence of extreme excitement. He had on a suit of swell pink pajamas, but he had a derby hat pulled down clear to his eyebrows. Nobody ever did find out whether he wore a toupee or not, and I suppose nobody ever will.—Kansas City Independent.

L. W. Randolph, the West Front street druggist, is having a great sale of his moth and insect preventive. It is one of the best preparations ever put on the market and it has none of the disagreeable odor of some preventatives.

'ON CHANGE' WAS FUNNY

Comedy Club's Closing Production of Season Highly Successful.

PLAYED AT PARK CLUB

Large Audience Enjoyed the Performance to the Full—Cast Handles Lines and Business Cleverly.

The Comedy Club closed its season at the Park Club Friday with "On Change," a three-act farce, in a way to make the audience regret that the performances was not beginning instead of an ending. There was a good-sized house, despite the presence of "Old Lavender" in town, and the audience got frequent testimony that it did not find anything to regret over the choice of a play.

Funny in itself, the farce was acted with a degree of cleverness and finish that made it an irresistible appeal to the faintest sense of humor imaginable. It was splendidly staged; every detail of the settings was admirably worked out.

The farce was an adaptation of a popular German play. It had a plot that worked out well, and was rich in incidents that carried the action on rapidly. The story is of a bookish professor who scoffs at moneymaking as a puerile field of activity requiring no brains. His broker cousin gets tired of the old man's rapping and gives him $100,000 with which to speculate. He gives him a month in which to go broke and discovers that it takes a lot of brain-work to beat the game. The old man goes to smash in two weeks, and his distracted efforts to buck the market furnish a lot of fun. Some interest is furnished by a scapegrace nephew of the professor's wife and the young daughter of the broker.

The cast was well balanced and all its members interpreted their parts quite to the satisfaction of the audience which was lavish with applause. The leading parts were taken by Henry C. White, the professor; Charles H. Lyman, the broker; H. R. Loder, the nephew; Miss Louise Saunders, the broker's daughter; Mrs. H. C. White and Miss Grace E. Overton. They were supported by Effingham Pinto, William McCook, Victor McCutchen, Miss Mabel Van Deventer and Morgan F. Townsend.

An imitature conservatory was passed across the footlights at the end of the last act.

Miss Helen Stevens tripped prettily through two dances between acts. After act 1 she appeared in a Spanish dance and in a "Coon Dance" after act 2. She scored a very decided success.

The business management was in the following hands: Henry C. White, stage manager; Augustus Van Deventer, business manager; Charles Dupee, chief usher; Miss Sadie Mae Howell, Mrs. Spencer Fellerton Weaver and Harry L. McGee, stage settings; Miss Adelaide Ball, properties; Mrs. Charles H. Lyman, prompter; C. P. Morse, press.

REAL ESTATE TRANSFERS.

Changes o. Local Property Recorded at the Office of the County Clerk.

The following local real estate transfers have been recorded at the office of the county clerk:

James C. Manning et ux. to Plainfield Land and Building Co., lot 21, "Map of Netherwood" $1

Norman K. Barnes et ux. to Charlotte M. Huff, southwesterly side Hobart avenue, 167 feet of West Seventh street $1

Charlotte M. Huff to Annie E. Murphy, same as above $1

Ralph Netherwood et ux. to Norman K. Barnes, northerly side Prescott place, 120 feet northwesterly of West Third street $1

Ralph W. Emerson to Norman K. Barnes, lot 5, block D, "Map of John D. Runyon" $1

George M. Phillips et ux. to Alice McEwen, southerly side Mariners avenue, 290 feet southeasterly of Dunellen avenue $1

Mary E. Sutton et al. to William F. Fruehauf, easterly side Richmond street, 200 feet southerly of Putnam avenue $1

Charles W. McCutchen et ux. to George Van Blake, northwesterly side East Third street, corner Isaac Thorn $1

Ellen A. Graves to James Chamberlain, northwesterly side West Third street, corner Muhlenberg place $1

Greylock Land Co. to James J. Murphy, northwesterly side Front street, corner Raymond avenue ..$1

Robert L. Lee et ux. to Carl C. A. Pitschke, lot 8, section A, "Map of Plainfield Land and Improvement Co. $1

Charles M. Dolliver to Ernest T. Hand, southwesterly side Lincoln avenue, 200 feet northwesterly of Second street $1

Somerset Teachers to Meet.

The Somerset County Teachers' Association will meet in the new public school building at Bernardsville Saturday morning, May 12, at 10.30. Charles S. Hamilton, principal of the Neshanic school, will speak on "The County School." F. H. Sage, supervising principal of Warren township, on "Discipline" and D. P. Woodley, superintendent of schools at Passaic, on "English."

HURRYING SEWER SYSTEM

North Plainfield Council Listens to Corporation Counsel's Remarks.

FOLLOWING STATUTES

Special Meeting of Body Set for Friday, May 11—Many Favor Proposition.

Relative to the question of establishing a sanitary system of sewers in the borough, Charles A. Reed, borough counsel, made a few remarks at the May meeting of the North Plainfield Council, Friday night. As expressed by Mayor Smalley, the matter appears to be progressing slowly and it was with a view to shedding some light on the subject that he asked Mr. Reed to speak.

Mr. Reed said that he did not want to be understood as putting any obstacles in the way of the improvement. "The work of obtaining the consents of the property owners of the borough, together with definite plans of the system to be used is what is desired especially," continued Mr. Reed. "The Mayor urged that petitions be drafted and signatures of property-owners be obtained. He also wanted the matter started before Charles W. McCutchen, one of the largest property-owners in the borough, went abroad. I saw Mr. McCutchen, and discussed the matter with him and he informed me that he would not sign a petition for sewers until he learned definitely what system would be used, the method of disposal and the probable cost.

"Until the consents of property-owners are controlling it will be useless to attempt the consent of twenty-five per cent. of the property-owners will have to be secured for the issue of bonds, which will require another election. The statutory provisions will have to be followed very carefully. I have been in favor of sewers for the borough a long time and favor them today. There are some people who once said that it was desired to saddle the borough with a sewer system in order to increase the tax rate, but today those same people are anxious to have a sewer system here and I believe that everything possible is being done to hasten the improvement."

Mayor Smalley remarked that the difficulty seems to be that most people do not understand the conditions and the details necessary to make the improvement and they are restless with the present unsatisfactory conditions. He said that as yet no reply had been received from the Plainfield Common Council regarding his letter as to the advisability of using the Plainfield system of sewers, but he understood that such a reply would be forthcoming by Tuesday of next week. At this juncture of the Mayor the Council adjourned to meet on Friday night, May 11, when it is hoped that further steps can be taken.

At the adjourned meeting Councilman Lee Winick will also make a report on the recommendation of the Board of Trade, of Plainfield, that a committee be appointed to confer with a committee from the Common Council looking toward the consolidation of borough and city.

FACTORY LAYS MEN OFF; NO MATERIAL ON HAND.

Spicer Company Compelled to Cut Down Its Working Force.

Owing to the fact that it has been impossible to get forgings used in the manufacture of the universal joints, the Spicer Universal Joint Manufacturing Company was obliged to lay off about a dozen employees last night. The mills have promised many times to fill the order of the local concern, but there is such a demand for castings of the kind steel as well as iron that it has simply been impossible to get the material on time.

The local company has been employing over one hundred men and there are plenty of orders on hand to be filled just as soon as material can be secured. The company does not believe that the men will be off more than a few weeks at the most. Under present conditions it has been impossible to keep all hands fully employed and the company decided to pay the employees not needed in full to date and lay them off. In the meantime if they can secure employment elsewhere they will be free to do so.

E. W. Bolles has returned from a visit to his old home, Asbury Park.

Amateur Ball Series.

Two amateur teams, captained by Burlin Banks and George McVoy, have arranged a series of three games, to be played on grounds selected at Greenville. The contests are not to be public, they are assigned merely to furnish Saturday afternoon sport for eighteen congenial companions, and the captains refuse to make public either the names of their players or the dates of the games. The scores will not be published.

TO TEST VAPOR LAMPS PATIENCE SCORES A HIT

Board of Trade Wants New Light Given a Trial on the Streets.

SUPERIORITY CLAIMED

Agents for Manufacturing Concern Explain Its Qualities and Allege That Lamp Is Better Than Arc Light.

C. H. Vom Baur, one of the engineers of the Cooper Hewitt Electric Co., explained the advantages of the Cooper Hewitt mercury vapor lamp for street lighting to the Board of Trade Thursday. He came before the body at its request. The Board is interested in bettering the street lighting, especially in the business section. The P. S. C. was interested in Mr. Vom Baur's appearance, because it likes the Cooper Hewitt light and would welcome a trial of it.

Mr. Vom Baur was introduced by W. C. Hubbard, of this city, who is general sales agent of the Cooper Hewitt Company. Mr. Hubbard, in his introduction, said cities were judged by their lights, and Plainfield was lacking in that feature of municipal progress. It was one of the few places lighted by incandescent lamps.

Mr. Vom Baur spoke at length on the new lamp. It is a clearer, steadier light, than any other in use, and costs less than incandescents and arcs for greater illumination. The light comes from a long tube, in which mercury is vaporized by the arc created by the break in the quicksilver stream between two electrodes. It casts hardly any shadow, and the peculiar greenish tinge to the light, which makes it undesirable for some fields of commercial lighting, is unnoticed in street illumination.

The mercury vapor lamp will burn 4-hour standard 24-inch arc, will shed an average of 850 candle power, with reflection, as against 125 candle power in two incandescent lamps. All ordinary arc light, of the sort now in service here throws 280 candle power. A mercury vapor lamp will throw an 850 candle power light, better distributed, steadier and softer, for two-thirds of the cost.

It was explained that the Plainfield streets could be admirably lighted with one light to a block. The mercury vapor light is peculiarly adaptable in which foliage figures, as in this city.

President Woolston said he was convinced the Cooper Hewitt light was better than the arc, and just what the city needed. He felt that immediate steps should be taken to have the P. S. C. give a test of the light on Park avenue or Front street. The board agreed with him and on motion a committee composed of Charles H. Frost, Councilman Buxton and Charles H. Runyon, was instructed to see if such test lights could not be placed.

Mr. Hubbard advises that the test lights be placed in a row on Park avenue, one at Front street, one at Second street, and the third at North avenue. With the lights so placed, it is claimed, a newspaper could be read without trouble anywhere on the avenue between Front street and North avenue.

The P. S. C. has secured the loan of three lamps from the company for use at the carnival. It is interested in the lamp because it is economical in operation, and cuts down the idle current perceptibly.

BOARD OF TRADE SEEKING CONSOLIDATION.

Requests City and Borough Councils to Appoint Committees for Conference.

At Friday's meeting of the Borough Council, a communication was received from the local Board of Trade, asking that a committee be appointed to confer with a similar committee from the Plainfield Council, looking toward consolidation of the city and borough.

The Board of Trade recently determined to have the matter brought before the people, believing that the sentiment is for it and is appealing directly to the governing bodies. The request to the City Council was made at the last meeting and the communication was placed in the hands of the committee on public affairs. The Borough Council, last night, decided to put the matter over until next Friday night, when a special meeting called by the committee on laws, ordinances and taxation is to be held. It is the belief that some recommendation will be made at that time.

May Buck Ice Combine.

The increase in the price of ice was discussed by the Business Men's Protective Association of Harrison Friday, and a committee was appointed, consisting of John J. Moen, Julius Hoesiter, William Burgesser and Charles J. Witt, to learn if the people of the West Hudson towns would support an independent ice company. The members all favored such a move and agreed to subscribe for shares if a plant was started. It was thought that a plant large enough for West Hudson could be built for $25,000.

J. Knight, Jr., and A. H. Thorne, of this city, are spending a few days at the Laurel House, Lakewood.

Judge Runyon as "Bunthorne" Displays Marked Ability.

AUDIENCE DELIGHTED

Mrs. Ward is Roundly Applauded—Others in the Cast Also Good.

With a splendid cast of soloists, a full chorus of seventy voices and an orchestra of thirteen pieces, the comic opera, "Patience," was given at the Casino, Thursday, by the Plainfield Operatic Association. It was the first amateur production since "The Pirates of Penzance," given at the New Plainfield theatre during the winter, and it was a distinct triumph. It was to be regretted that the Casino was not filled to overflowing, but the large audience thoroughly enjoyed the production and bestowed liberal praise on the performers and their leader, William Holmes.

The opera is not new to Plainfield-ers, it having been given here a few years ago, but under the careful training of Mr. Holmes it has been a decided improvement and as predicted by those who have followed the rehearsals, it was the best amateur production yet given.

Miss Hortense Marie Sheldon made a charming "Patience." She not only took the part well, but her singing scored a great hit. She has a voice of wide range, sweetness and strength and she was given a flattering reception throughout the performance. Her past experience in amateur work was a great advantage to her and she used every opportunity in making "Patience" an ideal one.

As "Bunthorne," the flesh poet, William N. Runyon was great. His excellent work put life and snap into the performance and as usual he came in for a large share of applause, proving that he is as popular as ever. The greatest enthusiasm was shown when he and Mrs. F. M. Ward, as "Lady Jane" sang a duet. Their strong voices in perfect harmony made the auditorium ring and they were obliged to respond to three encores.

Too much praise cannot be given Mrs. Ward for her interpretation of her part as "Lady Jane." Possessing a natural ability for dramatics, she is well fitted for the role and those who saw her in "Ruth" in "The Pirates of Penzance," liked her equally as well in "Patience." Her voice is an ideal one for the part and her acting was grace and ease in every action.

Mrs. Ralph K. Miner, Miss Elizabeth V. Day and Miss Elizabeth C. Mathewson, as rapturous maidens, performed excellently and in their solo work are entitled to the highest commendation. Ralph B. Shipman, as "The Colonel," carried his part well. Although his voice is not quite strong enough, it possesses a quality that is pleasing. An occasion for great outburst of applause was in the trio selection by Mr. Shipman, Joseph C. Martin as "The Major," and Elmer D. Cutting as "The Duke." They were obliged to sit their best in the song, "It's Clear That Mediaeval Art." William J. Tallamy, as "Archibald Grosvenor,' the idyllic poet, was delightful in the part. His singing and acting was greatly enjoyed. In his duet with "Bunthorne" there were several encores.

Although he did not appear until the last act, Clifford A. Braider, as "Reginald Bunthorne's Solicitor," was very amusing. His makeup produced much laughter in the short time he was on the stage.

Of course, to Mr. Holmes great praise is due. His earnest and painstaking work in training the company for this and other performances has placed him in the first rank for such effort and it was largely due to him that such a fine show was given. The orchestra was all to be desired and too much cannot be said of the uniform excellence of the chorus, in perfect harmony and the completeness of the costuming of all who took part.

Mrs. Clifford A. Braider, Mrs. Fred M. Letson, Mrs. Albert I. Littell, Mrs. Luella E. Decker, Miss E. Edna Baldwin, Miss Mary A. Baldwin, Miss Edith F. Boice, Miss K. May Brouwer, Miss Nellie L. Brown, Miss Dorothea E. Bull, Miss Florence C. Craig, Miss Julia E. Day, Miss Ida M. Dealaman, Miss Josephine M. Dealaman, Miss Irene B. Dunham, Miss Mary H. Dunham, Miss Ada M. Dunham, Miss Mary E. Lannon, Miss Kittie McCann, Miss Nora B. Schenck, Miss Blanche A. Skinner, Miss Mabelle A. Smith, Miss Mary A. Smith, Miss Lizzie W. Stafford, Miss E. Nellie Tabb, Miss Abbie E. Van Cleef, Miss Ada Van Doren, Miss Grace E. Weeks, Miss Henrietta J. Wise, Louis O. Barton, Harold A. Brownell, A. S. Brouwer, Jr., John B. Calder, Paul R. Collier, Sidney R. Craig, J. Malcolm Davis, Fred T. Dickerson, William B. Gilbert, B. R. Hanrahan, D. W. Lapham, Jr., Dr. C. B. Lathurrow, Fred C. Martin, H. J. Martin, Jr., Irving R. Martin, Willard B. Martin, Albert E. Matthews, Vincent B. Miner, Percy Nelson, Joseph F. O'Keefe, William J. O'Keefe, Theodore J. Shirley, John V. Todd, H. B. Weatherwax, Harry D. Williams, Leroy Woodhull.

FREEHOLDERS MAY CLEAN GREEN BROOK

COMMITTEE APPOINTED TO CONSIDER THE PROPOSITION.

The Union County Board of Freeholders at its May meeting in Elizabeth, Thursday, adopted a resolution referring to the Plainfield members of the board for the decision question of cleaning Green brook from Scotch Plains to a point in Plainfield. The matter was presented to the board after action was taken on it by the Plainfield Common Council, through a resolution offered by Chairman W. C. Gloak, of the road committee.

If the committee deems it wise for the county to assist in this work of improvement, a recommendation will be made that the Union county members confer with those from Somerset county and see what can be done.

Councilman Gloak has decided to do all in his power to have Green brook widened, deepened and cleaned so that in heavy rains it will be better able to carry off the water. At present the lands adjoining in the East End of the city overflow damaging property.

Freeholder Meisel reported to the board that the Morris Traction Company which has just completed the trolley line from Plainfield to Morris avenue, had left that thoroughfare in a very bad condition and he registered a kick against it. He said that the road was not put in the same condition as before.

Freeholder Swain, who is an employee of the traction company, characterized his colleague's words as "hot air," and said that the road was all right. A lively war of words followed with the result that the company will be asked to properly repair the road.

The board, on the recommendation of the Plainfield members, decided to repair the Scott avenue bridge at an expense of $1,200. There will be a fourteen foot span at this point over Cedar brook. It was also decided to put the Leland avenue bridge in good condition at the expense of $1,500 to each county, this being a county line bridge. The structure was reported to be in an unsafe condition.

P. H. S. SCRUBS WIN IN OPENING CONTEST

"JOE" LOIZEAUX PITCHES WELL, SHUTTING WHITTIERS OUT, SCORE 7 TO 0.

A game between the Plainfield High School scrub team and the nine of the Whittier School on Crescent Oval Thursday afternoon, opened the city juvenile scholastic championship series. The team of the High School showed excellent form, although they had practiced but selthough they had practiced but selthough they had practiced but selthough

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

A DEMOCRATIC WEEKLY.

Published at

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Terms: $2.00 per year.

L. FORCE, Editor and Proprietor.

THURSDAY, MAY 10, 1906.

AFTER STANDARD OIL.

In a special message to Congress, President Roosevelt, strikes at the Standard Oil Company, basing his official utterances on a report made by Special Commissioner Garfield.

Following are the salient features of the message:

"The report shows that the Standard Oil Company has benefited enormously up almost to the present moment by secret rates, many of these secret rates being clearly unlawful. This benefit amounts to at least three quarters of a million a year.

"The very striking result of the investigation has been that shortly after the discovery of these secret rates by the Commissioner of Corporations the major portion of them were promptly corrected by the railroads, so that the most of them have now been done away with.

The hands of the government have been greatly strengthened in securing an effective remedy by the recent decision of the Supreme Court in the case instituted by the government against the Tobacco Trust, which decision permits the government to examine the books and records of any corporation engaged in interstate commerce.

"But in addition to these secret rates the Standard Oil profits immensely by open rates, which are so arranged as to give it an overwhelming advantage over its independent competitors. The refusal of the railroads in certain cases to prorate produces analogous effects. . . . The granting to the government of the power to substitute a proper for an improper rate is in very many instances the only effective way in which to prevent improper discriminations in rates.

"It is unfortunately not true that the Standard Oil Company is the only great corporation which in the immediate past has benefited and is at this moment benefiting, in wholly improper fashion, by an elaborate series of rate discriminations which permit it to profit both at the expense of its rivals and of the general public.

"The government should have power by its agents to examine into the conduct of the railways—that is, the commission under the direction of the Interstate Commerce Commission should be able to examine as thoroughly into the affairs of the railroads as bank examiners now examine into the affairs of banks.

"What is needed is the conferring upon the commission of ample affirmation power, so conferred as to make its decisions take effect at once, subject only to such action by the court as is demanded by the Constitution. . . . I am well aware that within the limits thus set the commission may at times be guilty of injustice; but far grosser and far more frequent injustice, and injustice of a much more injurious kind, now results and must always result from the failure to give the commission ample power to act promptly and effectively within these broad limits."

AMUSEMENTS.

"The Free Lance."

John Philip Sousa's new opera, "The Free Lance," which Klaw & Erlanger have given a most sumptuous production, has made a genuine hit at the New Amsterdam theatre. The music is by far the best attraction Mr. Sousa has composed for the light operatic stage, and, from a general standpoint, excels in melody and brilliancy of composition the best numbers of his former hits, "The Bride-Elect" and "El Capitan." The score contains three rousing marches, the most conspicuous of which is "On to Victory." These numbers create a genuine furore at every performance. But the marches do not by any means compose all the stirring musical effects. There are many dainty numbers which create equal interest and enthusiastic applause. The score is finely orchestrated and the striking choruses are rendered most admirably by a large and unusually well trained chorus. Mr. Smith's book is a really comic story, cleverly unfolded with many ingeniously developed situations. The lyrics possess a high degree of rhythmic quality and many are distinguished by a charming poetic fancy. These verses are quite the best this prolific composer of rhymes has written in many a season. Joseph Cawthorn, by his unctuous comedy methods, predominates in the fun-making of the opera, in which he is splendidly seconded by Jeannette Lowie, the quaintly and cunningly comic Griselda, the goose girl. Nella Bergen in the prima donna role of the Princess Yolande is doing the best work of her career and is receiving really remarkable praise for her songs, "Three Love Stories" in the first act and "The Carrier Pigeon" in the second. Seats for "The Free Lance" can be secured by mail or telegraph.

Florence Roberts.

Florence Roberts, the San Francisco actress who recently made her first appearance in New York in a new play, "The Strength of the Weak," at the Liberty theatre, will continue at this house but one more week, ending her run here on Saturday night, the 12th inst. John Cort, the western manager who introduces this artiste to New York theatregoers, has made no mistake in bringing his star to the East. She has made a marked personal hit and her future appearances in the metropolis will always create not a little interest because of her really great merit as a player. Star, play and cast are excellent.

Sam Bernard.

Sam Bernard, in Chas. Frohman's production of "The Rollicking Girl," will end his run at the New York theatre Saturday evening, the 12th inst., and will be followed on Monday, the 14th, by Braden & Peters' production of "The Gingerbread Man." Mr. Bernard has played just one year without interruption in "The Rollicking Girl." Hattie Williams, the clever comedienne who has distinguished herself in his support, has done the best work of her career in the role of Violet and next season will become a star in a musical play under Mr. Frohman's management.

The Advertising Show which will be held at Madison Square Garden, New York, for one week beginning last Thursday will have many surprising novelties to interest the progressive business man. Everything in the advertising line will be exhibited and quite a number of original ideas will be exploited for the first time.

NEW THOROUGHFARE TO SOUTH PLAINFIELD?

POSSIBILITY OF TROLLEY CONNECTION BETWEEN THIS CITY AND VILLAGE.

W. S. Clardavoyne, of Orange, who owns eighty-four acres of land fronting on Plainfield avenue, and located between this city and South Plainfield, has an opportunity to establish a shorter route between the two places by opening up a new road and possibly secure trolley service.

In a communication to the Common Council, Monday night, he asked the city to open up a new street to the city line, stating that he would ask South Plainfield to do the same from the city line to that village. He said that such a road would shorten the trip between the two places by three-quarters of a mile and he agrees to give the right of way for the improvement. He also thought that it would be the means of inducing the Public Service Corporation to extend the Arlington avenue trolley to South Plainfield.

Mr. Clardavoyne also said that a wealthy resident would probably be able to secure trolley connection between South Plainfield and New Brunswick if the improvements between South Plainfield and Plainfield were made. Mr. Clardavoyne's property which fronts on Plainfield avenue, extends back to Ceder creek. President Tolles referred the communication to the public affairs committee and it will be reported on later.

Newsies Will Play.

Arrangements are being made for a series of baseball games between a newsboys' team captained by "Bunt" Schropper, and a grammar school team. The losing nine will pay for of the Flowers," and the beautiful aquatic tableau, The Court of the Golden Fountains, and the herd of plunging horses remain intact. Matinee are given daily.

The vogue of "Charley's Aunt at the Manhattan theatre, New York, continues, and its time has been extended from the period originally allotted to it at this house. This very amusing comedy by Brandon Thomas had nearly a thousand performances in this country during its original popularity, and those who now enjoy it will admit that it is as effective as ever thanks to the artistic and highly-amusing work of Etienne Girardot, who plays his original role of the bogus aunt, and his clever associate actors. There is no telling how long "Charley's Aunt" may continue at the Manhattan, but those who have not seen it should take advantage of the present opportunity without delay. The regular matinee at the Manhattan is on Saturday, and for those who cannot avail themselves of the evening performances, this affords a chance to witness the funniest play now running in New York.

"Mr. Hopkinson."

At Fields' theatre, "Mr. Hopkinson," the brilliant farce which has set all New York laughing, now established in its new quarters, still continues to pack that playhouse at every performance. There is no doubt that this delightful farce will continue there long after the warm weather has set in.

The usual verbiage of the press agent, which, certain as death, always follows in the wake of such a great success as "Mr. Hopkinson" really is, in this case is dispensed with, and in its place a few excerpts from the metropolitan critics are used, which readily establishes the quality of entertainment that "Mr. Hopkinson," built for laughing purposes only, certainly is.

"It has been so long since a really funny farce has been played in New York that 'Mr. Hopkinson' seems almost too good to be true. Here is one at last that you can laugh at honestly."—L. V. De Foe, in The Morning World.

"There is no question as to the pleasure 'Mr. Hopkinson' afforded, and is likely to afford during American audiences. The laughter was continuous, and the applause more pronounced than is usual."—Adolph Klauber, in The Times.

"There is abundant mirth to be extracted from 'Mr. Hopkinson.' "—W. W. Winter, in The Tribune.

"The farce, by R. C. Carto, called 'Mr. Hopkinson,' proved to be the best piece of theatrical entertainment that has been seen here in years."—W. W. Bullock, in The Press.

"Mr. Hopkinson' is not only funny, but is also witty and clever, and is a 'go.' "—New York Herald.

"One of those rare, remarkable things that occasionally enliven a blue moon, happened when R. C. Carton's latest farce, 'Mr. Hopkinson,' had its first American production. It was so good and funny that it would make a cat laugh."—Alan Dale, in The Journal.

COMPANY K WILL LEAD.

Accepts Invitation to Head Carnival Parade; Capt. Martin Marshal.

Company K will lead the line of the carnival street parade on May 19. The invitation to participate has been formally accepted. Capt. Martin, head of the command, has announced his acceptance of the invitation to act as grand marshal of the procession.

The Junior Order of United American Mechanics will be asked to participate in the parade. The acceptance of all the lodges is expected and a big turn-out is pretty certain to result.

Sprung An Original Excuse.

Frank Hale, a carpenter, was arrested by Patrolman McKeon, Saturday night, because he believed he was too drunk to reach his home. In court Monday the prisoner handed up a new brand of excuse for failing to the ground just as the officer arrived and "pinched" him, claiming that he slipped on a banana peel. Judge Runyon observed that it might be so and suspended sentence to give him the benefit of the doubt.

Bishop Oldham Will Preach.

Bishop W. F. Oldham, who has recently come from India to aid in the celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the founding of the Meth*odist missions in that country, will* speak at the First M. E. church on Sunday morning. Bishop Oldham was born in India and has spent much of his life there and is able to tell the Indian story in a thorough manner.

Touched at the Circus.

Abram Vail, of Dunellen, attended Frank Robbins' circus in this city, Saturday afternoon, and while interested in the performance some one relieved him of his pocketbook containing several checks and some cash. He immediately stopped payment on the checks. The cash amounted to several dollars.

Engagement Announced.

Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Moorhouse, of McKinley place, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Flora Moorhouse, to William F. Welsh, also of McKinley place.

Announce Engagement.

Announcement is made of the engagement of Etta Irene Klttyle to James Leslie Lambert, both of Fanwood.

POOP'S SUBAQUEOUS TRIP

Pincher Had Broken Up Wedding Feast Because the Bride Had Jilted Him.

If Chief Kiely sees fit to establish a submarine corps in the local police department Patrolman Morris Higgins will undoubtedly secure the first appointment. He established his eligibility to the position Sunday by leaping into the muddy depths of "Guinea Egg pond," located on West Fourth street at Evona avenue, and hauling out Frank Raymond, who had plunged into it to escape him. When the officer and his quarry reached dry ground both were fit subjects for a Turkish bath, mud and water oozing from their clothes and shoes at every step.

Raymond, who resides in the West End, had been courting Marie Par*velo up to a short time ago but she* recently took a liking to Peter Puscano and playfully blew up a few bubbles. Even the drawing of the policeman's revolver failed to scare him and when bullets began whistling about he would go down below and stay until his breath gave out. Higgins has solved many a problem like this one and he decided to settle matters by doing the aquatic act himself. He suddenly leaped into the water and caught Raymond by the collar before he had a chance to swim the opposite way. He put up a fight for a moment, but one or two taps with the billy served to quiet him and keep him that way until the jail was reached.

Peter Puscho and a bunch of witnesses were in court this morning and Raymond had somehow managed to get a few to appear in his behalf. There was a lot of conflicting testimony as to whether or not he had a pistol and this point was dropped. On general principles, however, Judge Runyon fined him $5 and warned him he would impose a quadruple amount if he bothered Puscho and his bride or did the disappearing plunge act again.

METROPOLITAN GOLF HANDICAPS ANNOUNCED

THIRTY-NINE PLAINFIELDERS AMONG THE LIST.

The official handicap list has just been issued by the Metropolitan Golf Association, of which Leighton Calkins is the secretary. The list which includes all the prominent golfers in the Metropolitan district and it will be of interest to the players to study the list which is made up in accordance with the system introduced by Mr. Calkins. The Plainfield golfers are handicapped as follows:

4—Robert Abbott, Frank O. Reinhart; 5—J. Whitney Baker; 6—Dudley H. Barrows, W. Lester Glenney, F. C. Jennings, J. H. P. Wharton; 7—Wilcox Brown, Jr.; 8—Morris J. Dumont, Frank C. Talmadge; 9—Leighton Calkins, C. B. Morgan, N. P. Rogers, Jr., E. B. Shoemaker; 10—C. W. Abbott, Henry D. Hibbard, S. D. Lounsbery, H. C. Munger, Roger F. Murray; 11—A. R. Fisk, Edgar I. Serrell, Thomas R. VanBoskerck; 12—Dr. F. C. Ard, Dr. B. VanD. Hedges; 13—H. Reeve Stockton; 14 —E. E. Iremonger, M. D. Rae; 15—G. F. Schoonmaker, George T. VanBoskerck; 16—Howard W. Beebe, Dr. G. W. Endicott, A. L. Otterson, D. H. Rowland, Olaf Saugstad; 17—E. A. Cruikshank, Howard Huntington, James P. Murray; 18—Walter Easton, S. H. Fatterson.

CARRIER SUES FOR $20,000.

Glaentzer Asks Big Damages for Injuries Received From Fall.

Letter-carrier Charles Glaentzer, through his attorneys, Fred J. Huff and Garfield S. Angleman, has filed papers in a suit for $20,000 against Edward White, to recover damages for severe internal injuries received a week ago. The case will be tried in the Supreme Court and will probably be reached at the fall term.

Mr. Glaentzer, while in the delivery of mail, fell through the glass walk directly in front of Harry Werner's clothing store, property owned by White. He was confined to his bed for a week and it is said that the injuries are such that it will be a long time before he recovers.

Donation Party for New Pastor.

Rev. M. A. Alexander, of High Point, N. C., who was called to the pastorate of the Mt. Olive Baptist church, occupied the pulpit Sunday, morning and evening. Saturday night a donation party of the church gave Mr. Alexander and his wife a surprise party.

Sized Up.

"Mrs. Nabor tells me," said Mrs. Subbubs, "that that new woman who moved in next door to her is very cold and uppish and—"

"Ah!" said Mr. Subbubs, "that simply means that she doesn't gossip."

Hearing Adjourned.

M. Sorenson has retained V. W. Nash, Jr., and Peter Robinson has retained W. S. Angleman, to defend them in the separate suits brought by the Rochester Nursery Company, on contract, in Justice Hand's court. The hearings have been put off until May 12.

LIBERAL GIVING NOT THE TRUE MEASURE OF A CHURCH

"The last issue of "The Messenger," the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church paper, has the following to say regarding church attendance:

One of the most noticeable features of our annual meeting was the shamefully small attendance. If the number of votes cast for Elders equalled the number present, then 97 per cent. of our membership did not care enough about what was going on to come and hear about it, for only 3 per cent. of our people voted. Possibly some may have felt that it was a formal matter, anyhow, and they would have no chance to express their opinions or to vote for their own candidates. If any had such feelings ample time was given for the expression of them. But no one did anything. It seems to us that the time to speak about such things is in the meeting and not outside. If we did not vote in the right way some one should have told the meeting what the right way was.

The reports were well worth hearing and speak for themselves; but we really think that Dr. Zelie and Mr. McKelvey and Mr. Tildon and Mr. Howard, and those who have helped them accomplish such splendid results the past year, have a right to expect the encouragement which comes from a goodly attendance at the meeting at which the work is reported.

Our membership, both in church and Sunday-school, is something to be proud of and shows the power that is in this great church. Our gifts of money were liberal, and, compared with some churches, large; but money is not the true measure of a man, nor of a church. There was a certain church mentioned in Scripture, which said to itself: "I am rich, and have gotten riches, and have need of nothing." The counsel given to her was to buy "Eye-salve to anoint thine eyes, that thou mayst see." To one of the other churches this was written, "I know thy tribulation, and thy poverty," and immediately there is added, "But thou art rich"—rich and blind, poverty-stricken but rich, such are the paradoxes of God.

In this life of a church neither large numbers nor abundant wealth can take the place of the personal consecration of the members to Jesus Christ and of the gifts which comes into and works through a life so consecrated. Because 1,738 of us have given to foreign missions $5,718—the cost of a couple of good automobiles, and to home missions $5,218—what it would cost a couple of our families to spend the summer in Europe—we ought not to sit down well pleased, thinking we have done all.

HEARST MAN HEADS UNION DEMOCRATS

ELIZABETH MAN SUCCEEDS JOHN MOODY AS CHAIRMAN.

Judge Owen P. Mahon has been elected chairman of the Union County Democratic Committee to succeed John Moody. The name of William E. Tuttle, of Westfield, did not come up for discussion, he having refused to accept the nomination. George Cladek, a member of the Board of Freeholders, from Rahway, has been chosen vice chairman. No changes are made in the other offices.

Judge Mahon is the police justice at headquarters in Elizabeth. He is a great admirer of Hearst and is in accord in many ways with the doctrines of John Moody, who resigned.

Capt. Dobbins Has More Room.

One of the advantages that accrues to Capt. M. C. Dobbins and his patrons through the removal of his cigar store from Park avenue to 120 North avenue, is a greater amount of room for the transaction of pedlar business. Capt. Dobbin's voucher liquidations have been growing in number for some time and he was becoming hampered for lack of room in the old store.

Summer Sunday-school Schedule.

The officers and teachers of the Park Avenue Baptist church Sunday-school have decided that during the summer months to hold the sessions on Sunday between 12 and 1 o'clock, immediately following the morning services. The date for the change will be announced later.

For the Benefit of Deaf People.

Persons desiring to make use of the acousticon which has been installed in the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church may have it connected with their pews by paying the cost of the receiver. The system is working well and is very satisfactory.

CLEANER COMPANY TO BUILD PLANT HERE

CONCERN TO MAKE ITS NOVEL MACHINE FOR CLEANING PURPOSES.

The Vacuum Cleaner Company, of New York, of which David T. Kenney, of North Plainfield is president, will locate its factory there on the plot which Mr. Kenney has sold to the concern from his 1,400 foot tract east of the Hygeia Ice Company's plant. The building will be constructed of concrete and brick. It will be a two-story structure, two hundred feet long and sixty feet wide with a wing on the west end.

The company will manufacture iron and brass applicances used in constructing its portable machines. The plant will be equipped with most modern machinery. The power used will be electric, generated by the company's own individual motors. Bids are being received and Mr. Kenney expects work of construction will begin within thirty days.

Junior Day at Carnival.

Plainfield Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., met Monday when Councilor W. S. Angleman appointed the various standing committees, also a committee of two to co-operate with similar committees from the other Junior Councils, in arranging for "Junior Day" at the hospital carnival, which will be on Saturday, May 26.

Visit Museum of Art.

Miss Bateman, the 6-B teacher of the Borough High School, took eleven of her pupils to the Metropolitan Museum of Art Saturday. Later she will make another visit to the same place with other pupils.

Her Brain Creaked.

A little girl in the Netherwood district this *morning felt somewhat rag*ged and said to her father, "Papa, every time I try to think this morning my brain creaks."

that it is possible to hatch if placed in a genuine

All the Eggs Will Hatch

CYPHERS INCUBATOR

All the Chicks will live if housed in a

CYPHERS Style A BROODER

and if fed on

CYPHERS CHICK FOOD

GET FREE SAMPLE

Get our free catalogue entitled Poultry Raising Made Easy and Profitable

CYPHERS INCUBATOR COMPANY

23 Barclay Street. Cor. Church Street, New York

Radium Radia

Is admitted by the thousands who have used it to be

THE GREATEST REMEDY EVER DISCOVERED FOR THE CURE OF

RHEUMATISM

LUMBAGO, NEURALGIA, COUGHS, COLDS ON CHEST, SORE THROAT, PNEUMONIA, PAINS, SWELLINGS, ETC.

IT NEVER FAILS TO CURE

Hundreds have been cured with one Application

Recommended by Eminent Physicians

APPLIED EXTERNALLY

Sold at Drug Stores and 13 W. 26th St., N.Y. City

PRICE $1.00 and 50c. Write for Booklet

MAILED ANYWHERE ON RECEIPT OF PRICE

New Jersey Central

Passenger Stations in New York—West 23d St., N. R., Foot Liberty St., N. R. Time Table Corrected to March 19, 1906.

For New York—2.17, 2.27, 6.26, 6.02, 6.39, 6.45, 7.30, 8.00, 8.30, 9.00, 9.30, 10.00, 10.30, 11.00 a. m., 12.00 noon, 12.04, 1.00, 2.00, 2.30, 3.00, 3.30, 4.00, 4.30, 4.47, 5.02, 5.43, 6.30, 6.43, 7.00, 7.02, 7.30, 8.00, 8.46, 10.00, 11.00 p. m. Sundays—2.17, 2.27, 6.26, 7.00, 7.42, 8.03, 8.43, 9.43, 10.43, 11.43 a. m., 12.00 m., 12.43, 1.43, 2.43, 3.43, 4.43, 5.43, 6.43, 7.43, 8.43, 9.43, 10.43, 11.43 p. m.

For Newark—2.17, 2.27, 6.26, 6.02, 6.39, 6.45, 7.30, 8.00, 8.30, 9.00, 9.30, 10.00, 10.30, 11.00 a. m., 12.00 m., 12.04, 1.00, 2.00, 2.30, 3.00, 3.30, 4.00, 4.30, 4.47, 5.02, 5.43, 6.30, 6.43, 7.00, 7.02, 7.30, 8.00, 8.46, 10.00, 11.00 p. m. Sundays—2.17, 2.27, 6.26, 7.00, 7.42, 8.03, 8.43, 9.43, 10.43, 11.43 a. m., 12.00 m., 12.43, 1.43, 2.43, 3.43, 4.43, 5.43, 6.43, 7.43, 8.43, 9.43, 10.43, 11.43 p. m.

For Elizabeth—2.17, 2.27, 6.26, 6.02, 6.39, 6.45, 7.30, 8.00, 8.30, 9.00, 9.30, 10.00, 10.30, 11.00 a. m., 12.00 m., 12.04, 1.00, 2.00, 2.30, 3.00, 3.30, 4.00, 4.30, 4.47, 5.02, 5.43, 6.30, 6.43, 7.00, 7.02, 7.30, 8.00, 8.46, 10.00, 11.00 p. m. Sundays—2.17, 2.27, 6.26, 7.00, 7.42, 8.03, 8.43, 9.43, 10.43, 11.43 a. m., 12.00 m., 12.43, 1.43, 2.43, 3.43, 4.43, 5.43, 6.43, 7.43, 8.43, 9.43, 10.43, 11.43 p. m.

For Somerville—5.55, 7.12, 8.21, 9.22, 9.55, 11.00 a. m., 1.01, 2.02, 3.11, 3.23, 4.23, 5.02, 5.29, 6.46, 7.19, 8.35, 11.25 p. m. Sundays—8.43, 9.43, 10.22, 11.26 p. m., 12.59 night. Sunday—5.45, 8.42, 10.37 a. m., 2.02, 3.40, 5.37, 10.35, 11.51 p. m. Close—8.00 p. m.

For Flemington—7.12, 11.00 a. m., 1.11, 2.29, 6.19 p. m. Sundays—8.42 a. m., 5.37 p. m.

For Phillipsburg and Easton—5.55, 8.21, 9.54 a. m., 2.11, 5.02, 6.41 p. m. Sunday—8.42 a. m., 2.02, 7.00 p. m.

For Bethlehem, Allentown and Mauch Chunk—5.55, 9.54 a. m., 2.11, 6.41 p. m. Sunday—5.45 a. m., 2.02, 7.00 p. m.

For Wilkesbarre and Scranton—5.55, 9.54 a. m., 2.11, 6.41 p. m. Sunday—5.45 a. m., 7.02 p. m.

For Long Branch and Asbury Park, etc.—10.00 a. m., 2.44, 4.12, 6.47, 6.23, 11.35 p. m. Sunday—8.52 a. m., 3.30, 8.13 p. m.

For Red Bank—9.11, 11.00 a. m., 1.18, 2.44, 4.47, 6.42, 11.35 p. m. Sunday—8.52 a. m., 3.30, 8.13 p. m.

For Lakewood and Atlantic City—(2.15 Lakewood only), 2.27 a. m., 1.18, 4.47, 11.35 p. m. Sunday—(2.15 Lakewood only), 8.52 a. m.

For Toms River and Barnegat—8.12 a. m., 1.18, 6.44 p. m. Sundays—8.52 a. m.

For Philadelphia—5.17, 7.44, 8.51, 9.29, 10.51, 11.42 a. m., 12.42, 2.42, 3.29, 4.29, 5.42, 6.45, 7.46, 8.54, 9.46 p. m. Sunday—5.17, 9.39, 11.42 a. m., 12.42, 2.42, 4.45, 6.30, 6.40, 7.46, 8.46 p. m., 12.01 a. m., 1.17 night.

For Trenton—5.17, 7.44, 8.51, 10.51, 11.42 a. m., 12.42, 2.42, 4.45, 6.30, 8.46 p. m., 12.01 a. m., 1.17 night. Sunday—5.17, 9.39, 11.42 a. m., 12.42, 2.42, 4.45, 6.30, 6.40, 7.46, 8.46 p. m., 12.01 a. m., 1.17 night.

For Bordentown—5.17, 8.51, 10.51, 11.42 a. m., 12.42, 2.42, 4.45, 8.50, 9.46 p. m., 1.17 night. Sunday—5.17, 9.39, 11.42 a. m., 12.42, 2.42, 4.45, 6.30, 8.46 p. m., 12.29, 5.42, 6.45, 8.46, 9.46, 11.25 p. m., 1.17 night.

For Reading and Harrisburg—5.17, 8.25, 8.55, 9.54, (10.44, 11.4+ Reading only), a. m., 2.11, (5.45 through train), 7.17 night. Sunday—5.17, 9.54, 11.4+ a. m., 2.11, 7.17 night.

For Pottsville, Sunbury and Williamsport—5.17, 8.25, 9.54 a. m., 2.11, 8.21 p. m., 1.17 night. Sunday—5.17 a. m., 2.03 p. m., 1.17 night.

For Baltimore and Washington—1.17, 8.51, 10.51 a. m., 2.45, 5.42, 7.47 p. m. Sunday—1.17, 8.51, 10.51 a. m., 2.45, 5.45 p. m., 1.17 night.

Change cars at Bound Brook.

W. G. Besler, Vice Pres. & Gen. Mgr. C. M. BURT, Gen. Pass. Agt.

Lehigh Valley Railroad

Time Table in Effect Dec. 31, 1905.

LEAVE SOUTH PLAINFIELD, N. J.

8.00 a. m. daily (except Sunday) local to Mauch Chunk.

8.25 p. m. daily for Easton, Wilkesbarre, Rochester, Buffalo, and principal intermediate stations.

1.07 p. m. daily local for Easton, Mauch Chunk, Hazleton, Pottsville and Shenandoah.

4.58 p. m. daily (except Sunday) "Wilkesbarre and Scranton Express". Solid vestibuled train to Wilkesbarre through Parlor Car via D. & H. R. R. to Scranton and Carbondale.

6.20 p. m. daily (except Sunday) local to Easton.

8.40 p. m. daily, solid vestibule train to Buffalo, Rochester, Niagara and principal intermediate stations except Sunday.

FRANK ROWLEY, City Ticket Agent, 218 West Front Street, Plainfield, N. J. Telephone 112.

Arrival and Departure of Mails

PLAINFIELD POSTOFFICE.

Office open from 7.30 a. m. to 7.30 p. m. On Saturdays close half hour later.

Arrive—7.30, 8.40, 11.20 a. m.; 2.30, 5.00, 7.00 p. m.

Close—7.30, 9.30 a. m.; 1.00, 2.30, 6.00, 7.00 p. m.

SOMERVILLE AND EASTON.

Arrive—8.40 a. m.; 1.00, 2.15 and 7.00 p. m.

Close—7.30 a. m.; 1.00, 2.30 and 6.00 p. m.

ELIZABETH—Direct.

Arrive—8.40 a. m.; 2.30 and 6.00 p. m.

Close—7.30 a. m.; 1.00, 2.30, 6.00 p. m.

PENNSYLVANIA—Way of Junction.

Close 12.35 p. m.

NEWARK—Direct

Arrive—8.40, 11.20 a. m.; 2.30, 6.00 p. m.

Close—7.30, 9.30 a. m.; 1.00, 2.30 and 6.00 p. m.

PHILADELPHIA—Direct.

Arrive—7.30, 8.40, 11.20 a. m.; 2.30 and 7.00 p. m.

Close—7.15, 7.30, 9.30 a. m.; 12.35, 4.30, 7.45 p. m.

Through fast mail for West and South close 4.30 and 7.15 p. m.

Through fast mail for East, close 1.00 and 7.15 p. m.

WATCHUNG, WARRENVILLE AND GALLOWS HILL (Mt. Bethel.)

Arrive—1.30 p. m. Close—8.00 a. m.

Watchung—Arrive 8.40 p. m. Close 8.30 p. m.

SUNDAY MAILS.

Office open from 9.30 to 10.30 a. m.

Mail closes at 4.15 p. m.

E. H. BIRD, P. M

"Beauty in Your Home"

The Burr McIntosh Monthly

"Pictorial Perfection"

"THE MOST BEAUTIFUL MAGAZINE IN THE WORLD"

Ask your newsdealer for this superb magazine. If he does not handle it send us his name and address with your name and address and 10c. for sample copy. Regular price 25c. Mention this paper.

Burr Publishing Company

4 West 22d Street, New York City

Watchung School Roll of Honor.

This is the Watchung School roll of honor for April: Grammar grade —Charles Wersing, Eddie Wersing, Victor Clements, Gusta Troiano, Roy Herrman, Clarence Schmidt, Elsie Schmidt, Mary Texier, Leontine Texier, Adele Herrman. Primary grade —Helen Schmidt, Alice Willis, Victor Clements and Theodore Wormser.

Mrs. Caperton and daughter, of Fire Creek, Va., are visiting Mrs. Caperton's parents, Rev. J. Dr. and Mrs. J. A. Chambliss, of Central avenue.

RUNYON HEAD OF UNION COONTY EQUAL TAX LEAGUE

Organization Launched at Meeting Addressed by Fagan, Gibson, Colby and Record.

MUCH ENTHUSIASM

H. L. Hall and R. H. Depew on Executive Committee; Col. M. W. Tyler and Former Mayor Randolph on Advisory Board.

The Colby movement was formally organized in Union county at a meeting in Elizabeth Saturday night with William N. Runyon was made president. Thomas M. Debevois, of Summit, was chosen vice president; William F. Groves, Elizabeth, secretary, and John H. Eggens, Elizabeth, treasurer.

The meeting was held in G. A. R. Hall, Broad street. It was largely attended, and the gathering was full of enthusiasm. Plainfield was well represented, men from every ward appearing in the delegation.

Saturday's meeting launched the movement in earnest. A constitution, which provides for the organization of branches, and all the necessary county machinery, was adopted.

In article one of the constitution the name of the organization is fixed as "The County Republican League For Equal Taxation." These are the objects stated:

"To promote the best interests of the Republican party in the County of Union. To eliminate bossism and corporate control of the Republican party. To further the cause of equal taxation, limited franchises, taxation of franchises, popular selection of United States Senators, popular interest in primary elections and such other progressive measures as may be necessary in the interests of the people. To promote honest elections and prevent political corruption in every form."

Provision is made in the constitution for the organization of branches in every ward in Elizabeth, Plainfield, Westfield, Rahway, and Summit and in all the districts outside of them. An executive committee of not more than twenty-five and an advisory committee of not more than ten are to be formed. As a starter for their organization these committeemen were named by acclamation Saturday: Executive committee, R. J. Cissell, Judge Barr, Everard K. Tucker, Elizabeth; H. L. Hall, R. Henry Depew, Plainfield; W. H. Wheeler, W. S. Doty, Summit; Ernest B. Rubsamen, New Providence. Advisory committee, J. V. V. Hoire, Elizabeth; W. S. Bate, Elizabeth; Col. Mason W. Tyler, L. V. F. Randolph, Plainfield; Jacob Wilcox, Summit; James Alton, New Providence. The executive committee will fill vacancies in its own ranks and those in the advisory committee.

Judge Runyon's election to the presidency was greeted with prolonged applause. He was nominated by Mr. Cissell, who referred to the fact that he "had been tried and not found wanting."

In accepting the office Judge Runyon, after thanking the assemblage for the honor conferred on him, urged the reformers to remember that the movement was not started in a spirit of animosity; that it was entered into to spread good government, honest government, throughout the State.

He thought it only fitting, he said, to say a word concerning himself. It had been charged that he was actuated in joining the movement by a spirit of spleen and a spirit of spite. He assured his colleagues that that was not the case. A small matter in Plainfield had brought to his mind and to his notice things he had not realized before. He felt then that if he was a good citizen it behooved him to seek different associations. He had no ill-feeling, and would try to serve his new associates in all honesty of purpose.

The organization was to remember, the Judge continued, that it was up against practical politics in its most practical phase. A politician affiliated with the ring, who called himself his "good friend," had told him how sorry he, the politician, was that he had gone into the movement because it was going to be a fight to the death. He must expect a hard and relentless fight; the bread and butter of those in the movement would be attacked; and the organization would seek to hurt all those connected with it. That was one of the conditions, the Judge said, the reformers were up against. But it would make them work with greater energy, courage, loyalty, zeal and devotion. Union county in the future would be found following the lead of Essex and Hudson. They ought to be on the side of the right and better things in life. He felt certain that if each one felt a sense of personal responsibility, no matter what his position or rank might be, they should and would win.

Following the election of officers and the adoption of the constitution speeches were made by Mayor Mark L. Fagan, of Jersey City; Senator Colby, George L. Record, of Jersey City, and John S. Gibson, of Newark, a leader in the reform fight in Essex. All the speakers were received with loud and sustained applause.

Mayor Fagan was the first speaker. He related his experience in Hudson county and Jersey City. He told how he found himself in trouble as soon as he started to give the people what he had promised them before the election. He found corporations outrageously undertaxed, and when county leaders came to him and sought to have the taxes kept at their old level, he discovered that those leaders were directly or indirectly connected with the corporations.

For five years, he went on, it had been said "It is in the air," but it was more true that "it was in the hearts of the people"—a desire for better things in connection with government, city, State and National. Being in the harness, all that was necessary was somebody to take the lead. There were, he thanked God, energetic, able and courageous men ready to take the leadership, and there was no doubt as to the results.

When he tried to do his duty in Jersey City, the speaker continued, he was interfered with. He was told that his first duty was to his party. He couldn't see it that way. He was a good Republican, but he didn't know of any better way to serve it than by honestly serving in office.

The thing Mr. Fagan said he desired to impress on his hearers. That was the necessity of going to the primaries. It was of no use to talk and complain unless the voters turned out at the primary. If the boss made the nominations, it made no difference to him or his employer, the corporations, who was elected. At long as the bosses nominated, the corporations were always elected. The honest voters owed it to their citizenship to do some speaking and some work in connection with the government. The politicians thought of politics all the time.

The change in Jersey City had not come because of Fagan or Record, but because the people were back of the fight that was made. And the backing was secured and held because every promise to the people was kept and things were done that not even been promised. And the backing of the people had made wonderful results. In every State of the Union, no matter how great was the power of the corporations and the bosses, the power of the people was a thousand times greater.

Mr. Fagan closed with an earnest plea for work at the primaries. There were enough men present, he said, to win the fight in Elizabeth if they went into it with that duty actuating them.

Mr. Gibson followed Mr. Fagan. He told of the fight in Essex county, and how less than a dozen men had launched it. When such results had been attained there after so humble a start, what could not a representative gathering of the sort before him do in Union?

The speaker pointed out how the expression of the electorate's disgust with regnant political machines had moved the Legislature to acts that would never have been taken otherwise. They were only at the beginning of the work. The Legislature was to be held in line on franchise limitation, and greater safeguards against franchise jobbery were needed; franchise taxation needed attention.

Mr. Gibson made a hit with a whack at the organization men who have been yelling "muck-rakers!" at the Colbyites. "We're called muck-rakers by the muck-makers," he said, and the assemblage gave way to unbounded delight.

Corporation Counsel Record, who followed Mr. Gibson, opened his speech by congratulating the Union county organization in having "a chief virtuous enough to refuse the traditional thirty pieces of silver." The audience clapped enthusiastically.

The chairman had said, Mr. Record went on, that the new organization was up against a hard fight. He desired to emphasize that. The chairman himself probably did not realize how hard the fight would be. The strength of the machine lay in money; cash was their power. And the cash came from the corporations. It was not the machines they were up against, but tremendous interests, financial and commercial. If it were simply a case of fighting the practical politicians, the latter would be short and easy. The politician held his position of power not by virtue of his brains, because he didn't have any, but through the cash in vast, unlimited quantities that stood behind him. In a straight fight between machine and reform, the latter would sweep the former from its base in two weeks. The powerful interests back of the bosses made the fight a hard one. All attacks on special privileges called every interest of the same sort as that attacked to arms.

In closing, Mr. Record urged his hearers to go into battle with a large and unshakeable faith in the all-conquering power of right. As the cause made itself felt, he said, the popular espousal of its creed would produce leaders, results and a marvelous measure of success would follow.

Senator Colby spoke last, and briefly. He merely desired to add a word of encouragement, he said in opening. In Essex and Hudson they had all been through the same experience through which the chairman was passing. Whenever reformers grabbed something substantial and hung on they were offered $5,000 jobs and other things. (Laughter and applause.)

The fundamental principle on which the new idea rested, he continued, was merely that representatives should represent the people and not dinner-party conferences of the organization leaders. The people were behind the movement. The night before he had gone to Atlantic City with a carful of periodical publishers on their way to a meeting of their association, and their spokesman had told him that every man in the gathering—composed of men whose writings reached millions—had the same feeling and who knew the pulse of the public as few others could know it—was with the movement. They knew what the people were thinking and knew the leaders in the new movement were on the right track.

The battle was for the maintenance of proper taxation of railroads in this State, Mr. Colby went on, for the popular selection of U. S. Senators through the primaries, and for the enactment of a law compelling chairmen of committees in the Legislature to report bills on the demand of a certain number of legislators. Whenever there was a thoroughly rotten political condition, it could be traced to a bad political idea, and in this fight it was to be remembered that men were not the marks for assault, but ideas.

Different issues were to be considered in different counties, the speaker said in closing. The Union county men were to raise up their own. He urged on them the necessity for hard work. They were to get their candidates early in the field and get into the field themselves. They were to tell every single voter what they stood for and what they hoped to do. If they did that, no power could beat them.

Before the meeting closed it was voted to have 1,000 copies of the constitution printed for use in organizing the branches throughout the county. A meeting of the executive committee will be held at Mr. Groves' law office next Monday night, to lay out the first steps of the county campaign.

HORSE THIEVES VISIT PISCATAWAY TOWNSHIP

TAKE CHARLES DAY'S HORSE AND CHARLES THORNTON'S BUGGY.

Horse thieves are again at work in Piscataway township and the residents are up in arms. Sunday morning between 3 and 3.30 o'clock thieves entered the barn of Charles Day at New Market and stole his valuable horse and best harness. From there they went to Charles Thornton's barn nearby and appropriated his new buggy, which they made their escape in the direction of New Brunswick.

The Piscataway Township Protective Association took charge of the matter at once and sent out a general alarm.

The protective association offers a standing reward for the detection and conviction of thieves. Mr. Day valued his horse at about $150 and the harness at $50. The buggy is worth about $100.

RAILROAD EMPLOYEES AFTER BESSLER TROPHY.

Police Department Defeats Central Building Nine.

The first of the series of games to be played by the nine teams comprising the Baseball League of the C. R. R. of N. J. Athletic Association in the contest for the trophy presented by W. G. Besler, of this city, vice president and general manager of the road, took place on the home grounds, Communipaw avenue, Jersey City, Saturday afternoon, between the "police department" and "Central building" teams. It resulted in a victory for the former team. Owing to the game being started late it was called at the end of the seventh inning to enable the "Car Service" and "Pier 32" teams to play their first game in same series. The score by innings:

	R.	H.	E.
P. D. ...4 1 4 7 3 2 3—22	15	5
C. B. ...0 0 5 0 0 0 0— 5	8	12

Batteries—Ponder and Sullivan, Weatherwax and Clements. Umpire, Mr. Mulligan.

The game between the Car Service and Pier 32 teams was called in the first inning on account of rain, with the score 4 to 0 in favor of Pier 32.

Mr. Chaffey, chief advertising representative for the New York and New Jersey Telephone Company, visited Manager C. W. Runyon, at the local exchange, yesterday.

Mrs. John VanHorn, of Somerset street, who was operated upon last Friday, at the hospital, has returned home and is improving.

Caroline Hewitt, the young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hewitt, of Fritz avenue, is slowly improving from an operation for peritonitis.

BASEBALL SEASON OPENS GOLFERS DIVIDE HONORS GOVERNOR NAMES VAIL

Clinton Avenue Team Took Place of All-Cubans Who Failed to Appear.

PLAYED FAST BALL

Plainfield Team Squeezed Out a Victory By Close Score—Fitzsimmons Umpired the Bases.

The hopes of 2,500 baseball fans were blasted and trailed in the dust Saturday over the non-appearance of the All Cuban team which was booked to play the opening game with the Plainfields. The inability of the Cubans to be here was conveyed to Manager Daab as he stepped off the 2:11 train Saturday afternoon, in a telegram from Nat C. Strong, who is engaged as the team's booking agent this season. The telegram was bereft of any detailed information but simply stated that the players had not arrived on the Havana steamer in New York, Saturday, as expected.

Almost crushed with the information Manager Daab hardly knew which way to turn or what course to pursue. Luckily the Clinton Avenue team had an off-day and Manager John Feeney was hunted up, who after much difficulty, succeeded in getting his aggregation on the grounds with uniforms.

In the meantime the grounds were packed with indications for a record-breaking crowd of 3,000 or over. In other words the waiting fans of the disappointment word was despatched to the grounds, where President Runyon, of the Baseball Association, announced it to the crowd. He made known the fact that all who didn't care to remain could have their money refunded at the gates.

Although the news took the heart out of all the fans not over two hundred left the grounds. They thoroughly appreciated the unfortunate turn of events but exhibited its true sportsmanship by remaining until the Clinton Avenue and Plainfield teams started off, which was shortly after 4 o'clock.

Everybody who remained was well paid as a rattling good struggle ensued between the amateurs and semi-professionals, the latter winning out by the score of 3 to 1. The majority prepared themselves for a one-sided runaway match, but the Clinton Avenues, with Montross in the box, played an exceptionally strong game and proved a bothersome problem for the semi-professionals throughout the contest. The West End team was fast in the field but its inability to execute any base hit work prevented any run-getting, with the exception of the solitary tally that went across the plate while Deegan was on the stab.

"Jimmy" Montross was never in better form and fooled his opponents at every stage of the game. He mixed his slow ones with speedy shoots and kept them guessing until the last inning. Montross' fine work elicited applause at intervals throughout the game. O'Loughlin's work behind the bat was also clever.

"Bob" Fitzsimmons' work as umpire on the base lines was free from criticisms. The exponent of the many "jollies" and words of advice from the grandstand at intervals, but he failed to get rattled and performed his duty in a business-like manner.

During the rain waits the Cuban banner was unfurled to the breeze amid a demonstration of enthusiasm. The emblem floated proudly and defiantly, its presence giving the appearance of being more like a ball field than ever.

The unfortunate experience of Saturday will not be duplicated in the future, and the officials of the association appreciate the indulgence of the fans and the fairness of spirit displayed on receipt of the disappointing news.

The score:

Plainfield.	R.	H.	PO.	A.	E.
Bertwhistle, rf	0	1	2	0	1
Wilson, 2b	0	1	0	2	3
Henriques, 1b	0	0	10	1	0
Mallen, cf	0	0	2	0	0
Leonard, 3b	1	0	3	3	0
Heffron, rf	1	2	1	1	0
Curley, ss	1	1	1	1	0
O'Neil, c	0	1	7	1	0
Smith, p	0	1	0	0	0
Deegan, p	0	0	0	1	0
Kelly, p	0	0	0	0	0
	3	8	27	11	4

Clinton Avenue.	R.	H.	PO.	A.	E.
A. Scott, lf	0	1	1	0	0
W. O'Loughlin, c	0	1	6	0	0
B. Martin, 2	1	1	2	2	0
J. Martin, ss	0	0	1	3	0
J. Montross, p	0	0	1	3	0
Mahaffey, 3b	0	0	1	0	0
O. Dodge, cf	0	0	2	0	0
H. Montross, rf	0	0	4	0	0
D. Scott, 1b	0	0	6	0	1
	1	3	24	8	1

Score by innings:
Plainfield .....0 2 0 0 0 0 1 0 x—3
Clinton Ave. ...0 0 0 1 0 0 0 0 0—1

Surprised Miss Ptaschinska.

Miss Hulda Ptaschinska, of Philadelphia, at trained nurse, was given a surprise party at her home in Duer street Saturday night. There were guests from Philadelphia, Riverton, Easton, Elizabeth, Newark, Brooklyn and Plainfield.

GOLFERS DIVIDE HONORS

H. D. Hibbard and E.B. Shoemaker Each Return a Score of 81.

PLAY FOR THE MAY CUP

Many Enthusiasts Engage In Weekly Competitions—Mrs. E. E. Iremonger Wins Clock Golf Contest.

While the initial tennis tournament, men's doubles, at the Plainfield County Club, on Saturday, attracted several golf enthusiasts, there was a good sized entry for the Golf Committee cup, weekly competition, and some excellent scores were returned. There were also a number who entered and played, but for various reasons did not post their scores afterward. It was a delightful day for golf and the course showed improvement.

Henry D. Hibbard and E. B. Shoemaker were tie for first honors for the Golf Committee cup, each returning a net score of 81. As the former had a low handicap and the latter played from scratch their scores were considered exceptionally good at this time of the year. C. B. Morgan won the remaining point with a score of 83, from scratch. Mr. Hibbard and Mr. Shoemaker each received 2½ points.

The scores for the Golf Committee cup are as follows:

Henry D. Hibbard, 86, 5-81; E. B. Shoemaker, 81, 0-81; C. B. Morgan, 83, 0-83; Hugh F. Fox, 99, 15-84; Carl Earl, 94, 15-89; James P. Murray, 104, 13-91.

Another event of interest on Saturday was the first play for the May cup, presented by E. B. Shoemaker. This is to be competed for each Saturday in the month. Henry D. Hibbard and E. B. Shoemaker divided the honors in the initial competition with a score of 81. The scores:

Henry D. Hibbard, 86, 5-81; E. B. Shoemaker, 81, 0-81; Hugh F. Fox, 99, 15-84; C. F. Earl, 104, 15-89; James P. Murray, 104, 13-91.

In the women's clock golf contest, the first one held this season, Mrs. E. E. Iremonger was the winner with a score of 23.

The Park Golf Club opened the season on Saturday with general play. As the schedule of events have not yet been entirely completed the attendance was small for the opening day. It is expected that by another week the play will be well underway at this popular club and that there will be considerable rivalry in the various competitions.

There was an informal opening of the Middlebrook Country Club, Plainfield, on Saturday and a large number of members took part in the general play. Arrangements are now being made for a tournament on Decoration Day, handicaps to be determined on the same general basis as for the Election day. It will be under the management of Charles Byer, Jr., from whom all information can be secured.

THE TENNIS SEASON OPENED AT THE P.C.C

CLUB TOURNAMENT, MEN'S DOUBLES ATTRACTS MANY PLAYERS.

The tennis season was opened at the Plainfield County Club on Saturday afternoon with a club tournament, men's doubles. There was a generous response to the invitation on the part of the members and it indicates that tennis will be more popular at the club this year than ever. The courts are in fine condition, having been given a good deal of attention during the spring months.

In the first round A. D. Beers and W. P. Glenney beat Willard Wadsworth and W. L. Glenney, 6-1, 4-6, 6-0; Frederick W. Goddard and H. Carter beat T. M. Day and partner, by default; Owen H. Fleming and W. L. Righter beat Charles W. King and Lawrence L. Tweedy, 6-0, 6-1; Wylie Brown and H. J. Cochran beat Arthur Lovell and James F. Middledith, 6-3, 6-4; J. L. Fleming and T. M. Day, 3d, beat J. Hartley Mellick and Morris J. Dumont, 6-2, 6-3.

In the second round A. D. Beers and W. P. Glenney beat Owen H. Fleming and W. L. Righter, 6-1, 12-10; Wylie Brown and H. J. Cochran beat Howard W. Beebe and J. Whitney Baker, 6-2, 6-3.

One match in the semi-finals was played when Wylie Brown and H. J. Cochran beat J. L. Fleming and T. M. Day, 3d, 6-0, 6-0. The winners of the match between A. D. Beers and W. P. Glenney and H. Carter and Frederick W. Goddard, to be played this week, will meet Wylie Brown and H. J. Cochran in the finals.

Socialists Meeting.

The Socialists of New Jersey will hold their convention at West Hoboken on Wednesday, May 30. The most important business to come before the convention is the attempt at fusion by the two factions—Socialist Labor party and Socialist party. At the meeting Friday night there will be a debate on "Resolved, that unity in our party is a desideratum."

RIVALS FOR VACANCY

Anglesman a Strong Candidate for County Judgeship—Atwater, Swift and English After Berth.

Senator Ernest R. Ackerman and County Chairman Frank H. Smith returned from Trenton Monday with the nomination of Judge Benjamin Vail as judge of the Circuit Court, the position declined by former Governor Foster M. Voorhees about a fortnight ago. The appointment made by Governor Stokes is ad intrim, but there is no doubt that his action will be confirmed by the Senate next winter.

Judge Vail's appointment was a forgone conclusion from the moment that ex-Governor Voorhees declined the berth. It was hoped that an appointment to fill the vacancy in the county judgeship occasioned by Judge Vail's elevation to the higher bench could be made at the same time but there are so many aspirants for that honor that no decision will be announced by the Governor until the end of the week.

One of the most prominent candidates for the position is Winfield S. Anglesman, of this city. He is said to have the support of Senator Ackerman and other county leaders and is being actively considered by the Governor. Other candidates include City Attorney C. Addison Swift, Prosecutor N. C. J. English and District Court Judge Atwater, all of Elizabeth. All these rival candidates has a good following and their friends are using every effort with the powers that be.

Owing to the appointment of Judge Vail to the Circuit Court there will be no session of the Orphans' Court, which is connected with the Court of Common Pleas, in Union county, tomorrow. Judge Vail takes possession of his new office immediately.

The mother of Rev. A. E. Finn, of East Ninth street, is slowly improving from a serious illness.

Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin A. Hegeman, of Myrtle avenue, have been entertaining company from New York.

MARRIED.

CLAWSON — WOODCOCK — On Thursday, May 3, 1906, at the residence of the bride's parents, 678 West Seventh street, Plainfield, N. J., by the Rev. C. L. Goodrich, Marion Drake Woodcock to Dr. Frank Tilsworth Clawson, both of Plainfield, N. J.

WRIGHT — CABLE — On Tuesday, May 1, 1906, at the home of the bride's father, Tarrzawhile, Northampton, Mass., Isabel Stewart, daughter of Mr. George W. Cable, to Boardman Wright, of Plainfield, New Jersey.

DIED.

CRANE—At Netherwood, May 2, 1906, Mary E., wife of Joseph Crane.

JULIANA—At Elizabeth, N. J., May 7, 1906, Sister M. Juliana, aged 68 years.

BARTON—At Council Bluffs, Ia., Friday, May 4, 1906, Harry P. Barton, husband of Fannie E. Overland, aged 28 years.

JACKSON—On Sunday, May 7, 1906, Annie E., wife of Amos Jackson, in her 60th year.

COOKE—On Tuesday, May 1, 1906, C. Jessie Cooke.

BARRETT—On Friday, May 4, 1906, Florence Woodbury Spink, wife of Walter H. Barrett.

WUERGLER—In this city, May 2, 1906, Rudolph Heinrich, son of Rudolph and Catharine Wuergler, aged 9 years, 7 months, 3 days.

BURKE—In this city, May 2, 1906, Bridget Burke.

Wanted

Summer Board.

By thousands of Brooklyn people. Can you take a few? If so, list your house in the BROOKLYN DAILY EAGLE FREE INFORMATION BUREAU, for which purpose a printed Blank is provided.

The service of the INFORMATION BUREAU

Will Cost You Nothing

The Brooklyn Eagle is the best advertising medium in the world. It carries more resort advertisements than any New York paper. It stands PRE-EMINENTLY at the head.

An ADVERTISEMENT in the Eagle costs little, but brings large results. Because the EAGLE INFORMATION BUREAU is constantly helping it.

Write for listing blank and Advertising Rate Card. Address

INFORMATION BUREAU,
BROOKLYN DAILY EAGLE,
Brooklyn, N. Y.

Mention the paper in which you see this advertisement. 5 2 2m

W. R. CODINGTON,
Counsellor-at-Law
Commissioner of Deeds, Master-in-Chancery, Notary Public. Offices Corner of Park avenue and Second street.

ALBERT HEDDEN
Livery & Boarding Stables
FOURTH ST.,
between Watchung and Park avenues. First-class Livery. Horses boarded by week or month. Telephone call No. 114.

Wm. A. Woodruff
Fire and Life
INSURANCE AGENT
OFFICE,
Corner Front St. and P...

Sanitary Plumbing
Brick and Portable Furnace
Gas Fitting, Tin Roofing,
Etc., Etc., Etc.

I am prepared to do any of the above branches in strictly first-class sanitary and workmanship manner.

Having associated myself with the Master Plumbers Association of New York City, I employ none but first-class mechanics and non-union men. I believe in every man running his own business at all times and in cases.

D. W. LITTELL,
No. 112 North Ave., Plainfield, N. J.

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE
PATENTS
TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &C.
Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. HANDBOOK on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents. Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the Scientific American.
A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.
MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

NEW IN EVERY DETAIL
My new barber shop at
143 NORTH AVE.
is now open ready for business. All the latest appointments in the tonsorial line.
EDWIN B. MAYNARD.

CARNEY BROS.,
MADISON AVENUE,
Between Front and Second streets.
Tinners,
Plumbers
and
Gas Fitters.
Grates and bricks for all kinds of stoves can be found here at Jobbers' prices. Bring your tinware mending to us. The best tinners, the best plumbers, and the best gas-fitters in this section. We use none but the very best of materials, and our work always gives satisfaction. Keys of all kinds are made here. Tinware made to order. Ranges, brick and portable furnaces. Sanitary plumbing.

DIME
Savings Institution,
Of Plainfield, N. J.,
Is now receiving deposits with interest allowed on all sums from $5 to $3,000.
J. Frank Hubbard, President.
Wm. F. Arnold, } Vice-Pres
Jeremiah Manning, }
J. C. Pope, Sec'y and Treas.
Money deposited on or before January tenth will draw interest from the first.

Guaranteed Salary
$900 YEARLY.
Men and women of good address to represent us, some to travel, others to remain at home, to solicit trade from consumers for local work looking after our interests. $900 salary guaranteed yearly; extra commissions; expenses paid as advancement; old established house. Grand chance for earnest man or woman to secure pleasant, permanent position; liberal income from home. New, brilliant lines. Write at once.
STAFFORD PRESS,
23 Church St., New Haven, Conn

WILL BUILD 50 HOUSES

Developement of Highland Park Planned on a Large Scale.

OPERATORS CONTRACT

Big Corporation In New York Buys Over 100 Lots and Agrees to Put Up Residences at Once.

Within a year, according to plans announced this morning in connection with a big realty deal, fifty houses will spring up in Highland Park, located on what was known as the Mulford Cole farm.

Over a hundred lots in the park have been sold to the L. W. Spear Real Estate Corporation, one of the largest companies of its kind in New York, and the management has taken steps to put moderate sized houses on fifty of them without delay. The company has contracted with the Highland Park Realty Company, of which Elston M. French is president, to erect fifteen houses within ninety days, and have the other thirty-five up within a year. The sale price of the lots to the Spear corporation was made by Elston M. French's agency.

The development of its Highland Park holdings by the Spear company will do a lot to maintain and boost the boom in Plainfield realty. They will advertise their Plainfield property largely in the New York papers and other high class advertising mediums, spreading the knowledge of the city's good points before millions of people. The Spear offices in this city will be in the McCutchen building, where, through Mr. French's agency, the corporation has rented a store on a long lease. All their local operations will be directed from this point.

The success of Highland Park as a field for residential development is assured. Nearly 200 lots have been sold there. F. L. C. Martin is among the recent purchasers. He bought a number of them.

In connection with the proposed operations of the Spear Corporation, it is interesting to note that L. W. Spear, president and manager of the company, will make his residence in this city. Mr. French brought all the beauties of the city before him, and It was not a hard task to induce him to become a Plainfielder. He has rented the handsome residence owned by Mrs. Eugene A. Gross, 722 West Seventh street. Mr. Spear is one of the brightest real estate operators in New York, and his personal interest in the city will make him one of the great factors in its development.

SHOUT 'GOVERNOR' COLBY

George L. Record Also Boomed For Senatorship at Dollar Dinner.

REFORMERS SPEAK

Mayor Fagan's Boom For Record Seconded by Senator Colby Who Pledges His Vote.

Mayor Mark M. Fagan, of Jersey City, advanced Corporation Counsel George L. Record as a candidate for United States Senator as a successor to Senator John F. Dryden Thursday at a Fagan dollar dinner in Columbian Hall, Jersey City. While the nomination was a surprise, it was received with enthusiasm by nearly all of the six hundred guests at the dinner. Many of the more conservative men in the reform movement at the dinner looked upon the step of Mayor Fagan as purely a personal one. It was pointed out that there had been no reform party conference on the Senatorship affair, nor had one been in immediate prospect.

In introducing Senator Colby, the toastmaster referred to him as "a man I hope soon to see the Governor of the State of New Jersey."

This announcement caused prolonged applause, and three cheers and a tiger for "Governor" Colby were given with a will.

James W. McCarthy, president of the Jersey City Board of Aldermen, was the toastmaster, and ex-Freeholder George W. Nelson made the address of welcome. The Rev. Dr. J. F. Heindel made the invocation. The Bergen Republican quartette sang. The speakers whose remarks aroused intense enthusiasm besides Mayor Fagan, Senator Colby and Mr. Record were Assemblyman Martin, Corporation Attorney Robert Carey, Sheriff Sommer, of Essex, and City Controller Thomas McEwan, Jr.

TRICKS WIN IN BASE BALL GAMES

QUICK-WITTED PLAYS THAT HAVE DECEIVED THE UMPIRE.

Tricks, worked with such exceeding speed as to deceive the umpire, the opposing team and often practically every one in the ground, have been pulled off again and again by clever ball players, and many of them have won games.

It is strange that the stories of such tricks are confined to so few men. Whether that is because only a few turn such tricks or whether all the clever tricks were attributed to them, just as all the funny tsories are attributed to notorious story tellers, no one knows. But the greatest of t hetricks are attributed to Mike Kelly, Jimmy McAleer, Ped Tebeau, Billy Hamilton, Comiskey, Tip O'Neil or Tommy McCarthy.

Tricks are pulled off almost every day—little ones, often unsportsmanlike—but they win ball games—and that, especially in professional games, is all that counts. It is boldness and quick thinking and acting that make them possible, and however one may feel about the sportsmanship of the player who turns the trick, he cannot but admire the cererity of the player.

Dalrymple's Successful Pantomime.

Dalrymple, the old Chicago star, once won a game by one of the cleverest tricks ever pulled off. It was in the game with Philadelphia, when the pennant fortunes of the team seemed wavering. The game was close and went into extra innings with the score 5 to 5, and both teams fighting for every inch of ground. The afternoon had begun with darkness descending over the field—with the score still a tie.

Chicago scored one run and the Philadelphia crowd, which had the last bats, was howling at the umpire to call the game on account of darkness, but he refused, and the Quakers were sent to the bat. Two men were retired and then a single and a double suddenly changed the aspect of things.

With men on second and third and a big batter up, Chicago's chances grew dim and they began delaying and fighting for darkness. Still the umpire was obdurate—and the batter was pitched. The batter swung. There was a crack and the sphere went flying out to eft centre. It was lost from sight in an instant. The crowd did not know whether it was a home run or a high fly.

The umpire went starring towards the plate. In that instant Dalrymple stood still, shoved both hands above his head, waited an instant, jerked them down, stuck something into his mouth and started running to the clubhouse, while the crowd roared over Chicago's victory.

But in the clubhouse Dal confessed that he hadn't seen the ball at all, hadn't the slightest idea, where it was. He simply made his entire play of catching it was pantomime—which fooled everybody except a few in the left field bleachers—who saw the ball cross the left field fence of the ground and fall into the street.

Another Good Imitation.

Johnny Evers worked a clever trick a couple of seasons ago that resulted in a putout. He was playing second, and there was a runner on first when the batter cracked a hot liner straight at him. In some way the ball shot straight between his legs and rolled on out to center field. Vithout blinking an eyelash Evers went through the pantomime of throwing the ball to second to force out a runner. The ball, covering the base, pretended to catch the ball—and the baserunner, completely fooled, stopped and started to walk to the bench. Before the yells of his teammates aroused the base runner Steinfeldt had received the ball and thrown the runner out at second.

Fred Clark's Quickness.

Fred Clarke won a game for Pittsburg once, when Pittsburg was losing games to hold the championship, by a trick which beat Chicago out of a deserved victory. He was on second base—with two out in the ninth inning and Chicago leading—when Wagner rapped a terrific line drive almost straight at Dahlen, who was playing short. Clarke already had started for third, but seeing that Dahlen was camped one the line of the ball, he ran up, stopped, made a bluff as if dodging, and, just before the ball reached him, he dropped flat. The ball shot past, struck Dahlen on the side of the neck and felled him to the ground. Clarke reached third before the sphere was recovered. Chicago made a strong fight for interference, but Clarke's acting had been so well done that it deceived even the umpire, and an instant later a long drive beat Chicago.

Kelly Cut Two Bases and Scored.

The late Kelly was the man who copy-righted the idea of cutting bases. Kel never tried to cut a base ten feet—he wanted to score from first by running around the pitcher —and that is exactly what he did in a game against New York.

He was on first when the batter rapped a grounder toward third. Without an instant's hesitation Kel started straight toward the pitcher's box, yelling: "Watch Kelly." "Watch Kelly," at the top of his voice.

The umpire and the opposing players had too much experience with Kelly and his tricks to pay any attention to him, so the third baseman scooped the ball and shot it to first, the umpire running there to watch the play. Kel almost ran over the pitcher, and then, with one fleeting glance at the umpire, he turned and struck through the diamond for the plate.

"Out!" yelled the umpire on the runner at first base, and then, turning quickly, he sought Kel—and discovered him just sliding across the plate with a yell of victory. He had scored from first on an infield out—and, although the opposing team yelled long and loud, the umpire was forced to admit he had not seen Kelly cut a base—and the score counted.—Rugh S. Fullerton.

THOUSAND INVITED TO NUPTIAL CEREMONY

C. W. ABBOTT LEADS MISS HOXFEY TO THE ALTER ON MAY 19.

Invitations have been issued by Mrs. Elizabeth Hoxfey of Paterson, to the marriage of her daughter, Miss Elsa Hoxfey, and C. Westley Abbott, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Abbott, of Central avenue. The event will be celebrated in St. Paul's church, Paterson, Saturday afternoon, May 19, at 4 o'clock. One thousand friends have been invited to the ceremony and a small reception will follow at the home of the bride's mother. The ceremony will be performed by Rev. Dr. Hamilton, pastor of the church.

The bride will be attended by four bridesmaids, her two sisters, the Misses Margaret and Dorothy Hoxfey; Miss Helen Wilcox and Miss Constance Griggs, all of Paterson. Gordon Abbott, brother of the groom, will be the best man and the ushers will be Robert Abbott, another brother of the groom, and H. Reeve Stockton, of Plainfield; J. H. Thompson of Mr. Chamberlain, of New York; William L. Torrey, of Scranton, Pa., and Kenneth Dodge, of Paterson. Mr. Thompson, Mr. Torrey and Mr. Chamberlain were classmates of the groom at Yale, Mr. Abbott being graduated in the class of '99 and Yale law school in the class of '01. He is now a practicing lawyer in New York.

Mr. Abbott has leased a summer home near Paterson where he and his bride will remain until fall.

STATE HOMOEOPATHS

ELECT NEW OFFICERS.

State Meeting of Association of Men of Small Dose School.

The fifty-third annual session of the New Jersey State Homoeopathic Medical Society was held Tuesday morning and afternoon in the assembly chamber of the state house at Trenton.

Officers elected at the morning session were as follows: President, Dr. Edwin B. Hall, Passaic; first vice president, Dr. Ella P. Upham, Asbury Park; second vice president, Dr. Charles F. Adams, Hackensack; third vice president, Dr. L. E. Griscom, Camden; recording secretary, Dr. Carl H. Wintsch, Newark; honorary corresponding secretaries, Dr. Wallace M. George, Camden, and Dr. Lason Dennis, Newark; corresponding secretary, Dr. Alfred Drury, Paterson; treasurer, Dr. F. Rake Yeehawkers, censors, Dr. J. H. Garrison, Red Bank; Dr. Charles H. Church, Newark; Dr. Anna J. Crowthers, Elizabeth; Dr. C. C. Straughn, Matawan; Dr. C. F. Hadley, Camden.

The opening prayer was made by Rev. Morgan Edwards, D. D., of the First Methodist church, of Trenton, and Mayor Frederick W. Gnichtel made the address of welcome.

The work of the session was technical. Papers on medicine. Among the exhibits was one of the child born a few weeks ago in South Jersey with its heart on the outside of the body.

Papers were read by the following doctors: Bevier H. B. Sleight, M. D., Newark, "Cholelithias," Carl H. Wintsch, M. D., Newark, "Treatment of Pruritus Ani," and "Report of Case of Complete Cardiac Protrusion." William F. Beggs, M. D., Newark, "Nasal Affections, Its Causes and Treatment." Edward Hill Baldwin, M. D., Newark, "Better Look Into It." Bernard Clausen, M. D., Hoboken, "Worms." Bradford W. Giveans, M. D., East Orange, "Should Bicarbonate of Soda, or Lime Water be Added to an Infant's Food as a Routine Measure?" Bevier H. B. Sleight, M. D., Newark, "Care and Repair of the Perineum."

WEDDING CEREMONY OF 50 YEARS AGO REPEATED.

Feature at Anniversary Celebration Given by Mr. and Mrs. Herman Killer.

Gathering a large number of friends about them at the home of their son-in-law, Herman Kilsman, of Harrison avenue, Thursday Mr. and Mrs. Christian Keller, of that thoroughfare, celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of their wedding. The guests included two daughters, Mrs. Kilsman and Mrs. Wm. Kreutzfeldt, seven grandchildren and one great-grandchild, Herman Waters. Rev. Paul Mergler, of New York, who married Mr. and Mrs. Keller in New York in 1856, was also present and tied the knot over the kick half century before. The only other guest at the original wedding who is living is Mr. Keller's brother, Jacob Keller, of the borough, but he was unable to attend the celebration because of illness.

Features of the gathering were vocal and instrumental music, the latter being continued until midnight. The celebrants received many gifts, one of them a gold mounted pipe to Mr. Keller. It was presented to him by his great-grandchild, Herman Waters, a very small boy but able to make the "speech."

Friends from a distance who were present came from New York, Bayonne, Newark and other places.

Mrs. A. E. Giddes, of the borough, has been discharged from the hospital, where she underwent an operation a few weeks ago. She is improving rapidly.

Mrs. Baltus Melick, of East Front street, has returned from a visit with friends at North Branch.

MISS WOODCOCK BRIDE OF DR. F. T. CLAWSON

CEREMONY PERFORMED IN PRESENCE OF 150 GUESTS.

At the home of the bride's parents on West Seventh street at 7:30 last Thursday, Miss Marion D. Woodcock, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Woodcock, was made the wife of Dr. Frank T. Clawson, also a resident of West Seventh street. The ceremony was performed in the parlor, prettily decorated with apple blossoms, palms, ferns and smilax, by Rev. Charles L. Goodrich, pastor of the Congregational church. Guests numbering 150 were in attendance from this city, New York, Brooklyn, Philadelphia, Newark, Rahway, New Rochelle, N. Y., and El Paso, Texas.

Miss Woodcock wore a gown of white crepe de chine, trimmed with lace, and a tulle veil. She carried a bouquet of lillies-of-the-valley. She was attended by her sister, Miss Ellena Woodcock, as maid of honor, whose gown was of pink crepe de chine. Her bouquet was of bride roses. R. D. Rice, of this city, was best man and Dr. Marc Clawson and Dr. O. H. Whitcomb were ushers. The bridal party was preceded by Miss Margaret Rice as flower girl, carrying a hat filled with sweet peas. She was dressed in white mulle. The bride was given away by her father. William Dunn played the wedding march.

Following the ceremony a reception was held during which Dr. and Mrs. Clawson were the recipients of hearty congratulations. A collation was served and during its conclusion the bride and groom departed amid showers of confetti for a southern wedding trip. They will visit several points of interest and on returning will make their home on West Seventh street.

The decorations throughout the house were very pretty, a color scheme of pink and white being maintained. The dining room was all in roses and carnations and in the hall flowers of the same hue were set off by a profusion of smilax.

The bride and groom have hosts of friends in the city and elsewhere as was attested by the large number of presents they received. They comprised silverware, pictures, cut glass, bric-a-brac and furniture. Dr. Clawson has practiced dentistry in Plainfield for a long time and is a recognized authority in the profession.

DAVIS DEMANDS

FULL RETRACTION.

Jersey City Democratic Leader Will Sue if Beach Does Not Apologize.

In his criticism of the police authority of Jersey City for allowing the Eastern League baseball game last Sunday for the benefit of the San Francisco sufferers, William H. Beach, a member of the West Side M. E. church, referred to Robert Davis, a big political boss in the Jersey City Club, as "the arch enemy of Jersey City for twenty-five years."

Mr. Davis directed yesterday Councellor Joseph M. Noonan to bring a suit for damages against Mr. Beach unless he retracts the objectionable remarks.

While Mr. Beach and others are working hard to prevent any future Sunday baseball games, a movement was started to give a benefit game next Sunday for St. Francis Hospital.

Many prominent citizens and clergymen have expressed themselves as favoring Sunday games.

Rev. Father Sullivan, rector of St. Aloysius Catholic church, said:

"I am not opposed to the Sunday baseball game if the crowd is orderly—and that depends upon the efficiency of the police anywhere—and also if all saloons in the vicinity of the grounds are closed. I understand that the saloonkeepers in the neighborhood of the Jersey City Club's grounds were closed last Sunday."

Rev. Gottlieb Andrew, pastor of St. John's Lutheran Evangelical church, said:

"I do not agree with these west side people in this matter. I am in favor of Sunday baseball playing if those who attend such games conduct themselves as a respectable, law-abiding body. I consider that the Sunday baseball match draws the majority of young men from the saloons."

OPEN ATHLETIC MEET.

Chance for Amateurs to Display Their Ability on the Track.

An open athletic meet will be held at Fair Acres track, Westfield, on May 30, under the auspices of the Seneca Athletic Club. The meet will be for amateurs under twenty years of age. This is the list of events:

Standing broad jump, running broad jump, 16-pound shot put, sixty yard dash, 100 yard dash, 220 yards dash, 440 yards dash, 880 yards run, 220 yards dash, handicap, boys under sixteen years of age; sixty yards three-legged race, one mile relay, four men, for high schools only, one mile relay, four men, for club teams only. Entry blanks can be obtained from Clinton D. Glipin, 245 Broad street, Westfield. Entry for each event is fifty cents, except in the junior event, which is twenty-five cents. Relay teams $2. Conditions of the meet and list of prizes will be found on back of entry blanks.

DEATH COMPLICATES SUIT

Mrs. Bridget Burke's Demise Begins Another Chapter to Litigation.

OVER INSURANCE FUND

Paid On Son-in-Law James Anderson's Life and Sued For By His Father.

Mrs. Bridget Burke, who lived for many years on West Fourth street near Plainfield avenue and who was one of the best known residents in that section of the West End, died at her home Wednesday afternoon. She had been in poor health for a long time and failed rapidly in the past few weeks.

Mrs. Burke was about sixty years old and until a short time ago kept an local confectionery store in front part of her residence. The boys of twenty years ago were all her patrons and she knew everyone by the nicknames they gave each other.

Mrs. Burke's death will add further complications to the long drawn out legal contest between herself and John Anderson, of New Brunswick, for insurance money paid by the Catholic Benevolent Legion at the death of the former's son-in-law, James Anderson married Miss Rose Burke and made her his beneficiary. She died before he could be released away a short time afterward without naming anyone else. The courts recognized Mrs. Burke and another daughter, Miss Julia Burke, as heirs-at-law to Rose Anderson and proceeded to pay them the money.

Anderson's lawyers brought suit, claiming next of kin to the son, and just after papers had been served, Miss Julia Burke died. The proceedings were then re-instituted and Mrs. Burke was named as defendant in the action alone. The case dragged along and finally was decided and handed down in Mrs. Burke's favor and the insurance was paid to her by the organization. Anderson's lawyers, William Newcorn, filed an appeal and the matter is still pending. Mrs. Burke has been represented by Attorney John P. Owens, who will continue to look after the suit in behalf of her relatives. She leaves a sister, but no other kin nearer than cousins.

LOST HIS MIND AND HIS LIFE FOR WEALTH

FORMER PLAINFIELDER ONCE WEALTHY DIES IN ASYLUM, A PAUPER.

William E. Dean, formerly of this city, once one of the best known horsemen in New York and owner of the largest and most prosperous stables in upper New York, was buried Wednesday, practically a pauper. Harlem Lodge No. 6, A. O. U. W., of which he was a member, with Supreme Court Judge V. M. Davis, former Postmaster C. W. Dayton and other prominent Harlem residents, paid for his funeral. Dean died in the insane asylum at Middletown, N. Y., of paresis, on Sunday.

Dean once ran a road house in Park avenue, the place now occupied by John I. Holly.

Following the loss of a considerable sum of money in New York contracts, in which he embarked with the hope of making a fortune, he brooded and worried himself into paresis. He became violent and uncontrollable.

His stable stood on the north side of 125th street, just east of Seventh avenue, for quarter of a century. In the days of Seventh avenue and Jerome avenue served the same for owners of fast stepping horses that the Speedway does today. Dean knew all of the famous owners, who regarded him as one of the best judges of thoroughbred horseflesh in this country. He made considerable money in those times, his income being estimated by many to be as high as $20,000 a year.

Dean's acquaintances suggested that he go into the contracting business as a side issue and he took their advice. But he knew nothing about that business and the profits he looked for never materialized. Instead, he lost everything he had, eventually losing his interest in the stable. Friends say that this blow turned his mind.

Immediate funeral service a were held over Dean in a Harlem undertaking shop Tuesday evening. He was sixty-four years old.

King's Daughters Elect.

After the regular meeting the trustees of the King's Daughters Union elected these officers for the coming year: President, Mrs. Charles A. Reed; vice president, Mrs. Frank W. Jones; recording secretary, Mrs. A. M. Laggren; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Anna Most.

Masons Give $100.

Jerusalem Lodge, No. 26, F. and A. M., has contributed $100 for the relief of the San Francisco sufferers. The money has been sent to the Grand Master of the State and will be used for the benefit of fellow Masons.

Developement of Highland Park Planned on a Large Scale.

OPERATORS CONTRACT

Big Corporation In New York Buys Over 100 Lots and Agrees to Put Up Residences at Once.

Within a year, according to plans announced this morning in connection with a big realty deal, fifty houses will spring up in Highland Park, located on what was known as the Mulford Cole farm.

Over a hundred lots in the park have been sold to the L. W. Spear Real Estate Corporation, one of the largest companies of its kind in New York, and the management has taken steps to put moderate sized houses on fifty of them without delay. The company has contracted with the Highland Park Realty Company, of which Elston M. French is president, to erect fifteen houses within ninety days, and have the other thirty-five up within a year. The sale price of the lots to the Spear corporation was made by Elston M. French's agency.

The development of its Highland Park holdings by the Spear company will do a lot to maintain and boost the boom in Plainfield realty. They will advertise their Plainfield property largely in the New York papers and other high class advertising mediums, spreading the knowledge of the city's good points before millions of people. The Spear offices in this city will be in the McCutchen building, where, through Mr. French's agency, the corporation has rented a store on a long lease. All their local operations will be directed from this point.

The success of Highland Park as a field for residential development is assured. Nearly 200 lots have been sold there. F. L. C. Martin is among the recent purchasers. He bought a number of them.

In connection with the proposed operations of the Spear Corporation, it is interesting to note that L. W. Spear, president and manager of the company, will make his residence in this city. Mr. French brought all the beauties of the city before him, and It was not a hard task to induce him to become a Plainfielder. He has rented the handsome residence owned by Mrs. Eugene A. Gross, 722 West Seventh street. Mr. Spear is one of the brightest real estate operators in New York, and his personal interest in the city will make him one of the great factors in its development.

HOW MATHEWSON BEGAN HIS LIFE.

A reader of The Evening World writes to know if we will give him some information concerning the career of Christy Mathewson, of the Giants.

The boyhood friends of the great pitcher say that of the hundreds of stories printed about Matty's early career, very few of them have been accurate. Here is one of which Mathewson and his friends will vouch for:

Christy Mathewson was born in Factoryville, Pa., in 1878. When but twelve years old he began playing with the second nine of the village. As he grew older he began to develop a wonderful physique as well as some good work. After he had gained considerable attention while playing with the Factoryville nine, he went to Keystone (Pa.) Academy and continued his good work. After graduating from the academy he went to Bucknell College and, by hard pulling, "made the team" the first year. There his success really began. His love for the game led him to follow it as a promoter, in Taunton and afterward with Norfolk, in the Virginia League. While playing with Norfolk in 1900 he was discovered by an agent for the New York National League Club, and signed a contract. That was before anything was said of drafting players. In the fall of 1900 he came to New York, and in his first game defeated Brooklyn by a score of 3 to 2. In 1901 the baseball war between the American and National leagues was just beginning, and Mathewson, without thought of the seriousness of his act, signed a contract with the Philadelphia Athletics, but later listened to good advice and renewed his contract with the New York club. That year he pitched phenomenal ball, and has kept it up ever since.

As a rule, baseball fans have the mistaken idea that Mathewson's strong-hold as a pitcher is his marvellous speed. This is not true. His "long suit," as they say in baseball, is his slow ball, or " fall away," as some have dubbed it. This ball comes up to the plate slowly and then suddenly "breaks," falling to one side of the plate. The real secret of his success, however, is his great brain work. He studies every batter carefully, and pitches the ball just where the batter does not want it. Mathewson was married three years ago.

There is no wiscom in spending all the money you can earn, nor in putting a surplus away in a stocking or teapot. In the one way you have nothing to show for your work, and in the other you lose the service your money might be doing for you. Deposit it in the City National Bank.

F. J. Huff, Esq., of West Front street, is always ready to attend to legal matters of all kinds.

Timbo's restaurant on North avenue is the best place to get the innerman attended to at popular prices.

PLAINFIELD LIBRARY NOTES

Each year the Book Board of the New York State Library selects and annotates a list of 250 of the best books of the year. Such of these books as are in the Public Library are here given, the annotations being taken from the New York State Library Bulletin

The Best Books of Fiction for 1906 in the Public Library.

Churchill, Winston.—The crossing. Pictures sweeping of civilization across the Alleghanies and settlement of Mississippi valley. Hero's love story subordinated to history times.

Daskam, J. D.—Memoirs of a baby.

Gently satirizes modern methods of child rearing and demonstrates the average baby's ability to maintain its individuality.

Duncan, Norman.—Doctor Luke of the Labrador.

Life of Labaredor fisher folk. Though it cannot but recall the work of the missionary physician, Dr. Grenfell, the hero in no sense represents him.

Glasgow, E. A. G.—The deliverance a romance of the Virginia tobacco fields.

Carefully written romance of Virginia since the Civil War, in which class pride, revenge and love are the developing forces.

Gordon, C. W.—The prospector: a tale of the Crow's Nest Pass.

Trials and triumphs of a muscular young missionary among cowboys and fortune hunters of Canadian far west.

Grant, Robert.—The undercurrent. (In magazine form only.)

Discusses divorce. Favors decision of remarriage question on merits of individual cases, giving claims of personal happiness high value.

Harland, Henry.—My friend Prospero.

A real princess, a young nobleman, a fairy godmother and a naive, delightful child play out a diverting comedy against a sunny Italian landscape.

Hewlett, Maurice.—Queen's quair.

The six years between Mary Stuart's departure from France and the night she rode a prisoner from Holyrood to Lochleven. Nation, 79:14.

As portraiture, a piece of extraordinary fine and subtle drawing. The style of writing is soaked in the hardy roughness of the time. Saturday review, 98:53.

Horton, Laurence. — Sabrina Warham, the story of her youth.

Story of English coast, of cruel seas, quiet downs and smiling farmsteads.

Howells, W. D.—Son of Royal Langbirth.

Presents a delicate moral problem, involved in suppression of truth about a man unworthy the respect paid him after death. Scene, a New England town.

Jordan, Elizabeth.—May Iverson —her book.

Convent school stories in the manner of a girl of 14 with literary ambitions. Blends cleverly childish frankness, conscious effort and gush.

Kelly, Myra.—Little Citizens.

A New York school teacher's stories of her East Side Jewish charges. Human nature and American Yiddish dialect are alike faithfully rendered.

Kipling, Rudyard.—Traffics and discoveries.

Characteristic short stories dealing with South African war, navy, army reform and the supernatural. Each story preceded by a poem embodying theme.

Lane, E. M.—Nancy Stair.

Love story of a beautiful Scotch girl of noble blood, saucy wit and a poetic gift which she dares try with Robert Burns.

Lloyd, Nelson—Soldier of the valley.

Pictures simple country life, love affairs and affection between two brothers. Hero a young man returned crippled from Spanish war.

Martin, H. R.—Tillie: a Mennonite maid.

Quaint story of an attractive Pennsylvania Dutch girl, whose aspirations rise above her sordid surroundings through the influence of her teacher, a Kentucky gentlewoman.

Mitchell, S. W.—Youth of Washington told in the form of an autobiography.

A triumph of pseudo-autobiography, based on long and careful study of its subject and interweaving so skilfully Washington's own words that absolute fact and scarcely less truthful fiction are inseparable.

Rickert, Edith.—The Reaper.

Tale of toil, peril, self-sacrifice and love among the rugged crofter fishermen of the Shetland Isles.

Sinclair, May.—Divine fire.

Hero, an obscure London poet, overcomes cockney breeding, sordid surroundings and strong passions through the inspiration of a well born young Englishwoman whom he loves.

Sinclair, Upton.—Manassas.

Less a novel than a history. Traces causes of Civil War as far back as Mexican War, and closes with battle of Bull Run.

Thompson, E. Seton.—Monarch, the big bear of Tallac.

Evolution from an affectionate and mischievous little household pet into the mysterious and ruthless sheep killer of Tallac.

Thurston, K. C.—The masquerader.

John Chilcote, M. P., secretly a slave to morphia, secures a physical double, strong willed and clean lived, to substitute during his lapses. Impossible but absorbing.

Waller, M. E.—Wood-carver of Lympus.

Love idyl of the Green mountains. An ambitious farmer crippled in early manhood finds interests in the outside world through a chance acquaintance, and becomes a wood carver of renown.

Wiggin, Mrs. K. D., and others. Affair at the Inn.

Love comedy, following chance meeting at Dartmoor inn. Written in first person, each author responsible for one character.

Juvenile Fiction.

Richards, Rosalind.—Nursery fire.

The party, the hammock ship, the mumps circus, the ogre's tablecloth and other short stories for younger children.

Taggart, M. A.—Little grey house.

Story of three nice girls, their friendships and brave struggle against adverse circumstances.

Daskam.—Madness of Philip.
Oliphant.—Margaret Maitland.
Crawford.—Marietta's wedding.
Aldrich.—Marjorie Daw.
MacDonald.—Marquis of Lossie.
Oliphant.—Mary Barton.
Reed—Master's violin.
Jordan.—Mary Iverson.
Hungerford.—Molly Bawn.
Stowe.—Minister's wooing.
Pool.—Mrs. Keats Bradford.
Rice.—Mrs. Wiggs of the cabbage patch.
Tarkington.—Monsieur Beaucaire.
Craik.—My mother and I.
Austin.—Nameless nobleman.
Wilkins.—New England nun.
Deland.—Old Chester tales.
Page.—Old gentleman of the black stock.
Ritchie.—Old Kensington.
John.—Old Mam'selle's secret.
Hay.—Old Middleton's money.
Steel.—Potterof the waters.
Howard.—One summer.
Wiggin.—Penelope's Irish experiences.
Wiggin.—Penelope's progress.
Behrens.—Penniless girl.
Fuller.—Pratt portraits.
Austen.—Pride and prejudice.
Black.—Princess of Thule.
Jewett.—Queen's twin, etc.
Tautphoeus.—Quits.
Jackson.—Ramona.
Wiggin.—Rebecca of Sunny brook Farm.
Parker.—Right of way.
Crawford.—Roman singer.
Eliot.—Romola.
Stockton.—Rudder Grange.
Van Dyke.—Ruling passion.
Hope.—Rupert of Hentzau.
Burstenbinder.—Saint Michael.
Crawford.—Sarracinesca: their story.
Thompson.—Tallahassee girl.
Johnston.—To have and to hold.
Hawkins.—Tristram of Blent.
Fuller.—Venetian June.
Howells.—Woman's reason.
Bayly.—We two.
Burnham.—West Point wooing.
Black.—White wings.
Hector.—Wooing o't.
Burnham.—Young maids and old.

RECIPES.

Nut Roast.

Shell nuts and grind enough to make two cups, or they may be chopped fine. Take a 5-cent loaf of bread which is two days old, and break the crumb fine, discarding the crust. Mix the crumbs and nuts together with a level teaspoon of salt, a saltspoon of pepper and a half level teaspoon of poultry seasoning, mixed herbs or any sweet herb that is liked; for instance, rosemary or summer savory. Melt one-quarter cup of butter, add one cup of milk and stir into the mixture, then shape into a loaf on a buttered pan that is not much larger than the loaf. Bake an hour and baste often with butter melted in water. Make a rich tomato sauce while it is baking. With a broad knife lift the nut roast to a warm platter or serving dish and pour the sauce around it.

Cornstarch Cake.

Cream two-thirds cup of butter, add two cups of sugar and beat light. Add one cup of milk alternately with one cup of cornstarch and two cups of flour sifted with five level teaspoons of baking powder, and last the stiffly beaten whites of four eggs and a teaspoon of lemon flavoring.

Cream Cake.

Put two eggs in a cup and fill the cup with sweet cream. Turn into a bowl and beat light. Add one cup of sugar and beat, then one cup of flour sifted with two level teaspoons of baking powder. Add a half teaspoonful of lemon flavoring and bake in a loaf.

Braised Liver.

Cut one onion, one carrot, one stalk of celery and one small turnip into slices and add two sprigs of parsley. Put the vegetables into a raising pan or a kettle that has a tight-fitting cover. Wash a liver and lay it on the vegetables, pour in two cups of stock of any kind, cover and bake two hours in a moderate oven. Take up the liver. Melt a rounding tablespoon of butter in a frying pan or saucepan, add the same amount of flour and when mixed stir in the gravy from the pan after it is strained. Stir and season with a tablespoon or more of any kind of catsup; pour over the liver and serve hot.

Whole Wheat Muffins.

Dissolve one yeast cake in one cup of milk, add one more cup of milk and a saltspoon of salt. Mix with three cups of whole wheat flour, cover and let rise very light. Cut down, add two well-beaten eggs and fill greased gem pans half full. Throw a piece of cheesecloth over and let rise light, then bake.

Washington Pudding.

Beat one-third cup of butter and one cup of sugar together until light, add one beaten egg, one-half cup of milk and one and one-third cups of flour sifted with two and one-half level teaspoons of baking powder. Bake in two large layer tins and spread while warm with jelly or jam and served with a hot liquid pudding sauce.

Cocoanut Cakes.

Put the whites of three eggs and one cup of powdered sugar on a platter and beat until very light with a wire spoon. Add a few drops of vanilla and one and one-half cups of shredded cocoanut. Drop teaspoons of the mixture on a buttered pan a little way apart and bake in a very slow oven until they feel firm.

LITERARY.

The cheerful man is preeminently a useful man.

The cheerful man sees that everywhere the good outbalances the bad and that every evil has its compensating balm.

The cheerful man's thought sculptures his face into beauty and touches his manner with grace.

It was Lincoln's cheerfulness and sense or humor that enabled him to stand under the terrible load of the Civil War.

If we are cheerful and contented all nature smiles with us; the air is balmier, the sky clearer, the earth has a brighter green, the trees have a richer foliage, the flowers are more fragrant, the birds sing more sweetly, and the sun, moon and stars are more beautiful.

All good thought and good action claim a natural alliance with good cheer.

High-minded cheerfulness is found in great souls, self-poised and confident in their own heaven-aided powers.

Serene cheerfulness is the great preventive of humanity's ills.

Grief, anxiety, and fear are the great enemies of human life, and should be resisted as we resist the plague. Cheerfulness is their antidote.

Without cheerfulness there can be no healthy action, physical, mental, or moral, for it is the normal atmosphere of our being.—O. S. Marden in Success Magazine.

Mr. Baer's presidency of the Philadelphia & Reading Railway and of the Coal & Railway of New Jersey puts him in control of over one-third of the anthracite-coal output of the country. In addition, he is president of the Temple Iron Company, nominally a small iron-furnace property employing some two hundred men. Actually, it is the holding company for the properties of the so-called "Coal Trust," due to the liberal provisions of its charter, which had been remodeled in the early days by Mr. Baer, then attorney for the company, who took advantage of a special act of Pennsylvania Legislature, which was, afterward repealed. Mr. Baer later acquired the control of the company and its charter, and when Mr. Morgan was uniting the combination of coal operators Mr. Baer was ready with the one necessary instrument—a charter embodying privileges impossible to obtain elsewhere. His foresight and preparedness made possible the unique position of many conflicting interests. He is now the president of this apparently insignificant corporation, nominally in the business of manufacturing iron, actually controlling the bulk of the anthracite coal trade, and which has for nearly every member of its board of directors the president of a great railway system. —From "George F. Baer, Master-Spirit of the Anthracite Industry," by Frederic William Unger, in the Monthly Review of Reviews for May.

He will be a difficult reader to please who does not find much to interest him in the May number of the Atlantic. It opens with a leading article, Man and the Actor, by Richard Mansfield, in which the foremost American actor writes with sincerity and eloquence on the meaning of an actor's life and of the present country in the American stage. It is followed by a remarkable paper by John Burroughs in his best vein entitled Camping with President Roosevelt, containing a full and breezy account of President Roosevelt's camping trip in the Yellowstone country last year, and incidentally presenting one of the most intimate pen portraits of the President that has ever been written. Charles J. Bullock's paper on Life Insurance and Speculation is a comprehensive, thoroughly informed and lucid presentation of the whole subject. Other essays of the first interest are: The Critic and the Law, by R. W. Child; Baedeker in the Making, an instructive and entertaining account of the famous guide-books from the inside, by J. F. Muirhead; Holidays and Hinderers, a plea for more holidays and more serious observance of them, by W. R. Thayer; The Terraced Garden, by Mrs. W. P. Wainwright; Froude, by Goldwin Smith; The Primitive "Tripper," by Herbert V. Abbott; and The Art of Composition, by Wilbur L. Cross.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning May 13.

By REV. S. H. DOYLE.

Topic.—Christ's Life V. Lessons from His miracles of healing.—Matt. ix, 27, 34; xii, 22-32.

In the three years of His public ministry our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ spent most of His time "in teaching, preaching and healing." His miracles were performed primarily to convince the world of His divinity. They were God's stamp of approval upon Him. In his sermon on the day of Pentecost Peter declared that God approved of Christ "by miracles, signs and wonders." But the miracles had secondary purposes. They were performed in every case except one—the cursing of the barren fruit tree for the benefit of suffering mankind. They were usually miracles of healing. "Jesus went about all the cities and villages teaching in their synagogues and preaching the gospel of the kingdom and healing every sickness and every disease among the people." But in addition to this the miracles of Christ had a didactic character. They were lessons which would embrace all the various local societies of Methodism, would be of great benefit. With this end in view representatives from all the five large societies met in Cleveland in May, 1889, to see if it was possible to agree upon some form of study. There was plainness, but earnest, and at times exciting. All felt there must be mutual concessions, but after all had been done it seemed as if no basis could be found on which all could unite. But after what appeared to be the last possible consultation earnest prayer and the spirit of Christly reasonableness found a way, and the general plan of the league was drafted and adopted and the young people of Methodism began their organization, which has since spread to all parts of the world.

The progress has been steady and healthy. The Epworth Herald is the organ of the society. It is published in Chicago. It quickly came to the front among the young people's papers of the world, securing the largest circulation of any such publication. An extensive literature has been created. The influence on the life of the church as a whole has been helpful and prophetic. The young people have been developed in practical works of benevolence, in spiritual life, social and literary pursuits and awakened to a deep and intelligent interest in the world-wide extension of the kingdom of God.

2. The miracles of Christ teach us a lesson on Christ's attitude toward humanity. He did not come to earth to behold the miseries and afflictions of men and to hold Himself aloof from them, but to sympathize with suffering humanity and to bring divine relief to their sufferings. In every miracle that He performed we see a manifestation of His sympathy, His love and His compassion for a lost and sinful race. His heart was full of pity for their sorrows and to lift men above them. Moreover, His miracles were symbolical of His attitude toward man's spiritual condition. The healing of the blind was typical of His willingness to heal the spiritually blind. He made the lame to walk He demonstrated His desire and ability to make those to "walk in the spirit" who had been crippled by walking in sin, and in raising the dead He showed that He could and willed to make alive those who were "dead in trespasses and in sins." His attitude is the same toward us today. He loves us and sympathizes with us in our physical sufferings and is able and willing to give us "rest for our souls."

3. The miracles of Christ teach us what we as His disciples are to be. While we cannot miraculously cure the sick or feed the hungry, we can feed the hungry, give drink to the thirsty, show hospitality to the stranger and visit the sick, the unfortunate and imprisoned, and if we will do so in His name He Himself will accept it as done unto Him and will accordingly reward us.

BIBLE READINGS.

Luke ii, 48-50; John ii, 1-11; vi, 1, 2; ix, 4.

On a Finnish Lamp Post.

Finnish Christian Endeavorers, of course, have been vitally interested in the recent stirring political events in that country. "As soon as the strike began," says a letter, "every public house, hotel and restaurant closed and remained closed until the czar's message came. Otherwise blood would have been spilt. The only news we received was from St. Petersburg, the official message, which the national guard posted up on the lamp posts. As soon as they had gone, up came a squad of Christian Endeavorers and posted up a text underneath to encourage the people to be patient and peaceful."

Magnetic.

It ought to be the aim of all true Endeavorers to "lift" those whom they touch day by day, but this can only be done as there is power flowing into us from God Himself. Unless we are in close touch with the Master and have His grace and divine influence flowing in us and through us we shall not succeed in raising either our church, our societies or our companions.—Rev. F. J. Horsefield, D. D.

Cheerful Endeavor.

A British Endeavorer recently gave in a convention address a new interpretation for "C. E."—Cheerful Endeavor.

The Brotherhood of Man.

And we'll praise our age of iron, and we'll sing our song of steam,
And we'll belt the tides and lightnings,
but the purport of our plan—
The deep eternal meaning of the dream within our dreaming,
Is the empire universal of the brotherhood of man.

—From a Quarter Century Endeavor Poem by Rev. Walter Fose.

STRAY STORYETTES.

A certain gentleman on being asked to subscribe toward sending out a missionary to one of the cannibal islands of the Pacific, is reported to have answered, in the most disparaging manner: "Certainly not. I am a vegetarian."

A cartoonist in Manila was presented to genial Secretary Taft. "And so you are the man," exclaimed the latter contrastingly, "that has been taking liberties with my face!" "Guilty," pleaded the caricaturist; "but remember that your face is my fortune."

A story is told of a dying rabbi, who had been all his lifetime extremely religious, but had likewise always suffered much want and misery. "Do you know," he said to those in the sick-room, "if, after all the sad experiences I have had in the past, there is no future life, I shall be greatly amused."

"I know a woman," says Belva A. Lockwood, "who got a modern servant, a cook, from a noted cooking school. On the third day she announced that he was going to leave. 'You only keep two servants,' she said to her mistress, 'and I've been accustomed to living where there are four, which suits me better on account of my partiality for bridge.'"

A red-headed man one night raked up enough courage to propose to a girl with whom he was very deeply and sincerely in love. She replied to his suit in a sad voice: "I'm very sorry, George, but I could never marry anyone with red hair." "I'm very sorry, nothing," said her suitor, "my barber tells me that at the rate my hair is falling out I'll be completely bald in two years."

THE WORLD OVER.

The attempt to acclimatize in England the famous blue poppy of Thibet has proved a failure.

Austria has enacted a law providing for the payment of a salary to the leader of the opposition in parliament.

Certain banknotes that circulate in Austria-Hungary are ornamented with the portrait of a favorite prima donna.

An advertisement from the Yorkshire Post: "Would any lady of means care to marry poor, crowded-out clerk, age 37?"

Under the auspices of the University of Frieburg, Switzerland, a business academy for women only has been opened in that city.

The Alastian city of Malhausen not only provides free baths for its school children, but medical inspection and dental treatment.

English poachers have adopted khaki for wear during business hours. They find it makes the evasion of watchful gamekeepers easier.

The town of Lucerne has bought for $200 Schaffhausen's old guillotine, and announces that it will lend it to other towns at $5.50 an execution.

During the last 11 months Oxford England, has lost by death its mayor, three aldermen and four town councilors, which is considered a municipal record.

For the exclusive purpose of looking after motorists and motor cars, a corps of 200 policemen is being raised in Paris, who will be required to pass the official examination for motorists' certificates.

With the permission of the Russian government an Italian company is trying to raise a British war vessel which sank in Balaklava bay, Crimea, during the war of 1854-56. The wreck is believed to contain a large sum of gold.

TERSE TRUTHS.

Only those who have suffered can truly sympathize.

A friend in need is a friend in deed, not alone in words.

Some men's wits are quick to propose reforms are the last to accept them.

It is better to be known as a good man than to be known as a good fellow.

Some men think they are popular merely because people impose on them.

The world has very little confidence in a man who is too proud to remember his origin.

Some men would never know they had a good time yesterday if they had no headache to-day.

Instead of complaining that they do not get what they deserve, most men should be rejoicing because of it.

If the possession of money were the only reason for happiness, the world would lose most of its cheerfulness.

A mother is always ready to trust her daughter's happiness to a young man who is courteous and polite to his sisters.

SO IT IS SAID.

A shoemaker is the whole-soler man and generally well heeled.

A baker can always raise the dough.

A butcher can usually contrive to make both ends meet.

A hatter is sure to be a block ahead of all other men.

A huckster has no trouble with the police in making a good living out of green goods.

A baby carriage manufacturer never fails to push his business.

A hairdresser, as a rule, does a thriving business in combination locks.

A newspaper man rarely fails to get his paper on the street.

An electrician is always posted on current topics.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

May 13: "Investing Our Lives" (League Anniversary.)—Matt. xiii, 44-46; Luke v, 11; xix, 28-33; John xii, 20; I Cor. ix, 19-23; Acts xx, 24-35.

By REV. WALTER J. YATES, D. D.

The story of the organization of the Epworth League at Cleveland, O., on May 15, 1889, has been often told. As each anniversary separates us by another twelvemonth from that historic event it is well to recall briefly the circumstances of that occasion and keep freshly in mind the lessons then impressed on the young life of the church.

Perhaps many of our younger people have never heard how the league came into being, and others have half forgotten, if they ever knew.

In 1880 there were five general societies of young people in the Methodist Episcopal church which had come into existence at different times and for various purposes. Some were wholly for the deepening of the religious life, some were for literary culture more particularly, and still others placed emphasis on social and benevolent features. It was felt by many that one organization, which should embrace all the various local societies of Methodism, would be of great benefit. With this end in view representatives from all the five large societies met in Cleveland in May, 1889, to see if it was possible to agree upon some form of study. There was plainness, but earnest, and at times exciting. All felt there must be mutual concessions, but after all had been done it seemed as if no basis could be found on which all could unite. But after what appeared to be the last possible consultation earnest prayer and the spirit of Christly reasonableness found a way, and the general plan of the league was drafted and adopted and the young people of Methodism began their organization, which has since spread to all parts of the world.

The progress has been steady and healthy. The Epworth Herald is the organ of the society. It is published in Chicago. It quickly came to the front among the young people's papers of the world, securing the largest circulation of any such publication. An extensive literature has been created. The influence on the life of the church as a whole has been helpful and prophetic. The young people have been developed in practical works of benevolence, in spiritual life, social and literary pursuits and awakened to a deep and intelligent interest in the world-wide extension of the kingdom of God.

The league looks more literally invested their lives in this work for Jesus Christ. Their talents, time, means and influence have all been given unstintedly to the Master's service.

It would be a pleasing task to name over the names of that Cleveland meeting and trace their subsequent course and that of the others associated in after years with them. Some have fallen asleep," but many still remain. Some occupy places of the highest honor, and others are still faithful pastors, which is, after all, perhaps the highest post of honor on earth. Some are prominent educators and one has gone from the editor's chair to the episcopal bench.

Now on this anniversary we gain inspiration from those who have made investment of their lives for the work of Christ and exhort all connected with us to invest all they have in the same service.

A Light Keeper.

Taken by itself, your life is certainly a very insignificant affair; but placed as you happen to be placed, in the kind of a universe which God has happened to make, your life becomes of infinite importance, for God has chosen to work out his designs, not in spite of you, but through you, and where you fail He halts. Almighty God needs you. You are not your own, either to be insignificant or great, but you are in the service of that which is greater than yourself, and that service touches your life with its own greatness. It is as though you were a lighthouse keeper set to do your duty on your bare rock. Can any life be more insignificant or less significant? Why sit through the weary nights to keep your flame alive? Why not sleep on, all undeserved, and let your little light go out? Because it is not your light—that is the point. You are not its owner; you are its keeper. That is your name, you are a light keeper. You are set there with this as your trust. The great design of the power you serve takes you thus out of your insignificance.—Francis G. Peabody in Christian Work and Evangelist.

Magnetic.

There are so many useful things to do
Along life's way
(Helps to the helper, if we but knew,)
So many a weary one to stay,
So many troubled hearts to soothe,
So many pathways rough to smooth,
So many comforting words to say!
To hearts that falter along the way.

Here is a lump of hope gone out
Along the way.
Some one stumbled and fell, no doubt,
Along life's way!
The old, sad story of human need
Reads on for aye!
But let us follow the Saviour's lead
Love unstinted to every man!
Content if at night the world should say,
"He helped his brother along the way."
—James Buckham in Christian Endeavor World.

HONGKONG'S ROCKEFELLER

Simple Business Habits of One of the Richest of Asia's Merchants.

They have multimillionaires in China and some of them live the simple life notwithstanding their wealth. A recent magazine article gives a striking feature of the richest Chinaman in Hong Kong—one of the richest merchants in India. He owns steamship lines, sugar refineries, quarries and what not; the offices of his clerks are fitted up with typewriters, roller-top desks, index cabinets and all the paraphernalia of an up-to-date business, yet he himself retains his old-fashioned habits. But says the article: "In a little back room, about the size of a New York boarding house hall bedroom, in one of the oldest and largest commercial houses in Hong Kong, and in all Asia, works an old, bright-eyed celestial. He is tall and bony, and his long, bony fingers are tipped with pointed, well kept nails protruding an inch or more beyond the flesh. His head is high and bald. A few scattering hairs bristle from his upper lip. A 'pigtail, (of the finest quality obtainable) hangs down his back. His lips are thin and his mouth is straight, but not hard. His whole expression is kindly if not beaming when he looks up. He wears a plain gown of good but not elegant texture. There is nothing to indicate distinction in his appearance. He sits on a high stool in front of a high old-fashioned desk, such as bookkeepers use who have to move about freely while at work. In one hand the long fingers grasp a brush-pen, which speeds with lightning rapidity over the pages of a great book, his other hand the while manipulating the beads of an abacus."

PRINTS BY ELECTRIC LIGHT

Postal Cards Turned Out Automatically by New Photographic Device.

A novel electric apparatus has been brought out in Belgium for producing photographic prints. It applies to bromide prints, which are made by artificial light, and is especially useful for turning out such prints in the shape of postal cards, producing the latter automatically and in quantities.

The operation of the apparatus is simple. An automatic device applies the sheet from a roll or magazine against the negative, then an incandescent lamp is turned on for a time, which has been previously adjusted once for all as the case of a given negative. After the exposure the lamp is turned off and the paper is removed from the negative and goes into a dark box, then a fresh piece of paper is applied and so on.

The apparatus is set so as to give a certain number of prints from a given negative and each printing operation causes a ratchet wheel to move one point in the end of the printer an electric bell is rung by the ratchet device. By means of a rheostat the time of the exposure can be adjusted from one to 200 seconds. The whole is operated by a battery of four small accumulators.

ELECTRIC LIQUID HEATER.

Recent Invention That Can Be Used for Various Household Purposes.

Eventually electricity will be used for practically all purposes, luxuries as well as necessities. Among the former class is the recent invention of a Massachusetts man—an electric heater for heating and boiling liquids, for cooking and similar purposes.

The receptacle can be varied in design to suit the individual tastes, either elaborate or simple. Incased in a false bottom of the receptacle is the heating apparatus; the current being supplied from an adjacent incandescent lamp fixture, through a wire running through the handle. Obviously by simply turning on the current the heating apparatus is set in motion, an additional advantage being the ease of carrying the receptacle to any place desired, and limited only by the length of the wire. Such an apparatus would be of invaluable use in the sick chamber or for the infant.

Power from City Sewage.

"Electrical development challenges prophecy," writes Edward B. Ellicott in the March Technical World Magazine. "Fifteen years ago a man who predicted that it would be possible to deliver the chemical—which carries off all the city sewage—and, after the completion of the plant, the full amount above mentioned—more than the city of Chicago and the other municipalities can possibly take."

Tall Wireless Mast.

A steel tower 400 feet high is being erected at Machrihanish, on the Kintyre coast of Argyllshire, for the transmission of Marconi signals across the Atlantic. From this tower it will be possible to hold communication with all vessels suitably fitted between Great Britain and North America.

One Way of Keeping Count.

First Street Arab—What's numbers on the motor car
Second Ditto—Why, ...ler's score. It ... he's run over.—

THEATRE SEASON CLOSES

First Year of the New Plainfield a Successful One From Every Standpoint.

RE-OPENS AUGUST 10

Something About Manager Counihan Who Built the Playhouse and "Made It Go."

With the fall of the curtain after the moving picture exhibition, last Monday, the New Plainfield theatre ended its first season. From every standpoint it has been one of success and reflects credit upon the managerial ability of Proprietor Wm. J. Counihan, who believed that local play-goers were hungry for dramatic entertainment and sought to provide it. Every one of the thirty-four weeks during which the house has been open has brought to the city

William J. Counihan.

one or more of Broadway's best productions and Plainfield has ceased to look to the metropolis for this form of amusement.

The support given the theatre has encouraged Mr. Counihan to further effort and next season will be even still greater. As the saying goes, he stands "solid" with all the producers and hereafter Plainfield will get the best they have. During the summer the house will be in the hands of contractors who will install a complete system of automatic sprinklers, an added exit in the east wall of the orchestra, new decorations and other improvements that will make it even more safe and cosier. It is to re-open on August 10 and will present nothing but first class road attractions from then on until the latter part of next May.

The booking for 1906-07 is rapidly being completed and the following list will show what is in store for theatre devotees: Klaw & Erlanger's original "Ben Hur," Kyrle Bellew in a new play, The Rogers Brothers, Sousa's "Free Lance," now playing the New Amsterdam, Maude Adams in "Peter Pan," Williams and Walker, May Irwin, John Drew, "Woodland," "The Rollicking Girl," "The Gingerbread Man," Grace George in her new play, "The Girl Who Has Everything," Cyril Scott's "The Prince Chap," Billy B. Van and Rose Beaumont in "The Errand Boy," Yorke and Adams in a new musical comedy, Nat Wills in a new play, James K. Hackett and Mary Mannering, Primrose, Dockstader's and Haverley's minstrels, "Wonderland," Robert Mantell, all of George Cohan's plays including "Little Johnny Jones," George Washington, Jr.," and "Forty Five Minutes from Broadway," Blance Walsh, "It Happened in Nordland," Arnold Daly, "The Lion and the Mouse," "Man and Superman," "Simple Simon Simple," "Bird's Nest," Hopper, "Sergeant Brue," Fritzi Scheff in "Mlle. Modiste," William H. Crane, Chauncey Olcott, Andrew Mack, Wilton Lackaye and many other of the best known stars in the profession. The same policy of giving popular priced dramas on Saturday afternoons and nights will be maintained.

Among the stars and productions that held the boards the past season were "The County Chairman,", which opened the house on August 24, with Plainfield's minstrel man, George Thatcher playing "Sassafras Livingston," "Running for Office," "Way Down East," "David Harum," "A Message from Mars," Grace George in "The Marriage of William Ashe," Richard Carle in "The Mayor of Tokio," "The Redemption of David Corson," Sophie Brandt in "A Madcap Princess," Thomas Jefferson in "Rip Van Winkle," "Simple Simon Simple," Yorke and Adams in "Bankers and Brokers," "Robin Hood," Nat Wills in "The Duke of Duluth," Raymond Hitchcock, John Drew, Herbert Kelcey and Effie Shannon, Digby Bell, James Neill, Arnold Daly, Ezra Kendal, Henrietta Crosman, "The Heir to the Hoorah," "Mrs. Leffingwell's Boots," Blanche Walsh, Willie Collier, Mme. Lilian Blauvelt, Florence Hamilton, "The Tenderfoot," "The Girl Patsy," "York State Folks," "The Pit," "The Clansman," "The Old Homestead," "The Prince of Pilsen," Kyrle Bellew and Edward Harrigan.

The construction and management of the New Plainfield theatre marked another step in Manager Counihan's career as a theatrical man, a business he has been in since he was a boy.

His first venture in this line was together in the Chicago [illegible] when Dan Shelby [illegible] rose to the position of chief usher and then was advertising manager for several seasons. By this time he had acquired sufficient knowledge of show affairs to go in advance of Baker and Farron in "The Soap Bubble" and he piloted them in a prosperous tour through the western states. When the company closed he joined the Barnum & Bailey advertising forces and went ahead of the big circus when it made the first English tour. For three successive summers he remained with the show, leaving it in France to re-enter the theatrical field.

He entered the employ of David & Heyman, one of the largest firms of its kind in that day, and acted as business manager of the Columbia theatre, Chicago, for six years. He was then attracted by a tempting offer from John Havlin, proprietor of three Bowdoin theatres, the Grand, Havlin's and the Imperial, and went to the Mound City to act as assistant business manager for all three. In this capacity he secured a wider knowledge than ever of theatrical and amusement affairs and when the St. Louis Exposition project was boomed, he secured control of all the space on the Pike, letting out the concessions. Those who visited the immense exhibition know how well he regulated the attractions and what a variety of entertainment was afforded.

His success in this field created a demand for his services as a carnival and fair director but he refused all to sign as advance representative with Rhoda Royal's circus and "Alphonse and Gaston" and "Happy Hooligan," taking the former to the Pacific coast and making big financial returns to his employer. He severed relations with Hill to come to Plainfield as manager of the New Plainfield theatre, the contract for which was formerly Washington Hall at an expense of $22,000. Before he entered the city the residents had been without a playhouse for five years and the undertaking was a frankly risky one, great financial risk. He assumed it alone after a careful survey of the field and the success of the first season shows that he was right in his belief that Plainfield wanted theatrical amusements of the right sort.

He has become one of Plainfield's best known residents and enjoys the friendship of a large part of its population. He is a member of the local lodges, the Green Room Club, of New York; the Brooklyn Yacht Club, and the Knights of Pythias. With the theatrical men from one end of the country he is known as a "good fellow," a declaration that is seconded locally, and his opinion in show matters is always accepted by them. Mr. Counihan's wife is a native of the East and that is what brought him to this section. He says now that nothing could induce him to leave it.

MORE SEWER EXTENSIONS

Improvement in Addition to That For Which Contract Has Just Been Awarded.

HEARING ON JUNE 4

Petition of Central Park Realty Co. —Must Have Pumping Stations.

Steps were taken at the May meeting of the Common Council, Monday night, to further extend the sanitary sewer system for which petitions have been received from the Central Park Realty Company and others. The section to be sewered, not having the gravity, will have to be provided with pumping stations and other appliances.

Chairman Gloak, of the street and sewer committee, presented an ordinance, providing for the extension of the system through the following streets:

Randolph road, from Central to Park avenue; Park avenue from Randolph road to South End avenue; Arlington avenue, from Union street to Randolph road; Arlington place; Martine avenue, from Park to Hillside avenues; Berkeley avenue, from Park Terrace to Leland avenue; through the right of way of David Hand's property from Berkeley avenue to Leland avenue. Monday night, June 4, was fixed as the time when a public hearing will be granted. The necessary maps and plans were filed and if the ordinance is adopted then the Common Council will advertise for bids.

Mr. Gloak also introduced an ordinance providing for the laying of sidewalks in Prospect avenue, Fairagut road, Leland and South avenues, Berckman street, East Front street, North avenue, Leland avenue to Terrill road. The ordinance was adopted on first and second readings.

Mr. Daniel took exception to the ordinance, understanding that perhaps many property-owners would petition to have walks where they are not needed. Mr. Gloak explained that the walks would only be laid where the owners want them and if there is an ordinance covering this section, it will be that much easier to do the work. A public hearing will be granted on this ordinance on Monday night, June 4.

An ordinance introduced by Mr. Gloak and providing for the establishment of a grade on Leland avenue, from East Front street to North avenue, was adopted on first and second readings and ordered advertised. A hearing will be granted on this matter at the regular meeting June 4th.

MANY PETITION COUNCIL

Some Communications Referred While Others are Disposed Of By City Fathers.

REPORTS ARE FILED

Request for Public Scales Denied—Appropriation of $750 For Care of Trees.

Many petitions and communications were received and disposed of at the May meeting of the Common Council, Monday, and consequently the session was a lengthy one. Warren H. Marsh and others asked for a hydrant at Union and Stelle avenues. It was granted, as was also one at West Fourth street and Hunter avenue. The Central Park Realty Company petitioned for sewers in Martine and Thorton avenues, the matter being referred.

Property-owners in the vicinity of West Eighth street and College place asked to have Dunham street vacated. This is an imaginary street, an extension of College place, which appears on the map, but was never opened. The request was made to allow Mrs. J. R. Truell to build an addition on Truell Inn. The matter was referred as was a similar petition from David T. Kenney, who wants Hill avenue, in the Netherwood district, vacated to allow for the erection of the new building for the Vacuum Cleaner Company.

F. J. Schuck and other property-owners asked the Common Council to abate the nuisance of allowing rubbish to be dumped at West Sixth street and Arlington avenue. Matter referred to the public affairs committee. O. T. Waring, president of the Plainfield Trust Company, in a letter to Street Commissioner Gavett, urged that if permanent pavement was going to be laid in Park avenue, between Second street and the railroad, that creosoted wooden blocks be used. Matter referred to the street committee.

J. F. Cahill, Esq., petitioned the Common Council to adjust tax matters for C. R. Meehan, who had purchased property here under the Martin Act and he had been unable through an error to get possession of the same. Mr. Hibbard referred to the proper committee. Corporation Counsel Marsh reported back the tax deeds for property on Plainfield avenue purchased by the city and later in the evening Mr. Daniel offered a resolution authorizing the oversee of the poor to collect the rents until further notice.

The Central Park Realty Company, owners of considerable pipperty in the vicinity of Prospect avenue, Kensington avenue and Watchung avenue, petitioned for a sewer system, paved streets and sidewalks and the matters were referred.

Building Inspector T. O. Doane reported that thirty-five permits were granted during April.

Mr. Daniel offered a resolution, which was adopted, that $15.50 be returned to William Camp, it having been paid for taxes in error on property at 619-918 West Sixth street. Mr. Daniel also offered a resolution transferring $100 from the general to the fire fund.

Mr. Gloak offered a resolution, which was adopted, appropriating $300 for the care of the city dump, the money to be expended under the direction of Mayor Bucks.

It having been reported that Sydney Frazee, who was appointed a regular fireman, was not capable of filling the position owing to a crippled arm, Dr. C. B. Lufburrow, the city physician, presented a statement in which he said that he had found Mr. Frazee in sound health and that the injury to his elbow joint, which occurred when a child, would not interfere with his duties.

Mr. Buxton reported back the application of Van Zandt & Voorhees in which they asked that a public scales be located near their building on Park avenue, and upon his recommendation the request was denied.

Mr. Hibbard presented a letter from the New Jersey Central in which it was requested that the electric light on Terrill road bridge which crosses the railroad tracks be shaded as it is confusing to the engine-men. He then offered a resolution, which was adopted, providing that the request be granted if it can be without impairing the illumination of the bridge. Mr. Hibbard said that Corporation Counsel Marsh informed him that it will be wise to grant the petition for the city would be morally obligated should an accident occur as a result of the light being insufficient.

In accordance with a resolution offered by Mr. Hibbard, $750 was appropriated for the spraying and care of trees during the coming year. This amount is a little in excess of that appropriated last year.

The Common Council granted Mr. Daniel's request for three electric lights on Grant avenue, one to be at Essex street and Dartmouth place, one midway between Fourth and Essex streets, and one between Essex and Seventh streets.

On Mr. Daniel's motion the tax ordinance was adopted on third reading, and on Mr. Montgomery's motion the back ordinance was adopted on third reading.

NO SPECIAL ELECTION NOW

Common Council Postpones Action on Water Question Until Fall.

MR. TYLER OPPOSES IT

Third Ward Man Fights for Immediate Action But Is Defeated When Vote is Taken.

Apparently exasperated by what he believed to be Councilman Buxton's desire to put off the special election on the municipal water question, which has been under consideration for some time, Councilman Tyler asked the chairman of the public affairs committee to show his hand at the May meeting of the Common Council Monday. Mr. Buxton stated that the question had been considered at a joint meeting of the committees on streets and sewers and that of the public affairs and it seemed to be the opinion that it would be unwise to hold a special election at this time at an expense of $1,000.

Mr. Tyler recalled what was said at the joint committee meeting. He said that he understood that it was agreed Mr. Buxton would recommend some action at this meeting.

Mr. Buxton answered that he understood it to be the opinion of the members at that committee meeting that it would be unwise to hold the election now, but, said the member, "I have a resolution here prepared by Water Commissioner Gimbel providing for a special election which I will present if the members desire."

Mr. Tyler started to explain who expressed themselves in favor of a special election at the meeting of the two committees. He mentioned Mr. Montgomery, but that member denied being at the meeting. The Third Ward member then referred to Mr. Hibbard's action, but the latter also denied being at the meeting. The incident caused considerable amusement among the members.

Finally, Mr. Tyler stated that he and Councilmen Gloak, Ginna and Mellick favored a special election, while Councilmen Buxton, Frank Randolph and Leslie M. Daniel were opposed. "This is too serious a matter to be put off in this way," said Mr. Tyler. "We ought to vote on it now and labor with might and main until we make the taxpayers appreciate the importance of action and I urge that action be taken to-night."

Mr. Buxton said that he thought it was foolish to think of spending $1,000 just now for a special election and he did not think that a few months would add any great value to the plant of the Plainfield Water Supply Company.

In response to the demand of Mr. Tyler and Mr. Hibbard, the chairman of the public affairs committee presented the prepared resolution. It provided that a special election be held on Tuesday, June 5, and that the customary notice of days and time given in the official newspapers and posted in conspicious places, that voting machines be used, the polls being open from 6 o'clock in the morning until 9 o'clock in the evening, and that those in favor of the Common Council inquiring further into the matter vote "For" and those opposed vote "Against," and that the result of the vote be reported to the Common Council.

Mr. Hibbard seconded the resolution, but then the question arose as to whether the resolution was properly drawn for present action. Mr. Buxton stated that Mr. Marsh had drawn the resolution for action at the April meeting. Mr. Tyler said that he was given to understand that it was prepared to be presented last night.

Mr. Buxton informed the members that the election must be held on a Tuesday, although there was nothing to prevent the changing of the date. Mr. Hibbard then wanted to move that the date be fixed for Tuesday, June 5, instead of the 5th, but Mr. Tyler said that inasmuch as the resolution did not specify the polling places, something necessary according to the law, he doubted whether it would be legal to pass it. He thought that matters could be straightened out in a few days and he then made a motion that when the meeting adjourn it be to meet on Monday, May 14, so that a corrected resolution could be prepared and presented and action taken at once. He previously moved that the resolution be referred back to the committee for correction. This motion was carried; the second one was not. Mr. Tyler said that he would make a test question, for the purpose of ascertaining whether the members desired immediate action, that is, all those voting in favor of holding a meeting on Monday night, would be considered in favor of a special election and those voting against it being opposed to the election. The motion to hold a meeting Monday night was lost, Councilmen Buxton, Daniel, Montgomery, C. C. Randolph, Frank Randolph and R. I. Polles voting in the negative and Councilmen Ginna, Gloak, Hibbard and Tyler in the affirmative.

Before the vote was taken Mr. Tyler made a lengthy speech in which he tried to impress upon the members the importance of quick action. He referred to the timely advice of J. O. Osgood, C. E. Saunders and Mr. Church, the latter for twenty years engineer in charge of the Croton Aqueduct, who made an exhaustive study of the local water conditions in 1904, and who advised that steps be taken by the city to acquire the Plainfield Water Supply Company plant. Continuing Mr. Tyler said:

"It is the general opinion that immediate action is desirable. The amount added to the value of the plant will be far beyond the $1,000 that a special election will cost and the vote is simply to ask the voters 'do you want us to go further?' We give away a franchise to a company that can be reproduced for $500,000 and that company is paying dividends on $2,000,000.'

"It isn't safe to let this matter go on. The Plainfield Water Supply Company is depleting our own water supply by sending it down the road to Elizabeth. If at any time the supply gets low the company can charge as high rate as it pleases, the same as for gas and electricity."

In reply Mr. Buxton said that he did not think that a special election should be held until a plan of action is mapped out. Mr. Marsh, he said, had informed him that he did not require a special election to inquire into the matter and information could be obtained without a special election. If a large issue of bonds was going to be issued he thought it would be better to complete the sanitary sewer system, pave the streets and make other desirable improvements.

After assuring the members that the Common Council could not go ahead in this matter without authority, President Tolles remarked that he favored an election but not now. He said that it could be held in the fall with satisfactory results. A friend of his living in Orange informed him recently that if the people of that place had it to do over again they would not vote for municipal water works. The vote was then taken on Mr. Tyler's motion to hold an adjourned meetining Monday night and was lost.

MRS. GODWIN AWARDED VERDICT FOR $1,000

STREET RAILWAY COMPANY ADMITTED LIABILITY IN SUIT.

The Supreme Court case of Emily Godwin and husband, of Netherwood, against the Elizabeth, Plainfield and Central Jersey Railway Company et. al. was concluded before Justice Fort and a jury at Elizabeth Monday. The jury rendered a verdict in favor of Mrs. Godwin for $1,000 and for costs of the suit, or $1,250.

In opening the case, Craig A. Marsh, counsel for Mrs. Godwin, stated that he would prove that on June 9 last, the trolley company propelled the car in which Mrs. Godwin was a passenger, at express-train speed, and to make matters worse, the motorman was seen to jump up and down on the fronf platform so as to cause the car to swing violently and to jump the track, thereby throwing Mrs. Godwin against the car seat in front of her and causing the injuries for which suit was brought. At the conclusion of the opening the defendant's counsel, Alvah A. Clark, said that the defendants would admit liability.

The trial proceeded, and the contest was as to how much, if at all, Mrs. Godwin was injured.

Five doctors testified pro and con. Two of plaintiff's doctors testified merely to injury to a vein which they admitted was almost if not entirely cured. The other doctor for plaintiff, said that he found symptoms of nervous troubles which he called neurasthenia, and he thought that these would last from one to two years longer. These doctors were Dr. Endicott, of this city; Dr. Beardsley, of Brooklyn, and Dr. Collins, of New York.

The defendants' physicians were Dr. Green, from Elizabeth, and Dr. Washington, from Newark. They both testified that the injury to the vein was due to an old trouble and not to the accident, and that they could not see any symptoms of nervous troubles of any character, and that on the contrary, Mrs. Godwin was apparently an unusually strong and vigorous woman, and in perfect health.

Mr. Clark first, and then Mr. Marsh argued these disputed questions before the jury, and Justice Fort in his charge declared that, now that the defendants admitted legal liability, the other questions were for the jury alone. It took the jury about an hour to find and report that Mrs. Godwin was entitled to $1,000 for her injuries, to which was added $250 for the husband, to defray doctors' bills and medicine expenses. It is not thought likely that either side will appeal.

Golf at Westfield.

The results of the first round of match play for the golf handicap at the Westfield Golf Club on Saturday, was as follows: Class A—Halstead, Worth, Cruse, W. Towaley, Sherman and Lane each drew a bye; Knight beat Dey by default; Barr beat R. I. Towley 3 up and 2 to go. Class B—Simpson, Van Dyke, Stern and Foor each drew a bye; Smith beat Lyons by 4 up and 2 to go; Kershner beat Taylor by 2 up and 1 to go; Talbot won by default. The qualifying round for the June handicap was as follows: L. D. Compton, 92 net; W. J. Bogert, 85; J. B. Barr, 86; J. Sherman, Jr., 86; H. Talbot, 86; C. C. Marshall, 90; Charles Korschner, 91; J. B. McCullom, 92.

HIGH SCHOOL EXERCISES IN FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

AUDITORIUM OF NEW BUILDING NOT LARGE ENOUGH FOR COMMENCEMENT.

At the regular May meeting of the city Board of Education, Monday, President Probasco was empowered to secure the First Baptist church for the High School's Commencement exercises next month. It was originally planned to hold them in the auditorium of the new building but it has been found the seating capacity is not large enough. With the arrangements for the graduation will be the same as heretofore, the clerk receiving instructions to engage the orchestra and police and secure diplomas and invitations. The speaker has not yet been engaged but Superintendent Maxson hopes to secure one within the next few days.

The board had planned to let the contract for grading the new High School grounds, last night, but not a single bid was received. The specifications evidently did not appeal to contractors and they will be modified. In the meantime, the buildings and grounds committee will confer with landscape architects in the hope of getting ideas for beautifying the property in keeping with the appearance of the city park directly opposite.

Dr. Maxson announced that W. D. Murray, Samuel Merwin and Miss Susan Hunting had been selected as the committee to judge the prize composition to be handed in by the High School students this month. May is the month in which preparations are made for securing bids for the coal supply but the matter was deferred because of the prevailing high prices and in the belief that a "tumble" would follow the cessation of mining troubles.

A communication was received from the Dunellen Board of Education stating that the proposition to allow its High School pupils to enter the Plainfield classes was entirely satisfactory and extending thanks for Plainfield's help in the matter. Another communication was received from Dr. Maxson informing the board that the rifle corps attached to the schools had gone out of existence and that the State rifles would be returned.

Mrs. William VanDuyne, of the borough, who has been visiting relatives at Somerville, has returned home.

ENLIGHTENS COUNCIL ON THE NEW TAX ACT

CORPORATION COUNSEL MARSH COMMUNICATES WITH THE CITY FATHERS.

Corporation Counsel Craig A. Marsh in his report to the Common Council Monday night informed that body that he had declined to agree to the application of the American Sewage Disposal Company, of Boston, which company has a suit against the city. The application was also denied by Lewis Cross.

Mr. Marsh also presented the receipts and releases from the property-owners affected by the widening of Park avenue and Sycamore street and the opening of Stebbins place, stating that the several amounts of benefits had been paid. On motion of Mr. Daniel the receipts and releases were filed.

Another matter reported by Mr. Marsh was an explanation of the Hillery tax act, adopted by the Legislature at its last session. This act will eventually change the tax rate and provides for the appointment of county board of taxation, whose duties will be similar to those of commissioners of appeal which board is abolished. It is the duty of the county board of taxation to see that a fair and equitable assessment is made the county in accordance with the provisions of the new act. The new rate will not go into effect until next year.

FOR LIBRARY FUND.

Brotherhood of Warren Chapel Hold Benefit Entertainment.

For the benefit of the chapel and library fund, the Young Men's Brotherhood of Warren chapel presented an entertainment at Y. M. C. A. hall Monday. Recitations, musical novelties and sleight-of-hand, all by professionals, were on the bill.

There was a good-sized audience, and as most of the unoccupied seats represented tickets sold but not used, the financial success of the affair was gratifying. The programme was enjoyable, and the audience gave frequent testimony of its appreciation.

The numbers were divided between H. Warren Rankin, prestidigitator, of this city; the Musical Stewarts, of this city, unique musical selections; and Miss Helen M. Miller, of New York, impersonator. They shared the honors equally.

T. E. H. Curtis, of West Eighth street, is spending some time at Atlantic City.

CITY REPLIES TO BOROUGH

Common Council Undecided That Joint Use of Sewer System is Feasible.

WANT PARTICULARS

More Definite Proposition from North Plainfield Before Any Decision Is Made.

In reply to the communication of Mayor Newton B. Smalley, of North Plainfield, in which he asked the Plainfield Common Council what arrangements could be made whereby the borough could make use of the city sanitary sewer system and upon what terms, Chairman Gloak, of the street and sewer committee, presented the following report at the meeting of the Common Council, Monday night, and it will be transmitted to Mayor Smalley:

"The Committee on Streets and Sewers would report as follows upon the letter from Newton B. Smalley, Mayor of North Plainfield, in relation to disposing of the sewage of North Plainfield at the city disposal works.

"Plainfield's sewage disposal plant is capable of taking care, for a while, of a considerable quantity of sewage in addition to that of Plainfield, the time depending upon the rapidity with which connections are made to the borough sewers and also to a greater extent, upon the quantity of ground water in the sewers, the latter amount being difficult to predict in advance of the construction of a new system.

"In case it should be decided by the authorities of the borough and city that such an arrangement is mutually desirable, the committee would recommend that the following matters should be considered and provided for:

"The plan of the North Plainfield system to be subject to the approval of the city of Plainfield and the construction, material and workmanship to be subject to approval by engineer for the city. The expense of examination, inspection and approval on behalf of the city to be paid by the borough.

"The borough to give bond to indemnify the city against loss or expense that may be occasioned by leaks in sewers or by other defects.

"The contract to provide the maximum number of gallons per day.

"The borough to pay to the city as annual compensation, payable quarterly, such a proportion of the interest on the cost of the disposal works and land, and of the expense of operation and maintenance as the quantity of sewage from the borough bears to the total amount of sewage from city and borough.

"The agreement to be terminated at the option of either party upon one years' notice of such intention being given.

"Your committee believes, however, that the matters referred to present questions of such importance and difficulty that the city is not prepared at the present time to decide whether the plan proposed is feasible, or if it is, what the details of such a plan would include and what terms would be fair and just to the city and the borough respectively; but your committee suggest that if the borough authorities desire to submit definite proposition, and to mention in connection therewith the acts of the Legislature under which the proposition is submitted, the whole subject should receive careful consideration."

C. W. Gloak, Chairman.
D. F. Ginna,
H. Buxton,
C. C. Randolph,
Leslie M. Daniel,
Committee."

BOROUGHITES FORM A NEW SOCIAL CLUB

MEMBERS ARE INFORMED IT WILL BE STRICTLY NON-PARTISAN.

To promote sociability and continue pleasant relations among the members of a former association, well known as the Snowflenders met last night and organized "The Forrest Club." It is to be non-political, this fact being impressed upon everyone of the sixty men that signed the charter roll. The store at Somerset street and Manning avenue has been secured for club room and a pool table and furniture have already been installed.

The following officers were elected: President, William L. Smalley; first vice president, Peter A. Emmons; second vice president, David Carsey; secretary, Harry M. Cook; treasurer, George F. Brown; trustees, John Shroop, Robert Trewin, Edward Cannon, Fred Kohler and Mayor N. B. Smalley. The next meeting is to be held Monday night at 8 o'clock when further details will be perfected.

Following the transaction of business last night, the members enjoyed a box of cigars. President Smalley standing treat. There were several addresses and plans for the building up of the organization were talked over informally.

THEATRE SEASON CLOSES

First Year of the New Plainfield a Successful One From Every Standpoint.

RE-OPENS AUGUST 10

Something About Manager Counihan Who Built the Playhouse and "Made It Go."

With the fall of the curtain after the moving picture exhibition, last Monday, the New Plainfield theatre ended its first season. From every standpoint it has been one of success and reflects credit upon the managerial ability of Proprietor Wm. J. Counihan, who believed that local play-goers were hungry for dramatic entertainment and sought to provide it. Every one of the thirty-four weeks during which the house has been open has brought to the city

William J. Counihan.

one or more of Broadway's best productions and Plainfield has ceased to look to the metropolis for this form of amusement.

The support given the theatre has encouraged Mr. Counihan to further effort and next season will be even still greater. As the saying goes, he stands "solid" with all the producers and benefactors Plainfield will get the best they have. During the summer the house will be in the hands of contractors who will install a complete system of automatic sprinklers, an added exit in the east wall of the auditorium, new decorations and other improvements that will make it even more safe and cosier. It is to re-open on August 10 and will present nothing but first class road attractions from then on until the latter part of next May.

The booking for 1906-07 is rapidly being completed and the following list will show what is in store for theatre goers: Klaw & Erlanger's original "Ben Hur," Kyrle Bellew in a new play, The Rogers Brothers, Sousa's "Free Lance," now playing the New Amsterdam, Maude Adams in "Peter Pan," Williams and Walker, "Bandanna Land," John Drew, "Woodland," "The Rollicking Girl," "The Gingerbread Man," Grace George in her new play "The Girl Who Has Everything," Cyril Scott in "The Prince Chap," Billy B. Van and Rose Beaumont in "The Errand Boy," Yorke and Adams in a new musical comedy, Nat Wills in a new play, James K. Hackett and Mary Mannering, Primrose, Dockstader's and Hayseler's minstrels, "Wonderland," Robert Mantell, all of George Cohan's plays including "Little Johnny Jones," "George Washington, Jr.," and "Forty Five Minutes from Broadway," Blanee Walsh, "It Happened in Nordland," Arnold Daly, "The Lion and the Mouse," "Man and Superman," "Simple Simon Simple," "Bedford's Hope," "Sergeant Brue," Fritzi Scheff in "Mlle. Modiste," William H. Crane, Chauncey Olcott, Mack and Mulvihill, Lackaye and many other of the best known stars in the profession. The same policy of giving popular priced dramas on Saturday afternoons and nights will be maintained.

Among the stars and productions that held the boards the past season were "The County Chairman," which opened the house on August 24, with Plainfield's minstrel man, George Thatcher playing "Sassafras Livingston," "Running for Office," "Way Down East," "David Harum," "A Message from Mars," Grace George in "The Marriage of William Ashe," Richard Carle in "The Mayor of Tokio," "The Redemption of David Corson," "Arizona," "A Madcap Princess," Thomas Jefferson in "Rip Van Winkle," "Simple Simon Simple," Yorke and Adams in "Bankers and Brokers," "Robin Hood," Nat Wills in "The Duke of Duluth," Raymond Hitchcock, John Drew, Herbert Kelcey and Effie Shannon, Digby Bell, James O'Neil, Arnold Daly, Ezra Kendal, Henrietta Crosman, "The Heir to the Hoorah," "Mrs. Bellingham Boots," Blanche Walsh, Willie Collier, Mme. Lilian Blauvelt, Florence Hamilton, "The Tenderfoot," "The Girl Patsy," "York State Folks," "The Pit," "The Chaperon," "The Old Homestead," "The Prince of Pilsen," Kyrle Bellew and Edward Harrigan.

The construction and management of the New Plainfield theatre marked another step in Manager Counihan's career as a theatrical man, a business that he has been in since he was a boy. His first venture in this line was together in the Chicago theatre when Dan Shelby was the boss to the position of chief usher and then was advertising manager for several seasons. By this time he had acquired sufficient knowledge of show affairs to go in advance of Baker and Farron in "The Soap Bubble" and he piloted them to a prosperous tour through the western states. When the company closed he joined the Barnum & Bailey advertising forces and went ahead of the big circus when it made the first English tour. For three successive summers he remained with the show, leaving it in France to re-enter the theatrical field.

He entered the employ of David & Heyman, one of the largest firms of its kind in that day, and acted as business manager of the Columbia theatre, Chicago, for six years. He was then attracted by a tempting offer from John Havlin, proprietor of three St. Louis theatres, the Grand, Havlin's and the Imperial, and went to the Mound City to act as assistant to the manager of all three. In this capacity he secured a wider knowledge than ever of theatrical and amusement affairs and when the St. Louis World's Fair project was boomed, he secured control of all the space on the Pike, letting out the concessions. Those who visited the immense exhibition know how well he regulated the attractions and what a variety of entertainment was afforded.

His success in this field created a demand for his services as a carnival and fair director but he refused all to sign as advance representative with Gus Hill and went out ahead of "Alphonse and Gaston" and "Happy Hooligan," taking the former to the Pacific coast and making big financial returns to his employer. He severed relations with Hill to come to Plainfield as manager of the New Plainfield theatre, which he constructed from what was formerly Washington Hall at an expense of $22,000. Before he entered the city the residents had been without a playhouse for five years and the undertaking was one fraught with great financial risk. He assumed it alone after a careful survey of the field and the success of the first season shows that he was right in his belief that Plainfield wanted theatrical amusement of the right sort.

He has become one of Plainfield's best known residents and enjoys the friendship of a large part of its population. He is a member of the local lodge of Elks, the Green Room Club, of New York; the Brooklyn Yacht Club, and of the Knights of Pythias. With the theatrical men from one end of the country he is known as a "good fellow," a declaration that is seconded locally, and his opinion in show matters is always accepted by them. Mr. Counihan's wife is a native of the East and that is what brought him to this section. He says now that nothing could induce him to leave it.

HIGH SCHOOL EXERCISES IN FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

AUDITORIUM OF NEW BUILDING NOT LARGE ENOUGH FOR COMMENCEMENT.

At the regular May meeting of the city Board of Education, Monday, President Probasco was empowered to secure the First Baptist church for the High School Commencement exercises next month. It was originally planned to hold them in the auditorium of the new building but it has been found the seating capacity is not large enough. All the arrangements for the graduation will be the same as heretofore, the only seeming instructions to engage the orchestra and police and secure diplomas and invitations. The speaker has not yet been engaged but Superintendent Maxson hopes to secure one within the next few days.

The board had planned to let the contract for grading the new High School grounds, last night, but not a single bid was received. The specifications evidently did not appeal to contractors and they will be modified. In the meantime, the buildings and grounds committee will confer with landscape architects in the hope of devising some plan for beautifying the property in keeping with the appearance of the city park directly opposite the new building.

Dr. Maxson announced that W. D. Murray, Samuel Merwin and Miss Susan Hunting had been selected as the committee to judge the prize composition to be handed in by the High School students this month. May is the month in which graduations are made for securing bids for the coal supply but the matter was deferred because of the prevailing high prices and in the belief that a "tumble" would follow the cessation of mining troubles.

A communication was received from the Dunellen Board of Education stating that the proposition to allow its High School pupils to enter the Plainfield classes was entirely satisfactory and extending thanks for Plainfield's help in the matter. Another communication was received from Dr. Maxson informing the board that the cadet corps attached to the schools had gone out of existence and that the State rifles would be returned.

Mrs. William VanDuyne, of the borough, who has been visiting relatives at Somerville, has returned home.

MORE SEWER EXTENSIONS

Improvement in Addition to That For Which Contract Has Just Been Awarded.

HEARING ON JUNE 4

Petition of Central Park Realty Co. —Must Have Pumping Stations.

Steps were taken at the May meeting of the Common Council, Monday night, to further extend the sanitary sewer system for which petitions have been received from the Central Park Realty Company and others. The section to be sewered, not having the gravity, will have to be provided with pumping stations and other appurtanees.

Chairman Gloak, of the street and sewer committee, presented an ordinance, providing for the extension of the system through the following streets:

Randolph road, from Central to Park avenue; Park avenue from Randolph road to South End avenue; Arlington avenue, from Union street to Randolph road; Arlington place; Martine avenue, from Park to Hillside avenues; Berkeley avenue, from Park to Leland avenue; through the right of way of David Hand's property from Berkeley avenue to Leland avenue. Monday night, June 4, was fixed as the time when a public hearing will be granted. The necessary maps and plans were filed and if the ordinance is adopted then the Common Council will advertise for bids.

Mr. Gloak also introduced an ordinance providing for the laying of sidewalks in Prospect avenue, Fairagut road, Leland and South avenues, Berkman street, East Front street, North avenue, Leland avenue to Terrill road. The ordinance was adopted on first and second readings.

Mr. Daniel took exception to the ordinance, understanding that perhaps many property-owners would be compelled to lay walks where they are not needed. Mr. Gloak explained that the walks would only be laid where the owners want them and if there is an ordinance covering this section, it will be that much easier to do the work. A public hearing will be granted on this ordinance on Monday night, June 4.

An ordinance introduced by Mr. Gloak and providing for the establishment of the grade on Leland avenue between Second street to North avenue, was adopted on first and second readings and ordered advertised. A hearing will be granted on this matter at the regular meeting June 4.

ENLIGHTENS COUNCIL ON THE NEW TAX ACT

CORPORATION COUNSEL MARSH COMMUNICATES WITH THE CITY FATHERS.

Corporation Counsel Craig A. Marsh in his report to the Common Council Monday night, informed that body that he had declined to agree to the application of the American Sewage Disposal Company, of Boston, which company has a suit against the city. The application was also denied by Judge Cross.

Mr. Marsh also presented the receipts and releases from the property-owners affected by the widening of Park avenue and Sycamore street, and the opening of Stebbins place, stating that the several amounts of benefits had been paid. On motion of Mr. Daniel the receipts and releases were filed.

Another matter reported by Mr. Marsh was an explanation of the Hillery tax act, adopted by the Legislature at its last session. This act will eventually change the tax rate and provides for the appointment of county board of taxation, whose duties will be similar to those of commissioners of appeal which board is abolished. It is the duty of the county board of taxation to see that a fair and equitable assessment is made throughout the county in accordance with the provisions of the new act. The new law will not go into effect until next year.

FOR LIBRARY FUND.

Brotherhood of Warren Chapel Hold Benefit Entertainment.

For the benefit of the chapel and library fund, the Young Men's Brotherhood of Warren chapel presented an entertainment at Y. M. C. A. hall Monday. Recitations, musical novelties and sleight-of-hand, all by professionals, were on the bill.

There was a good-sized audience, and as most of the unoccupied seats represented tickets sold but not used, the financial success of the affair was gratifying. The programme was enjoyable, and the audience gave frequent testimony of its appreciation.

The numbers were divided between H. Warren Rankin, prestidigitator, of this city; the Musical Stewarts, of this city, unique musical selections; and Miss Helen M. Miller, of New York, impersonator. They shared the honors equally.

T. E. H. Curtis, or West Eighth street, is spending some time at Atlantic City.

MANY PETITION COUNCIL

Some Communications Referred While Others are Disposed of By City Fathers.

REPORTS ARE FILED

Request for Public Scales Denied—Appropriation of $750 For Care of Trees.

Many petitions and communications were received and disposed of, at the May meeting of the Common Council, Monday, and consequently the session was a lengthy one. Warren H. Marsh and others asked for a hydrant at Union and Stelle avenues. It was granted, as was also one at West Fourth street and Hunter avenue. The Central Park Realty Company petitioned for sewers in Martine and Thorton avenues, the matter being referred.

Property-owners in the vicinity of West Eighth street and College place asked to have Dunham street vacated. This is an imaginary street, an extension of College place, which appears on the map, but was never opened. The request was made to allow Mrs. J. R. Truell to build an addition on Truell Inn. The matter was referred as was a similar petition from David T. Kenney, who wants Hill avenue, in the Netherwood district, vacated to allow for the erection of the new building for the Vacuum Cleaner Company.

F. J. Schuck and other property-owners asked the Common Council to abate the nuisance of allowing rubbish to be dumped at West Sixth street and Arlington avenue. Matter referred to the public affairs committee. O. T. Waring, president of the Plainfield Trust Company, in a letter to Street Commissioner Gloak, urged that if permanent pavement was going to be laid in Park avenue, between Second street and the railroad, that creosoted wooden blocks be used. Matter referred to the street committee.

Frank Cahill, Esq., petitioned the Common Council to adjust tax matters for C. R. Meehan, who had purchased property here under the Martin Act and he had been unable through an error to get possession of the same. The matter was referred to the proper committee. Corporation Counsel Marsh reported back the tax deeds for property on Plainfield avenue purchased by the city and later in the evening Mr. Daniel offered a resolution authorizing the overseer of the poor to collect the rents until further notice.

The Central Park Realty Company, owners of considerable property in the vicinity of Prospect avenue, Kensington avenue and Watchung avenue, petitioned for a sewer system, paved streets and sidewalks and the matters were referred.

Building Inspector T. O. Doane reported that thirty-five permits were granted during April.

Mr. Daniel offered a resolution, which was adopted, that $15.50 be returned to William Camp, it having been paid for taxes in error on property at 619-918 West Sixth street. Mr. Daniel also offered a resolution transferring $1,500 from the general to the fire fund.

Mr. Gloak offered a resolution, which was adopted, appropriating $300 for the care of the city dump, the money to be expended under the direction of Mayor Buckle.

It having been reported that Sydney Frazee was appointed a regular fireman, was not capable of filling the position owing to a crippled arm, Dr. C. B. Lufburrow, the city physician, presented a statement in which he said that he had found Mr. Frazee in sound health and that the injury to his elbow joint, which occurred when a child, would not interfere with his duties.

Mr. Buxton reported back the application of Van Zandt & Voorhees in which they asked that a public scales be located near their building on Park avenue, and upon his recommendation the request was denied.

Mr. Hibbard presented a letter from the New Jersey Central in which it was requested that the electric light on Terrill road bridge which is on the railroad tracks be shaded as it is confusing to the engine-men. He then offered a resolution, which was adopted, providing that the request be granted if it can be without impairing the illumination of the lamp. Mr. Hibbard said that Corporation Counsel Marsh informed him that it would be wise to grant the petition for the city would be morally obligated should an accident occur as a result of the light being misunderstood.

In connection with a resolution offered by Mr. Hibbard, $750 was appropriated for the spraying and care of trees during the coming year. This amount is a little in excess of that appropriated last year.

The Common Council granted Mr. Daniel's request for three electric lights on Norwood avenue, one to be at Essex street and Dartmouth place, one midway between Fourth and Essex streets, and one between Essex and Seventh streets.

On Mr. Daniel's motion the tax ordinance was adopted on third reading, and on Mr. Montgomery's motion the back ordinance was adopted on third reading.

NO SPECIAL ELECTION NOW

Common Council Postpones Action on Water Question Until Fall.

MR. TYLER OPPOSES IT

Third Ward Man Fights for Immediate Action But Is Defeated When Vote is Taken.

Apparently exasperated by what he believed to be Councilman Buxton's desire to put off the special election on the municipal water question, which has been under consideration for some time, Councilman Tyler asked the chairman of the public affairs committee to show his hand at the May meeting of the Common Council Monday. Mr. Buxton stated that the question had been considered at a joint meeting of the committees on streets and sewers and that of the public affairs and it seemed to be the opinion that it would be unwise to hold a special election at this time at an expense of $1,000.

Mr. Tyler recalled what was done at the joint committee meeting. He said that he understood that it was agreed Mr. Buxton would recommend some action at this meeting.

Mr. Buxton declared he understood it to be the opinion of the members at that committee meeting that it would be unwise to hold the election now, but, said the member, "I have a resolution here drawn by Corporation Counsel Marsh providing for a special election which I will present if the members desire."

Mr. Tyler started to explain who expressed themselves in favor of a special election at the meeting of the two committees. He mentioned Mr. Montgomery, but that member denied being at the meeting. The Third Ward member then referred to Mr. Hibbard's action, but the latter also denied being at the meeting. The incident caused considerable amusement among the members.

Finally, Mr. Tyler stated that he and Councilmen Gloak, Ginna and Mellick favored a special election, while Councilmen Buxton, Frank Randolph and Leslie M. Daniel were opposed. "This is too serious a matter to be put off in this way," said Mr. Tyler. "We ought to vote on it now and labor with might and main until we make the taxpayers appreciate the importance of action and I urge that action be taken to-night."

Mr. Buxton then said that he thought it was foolish to think of spending $1,000 just now for a special election and he did not think that a few months would add any great value to the plant of the Plainfield Water Supply Company.

In response to the demand of Mr. Tyler and Mr. Hibbard, the chairman of the public affairs committee presented the prepared resolution. It provided that a special election be held on Tuesday, June 5, and that the customary eight days' notice be given in the official newspapers and posted in conspicious places, that voting machines be used, the polls being open from 6 o'clock in the morning until 7 o'clock in the evening, and that those in favor of the Common Council inquiring further into the matter vote "For" and those opposed vote "Against," and that the result of the vote be reported to the Common Council.

Mr. Hibbard seconded the resolution, but then the question arose as to whether the resolution was properly drawn for present action. Mr. Buxton declared that Mr. Hibbard had drawn the resolution for action at the April meeting. Mr. Tyler said that he was given to understand that it was prepared to be presented last night.

Mr. Buxton informed the members that the election must be held on a Tuesday, although there was nothing to prevent the changing of the date. Mr. Hibbard then wanted to move that the date be fixed for Tuesday, June 2, instead of the 5th, but Mr. Tyler said that inasmuch as the resolution did not specify the polling places, something necessary according to the law, he doubted whether it would be legal to pass it. He thought that the matter could be straightened out in a few days and he then made a motion that when the meeting adjourn it be to meet on Monday, May 14, so that a corrected resolution could be prepared and presented and action taken at once. He previously moved that the resolution be referred back to the committee for correction. This motion was carried; the second one was not. Mr. Tyler said that he would make a test question, for the purpose of ascertaining whether the members desired immediate action, that is, all those voting in favor of holding a meeting on Monday night, would be voting in favor of a special election and those voting against it being opposed to the election. The motion to hold a meeting Monday night was lost, Councilmen Buxton, Daniel, Montgomery, C. C. Randolph, Frank Randolph and R. I. Tolley voting in the negative and Councilmen Ginna, Gloak, Hibbard and Tyler in the affirmative.

Before the vote was taken Mr. Tyler made a lengthy speech in which he tried to impress upon the members the importance of quick action. He referred to the timely advice of J. O. Osgood, W. J. Saunders and Mr. Church, the latter for twenty years engineer in charge of the Croton Aqueduct, who made an exhaustive study of the local water conditions in 1904, and who advised that steps be taken by the city to acquire the Plainfield Water Supply Company plant. Continuing Mr. Tyler said:

"This is the general opinion that immediate action is desirable. The amount added to the value of the local plant will be far beyond the $1,000 that a special election will cost and the vote is simply to ask the voters 'do you want us to go further?' We give away a franchise to a company that can be reproduced for $500,000 and that company is paying dividends on $2,000,000.

"It isn't safe to let this matter go on. The Plainfield Water Supply Company is depleting our own water supply by sending it down the road to Elizabeth. If at any time the supply gets low the company can charge as high rate as it pleases the same as for gas and electricity."

Mr. Tyler and Mr. Buxton said that he did not think that a special election should be held until a plan of action is mapped out. Mr. Marsh, he said, had informed him that he did not require a special election to inquire into the matter and information could be obtained without a special election. If a large issue of bonds was going to be issued he thought it would be better to complete the sanitary sewer system, pave the streets and make other desirable improvements.

After assuring the members that the Common Council could not go ahead in this matter without authority, President Tolley remarked that he favored an election but not now. He said that it could be held in the fall with satisfactory results. A friend of his living in Orange informed him recently that if the people of that place had it to do over again they would not vote for municipal water works. The vote was then taken on Mr. Tyler's motion to hold an adjourned meetining Monday night and was lost.

MRS. GODWIN AWARDED VERDICT FOR $1,000

STREET RAILWAY COMPANY ADMITTED LIABILITY IN SUIT.

The Supreme Court case of Emily Godwin and husband, of Netherwood, against the Elizabeth, Plainfield and Central Jersey Railway Company et. al. was concluded before Justice Parker and a jury in court Monday. The jury rendered a verdict in favor of Mrs. Godwin for $1,000 and in favor of her husband for $250.

In opening the case, Craig A. Marsh, counsel for Mrs. Godwin, stated that he would prove that on June 9 last, the trolley company propelled the car in which Mrs. Godwin was a passenger, at express-train speed, and to make matters worse, the motorman was seen to jump up and down on the front platform so as to cause the car to sway violently and to jump the track, thereby throwing Mrs. Godwin against the car seat in front of her and causing the injuries for which suit was brought. At the conclusion of the opening the defendant's counsel, Alvah A. Clark, said that the defendants would admit liability.

The trial proceeded, and the contest was as to how much, if at all, Mrs. Godwin was injured.

Five doctors testified pro and con. Two of plaintiff's doctors testified merely to having to a less which they admitted was almost if not entirely cured. The other doctor for plaintiff, said that he found symptoms of nervous troubles which he called neurasthenia, and he thought that they would last from one to two years longer. These doctors were Dr. Endicott, of this city; Dr. Beardsley, of Brooklyn, and Dr. Collins, of New York.

The defendants' physicians were Dr. Green, from Elizabeth, and Dr. Washington, from Newark. They both testified that the injury to the vein was due to an old trouble and not to the accident, and that they could not see any symptoms of nervous troubles of any character, and that on the contrary, Mrs. Godwin was apparently an unusually strong and vigorous woman, and in perfect health.

Mr. Clark first, and then Mr. Marsh argued these disputed questions before the jury, and Justice Parker in his charge declared that, now that the defendants admitted legal liability, the other questions were for the jury alone. It took the jury about an hour to find and report that Mrs. Godwin was entitled to $1,000 for her injuries, to which was added $250 for the husband to defray doctors' bills and medicine expenses. It is not thought likely that either side will appeal.

Golf at Westfield.

The result of the first round of match play for the May handicap at the Westfield Golf Club on Saturday, was as follows: Class A—Halstead, 3; Cruse, W. Townley, Sherman and Lake each drew a bye; Knight won by default, Barr beat Tuttle 3 up and 2 to go. Class B—Simpson, Van Dyke, Stern and Poor each drew a bye; Smith beat Lyons by 1 up and 2 to go; Kerchner beat Taylor by 2 up and 1 to go; Talbot won by default. The qualifying round for the June handicap was as follows: L. D. Compson, 82 net; W. J. Bogert, 85; J. B. Barr, 86; J. Sherman, Jr., 86; H. Talbot, 86; C. C. Marshall, 90; Charles Kerschner, 92; J. B. McCullom, 92.

CITY REPLIES TO BOROUGH

Common Council Undecided That Joint Use of Sewer System is Feasible.

WANT PARTICULARS

More Definite Proposition from North Plainfield Before Any Decision Is Made.

In reply to the communication of Mayor Newton B. Smalley, of North Plainfield, in which he asked the Plainfield Common Council what arrangements could be made whereby the borough could make use of the city sanitary sewer system and upon what terms, Chairman Gloak, of the street and sewer committee, at present the following report at the meeting of the Common Council, Monday night, and it will be transmitted to Mayor Smalley:

"The Committee on Streets and Sewers would report as follows upon the letter from Mayor N. B. Smalley, Mayor of North Plainfield, in relation to disposing of the sewage of North Plainfield at the city disposal works.

"Plainfield's sewage disposal plant is capable of taking care, for a while, of a considerable increase of sewage, in addition to that of Plainfield, the time depending upon the rapidity with which connections are made in the borough and city, also, to a greater extent, upon the quantity of ground water in the sewers, the latter amount being difficult to predict in advance of the construction of a new system.

"In case it should be decided by the authorities of the borough and city that such an arrangement is mutually desirable, the committee would recommend that the following matters should be considered and provided for:

"The plan of the North Plainfield system to be subject to the approval of the city of Plainfield and the construction, material and workmanship to be subject to approval by engineer for the city. The expense of examination, inspection and approval on behalf of the city to be paid by the borough.

"The borough to give bond to indemnify the city against loss or expense that may be occasioned by leaks in sewers or by other defects.

"The contract to provide the maximum number of gallons per day.

"The borough to pay to the city as annual compensation, payable quarterly, such a proportion of the interest on the cost of the disposal works and land, and of the expense of operation and maintenance as the quantity of sewage from the borough bears to the total amount of sewage from city and borough.

"The agreement to be terminated at the option of either party, upon one year's notice of such intention being given.

"Your committee believes, however, that the matters referred to present considerable difficulty and difficulty that the city is not prepared at the present time to decide whether the plan proposed is feasible, or if it is, what the details of such a plan would include and what terms would be fair and just to the city and the borough respectively; but your committee suggest that if the borough authorities desire to submit any definite proposition, and to mention in connection therewith the acts of the Legislature under which the proposition is submitted, the whole subject should receive careful consideration.

"W. L. Gloak, Chairman.
D. F. Ginna,
H. Buxton,
C. C. Randolph,
Leslie M. Daniel,
Committee."

BOROUGHITES FORM A NEW SOCIAL CLUB

MEMBERS ARE INFORMED IT WILL BE STRICTLY NON-PARTISAN.

To promote sociability and continue pleasant relations among the members of a former association, well known North Plainfielders met last night and organized "The Somerset Club." It is to be non-political, this fact being impressed upon everyone of the sixty men who added the charter roll. The store at Somerset street and Manning avenue has been secured for a club room and a pool table and furniture have already been installed.

The following officers were elected: President, William L. Smalley; first vice president, Peter A. Emmons; second vice president, David Carney; secretary, Harry M. Cook; treasurer, George F. Brown; trustees, John Stroop, Robert Frewin, Edward Cranston, Fred Kohlhoff and Mayor N. B. Smalley. The next meeting is to be held Monday night at 8 o'clock when further details will be perfected.

Following the transaction of business last night, the members enjoyed a box of cigars, President Smalley standing "treat." There were several addresses and plans for the building up of the organization were talked over informally.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

VOL. XXXVIII. PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, MAY. 31, 1906 NO. 23.

"Supreme the Constitution, which is the Cement of the Union, as well in its Limitations as in its Authorities."—Madison.

MANY EVENTS FOR MEMORIAL DAY IN PLAINFIELD

Annual Steeplechase, the Carnival, Baseball Games, Tennis and Golf Among the Attractions.

VETERANS' CEREMONIES

G. A. R. to Parade With Co. K.—To Decorate Graves of Dead Soldiers—Mr. Tyler Orator at Exercises.

It is to the veterans of the Civil War that Memorial Day has the greatest significance, and it will be appropriately observed here by the members of Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., assisted by the Women's Relief Corps, as well as Co. K, the members of which organization will parade with the veterans of '61.

The Post will assemble at headquarters on East Front street, tomorrow morning at 7.30 o'clock and proceed cemeteries and decorate all graves of soldiers. Past Commander C. B. Stephens will be in charge of the detail to Scotch Plains cemetery, and will report to Comrade William D. Johnson at 8:15. Senior Vice-Commander Andrew Cox will be in charge at the detail to Hillside cemetery. Junior Vice-Commander Frederick Wenzel will be in charge at Friends' cemetery, Comrade John Finley at the Catholic cemetery, Comrade N. C. Pennington at Evergreen cemetery, Past Department Commander W. C. Smith at the Presbyterian cemetery, North Plainfield; Comrade John Ward at New Market cemetery, Comrade J. Worth Coddington at Washingtonville cemetery, Comrade A. J. Jennings at Warrensville cemetery and Past Commander G. W. Reese at Westfield cemetery.

G. A. R. Parade.

The comrades will report back to headquarters at 9:30 o'clock, prepared for parade. The line will form on East Front street, right resting on Watchung avenue. At 10 o'clock the parade will move as follows: Through East Front street to Watchung avenue, to Chatham street, North Plainfield; to Presbyterian cemetery, where services will be held and graves decorated; thence through Chatham street to Somerset street, to Front street, to Plainfield avenue, to Evergreen cemetery, where services will be held and graves decorated; thence to West Fifth street, to Park avenue, to Front street, to Post headquarters and dismiss. Liberty Band, in charge of Dr. Berg, will furnish the music in the parade and Co. K will act as the escort to the veterans.

In the afternoon at 1:45 o'clock the veterans will re-assemble at Post headquarters and march to Reform Hall, where public Memorial services will be held at 2:30 o'clock. Colonel Mason W. Tyler will be the orator of the day. The exercises will include the usual programme, the reading of President Lincoln's address at Gettysburg, the services in memory of the unknown dead, together with the singing of patriotic songs by a chorus of school children and selections by the band. The public is invited to attend these services.

Plainfield has two games scheduled at Crescent Oval, one in the morning and the other in the afternoon. The All-Nationals will be the card.

Big Tennis Tourney.

The heavy rain yesterday interfered with the continuation of play in the East Jersey Lawn Tennis Association tournament at the Plainfield Country Club, but if the weather permits it will be continued today and concluded tomorrow. The women's singles are scheduled for tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock. It was the men's doubles semi-final play that could not be played yesterday.

In the women's singles, East Jersey Lawn Tennis Association tournament, which were to have been played at the Plainfield Country Club, yesterday, but had to be postponed on account of the rain, the drawings are as follows:

First Round—Mrs. B. C. Edgar, of Ilderan, against Miss Helen Lockwood, of the Danforth Club, Jersey City; Miss Florence Bradley, Westfield, against Miss Elsie Burke, Plainfield; Miss Mary E. Valiant, Plainfield, against Miss A. R. Robinson, Ilderan.

Second Round—Miss Marguerite Edgar, Ilderan, against Miss Erna Marcus, Jersey City; Miss Adelaide G. Ball, Plainfield, against the winner of the match between Miss Valiant and Miss Robinson; Miss Harriet Woodruff, Ilderan, against Mrs. Wm. B. Tyler, Plainfield.

DR. HUGHES CHOSEN SCHOOL PHYSICIAN

GIVEN DR. BUCHANAN'S PLACE BY NORTH PLAINFIELD BOARD.

The North Plainfield Board of Education at its meeting last night appointed Dr. Fred Hughes school physician in place of Dr. J. Hervey Buchanan, who has held the position for several years. The appointment is for one year and when the time arrived to elect a school physician, Dr. Hughes was the only one placed in nomination and he received the unanimous vote of the board. Dr. Hughes has been practicing in the borough and city for several years. He will enter upon his duties July 1.

The board discussed the question of acquiring the Cuttell property back of the Somerset street school, and it is believed that a definite report will be made at the next meeting. The board is anxious to get this property so that some proposed improvements can be made about the school grounds.

AUTO TOURING PARTY IS DRIVEN TO COVER.

Trip Being Made in Seven Machines Stopped By Heavy Rains.

Miss Jessie Maxey, Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Berger, T. Warren Berger, M. Russell Berger, Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Smith and Mr. and Mrs. George Costello, N. T. Folwell, Donald Folwell, Charles McDonald, William Milnes were among an auto party of twenty-five Philadelphians that stopped in Plainfield yesterday. Owing to the heavy rain those whose names are mentioned registered at the Hotel Kensington, the others continuing on their journey to Morristown. The party left Philadelphia Sunday afternoon in seven autos. The trip included Asbury Park, from which place the party started yesterday morning.

A stop of an hour and a half was made at Old Bridge for dinner and it was 5:30 o'clock in the afternoon when the seven autos rolled up in front of the Hotel Kensington. The rain was falling in torrents and nine members of the party decided to remain here until the rain let up. The remainder of the party started for Morristown, where they will wait until the arrival of their friends from Plainfield. The journey will then be continued through New York State. The autoists are well stocked with provisions for a trip of a couple of weeks. Owing to the wet and muddy condition of the roads poor time was made between Philadelphia and this city. Most of the machines are forty-five horse-power.

Bayonne Carnival Opens.

While several thousand persons cheered Mayor Garven last evening opened the two weeks carnival in Bayonne, for the benefit of the City Hospital. The Mayor attended with the Common Council and delivered a speech. There was a parade of local and out-of-town Elks and Eagles, who gaily patronized the various attractions. The carnival grounds were made as bright as day by 3,000 electric lights. The Fourth Regiment, N. G. N. J., will parade tomorrow, which will be observed as military day.

May Meet Sunday Evenings.

The Christian Endeavor Society, of Trinity Reformed church, will take a vote of its members next Monday evening to ascertain the wish of the majority for changing the regular meeting night from Monday evening to Sunday evening, preceding the preaching service, and there is evidently a majority ready to vote for the change and give it a three months' trial to ascertain whether the attendance will increase or decrease with the change.

Plainfield Fighter Arrested.

Following the McGovern-Britt fight at Madison Square Garden, last night, the principals and also those in three preliminary bouts, were placed under arrest. Among the latter was a pugilist who gave his name as David Henry, of 222 West Second street, Plainfield. Henry is a machinist who works in one of the local machine shops and does fighting on the side. He was bailed out for appearance later. He came to this city from New Brunswick.

Library to Close.

The circulating department at the Public library will be closed tomorrow, as the day is a legal holiday. Those desiring reading matter over the holiday should call at the library this afternoon, not later than 5:30 o'clock. The reading room will be open from 2 until 6 tomorrow afternoon, with a library assistant in attendance to answer all questions or look up information.

"OUR VILLAGE" IN 1845

Sixty Years Ago Plainfield Contained 1500 People and Seven Stores.

TALE OF HISTORIAN

Three Hundred Dwellings—Seven Churches—In Westfield Township.

Sixty years ago the man who came to this section looking for Plainfield was directed to "a thriving village in Westfield township." Nowadays, that looks somewhat like putting the cart before the horse, but it was a straight enough direction in 1845. It may be something of a shock to the earnest young real estate operators who are booming the city now to learn it, but Plainfield actually was once but a small and modest jewel in the crown of Westfield township.

Since then Westfield township has shrunk and Plainfield has grown. An old history of New Jersey published about 1845, which a Daily Press reporter found on a bookshelf at the home of R. E. Coriell, of Fairview avenue, yesterday, indicates how much the city has advanced from its small estate in three-score years.

There were only seven stores in Plainfield in 1845. The manufacture of clothing and hats was an important part of the village business, while there being no less than eight clothing and six hat manufactories. There were two wheelwrights, five blacksmiths, two grist and three saw mills. It had a mutual insurance company, established in 1832. Two fire engines were stationed in the town. There were two boarding schools, a seminary and "The Plainfield Family School."

The inhabitants numbered nearly 1,500, and the village contained 300 dwellings.

There were seven churches, one Presbyterian, two Baptist, one Seventh-Day Baptist, two Friends' and one Methodist.

They liked the looks of Plainfield even then. The historian says the village was "beautifully situated on Green brook," and "the country around is rich, well cultivated and healthy."

He liked the people, too. "The society is moral, religious, and ambitious of improvement," he says. How a community of that sort could escape waxing great and prosperous is hard to understand.

The historian tells of the town's beginning, as follows:

"The first frame building in Plainfield was erected in 1735, at which period there were but a few scattered log huts and Indian wigwams. In 1750, the first grist mill was built, and in 1760 the first school house. In 1788, the first meeting house was erected by the Friends. In 1808, the first hat manufactory was established. The first Baptist church was erected in 1813, the Rev. Jacob Drake was pastor eight years, when he died. Rev. Daniel T. Hill was settled as pastor in 1828; he remained until his resignation in 1839, when he was succeeded by Rev. Simeon J. Drake."

The historian was an appreciative man. He winds up his history of early Plainfield with: "The Presbyterian society have laid out a beautiful cemetery near the town." The cemetery has changed some since then. Is still beautiful enough, but it has moved much closer to town.

The history gives a paragraph to Scotch Plains:

"Scotch Plains, so named from having been settled by Scotch emigrants, about 1684, is a rich agricultural vicinity, in the west part of the township, where there is a Baptist church. This church (says Benedict in the History of the Baptists) is the branch of the ancient one in Piscataway, and was constituted in 1747, with fifteen members. The first pastor was Rev. Benjamin Miller, a native of the place. He was ordained in 1748, and continued as pastor until his death in 1781. He is said to have been a wild youth, but meeting with a sudden and surprising change under a sermon of the celebrated Gilbert Tennent. Rev. William Vanhorn was settled in 1785, and died in 1807, and was succeeded by Rev. Thomas Brown, of Newark. From this church originated James Manning, D. D., the first president of Brown University. Westfield gets a very scant mention. "It is a neat village, consisting of about 30 or 40 dwellings," says the historian. "In the vicinity of which is a Presbyterian 'church,' and he hasn't anything much else to give the home of baseball rooting and Randolph Perkins.

Among the guests registered over Sunday at the Victoria Hotel, Asbury Park, were Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Freeman, of Plainfield.

Mrs. Lee, of New York, and the Misses Easton, of Morristown, are spending a few days with Mrs. W. C. Leek, of East Fifth street.

EXERCISES AT HARTRIDGE

Annual Exhibition of Work Today and Commencement on Thursday.

SHAKESPEAREAN PLAY

"As You Like It" To Be Presented By Pupils On Johnston Estate —Entire Programme.

The annual exhibition of the work of the elementary department of the Hartridge School will be held at the Westfield township.

Nowadays, that looks somewhat like putting the cart before the horse, but it was a straight enough direction in 1845. It may be something of a shock to the earnest young real estate operators who are booming the city now to learn it, but Plainfield actually was once but a small and modest jewel in the crown of Westfield township.

Since then Westfield township has shrunk and Plainfield has grown. An old history of New Jersey published about 1845, which a Daily Press reporter found on a bookshelf at the home of R. E. Coriell, of Fairview avenue, yesterday, indicates how much the city has advanced from its small estate in three-score years.

There were only seven stores in Plainfield in 1845. The manufacture of clothing and hats was an important part of the village business, while there being no less than eight clothing and six hat manufactories. There were two wheelwrights, five blacksmiths, two grist and three saw mills. It had a mutual insurance company, established in 1832. Two fire engines were stationed in the town. There were two boarding schools, a seminary and "The Plainfield Family School."

The inhabitants numbered nearly 1,500, and the village contained 300 dwellings.

There were seven churches, one Presbyterian, two Baptist, one Seventh-Day Baptist, two Friends' and one Methodist.

They liked the looks of Plainfield even then. The historian says the village was "beautifully situated on Green brook," and "the country around is rich, well cultivated and healthy."

He liked the people, too. "The society is moral, religious, and ambitious of improvement," he says. How a community of that sort could escape waxing great and prosperous is hard to understand.

The historian tells of the town's beginning, as follows:

"The first frame building in Plainfield was erected in 1735, at which period there were but a few scattered log huts and Indian wigwams. In 1750, the first grist mill was built, and in 1760 the first school house. In 1788, the first meeting house was erected by the Friends. In 1808, the first hat manufactory was established. The first Baptist church was erected in 1813, the Rev. Jacob Drake was pastor eight years, when he died. Rev. Daniel T. Hill was settled as pastor in 1828; he remained until his resignation in 1839, when he was succeeded by Rev. Simeon J. Drake."

The historian was an appreciative man. He winds up his history of early Plainfield with: "The Presbyterian society have laid out a beautiful cemetery near the town." The cemetery has changed some since then. Is still beautiful enough, but it has moved much closer to town.

The history gives a paragraph to Scotch Plains:

"Scotch Plains, so named from having been settled by Scotch emigrants, about 1684, is a rich agricultural vicinity, in the west part of the township, where there is a Baptist church. This church (says Benedict in the History of the Baptists) is the branch of the ancient one in Piscataway, and was constituted in 1747, with fifteen members. The first pastor was Rev. Benjamin Miller, a native of the place. He was ordained in 1748, and continued as pastor until his death in 1781. He is said to have been a wild youth, but meeting with a sudden and surprising change under a sermon of the celebrated Gilbert Tennent. Rev. William Vanhorn was settled in 1785, and died in 1807, and was succeeded by Rev. Thomas Brown, of Newark. From this church originated James Manning, D. D., the first president of Brown University. Westfield gets a very scant mention. "It is a neat village, consisting of about 30 or 40 dwellings," says the historian. "In the vicinity of which is a Presbyterian 'church,' and he hasn't anything much else to give the home of baseball rooting and Randolph Perkins.

Among the guests registered over Sunday at the Victoria Hotel, Asbury Park, were Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Freeman, of Plainfield.

Mrs. Lee, of New York, and the Misses Easton, of Morristown, are spending a few days with Mrs. W. C. Leek, of East Fifth street.

DISTRICT COURT A FACT

William Newcorn Appointed to the Judgeship by the Governor.

ONE COURT DAY A WEEK

Council Chamber Will Probably Be the Home of the Tribunal—Jurisdiction of the Justices Curtailed.

Former Assemblyman William Newcorn was appointed judge of the newly-created district court of this city by Governor Stokes yesterday. He will receive his commission and proceed with the establishment of the court in a few days.

Judge Newcorn received the appointment on Senator Ackerman's recommendation. He was endorsed by the "Republican organization, through County Chairman Frank H. Smith, and by the lawyers of the city. City Judge William N. Runyon, leader of the Union County League for Equal Taxation, the Colbyite organization, sent in Senator Ackerman a very warm endorsement of Mr. Newcorn, when the Senator made the usual inquiries before laying his recommendation before the Governor.

Judge Newcorn heard of his appointment from Chairman Smith this morning before he reached his office. The news of the appointment rapidly spread among the lawyers of the city and they dropped into the office or called on the telephone all through the forenoon to offer congratulations. The new judge was frankly pleased over the appointment, and expressed his gratification.

The appointment having been made, it is now up to the Common Council to furnish a suitable court room. It has been suggested that the Council Chamber be used, and it is fairly certain it will be. The room now is not used during the day, and there are no night sessions of the court. The place is almost ideal for the purpose, and Judge Newcorn would undoubtedly be pleased with its selection. The matter will be taken up at once by the Finance Committee of the Council, of which Mr. Daniel is chairman.

Court will be held one day a week, to begin with, but should the business enough to make it necessary another court day will be established.

Judge Newcorn said this morning that it was a little too early to talk of the appointment of clerk and sergeant-at-arms. Constable John Manley wants the job as sergeant and is pushing his application energetically. He is circulating a petition for the appointment. Constable Peter Weaver is a receptive candidate, and those on the inside intimate that he is the slated appointee. He is popular among the lawyers, and as a Civil War veteran he has a certain standing that lends strength to his candidacy.

By his elevation to the bench, Judge Newcorn is cut off from practice in district courts. Practice in other courts he will continue, and the judicial work will not check his legal activities appreciably.

In connection with the creation of the new court, questions concerning the jurisdiction of the justices in actions pending before them when Judge Newcorn qualifies has arisen. Under the statute the justices cease to have power over civil cases in any city with a district court established, and the new court will be legally in existence as soon as Judge Newcorn takes the oath. It would appear from the law that all local actions not then finished in justices' courts will be null and void and must be recommenced in the district court.

Although the justices are constitutional officers and may not be legislated out of office, it is the function of the Legislature to decide the extent of their activities. By the law establishing the district courts here they are curtailed considerably so far as Plainfield cases go. They may continue to hear civil cases from other places in the county, but none in which the litigants are Plainfielders.

Dr. Villiers Will Speak.

Rev. Dr. Villiers, formerly of Indianapolis, but now pastor of the Peddie Memorial Baptist church, Newark, will make the evening address at the meeting of the East New Jersey Baptist Association, to be held at the New Market Baptist church, on June 5. There will be morning and afternoon sessions also. Large delegations are expected to attend from the local Baptist churches.

Reunion of 28th N. J. Vols.

The annual reunion of the Twenty-sixth N. J. Vols., will be held in Newark, on Tuesday afternoon, June 5. Captain M. C. Dobbins, of Co. D, that regiment, is the only Plainfield member, and he expects to attend.

—Neuman Brothers' store will be closed all day tomorrow.

DISTRIBUTES HALF MILLION AS MORAL OBLIGATION

Mr. Hooley's Generous Deed Three Years After Legal Settlement Had Been Made.

ASSUMED OLD DEBTS

North Plainfielder Pays Up Every Penny of Indebtedness of Firm of Which He Was a Member.

Edwin S. Hooley, of North Plainfield, now the head of the stock exchange firm of Hooley, Learned & Co., has kept his promise and squared up all of his indebtedness, having mailed to his creditors on Saturday checks which aggregated more than $1,000,000. Soon after the failure of the firm of Edwin S. Hooley & Co., on July 27, 1903, Mr. Hooley settled with his creditors for fifty cents on the dollar, but he then declared that he would eventually settle dollar for dollar with interest. This he has done, the checks that were sent out on Saturday, being for the remaining 50 per cent. and included interest at 3 per cent.

When Mr. Hooley was questioned about the matter by a representative for The Daily Press, he said that it was one which he did not care to discuss and begged to be excused.

Mr. Hooley was at the time when Talbot J. Taylor & Co., and W. L. Snow & Co. went under. The firm was overloaded with Evansville and Terre Haute and Des Moines and Fort Dodge stock. Mr. Hooley took over the liabilities of the firm, and in December of the same year he made the agreement with his creditors that gave him the opportunity to resume business. Mr. Hooley and his new firm have been successful in dealing in copper, and it is generally understood in Wall street that the firm handles Thomas F. Lawson's business in New York.

An intimate friend of Mr. Hooley in speaking of the settlement said "Every hair in his head is an honest one, and I can speak with authority for I have know him since a boy."

MAKING GRAIN ELEVATOR OF A PART OF ICE PLANT

ONE OF HYGEIA BUILDINGS BEING CONVERTED BY GROCERY CONCERN.

Plans have been put into execution by the Dunham Grocery Company for the conversion of a part of the smaller building of the Hygeia Ice Company plant into a grain elevator.

Work has been commenced, and will be pushed rapidly to completion. Two bins for the storage of the grain will be built, each measuring about 50 feet by 40 feet.

The elevator is being made out of a portion of a building used by the ice company for offices and a storage house. The Hygeia people will still have their offices in part of the structure. In the part given over to the new use, the grocery company will have their grain office.

WOMEN SUFFRAGISTS.

Last Meeting of Local League Yesterday Afternoon.

The Equal Suffrage League of Plainfield and North Plainfield met yesterday at the home of Mrs. W. L. Sanford, 246 Second place, Mrs. Isaac L. Miller presiding. An article written by Lucy E. Middleton on the subject of "How the status of an American woman is affected by her marriage with an alien subject," was read by Mrs. Miller.

Remarks by Mrs. Blackstone, of Toronto, Can., upon the improved condition of the Canadian women who possess municipal suffrage, were listened to with much interest. This was the last meeting of the league for the summer.

CONCERT GARDEN.

Dancing Platform at the Carnival Made Into a New Feature.

The dancing platform at the Carnival is to be made over into a concert garden. The floor was so badly warped by last night's rain as to be useless for dancing, and Mr. Fisk decided to convert it into a new attraction.

The work will be done this afternoon, and the pleasure seekers on the grounds tonight will find a new nook in which a pass a pleasant fifteen minutes. Chairs and tables will be placed about the garden, and drinks will be served.

The great attraction of the place will be the appearance of Ed. J. Brown's celebrated Eureka trio. The trio have a high standing in New York, and have performed at Casino affairs and sang at the Charity Ball. They will appear every matinee and night this week.

Elizabeth District Societies to Meet.

The annual meeting of the Elizabeth District Women's Home Missionary Society of the Methodist Episcopal church will be held in Grace M. E. church Thursday. The morning session begins at 10 o'clock and a basket luncheon will be served at noon. The afternoon session will begin at 2 o'clock, during which the annual report of the secretary and treasurer will be read and officers elected.

Approaching Wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. John Wyman, of East Front street, have issued invitations to the marriage of their daughter, Miss Minnie Wyman, and William Richardson Erincy. The event is to be celebrated Tuesday night, June 12, at 7:30 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents, 404 East Front street.

Almost a Month's Rainfall.

Weather Sergeant John Neagle reports that the rainfall from Sunday morning at 9 o'clock until this morning, when the rain ceased, was 3.87 inches, which is almost equal to that of the average fall for a month.

RAIN CHECKED CARNIVAL

Nothing But Moisture On the Show Grounds Last Night.

The weather had the Carnival grounds all to itself last night. The tents and the booths dripped in dismal darkness and the shows showed not.

Tonight, by the grace of the weather man, things will be different. The Knights Templar will have charge of the attractions, and valiantly will seek to outdo the other hosts that have tilted against the great dragon Tightwad on that field.

New bills will be offered in all the shows. The vaudeville show has another lively programme, and the circus has some brand new features in ring work. New songs and gags and business will mark the minstrel show. The Carnival store deliveries will begin tonight. If you hold a letter on the store bring it to the counter early.

The shows and attractions will all open at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. The Plainfield Business College pupils will be in charge. At night the Knights of Columbus will be the boomers.

New Stamp Store.

Sperry & Hutchinson, the originators of the trading stamp, has made arrangements with A. E. Force & Co., proprietors of "The White Store," to establish one of their principal distributing branches on the third floor of the firm's building on West Front street. No pains will be spared in making the branch one of the best and the entire third floor will be handsomely furnished for the display of the valuable premiums offered by the stamp firm. This will be the only distributing branch of the Sperry & Hutchinson firm between Elizabeth and Trenton and it is the intention to make it equal to any. Commencing on Saturday A. E. Force & Co. will begin the use of the Sperry & Hutchinson stamps, giving them to all patrons of the store.

Quietly Married.

Miss Eleanor Bird, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Bird, of West Second street, and Richard Baldwin, of West street, were married Sa... by the Rev. Dr. Co... pastor of Trinity... The ceremony... home of the... coup...

MR. HALL CONSIDERING

Surprised to Learn That Friends Mention Him For Mayoralty.

SURVEYING SITUATION

Not Ready to Talk Yet, He Says, and Matter Is Too Serious To Discuss Offhand.

Henry L. Hall, of Netherwood, is thinking about the mayoralty boom sprung by some of his friends yesterday. Thinking, but not speaking.

A Daily Press reporter tried to get Mr. Hall to speak of it last night, but he smiled a negative. He admitted that he was thinking about it, but he would not talk of it.

"Not at this time," he said, deprecatingly. "The thing has come out of a clear sky for me, and I want to see what is in it before I begin talking. It is too serious a matter to dismiss flippantly, and I have no knowledge of what it all really means on which to base a formal statement. The use of my name is a complete surprise to me. I have never been spoken to by any of my friends, and I hadn't even the remotest idea that such an idea was in any one's head."

The reporter saw Mr. Hall at the carnival. While they were talking Mayor Buckle and Chief Kiely approached. Both greeted Mr. Hall with wide smiles.

"How are you, Mr. Mayor," said the chief, laughing.

Mr. Hall smiled in answer.

"I see your handsome face in the Press tonight," said the Mayor jovially.

"You don't seem to be jealous, Mayor," observed a bystander.

"There is room for that in my composition," said the Mayor.

"No, I don't believe there is," said Mr. Hall with sudden seriousness, and he nodded cordially at the Mayor as he and the chief went on up the grounds.

HE MAY COME INTO COOL HALF MILLION

JOHN WHITE, OF SINGER FACTORY, THINKS HE IS HEIR OF RICH MAN.

John W. White, an employe of the Singer factory, living on Port avenue near Fourth street, Elizabeth, has prospects of becoming part heir to an estate of $500,000 left by Patrick White, who died in the Mansion House, Hicks street, Brooklyn, on May 4. The dead man left no will, and his estate is now in the hands of Public Administrator Charles M. Bristow. The Elizabeth man claims that he is a nephew of the deceased White. He has placed the matter in the hands of a local lawyer, who is negotiating with Mr. Bristow.

John White read recently of the death of Patrick White. It occurred to him that it might be an uncle of his. When later facts were given out White felt sure the dead man was his uncle. Patrick White left Ireland when he was 20 years old. He became a contractor and grew rich. For a time he lived in Baltimore, but a few years before his death he lived in Brooklyn.

White, of Elizabeth, never knew the contractor personally, but he says his father and the deceased used to correspond with him from Ireland. He states that numerous letters were received in Ireland from Patrick White by his father. White can trace his family back to his grandfather and grandmother, and the names correspond with what is known of the late contractor. He himself never had any correspondence with the uncle, for the latter kept aloof, remained a bachelor, and was somewhat hermit-like in his ways. But White knew all the time that he had an uncle living in this country who had become rich through contracting.

If it is established that White is the nephew of the contractor, three sisters of White, in Elizabeth, will share in the estate. Altogether there would have been six heirs whom White knows of, and one is dead. White has a mother yet living in Ireland, who, he says, would speak about her husband's brother getting along well in the United States. She has letters which Patrick White wrote to her husband when the brothers corresponded.

An interesting feature of the effort to locate the heirs of White is that any number of people have registered themselves as such without the slightest evidence of relationship, Mr. Bristow said that 150 had applied for the inheritance as heirs of White. Some knew nothing at all about White, and others made flimsy attempts to establish some connection with the dead contractor.

The Misses Anna Gaston and Elisabeth Duffield, of Somerville, have been guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ira Gaston, of this city.

Fools and Money.

A woman plays bridge and plays poker. It is any poor?—Somerville

ARE SILENT FOR OVER FORTY YEARS

REMARKABLE CASE OF BROTHER AND SISTER.

LIVE IN THE SAME HOUSE

During Entire Time James and Mary Durney Have Not Spoken to Each Other—Usually Eat Their Meals Separately.

New York.—On a 75-acre farm, four miles from Chateaugay, Franklin county, N. Y., dwell James and Mary Durney, brother and sister, who, although they have lived in the same house since childhood and are the only occupants of the house, have not spoken to each other for 42 years.

James is 69 years old and Mary 55. Their uncommunicativeness has for two score years been one of the wonders of that part of Franklin county, and the fact that, otherwise, they appear to get along together amicably, has but served to intensify interest in the case.

What further adds to the interest of the situation is that neither brother nor sister ever says a derogatory word of the other if questioned.

Yet the cause of the period of 42 years of silence toward each other is one of the traditions of neighbors. When Mary Durney was 12 years old she wanted to go to a party in the village of Chateaugay, and her brother, five years older, declared that she should not; that she was too young to go to parties.

The girl tried to slip out of the house, but her brother caught and detained her, and refused to permit her to leave the sitting-room of their home until the last vehicle had departed with its merry load of youthful farmer-folk. As the sound of the wheels of the last carryall died away Mary was seized with fits of grief and passion, and struggled desperately to open the door that her brother had locked, putting the key in his pocket. He sat back and laughed at his little sister's vain efforts to open the door. She struggled to force the lock and then pounded frantically on the door, until, exhausted by her efforts and her impotent rage, she fell on the floor. She lay there for hours, refusing to move, and shrieking when her brother tried to get her to rise.

When the girl arose the next day she refused to speak to or notice her brother, and this is the attitude that she has maintained resolutely, through good fortune and bad, through deaths in the family, through success in business enterprises that came to them, through the sickness or health of both of them.

Her brother, quick to take his cue, and apparently feeling as angry as she, after a few abortive attempts, ceased to speak to her when he received no answer to his remarks. And from that day, 42 years ago on October 15, these five persons, dwelling together, have locked their lips against each other.

FOR 42 YEARS THEY HAVE NEVER SPOKEN OR DINED AT THE SAME TABLE.

The father of the pair died 30 years ago. During the last years of his life he tried in every way to break the silence between his son and daughter, but they steadfastly refused to comply with his wishes. After the death of their father, the mother took up the task of attempting to reconcile her two children, but she met with no better success. She died 18 years ago.

When her father and mother died Mary Durney refused to attend their funerals. Neighbors for miles around tried to persuade her to do so, but she stubbornly declined. Mary Durney will eat if a stranger is around. None of the neighbors can remember ever seeing her at a meal. If anyone approaches the house she usually locks and bolts the door. She has never been to church or to school. Rev. F. J. Cheviln, of St. Patrick's church, Chateaugay, often calls at the house to get Mary to attend the services, but when she sees him approaching she slams and bolts the door in his face. All his knocking at the door and on the windows fails to elicit any response. She merely goes about the house pulling down the shades.

Since the day when she and her mother quarreled over the party Mary never has worn a shoe or stocking. Summer and winter she goes barefoot. When it is noted that the farm where she lives is only one mile from the Canadian border, one may realize the suffering that going barefooted entails upon her. When the farmhouse is surrounded by deep drifts of snow Mary has been seen running barefooted up and down the porch, which was deep in snow, and apparently enjoying the experience.

Brother and sister for the last eighteen years have lived alone in the house on their unspeaking terms. They do their own housework. Each cooks his and her own meals.

Sometimes, but not often, brother and sister eat their meals together. The usual custom is for Mary to prepare her meal and eat it first, and then James will cook and eat his. James usually waits until Mary has washed the dishes after her meal before he enters the kitchen.

Both James and Mary Durney are apparently perfectly sound in mind. They are well posted on the news of the day. When either is asked why he or she will not speak to the other, neither answers, either changing the subject or turning abruptly away.

Durney is five feet six inches in height and weighs 186 pounds. He is good-natured and well mannered. Mary is of medium size. Barring her shyness, she appears good-humored.

James Durney is a carpenter as well as a farmer. Two days a week he does odd jobs in the village of Chateaugay, spending the other five on his farm. Forty feet from the farmhouse stands his workshop, which is filled with $7,000 worth of modern machinery and tools. Often from sunrise to sunset he works at an invention for perpetual motion.

SOCIETY MAN BY DAY; A BURGLAR BY NIGHT.

Prominent Middletown, N. Y., Man and Leader of Fashion Confesses to Looting Homes.

Middletown, N. Y.—The alleged confession of Charles Boos, until a few days ago superintendent of the Wallkill Transit company's lines in Orange county, has amazed this city and solved a spectacular police mystery. According to the police he admitted to them that he had robbed one of the largest department stores in the city, besides several residences in the last few months.

HE AIDED THE POLICE IN THEIR HUNT.

Boos jestingly reminded the police that he himself had raised the hue and cry one night a few weeks ago when a burglar was chased out of the residence of a wealthy man. He said the police were close on him before he got out of the house and that he ran ahead of them shouting: "Stop thief! Catch that man!"

This ruse worked so well that Boos resorted to it again a few nights later when he had forced his way into the home of J. L. Pendleton, and from which he was frightened by an alarm. Boos is regarded as a modern social highwayman. He drew a large salary as superintendent of the big transit corporation and lived in good style in handsomely furnished apartments on one of the best streets in the city. He was apparently one of the freshest men in town, seemed to have no time for anything but his work, and appeared an exemplary man of business. He is married to a daughter of stealing copper wire from the company and selling it to a junk dealer. Officials of the company were his accusers.

A subsequent search of Boos' fine apartment revealed plunder for which the police had long been looking and which it is alleged was taken from a department store and private residences. When the loot was discovered Boos, it is said, confessed.

Cow in Pedagogue's Office.

Indianapolis, Ind.—A cow occupied the office of President Garrison, of Butler college, the other night. As Dr. Garrison neared the entrance to his office next morning he was greeted with discordant sounds that he was unable to understand. When he opened the door he fell back aghast upon discovering a cow looking at him disconsolately from the middle of the room. About the animal were scattered books, papers and college documents in great confusion. Dr. Garrison endeavored to hush the matter until an investigation could reveal the identity of the culprits. The deed was evidently a college prank.

Husband Sleeps Under Bed.

Brooklyn, N. Y.—A pretty woman with auburn hair asked the clerk of a court for advice as to what she could do with her husband, John Bird, with whom she lives in a Fourth avenue flat. They have two small children. Mrs. Bird says that since her husband "got religion" he insists on sleeping under the bed, because he does not want her to have other men coming to see her. The clerk told his visitor that Mr. Bird could not be arrested, and referred her to a lawyer, who advised her to apply for a separation.

HUNT CLUB CUP DONORS

Generous Citizens Give Eight Trophies and Club Offers Three More.

MEMORIAL DAY EVENTS

C. J. Fisk, W. J. Buttfield, G. A. Beaton, W. P. Smith, C. D. Freeman and Others Donors.

All the details for the steeplechase meet to be held at the Gentlemen's Driving Park, Memorial Day afternoon and Saturday afternoon, June 2, are rapidly being completed. A gang of men is employed making improvements at the track and the grandstands will be attractively decorated with flags and bunting. There will be every comfort and convenience for patrons.

The entries for the farmers' race will be large, there being an unusual amount of interest this year in the cash prizes. This race will be run oc each day.—run in 1905 by H. A. Bourne's "Red Light." Must be won twice before becoming winner's property. Cup presented by the club. Farmer's race—purse of $40; of which $10 to the second and $5 to the third horse. Purse presented by the club. Hack or hunter race—purse of $100; of which $25 to the second horse. Purse presented by the club. Middlesex cup—steeplechase for bona-fide hunters. Cup presented by W. Palmer Smith. Hilltop cup—run in 1906 by H. A. Bourne's "Red Light." Must be won twice before becoming winner's property. Cup presented by the club. Farmer's race—purse of $40; of which $10 to the second horse, and $5 to the third horse. Cup presented by the club. Hack or hunter race—purse of $100; of which $25 to the second horse. Purse presented by the club. Middlesex cup—steeplechase for bona-fide hunters. Cup presented by W. P. Smith. Hilltop cup—steeplechase for bona-fide hunters. Cup presented by Geo. P. Mellick.

The events for Saturday afternoon, June 2, and names of those who present prizes are as follows:

Westfield cup—for gallowys, fifteen hands and under. Cup presented by George A. Beaton. Master's cup—steeplechase for horses that have been hunted regularly with the Watchung Hunt and to be ridden by members of the club. Cup presented by Dr. M. O'M. Knott. Farmer's race—purse of $40; of which $10 to the second horse, and $5 to the third horse. Cup presented by the club. Union cup—for hacks and hunters. Purse of $100; of which $25 to the second horse. Purse presented by the club and a cup presented by Charles J. Fisk. Somerset cup—steeplechase for half-bred bona-fide hunters. Cup presented by W. J. Buttefield. Open cup—steeplechase for bona-fide hunters. Cup presented by Francis de Lacy Hyde.

The race committee is composed of W. de La Roche Anderson, C. E. Mellick, Charles W. Fisk, Dr. M. O'M. Knott and H. Duncan Bulkley.

A FAREWELL RECEPTION.

Enjoyable Affair Given in Honor of Robert Hendry, of Scotland.

In honor of his intending return to Scotland after a three months' local visit, Robert Hendry, brother of Thomas and Nathaniel Hendry, of the West End, was given a reception at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Jones, of Essex street, Friday night. Thirty-five friends were in attendance and a most enjoyable time was had. Vocal and instrumental music were feature and a supper was served in conclusion.

During the evening, Mr. Hendry was presented by David Bowden with a silver-mounted walking stick, the gift of friends, and Donald McInnes made a second presentation of a handsome pictorial book of New York and Plainfield scenes. In both instances Mr. Hendry made a fitting response. During his stay in Plainfield, he became widely acquainted and he goes back home leaving many warm friends.

Local Bar Association.

Plainfield lawyers are seriously considering the formation of a local bar association in that city in order that a law library and other professional facilities may be established nearer their offices than is now the case. The headquarters of the county bar association are in Elizabeth, too far, the Plainfielders say, to benefit others than the lawyers of the county seat.—Union County Standard.

Fowler's Boom.

According to some of the newspapers Congressman Fowler is gunning for the nomination for Vice President of the United States on the Republican ticket. It is hardly probable that little Jersey would so soon be recognized again after having Hobart in 1900.—Rahway Democrat.

SLIM REFORM AUDIENCE.

Mayor Fagan, of City Jersey, and Corporation Counsell Record went to Bayonne last night to establish a branch of the Colby-Fagan-Record organization, to be called Reform League. The meeting was held in Henderson's Hall, but not more than thirty-five men listened to the speeches.

Mr. Record and the Mayor made a short address. They attributed the small attendance to the hot night and promised to organize a branch club in every district of the city within the next few months.

ELIZABETH INTERESTED IN MUNICIPAL FIGHTING

EXPERTS WILL REPORT ON THE MATTER AT NEXT COUNCIL MEETING.

Elizabeth, May 26.—City Council, at its next meeting will hear the report of the experts employed by the city to inquire into the practicability of maintaining and operating a municipally owned electric lighting plant here. The cost, according to the report of T. P. Runyon, representing the firm of consulting engineers, Runyon & Carey, will be $165,250. It will cost $25,484 a year for operating expenses. Such a plant, according to Mr. Runyon, can be made to pay the city considerably. Elizabeth now pays $36,000 a year for street lighting.

The Public Service Corporation has heretofore been supplying this city with electric light and power from the power-house of the United Electric Company. Its contract will expire on September 1. Last fall Councilman Edward Nugent, representing the Eighth ward, offered a resolution in city council, which was adopted, asking that the city counsel, James C. Connolly, draft a bill for presentation to the State Legislature which would enable this city to construct a municipal electric lighting plant. The bill was prepared and handed to Assemblyman Edward K. Tucker, a Colby man, for presentation. The bill passed the House, but through some unknown influences which were brought to bear upon it, was killed in the Senate. Other similar bills, it was last on the last day of the Senate's session, and the bill was never passed in that branch of the Legislature, and the city is still without power to act on this matter. Assemblyman Tucker in explaining it has understated why his bill was never passed in the Senate, and he intends making this fact a prominent feature of his campaign in Union county this fall. The Colby followers in this city are preparing to take the matter up, and it is probable that this fight will be brought prominently to the front this year in the Colby campaign.

Not to be brooked by machine politicians, Councilman Nugent preceded with his preparations for the establishment of a public lighting plant, and, when the Public Service Corporation heard of his having employed expert testimony, the price of electric lighting and power was suddenly dropped in this city with a vague promise that there would be further reductions.

The report says, in part:

"The plant for which we are furnishing an estimate is capable of supplying current for street lighting and for public building lighting purposes, and in such a plant as we would advise installing if it were intended to embark at once in the commercial field.

"The estimate includes underground construction on Broad street from Grove street to Newark avenue, and thence on Newark avenue to North avenue, and also on Elizabeth avenue from the power-house to Broad street.

"The cost of operation is made up of the following items, interest on investment, depreciation of plant, taxes, maintenance of plant. The first amounts to $6,610; the second, or depreciation of plant, or about $7,900, or at a rate of 4.62; third, or taxes, at $2.91, the rate for the last ten years, equivalent to the report, $924; cost of labor, $8,000; coal, waste, oil, etc., for 500 lights, $5,460; repairs, $300 per year; for power-house items and $1,000 annually for aerial systems, supplies, per 500 arc lights, $1,375; and superintendence, about $750 per year. The fixed charges would therefore amount to $25,484, or a cost of $62.-79 per lamp, with 500 of them in service. The city pays about $36,000 a year for street lighting."

The committee which now has the matter in hand is the joint committee on finance and street lighting composed of John S. Sauer, chairman; John K. English, Edward Nugent, James Walker, William P. Mackenzie and Owen Farrelly.

Ingenious Jerseymen.

Patents issued to Jerseymen, reported by Wilson & Co., solicitors of American and foreign patents: Means for constructing concrete walls, C. H. Bellars, Lyndhurst; belt punch and cutter, F. F. Cohen, Newark; rail fastening means, J. L. Dahl, Weehawken; lock, D. Daria, Newark; window, A. M. Dixon, East Orange; storage battery, T. A. Edison, Llewellyn Park; car construction, E. M. Erb, Jersey City; adjustable sash balance, E. M. Erb, Jersey City; window construction, E. M. Erb, Jersey City; metallic door jamb, Peel for lockers, R. W. Jefferis, Parchanville; dishwashing apparatus, C. B. Miller, Sewaren; rope drum, T. S. Miller, South Orange; liquid distributator, L. Perotti, Newark; sock or stocking, A. Poetzl, Dover; plate press, G. Rowden, Newark; meat chopper, H. C. Sander, Newark; siphon collar, C. B. Schultz, Murray Hill; gas pump, R. Whitaker, New Brunswick; apparatus for distilling coals and other hydrocarbonaceous substances, H. Wirtz, Newark.

Entertained at Tea.

Mrs. David E. Tilsworth entertained at a tea Thursday afternoon, from four to six o'clock. The affair passed off delightfully.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD BAPTISTS' ENTERTAINMENT

GOOD PROGRAMME PRESENTED BY PEOPLE OF THAT VILLAGE.

An entertainment for the benefit of the South Plainfield Baptist church was given in Washington Hall, that place, Friday night, under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society, of which Mrs. Peter Johnson is the president. The attendance was large and the entertainment a success. A piano and banjo duett by Miss Clara Heaten, of Newark, and John Linaberry, opened the programme, followed with an umbrella drill by a number of children, trained by Miss Mildred Johnson. After a selection by the male quartette from the Plainfield High School, a short play was presented entitled "Thirty Minues for Refreshments." The characters:

"Dooley & Smith," colored servant, Monroe Pyatt; "Old Maid," Miss Florence Johnson; "Mrs. Foxton," Miss Clara Heaton; "Mr. Foxton," John Linaberry; "Waiting Maid," Miss Mildred Johnson; "Major Pepper," Leroy Clawson.

Miss Gladys Thorn sang "Life of a Doll," and Miss Mildred Johnson recited "Leap Year Mishaps," and the male quartette sang another selection. The programme concluded with a short play entitled "Jumbo Jam." These were the characters: "Mr. Gobbleten," Phil. Smith; "Mrs. Gobbleten," Miss Clara Heaten; "Hannah," Miss Mildred Johnson; "Adelaide," Miss Florence Johnson; "Henry Merrill," John Linaberry; "Lawyer Chatem," Leroy Clawson; "Jumbo Jum," Monroe Pyatt; laborers, Robert Horn, Jr., Earl Darlington and Raymond Payne.

BIG EXHIBITORS COMING TO LOCAL HORSE SHOW

C. W. WATSON AND J. A. HARRIMAN WILL MAKE ENTRIES.

Those in charge of the third annual horse show to be held June 7, 8 and 9, under the auspices of the Plainfield Riding and Driving Club, have received word that J. A. Harriman and C. W. Watson will be among the prominent horsemen who will exhibit their thoroughbred stock in this city. They will bring their horses here from the Philadelphia show, which precedes the Plainfield show by a few days.

The feature of the horse show at Baltimore on Thursday was the picturesque arrival of Mr. Harriman by special train and automobile and the contest between his horse, "Laughing Water," and "Lord Baltimore," owned by C. W. Watson, for the challenge cup for gig horses. The event was for a $1,000 cup, as well as a medal, and both men had their hearts on victory.

Mr. Harriman found at noon on Wednesday that an important business engagement kept him in New York until too late to catch a regular train. If was one of the rules of the contest that the owner must drive his horse. Mr. Harriman chartered a special train and went from New York to Baltimore in record time. At the railroad station in Baltimore two men had a speedy automobile. He reached the show grounds, out in Baltimore county just twenty minutes before it was time for his horse to go on the tankbark. He drove his beautiful brown mare, "Laughing Water," but "Lord Baltimore" was in better form and won the blue ribbon.

INSURANCE PROBERS MEET.

Senators Hilleny, Wakelee and Minturn, the commitee of the New Jersey Senate that is to investigate the insurance companies doing business in that State, held yesterday an informal meeting at the offices in Jersey City of its chief counsel, William H. Corbin.

The Senators conferred several hours with Mr. Corbin behind closed doors. All that was given out for publication was that the first meeting of the committee would be held next Friday, at the State House, Trenton, N. J.

An assistant counsel and several assistant clerks and subpoena-servers are to be appointed. The committee, it was said, would not make their appointments until after its Trenton meeting.

To Donate Flag.

The five councils of the Junior Order of United American Mechanics in Elizabeth are to provide the flag for the new Y. M. C. A. building on East Jersey street, in that city. The movement to furnish the national emblem was started by Orient Council, No. 46. It was immediately taken up by Mack Council, No. 276; Elizabeth Council, No. 181, and Winfield Scott Council, No. 52.

Calculating Man.

"In don't like young Dr. Oprates," remarked the timid young thing.

"No? And why?"

"The other evening he called, and by and by he squeezed my hand and said something sentimental, and just as I was trying to look demure and to blush I discovered that he had his finger on my pulse to see whether or not I was really affected by his attentions."—Judge.

SEWERS AGAIN DISCUSSED

Borough Council Defers Calling a Public Hearing to Continue Investigation.

MR. OSGOOD'S ADVICE

Declares Councilmen Should be Thoroughly Conversant with Facts and Figures to Meet Questions.

The members of the borough Council gathered at the council chamber Friday night ostensibly for the purpose of holding a meeting to discuss the sewer project, but in reality the subject was talked over only in an informal way. Engineer Pierson was not present and most of the time was devoted to carefully going over the last report he submitted, this detailing the plan for an independent plant.

Joseph O. Osgood, the New Jersey Central's chief engineer, who has given the council much advice in its negotiations, attended the conference and pointed out what he considered important details in Mr. Pierson's findings. To some of these he took exception and declared that in some respects he was very much out of the way, while in other points his explanations were not clear enough. Mr. Osgood advised the council to delve further in the subject of cost of materials, cost of pumping station and such matters before submitting any figures to the tax payers at a public meeting.

"If you ask the citizens to gather," said Mr. Osgood, "in order that you might tell them what you have decided upon and what a sewer system is going to cost them, you will find them exercising their privilege of asking questions. Unless you are thoroughly familiar with every point and have every little item of expense at your finger tips and can back it up with facts, not merely guesswork, you will find yourselves in a peculiar position. The people want to know and ought to know fully and clearly, what they are going to spend."

Borough Counsel Charles A. Reed was in attendance and also suggested that the council wait a little longer before calling a public meeting. He carefully compared the estimated cost of an independent plant and also connecting with the Plainfield beds and said that the later proposition should be given further consideration. His views were agreed to by Mayor Smalley and the councilmen and no action was taken toward asking the citizens to act. In the meantime, Engineer Pierson will revise his report and will detail the figures as suggested by Mr. Osgood.

WERE THEY CUT OR DID SOMEONE THROW ACID?

TALE OF THE CONCESSIONAIRE WHO WANTED A REVOLVER PERMIT.

One of the concessionaires at the Carnival came into police headquarters Saturday with a serious expression and a bundle.

"Chief," he said, "I want protection for my wife. Somebody is seeking to harm her. Last night, on the ground, acid was thrown on her clothes. Look here—"

He unrolled the bundle and disclosed a silk shirtwaist, spangled, and a skirt, plain and undecorated. The skirt had little slits in it, and the waist had two small holes. The slits were surrounded by stains, the holes were not.

"Look at those holes," said the concessionaire.

The chief looked closely. "Cut," he said briefly.

"What about those stains?" asked the concessionaire, holding up the skirt. He looked hurt for some reason.

The chief looked. "Ink," he said.

The concessionaire sighed.

"How could anybody cut those holes?" he protested. "Say, chief, I want a permit for my wife to carry a revolver."

"What for—to shoot somebody?"

"That's what. My wife's got an enemy."

"Well, look out for the enemy," said the chief soothingly. "My men carry all the revolvers needed around here."

The concessionaire looked hurt again. And with another sigh, he wrapped up the waist, spangled, and the skirt, plain and unfrilled, and went away.

A Daring Horsewoman.

One of the most thrilling and fascinating scenes ever witnessed on an American stage, the plunging horse in Thompson & Dundy's Hippodrome, charmed a party of Plainfielders yesterday afternoon. Leading a band of gypsies, Miss Adele von Ohl, of this city, one of the most daring horsewomen in the world, plunges into an immense tank of water, the others following in quick succession. Miss von Ohl is the only woman in the band and her nerve act makes the big house resound with plaudits. After the show, Miss von Ohl visited the box occupied by the Plainfielders and received deserving praise for her performance.

PLAINFIELD LIBRARY NOTES

THE SPIRIT OF THE ORIENT.

The richness of our Library, for all Special Reading Courses, is illustrated by the number of books which the Library contains from the Annotated Bibliography on Japan, China and India, recommended by Knox for the Chautauquan Home Reading Course.

Japan.

Bacon, A. M.—Japanese girls and women.

By far the best account, though rose colored, of its topic.

Bishop, Mrs. I. B.—Unbeaten tracks in Japan.

Though written more than twenty years ago, this remains the best book by a traveler.

Chamberlain, B. H.—Things Japanese.

The best summary with a brief paragraph upon all topics of interest by the man who is the highest authority.

Griffis, W. E.—Mikado's empire.

A good popular account of the mythology, history and customs.

Gulick, S. L.—Evolution of the Japanese.

Full of interesting and acute observation.

Knox, G. W.—Japanese life in town and country.

As the author has lived many years in Japan, he writes not as tourist or transient resident, but as a close observer of daily Japanese life.

Mitford, A. B. F.—Tales of old Japan.

A delightful account of the old Japan which passed away with the coming of foreigners.

China.

Dubois, H. C.—Dragon, image and demon; or, the three religions of China.

Gives an account of the mythology, idolatry and demonolatry of the Chinese.

Hardwick, C.—Christ and other masters.

The chief parallelisms and contrasts between Christianity and the religious systems of the ancient world.

Johnson, S.—Oriental religions, and their relation to universal religion: China.

Legge, James.—Religions of China: Confucianism and Toaism described and compared with Christianity.

Smith, A. H.—China in convulsion.

Best study of the Boxer troubles and the siege of Pekin.

Smith, A. H.—Chinese characteristics.

An exceedingly acute and brilliant study of people, somewhat too severe in its judgments.

Smith, A. H.—Village life in China.

Williams, S. W.—Middle kingdom. 2v.

India.

Barth, A.—Religions of India: Vedic religions: Brahamism, Buddism, Jainism, Hinduism.

Bragavadgita, with the Sanatsugatiya and the Anugita.—(Sacred Books of the East.)

Hardwick, C.—Christ and other masters.

Parallelisms and contrasts between Christianity and the religious systems of the ancient world.

Johnson, S.—Oriental religions and their relation to universal religion: India.

Hunter, W. W.—Indian empire: its peoples, history and products.

Note. Although the Library does not contain all the books recommended by Dr. Knox on India, it does contain many others which are probably equally as good.

Prize for Draft Horses.

One of the local classes at the coming horse show under the auspices of the Plainfield Riding and Driving Club, is for "single draft horses, suitable for tracking or carting to be shown in hand." Plainfield is justly proud of the many fine heavy teams in this city and it is expected that there will be a large entry list in this class. Entry blanks and prize lists can be obtained at the Casino. Entries will close on Thursday, May 31.

Choir Boys to Go Camping.

The Holy Cross choir baseball team and other members of the choir are to go camping at Hedges Lake, Berkshire Hills, beginning July 18. They will leave New York on the night boat for Albany on the evening of July 16. Four large tents, camp utensils and all conveniences for a commodious and comfortable camp have been ordered. The boys will be in camp two weeks or more under the care of the rector, Rev. George A. Warner, and his assistants.

OUR MOTTO.

We all desire "the greatest good
To the greatest number" done,
But the greatest number is understood
To be always "Number One."
—Catholic Standard and Times.

Colby League at Kearny.

A non-partisan Equal Taxation and Limited Franchise League has been organized in Kearny with these officers: President, Charles Hafstrom; secretary, Andrew Beveridge; treasurer, John Thompson. Arrangements are being made for a mass-meeting to be held at Kearny Oval, at which addresses will be made by Senator Colby, Mayor Fagan and Corporation Counsel Record, of Jersey City.

DIFFERENCES IN TIME.

When it is noon in New York the time in the cities mentioned below is as follows:

Atlanta, Ga.	11 a. m.
Amsterdam	5:15 p. m.
Augusta, Ga.	12 noon
Antwerp	5 p. m.
Athens	6:31 p. m.
Baltimore, Md.	12 noon
Bangor, Me.	12 noon
Belfast, Irel.	4:46 p. m.
Berne	5:25 p. m.
Berlin	5:49 p. m.
Boston, Mass.	12 noon
Brussels	5 p. m.
Buffalo, N. Y.	12 noon
Charleston, S. C.	12 noon
Charlottetown, P. E. I.	1 p. m.
Chicago, Ill.	11 a. m.
Cincinnati, O.	11 a. m.
Cleveland, O.	11 a. m.
Conbia, S. C.	12 noon
Constantinople	6:52 p. m.
Copenhagen	5:46 p. m.
Denver, Colo.	10 a. m.
Detroit, Mich.	11 a. m.
Des Moines, Ia.	11 a. m.
Dublin	3:45 p. m.
Edinburgh	4:47 p. m.
Galveston, Texas	11 a. m.
Genoa	5:30 p. m.
Glasgow	4:43 a. m.
Halifax, N. S.	1 p. m.
Hamburg	5:35 p. m.
Hamilton, Ont.	12 noon
Hannibal, Mo.	11 a. m.
Havana, Cuba	11:30 a. m.
Havre	5 p. m.
Houston, Texas	11 a. m.
Indianapolis, Ind.	11 a. m.
Jefferson City, Mo.	11 a. m.
Kalama, Wash.	8 a. m.
Kansas City, Mo.	11 a. m.
Knoxville, Tenn.	11 a. m.
Laramie, W.	11 a. m.
Liverpool	4:48 p. m.
Louisville, Ky.	11 a. m.
Lincoln, Neb.	11 a. m.
Little Rock, Ark.	1 a. m.
London, Eng.	5 p. m.
Macon, Ga.	11 a. m.
Manila, P. I.	1 a. m. next day
Madrid	4:42 p. m.
Memphis, Tenn	11 a. m.
Mexico	10:31 a. m.
Milwaukee	11 a. m.
Minneapolis	11 a. m.
Mobile, Ala.	11 a. m.
Moneton, N. B.	1 p. m.
Montreal, Que.	12 noon
Moscow	7:26 p. m.
Munich	5:21 p. m.
Nashville, Tenn.	11 a. m.
New London, Ct.	12 noon
New Orleans	11 a. m.
Omaha, Neb.	11 a. m.
Oswego, N. Y.	12 noon
Ottawa, Ont.	12 noon
Paris, France	5:09 p. m.
Pensacola, Fla.	11 a. m.
Pittsburg, Pa.	12 noon
Philadelphia	12 noon
P. Huron, Mich.	11 a. m.
Portland, Me.	12 noon
Portland, Ore.	9 a. m.
Providence, R. I.	12 noon
Quebec, Que.	12 noon
Quincy, Ill.	11 a. m.
Richmond, Va.	12 noon
Rome	5:46 p. m.
St. John, N. B.	1 p. m.
St. Joseph, Mo.	11 a. m.
St. Louis, Mo.	11 a. m.
St. Paul, Min.	11 a. m.
St. Petersburg	6:37 p. m.
St. Stephen, N. B.	1 p. m.
Salt Lake City	10 a. m.
St. Antonio, Tex.	11 a. m.
San Francisco	9 a. m.
San Juan, P. R.	1 p. m.
Savannah, Ga.	11 a. m.
Selma, Ala.	11 a. m.
Sioux City, Ia.	11 a. m.
Sitka, Alaska	8 a. m.
Southampton	4:54 p. m.
Toronto, Ont.	12 noon
Vienna	6 p. m.
Venice	5:49 p. m.
Vincennes, Ind.	11 a. m.
Vicksburg, Miss.	11 a. m.
Washington, D. C.	12 noon
Wilmington, N. C.	12 noon
Winona, Minn.	11 a. m.

Pipes o' Pan.

"Don't you like to hear the wind whistling through the wood?" asked the poetical one.

"Well," replied the practical one, "if I'm out in the forest I do; but if the wood is made up into a $2 flute, I can't say that I do."—Yonkers Statesman.

Be Blowed.

Freak auto horns are to be suppressed in Denver. This will be a blow to the blowers.—Denver Post.

road, and Messrs M. C. Stewart and A. Anderson, the committee on grounds, is making great efforts to have the courts ready for play on Saturday. When the grounds are completed they will be second to none in the state. The location is an ideal one for the purpose, being shaded on two sides by large and stately forest trees.

Veracity.

The "you're another" style of argument now prevailing in Washington must greatly perturb the shades of Truthful George.—Baltimore American.

Cutting.

Lady (with pet)—Barber, I want my dog clipped and shaved.

Barber—Pardon me, madam, I'm no skye-scraper.—Boston Transcript.

Their Wedding Day Approaching.

The marriage of Miss Elizabeth Sachar, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Sachar, of West Third street, to A. B. Cantar, of New York, has been announced to take place at the Temple of the Children of Israel on New street, Sunday, June 3. The ceremony will be followed by a reception at Company K hall.

ANATOMY IN VERSE.

How many bones in the human face?
Fourteen, when they are all in place.
How many bones in the cranium?
Eight, unless you've mislaid some.
How many bones in the ear are found?
Three in each, to catch the sound.
How many bones are in the spine?
Twenty-four, like a clustering vine.
How many bones in the chest are found?
Twenty-four ribs, to the sternum bound.
How many bones in the shoulder blind?
Two in each—one before, one behind.
How many bones are in the arm?
The top has one; and two the forearm.
How many bones are in the wrist?
Eight, if none of them is missed.
How many bones in the palms of the hand?
Five in the palm, pray understand.
How many bones in the fingers ten?
Twelve bones, plus two and repeat again.
How many bones are in the hip?
One in each where the femurs slip.
With sacrum and coccyx, too, to brace
And keep the pelvis all in place.
How many bones are in the thigh?
One in each, and deep they lie.
How many bones are in the knee?
One, the patella, plain to see.
How many bones are in the shin?
Two in each, and well bound in.
How many bones in the ankle strong?
Seven in each, but none is long.
How many bones in the ball of the foot?
Five in each, as the palms were put.
How many bones in the toes all told?
Just twenty-eight, like the fingers hold.
There's a bone at the root of the tongue to add,
And sesamoids eight, to what you had.
Now, adding them all, 'tis plainly seen
And in the mouth we clearly view
Teeth, upper and under, thirty-two.

OLD AUTOMOBILES FOR DRAY PURPOSES.

Montclair Builder Has Put a 1904 Model to Use With Profit to Himself.

It remains to be seen whether the commercial automobile problem has been solved by the progressive business men of Montclair. One of the most prominent builders in the town has brought the automobile into business in a peculiar way, and if his experiment proves successful, a number of others are planning to follow his example. John S. Carlson, a builder and mill owner, is the man who has begun to use the automobile as a commercial vehicle, and the one feature of his experiment is the fact that he is carrying out his idea on an inexpensive basis. Instead of going to a manufacturer of commercial machines, Mr. Carlson has purchased through the Heyer Automobile Company one of the 904 Winton touring cars at a moderate price, and has had this car converted into a business machine.

After buying the car Mr. Carlson had the body removed and in itsplace constructed an ordinary truck body. He is using the car to carry lumber, and find that it not only saves him time in going to and fro from his mill to places of business, but it also enables him to carry much more material on each trip than he could carry in an ordinary wagon. The whole cost him of the converted machine is hardly more than $1,000, and Mr. Carlson feels that it will soon pay for itself. Another interesting feature of the experiment is that Carlson still has the old tonneau and can easily convert the machine into a pleasure car when he wishes. A number of builders in town are following the experiment with keen interest, and the will undoubtedly follow Mr. Carlson's plann if it is successful.

If the Montclair plan is practical, it may open a field for second-hand cars not thought of before. Previously small merchants and others in business where there is a great deal of carting to be done have not adopted the automobile, as the cost of purchasing a commercial vehicle has been too great and the expense of keeping one out of proportion to the benefits derived from it. If it is practical to turn a second-hand car into a business vehicle at a cost of from two to three hundred dollars, there would be many in use. There are so many excellent cars of last year's and the previous season's models on the market for from $500 to $700 that the demand could easily be supplied.

G. D. Smith, of Fullerton avenue, a traveling man, has figured out that the 1905 Model cars to use in his work. He figures that the amount of distance he can cover in a day with the machine and cost of keeping it will make it more valuable to him than a horse.

VENUS AND MARS.

The circling planets in the sky—
"Tis thought they are inhabited;
Their people's plane of thought is high,
Much different from ours, 'tis said.

And when we take a thoughtful view
Of all the distant worlds up there,
Men wonder what the people do;
The women wonder what they wear.
—Puck.

NEXT WORLD'S FAIR.

NEW ZEALAND WILL HAVE INTERNATIONAL EXPOSITION.

Arrangements Under Way for Opening in November—Will Continue Until April of Next Year.

The next great world's fair is to be given by the colony of New Zealand, in the south pacific. One of the most romantic home of the ancient Maoris, which numbers among its attractions for the tourist many relics of that ancient people, with their descendants still living according to their old-time customs. The wonderful country of the picturesque island, with its bursting geysers, its forests and mountains filled with game for the sportsman, add an attraction to the site of the fair which will tempt many a visitor from far-off lands to make the trip to New Zealand during the progress of the exposition.

The fair is to be held in Hagley park, Christchurch, Canterbury, beginning in November next and continuing to some date in April, 1907. This is the summer season in New Zealand, the time of year when her natural attractions are at their best. All nations of the world have been invited to exhibit at the fair. The object of the exhibition is educational, the colonists desiring to show to the world the resources and possibilities of the colony as one of the world's food-producing factors; to demonstrate its vast mineral resources and to draw attention to picturesque and unrivaled scenery, its thermal wonders and the exceptional opportunities offered to sportsmen. A further object is to bring to the notice of the more industrial nations of the world the great field offered by New Zealand as an outlet for enterprise and for the use and consumption of all manner of up-to-date appliances and manufactures.

The imports of New Zealand in 1905, at least three-fourths of which are manufactured goods, amounted in value to $86,000,000. Of course, Great Britain, the home country, furnished the great bulk of this trade. The commonwealth of Australasia was next in the list and following her came the United States, which furnished goods to the value of $8,000,000. When it is considered that this great expenditure for foreign supplies is by the use of a colony with a population of but 850,000 persons it can be readily seen what a rare opportunity is offered for exploiting New Zealand with up-to-date manufactures. Exporters of every land on the globe will be there, and the deeply interested in investigating the trade possibilities of the country and it is confidently anticipated that the fair will be a success financially as well as in bringing to the attention of the world the advantages possessed by the island as a trade center for the industrial world.

Special arrangements are being made with the steamship companies trading to New Zealand under which exhibitors will obtain special rates of freight on machines. Mr. Carlson has purchased through the Heyer Automobile Company one of the 904 Winton touring cars at a moderate price, and has had this car converted into a business machine.

After buying the car Mr. Carlson had the body removed and in itsplace constructed an ordinary truck body. He is using the car to carry lumber, and find that it not only saves him time in going to and fro from his mill to places of business, but it also enables him to carry much more material on each trip than he could carry in an ordinary wagon. The whole cost him of the converted machine is hardly more than $1,000, and Mr. Carlson feels that it will soon pay for itself. Another interesting feature of the experiment is that Carlson still has the old tonneau and can easily convert the machine into a pleasure car when he wishes. A number of builders in town are following the experiment with keen interest, and the will undoubtedly follow Mr. Carlson's plann if it is successful.

If the Montclair plan is practical, it may open a field for second-hand cars not thought of before. Previously small merchants and others in business where there is a great deal of carting to be done have not adopted the automobile, as the cost of purchasing a commercial vehicle has been too great and the expense of keeping one out of proportion to the benefits derived from it. If it is practical to turn a second-hand car into a business vehicle at a cost of from two to three hundred dollars, there would be many in use. There are so many excellent cars of last year's and the previous season's models on the market for from $500 to $700 that the demand could easily be supplied.

G. D. Smith, of Fullerton avenue, a traveling man, has figured out that the 1905 Model cars to use in his work. He figures that the amount of distance he can cover in a day with the machine and cost of keeping it will make it more valuable to him than a horse.

PLANTS MADE BY SPIRALS.

Original Nebula Supposed to Have Been Formed by Influence of the Sun.

How were the planets made? Prof. R. G. Moulton, of the University of Chicago, has another alternative to La Place's theory of the formation of the planetary systems. It is that the planets and their satellites have been formed around primitive nuclei of considerable dimensions existing in spiral nebulae probably similar to those which Prof. Kesler showed to be many times more numerous than all the nebulae that are visible to our telescopes. The growth of each nucleus was caused by the gradual accretion of smaller masses, and the method of this growth which is suggested accounts for all the different types of bodies now found in the solar system, and for their present motions and relations on dynamical principles. The original spiral nebula is supposed to have been formed by the near approach of another star to the body which is now our sun. This exterior attraction set up tides in the solar matter, and, being continued, actually caused immense masses to be ejected and drawn out in the spiral form. On this assumption the spiral would emerge from the central nucleus in two directions, on opposite sides, and this is the form generally shown in photographs of such nebulae.

Beaver in New York State.

Although since 1870 the beaver has continuously hovered on the point of extinction in the Empire state, there has never been a time when the North woods did not contain at least one wild colony. I have in my possession fresh beaver cuttings which were obtained within the past five years from two different localities in Franklin county, and at present there is in this county, in the woods northwest of Upper Saranac lake, a small family—perhaps two distinct families—which are undoubtedly the direct descendants of the original wild stock.—From "Bringing Back the Beaver," by Harry V. Radford, in Four-Track News.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

May 27: "The Philippines—Unparalleled Results"—Ps. xcvii: 1m. xi, 1-5—"Doors Wide Open Now May Close Unless Speedily Entered."

By REV. WALTER J. YATES, D. D.

"But a little while since these islands were to us scarcely more than a name. We knew they were under Spanish control, with a native population little touched by the influence of Christianity and civilization. The city of Manila was associated with material from which our best cordage was manufactured. Our best gazetteers gave little information, and persons who had been there except as sailors were hard to find.

To try to establish Protestant Christianity in those parts a score of years since would have been a task more hopeless than any mission ever undertaken by any church.

He who has eyes to see has no difficulty in discerning the providence of Almighty God in the political movements of the far eastern world in the past few years. The unintended happened when the Philippines passed into the possession of the United States. This is far more than a political question. What the United States should do or can do with these people and for them in the matter of government is of great importance. But vastly more momentous is the religious problem. Monarchy or republic, freedom of franchise or minority tutelage stake into insignificance before the question of Christianization.

Shall these peoples be brought into light and liberty? Now is the opportunity. The reply cannot be given in acts of congress, in military movements, in commercial transactions or social changes.

The change from one form of religion to another will be of little consequence. Heathenism baptized is not largely better than unbaptized heathenism—not enough superior to pay for the cost of the process.

But here is the veritable "white man's burden" of which Kipling has prophesied.

What opportunity! What responsibility!

Mine eyes have seen the glory
Of the coming of the Lord.

* * * * * * *

As ye doui with my contemners
So with you my grace shall deal.

Rarely has the church of God seen such rapid results and never greater harvests for the seed sown than our own Methodist Episcopal church is now garnering in this archipelago. The story thrills with all the fascination of romance and makes a chapter in church history of great significance.

Our leagues should give an evening to the presentation of this subject. Books can be had from our Book Concern, bring much of our church work. Magazine articles, letters in the daily and weekly press, will supplement these. A homemade map will aid to fuller comprehension of the field. Our missionaries at New York will furnish reports from our missionaries. Divide the work among half a dozen of the young people and present the subject in a public service. It will work a great change for good in those who prepare it, various topics and will benefit beyond easy computation those who hear.

What shall the future disclose? Who can foresee? That China is on the verge of profound changes seems probable. Japan is transforming with wonderful rapidity. Why is the United States thrust so conspicuously forward in that part of the world where she has never thought of bearing prominent influence on affairs of the past? Is this God's call to the church to enter these open doors? So it seems. Let us know the situation, discern intelligently our work and do it with diligence and discrimination.

How to Live.

Live with the light of God's love shining into your common day. Take old gifts and joys continued as though they were fresh gifts. So we can sing a new song unto the Lord every day.—Maltbie D. Babcock, D. D.

Sentence Sermons.

Pray hardest when it is hardest to pray.—Bishop Brent.

No nation can be destroyed while it possesses a good home life.—J. G. Holland.

Give not thy tongue too great a liberty lest it take thee prisoner.—Francis Quarles.

An ounce of the oil of good humor may have many a ton of pull.—Henry F. Cope.

Speak with the speech of the world; think with the thoughts of the few.—John Hay.

The real secret of an unsatisfied life lies too often in an unsurrendered will. —J. Hudson Taylor.

When God beckons you forward He is always responsible for the transport. —F. B. Meyer.

Let no one be afraid that he may not speak well, but only that he may not live well.—Thomas a Kempis.

Think well over your important steps in life and, having made up your minds, never look behind.—Thomas Hughes.

The greatest work has always gone hand in hand with the most fervent moral purposes.—Sidney Lanier.

The things of this world must be known in order to be loved. Jesus Christ must be loved in order to be known.—Pascal.

The crime which bankrupts men and nations is that of turning aside from one's purpose to serve a job here and there.—David Starr Jordan.

The pleasantest things in the world are pleasant thoughts, and the great art in life is to have as many of them as possible.—Bacon.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning June 3.

By REV. S. H. DOYLE.

Topic—Faith; what it is, what it does. Heb. xi: 1-6; xii, 1, 2.

"Faith is the substance of things hoped for and the evidence of things not seen." This is the definition given by the writer of Hebrews in the chapter selected for our study. According to this definition, we have in faith what is real, though not yet ours, and also the evidence that things unseen do really exist. The faith spoken of in this chapter is not what we mean when we speak of Christian faith, which involves primarily faith in Jesus Christ as our Saviour. Faith here is a general belief in God, and in this chapter we have a splendid array of illustrations of such a faith in the lives of men. Individual faith in God characterized all the heroes of the Old Testament named in this category of those who accomplished great deeds and endured great hardships in life. Abel believed in God, as was proved by his offering of an acceptable sacrifice unto God. Abraham believed in God and manifested his belief by leaving his own country at the call of God and going to abide in one in which he was a stranger. The faith of Moses in God was illustrated in his willingness to leave the court of Pharaoh and give his life in the service of God and of his countrymen. So down to the last patriarch mentioned at the list of excellent worthies faith was the mainspring of their lives. Faith in God should be the basis of every human life. To believe in Him and to trust in Him mean the best and truest success in life and the surmounting of difficulties that would otherwise be impossible.

The achievements of faith are numerous and far reaching in their application to various phases of life. The most casual review of what faith did, as set forth in this chapter, is sufficient evidence of this fact, and it also teaches us what faith does and may still do today.

1. Faith makes our sacrifices and services acceptable to God. Abel's offering was accepted because of his faith, and "without faith it is impossible to please Him." To make any sacrifice or to do any service for God that will please Him demands faith on our part. Not to believe in God and to serve Him acceptably is evidently an impossibility.

2. Faith makes us obedient to God. Faith in God led Abraham to obey God. Every one who really believes in God should obey Him. It seems incredible that men can believe in God and yet not obey Him. Faith and obedience should go hand in hand, and in this way we shall best serve God and shall receive His blessing as Abraham did.

3. Faith helps us to overcome difficulties. This is written in the lives of all these heroes. Great difficulties stood in the way of their service to God, but they were rolled away in the presence of faith. "Seeing Him who is invisible," to whom "all things are possible," difficulties apparently insurmountable are easily overcome, and they came out "more than conquerors." If you want to successfully meet the trials and temptations of life hold fast your faith in God. "Commit thy way unto the Lord; trust also in Him, and He will bring it to pass."

Deut. xxxii, 30; Matt. vii, 1-10; ix. 1-8, 27-31; Mark iv, 36-41; xi, 22; Luke xvii, 5, 6; xxii, 31, 32; Gal. ii, 20; Heb. xi, 1-9.

A Motto For Christian Endeavor.

Christian Endeavor has no disposition to rest on its laurels. Spain, who once held both sides of the Mediterranean, stamped on her coins the pillars of Hercules, with the motto, "Ne plus ultra," but when Columbus discovered the new world that motto was changed to "Plus ultra"—there's more beyond! Let that be the motto of Christian Endeavor.—Rev. F. D. Power, D. D.

Notes From Foreign Fields.

A Junior society among the aborigines of New South Wales took a special part in a recent Christian Endeavor convention there.

Each of the Christian Endeavor soldiers returning to Japan from Manchuria was given a Christian Endeavor pin by the Japanese union.

There are now seven Christian Endeavor organizations in Allahabad, India, one having been formed recently in the Baptist church.

Sixty per cent of the 500 Scotch societies are in the United Free Churches. Sixty-nine per cent of the active members are members of the church, and 697 joined the church last year. Fifty new societies were organized last year.

The number of societies in Russia has increased within the year from eighteen to forty-eight. This includes the societies in Finland, which have increased from fifteen to twenty-two. Of the remainder three are British-American and twenty-three are in the Russian Baltic province.

Rev. Horace Dutton writes from Christiania, that the Christiania City mission has taken up Christian Endeavor work in earnest and that all is hopeful. They have adopted for the name of the society two words which mean "Following Christ," preserving the familiar letters "C. E."

There are now 350 Endeavor societies in China under twenty-four missionary boards. General Secretary George W. Hinman in a message from the sixth national convention at Ningpo to the Empire convention at Tientsin said, "The results of the Christian Endeavor movement in the churches of China have more than justified the expectations of those who believed that it was just as applicable to mission churches as to those in Christian lands."

MARKET FOR BURROS

WHERE THE ANIMALS ARE ON SALE IN SANTA FE.

Diminutive Burden Bearers Are Very Useful, But They Are Not at All High-Priced.

You can buy a burro for $1.35 in this city. All you have to do is to go down to Burro alley and where from ten in the morning till late in the afternoon and strike a bargain with the first wood carrier you meet. Only make sure, advises a Santa Fe (N. M.) exchange, that your eye teeth are secure when the bargaining is over, for these burro punchers of the southwest are the canniest traders.

Burro alley is burro headquarters in Santa Fe. This is a narrow, crooked alley, lined with adobe houses. In the rear of a curio store, at the end of the alley, is a corral where the Josés and Pablos and Garcias leave their burros after their loads of wood are sold, and here may be studied burro character in all its phases.

Nearly every burro in the corral will wear one of the tiny pack saddles which can be so deftly loaded with cord wood by the Mexicans who keep Santa Fe supplied with fuel. The wood is cut in lengths of about two or three feet and is piled in great mounds on the pack saddles. It is marvelous the skill with which the Mexicans can load their tiny burros with these great loads of wood. They are deftly fastened with a few twists of a rope and they will not slip to one side, nor is it possible for the burros to shake them off.

Many of these hewers of wood, whose Mecca is Burro alley, walk 40 miles in a day in order to make a profit of $1. An appreciable more than $1.50. If a Mexican wood hawker is prosperous he will have, say, three burros. He will cut a supply of wood far off in the mountains, perhaps 20 miles from Santa Fe. Midnight will find his burros loaded, with little fear of wood piled high above their backs. Snapping his quirt and calling out expletives in Spanish that never fail to stir the feet of the laggards the burro puncher starts on his long walk to dispose of his wares. Early morning will find him in Santa Fe, for he must be there when the wagons when there is a Mexican behind them.

Once in Santa Fe the burro driver walks along the streets until he is hailed by some householder who has just run out of wood. There is a minute of bargaining and the sale of a respitch-filled pinon wood on the backs of the burros. Then the ropes are jerked, the loads of wood fall to the earth, and Pablo or Jose pockets his money and starts back toward Burro alley. There the burros are put in the corral and the long walk homeward march is begun. The driver does not reach home until late. His earnings are small, but he is content. He has enough to "get by" and to "square" for himself—for nobody ever thinks of feeding a burro—and in a few hours he is ready to start again on the long walk to Santa Fe.

One can seek, and seek vainly, a sourvivsed history among the thousands of animals that are driven to Santa Fe. The burro may be ready to drop under the cruel weight of his load, but he looks content. Purchance his master lingers awhile at the Plaza, in which case the burro is apt to sink to the ground, load and all, and float forth peacefully into slumber. When he is commanded to get up you wonder how he is going to do it, under that great load; but somehow or other the slender legs get a leverage and the burro struggles to his feet and walks off at his master's bidding.

Trick of Vinyardists.

Vine growers in France market fresh outdoor grapes all winter by a new and curious method. Bunches of grapes when ripe are cut so that a piece of the vine five or six inches long remains attached. A large number of white-necked bottles filled with water are placed in horizontal rows in racks in a cellar, and the stem of the grapes is placed in the mouth of the bottle, while the grapes hang outside. The grapes do not touch the water, but are supplied with water through the stem. The low uniform temperature of the cellar is favorable to the preservation of the fruit and water is supplied daily to the bottles to make up for the evaporation.—Country Life in America.

Wonderful Thing.

Mr. Brown had just had a telephone connection between his office and house, and was very much pleased with it.

"I tell you, Smith," he was saying, "this telephone business is a wonderful thing. You must come to dine with me this evening, and I will notify Mrs. Brown to expect you."

Brown (speaking through the telephone)—My friend Smith will dine with us this evening.

"Now listen and hear how plain her reply comes back."

Mrs. Brown's reply came back with startling distinctness:

"Ask your friend Smith if he thinks we keep a hotel."—N. Y. World.

How He Saw It.

Wife—This book says that in India it is the custom to bury the living wife with her dead husband. Isn't it terrible?

Husband—Indeed! I'd be behind-hand in death because—Tra-la-lee—Strokosa.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.
A DEMOCRATIC WEEKLY.
Published a.
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Terms: $2.00 per year.
L. FORCE, Editor and Proprietor.
THURSDAY, MAY 31, 1906.

RAHWAY'S CURFEW LAW.

Rahway proposes to protect the youth of that city and with that end in view has enacted a "curfew law." No child under sixteen years of age will be permitted on the streets, unless accompanied by a parent or guardian, after 9 o'clock at night. The curfew hour in the summer months will be 9 o'clock and in the winter one hour earlier. It might be well for our own Common Council to consider the advisability of passing a similar ordinance.

MUTUAL ICE PLANT.

A short time ago a well-disposed citizen suggested in these columns that people of Plainfield organize a mutual ice company, the purpose being to thwart the alleged combination of dealers from "roasting" the consumers. Practically on the same lines he proposed, the West Hudson Business Men's Association is interesting the people of Kearny, Harrison and East Newark, its scheme being to build an independent ice plant. It is proposed to erect a complete plant, costing from $50,000 to $60,000. The estimated output of such a plant would be from thirty to sixty tons daily. Stock would be issued at $10 a share and no one person would be allowed to hold more than 100 shares. Circulars setting forth the proposition in detail have been sent to every resident of the three communities.

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE P. P. A.

Now that the Plainfield Protective Association has accomplished its aim in securing a reduction in the prices for gas and electricity, it can well afford to direct its attention to other matters of public consideration. There are half a dozen things which need attention at this time. Among them is the much mooted question of disposal of garbage. That such work should be under municipal control is the general opinion. A public disposal system would be beneficial both from a sanitary and a pecuniary standpoint. It has been found so in many other cities and there is no reason to suspect that Plainfield would prove any exception to the rule.

Another proposition of prime importance which the Protective Association should take up, is the "spite-house" nuisance. Months have come and months have gone, but not a single step has been taken by the Common Council to properly protect the owners of large estates from the contemptible erection of blackmail. There have been any number of pie-crust promises but the people have waited in vain for a good stiff ordinance which will rid the city of this kind of hold-up for all time.

We respectfully submit these two propositions for the consideration of our public spirited citizens banded together as the Plainfield Protective Association.

RECORD UNMASKED.

The prediction of the regular organization men that George L. Record, of Jersey City, only joined the reform movement for what he could get out of it appears to be coming true. They said—and they know him well—that Record wanted to be United States Senator and that sooner or later he would announce his candidacy.

Now that he has come out in the open, it will be interesting to note how soon he will have the good sense to withdraw. Few people have much respect for the man who is an active church worker simply because it helps his business. Neither have they regard for the man who shouts "reform" in order to get a good fat office.

Mr. Record may be able to secure the support of reform leagues in some places, but knowing the calibre of the men it's quite safe to predict that his candidacy will not receive the approval of the Union County League for Equal Taxation.

Mr. Record can best show his unselfish loyalty to the cause of reform by speedily withdrawing the announcement of his candidacy for office.

MAYOR HENRY L. HALL.

Friends of Henry L. Hall—and he has many—have suggested his name for the mayoralty. That he would be a worthy candidate no one will deny. In fact the only objection that has been heard is that as a rule he is out of the city during the day and that the duties of the office are such as to require the presence of the incumbent in town at all times. Be as it may, there could be no better selection. He is endowed with an extra degree of good hard common sense and pronounced executive ability and would lend that dignity to the office that has characterized it in times past.

SHOW THEM A GOOD TIME.

Jersey's fire chiefs have arranged to hold their annual convention in this city next month. According to Chief Doane no plans have been made for the entertainment of the members of the organization. Here's a chance for our people to uphold the city's reputation for hospitality.

One word to the man of means—don't forget the Carnival.

H. W. BEEBE HANDY WITH THE GOLF STICK

MAKES BEST SHOWING FOR TWO CUPS ON COUNTRY CLUB LINKS.

The play at the various local golf courses on Saturday was marked by a large attendance of contestants and some excellent scores were returned in the different events. The day was an ideal one for the game and many took advantage of the fine weather conditions as well as that of the opportunity for exercise.

At the Plainfield Country Club there was the play for the May cup, Howard W. Beebe scoring a win, and the weekly competition for the Golf Committee cup, he also winning the first three points for the trophy, returning a score of 76. Alexander Gilbert and W. D. Briggs, who each posted a net score of 78, divided the remaining points. These scores were returned for the two cups:

Howard W. Bee, 99, 13-76; Alex Gilbert, 105, 27-78; W. D. Briggs, 92, 15-78; C. A. Stover, 91, 10-81; Clifton Wharton, 96, 15-81; H. D. Hubbard, 88, 5-83; J. A. Tompkins, 96, 13-83; E. B. Shoemaker, 84, 0-84; C. B. Anderson, 100, 15-85; C. W. King, 111, 27-84; Edward J. Patterson, 114, 27-87; J. P. Murtray, 106, 13-93; L. R. Hopton, 114, 21-93.

The qualifying round in the scratch competition for the Consolation cup resulted as follows: F. D. Jennings, 82; E. B. Shoemaker, 84; H. D. Hibbard, 88; H. W. Beebe, 89; C. A. Stover, 91; J. A. Lane, 95; A. L. Otterson, 95; C. B. Andrews, 100.

There was a large field of players at the Park Golf Club on Saturday to take part in the initial competition for the President's and Park Golf Club trophies. For the President's cup, handicap event, Rev. J. O. McKelvey and Nelson A. Miller divided first honors each posting a score of 80, while George A. Chapman won the remaining point with a net score of 82. In the scratch competition Mr. McKelvey won three points, William Corning two points and Charles B. Bates got the one remaining point. These scores were returned for the two cups:

Rev. J. O. McKelvey, 90, 10-80; Nelson A. Miller, 102, 22-80; George A. Chapman, 111, 29-82; Charles B. Bates, 108, 26-82; Rev. Lewis L. Watson, 111, 27-84; William Corning, 97, 12-85; A. W. Kenworthy, 107, 18-89; J. B. Betts, 114, 23-91; Leon R. Thurlow, 108, 13-95; Alex. Gilbert, 111, 15-96; Charles A. Reed, 105, 11-97; Rev. H. K. Carroll, 105, 8-97; Reuben Knox, 109, 11-98.

The fourth qualifying round for the Class A and Class B June handicap was the attraction at the Westfield Golf Club, Saturday afternoon. These scores were returned:

S. J. Patterson, 92, 9-83; R. H. Middleditch, 98, 14-84; C. F. Patterson, 96, 9-87; R. B. Carroll, 92, 3-89; W. R. Davis, 95, 7-89; H. E. Knight, 98, 7-91; D. Watenabe, 113, 18-95.

The women's putting contest resulted as follows: Mrs. E. Perkins, 26; Miss M. Kimball, 27; Miss H. Burdell, 28; Mrs. Foster, 28; Mrs. Davis, 28; Mrs. Johnston, 28; Miss S. Candler, 29; Mrs. Allen Worth, 29; Mrs. H. W. Thayer, 28; Miss E. Hegeman, 29; Miss B. Burdell, 29; Miss Chapman, 30. In the final competition for the May handicap cup, Class B, Charles Kirchener beat L. C. Smith 2 up.

LOCAL CHOIR BOYS WIN.

Holy Cross Lads Trounce Orange Choristers 20 to 10.

The game between the Grace church choir nine, of Orange, and the choir team of Holy Cross church Saturday morning resulted in a victory for Holy Cross by a score of 20 to 10. After the game the opposing teams and several friends from Orange were entertained by the rector of Holy Cross at The Homstead. Thirty-two sat down to the luncheon.

Brief speeches were made by Choirmaster Grant, of Orange, and Rev. Mr. Warner. The former spoke on the value of choir work and sports in developing life long friendships; the latter dwelt on the importance of true sportsmanship as an incentive to fair mindedness and honesty among boys.

No Setting for Jewels.

Pointing to her sons, Cornelia had just exclaimed, "These are my jewels!"

"Then," replied the heartless janitor, "you'll have to keep them in the safe. As children, they ain't allowed in this apartment-house."—Harper's Bazar.

Inter-Academic Entries.

At the inter-academic field meet to be held next Saturday on Pingry Oval, Elizabeth, Leally School will be represented by the following boys: 100-yard dash, Glenney; 220-yard dash, Glenney; 880-yard run, Brown, Dallas; high jump, Endicott; 440-yard run, Brown. Sidney Rockwell, of East Front street, class 1908 P. H. S., will represent Pingry School, of Elizabeth, in the 100-yard and 220-yard dashes.

AMUSEMENTS.

At the Shubert Theatres in New York

Lyric: 42d St. west of Broadway. Telephone 1646 Bryant. Evenings at 8:15. Regular matinees Saturdays. Henry E. Dixey in Grace Livingston Furniss' dramatization of Harold MacGrath's novel "The Man on the Box."

Casino: Broadway and 39th St. Telephone 1646 Bryant. Evenings at 8:15. Thursday and Saturday matinees. "The Social Whirl," a musical comedy by Charles F. Doty, Jos. Herbert and Gustav Kerker. Cast includes Adele Ritchie, Joseph Coyne, Rose and Fenton, Maude Raymond, Frederic Bond, Ada Lewis and 100 others.

Princess: Broadway and 29th St. Telephone 2846 Madison. Evenings at 8:15. Best seats $1.00 at Thursday and Thursday matinees. Regular matinees Saturdays. Henry Woodruff in "Brown of Harvard," a college comedy by Rida Johnson Young.

Majestic: Broadway and Grand Circle. Telephone 3500 Columbus. Evenings at 8:15. Best seats $1.00 at all performances. Matinees Wednesday and Saturdays. Mrs. Hopper, with Marguerite Clark, in "Happyland," a comic opera by Frederic Ranken and Reginald De Koven.

David Warfield has played Herr Von Barwig in "The Music Master," in New York more than 500 times. The half-thousandth performance by the popular Belasco star was celebrated at the Bijou theatre, New York, on Tuesday last, March 6th. The theatre was tastefully decorated, a bower of fragrant flowers against a background of flags. A number of distinguished personages were present. It was a memorable night in every way. Mr. Warfield and his colleagues, imbued with the spirit of the occasion, threw themselves into their work with unusual vigor, and it is doubtful whether a better performance of "The Music Master" ever was given. Speeches were made by Mr. Belasco and Mr. Warfield, and there was a reception on the stage after the fall of the final curtain. There is no lessening of interest in this sympathetic play. It will run in New York until hot weather makes it impossible to continue any longer, and its third year in the metropolis will begin in September.

Blanche Bates is maintaining her splendid record in the new Belasco play "The Girl of the Golden West" at the Belasco Theatre, where her strong acting and the strength and power of the play have made this attraction the most successful of the year's new productions.

"The Darling of the Gods," with Percy Haswell as Yo San and Robert T. Haines, as Kara, is playing a most successful season throughout the country.

"The Girl of the Golden West," with Miss Blanche Bates as the "Girl," is filling the Belasco theatre, New York, to the doors every night. Tickets are bought four weeks in advance, as they must be if one intends to get a seat at all.

The last two weeks of "A Society Circus," which has enjoyed such a phenonemenal run at the New York Hippodrome, are announced. To insure the comfort of their patrons, Thompson & Dundy have put into operation the great $100,000 refrigerating plant, the only one in use in the theatrical world and one which, if necessary, can send the temperature down to the freezing point in the big auditorium. The Hippodrome is at present the coolest place in New York, a fact which is appreciated by the big audience, which twice daily fill the playhouse. On the night of Decoration Day (May 30), the three hundredth performance of the production will occur. eNw circus acts have been added to the already long tournament for the closing performances. The otehr wonderful features of the programme, including the great chorus; the magnificent ballet; the plunging horses and Court of the Golden Fountains, continue to amaze and delight. Matinees are given daily.

John Philip Sousa's new military comic opera, "The Free Lance," is making an immense hit at the New Amsterdam theatre. Klaw & Erlanger are responsible for the production, elaborately staged with beautiful scenery and costumes, and Harry B. Smith, the well known librettist, stands sponsor for the book and lyrics. The verdict of the critics in Springfield, Hartford and Philadelphia is that Mr. Sousa has never composed more brilliant and catchy music. Mr. Smith has never written more comic story and Klaw & Erlanger have never made a more artistic production. A notable feature is made of a male chorus of 50 voices which greatly aids in the rendering of Mr. Sousa's spirited martial music, especially his new march number, "On to Victory," the finale of the first act. This is considered a worthy successor to "The Washington Post" march and "The Stars and Stripes Forever." "The Free Lance" is a genuine comic opera. It is staged in two acts. The locale of the first act is the court of the Emperor of Braggadocia, who is devoted to art and is a bankrupt. He is so aesthetic that even his army is composed of Amazons. To replenish his coffers he plans a marriage between his daughter, Princess Yolande, and Prince Florian, the son of the Duke of Graftians. The Duke, who also is bankrupt, hopes, through this union, to refill his purse. The Princess and Prince, who have never met, try to escape marriage, and both Emperor and Duke, in desperation, compel Siegmund Lump, a goatherd, and Griselda, a goosegirl, to become substitutes, each thinking to deceive the other. Siegmund and Griselda are really husband and wife. Siegmund is a descendant of Samson and has been leader of a band of brigands. He has lost his hair and with his strength and bravery and his band has deserted him. Both Emperor and Duke discover that each is bankrupt and war is declared. Siegmund becomes general of the army of Graftians and Griselda the commander of the Amazons of Braggadocia.

LITERARY.

Scribner's Magazine for June opens with a plea for "The Larger Training of the American Army," by Capt. T. Bentley Mott, U. S. A., who was for six years military attache at Paris, and had during that time every opportunity to observe the armies of England, France, Germany and Russia. Captain Mott knows that our army is scattered through more than one hundred small posts, and that no officer has an opportunity to command more than a regiment of men. Captain Mott advocates the establishing of large concentration posts, where the men can be drilled by not less than 30,000 men are all the time under training. The article is in line with recent recommendations of the President. A charming nature article by Frank M. Chapman, the well-known ornithologist, gives his impressions of "English Bird Life," with pictures from his own photographs. More of E. S. Curtis' wonderful collection of Indian photographs, which he has been six years in making, are given in an article by him on "The Vanishing Tribes of the Northwest Plains." These are thenomad tribes, the Indians who lived on the chase, and whose wealth and prosperity came entirely from the herds of buffalo. Mr. Curtis presents a striking portrait of Red Cloud, ninety years of age, blind and decepit.

The crusade of the magazines against national and individual crookedness, and what it has really accomplished, are summed up concisely by Samuel Merwin in Success Iangazine for une. The magazines, he says, in response to letters of appeal from their readers, have gone after the facts to aid the plain citizen to see his duty as a voter. In their victories for municipal and corporate decency, Folk in Missouri, Weaver in Philadelphia, and Hughes in New York have had as their active allies and supporters the live magazines of the country. Certain of the reactionaries, seeing the filth, would let it lie. It has been the policy of the magazines to rake up the muck and throw it out. Mr. Merwin's article in the June Success Magazine is "The Tillmann of the Armchair," by W. A. Lewis, a trenchant summing up of Senator Tillman. Mr. Tillman has come to the front amazingly in the past few months. He must be if one intends to get a seat at all.

How did it feel to live through the San Francisco earthquake and fire?—to watch men, die, and buildings shrivel in the flames? James Hopper, the brilliant short-story writer, tells the story in the June Everybody's, and in the June McClure's. In the one sensitively realized, accurately true, powerfully phrased description of the great catastrophe that has been published. It is the human side of the disaster that Mr. Hopper tells, and he tells it for the first hand. His story will live in literature. Everybody's also publishes the latest pictures of the destroyed city, sketched a few days before the earthquake by Vernon Howe Bailey, whose series of drawings of American cities have aroused so much admiration. Basket-shops are one of our greatest national evils. Merrill A. Teague, who has made a special personal investigation of this matter, begins in this number a series of startling revelations under the heading "Bucket-shops Sharks." Thousands of honest, hard-working men are yearly preyed upon, robbed of their earnings, planned into tragedy.

Approaching Marriage.

Announcement is made of the approaching marriage of Charles H. Fiorandin, of Westfield, and Miss Lillian H. Crandal, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Augusta Crandall, of Seventh avenue, Brooklyn. The event will be celebrated Wednesday night, June 6, at 7 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents.

Will Deliver Anniversary Address.

Rev. H. E. First, pastor of the Park Avenue Baptist church, has accepted an invitation to deliver an address at the Greene Avenue Bautist church, of Brooklyn, on Sunday, June 7, the occasion being the May anniversary of all the Sunday-schools of Brooklyn.

PLAINFIELD Y. M. C. A'S WINNING BASKETBALL TOSSERS

The Plainfield Y. M. C. A. basketball team has just closed one of the most successful seasons in its history under the management of Dr. W. Kempton Browning and Captain Harry Scull. It won fifteen out of the twenty games played, defeating the best teams in New Jersey and the Metropolitan district. It defeated Maxwell House two out of three games, Atlantic Boat Club two out of three, the Parthians, Twenty-six Ward New York, New Brunswick and Rahway.

The games lost were by very narrow margins. All but one, with Kontelair, were lost on fouls. The last game with Orange was lost by three points, three fouls being called on the Plainfield five inside of two required twenty minutes over-play to decide the score. In the game with the Newark Y. M. C. A. it took the first half to get use to the floor, in the second half the Plainfielders doubled the score, and lost by two points.

The team was composed of Harry Scull, captain and centre; Ray Smith and Harry Thompson, forwards; Fred Leary and Fred Letson, guards; Edward Neal, Christopher Utzinger and "Ted" Gavett were substitutes. The team was very fortunate in having Charles P. Morse as referee.

A valuable addition to the team was a woman's auxiliary comprising Mrs. W. Kempton Browning, Mrs. Kenneth Robbie, Miss Margaret Cramer, Miss Helen Cora Baybour, Miss Willa Land Mrs. Fred Letson who served refreshments after each game on the home court.

The prospects for next season are bright as the same team will represent the association. It is hoped to get even with Newark, Orange and Montclair for the defeats of this season. The season has also been one of the best financially in the history of the association, even though the expenses have been doubled by the class of teams brought here. Two exhibition games were played where a sufficient amount of money was made to purchase new Jerseys and sweaters for the team.

JULIA WARD HOWE AT EIGHTY SEVEN

WENT TO CHURCH IN THE MORNING AND RECEIVED IN AFTERNOON.

Mrs. Julia Ward Howe was eighty-seven years old Sunday. At her home, No. 241 Beacon street, Boston, surrounded by the members of her family, she received floral tokens from all over the country. In the afternoon for two hours many friends called on her. She appeared to be in good health and excellent spirits.

Three of her children—Prof. H. M. Howe, of New York; Mrs. Laura E. Richards, of Orange, and Mrs. Florence Howe Hall, of this city—were present and also two of her grandchildren—Mrs. Carlton Shaw and Miss Rosalind Richards—and a grandniece, Miss Elizabeth Chanler, of eNw York. Mrs. Howe's eldest daughter, Mrs. Maude Howe Elliott, who is in Spain, cabled congratulations.

Mrs. Howe went to the Church of the Disciples in the morning.

Notable among the floral gifts were those from the Greek and Italian societies of Boston. Dr. Howe fought with the Greeks in their struggle for independence, and Mrs. Howe has been an ardent champion of the Greeks all her life. Both she and her husband were also deeply interested in the Italian struggle for liberty.

Dead Man's Name on Jury List.

Among the list of talesmen given Constable William N. Pangborn, of North Plainfield, for the Flomerfelt jury was the name of a borough man who has been dead for two years. Pangborn returned the summons endorsed as follows: "Gone over the Great Divide, where no juries convene and from thence no traverse returns."

DUNELLEN DEFEATED BY RARITAN'S TEAM

FROM THE FIRST RARITAN LED IN THE SCORE—RESULT 7 TO 2.

Dunellen was defeated by Raritan Saturday afternoon despite the efforts of Pitcher Randolph, who received Russell after the first inning.

Dunellen.	R.	H.	PO.	A.	E.
Doane, 1b	0	0	8	0	0
Logan, 2b	0	0	1	0	0
Penrose, ss	0	1	1	0	0
Russell, p	0	0	0	1	0
Randolph, p	0	0	1	1	0
Piddington, c	0	0	14	2	0
Garretson, cf	1	0	0	0	0
Dutcher, lf	0	0	0	0	0
Titsworth, rf	0	1	0	0	0
Fayely, 3b	1	0	2	0	0
	2	2	27	3	0

Raritan.	R.	H.	PO.	A.	E.
Clarke, 3b	1	1	2	0	0
Barr, 1b	1	0	7	0	0
Kerwin, ss	1	1	0	7	1
Vultze, lf	0	0	1	0	0
Kelly, cf	0	0	1	0	0
Meir, rf	1	1	1	0	0
Sudyen, 2b	0	0	1	4	0
Drill, c	1	0	9	0	0
Cassidy, p	2	2	0	1	1
	7	5	24	12	2

Dunellen	0	0	0	0	0	0	2	0	0—2
Raritan	3	0	1	0	2	0	1	0	*—7

Hits—Off Russell, 1 inning, 1; off Randolph, 7 innings, 3. Earned runs—Raritan, 2. Two base hit—Penrose. Struck out—By Randolph, 10; by Cassidy, 9. Passed ball—Piddington, 2; Drill, 2. First base on balls—Off Cassidy, 1; off Randolph, 1. Umpire—Jim O'Reilly.

Landlord Sues Tenant.

Gustave Meissner has sued James Haggerty, in Justice Mosher's court, in a landlord and tenant action. The case will be heard next Monday.

Radium Radia

Is admitted by the thousands who have used it to be

THE GREATEST REMEDY EVER DISCOVERED FOR THE CURE OF

RHEUMATISM

LUMBAGO, NEURALGIA, COUGHS, COLDS ON CHEST, SORE THROAT, PNEUMONIA, STRAINS, SWELLINGS, ETC.

IT NEVER FAILS TO CURE

Hundreds have been cured with one Application

Recommended by Eminent Physicians

APPLIED EXTERNALLY

Sold at Drug Stores and 13 W. 26th St., N.Y. City

PRICE $1.00 and 50c. Write for Booklet

MAILED ANYWHERE ON RECEIPT OF PRICE

New Jersey Central

Passenger Stations in New York—West 23d St., N. R., Foot Liberty St., N. R.

In Effect May 6, 1906.

For New York—5.12, 7.27, 8.36, 9.25, 9.39, 9.57, 10.42, 11.30 a. m., 12.12, 1.00, 1.42, 2.30, 3.30, 4.06, 4.30, 5.00, 5.30, 6.00, 6.30, 7.00, 7.30, 8.00, 8.30, 9.00, 9.30, 10.00, 10.30, 11.00 p. m. Sundays—5.12, 7.27, 8.36, 9.25, 9.39, 9.57, 10.42, 11.30 a. m., 12.12, 1.00, 1.42, 2.30, 3.30, 4.06, 4.30, 5.00, 5.30, 6.00, 6.30, 7.00, 7.30, 8.00, 8.30, 9.00, 9.30, 10.00, 10.30, 11.00 p. m.

For Newark—5.25, 6.28, 6.57, 7.04, 7.25, 7.47, 8.11, 8.18, 8.44, 9.20, 9.55, 10.09, 10.42, 11.30 a. m., 12.12, 1.00, 1.42, 2.30, 3.30, 4.06, 4.30, 5.00, 5.30, 6.00, 6.30, 7.00, 7.30, 8.00, 8.30, 9.00, 9.30, 10.00, 10.30, 11.00 p. m. Sundays—5.42, 8.18, 8.57, 10.09, 10.42, 11.30 a. m., 12.12, 1.00, 1.42, 2.30, 3.30, 5.41, 6.48, 8.18, 8.57, 10.09, 10.42, 11.30 p. m.

For Somerville—6.10, 7.11, 8.21, 9.16, 11.00 a. m., 1.11, 2.41, 3.44, 4.47, 6.29, 11.28 p. m. Sundays—8.21, 9.16, 11.00 a. m., 2.02, 3.44, 4.47, 6.29, 11.28 p. m.

For Bound Brook—5.37, 8.11, 11.00 a. m., 2.11, 3.44, 4.47, 6.29, 11.28 p. m. Sundays—8.21, 9.16, 11.00 a. m., 2.02, 3.44, 4.47, 6.29, 11.28 p. m.

For Lakewood and Atlantic City—9.30 a. m., 1.25, 2.45, 4.44 p. m. Lakewood only—5.00 p. m. Sundays—4.00 p. m.

For Toms River and Barnegat—8.11 a. m., 1.25, 2.45, 2.44 p. m.

For Red Bank—5.37, 8.11, 11.00 a. m., 2.11, 3.44, 4.47, 6.29, 11.28 p. m. Sundays—8.21, 9.16, 11.00 a. m., 2.02, 3.44, 4.47, 6.29, 11.28 p. m.

For Long Branch and Asbury Park—9.30 a. m., 1.25, 2.45, 4.44 p. m. Sundays—9.16, 11.28 p. m. Sunday—8.52 a. m., 3.30, 8.18 p. m.

For Tomes River and Barnegat—8.11 a. m., 1.25, 2.45, 2.44 p. m.

For Pottsville, Sunbury and Williamsport—6.25, 8.56 a. m., 2.11 p. m. Sundays—8.21 a. m.

For Baltimore and Washington—1.27, 5.51, 10.51 a. m., 2.45, 5.45, 7.47 p. m. Sundays—10.51 a. m., 2.45, 5.45 p. m. (17 hours).

*Change cars at Bound Brook.

W. G. BESLER, Gen. Manager. G. M. BURT, Vice Pres. & Gen. Mgr. Gen. Pass. Agt.

Lehigh Valley Railroad

Time table in Effect May 28th, 1906.

LEAVE SOUTH PLAINFIELD, N. J.

7.35 a. m. daily (except Sunday) local to Manch. Junct.

8.40 a. m. daily for Easton, Wilkesbarre, Hazleton, Scranton, and principal intermediate stations.

10.52 a. m. daily for Easton, Wilkesbarre, Hazleton, Scranton and principal intermediate stations.

1.57 p. m. daily, local for Easton, Manch Chunk, Hazleton, Pottsville and intermediate.

4.55 p. m. daily (except Sunday) "Wilkesbarre and Scranton Express". Solid vestibule train to Wilkesbarre. Parlor Car via D. & H. R. R. to Scranton and Carbondale.

6.31 p. m. daily (except Sunday) local to Easton.

8.46 p. m. daily, solid vestibule train to Buffalo, Toronto and Chicago and principal intermediate stations except Scranton.

FRANK ROWLEY, City Ticket Agent, 218 West Front Street, Plainfield, N. J. Telephone, 218.

Arrival and Departure of Mails

PLAINFIELD POSTOFFICE.

Office opens 7 a. m. closes 7 p. m.

On Saturdays closes half hour later.

Arrives 7.30, 8.40, 11.29 a. m., 2.30, 4.55, 5.30 p. m.

Close—7.30, 9.30 a. m.; 1.00, 2.30, 4.00, 7.15 p. m.

SOMERVILLE AND RARITON.

Arrive—8.40 a. m.; 1.30, 2.15 and 7.00 p. m.

Close—7.30, 9.30 a. m.; 2.30 and 4.00 p. m.

ELIZABETH—Direct

Arrive—8.40 a. m.; 2.30 and 5.30 p. m.

Close—7.30, 9.30 a. m.; 1.00, 2.30 and 4.00 p. m.

PENNSYLVANIA—West of Easton. Close 12.25 p. m.

NEWARK—Direct

Arrive—8.40 a. m.; 2.30, 5.30 p. m.

Close—7.30, 9.30 a. m.; 1.00, 2.30 and 4.00 p. m.

PHILADELPHIA—Direct.

Arrives 8.40, 11.30 a. m., 2.30 and 7.00 p. m.

Close—7.15, 7.30, 9.30 a. m., 12.25, 4.30, 7.15 p. m.

Through fast mail for West and South close 4.30 and 7.15 p. m.

Through fast mail for East, close 1.00 and 7.15 p. m.

WATCHUNG, WARREVILLE AND GALLIA—(Mail by Train).

Arrive—1.30 p. m. Close—2.30 a. m. Returning—Arrive 8.45 p. m. Close 4.30 p. m.

SUNDAY MAILS.

Office open from 8.30 to 10.30 a. m. Mail closes at 8.15 p. m.

E. H. BIRD, P. M

"Beautify Your Home"

The Burr McIntosh Monthly

"Pictorial Perfection"

"THE MOST BEAUTIFUL MAGAZINE IN THE WORLD!"

Ask your newsdealer for this superb magazine. If he does not handle it send us his name and address with your name and address and 10c. for sample copy. Regular price 25c. Mention this paper.

Burr Publishing Company
West 22d Street New York City

Awaits Ordination.

Several young men will be ordained priests of the Roman Catholic church in the chapel of the Immaculate Conception, Seton Hall College, on June 10, by Bishop John J. O'Connor. Among them is the Rev. Thos. J. Butscher, of this city. All are completing their studies at the Seton Hall Seminary.

Precept Easier Than Practice.

Bibbs—"Who was the man you gave half a crown to at the hotel this morning?"

Gibbs—"An old literary friends of mine; author of 'How to Get Rich.'"—Royal Magazine.

...RNIVAL IS DUE TO HIM

Charles J. Fisk Originator and Promoter of the Most Successful Enterprise.

HIS TIRELESS EFFORTS

Former Mayor, Man of Means, Gives His Valuable Time to Affair—"Plainfield's First Citizen."

The first week of Plainfield's second annual hospital Carnival closed Saturday night with many tired but happy workers. Attendances had been good every night and barring Monday and Tuesday, which were disagreeably chilly, the patronage was all that could be expected. No one was a bit more tired than former Mayor Charles J. Fisk, the promoter of the enterprise, but he wore "the smile that won't come off." His home has seen him but seldom in the past two or three weeks and a full night's sleep is an unknown quantity, yet his determination to make this carnival "the best ever" has caused him to lose sight of the fact.

Mr. Fisk's work in connection with the enterprise begins long before a tent or building goes up on the ground and he is still at it when everything has been taken away. This year he has been almost twice as busy, as in addition to getting things in shape for the show, he planned and carried out the carnival parade that started the ball rolling one week ago Saturday. As everyone knows who saw it, this was a great success and will be repeated each year.

Mr. Fisk arranged all the details and his only assistant in executing them was Major Maze Edwards. It has never been his policy to shine in the "limelight" and he did not intend to get in the procession himself but circumstances compelled him. Membership in fastly appeared with a handsome brake drawn by three horses and he was hustled to a seat in front before he knew what it was all about. He is shown in the accompanying cut to the right of the driver.

There is still a week of the carnival itself ahead of Mr. Fisk and lots of work after it but he faces the outlook with expectant pleasure. Nothing tires him that is for sweet charity's sake and doing something for Muhlenberg Hospital is one of his chief recreations. He has been hailed as "Plainfield's first citizen" and a dissenting voice to that title is yet to be heard.

COUNTY TAX BOARD GETS DOWN TO WORK.

The Union County Tax Board being sworn in by Charles N. Codding, of Westfield, deputy clerk of the Supreme Court, organized on Saturday in the ante-room of the Board of Freeholders in the county court house, by electing Caleb C. Pollard president and Thomas C. Hanna, of this city, clerk. The salary of the clerk was fixed at $100 a month. The other members of the board are Frederic H. Andrews, of this city, and Mulford M. Scudder, of Westfield, the latter a Democrat.

The county board being particularly anxious to get to work, Mr. Codding yesterday procurred several of the blank certificates in Trenton and then called on the three members of the board separately, administering teh oath, after which the certificates were filed at Trenton, as required by law.

This morning President Pollard introduced Commissioner Andrews to the Elizabeth Board of Assessors in session at Elizabeth. Mr. Andrews made a few remarks in which he impressed upon each assessor the importance of assessing at true value. He remarked that any assessor failing to do so would be dismissed, and likewise if any member of the county board failed in his duty he would be liable to dismissal by the Governor. The county board will probably visit Summit tomorrow and meet the assessors there. The board will have its headquarters in one of the rooms of the county court house.

Amusement Park.

The Baltimore Amusement Company has leased from the Public Service Corporation for a long term of years, a tract of land in Union township, a short distance beyond the Elizabeth city line, and is going to open an amusement park it is claimed.

SERMON ON PATRIOTISM

Rev. A. C. Mc Crea Lauds America in Address at Observance of Civil War Veterans.

SCOTT POST PRESENT

Preservation of Union Quite as Important As Freedom of the Slave Declared First M. E. Church Pastor.

The preservation of this country as a nation was the keynote of an address given by Rev. A. C. McCrea, pastor of the First M. E. church, before Winfield Scott Post, No. 72, G. A. R., Sunday night. That he said he considered quite as important as the freedom of the black man through the struggles of the Civil War. He declared that had not the rebellion been suppressed America would not have had a free government, for England would have been only too glad to step in and take a hand in running the country. "Because of the victories in the days of '76 and '61," he declared, "we have a goodly heritage." The speaker stated that patriotism is closely associated with religion and every man who loves God should be a patriot.

Mr. McCrea mentioned briefly the story of the forefathers. He paid tribute to the Psalmist, the warrior of old, who was continually singing the praises of God for what He had done for Israel's army.

"In my analysis of patriotism I would first mention love of land in which we live, its broad expanse and natural beauty as well as its resources. I was not old enough to enlist in the Civil War, but my father and two uncles did serve and I am glad to have a part by inheritance in the struggle for freedom. I shall never forget my visits to the battlefield at Gettysburg. Any young man who goes there and studies what was done will appreciate his heritage.

"In the second place, I would consider the love of the government under which we live. We think it has been and is one of the best governments yet formed, but we will continue to look for improvements and become a Democracy in the true sense of the word.

"Thirdly, we should glory in our free institutions, the opportunity given every man to exercise himself to the fullest of his ability without restriction from any one. Where is there a land where so much is given free for the betterment of the people as it is in this glorious country?

"Then we have a heritage in our noble manhood. We have a history as a nation for which every American can be justly proud. The noblest men and principles underlie our great heritage. The great privileges we enjoy today are the inheritance of those who have gone before us."

In conclusion Mr. McCrea spoke particularly of Washington and mentioned several traits of his character, such as his love of home, love of mankind and his bravery. Mr. McCrea referred to the fact that this week the veterans will visit sacred places and strew flowers over the graves of the departed soldier and he hoped that as long as flowers bloom that Memorial Day would be observed and that the choicest flowers be placed on the graves of the dead soldier as a mark of affect for his great service to this country.

During the service the vested choir sang special selections, including patriotic anthems.

TORNADO HITS JERSEY.

Elizabeth, May 23.—A tornado swept over a part of Union Township, N. J., yesterday afternoon, leaving destruction in its path. The whirling cloud first made its appearance near the historic Connecticut Farms Presbyterian church, where yesterday was celebrated the centennial anniversary of the Sunday-school. People were hastening to attend the services at the time, and many were thrown into a panic. The tornado blew a window out of Daniel Leonard's house, split in two an adjoining barn, and uprooted a number of apple trees in his orchard. It passed within less than seventy-five yards of the old church, then rose in the air, only to descend again on the Johnson estate, adjoining Morris avenue, where it cut a swath 300 feet long by 150 feet wide through a grove of big trees, some of them more than a century old and nearly three feet in diameter. It snapped off the trunks of some as if they were pipestems and tore other trees up by the roots.

FOURTEEN INNING GAME

Westfield Nine Puts Up a Stiff Fight For Victory.

BARELY NOSED OUT

Gruelling Duel Between Smith and Levy, in Which Speedy Youngster Shows Splendid Skill and Endurance.

It took Plainfield fourteen innings to defeat the new Westfield team Saturday afternoon, and the ending was very ticklish into the bargain. It was the prettiest, most hotly contested battle that has ever taken place between Plainfield and Westfield, and probably the best game ever played on the Oval.

Everything that goes to make up a hair-raising struggle figured in the contest—splendid pitching, brilliant fielding and thrilling crises. Smith pitched a remarkable game. In the fourteen innings he was touched for only five hits, and he struck out seventeen men. He kept his head and his strength throughout, and seemed just as good in the fourteenth inning as he was at the start. Levy pitched good ball, but he was not as much of a puzzle as Smith. His performance was very little below that of Smith, however, and though the locals got fourteen hits, they found it an almost unsolvable problem to bunch the safeties. Every one got a hit, Bertwhistle landing three, and Leonard, Brogan and Curley two apiece.

Scoring started in the first inning. Eichler, first up, got his base on balls, and Sweeney hit to left-center for two bases, Eichler sprinting in. McGee struck out, but Kenah sacrificed Sweeney to third with a hit to the pitcher's box, and the runner scored on Brogan's, low throw of Campbell's grounder. Levy got to first on Henriques' error, but Geiger went out on three strikes.

Plainfield got one of the two runs back in their half. Bertwhistle hit to right field and stole second. Brogan beat out a bunt, Bertwhistle going to third, Brogan was forced at second, Henriques making the first step on fielder's choice. Reardon hit a high one to center and a muff let Bertwhistle in. Leonard and Curley were easy outs.

In the second, with two out, Bertwhistle got his second hit, and came in on the two-bagger with which Brogan followed him. Henriques made the third out with a fly to left.

From then until the fourteenth the struggle was a clinch-and-hold-fast struggle between the two nines. Both pitchers were splendidly supported. The Westfield infield worked like a machine, and time after time batters and runners were mowed down by snappy throws. Plainfield starred just as brilliantly. Curley and Heffron did exceptionally swift work, the quick little shortstop making a startling one-hand catch of a liner on the run, and the fielder pulled down a screeching fly after a remarkable sprint.

In the fourteenth Kenah made first on Curley's fumble and made second on the pass. He went to third on Campbell's sacrifice, and scored on Curley's juggle of Levy's grounder. Levy was caught at first, however, and Geiger struck out.

Henriques opened Plainfield's half by popping to third, but Reardon hit to left, and went to third on Leonard's sharp hit to right. Reardon loafed off third and drew a throw. He made on duck and scored on Mack's muff of Seery's throw. Leonard made third on the overthrow, and came in on Heffron's Texas leaguer that didn't look any too safe until it hit the ground.

The score:

Plainfield
	R.	H.	P.O.	A.	E.
Bertwhistle, lf	2	3	1	0	0
Brogan, 2b	0	2	0	4	1
Henriques, 1b	0	1	13	1	1
Reardon, cf	1	1	2	0	0
Leonard, 3b	1	2	0	1	0
Heffron, rf	0	1	3	0	1
Curley, ss	0	0	2	3	1
O'Neil, c	0	1	17	1	0
Smith, p	0	1	3	4	0
	4	14	42	14	4

Westfield.	R.	H.	P.O.	A.	E.
Eichler, lf	1	0	1	0	0
Sweeney, 1b	1	2	14	0	1
McGee, ss	0	0	8	6	0
Kenah, rf	1	0	0	0	0
Campbell, 2b	0	1	3	4	0
Levy, p	0	0	1	7	0
Geiger, cf	0	1	2	0	0
Mack, 3b	0	1	1	1	1
Seery, c	0	0	9	4	0
	3	5	39	22	3

*Heffron out—foul bunt third strike. One out when winning run was made.

Plfield ..1 1 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0—4
Wfield ..2 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 1—3

Earned runs—Plainfield, 2. Two base hits—Brogan, Sweeney. First base on balls—Off Smith, 2; off Levy, 1. Stolen bases—Bertwhistle, Reardon, Leonard, 2; Heffron, O'Neil, Kenah. Sacrifice hits—Bertwhistle, Kenah, Campbell. Struck out—By Smith, 17; by Levy, 6. Left on bases—Plainfield, 6; Westfield, 4. First base on errors—Plainfield, 2; Westfield, 2. Time of game—3:35. Umpire—Mority. Attendance—850.

GREAT DAY AT CARNIVAL

Big Crowds and Business, Afternoon and Evening, Gladden Management.

JUNIORS DO GOOD WORK

On Hand Early and Busy From the Start—William Counihan Works a Brand New Game.

Attendance and receipts at the Carnival reached their highest figures Saturday. The matinee was as lively as any of the nights that preceded it and the evening was the biggest of the eight.

The attendance in teh afternoon was about 6,000. Women and children were in the majority, but men were not wanting in large numbers. The attractions were manned by volunteers. For the most part the workers were machinists, who saw that help was needed and promptly rendered it. They kept things moving in lively fashion and the committeemen at headquarters' tent spoke gratefully of them in the evening.

The night attendance was at least 8,000. The crowd came early and by nine o'clock the grounds were so full of people that walking without bumping into other strollers was almost impossible and all the tents were filled at that. Every show was going by 8 o'clock, and the increase in receipts was helped materially by the early start.

The Jr. O. U. A. M. had charge of the grounds at night, and they made glad the hearts of the management by the promptness with which they appeared on the scene, in readiness for work, and the way they stirred things up after starting in. Members of all the four councils, Benevolent, Somerset, Franklin and Plainfield, were on the attractions, and the members who did not work were on the grounds in force, with large slices of their salaries branded "M. H." to show where the money belonged.

The barkers and ticket sellers were: J. H. Lawler, J. M. Scull, William La Tourette, C. F. Windham, Frank Whitely, Theodore Lister, C. J. Newman, William Burtis, F. G. Welsh, G. W. Harvey, H. F. Miller, H. C. Runyon, A. D. Honeyman, John E. Naylor, Frank Platts, C. R. Staats, F. G. Wikoff, John Morton, William Carlyle Firstbrook, Cornelius Perrine, W. C. Walker, A. D. Thorn, C. F. Hulit, Arthur Long, E. E. Nelson, Fred L. Soper, G. F. Watts, Roy Maurer, P. G. Hansen, A. G. Adams, H. G. Adams, S. J. Robinson, Wm. R. Van Sickle, Lester C. R. Dunham, George B. Cratsley, E. G. Wilson, David Rocefellow, Allen Franchand, Ewert Eastham, Jesse H. Pond, G. V. Drake and A. E. Maurer.

William Counihan, who has been hustling on the grounds since the carnival began with the resourcefulness of a Connecticut Yankee, to the glory and profit of the affair, sprung a new money-making wrinkle Saturday night. He picked up somewhere a trick lock that can only be opened by the insertion of a coin, and he ran up and down the grounds snapping it on buttonholes of friends and acquaintances and the friends of the friends, and all of them had to drop in coins for the benefit of the hospital to get rid of the decoration.

HAND STRUCK A BRIDGE.

Mr. Kirk Hurt in Throwing Cigar Ashes Out of Train Window.

Former Sheriff William T. Kirk held his hand out of the window of a Jersey Central smoking car on his way home from New York Friday night, to flick the ashes from his cigar. Before he could draw it in again his hand struck against a bridge. It was badly lacerated and bruised. At Westfield, where he is making his home temporarily, Mr. Kirk had the hand dressed by a doctor. He will be unable to use it for several days. He could not tell just what bridge figured in the accident; it was somewhere near the Eighth street station.

INSTALLED NEW PASTOR.

All-Day Exercises Held at Mount Olive Baptist Church.

Rev. M. A. Alexander was installed as pastor of the Mt. Olive Baptist church, colored, Sunday. The exercises lasted all day. They were well attended, and a total of $170 was raised in the collections.

Rev. Dr. J. A. Whitted, of Raleigh, N. C., delivered the installation sermons, one in the morning and another at night. Rev. Dr. E. E. Jackson, the former pastor, preached the charge to the congregation and pastor. Rev. Abel Ross, of Westfield, extended the right hand of fellowship on behalf of the church. Addresses of welcome were delivered by Rev. J. W. Mitchell, for the colored clergy of the city; Deacon Dan'l Brown, for the church; Thomas Burgess, for the Sunday school, and Mrs. Daniel Brown, for the societies of the church. Mrs. J. E. Alexander, wife of the new pastor, responded to Mrs. Brown.

Farmer's Boy at School.

S. S. Swackhamer will deliver an address at the commencement exercises of the Mt. Bethel School on June 1. His subject will be "The Farmer's Boy at School."

GREAT BOROUGH BALL NINE WON

It Defeated P. H. S. For First Time in Many Years.

THE SCORE WAS 7 TO 5

Peacock in Rare Form—Errors by Plainfield High Were Disastrous—To Play Rubber Game.

Ragged fielding coupled with inability to hit Peacock's delivery at critical times lost the game for game for Plainfield High School Saturday morning on Crescent oval against the North Plainfield High School nine, by a score of 7 to 5. The victory is a big one in the eyes of the boroughites as it is the first athletic contest which the city team has lost to the North Plainfielders in many years.

Plainfield High School never showed such a poor fielding during the season as it did on Saturday, this being true especially in the case of Van Deventer and Captain Davis, the latter overthrowing first base in the sixth inning when the bases were full. This poor throw scored three runs for the borough team, and was in great measure due to the defeat of Plainfield High School. This gave the boroughites a big lead, and though Plainfield High School cut it down somewhat, they were unable to score enough runs to win or even tie the score.

Peacock for the borough nine never showed better form, and he was for the most part supported in excellent style by his team-mates. Plainfield High School could only gauge his delivery for six hits, but when they had men on base, Peacock refused to let them hit, and seemed then to be at his best. He fanned ast 14 of the Plainfield High School batsmen. "Turk" Webster caught Peacock faultlessly and he himself proved to be the best batsman for North Plainfield High School. Dunning, on first, for the borough boys, accepted many chances without an error.

"Stu" Freeman pitched for Plainfield High School and had he had "decent" support would easily have won for he allowed the borough boys but four hits and he struck ten of them out. His opponents did not earn a run, but those runs that they scored were due to nine large errors by Plainfield High School.

The city boys showed great daring in running bases, but though they were superior in this department, the hits were never forthcoming to score the runs. Captain Davis gauged Peacock's delivery better than the rest of his mates. Clyde Doane played right-field in the absence of Brakeley, who is out of the game because of a broken hand. Doane put up a good shwing, throwing out two men at the plate from deep right field, and securing a hit and a run in the fifth inning.

This game leaves the series with a game to the credit of each of the contestants. The rubber game for the city scholastic championship will be played on Friday afternoon, June 8, and it promises to be a corker. Plainfield High School will line-up against Newark High School this afternoon at 3.30 o'clock on Crescent oval.

Score, line-up and summary follows:

	P.	H.	P.O.	A.	E.
Van Deventer, 2b..	0	0	2	3	5
Douglass., 1b.....	1	2	9	2	1
Harding, lf.....	1	1	0	0	0
Davis, c.....	1	2	12	3	1
Mchaffey, 3b.....	1	0	0	0	1
S. Freeman, p.....	1	0	0	1	0
Doane, rf.....	1	1	0	2	0
Lorneaux, cf.....	0	0	1	0	0
H. Freeman, ss.....	0	1	1	1	0
	5	6	24	12	8

N. P. H. S.	R.	H.	P.O.	A.	E.
A. Van Ardsdale, 2b	1	1	1	2	1
Webster, c.....	2	2	12	2	0
Peacock, p.....	1	1	0	3	1
Kennedy, ss.....	0	0	0	4	2
Burtis, 3b.....	0	0	2	1	0
M. Van Ardsdale, lf	0	0	1	0	1
Smith, cf.....	1	0	1	0	1
Dunning, 1b.....	0	0	10	2	0
F. McClintock, rf..	2	0	0	0	0
	7	4	27	14	6

Total. H. E.

P. H. S ..0 2 0 1 0 0 2 0 0—5 6 8
N. P. H. S. 2 1 0 0 0 4 0 0 x—7 4 5

Summary: Earned runs, P. H. S., 2; N. P. H. S., 0. Two base hit, Doane. First base on balls, off Freeman, 2; Peacock, 0. Struck out by Freeman, 10; Peacock, 14. Left on base, P. H. S., 7; N. P. H. S., 6. Wild throw, Davis. Passed ball, Davis, Webster. First base on errors, P. H. S., 4; N. P. H. S., 7. Time of game, 2 hours, 1 minute. Umpires, Howard Craig and "Bert" Moore.

Farm Partner Sues.

Through his lawyer, Francis J. Blats, suit for $1000 has been brought by Christopher Herrlich against George Bowers, of Warrenville, on contract, in Justice Brampton's court, Bound Brook. Bowers farmed a lot for Herrlich on shares, and the plaintiff alleges that he did not properly house his, Herrlich's, share in the crop, allowing it to rot and be ruined. The case will be heard next week.

It's a queer fact that the higher a man rises the less chance he has of being above suspicion.—Puck.

BOARD PICKS HILLERY

State Senate Leader Chosen to Speak at North Plainfield Commencement.

MR. COLBY DECLINED

Exercises to Be Held at Y. M. C. A. On Friday Night, June 15.

Senator Thomas J. Hillery, of Morris county, has accepted the invitation extended by the North Plainfield Board of Education to make the address at the commencement exercises of the Borough High Schools. The exercises will be held on Friday night, June 15, at the Y. M. C. A. Senator Hillery, it will be remembered, was one of the speakers at the last Board of Trade banquet at the Casino. He was chairman of the Senate Commission which drafted the new tax law.

The Borough Board of Education, it is said, originally desired to have Senator Everett Colby make the address, but owing to many pressing engagements, he was compelled to decline the invitation.

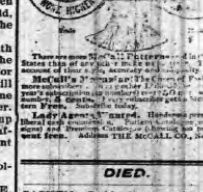
The Senator from Morris county immediately accepted the invitation, saying that it would afford him much pleasure to speak in this city. Mr. Hillery is very active in State affairs.

MISS CLARK'S TALK ON CONGO STATE LIFE.

Public School Teacher Addresses Christian Endeavorers On Her Native Land.

Miss Stephanie Clark, a teacher in the Plainfield Public Schools, who was one of the first white persons born in the Congo Free State, her parents now being missionaries there, gave a talk before the Christian Endeavor Society of the Congregational church, Sunday night, on the subject, "Life in the Congo Free State." The talk abounded in a recital of exciting incidents of the time she lived there.

Miss White also told an interesting story of the missionary work her parents have been and are still doing and the many conversions as a result of the religious effort being made in the Congo Free State. She exhibited many curios of the country.



There are now 50 McCall Patterns in use in the United States [illegible] McCall's Magazine [illegible] more subscribers [illegible] year's subscription [illegible] Free. Subscribe today.

Ladies Agents Wanted. Handsome premiums or liberal cash commission. Pattern catalogue of 600 designs, Premium List and Sample Copy of McCall's sent free. Address THE McCALL CO., New York.

DIED.

CASHEN—Suddenly, on May 23, 1906, Charles Cashen, aged 43 years.

CLARK—On Friday, May 25, 1906, Elizabeth Hazen, wife of Erastus Clark, Jr.

SCHUYLER—In this city, on Thursday evening, May 24, 1906, Harriet Augusta Schuyler, daughter of the late Andrew D. and Elizabeth Ayres Mellick.

LUSARDI—In this city, Wednesday morning, May 23, 1906, Clotilda, wife of Alex. Lusardi, in her 32d year.

Wanted

Summer Board.

By thousands of Brooklyn people. Can you take a few? If so, list your house in the BROOKLYN DAILY EAGLE FREE INFORMATION BUREAU, for which purpose a printed Blank is provided.

The service of the INFORMATION BUREAU

Will Cost You Nothing

The Brooklyn Eagle is the best advertising medium in the world. It carries more resort advertisements than any New York paper. It stands PRE-EMINENTLY at the head.

An ADVERTISEMENT in the Eagle costs little, but brings large results, because the EAGLE INFORMATION BUREAU is constantly helping it.

Write for listing blanks and Advertising Rate Card. Address

INFORMATION BUREAU,
BROOKLYN DAILY EAGLE,
Brooklyn, N. Y.

Mention the paper in which you saw this advertisement. 5 2 2m

Sanitary Plumbing

Brick and Portable Furnaces
Gas Fitting, Tin Roofing,
Etc., Etc., Etc.

I am prepared to do any of the above branches in strictly first-class sanitary and workmanship manner.

Having associated myself with the Master Plumbers Association of New York City, I employ none but first-class mechanics and non-union men. I believe in every man running his own business, at all times and in cases.

D. W. LITTELL,

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE

PATENTS

TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &c.

Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. HANDBOOK on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents. Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the Scientific American.

A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.

MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

NEW IN EVERY DETAIL!

My new barber shop at

143 NORTH AVE.

is now open ready for business. All the latest appointments in the tonsorial line.

EDWIN B. MAYNARD.

CARNEY BROS.,

MADISON AVENUE,

Between Front and Second streets.

Tinners,
Plumbers
Gas Fitters,

Grates and bricks for all kinds of stoves can be found here at Jobbers, prices. Bring your tinware mending to us. The best tinners, the best plumbers, and the best gas-fitters in this section. We use none but the very best of materials, and our work always gives satisfaction. Keys of all kinds are made here. Tinware made to order. Ranges, brick and portable furnaces. Sanitary plumbing.

DIME

Savings Institution,

Of Plainfield, N. J.,

Is now receiving deposits with interest, allowed on all sums from $5 to $3,000.

J. Frank Hubbard, President.
Wm. F. Arnold, Jeremiah Manning, J. C. Pope, Sec'y and Treas. } Vice-Pres

Money deposited on or before January tenth will draw interest from the first.

Guaranteed Salary $900 YEARLY.

Men and women of good address to represent us, some to travel appointing agents, others for local work or to open offices for us. $900 salary guaranteed yearly; extra commissions and bonus, rapid advancement, old established house, Brand Valuable for present man or woman to secure pleasant, permanent position, liberal income and future. New, brilliant lines. Write at once.

STAFFORD PRESS,
23 Church St., New Haven, Conn

W. R. CODDINGTON,

Counsellor-at-Law

Commissioner of Deeds, Master-in-chancery, Notary Public. Offices Corner of Park avenue and Second street.

ALBERT HEDDEN

Livery & Boarding Stables

FOURTH ST.,

between Watchung and Park avenues. First-class Livery. Horses boarded by week or month. Telephone call No. 114.

Wm. A. Woodruff

Fire and Life

INSURANCE AGE

OFFICE

LEES LOSES DAMAGE SUIT

Jury Returns in Short Time With Verdict of No Cause For Action.

NO NOTICE OF APPEAL

Plaintiff Asked $20,000 of Dr. Wickman for Alleged Improper Treatment in Applying Plaster Cast.

After remaining out less than three hours, the jury in the Lees-Wickman damage suit in the Somerset court, Friday afternoon, returned with a verdict of no cause for action. It caused some surprise as in a previous trial Lees was awarded $750, but as far as no appeal has been filed by counsel for the defense, Lees sued Dr. Wickman for $20,000 for alleged improper treatment in applying a plaster cast for spinal curvature. The testimony was taken before Justice Abram Q. Garretson and was concluded at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

The entire taking of testimony yesterday was devoted to the defense. After several witnesses had been on the stand, Dr. Albert Wickman, the defendant, took the stand in his own behalf. He said that he had been a practicing physician since 1894, that he was a graduate of the University of New York and that he had been consulting physician for several hospitals. He had had rather an extended experience in plaster work. Had about a dozen cases of this kind every year.

The plaintiff came to his office, he said, on March 3, 1903, suffering from spinal curvature. He informed the doctor he had been worse the year past and was getting so he was unable to do anything; went around with great difficulty, especially as the day advanced.

The boy wanted to have a plaster cast put on, but said he was poor. Dr. Wickman averred, and the latter told him he would like to help him and would charge nothing for his services but the plaintiff would pay for the dressing and material and for the services of two attending physicians, who would be necessary to help. He said he warned Lees the cast was troublesome to apply, would perhaps cause a great deal of soreness and annoyance, and that if he applied it the plaintiff must remain quiet until he got used to it.

The defendant said he explained to Lees that under the arms the jacket would be most liable to cause trouble, and that if it did he would simply have to cut it out at the armpits. Then the doctor went on and described the applying of the plaster cast, and in conclusion declared it had been put on properly, and in accordance with the practice in such cases. He said it was in no way the cause of the plaintiff being in a worse condition, if he is, than when he came to his office.

Drs. John C. Houston and Josiah Crane, of Newark, corroborated Dr. Wickman in applying the cast, corroborated him in detail, and also said that if the plaintiff's condition was worse it was not due to the operation.

Drs. Edward J. Ill, William H. Hicks and Sidney A. Twinch, of Newark; P. J. Zegito and Albert W. Bebout, of Plainfield, and John P. Hecht, of Somerville, testified that the treatment of the plaintiff was in accordance with the practice in cases of a similar nature.

GRACE FESTIVAL CLOSES.

The Affair Proves a Social and Financial Success.

The strawberry and ice cream festival at Grace M. E. Church was concluded Friday, having proved a decided success, socially and financially. The attendance was equal to that at the opening and all the articles sold well. The programme was repeated exactly as it had been given the previous night and was greatly enjoyed. The various committees that had charge of the tables during the festival were as follows:

Entertainment, Miss Alice Carroll and Mrs. Henry Cannon; candy, Mrs. Charles Pierce, Miss Alice Carroll, Mrs. R. D. Merrill, Mrs. W. M. Alling, Miss Belle Lunger, Miss Della Voehl; cake, Mrs. A. B. C. Bodine, Mrs. J. W. A. Bauersachs, Mrs. J. F. Lunger, Mrs. E. A. Vermeule, Mrs. A. H. Lathbe, Mrs. J. M. Nicholson, Mrs. Jennie Hoffman and Mrs. W. J. Conroy; lemonade, Mrs. Charles Harden, Miss Winifred Carroll, Miss Sadie Winckler and Miss Mabel Stevens; strawberries, Mrs. George Nelson and Miss Jeanie Nelson; ice cream, Mrs. C. H. Lippincott. The young women of the church acted as waitresses.

To Be Married in October.

Miss Ella Harold Serrell, who is to be married in October to William O. Briggs, of Milwaukee, Wis., has left Muhlenberg Hospital, where she was a pupil nurse. The wedding, which will take place at the First Baptist church, will be a brilliant affair.

As She Is Spoke.

Easy enough to talk French. ... to say is: "Ah key ace ... Eef ate ah Ma mare; ... ate O see ah ell." ... alive with un... ble Journal.

G. L. RECORD SEEKS U. S. SENATORSHIP

COLBYITE ANNOUNCES HIS CANDIDACY TO SUCCEED JOHN F. DRYDEN.

George L. Record, of Jersey City, at noon today announced his candidacy to succeed John L. Dryden, of Newark, as United States Senator. He is a co-worker with State Senator Colby and Mayor Fagan in the reform movement.

In a statement issued by him, Mr. Record says incidentally:

"I have decided to become a Republican candidate for United States senator. If elected I shall act as a Republican. I shall support every act looking to the maintenance or adoption of the principles of the Republican party as set forth in the last national Republican platform. Within the party, I shall be a Roosevelt Republican.

"Say making the contest, I hope to make perfectly clear and distinct the fact that the fight is on to a finish against machine and corporation rule in the Republican party, and for the regulation of that party by the voters thereof. I hope by my candidacy to force every Republican legislative candidate to declare openly, in advance of the primaries, for whom he intends to vote for United States Senator. I hope to arouse a public interest in this campaign which will compel the passage of a law giving the people a right to express their preference at primaries or elections for United States Senator. I hope by my candidacy to put an end to the practice, in New ersey, of electing to this high office men mainly because of their wealth or corporate financial backing. I hope by this fight to increase the attendance of the voters at the polls at primaries, so that the machine everywhere shall be compelled to fight in the open, which means in effect that its importance as a legitimate political force will be made clear to the public. In addition to these reasons there is another. There is now shaping up in the United States, in my judgment, one of the greatest political contests in the history of the country. It is becoming plain that there is great peril to our institutions in the huge fortunes and aggregations of capital in the hands of the few, which are characteristic of our day, and in the influence which these exercise over the railroads, our national highways. President Roosevelt has recently pointed out this danger. Thoughtful men everywhere perceive it. In some form or other the attempt to remedy this and similar evils is bound to shape our politics in the future. It is the old, old question of special privilege in a new form. The doctrine of the square deal is but an expression of this feeling."

DEWEY PARK SOLD TO A NEW YORK OPERATOR

GETS S. D. DRAKE'S OLD PROPERTY FOR $28,000 FROM POLHEMUS.

A big real estate transfer took place in New Brunswick Thursday afternoon, when the property near Dunellen known as Dewey Park, belonging to Peter G. Polhemus, of that city, was sold to John L. Douglass and wife, of New York city. The title was passed yesterday and the consideration was $28,000.

The property is one of the most beautiful sections of land in this part of the county. It contains between seven and eight hundred building lots. The new owner, who is a real estate speculator with an office at 90 Wall street, intends to boom the lots as soon as possible, as they are attractively situated for residence purposes.

The land originally belonged to Silas Dewey Drake, the founder of Lincoln, before passing into the hands of Mr. Polhemus.

Freeholders' Official Papers.

The Board of Freeholders of the County of Union has given notice that the following are the official papers of the county: The Daily Press and Courier-News of Plainfield, Summit Herald and Summit Record of Summit, Westfield Leader and Union County Standard of Westfield, Cranford Citizen and Cranford Chronicle of Cranford, New Providence News of New Providence, New Jersey Advocate and Union Democrat of Rahway, Elizabeth Daily Journal, Elizabeth Evening Times, Elizabeth Review and Sunday Leader of Elizabeth.

Veterans Will Go to Westfield.

On Sunday, June 3, Winfield Scott Post, No. 72, G. A. R., of this city, will attend divine services in the Presbyterian church at Westfield. Rev. Dr. Stearns, the pastor, will preach a memorial sermon.

Colby League Blanks.

Blank applications for membership in the Equal Taxation League, the Colbyite organization in this county, have been received in quantities by Judge Runyon, the president. They will be distributed to the members, and electors who desire to join the organization may secure them from any member. Applications will be acted upon at the next meeting of the League.

JAPANESE MAGAZINE PUBLISHES HIS PICTURE

PORTRAIT AND LETTER OF L. V. F. RANDOLPH IN TOKYO PAPER.

The International Review, published at Tokyo, one of the leading magazines of Japan, contains the portrait of former Mayor L. V. F. Randolph, president of the New York Consolidated Exchange. It also publishes a letter written by Mr. Randolph to Issa Tanimura, D. C. L., the editor, who was a guest of Mr. Randolph some time ago. The letter, which is both in English and Japanese, follows:

"Having introduced you to my exchange;—whose members enjoyed your address, it will give my great pleasure to examine your magazine when it arrives. I hardly know what description of our exchange I can send. I shall, however, mail you a copy of my last annual report, and, also the photograph of myself for which you ask. * * * I trust that you will be successful in your efforts to introduce foreign capital into your country by showing it to arouse a public interest in this campaign which will compel the passage of a law giving the people a right to express their preference at primaries or elections for United States Senator. I hope by my candidacy to put an end to the practice, in New ersey, of electing to this high office men mainly because of their wealth or corporate financial backing. I hope *by this fight to increase the attend*ance of the voters at the polls at primaries, so that the machine everywhere shall be compelled to fight in the open, which means in effect that its importance as a legitimate political force will be made clear to the public. In addition to these reasons there is another. There is now shaping up in the United States, in my judgment, one of the greatest politi*cal contests in the history of the* country. It is becoming plain that there is great peril to our institutions in the huge fortunes and aggregations of capital in the hands of the few, which are characteristic of our day, and in the influence which these exercise over the railroads, our national highways. President Roosevelt has recently pointed out this danger. Thoughtful men everywhere perceive it. In some form or other the attempt to remedy this and similar evils is bound to shape our politics in the future. It is the old, old question of special privilege in a new form. The doctrine of the square deal is but an expression of this feeling."

Black Court Mourning.

Journalism has been defined as an "intelligent anticipation of events;" illustrated journalism must take care lest it merits the definition of an "intelligent imagination of what might have been but was not." We were thrilled lately by an admirable picture of the Emperor Menelik mourning by the bier of his faithful servant Ras Makonnen. From a correspondent of the Standard we learn that Ras Makonnen died at a village one day's march from Harrar, when on a journey to visit the Emperor. That he died about 4 in the morning and was buried apparently within two hours. There is a serious discrepancy, and that is only between the mere writer and the artist.—London Globe.

Voorhees a Spanish Vet.

Former Governor Foster M. Voorhees has been made a United States Spanish war veteran, he having been mustered into Camp William J. Sewell, No. 10, U. S. W. V., of Elizabeth, under orders issued by the national encampment, which makes the war governors of the various States eligible to honrary membership. The mustering ceremony was in charge of, Assemblyman Everard K. Tucker, the camp commander.

STATE'S PROGRESS IN SEVENTY-TWO YEARS

PRESENT JERSEY COMPARED WITH THAT WHEN VROOM WAS GOVERNOR.

J. M. Herbert, of Mercer county, has an interesting historical relic. It is a copy of the message of Governor Peter D. Vroom to the Legislature, and is dated "Trenton, October 29, 1834." It presents facts which, when compared with present-day conditions in New Jersey, show in a graphic way the progress made by the State in 72 years. The document contains eight pages, and is yellow with age. The last message of Governor Bloke contained 44 pages.

It is addressed: "To the legislative council and general assembly of the State of New Jersey." The opening paragraph refers to the "favor of a benignant Providence," and closes with the reference: "Except the Lord keep the city, the watchman waketh but in vain." Governor Vroom said then: "I laying before you an exposition of the affairs o fthe State, as it is my duty to do, I have nothing very special or interesting to communicate."

There is a reference to the agreement or treaty entered into by this State and New York, and which the message says was then in force. "It is a matter of congratulation," continues Governor Vroom, "that this delicate question, as at length, been honorably and advantageously adjusted."

The present State prison was then nearly completion. In the view of the present opinion that the structure is behind the times, the old portions almost uninhabitable, it is interesting to note that Governor Vroom referred to it in the following language: "I doubt not that our prison will be the most perfect in design and execution in the United States." Then the number of prisoners *was 114. Yesterday the prison*ers confined there numbered 1,233, besides 400 in the Rahway reformatory. Governor Vroom reported that the prison for the previous year came within $1,000 of paying the entire cost of its maintenance, including the cost of the transportation of the prisoners.

The balance in the State treasury was reported to be $4,906.25. Governor Vroom, in his message to the last Legislature, reported that the balance in the treasury was $2,858,-398.13.

Governor Vroom said the amount of the school fund was $230,831.64. Then he said: "This fund must increase very slowly under existing circumstances. It requires nearly all its interest, to be added to the tax on banks, to make up the sum of $20,-000, appropriated and paid annually in support of common schools." State Comptroller Morgan in his report for 1905 showed that the school fund amounted to $4,426,430.12. The *amount the State will this year ap*propriate for the support of the schools will be $1,110,419.85.

The message gave the public school system a tremendous rap. Governor Vroom said: "As to our common schools. In the aggregate they are confessedly inferior to those of our sister states. The branches taught are the most ordinary; the mere elements of information, and they are often taught very defectively. There is no uniformity in the mode or system of instruction, nor is there even an approximation to it. Many of the our teachers are well qualified to impart a fair intelligence, and some, it is feared, are not well fitted to form the morals of our youth. They are not well compensated, and the business of teaching in our common schools is far from being *an respectable in public esti*mation as it should be."

This sounds strange today when the schools of New Jersey rank among the best in the land; when the graduates of the Normal School are in great demand everywhere; and when the State school exhibit at St. Louis was awarded numerous gold medals.

His Publishers.

The great foreign novelist and his wife had been three or four days in this country when they were wearing smoked glasses to rest their eyes while reading the scarlet headlines over their goings-out and comings-in.

"This is outrageous!" exclaimed the wife of the great foreign novelist as she crushed the newspaper in her hand and hurled it across the room.

"To what does m'dam refer?" asked her husband.

"Why, it is of the m'steur le publisher. Was he not to have had it by the papers of Boston with a few days that I am not my husband's wife? It would of our next book sell many thousands. But see; here comes the sort of editions. I have not; doubt it is printed in chic."

And she hurried away to intercept the newsboy and learn if their tardy publisher had redeemed himself.—Judge.

Sees Hope for Democracy.

The extraordinary activity of the Colby faction in organizing county leagues throughout the State for the avowed purpose of defeating the old Republican ringsters gives promise that something will soon shake political circles and causes outside observers to wonder that straight Democrats have not already lined up to fight for the principles which experience gives them faith to believe will bring about good result. Defeat at last makes all things even, evens now indicates a bad breaking up of the G. O. P. and the forthcoming return to power of the Democratic party, whereof Hons. William J. Bryan, S. Childs and others in Somerset are worthy leaders, all of whom have the confidence and support of the State Centre-Record. —Bound Brook State-Centre Record.

Few Seats Left.

Practically all of the private boxes have been sold for the horse show, June 7, 8 and 9, and there are a few parking spaces and reserved seats left which must be spoken for at an early date by those who desire them. A large number of out-of-town people have purchased private boxes and the assemblage promises to be a distinguished one.

The Bleachers' Kind.

Those who intend to use bunting in decorating for the Elks need not worry about the supply. The ball team can furnish plenty.—Denver Post.

LARGE AUDIENCE AT PUPIL RECITAL

MISS EMMONS PROVIDES DELIGHTFUL PROGRAMME FOR MUSIC LOVERS.

Before an audience that tested the seating capacity of the Casino, the pupils of Miss Aimee Louis Emmons gave a highly creditable exhibition of their ability last night. It was the third annual affair and the work of the pupils was a deserved compliment to the thorough and efficient teaching of Miss Emmons, which is well recognized.

The programme was opened with a dance of the roses, arranged by Miss Emmons, in which these young women took part: The Misses Brown, Englehardt, Peacock, McClintock, Schwed, Hill, Fowler, Emmons, Woolley, Strader and Roberts. This was followed by these recitations: "When the Minister Comes to Tea," Miss Ruth Weinberger; "The Violet's Victory," Miss Ethel Neumann; "The Troublesome Caller," Miss Thelma Curtis. A very pretty "Wood Nymph Dance" was given by Miss Jessica Hill, and part first of the programme closed with a recitation, "The Colonel's Experiment," by Miss Arline Brown, and a piano selection, "Valse Mystique," by Miss Myra Emmons.

Part second was opened with recitations: "When I'm Grown Up," Miss Marguerite Woolston and Miss Alice Peacock, and "The Village Seamstress," by Miss Kathleen Peacock; followed with a wand drill, arranged by Miss Emmons and given by the Misses Woolston, Peacock, Weinberger, Schwed and McClintock. Other recitations were "How Ceply Won the Cake," Miss Florence Fowler; "Playing Bluebeard," Miss Helen Roberts and Miss Madeline Strader; "Polly's Surprise Party," Miss Helen Woolley.

At the conclusion of this part an amusing number was a sketch, "Madame De Portment's School," with two scenes. The parts and those who took them were "Madame," Miss Hill; "Mabel Frolics," Miss Englehardt; "Gertrude Smiles," Miss Fowler; "May Friskey," Miss Maud Emmons; "Jennie Slow," Miss Kathleen Peacock; "Bridget," Miss Brown; Miss Myra Emmons then rendered on the piano "Valse de Concert."

In part third there were these recitations: "The Little Shepherdess," Miss Bernice McClintock; "Courting Under Difficulties," Miss Ida Englehardt, and following was a dumbell drill, arranged by Miss Emmons and given by the Misses Neumann, Curtis, Woolley, Strader and Roberts. Another recitation, "A Little Girl's Wish," by Miss Miss Schwed, preceded *the last number on the pro*gramme, "The Holy City," sung by Elmer D. Cutting and acted in pantomime by the Misses Fowler, Peacock, Englehardt, Brown, Kathleen Peacock and Maude Emmons.

Every number taken from the programme was accorded hearty applause and besides they received a profusion of flowers from parents and admiring friends. Following the entertainment there was a dance, Miss Myra Emmons presiding at the accompanist during the evening and Mortimer Slater operated the calcium lights.

UNION MEN WILL PARADE LABOR DAY.

Elizabeth Workingmen Contemplate Biggest Demonstration Given There.

After many years of inactivity Elizabeth is to have a big parade next Labor Day. It will be held by the Union Labor organizations and *promises to be one of the biggest af*fairs of its kind ever conducted in this community. The Union County Trades Council and the Building Trades Council of that city are now busy with preparations for the event. They expect to have between 4,000 and 5,000 men in line, together with floats, bands and other accessories. The object of the parade is to show the strength of unionism in Elizabeth and in Union county. The people will probably be followed by a banquet and speech-making, and there will be many prominent men in the labor world present.

Prizes will be awarded to the union making the best appearance and also to the union having the most members on parade. Already there is much rivalry evident.

In order to defray the cost incurred in the affair it will be necessary for the committee to solicit subscriptions from Elizabeth's business men. There is no doubt but that they will meet with hearty support.

Just now everything in labor circles is quiet and harmonious. The few slight agitations have been settled peaceably, and the time is most opportune for a gathering of labor forces. There will be a similar gathering in Newark, but it is not expected to conflict in any manner with the local demonstration. The citizens are asked to bedeck their homes, as there will surely be a big turnout.

Laying Out Tennis Courts.

C. M. Meeker, the contractor, has a large force of men engaged in laying out the tennis courts of the Somerset Field Club on the ground it has leased from Edward Willis on East Seventh street, between Leland avenue and Terrill

GRACE M. E. FESTIVAL GETS BIG PATRONAGE

FIRST NIGHT ATTENDANCE INDICATES A VERY SUCCESSFUL AFFAIR.

A combination of heat and large attendance made the strawberry and ice cream festival at Grace M. E. church, Thursday, a big success. It was conducted by the Ladies' Aid Society and the members had hardly looked for the patronage that came, the Carnival, of course, being a counter attraction. The church was thronged all evening and all the articles at the booths and counters sold readily.

Thirty children from the Sunday-school furnished the entertainment, arranged by Miss Carroll and Mrs. Harry Cannon, and it was considered one of the most unique that has yet been conducted in the church. The Queen of the May, represented by Miss Gladys Brokaw, was there with her subjects, the Daisies, the Buttercups, the Roses and the Violets, all of whom sang and recited. The throne was a beautiful bower of flowers. All the booths and tables were finely decorated, flowers being used with an attractive effect. The lemonade booth was covered with them, set off by greens, and the candy and cake tables were no inconspicuous in the same way. The whole effect was striking and the visitors were enthusiastic in their praise of the taste displayed by the decorating committee.

CURRENT TOPICS IN MOTOR CIRCLES.

Summer Tours Are Interesting New Jersey Automobilists Sense of the Plans.

In anticipation of the passage of the act permitting the manufacture of "denatured" alcohol free, automobile manufacturers are preparing to meet the new conditions with a car that will use the new fuel instead of gasoline. For several weeks Henry Ford, a Detroit manufacturer has been conducting experiments to determine the best type of carburettor or mixing valve for vaporizing alcohol for internal combustion motors. Exhaustive horsepower tests have also been made. Mr. Ford states that in the case of the six-cylinder type of motor, the average gasoline tent of which is fifty-two horsepower, as high as sixty horsepower was obtained in several tests with alcohol as fuel.

It is announced that the development of the six-cylinder type of automobile has made it possible to do away with the cranking operation. The cranks being set at 120 degrees instead of 170, as in a four-cylinder motor, the ability of a six-cylinder motor to start with a spark is not dependent on its liability of stopping exactly between compressions. At all times, in this new type of motor, one piston is in the proper position to receive its impulse, so that it is only necessary to have the spark advance lever in the "slow" position and close the switch. If there is a charge of explosive mixture in the cylinders, the motor will invariably start.

The report that the Automobile Club of France will neither nominate nor indorse a French team for the Vanderbilt Cup Race has been confirmed. The club will not stand in the way of French manufacturers making nominations for the contest, however. The action of the French club is based on the contention that any race confined to national teams of a equal number would not give just representation to France in view of that country's claim that it leads the world in the automobile industry.

Entries for the various events to be run in connection with the open air show and carnival at Empire City track next week closed last Thursday night. About seventy-five nomina*tions were made.*

MRS. H. AUGUSTA SCHUYLER.

Passed Away Last Evening After an Illness of Four Weeks.

Mrs. H. Augusta Schuyler died last evening at her residence on East Seventh street after an illness of four weeks. She was the daughter of the late Andrew D. and Elizabeth Ayres Mellick. She and her daughter, Miss Sarah L. Schuyler, and sister, Miss Mary A. Mellick, have made their home in Plainfield together for the last twenty years. Mrs. Schuyler's one son, V. R. Schuyler, is located in Alabama in the coal and coke business.

Other members of Mrs. Schuyler's immediate family are two sisters, Mrs. L. D. Bulkley, of New York city, and Mrs. Joseph Tweedy, of Texas; also one brother, Councilman George P. Mellick, of East Seventh street.

Mrs. Schuyler had a great many warm friends who will be grieved to hear of her death.

Plainfielders Having a Good Time.

Friends of Henry Mielke, B. Frank Cerieli and Charles W. Krause, who are abroad, received souvenir postal cards from the Plainfield ... yesterday. They indicate that ... are having a good time.

FATAL TROLLEY CRASH

Main Line Car Strikes Wagon on Fast Second Street Killing the Driver.

VICTIM, CHAS. CASHEN

Horses Injured and Vehicle Demolished—Motorman and Conductor Released on Their Own Recognizance.

Car 1934 of the Elizabeth-Plainfield line, bowling along East Second street toward this city, at a high rate of speed Wednesday afternoon, crashed into a stone wagon at Hunter avenue, killing the driver, Charles Cashen, almost instantly, and injuring both horses. The victim was hurled from his seat and the fender of the car struck him in the abdomen, almost disemboweling him. He was dead when the car was backed away and County Physician Westcott, who reached the scene shortly afterward, said he had lived hardly a minute after being hit. Motorman Albert Adriance and Conductor Thos. Beck gave the official their version of the accident and were released on their own recognizance.

Cashen had resided in this city all his life until a short time ago when he entered the employ of William Lee at Scotch Plains, carting stone from the Cook quarry on the mountains to points along the trolley line. He and several other teamsters had been engaged in this work yesterday afternoon, between Farley and Hunter avenues. They concluded dumping loads and started back East Second street just as car 1934 came in sight. Two of the drivers sent their teams along Hunter avenue but Cashen kept on as though he was not going to turn until after the trolley passed. This is what Adriance believed and he did not shut off the power.

Without any warning, the driver suddenly swung his team directly in front of the car and it was impossible to avert a collision. The heavy wagon was struck squarely in the middle and everything piled together in a confused heap, the horses kicking and struggling to escape. Cashen was seen to throw up his hands and go down beneath the car and it was gotten back as soon as possible. The body was taken to one side of the road and later removed to Cole's undertaking rooms.

Cashen was forty-three years old and was widely known in this vicinity. He was unmarried and leaves one sister, Mrs. William Murphy, of West Fifth street, and a brother, James Cashen, of East Sixth street.

YOUNG PIANO PUPILS DISPLAY MUCH SKILL.

Frances Rittenhouse and Muriel Collins Surprise Large Audience at Miss Whitney's Studio.

A large and interested audience filled the studios of Miss May Vincent Whitney Wednesday afternoon to listen to a piano recital given by Frances Rittenhouse and Muriel Collins, assisted by Mrs. S. D. Collins, soprano. The playing of these young girls seemed to create considerable wonder and amazement and the attentive listeners appreciated the ability of a high order which the players displayed. They have been trained entirely by Miss Whitney from the beginning of their musical study and she feels justly proud of them. They are earnest conscientious pupils of much ability whose playing is permeated by a really intelligent personality. The beautiful numbers contributed by Mrs. Collins were pleasing. Other musicales will be given during the next few weeks. The programme follows:

"Serenade in D," Chaminade; "Etude in Style," Ravina, Muriel Collins; "Valse Noble," ... ar; "To a Water Lily," MacDowell, Frances Rittenhouse; "The Mourner," Franz; "The Sweet Flower," Vander Stucken, Mrs. Collins; "Preambule," Bach; "The Two Larks," Leschetisky, Muriel Collins; "Impromptu in B flat," Schubert, Frances Rittenhouse; "Andante," Beethoven, Muriel Collins; "Scottish Tone Picture," MacDowell; "The Chase," Rheinberger, Frances Rittenhouse; "Sleep Well Thou Love Angel," Abt; "What Is That to You?" Wambrige, Mrs. Collins; "Polenez in D," Vanderweid, Muriel Collins; "Rondo Brilliant," Weber, Frances Rittenhouse. Second piano accompaniment by Miss May Vincent Whitney.

Religious of the East.

Arthur C. Maclay, of West Eighth street, who was for twenty years a missionary in Japan, will deliver a lecture on comparative religion before the Men's Association of Trinity Reformed church, Thursday night, June 7. His subject will be "The Cosmic Philosophies of the Far East; a Study of Shintoism, Confucianism and Buddhism." Mr. Maclay is thoroughly posted on the subject, and his discourse will be scholarly and authoritative.

Swift Work at Somerville.

Recorder Vanderbeek is again the official scores. His work in this respect is very neat and he deserves much credit. He furnishes the papers with a tabulated result early Monday mornings.—Somerset Messenger.

Proceedings of the Board of Chosen Freeholders of Union County.

[OFFICIAL.]

Regular meeting of the board of Chosen Freeholders of the county of Union, N. J., held on Thursday, May 3, 1906, at 2:30 p. m.

The meeting was called to order by the clerk, and roll call showed the following members present, viz: Freeholders Adams, Chandler, Cady, Cladek, Darby, Gruener, Kline, Meisel, Murphy, Robison, Krouse, Scudder, Swain, Wahl, Westphal, Wilbur and Woodruff. Absent, Director King and Freeholder Jensen, 2.

The name of Freeholder Connoly (deceased) was not called.

Owing to the absence of the director, the clerk called for nominations for director pro tem, and Freeholder Cady was nominated. As there was no other nominations, he was declared elected by the unanimous vote of the Board.

Director pro tem Cady stated that it was his painful duty to make formal announcement of the death of Freeholder W. W. Connoly, of the town of Westfield, and which occurred on Monday, April 30, 1906. At the proper time during the meeting, he would entertain a motion providing for the appointment of a committee to draft suitable resolutions relative to the death of Freeholder Connoly.

On motion of Freeholder Wilbur, it was unanimously ordered that the rules be suspended, and that the payment of bills be taken up as the first order of business.

The following bills, properly audited and approved, were read, and on roll call, unanimously ordered paid:

Salary account—M. A. Wood $298.37, S. R. Ryno $100, W. R. Codington $75, James W. Fink $60.

Committee expense account—John Robison $8.25, S. R. P. Wilbur $21.-65, Noah Woodruff $14.35, Henry Krouse $27.15, W. H. Swain $7.50, M. M. Scudder $5.70, E. K. Adams $9.90, George W. Kline $4.10, John Darby $7, Noah E. W. A. Westphal $9.25, P. H. Meisel $10.35.

Members' pay account — Noah Woodruff $46, S. R. T. Wilbur $26, C. S. Chandler $38, A. H. Gruener $42, W. A Westphal $46, John Robison $30, Henry Krouse $58, M. M. Scudder $30, W. H. Swain $34, E. K. Adams $30, Dennis S. Murphy $32, George B. Cladek $28, Geo. H. Kline $20, John F. Wahl $30, Elston Darby $15, P. H. Meisel $18, $14.

Publication account—New Providence News $31.25, The Union Democrat $31.25, Summit Record $31.25, Cranford Chronicle $62.50, Citizen $31.25, The Cranford News Pub. Co. $31.25, New Jersey Advocate $31.25, Summit Herald $31.25, Elizabeth Daily Journal $31.25, A. L. Force $109, Standard $31.25, Leader $31.-25, The Westfield Leader $31.25, County Road repair account—F. J. Hubbard $2.55.

Jail account—Chas. W Dodd $6.-50, Berry & Co. $41.18, W. H. Lawrence, sheriff $457.45, Albert C. Stein $24.01, Henry J Schmidt $4.-10.

Public buildings account—Albert C. Stein $9.55, The W. T. Kirk Co. $126, The N. Y. and N. J. Tel. Co. $15.84, Jno. Conrad $60, $3.45, $8.20, The Elizabeth Ice Co. $44.56, H. P. Vanderveer $22, United Electric Co. of N. J. $126.56, $21.76, J. E. Gaynor $10.50, $21, Conrad $25, Kate Runyon. $27, Jno. Conrad $25, Albert C. Stein $26.71, W. H. Hulskamper $390.55, F. W. Bruchlacher $76.45, Elizabeth Gazette $17.50, J. & S. S. Thompson $8.68, The Hildebrandt Co. $8.15, Clark Hardware Co. $40.75.

Stationery account—E. E. Norris & Co. $46.15, H. L. Percy $2.50, The Summit Herald $5.75, Chas. C. Burnet & Co. $176.20, Geo. W. Peek, Jr. $19.25§ Elliott-Fisher Co. $1.45.

News account—Adam Lutz $5, John Farrell $78, Jacob Brucklacher $78.

Incidentals account — Frank H. Smith $289.57, Advocate Pub. Co. $15, Elizabeth Daily Journal $87.25, Chas. C. Burnet & Co. $32.45, S. Rusling Ryno $186, J. E. High $35, M. M. Martin & Son $90, E. M. Wood $124.80, Frank H. Smith $123.10 and Chas. C. Burnet & Co. $15.85, Geo. W. Cole $30, F. W. Westcott, county physician $50.75, W. R. Codington $102.25.

Court account—John Schinden 90c., 90c., 90c.—Chas. Sheelen, Recorder $41.71, $1.71, $1.71, W. B. Tuscey $5.5, Thomas O'Neil $1, A. J. Kelly, J. P. $16.55, Frederick Teipel $5, Jno. Manley $5.79, E. R. Squier $8.65, Hanklish Band, J. P. $3.70, Fred A. Ritter $2.72, W. H. Donaldson, J. P. $4.20, Peter V. Weaver $14, Robert Walpole $14, Geo. W. Peek, Jr. $5.25, Jas. Crann $7, David H. Ramsay $5, Alexander Stangler $20, Chas. F. W. Eckhardt $20, Frederick Teipel $13.80, H. A. Pierson $6, C. D. Lufburrow $40, John A. Cashin $54, Spencer J. Schooley $75, E. E. Williamson, probation officer $150, John P. Dengler $125, James C. Ewart $150, B. A. Vail $416.66, N. C. J. English $50.710, Jno. K. English $211.93, W. H. Lawrence, sheriff $384.21.

Bridge account — Dennis Whalen $41.75, Jno. Herdtfiter $23.16, $236, George Buss $202.84, Hatfield & Weldon $17.48, $25.90, Joseph Kingston $1.50, John Emmons $2.-40, $1.50, Frank A. Ayres $25, James Moore $80, $532.20, J. M. Leidley $41, $19.20, James G. Moore $58, James L. Badgley $7, Chas. Smith $20.50, Wm. Farrier $207, F. J. Hubbard $32, Levering & Garrigues Co. $77.80.

The regular order of business was then proceeded with, and the minutes of the previous meeting (reading of bills being omitted) were on motion approved as read.

PETITIONS AND COMMUNICATIONS.

The following letter was presented and read:

Westfield, N. J., April 6, 1906.

The Board of Chosen Freeholders—

Gentlemen: My father, before he died, requested me to write to you and say that he has thought of you all many times during his illness, and the feeling that you all were his friends gave him great comfort. He told me several times during the last week that he had never been associated with a body of men that had used him better, or that he thought more of, than he did of the men comprising the board of Freeholders.

In addition to the message father sends you, I desire to thank you all for the many pleasant hours you have helped my father spend since he has been associated with you.

Yours truly, J. R. Connoly.

On motion of Freeholder Robison, received and placed on file.

From J. T. MacMurray, city clerk, Plainfield, N. J., as follows:

Plainfield, N. J., April 4, 1906.

Gentlemen: At a meeting of the Common Council of the City of Plainfield, held April 2, a resolution was adopted of which the following is a copy:

Resolved, That the city clerk be requested to communicate with the county officials of Union and Somerset counties, requesting them to confer with the committee on streets and sewers with a view to having Green Brook cleared out, and deepened and widened, where necessary, extending from Scotch Plains to such point in the North Plainfield as may be deemed necessary.

J. T. MacMurray, City Clerk.

On motion of Freeholder Woodruff, same was received and to the members of the board from the city of Plainfield.

From Olin D. Sickley, township clerk of Springfield, as follows:

Springfield, N. J., April 28, 1906.

Mr. Rusling Ryno, clerk board of Freeholders—

Dear Sir: At the last meeting of the township committee of the township of Springfield the clerk was directed to request the Board of Freeholders to widen the bridge at both ends at Van Winkle stream near the residence of Dr. Sites. The committee

I am, Very truly yours, tee would respectfully request that you lay this communication before the board at its next meeting.

Very truly yours,

Olin D. Sickley, township clerk.

On motion of Freeholder Krouse, received and referred to Freeholder Meisel of Springfield township.

From Wm. Flemer, of Springfield, N. J., as follows:

Springfield, N. J., April 28, 1906.

To the Board of Chosen Freeholders, Union County, New Jersey—

Gentlemen: I have been informed that it is your intention to widen the bridge over Van Winkle Brook, Springfield, N. J., on the north side, and would be glad to have you treat the south side the same, thereby making the bridge the full width of the road.

Should be pleased to hear from you in this matter.

Respectfully yours,

Wm. Flemer, M. C. B.

On motion of Freeholder Robison, received and referred to Freeholder Meisel of Springfield township.

From Dr. J. A. Stites, of Springfield, N. J., as follows:

Springfield, N. J., April 30, 1906.

Gentlemen: I have notified the township of committee Springfield that I will not allow them to remove the sidewalk in front of my property, on the south side of same, thereby making the bridge the full width of the road.

Should be pleased to hear from you in this matter.

Respectfully yours,

Wm. Flemer, M. C. B.

On motion of Freeholder Robison, received and referred to Freeholder Meisel of Springfield township.

The following petition was presented and read:

Whereas, The residents of the Borough of Roselle Park, owning property or having their residence on Westfield avenue, a county road running through their borough, or contiguous thereto, have suffered for a long time much discomfort in their premises as subjected to considerable annoyance while walking along the avenue, as well as danger of infectious diseases, by reason of the continuous heavy volumes of dust raised by automobiles and other traffic on said avenue, which is constantly increasing; Therefore, We, the undersigned property owners and residents, respectfully petition your honorable body to take such measure by application of crude oil, or otherwise, as in your honorable body best calculated to immediately alleviate the conditions above described.

Alfred Atkins, Emery L. Leliebridge, Chas. E. Stone, and seventy-three others.

On motion of Freeholder Woodruff, received and laid over for future consideration.

The following communication was presented and read:

Elizabeth, N. J., May 3, 1906.

Gentlemen: I would respectfully call your attention to the culvert under Centenial avenue, near the property formerly of Alfred Winans, now owned by me.

The culvert has been stopped for a long time and by reason of this, land has been overflowed with water, which is becoming stagnant and the same is detrimental to health. I would respectfully ask that the same be attended to.

Julia Alward.

The petitioner being present was granted permission to be heard and stated in part that the situation as mentioned in petition was a great inconvenience and some damage; it was also unhealthful, and she claimed, had not received proper consideration at the hands of the local authorities.

Freeholder Adams said that the culvert as complained of was located in Elizabeth and he would have the matter attended to, so far as the county was concerned, as soon as possible.

On motion of Freeholder Woodruff, it was ordered that the matter be referred to Freeholder Adams, and the board of health of Cranford township.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES.

By the committee on Picton street bridge, Westfield, as follows:

Elizabeth, N. J., May 3, 1906.

Your committee apointed to examine the condition of the Picton street bridge, Westfield, would respectfully report having examined the same and find that said Picton street has been widened and improved and that the present bridge extends only to about the center of the flag walk.

We therefore recommend that said bridge be extended to the side lines on the street on each side at a cost not to exceed $350. M. M. Scudder, John V. Cady, E. K. Adams, Committee.

Freeholder Krouse moved that the report be received and recommendations adopted, which was so ordered on roll call by a unanimous vote.

By the committee on Leland avenue bridge in Plainfield, as follows:

Elizabeth, N. J., May 3, 1906.

Gentlemen: Your committee appointed to examine the condition of the Leland avenue bridge over Green Brook, between the counties of Union and Somerset, Plainfield, would report having visited the same, in company with County Engineer Hubbard, and find the present structure to be an old wooden truss bridge which is so badly decayed, that one of the trusses is entirely rotted away and the bridge held in place and made passable, only by reason of the bracing placed under the centre of the same last fall.

In our opinion the bridge is exceedingly unsafe and should be replaced at once, and we therefore recommend that, Somerset county, concurring, the iron superstructure of the present bridge over West End avenue, Plainfield (which is about to be replaced by a concrete steel arch bridge) be re-erected on this site on new abutments at a total cost not to exceed $1,500, of $750, to the county. S. P. T. Wilbur, Geo. B. Cladek, John Robison, Geo. H. Kline, Committee. F. J. Hubbard, county engineer.

Freeholder Gruener moved that the report be received and recommendation adopted, which was so ordered on roll call by a unanimous vote.

By the committee on Scott avenue bridge, in Plainfield, as follows:

Elizabeth, N. J., May 3, 1906.

Gentlemen: Your committee appointed to examine the condition of the Scott avenue bridge, Plainfield, would report having visited the bridge and carefully examined the same finding that the wooden stringers and plank covering are badly decayed, and in need of renewal or replacing with a permanent cover; in addition to this we find that the capacity of this bridge is inadequate to carry the load during a storm or heavy rain. The two bridges above this on the same stream are each of 12 foot span, and the next one below has a span of 16 feet, while this bridge has a span of only nine and two-tenths feet. We therefore recommend that one new abutment will be constructed for the following same with a clear space of fourteen feet, and that whole be covered with "I" beams and brick arches at a cost not exceeding $1,000. S. P. T. Wilbur, W. A. Westphal, Geo. B. Cladek, John Robison, Geo. H. Kline, Committee.

Freeholder Gruener moved that the report be received and recommendation adopted, which was so ordered on roll call by a unanimous vote.

By the committee on line bridge, Elwood, Summit, N. J., as follows:

Gentlemen: Your committee in conjunction with a committee from Morris and Essex Freeholders have examined the bridge over the Passaic River, at Elwood Station, and find said bridge in an unsafe condition requiring immediate attention, and we respectfully offer the following recommendation.

Resolved, That a new plate girder and plank and concrete floored bridge, with center piers be built at an expense to Union county not to exceed $3,000.

S. P. T. Wilbur—W. H. Swain, John F. Wahl, John V. Cady, Committee.

Freeholder Woodruff moved that the report be received and resolution therein contained adopted, which was so ordered on roll call by a unanimous vote.

NEW BUSINESS.

By Freeholder Scudder: Resolved, That the director appoint a committee of three (3) members of this Board to draft resolutions appropriative to the death of Freeholder W. W. Connoly, of Westfield, and report the same at a subsequent meeting of the Board.

No objections being offered, the resolution was adopted without dissent, and the director appointed Freeholders Scudder, Kline and Robison as such committee.

By Freeholder Scudder: Resolved, That the Clerk of this board be directed to notify the town clerk of the town of Westfield, that a vacancy exists in the membership of this board for the town of Westfield, occasioned by the death of Freeholder W. W. Connoly, and that the town council is requested to take such action to fill said vacancy as is provided by law, and as they may deem advisable.

On motion of Freeholder Krouse the motion was adopted without dissent.

By Freeholder Krouse: Resolved, That when this board adjourns it stands adjourned to meet on Tuesday, May 8, 1906, at 2:30 p. m.

On motion Freeholder Chandeled the resolution was adopted without dissent.

By Freeholder Scudder: Whereas complaint has been made by adjoining property owners of damages caused to their property by reason of the small capacity and the wrong location of the present brick arch bridge on First street, near New York avenue, town of Westfield.

Resolved, That a committee of three be appointed to examine the bridge and the locality in the need of a larger and better located bridge at this place, the committee to report at the next meeting of the board.

On motion of Freeholder Woodruff, the resolution was adopted without dissent, and the director appointed said committee Freeholders Scudder, Krouse and Adams.

By Freeholder Wahl: Resolved, That a committee of five be appointed to inspect the bridge on Springfield avenue, over said brook, New Providence Borough, and report at the next meeting of this Board as to the advisability of building a new bridge, or repairing the old one, and the probable cost.

On motion of Freeholder Cladek the resolution was adopted without dissent, and the director appointed as the said committee, Freeholders Wahl, Swain, Murphy, Chandler and Meisel.

By Freeholder Woodruff: Resolved, That a committee of three be appointed to examine the bridge on Filbert street, in Roselle Park, and report the advisability and probable cost of a new bridge, at the next meeting of this Board.

On motion of Freeholder Krouse, the resolution was adopted without dissent, and the director appointed as the said committee, Freeholders Woodruff, Kline and Darby.

By Freeholder Meisel: Resolved, That the committee appointed on Van Winkle bridge, Springfield, be increased to consist of five members, instead of three, and report as to the advisability of widening the same, at the next regular meeting.

On motion of Freeholder Cladek the resolution was adopted without dissent, and the director appointed as the said committee, Freeholders Wilbur and Cladek.

By Freeholder Meisel: Resolved, That the committee of three be appointed to inspect and report the advisability of repairing a bridge on "Seven Bridge Road" in Springfield, or building a new one, and report at the next meeting of this Board with the probable cost.

On motion of Freeholder Darby, the resolution was adopted without dissent, and the director appointed as the said committee, Freeholders Meisel, Krouse and Chandler.

Freeholder Meisel calling the attention of the Board to what he claimed was at least the very unsatisfactory condition of Morris avenue, where the tracks of the Morris County Traction road have been laid. Some discussion ensued, but no action was taken.

Freeholder Adams moved to adjourn, which was carried, and director pro tem Cady declared the board adjourned until Tuesday, May 8, 1906, at 2:30 p. m.

S. RUSLING RYNO, Clerk.

LITERARY.

The solemnity and marvellous coloring of a Jerusalem sunset are so exquisitely reproduced in the June Century, from studies in oil by Corwin Knapp Linson, that it would seem as if the art of reproduction could go on further. The artist has written, to accompany his pictures, a brief description of the semi-tropical sky, "a vision of prismatic light holding carnival in the air." The June Century is a travel number. There is an account, by Wladyslaw T. Benda, of "Tatra," a mountainous region between Galicia and Hungary. There are word and picture memories of the charming river Marne from its source to Paris by Elizabeth Robins Pennell and Joseph Pennell. Harry Stillwell Edwards, author of "The Two Runaways," writes of "The Negro and the South," an optimistic, and, for a Southerner, an unusual, view of the black man in America. Another of Camille Gronkowski's papers on the historic palaces of Paris deals with the Elysee Palace, the official home of the French President; and Ernst von Hesse Wartegg describes with interesting detail the wonderful Alpine trolley partly completed through the Simplon. In this number also begins the new serial by Anne Warner, creator of the inimitable Susan Clegg. "Seeing France With Uncle John" is the title; and the first chapters promise that Uncle John will prove to be a creature full of humor. Some of the short stories—there are several of them—also have the travel spirit.

The June Lippincott's opens with "Two in a Fog," a complete novelette of compelling interest by William H. Babcock. This is a story of love and adventure around the oysterbeds of Chespeake Bay, a field which has not been overworked by the fiction mine and which abounds in material ripe to his hand. "Two in a Fog" opens in a fog and closes in a fog—yet its quality of humor is bright enough to penetrate even the atmosphere that has made London famous. Mr. Babcock's books "The Tower of Wye" and "Fort Kent Manor" met with much success and their implied promise is amply fulfilled in this new novel.

Beulah Marie Dix is one of the coterie of girl-writers of which Boston boasts. Her contribution to the June Lippincott's, "Edge o' the World," is a deeply dramatic "Glanby" tale. "Betty: Tilas Nellie Neville," by Sarah Chichester Page, is a delicious Southern home story of the comedy order, and delightful people, told by a bright Southern woman. A jolly Irish story, "Peter O'Forus," by Margaret Sullivan Burke, deals with a confusion of sweethearts through the innocent intervention of a kiss. "Art or Nature" is another one of the inimitable "Miss Lucy" stories of child-life which have appeared from time to time in Lippincott's. Lucy Copinger, the author, is a Baltimore schoolteacher of marked originality. Col. Willard French, U. S. A., tells of an incident on the Australia bush under the title "In the Court of Last Resort."

Not Quite Perfect.

"I had to get rid of that red-headed girl."

"Wasn't she capable?"

"Oh, yes; but she insisted on being referred to as the type-lady."—Puck.

Air! Air! Everywhere.

Church—A man is safe from automobiles in the subway.

Gotham—Yes, but there are other smells, you know.—Yonkers Statesman.

STEEPLECHASE ENTRIES FIVE CHIEFS TO MEET HERE NEXT MONTH

Many Fine Entries Listed in the Events of Hunt Club's Annual Affair.

STEWARDS SELECTED

Harry S. Page to Represent National Association—Meet Takes Place On May 30 and June 2.

Entries for all but the farmer's race have been received by Dr. M. O'M. Knott for the second annual steeplechase meeting to be held at the Gentlemen's Driving Park on Memorial Day afternoon and Saturday afternoon, June 2. They show that some of the best horses in the Metropolitan district have been entered in the several classes, thus assuring a fine meet. The races will begin at 2 o'clock in the afternoon on both days of the meet.

All of the private boxes and parking spaces have been sold and there are a few reserved seats left which must be spoken for at an early date if wanted. From present indications there is sure to be many out-of-town people at the meet and the Watchung Hunt Club anticipates that the affair will be one of the best ever held in this part of the country. The meet will be held under the rules of the National Steeplechase and Hunt Association and Harry S. Page will be present to represent the association. The stewards of the meet will be H. Tenyck Greathmey, H. L. Herbert and Julian M. Gerard, of New York; Charles Pfizer, Jr., of Glastone, and P. F. Collier, of Meadowbrook.

The list of entries is as follows:

Nethermead Jumping—Ponies; weight 150 pounds; about three furlongs on the track—Joseph F. Galins, Jr.'s "Heen;" Allan Pinkerton's "Victory Belle;" S. VanSchaick's ——; A. S. Soule's "Moonlight Maid."

Hack or hunter race—Steeplechase for hunters; weight 172 pounds; half-breds allowed twelve pounds; about two miles over a fair hunting country—Ends E. Schmidt's "Flick;" H. A. Bourne's "Red Light;" Dr. M. O'M. Knott's "Custum-in-Parvo;" G. White and Jr.'s "Castlebar;" W. Fisk's "Apple Jack;" S. Harold Freeman's "Telephone;" Robert R. Howards' "Boo-Bar;" Charles D. Freeman's "Strongheart."

Middlesex cup—Steeplechase for hunters; weight 172 pounds; half breds allowed twelve pounds; about two and a half miles over a fair hunting country—Robert R. Howard's "Boo-Bar;" S. Harold Freeman's "Woxford;" Peter Hauck, Jr.'s "Arch Light;" Charles Pfizer, Jr.'s "Silent Bliss," and "Bacchanal;" S. VanSchaick's "Adjutor;" Louis Balfer's "Tobasso."

Hillside cup—Steeplechase for qualified hunters; weight 167 pounds; half breds allowed twelve ponds; about two and a half miles over a fair hunting country—Malcolm Stevenson's "Colonel;" Charles Pfizer, Jr.'s "Silentia;" and "Precious;" Louis Balfer's "Rosebank" and "Kersey."

Westfield cup—Flat race for galloways; weight 160 pounds; about five furlongs on the track—Peter Hauck, Jr.'s "Heen;" Allan Pinkerton's "Victory Belle;" Charles Pfizer, Jr.'s "Trespass;" S. VanSchaick's "Blue Print."

Master's cup—Steeplechase for hunters; weight 172 pounds; half breds allowed twelve pounds; about three miles over a fair hunting country—Robert R. Howard's "Boo-Bar;" S. Harold Freeman's "Ionian;" C. W. Cowdin's "Cornelia;" G. White, Jr.'s "Castlebar;" Dr. M. O'M. Knott's "Multum-In-Parvo;" Charles D. Freeman's "Strongheart;" G. M. Jeffery, Jr.'s "Lucy Glitters."

Union cup—Flat race for hacks or hunters; weight 167 pounds; half breds allowed twelve pounds; about seven furlongs on the track—Leon S. Freeman's "Red Girl;" Allan Pinkerton's "Come On;" Charles Pfizer, Jr.'s "Ellerslie" and "Perfion;" S. VanSchaick's "Blue Print;" John Cheever Cowdin's "Anticipation;" Louis Balfer's "Kersey."

Somerset cup—Steeplechase for half bred hunters; weight 160 pounds; about three miles over fair hunting country—Calcolm Stevenson's "Maple Leaf;" David Dow's "Wexford;" Peter Hauck, Jr.'s "Arch Light;" Charles Pfizer, Jr.'s "Ninette;" Ends E. Schmidt's "Flick;" Chauncey B. Sayre's "Gloucester;" Louis Balfer's "Rosband."

Oak Tree cup—Steeplechase for hunters; weight 165 pounds; half breds allowed twelve pounds; about three miles over a fair hunting country—Malcolm Stevenson's "Colonel;" Peter Hauck, Jr.'s "Harry G;" Charles Pfizer, Jr.'s "Silent Bliss," and "Bacchanal;" H. A. Bourne's "Red Light;" S. VanSchaick's "Adjutor;" Louis Balfer's "Tobasso."

STATE ORGANIZATION DECIDES ON PLAINFIELD AS CONVENTION PLACE.

The New Jersey State Fire Chiefs, the organization composed of the heads of the departments throughout the State, have decided to hold their semi-annual meeting in this city on June 12. The final arrangements were made by Chief Doane and Chief John Stagg, of Paterson, yesterday.

Chief Stagg is president of the organization and he will have charge of the gathering. It is thought about forty members will be in attendance in all and they will meet in Exempt Firemens Hall on Park avenue. Chief Doane has no especial plan for the entertainment of the visitors but it is possible that one of the local associations interested in fire department matters will uphold Plainfield's reputation for "doing the right thing."

ORDERS ISSUED FOR GUARDS' RIFLE PRACTICE.

General orders No. 6, in regard to rifle practice, have just been issued from the division headquarters of the National Guard of New Jersey and are as follows:

1. Under the recommendation of the inspector general of rifle practice, the following instructions for rifle practice for the season of 1906 will be complied with:

2. The camp of instruction in rifle practice will, pursuant to general, Trenton, May 7, 1906, continue from May 1, 1906, to September 30, 1906.

3. The inspector general of rifle practice may assign dates, during the period named in paragraph 2, on which officers and men will be permitted practice at their own expense. On arriving at Seat IGrt, they will report to the officer in command of the range to be subject to his orders until excused or dismissed.

4. Ammunition will be issued by the quartermaster general upon the requisition of the inspector general of rifle practice.

5. Officers will be given an opportunity to qualify with the revolver at times when their services are not required for other duties. Officers as instructors, and have qualified as sharpshooters.

7. Special attention is hereby called to section 38, general orders No. 5, office adjutant general, Trenton, April 8, 1904. Surgeons must remain on duty at all times while any of their command is on the range.

8. Sixty-five per cent. of the strength of each organization must have reported on the range for rifle practice during the season. Organizations failing to make this minimum will be reported to the division commander by the inspector general of rifle practice "as having ceased to be useful" (par. 19, G. O. No. 2, office Adjutant general, March 26, 1900).

9. It is directed that all rifle practice, if not made while in the several organizations are in camp.

10. Application for assignments of companies to practice while troops are in camp will be made by the commanding officers through the brigadier general to the inspector general of rifle practice prior to the date of the arrival of the troops in camp.

11. The inspector general of rifle practice will, according to the range facilities, subdivide the time of each organization in camp, so that all will have an opportunity to practice.

12. Companies ordered to the rifle range will be relieved of all other drills and camp duties until all practice of such companies is finished.

By command of Major General Wanser.

THOMAS S. CHAMBERS,
Assistant Adjutant General.

Official:

RUTGERS COMMENCEMENT.

New President to Be Installed—Record Class to Be Graduated.

Rutgers College, at New Brunswick, will graduate on June 20 fifty seniors, the largest graduating class in the history of the college. On Commencement Day the President-elect, the Rev. Dr. W. H. S. Demarest, will be inaugurated at 10.30 a. m.

The Class Day exercises will be held on June 19. The officers are: Orator, M. T. L. Kain; poet, R. D. Johnson; presenter of members, F. W. Wardell; prophet, H. K. Doane; orator of the Sophomore class, Adolph Brocker; presenter of class memorial, H. M. Fohs; address to undergraduates, Louis Berler, 3d; address to president, H. W. Nobb; tree orator, A. A. Devan; tree planter, C. S. Brinkerhoff; pipe orator, H. H. Febrey; historian, H. M. Brown.

Choir Boys to Give a Concert.

The choir of Holy Cross church is busy preparing for its first annual concert and play which will be given under the direction of H. Raymond Loder, the choir master, early in June at the parish house of the church. The proceeds will be for the outing fund of the choir.

BOOM HALL FOR MAYOR

Friends Suggest Netherwood Man For Municipality's Highest Office.

EXECUTIVE ABILITY

Mr. Hall Is Head of Large Corporation—Identified With Local Institutions and Is Prominent Socially.

Friends of Henry L. Hall, of Netherwood, have brought his name forward in connection with the Republican nomination for the mayoralty next fall. He is to be pushed for the nomination, it is understood, without regard to what other candidates may be suggested from different quarters.

Mr. Hall is regarded as one of the best types of clean-cut young men of proved business and executive ability, who have come to be looked upon as the most desirable timber for municipal offices. Mr. Hall has not been approached regarding his candidacy, and probably has had no hint of the boom his friends have started, but the latter feel certain that he will not shy away from the duty of accepting the nomination if the honor should be conferred upon him.

Henry L. Hall.

Mr. Hall is well known among the substantial citizens of the city. He is president of the New York Steamfitting Company, a large corporation, and a business man of proved ability, with an enviable reputation for executive capacity and brains. He is prominent in the social life of this city, and has done many things that mark the philanthropist. In philanthropy, it is well to mention, he does not work with a brass band and an advertising contract.

Mr. Hall moved to this city about seven years ago, from Fanwood. He takes an active interest in civic affairs.

"It is not believed that any objection will be found to Mr. Hall as a candidate from any quarter," said one of his friends this morning. "So far as the organization is concerned, there is no doubt of his Republicanism, and the unattached Republicans know him to be a man with a rigid code of ethics and a strong spirit of independence."

G. A. R. ENCAMPMENT TO BE HELD AT PATERSON.

Past Department Commander Smith and Other Plainfielders to Attend.

Past Department Commander William C. Smith, of Grandview avenue, together with other members of Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., are planning to attend the annual department encampment to be held at Paterson on June 14 and 15. Great preparations are being made by the people of Paterson to give the visitors a hearty reception and the encampments promises to be one of the best in the history of the organization.

The big parade of the veterans will take place the first day of the encampment and will be reviewed by Major O. O. Howard, Brig. Gen. Frederick D. Grant and other military notables, besides the city and State officials. The city will be elaborately decorated, the adornment to include several electric arches erected at various places in the streets.

One evening of the encampment a campfire will take place in the State armory at Paterson, which, it is expected, will surpass any ever held in the department of New Jersey. An elaborate banquet will be served, a splendid programme of music will be rendered and prominent speakers will make speeches. The regular business of the encampment will be transacted on June 15. The reports will show that the department is prosperous, though, of course, owing to the advanced age of the veterans there is a thinning out in the number, by death, no increase in membership can be shown.

It is expected that Comrade Atkinson, of Elizabeth, who was assistant adjutant general under Department Commander Atwood, of Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., of this city, will be elected department commander.

In connection with the G. A. R. encampment, the Women's Relief Corps will hold its annual convention.

Paul Brakeley's fractured rib is mending nicely. He will, however, be unable to play ball for some time.

PROTECTION FOR BALL MANAGERS

LEADING CLUBS DECLARE WAR AGAINST STRONG-SCHLICHTER SYNDICATE.

With the object of protecting themselves from unscrupulous managers and contract jumpers, the managers of all of the leading independent baseball teams in and around New York have organized the Inter-State Baseball Managers' Association. The officers are William Rafter, sporting editor of the Brooklyn Standard Union, president, and Joseph P. Reydel, manager of the Loughlin Oval team, secretary. Among the managers who have affiliated with the new organization are those of the following clubs: Hoboken, St. Johns, Cedars, Ridgewoods, Cuban X-Giants, Havana, Cuban Stars, St. Michaels, Loughlin Lyceum, Elizabeth Stars, All Nationals, Amsterdams, Poughkeepsie, Pottstown, Watertown, Xavier, Trenton, Perth Amboy, Philadelphia Quaker Giants, Central Dilips and others.

The organization is the result of the unreasonable demands and practices of the syndicate engineered by Nat Strong, of New York, and Walter Schlichter, of Philadelphia. This combination won the enmity of the independent managers by stealing players, repudiating contracts and demanding outrageous guarantees for their clubs. The managers got together and obtained players from the syndicate clubs. None of the clubs in the Association will play under the management of Nat Strong, and Schlichter will not secure a date for any park controlled by the Strong-Schlichter interests. The managers declare that it will be impossible for Nat Strong out of baseball, as the most of the parks in and around New York are controlled by him. Strong has also been instrumental in having baseball legislation introduced in the legislatures of New York and Pennsylvania, which will prohibit baseball on any day when a game is played within five miles of the baseball park. This legislation is aimed at the Sunday baseball games played by the Strong-Schlichter clubs in Philadelphia and Brooklyn. The managers declare that they will fight the Strong-Schlichter syndicate to the finish.

JOHN HAY'S ADAPTABILITY.

Faculty Which Gave the Late Secretary of State the Open Sesame to Success.

Many stories are told of the late secretary of state, John Hay, to illustrate the remarkable good fortune which was his in finding at the completion of every task a new one awaiting him, which was an advance in his profession and an opportunity to develop himself. Most chapters in his career, says Youth's Companion, illustrate also the marvelous adaptability which made it possible for him to take instant advantage of every opportunity which offered.

When he was a young man acting as President Lincoln's assistant private secretary, Hay met Whitelaw Reid, then a war correspondent. In the years between 1865 and 1870 Mr. Reid rose rapidly, and became managing editor of the New York Tribune under Horace Greeley.

In that year Hay, a young man of but 23, resigned his position as charge d'affaires in Madrid, returned to New York, and there met Reid again and talked with him. Later they walked down to the Tribune office.

It chanced that the foreign editor was away that day—Hay's inevitable good fortune—and in the cable messages which came to the managing editor was one of exceed l importance.

"There," he said to Hay, "sit down and write me a leader for to-morrow on this thing."

Half in jest, but entirely competent, Hay complied. The article proved excellent—Hay and accepted the opportunity. Reid asked him to stay a week, then a month and so John Hay entered journalism. Without a day's apprenticeship, without solicitation or suspension on his part, when he was in fact on the way to Illinois, where he expected to take up the practice of law, he found himself in a place which [illegible] of practical bearing pre[illegible] says President Schurman, [illegible] in the Cornell Sun. Inter[illegible] languages has now largely abated, even with persons who make a study of them. The student is merely supposed to get his [illegible] from Greek and Latin; English is studied incidentally. Now the study of English is predominant in the [illegible] colleges. This should not be considered, however, as a disparagement of the progress of American culture; it should be remembered that the Greeks themselves wrought out their wonderful culture, literature and art entirely without the aid of a foreign language. The schoolboys of Greece were required to commit to memory the best poems of the language—namely the poems of Homer and Hesiod, the ultimate thoughts, conceptions and finally their

POSTAGE-STAMP TONGUE.

Disorder Resulting from the Unclean Habit of Licking the Stamps.

"A number of ailments, some of them extremely dangerous, are comprised under the general head of postage-stamp tongue," said a physician. "Postage-stamp tongue, in a word, is any disorder contracted from the licking of postage stamps.

"Two or four persons a week visit me with postage-stamp tongues. They have a throat trouble, or a skin disease, or a pulmonary complaint, brought on by the reckless habit of stamp licking.

"A stamp should never be licked, as its gummed surface is always suspicious and pulsating with germs. If any licking is to be done, let it be applied to the right-hand corner of the envelope, where the stamp goes, for there the germs are apt to be sparser.

"To be safe, the tongue should never be applied to either envelope or stamp. A damp sponge should be used in the tongue's stead."

Billion of Nickels.

More than a billion passengers were carried on the surface, elevated and subway roads of Greater New York last year. The exact number of paid fares was 1,171,151,698, an increase of 82,482,451. Of these fewer than a quarter were transferred. The increase in transfers fell far below the increase in paid fares, which is somewhat accounted for by the increased evasion of the free-transfer law by the transportation companies. On the basis of total city mileage there were six passengers paying a five-cent fare for every mile that a car traveled. Increase in car mileage about kept pace with the increase in passengers, showing that the cars are now crowded to the limit of traffic.—N. Y. World.

France's Young Cabinet.

Though not perhaps quite so young as the cabinet of Mr. Balfour in England, which was, in this respect, a striking departure from tradition, the new ministry formed in France by M. Sarrien cannot be considered old. The premier, M. Sarrien, is himself its "patriarch," and he is only 66. M. Clemenceau comes next in order with 65, and he is followed by M. Etienne, the war minister, who is 61. Then comes the men in their fifties, M. Thomson and M. Bourgeois. None of the rest are yet out of their forties. Of these M. Ruau is the youngest. He is only 41.

Surf Birds Travel Far.

That birds of the family termed surf birds in the Hawaiian islands should leave that paradise of the Pacific to go and rear their young in the cundras of Alaska would seem to many an extraordinary proceeding. Yet the turnstone and the black-bellied plover and the Pacific golden plover make the long journey of about 4,000 miles thither annually.

STRENGTH OF OPEN SKY.

The Great Things of Earth Are Conceived in the Free Outof-Doors.

What great deed was ever done indoors? What great thing of the earth is art, in science, in romance was ever conceived and brought forth within walls? Pathos grows there, and small tragedy, and bitterness and pessimism; but not great tragedy, nor the vast and useful pessimism which uplifts human nature and humanity, writes Emerson Hough, in the Reader. The joyous, hopeful, optimistic things, the large and cheerful motives, are found here, and in the sky. The Indians say that the babe born in the wind will be chief, and that might well be so. What strong blood ever grew indoors? What great drama of the ages was ever played there? What duel on field of arms equaled the battle under the trees? Science may delve, lamp wise; but what great things even of science came wholly from within walls? Electricity, navigation by the stars—the things which have really conquered the world—did they not all come to us to be studied at some table side? No, the great and sweet things of knowledge came from the naked stars. Gulty and troublous wisdom may have housing, concealment, and so make confession that it is evil; but before guilty Eden knowledge was out of doors.

ENGLISH AS A CLASSIC.

Study of the Language Is Now Predominant in American Colleges.

[illegible] go the education of a [illegible] gained itself eminently of Latin, Greek, philosophy, mathematics, while now history, economics and [illegible]s of practical bearing pre[illegible] says President Schurman, [illegible] in the Cornell Sun. Inter[illegible] languages has now largely abated, even with persons who make a study of them. The student is merely supposed to get his [illegible] from Greek and Latin; English is studied incidentally. Now the study of English is predominant in the [illegible]an colleges. This should not be considered, however, as a disparagement of the progress of American culture; it should be remembered that the Greeks themselves wrought out their wonderful culture, literature and art entirely without the aid of a foreign language. The schoolboys of Greece were required to commit to memory the best poems of the language—namely the poems of Homer and Hesiod, the ultimate thoughts, conceptions and finally their

VERSE OF THE DAY.

An Idyl of the Autumn.

Take off your coat, the ore of daily wear,
And don a jumper, give your hands and brace
Your moral being. See if you can bear
The coming ordeal with a smiling face.
No naughty adverbs will you use, I trust;
Contain yourself to "Goodness me!" and "Fudge!"
For only one time approaches when you must Put up the stove.

Though the stepladder covers heath your weight;
And jackknives, as stepladders often will,
Though common languages seems inadequate
Just whistle and preserve your temper still.
Though the loose wire clings like an octopus
Around your neck, and sorrow fills your cup
You yet may put, without unseemly fuss,
That stovepipe up.

The sections, though your fingers they may slip,
And fall apart from time to time may fit;
Don't dampen them in wrath and clasp and rip.
For such proceedings will not help a bit.
The stovepipe, left in a little while
Be very calm and patient, I entreat.
Take all that happens with a cheerful smile
And
I use steam heat.
—Chicago News.

The Antiseptic Thumb.

We can sterilize his bottles, we can boil his little mug,
We can kill his flannel bandages and disinfect the rug
That envelops him when he partakes of food or drink;
But there's one impossibility that leaves us in despair—
And a most unjustifiable alarm, you will allow—
To-wit: We fear 'twould never do to sterilize the cow!

We are careful of his hours, we are thoughtful of his toys,
We are quick to share his sorrows and judicious of his joys,
We are prayerfully considerate of needful sleep,
Of our little "Mother's Handbook" and the precepts writ therein,
And we set at utter loss sterile all destined for mouth or tum,
But one frightful danger menaces—we can't sterilize his thumb.
—Harper's Magazine.

The Tree Tavern.

In the Tavern of the Tree,
Listen to the revelry!
Mark the merry minstrel there,
Seated in the topmost chair,
At his cups the whole day long,
Paying toll with silvery song.
Every draught he takes is drawn
From the cellars of the Dawn;
Fragrant dew from flowery flasks,
Amber air from fairy casks,
Brought from Araby, and bright
With the Orient's golden light;
Spicery of buds and vines
Flavors his delicious wines.
Is it strange his lyrics hold
So much of the summer's gold?
Rapture of the roses caught,
Into music deftly wrought;
Rum and rhubarb of the hills
All translated in his trills;
Every sweet, enchanted thing
In his glasses made to sing.
Ah, my mocking bird, drink on
Till the happy day is gone;
Till the pale moon rising up
Drops the stars down in your cup.
—Frank D. Sherman, in Metropolitan

A Kansas Sunset.

It is the sunset hour, and floods of light
Pour their full radiance o'er the western sky,
Giving the clouds a glory new and bright,
Of crimson robes and roses of Tyrian dye.

It is the sunset hour, and nature say
Is hushed in slumber solemn and sublime,
As is the last moments of departing day
Drop slowly, gently from the hand of time.

Now fades the brightness, and the veil of night
Ensshrouds the splendor of the rosy West;
While all the stars upon their thrones of light
Glitter like jewels in a monarch's crest.

The brightness fades, and yet a lingering ray,
With shining finger touches yonder height
And dies with gold the passing day.
And the still beauty of the coming night.
—Carrie M. Baker, in Colorado Springs Gazette.

Fall Not in Mobiseus.

Although my feet may never walk your ways,
No other eyes will follow you so far,
No voice rise loud to sing your praises,
Till the swift coming of time forbids my days
When the world knows you for the man you are.

You must go on and I must stay behind;
Walk strong and steadfastly before mankind,
Because my heart must follow till you die.

Steadfastly and strongly, scorning mean success,
Leading all others—to yourself severe;
If you must fall, fall not in nobleness.
God knows all other failure I could bear.
That one day you look to find your weapons here.
—Scribner's Magazine.

Thistledown.

Along the way it tarries here and there
Heading for nowhere in particular,
First it goes ramming around the mossy bar
And then a-down the dusty thoroughfare,
Its silver whiskers sleek and debonnair
One moment monkey with the daisy star
Then like the steam drift from a samovar
It swirls about and doesn't seem to care
A continental where it goes so long
As it's quite happy on its merry way.
The like of women who day's wave-crest tops
When idly floating on the wings of song
She pauses everywhere among the gay
Objects for which she fondly lives and hopes.
—Puck.

Thanksgiving.

Let us be thankful for the fruit and hard
That love held out in welcome to our own,
When love and only love could understand
The aloed of sorrows we had never known.

Let us be thankful for the longing eyes
That gave their answer to us as they wept,
Yet in return found, with a sweet surprise,
Love's kiss upon their lids and, smiling, slept.

And let us, too, be thankful that the years
Of sorrow have not all been drained away,
That through them still, for all the coming years,
We may look on the dead face of To-day.
—James Whitcomb Riley, in The Reader.

FOR THE GENTLER SEX

CARE OF JEWELS.

Many American women possess the value of a king's ransom locked within their jewel case.

The possession of such priceless articles is a constant source of worry unless the proper precautions are taken to insure their safe keeping.

To enjoy any peace the owner of valuable jewelry must:

First, send it to the jeweler every six months.

Second, Keep the most valuable things in the bank, says the Philadelphia Bulletin.

Third, having a routine for removing and putting away jewels.

Fourth, have a distinct receptacle for each ornament, so that an empty space tells at once if it is missing.

Fifth, insure all valuables against theft.

Sixth, if a loss is discovered and an advertisement printed, offer a sufficient reward.

It is not only thieves one has to guard against for the protection of their jewels, but the valuables themselves require constant attention.

Large and heavy stones must be looked at frequently by a jeweler or the setting becomes loosened and the stone falls out and is lost.

Turquoise must never be allowed to touch soap or grease, though Orientals sometimes say it improves them to lie for an hour or so in clear, cold water.

Pearls need wearing, and to improve the condition of their skin nothing is better than to place them in a tumbler of sea water, and put the tumbler in the sun.

People suffering from certain diseases must never wear pearls. They have been known when set in a ring to perish down to their settings. Those taking certain drugs must lay their pearls aside for the time, or they will discolor.

When arriving at a hotel the best thing to do is to give all jewels, money and valuables at once into the keeping of the manager.

If jewels are properly cared for they should be thoroughly examined by an expert every six months to make sure that the setting, the ping, and the fastenings are in good order.

It is a dangerous place to pack valuables in a small hand bag unless that bag is fastened to the wrist or waist, for nothing is easier to forget than a little bag when hurrying to catch a train.

When removing a ring it is advisable to take notice that brooches are not unclasped. Valuable jewels are often unfastened by the contact of an outer garment.

LOVE IN REAL LIFE.

If a novelist ended a story the way a real life love story has ended in Providence, R. I., the women would say, "How cruel!" Twenty years ago W. R. Smith married an 18-year-old girl. He was 53 years old at the time. They have now two grown up children and Mrs. Smith has fallen in love with a young man by the name of Alexander Dupuy. Mr. Smith instead of making a fuss over it talked it over with his wife and her lover. He said he was 73 years old and wanted a home; that if they were bound to love each other he would secure a divorce, but wanted to make his home with them. They agreed and all live in the same house. The father is devoted to his children and his wife is devoted to her new husband.

A Boston love story which has found its way into the papers tells how Grover Cleveland White, 18 years old, was engaged to Juinette Swanson. The two quarrelled and Juinette talked sassy to him. Her mother took his part and besides that her mother cooked his meals, mended his clothes and washed and ironed for him. He has married the mother. She is 42 years old, but her young husband says she does not look more than 25.—Atchison Globe.

DRYING THE HAIR.

More important, perhaps, than the washing is the drying of the hair, says the Brooklyn Times. This should be done with warm, soft towels. Never use Turkish towels, as they are very apt to tangle the hair and catch it in their meshes, thus putting it out. They are more apt also to leave lint on the head than are towels with a smooth surface. Always dry your hair, if possible, in the sun, as this gives a gloss and sheen than can be obtained in no other way. Let the direct rays shine upon it, and never put it up until it is as dry as before you washed it. In drying the hair it is well to grasp it by the ends and shake it, as in this way the moisture is more quickly evaporated.

SETTLING THE COFFEE.

Few persons are left who use egg for settling boiled coffee. Boiled coffee, by the way, is a misnomer, for no good coffee is ever boiled. It is brought only to the boiling point and checked there. But the so called coffee, a term which distinguishes it from the drip kind, settles itself without any difficulty if handled carefully and left to stand a couple of minutes before pouring. A tablespoon or two of cold water turned in at the last minute is a safeguard, but is seldom, if ever, necessary.

Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Van Winkle, of West End avenue, entertained relatives from Brooklyn over Sunday.

PLAINFIELD LIBRARY NOTES

Stories of Revolutionary Times.

Athertch, Mrs. C. F. H.—The Conquerer.

Alexander Ham'ton, 1757-1804.

Austin, Mrs. J. C.—Dr. Le Baron and his daughters.

Massachusetts.

Barnes, James—For king or country.

New Jersey.

Blanchard, Amy E.—Girl of '76.

Boston.

Blanchard, Amy E.—Revolutionary maid.

Middle period.

Brady, C. T.—For love of country.

Trenton and Princeton campaigns. 1776-1777.

Brady, C. T.—Grip of honor.

"Serapis" and "Bon Homme Richard."

Butterworth, Hezekiah — Patriot schoolmaster.

Boston, 1770-1776.

Chambers, R. W.—Cardigan.

Lexington, 1775.

Chambers, R. W.—Maid at arms.

Battle of Oriskany, 1777.

Churchill, Winston—Richard Carvel.

Maryland.

Coffin, C. C.—Daughters of the Revolution.

1765-1776.

Cooper, J. F.—Chain-bearer.

Early history of New York frontier life, 1750-1826.

Cooper, J. F.—Lionel Lincoln; or, the leaguer of Boston.

Study of local history in the year of 1775, containing an accurate narrative of the Battle of Bunker Hill.

Cooper, J. F.—The Pilot.

The daring exploits of the famous American rover, Paul Jones, in English waters, about the year 1775, furnish the theme.

Cooper, J. F.—Spy, a tale of the neutral ground.

Washington's spy.

Eccleston, C. C.—Carolina cavalier.

Carolina campaign.

Ford, P. L.—Janice Meredith.

A story of the American revolution.

Frederick, Harold—In the valley. Life among the Dutch of the Mohawk valley, the battle of Oriskany, etc., 1757-'80.

Harrison, Mrs. C. C.—Son of the old dominion.

Early Revolutionary period.

Harte, F. B.—Thankful Blossim. Camp at Morristown, 1779.

Henty, C. A.—True to the old flag. A tale of the American war of independence from the English view point.

Hoppus, M. A. M.—Great treason, a story of the War of Independence. Ide, Mrs. F. O. O.—Loyal little red coat.

New York, 1772-1783.

Jewett, S. O.—Tory lover.

The famous American rover, Paul Jones.

Kennedy, J. P.—Horse-shoe Robinson.

South Carolina, 1780.

Mitchell, S. W.—Hugh Wynne.

General survey of Revolutionary times.

Perry, Nora—Three little daughters of the revolution.

Roe, E. P.—Near to nature's heart.

New York State.

Seawell, M. E.—Paul Jones.

Stoddard, W. O.—Guert Ten Eyck. A hero story of Revolutionary times.

Thackeray, W. M.—Virginians.

Braddock's campaign and the revolution. 1755-1783.

Thompson, D. P.—Green Mountain boys.

Historical tale of the early settlement of Vermont. 1770-1779.

Thompson, J. M.—Alice of old Vincennes.

Capture of Vincennais, Ind., 1779.

Tomlinson, E. T.—In the hands of the red coats.

Prison ship "Jersey."

Tomlinson, E. T.—Jersey boy in the Revolution.

Battle of Monmouth, 1778.

Tomlinson, E. T.—Lieutenant under Washington.

A tale of the Brandywine and Germantown.

Tomlinson, E. T.—Rider of the black horse.

The American Revolution.

Tomlinson, E. T.—The colonial boys.

The American Revolution.

Tomlinson, E. T.—Three young continentals.

A story of the Revolution.

Tomlinson, E. T.—Two young patriots.

Burgoyne's invasion, 1777.

Tomlinson, E. T.—Under colonial colors.

A tale of Arnold's expedition in 1777.

Winthrop, Theo.—Edwin Brothertoft.

Get Busy, Young Man.

Miss Yerner—Mr. Hussel was going to call on me this evening, but he heard you were to be here.

Mr. Sloman—Ah! perhaps you would have found more pleasure in his visit.

Miss Yerner—Well, I don't know that his visit would mean so much pleasure, but I'm sure it would mean business.

Of Joy.

"Yes, he's making a fortune publishing popular music."

"I didn't think there was so much money in that."

"But he has devised a new scheme. He prints it in such a way that it fades off the paper as soon as it becomes unpopular."

PLAINFIELD LIBRARY NOTES

Stories of Revolutionary Times.

Athertch, Mrs. C. F. H.—The Conquerer.

Alexander Ham'ton, 1757-1804.

Austin, Mrs. J. C.—Dr. Le Baron and his daughters.

Massachusetts.

Barnes, James—For king or country.

New Jersey.

Blanchard, Amy E.—Girl of '76.

Boston.

Blanchard, Amy E.—Revolutionary maid.

Middle period.

Brady, C. T.—For love of country.

Trenton and Princeton campaigns. 1776-1777.

Brady, C. T.—Grip of honor.

"Serapis" and "Bon Homme Richard."

Butterworth, Hezekiah — Patriot schoolmaster.

Boston, 1770-1776.

Chambers, R. W.—Cardigan.

Lexington, 1775.

Chambers, R. W.—Maid at arms.

Battle of Oriskany, 1777.

Churchill, Winston—Richard Carvel.

Maryland.

Coffin, C. C.—Daughters of the Revolution.

1765-1776.

Cooper, J. F.—Chain-bearer.

Early history of New York frontier life, 1750-1826.

Cooper, J. F.—Lionel Lincoln; or, the leaguer of Boston.

Study of local history in the year of 1775, containing an accurate narrative of the Battle of Bunker Hill.

Cooper, J. F.—The Pilot.

The daring exploits of the famous American rover, Paul Jones, in English waters, about the year 1775, furnish the theme.

Cooper, J. F.—Spy, a tale of the neutral ground.

Washington's spy.

Eccleston, C. C.—Carolina cavalier.

Carolina campaign.

Ford, P. L.—Janice Meredith.

A story of the American revolution.

Frederick, Harold—In the valley. Life among the Dutch of the Mohawk valley, the battle of Oriskany, etc., 1757-'80.

Harrison, Mrs. C. C.—Son of the old dominion.

Early Revolutionary period.

Harte, F. B.—Thankful Blossim. Camp at Morristown, 1779.

Henty, C. A.—True to the old flag. A tale of the American war of independence from the English view point.

Hoppus, M. A. M.—Great treason, a story of the War of Independence. Ide, Mrs. F. O. O.—Loyal little red coat.

New York, 1772-1783.

Jewett, S. O.—Tory lover.

The famous American rover, Paul Jones.

Kennedy, J. P.—Horse-shoe Robinson.

South Carolina, 1780.

Mitchell, S. W.—Hugh Wynne.

General survey of Revolutionary times.

Perry, Nora—Three little daughters of the revolution.

Roe, E. P.—Near to nature's heart.

New York State.

Seawell, M. E.—Paul Jones.

Stoddard, W. O.—Guert Ten Eyck. A hero story of Revolutionary times.

Thackeray, W. M.—Virginians.

Braddock's campaign and the revolution. 1755-1783.

Thompson, D. P.—Green Mountain boys.

Historical tale of the early settlement of Vermont. 1770-1779.

Thompson, J. M.—Alice of old Vincennes.

Capture of Vincennais, Ind., 1779.

Tomlinson, E. T.—In the hands of the red coats.

Prison ship "Jersey."

Tomlinson, E. T.—Jersey boy in the Revolution.

Battle of Monmouth, 1778.

Tomlinson, E. T.—Lieutenant under Washington.

A tale of the Brandywine and Germantown.

Tomlinson, E. T.—Rider of the black horse.

The American Revolution.

Tomlinson, E. T.—The colonial boys.

The American Revolution.

Tomlinson, E. T.—Three young continentals.

A story of the Revolution.

Tomlinson, E. T.—Two young patriots.

Burgoyne's invasion, 1777.

Tomlinson, E. T.—Under colonial colors.

A tale of Arnold's expedition in 1777.

Winthrop, Theo.—Edwin Brothertoft.

Get Busy, Young Man.

Miss Yerner—Mr. Hussel was going to call on me this evening, but he heard you were to be here.

Mr. Sloman—Ah! perhaps you would have found more pleasure in his visit.

Miss Yerner—Well, I don't know that his visit would mean so much pleasure, but I'm sure it would mean business.

Of Joy.

"Yes, he's making a fortune publishing popular music."

"I didn't think there was so much money in that."

"But he has devised a new scheme. He prints it in such a way that it fades off the paper as soon as it becomes unpopular."

MISS CRUIKSHANK'S WEDDING PLANS MADE

HER MARRIAGE TO H. REEVESTOCKTON TO TAKE PLACE ON JUNE 6.

An event of unusual interest not only to Plainfield society, but society people of many eastern and western cities, will be the wedding of Miss Leila Moore Cruikshank, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Simeon Ayres Cruikshank, of Belvidere avenue, and H. Reeve Stockton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry M. Stockton, of Central avenue, which is to take place in Grace church, Wednesday evening, June 6, at 6 o'clock.

The bridal party will include Mrs. C. W. Hobart, as matron-of-honor; Miss Helen Moore Cruikshank, as maid-of-honor; Miss Evelyn Cruikshank, of Montclair; Miss Jane Geisha, Miss Elsie Dixon, of Chicago; Miss Agnes Dunlap, of Philadelphia; Miss Helen Sylvester, of Haverford, Penn., and Miss Virginia Iredell, of Cincinnati, as bridesmaids; T. Earle Stockton, brother of the groom, as best man; Morris J. Dumont, Willard Wadsworth, George Schoonmaker, Charles W. Fisk, Raymond A. McGee, of this city; Markley Stevenson, of Wyncotte, Penn., as ushers. Miss Helen Moore Lancaster, of Brooklyn, and Miss Ethel Schellenger, of Wyncotte, Penn., will act as flower girl and page.

A large number of invitations have ben issued to the church and the reception to follow the ceremony at the home of the bride's parents. Both Miss Cruikshank and Mr. Stockton are prominent in society circles here and elsewhere. They are devotees of golf, being members of the Plainfield Country Club; and they are both very fond of horseback riding, owning several prize animals.

EAST JERSEY PLAYERS ON LOCAL COURTS

Result of First Day Contest in Men's Doubles at Plainfield Country Club.

Twenty couples entered the men's doubles tournament, under the auspices of the East Jersey Lawn Tennis Association, which began on the courts of the Plainfield Country Club on Saturday afternoon, and the spectators were permitted to see some fine playing. The cool heat in its effect on the attendance here as everywhere else, and the gallery was not as large as hoped for. The result of the opening play was as follows:

First round—C. Miller and B. Berry, Ilderan Outing Club, beat G. W. Case and M. S. Charlock, Elizabeth Country Club, 6-2, 8-6; A. L. West and R. A. Fest, Bergen Point, beat Willard Wadsworth and J. Whitney Baker, Plainfield Country Club, 6-3, 6-3; H. E. Crane and D. Matthey, Cranford Country Club, beat C. F. Woodruff and his partner, by default; Frederick W. Goddard and Howard Carter, Plainfield Country Club, beat F. E. Ferris and G. B. Fielder, Monforth Club, Jersey City, 2-5, 6-4, 6-4.

Second round—M. S. Charlock and H. M. Glazebrook, Elizabeth Country Club, beat G. H. Miller and J. A. Miller, Roselle, 6-2, 6-2; R. M. Black and B. C. Edgar, Ilderan Outing Club, beat Arthur Baird and R. C. Miller, Cranford Country Club, 9-7, 8-6; H. L. McGee and William Barlow, Park Club, beat H. R. Mulford and R. L. Albright, Roselle, 6-3, 6-3; L. Dunham and H. L. Robinson, Ilderan Outing Club, beat C. Van Williams and L. G. Sanders, Westfield Club, 6-4, 9-11, 6-3; W. B. Cragin, Jr., and E. S. H. Pendegast, Elizabeth Country Club, beat O. H. Fleming and T. M. Day, 6-0, 6-3; E. Babcock and L. Banker, Cranford Country Club, beat Wylie Brown and W. T. Glenney, Plainfield Country Club, 6-4, 6-2; A. L. West and R. A. West, Bergen Point, beat C. Miller and B. Berry, Ilderan Outing Club, 6-1, 6-4; Frederick W. Goddard and Howard Carter, Plainfield Country Club, beat R. E. Crane and D. Matthey, Cranford Country Club, 6-2, 6-1.

Third round—M. S. Charlock and H. M. Glazebrook, Elizabeth Country Club, beat R. M. Black and B. C. Edgar, Ilderan Outing Club, 6-3, 6-0; A. L. West and R. A. West, Bergen Point, beat H. L. McGee and William Barlow, Park Club, 6-4, 6-1; W. B. Cragin, Jr., and E. S. H. Pendegast, Elizabeth Country Club, beat E. Babcock and L. Banker, Cranford Country Club, 6-1, 6-1.

There is one remaining match in the third round that between Frederick W. Goddard and Howard Carter, Plainfield Country Club, and L. Dunham and H. L. Robinson, Ilderan Outing Club, and the winner of this match will play W. B. Cragin, Jr., and E. S. H. Pendegast, Elizabeth Country Club. There is also a semi-final match to be played between M. S. Charlock and H. M. Glazebrook, Elizabeth Country Club, and A. L. West and R. A. West, Bergen Point. The play will be continued Wednesday morning and the finals in the afternoon of that day.

A Considerate Daughter.

A certain young man told his best girl the other night that if she didn't marry him he'd get a rope and hang himself right in front of her house.

"Oh! please don't do it, Harry," she said. "You know father has always said he doesn't want you hanging 'round here."—Illustrated Bits.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

VOL. XXXVIII. PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, JUNE, 7, 1906 NO. 24.

"Support the Constitution, which is the Cement of the Union, as well in its Limitations as in its Authorities."—Madison.

TIGERS' COMMENCEMENT

Exercises and Festivities Begin Friday and Will Close June 13.

CALENDARS ARE ISSUED

Alumni Day Next Tuesday—Following Wednesday Will Award Degrees.

Commencement Week at Princeton University will begin next Friday and will close with the graduation exercises of the class of 1906 on June 13, when the one hundred and fifty-ninth class will receive diplomas.

The first event on the programme will be the annual golf match on Friday, between the graduates and undergraduates. On Saturday morning the 105th Annual Junior Oratorical Contest will take place in Alexander Hall. In the afternoon Princeton plays Yale on University Field in the twenty-ninth annual championship baseball game.

The "grads" arrayed in varied class costumes, will parade to the field in the order of classes, each class headed by a brass band. Saturday evening The Triangle Club will present the musical comedy "Tabasco Land" at the Casino.

On Sunday morning, President Wilson will deliver the Baccalaureate address to the graduating class in Alexander Hall. In the afternoon the alumni prayer meeting is to be held in Murray Dodge Hall, and in the evening the Annual Meeting of the Philadelphian Society in Marquand Chapel.

June 11 is Class Day. The commencement meeting of the Board of Trustees will be held in the morning, preceding the opening of Class Day exercises in Alexander Hall. At noon the class ivy is planted and the ivy oration delivered in front of Nassau Hall. The Cannon exercises will be held in the afternoon, when the class prophecy, poem, presentation speech and history are to be read. The Glee Club will give a concert in Alexander Hall in the evening, and following this the sophomore promenade will be held in the gymnasium.

Alumni Day is Tuesday, June 12. In the morning the Annual Meeting of the Phi Beta Kappa Society will be held, followed by the annual meetings of the American Whig and Cliosophic societies. The election of an Alumni trustee will be held at noon, followed by the alumni luncheon in the gymnasium. In the afternoon a gymnastic exhibition will be given in Brokaw Pool and later President and Mrs. Wilson will hold a reception at "Prospect." The thirty-first annual Lynde prize debate will be held in Alexander Hall in the evening. promenade concert will also be given on the front campus, the Seniors and the Seventh Regiment Band of New York, participating.

On Wednesday morning, June 13, the class of 106 will receive degrees in Alexander Hall. Commencement afternoon the Princeton baseball nine will play Pennsylvania on University Field.

The Commencement Committee is composed of the following alumni: M. Taylor Pyne, chairman; Henry F. Covington, Cleveland H. Dodge, Henry G. Duffield, Robert Garrett, William Libbey and Henry C. Bunn, secretary.

The Class Day Committee, which arranges for all the exercises and affairs of the class, is composed of the following seniors: D. F. Macpherson, chairman; T. P. Atherton, R. A. Bard, S. H. Bird, P. M. Brosher, H. F. Byram, B. W. Brown, S. Carothers, D. Edwards, M. Eppley, E. A. Ill, S. Johnson, Jr., F. C. Letts, W. L. MacCoy, J. R. Munn, C. B. Price, E. L. Rafferty, P. H. Schaff, N. B. Tooker, O. De G. Vanderbilt, Jr.

The following classes will hold reunions this commencement: '56, '61, '66, '71, '76, '81, '86, '91, '96, '01, '03 and '05.

PAINTERS' DISTRICT MEETING.

Local Union Hears About the State Conference Board.

Under the auspices of Local No. 480, a district meeting of the Brotherhood of Painters and Decorators of America was held in Trades Council Hall, last night. Representatives of the State Conference Board were in attendance and made addresses relative to its aims and objects with a view to having the local union affiliate. Among those who spoke were Frank Beck, of Hoboken; Walter Wilson, of Newark; Samuel Crowthers, of Kearney, and William Doyle, of Elizabeth.

John Matthews presided over the meeting and also made a short address. At the close of the business session refreshments were served and a smoker was enjoyed. Local 480 is considering applying for membership in the Conference Board and will take the matter up at a meeting in the near future.

NEW 'PHONE STRUCTURE

Work on Its Three-Story Brick Building to Begin on Monday.

THE INTERIOR PLANS

New Home Will Be Completed by October 1 but Will Not be Occupied Until March 1 Next.

Plans have been completed for the new building to be erected in East Fourth street, near Park avenue, by the New York and New Jersey Telephone Company. Seaman & Sen, of Brooklyn, has received the entire contract. The work of digging the cellar will begin Monday morning. According to the terms of the contract the building is to be completed by October 1. The company will take possession before March 1, 1907, as considerable time will be required to equip it.

The new structure is to be built of North River brick, trimmed with granite. It will be a steel structure and absolutely fireproof. The dimensions will be 70x43. The first floor will be used for the general offices of the company, and the district inspectors and wire chiefs will have the second floor. The whole operating department will be on the third or top floor. A great many improve*ments will be made not only* in the service, but in the construction of the company's new plant.' It will be provided with the common battery system, thus doing away with the individual batteries in telephones.

It is the intention of the company to hasten as fast as possible the underground work, that of placing wires in conduits, so that this will be finished when possession of the new building is taken. Manager C. W. Runyon, of the local exchange, inspected the plans yesterday, and he says that when the new structure is completed it will be one of the finest in the country. It will be furnished in the latest and most approved style and have every convenience and comfort for the employees of the company in handling the constantly increasing business. It is also proposed to increase the operating department and raise it to a higher state of efficiency.

FITZSIMMONS-BURNS FIGHT AGAIN PUT OFF

CHANCES ARE THAT IT WILL NEVER TAKE PLACE.

"The fight is again postponed; this time indefinitely" is the message that came from Philadelphia today in reference to the Fitzsimmons-Burns encounter which was to have takes place tonight before the Tuxedo Athletic Club, at Essington, a suburb of the Quaker City. It was originally planned to have the battle on Tuesday, May 29, but at the eleventh hour Governor Pennypacker ordered a company of State constabulary to Essington with orders to arrest principles, officials and spectators if there was any attempt to decide the heavyweight championship. The fight was accordingly called off and it was hoped to have the State executive view it in a different light so as it could go on tonight but he remained firm. It is a question as to whether it will ever take place with the chances very much against it.

The announcement of a second postponement was received by "Bob" in this city in a philosophical sort of way as it was what he had expected when Pennypacker issued his first order. He continued training yesterday but will break it now and devote his time to getting his Dunellen physical culture farm in shape. The stopping of the fight, that is if it is surely stopped, means a money loss to the big fellow of nearly $10,000.

ALUMNI RECEPTION.

The Annual Affair Given Last Night by St. Mary's Association.

St. Mary's Alumni Association conducted its annual reception and dance in the school hall last night, making it an admission affair for the benefit of the convent fund. Despite the warm weather the attendance was large and a most enjoyable time was had. Fathers Bogan and Delehanty were present for a short time and assisted in receiving the guests. The music was furnished by Sohr's Imperial orchestra and refreshments were served at midnight.

The committee which had the affair in charge comprised Miss Anna Daley, chairman; Miss Mae Smith, Miss Helen Callahan, Dr. Fred Hughes, Cornelius Sullivan and John Caulfield.

—Delicious Jersey strawberries are received in new consignments by Neuman Brothers every morning. Prices lower this week.

UNION COUNTY'S BOARD FOR THE EQUALIZATION OF TAXES

Mulford M. Scudder.

Caleb C. Pollard.

Frederic H. Andrews.

MISS HOWARD WEDS HOMER BILLINGS SMITH

CEREMONY AT NOON TODAY IN HOLY TRINITY CHURCH, BROOKLYN.

Miss Lelia Howard, daughter of Mrs. Louise E. Howard, formerly of this city, but now of 125 Hicks street, Brooklyn, and Homer Billings Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Craig Smith, of this city, were married at noon today in Holy Trinity church, Brooklyn, in the presence of a large number of relatives and friends. Rev. Dr. J. H. Mellish, the rector, officiated.

The bride was gowned in crepe de chine, trimmed with duchesse lace, and carried a shower bouquet of white roses and white sweet peas. She was attended by her sister, Mrs. G. Harry Squires, of this city, as matron-of-honor. There were no bridesmaids or flower girls.

Daniel Dana Jackson, of New York, was the best man, and the ushers were Frederick Squires, R. M. Smith, Charles Barlow, James Dodd and A. Willis West, all of this city.

A wedding breakfast followed the ceremony at the home of the bride's mother, which was attended by only the relatives and a few intimate friends. After a tour, the couple will reside in Plainfield.

COLBYITE COMMITTEE TALK PLANS FOR MEETING

BIG GATHERING TO BE HELD NEXT IN THE THEATRE.

Plans for the New Idea mass meeting were discussed by the local members of the Executive Committee of the Equal Taxation League, City Judge Runyon, Henry L. Hall and R. Henry Depew, last night.

It was decided to hold the meeting the latter part of next week. The theatre was picked as the place for the gathering. Nothing definite as to speakers was decided upon, but it is the intention of Judge Runyon, who is head of the Colby organization in this county, to have a most attractive programme.

An effort is being made to secure Hamilton Wright Mabie as chairman, and it is believed he will readily consent to serve. He has thrown himself into the movement with great enthusiasm, and it is not likely that he will be other than delighted with an opportunity to come over from Summit and help his fellow-soldiers of the common good in their battle.

The full executive and advisory committees of the league will meet in Elizabeth Friday afternoon.

DAY NURSERY'S WORK.

It Takes the Place of the King's Daughters' Mountain Camp.

Although preparations are gradually being perfected for the opening of the King's Daughters' summer camp on the mountains, this will not be done until absolutely necessary. The reason for this is that the work undertaken by the King's Daughters at the Day Nursery largely takes the place of the summer camp endeavor. The camp work is quite expensive and as long as the sick babies can be cared for at the nursery there will be no need for hurry in opening the mountain resort.

The Day Nursery is in a flourishing condition and doing a fine work. There is a steady increase in the number of children cared for and the revenue derived therefrom. It is proposed to close the nursery during the month of August, as originally planned, so as to give the matron, Mrs. Bird, a vacation, as well as the nursery committee in charge.

MISS GODWIN BRIDE OF F. R. RADCLIFFE, JR.

THRONG AT ST. STEPHENS TO WITNESS NUPTIAL CEREMONY.

Miss Elsie Godwin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel A. Godwin, of Belvidere avenue, and Frederick P. Radcliffe, Jr., of New York, were married in St. Stephen's church, Nethenwood, at 7:30 o'clock, last night. Owing to ill-health which called the rector, Rev. A. S. Peck, away, the ceremony was performed by Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson, rector of Grace church. There was a large number of guests, including many from out-of-town, who came from New York in a special car attached to the 6 o'clock express from that place.

The bride, gowned in a lace princess robe, trimmed with duchesse lace, and carrying a bouquet of lilies-of-the-valley, was attended by Miss Olive Weathered, of Cranford, as maid-of-honor, and Miss Mabel Proctor and Miss Nellie Swart, of New York, as bridesmaids. The maid-of-honor was gowned in white silk net, embroidered, and carried American Beauty roses, while the bridesmaids wore gowns of white embroidered chiffon and carried bouquets of white lilacs.

Mr. Radcliffe's best man was Samuel Hollis, of New York, and the ushers were F. C. Baggs and Harry Gallagher, of New York; Wilson Goodbody, of Brooklyn, and Wilbur Baylis, of Cranford. William E. MacClyment, of this city, presided at the organ, playing the wedding marches.

The ushers leading the way, were followed by the maid-of-honor, the bridesmaids and the bride, escorted by her father, who gave her in marriage. At the chapel the bridal party met the groom and his best man and the officiating clergyman.

The church was beautifully decorated, *green and white being the pre*vailing colors. Hymeneal torches were used in the aisle, while about the chancel there was a profusion of white lilacs, palms and roses. Similar decorations were used at the home of the bride's parents, where a reception was held at 8 o'clock. Both the wedding and reception were attended by 300 people.

The bride received a large collection of gifts of use and value. In the exchange of presents among the members of the bridal party, the bride received a pearl and diamond ring from the groom, the maid-of-honor and bridesmaids received gold bracelets from the bride, the ushers received amethyst stick pins from the groom. The bride received a diamond crescent from the mother of the groom, and a check for a substantial amount from her father.

After the reception the couple left for a wedding trip. Upon their return they will reside with the parents of the bride on Belvidere avenue. The bride is well-known here in society circles and both she and her husband were patrons of the Holland dances in New York last season. The groom holds an excellent position with Wellington, Sears & Co., of New York, being in charge of the firm's Philadelphia and Baltimore branch stores.

P. H. S.'s Annual Concert.

The High school will give it's annual concert in the school auditorium tomorrow evening. The school chorus will be assisted by the school orchestra and the mandolin and glee clubs. Attractive numbers on the program will be given by soloists from New York, Mrs. Edith M. Allston and George Seymour Lenox. Mr. Lenox is well known as a member of the Locke Glee Club. The concert is open to the public on the payment of a small admission charge.

BRUTAL HUSBAND FLAYED BY JUDGE

CHARLES SCRIBNER A "MISERABLE BRUTE," SAYS THE COURT.

Charles Scribner, 7 DeKalb avenue, was arraigned in the city court this morning, charged with beating and abusing his wife. The latter told a story that moved the court to great indignation. Scribner appears to be a poor sort of a creature, who has no sympathy with his wife and no appreciation of the work she does. He started at her last night because she stayed up later than he thought she should. Ironing and sewing were the things that kept her up, but that appeared to make no difference in Scribner's displeasure.

"You are a miserable brute, Scribner," said the magistrate. "Your wife has asked that you be bound over to keep the peace, and if it wasn't for that I'd send you to jail. I will suspend a fine of $50 over your head, and if your wife has occasion to make another complaint against you I will drop it on you, and add another one on the new count."

SISTERS WEDDED IN MARCH INFORM FRIENDS TODAY

BRIDE FROM WATCHUNG, RESIDENCE OF PLAINFIELD.

Announcement is made today of a wedding which occurred in St. *Michael's church, Elizabeth, on Sat*urday, March 3, when Frank Sprague and Miss Sally Wormser and Thio Faller and Miss Frances Wormser, all of this city, were married by the rector of the church. There were no attendants, and the couples deciding to keep the matter a secret were successful until today when the parents became acquainted with the facts.

The brides are daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Floret Wormser, of Watchung, and Frank Sprague is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Sprague, of this city. Mr. Faller was formerly a resident of New Haven, but now lives in Plainfield.

PREST. RANDOLPH'S REPORT.

Details the Year's Doing of Stock and Petroleum Exchange.

Former Mayor L. V. F. Randolph, of East Front street, president of the Consolidated Stock and Petroleum Exchange, of New York, has just issued his annual report. This closes the thirtieth year of the Exchange and the third and last year of Mr. Randolph's service as president.

It is learned from the report that during the past three years, 238 *persons have been admitted to member*ship in the Exchange. Most of these have gone on the "Floor" as active commission men and traders. It is probably safe to say that in the active membership of today are fully 150 men who were not in the Exchange three years ago. During the past year fifty-six new members have been admitted, and all these have entered as active dealers. The report devotes some space and attention to the operation of the stock sales tax, or stock transfer tax, which is now defraying about a quarter of the current expenses of the Empire State.

Republican Club Meeting.

A meeting of the Independent Republican Club will be held in Thomas Bowser's barber shop, 152 East Front street, tomorrow evening. The colored voters of the city are cordially invited to be present and assist in the movement for good government.

INDICTMENTS PRESENTED

Judge Atwater Fixes Bail and Sets Time For the Trials.

THE GRAND JURY BUSY

Nathaniel Harvey Pleads Not Guilty to Stealing Pair of Shoes — Other Cases.

In the Court of Common Pleas, Elizabeth, this morning, a large number of indictments were presented to Judge Atwater, and the court fixed the bail and time for trial and sentence in the various cases.

Nathaniel Harvey, the only Plainfielder arraigned this morning, was indicted on a charge of stealing a pair of shoes. He entered a plea of not guilty, was held in $200 bail and will appear on Tuesday next for trial.

Ellen O'Conners, accused of being an accomplice of a man believed to be her husband, in the robbing of Adam S. Mueller's home at 551 Elizabeth avenue, Elizabeth, was indicted on a charge of aiding and abetting the robbery. She refused to plead because her counsel was not present. She will be arraigned later.

Patrick McFadden, of Union township, indicted on a charge of stealing a horse from Joseph Beede, also of Union, entered a plea of not guilty to an indictment of keeping a disorderly house in Elizabeth. Bail was fixed at $500 and trial set down for June 14.

S. K. Brink, indicted for keeping a disorderly house at Fanwood; not guilty; bail $500; trial June 14. Edward Walsh and Frank A. Poda, Jr., non-suit to an indictment charging them with over driving a horse; bail $200; trial June 20. Alexander Decker, Duncan McAdams, Alfred Burns and Martin Shields, breaking and entering and grand larceny; indictments put in charge of the probation officer. J. O'Connor, forging a check; not guilty; trial June 12. William Damrumsky, stealing a gold ring; not guilty; trial June 14; bail $200.

JUDGE FORT GOES TO HUDSON COUNTY

JUDGE SWAYZE WILL SUCCEED HIM IN UNION COUNTY.

Chief Judge Gummere, of the Supreme Court, announced yesterday that the place of the late Judge Jonathan Dixon in the Eighth district, consisting of Hudson county, would be filled by Judge Fort, who now sits in the Second district, consisting of Middlesex and Union counties. Judge Fort will be succeeded by Judge Swayze, of Newark, who now sits in the First district, consiting of Atlantic, Cape May, Cumberland and Salem.

When a vacancy occurs in one of the circuits it is customary to make the assignments of circuits in the order of seniority of the judge, each judge in turn being allowed to select any vacant district. As the first district has not been chosen by any of the judges now on the bench it will probably be assigned to the new judge who will succeed Judge Dixon.

It is expected he will be Judge Thomas W. Trenchard, of Bridgeton.

JUSTICE HAND FLIES A FLAG OF MOURNING.

Standard Half-Masted At Court Window to Mark Retirement.

To mark his formal retirement as a civil trial judge, Justice Hand is flying a big flag at half-mast from his office window today. The last jury trial in his court is to be held this afternoon.

"I am not going into the Down-and-Out Club without singing my swan song," he said this morning. "I suppose there will be a to-do, with floral horseshoes and all that, when the district court opens and I don't see why something like that shouldn't mark the passing of old Hezekiah. By Jiminy, if I'd only thought before, I left home, my wife could have fixed me up a bouquet from the garden!" and the passing justice sighed with regret as the flag flapped dolefully in the warm wind.

Father Bogan Will Remain Here.

The report in circulation that Father O'Brien, of St. Joseph's church, Roselle, is to succeed Father Bogan as pastor of St. Mary's church, this city, was denied by Father Bogan today.

DR. MAXSON EXPLAINS

School Superintendent Tells the Method of Collecting San Francisco Fund.

PRIVATE; VOLUNTARY

Boxes In Rooms For Offerings and No Rivalry Among the Various Classes.

In view of the fact that some ques*tion has been raised as to the pro*priety of the Board of Education authorizing a collection in the local schools for the rebuilding of school buildings in San Francisco, The Daily Press secured the following *statement today from Superintend*ent H. M. Maxson:

"I am personally opposed to such collections on general principles and have consistently refused to listen to a large number of propositions in the last ten years. In this case, the need seems to be extraordinary and urgent. The appeal comes direct from the school department of San Francisco and is endorsed by the highest educational authority in the United States; but the most important argument for favoring the collection is this: the cause is one which should appeal particularly to children, since the money is to be given for the benefit of other boys and girl in another part of our own country. It is therefore a particularly good opportunity for the children to exercise the virtue of giving. Our country would be much better off if more attention was given to training children in giving.

"The child is all the time receiving. In school, we are constantly giving him mental food and trying to train him personally, but there is little opportunity to lead him to think for and help others. In fact, very little can be done with a view to training up a generous, sympathetic citizens. This is one unusual occasion where the matter can be treated *naturally and appropriately. I be*lieve that it will do the child good to respond to it, even if the nickel does ultimately come from the parent in some cases."

Mr. Maxson gave the reporter an extract from the directions he has given the principals and said: "From this it will be seen that I have carefully guarded the matter to avoid as fully as possible any appeal to charity or any occasion for a child to feel compelled to give, and to make the occasion one that shall truly and really have an effect on the child's better nature. If, in a few cases, some parent yields to the importunity of a vain child and gives a coin unwillingly, there will be scores of children whose hearts will feel the appeal from their far-off brothers and sisters in need and who will give from a real impulse of generosity and will gain some portion of moral strength by the act."

The directions Mr. Maxson has given the principals of the schools are as follows:

"Make the statement to the chil*dren that San Francisco has had* more than thirty of its schoolhouses destroyed and the rest seriously damaged, and that so much other property of the city was destroyed that they will have much less money than usual, next year, to provide schools, therefore they have sent out an appeal to the boys and girls all over the United States to contribute a few cents each to make sure that their brothers and sisters in San Francisco will have full school privileges next year.

"Then say to them that every good man and woman feels a sympathy for others that are in need and does what he can to help them; and that if they desire to help in this case, their teacher will receive their money and see that it is forwarded to the superintendent of San Francisco. Impress on them that they ought to give their own money, if they can, and that they ought not to ask their parents if there is any way in which they can earn or obtain the money themselves.

"Provide a box in each classroom into which the pupils may put their contributions. Do not pass the box, as that would call attention to any child who did not give. Simply put it on the teacher's desk and tell them that they may put their money in at any time during the day. No teacher will count the money given by her class, and no report will be made of *the money received from any build*ing. It is desired that all that is given shall be given freely, in a way to train the sympathy and generosity of the child."

Methodist Women Hold a Festival.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Monroe Avenue M. E. church held a successful strawberry festival, last night. The affair was largely attended and an informal programme of music was enjoyed.

HARTRIDGE GRADUATION

Rev. Dr. Raymond Talks on Aims of Education Work at Annual Commencement.

EXERCISES AT CASINO

Miss Dorothy Burke, Miss Grace Otterson and Winifred Rapalje Receive Diplomas From Miss Hartridge's School.

The commencement exercises of the Hartridge School, held at the Casino at 10:30 Thursday morning, attracted a large number of parents and friends. On the platform of the school occupied seats near the stage, while the faculty, together with the speaker for the occasion, Rev. Dr. Andrew Y. V. Raymond, president of Union College, and Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie, pastor of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, who assisted in the exercises, occupied the stage. The exercises, in charge of Miss Hartridge, were opened with Scripture reading and prayer by Dr. Zelie, who afterwards introduced Dr. Raymond. In beginning his address, Dr. Raymond remarked that it was an occasion that lends itself to congratulations, that those present were there to do honor to the graduates on a day which belongs to them. The speaker said that it was on the aims and purpose of educational work that he desired to talk. In part he said:

"The great end of our educational work and the value of it is determined by our relation to life itself. Heresy is the old story of the struggle of the material against the spiritual, the sees against the unseen and when we make this all-important we get into error. What is the great end of life? Is it not its own enlargement which is according to the law of nature. Life is the unfolding of latest energy. The full corn in the ear is the largest expression of its own vitality. The same can be said of man, where life is the largest possible expression of those powers. This brings us to the mystery in life itself. A definition of this might be that life is active correspondence with environment.

"In the plant the one degree of life is the sunlight. In the animal there is the field of activity, a higher degree, but in man we find that intelligent moral consciousness which is still higher and which is determined by the range of sympathies and our capacities. The greatest possible good is to be found in the largest possible development of ourselves.

"A rich man may be a great man by his test, yet in the world he may be small intellectually. On the other hand a man may have little of the material yet enjoy God's great world to a far greater degree. The well-educated man or woman is a more agreeable companion and this fact is a mark of distinction and gives one the ability to choose the best things and determine the range of life.

"In the beginning every one is free to choose for himself, but as a rule one does not choose the least for the greatest and if our conception of life is right, we rise in our estimate of values. Every day a man gives up the least for the greatest and by our choice is determined our conduct and character. What a man gets for his money is often more important to him and from the way a man uses his money you learn his ideals. The same is true of time. Think of the money and time that is wasted. Again we come to the law of exchange which is determined the greatest value.

"Honor is one of God's best gifts to man. It is something that one cannot see, taste or wear and yet it is sacrificed daily for things you can see, taste and touch. We should develop our appreciation of relative values. Take for instance the study of mathematics. We often ask why should girls study them when not one in a thousand use them after leaving school. Yet they call for close logical reasoning and helps to fix the habit of reasoning clearly. It does not require much thought to propose a question, but it takes ability to solve it.

"The same may be said of language. This the art of expression and permits clearness of speech and writing. What do we study language for, especially foreign languages? Some no doubt think that they will be able to converse in these languages, yet I never knew a person to converse in French or German from the instruction givin in school or college. Yet the study of language enriches the mind. The Greeks regarded the study of these subjects as absolute necessity, not a luxury, and essential to education, the development of the moral and spiritual nature is the largest thing in the world. It is not enough to teach or demand moral law. This can be made very repulsive. It is the duty to awaken and appreciation of ethical principles.

"This brings us to the question, what kind of a school is the best. It is not the curriculum, the number of teachers or pupils, the bigness or size of the school, but the intellectual attainment of the teachers, the spirit of the school that creates the ideals of a school. The value is determined by the personality of those who teach. Education is a leading and not compulsory act to better things. The teacher who comes down from his high realm of thought and labors patiently with the uneducated and leads them to a higher plane in that larger world which he won for them, gets his reward. Christ came down to earth to lead humanity back to God. We should live that life of friendship with man and fellowship with God."

Following the address diplomas were presented by Dr. Raymond to the three graduates, Miss Dorothy Burke, Miss Grace Otterson and Miss Winifred Rapalje. They also received many beautiful flowers.

CARRIERS AND CLERKS AT STATE CONVENTION.

Local Delegates at Meetings in Kearney and Hoboken Yesterday.

Letter-Carrier J. W. A. Bauersachs, of the local postoffice staff, attended the eighth annual convention of Letter-Carriers held in Evans Hall, Kearney, yesterday afternoon. There were nearly one hundred delegates representing Newark, Jersey City, Passaic, Elizabeth, Paterson, Bayonne, Morristown, Rutherford, Bloomfield, East Orange, Atlantic City, Trenton, Plainfield, Hoboken, New Brunswick, Washington, Orange, Rahway, Red Bank, Long Branch, South Orange, Cranford, Arlington, Dover, Woodbury and Newbold were present.

Thomas B. Hood, of Newark, presided. Addresses were made by National Secretary Edward J. Cantwell, National Committeeman John Bunton, of Hoboken; L. A. Ryer, of Jersey City, and many others. The following officers were elected: President, William C. Conk, of Long Branch; first vice-president, John Sullivan, of Elizabeth; second vice-president, John Lynch, of Montclair; secretary, Otto Momm, of Newark; treasurer, Morgan T. Davy, of Rutherford; sergeant-at-arms, James Kay, of Newark; members of the executive board for three years, George Alexander, of Newark, and William Roe, of Paterson. The convention will be held in Montclair next year.

A. E. La Porte, a clerk at the local postoffice, was the only representative from here to the Postoffice Clerks' convention held in Hoboken yesterday afternoon. About one hundred clerks from various parts of the state were present. Mr. La Porte was again elected secretary and treasurer. In the evening there was a banquet and Congressman Van Winkle, of Hoboken, made the principal address.

The Republican Jubilee.

The New Jersey Republicans will have a part in celebrating the half-century anniversary of the first National Republican Convention to be commemorated by a convention of the National Republican League at Philadelphia, June 17. From this State six delegates-at-large and four delegates from each Congressional district, forty-six in all, will be the official representation, and, besides, there will be many loyal Republicans from New Jersey at the gathering. On June 17, 1856, the first National Republican Convention was held in Philadelphia, and nominated John C. Fremont for President. In the election of that year thirty-one States voted, the whole number of electors being 296, of which James Buchanan, Democrat, received 174; Fremont, 109, and Millard Fillmore, the "American Party" candidate, 8. The great issue was human slavery, and the question was the repeal of the "Missouri Compromise," by which the extension of slavery into the territories was restricted. Since then the number of States has increased from 31 to forty-five. For fifty years, with the exception of the eight years of Cleveland's administration, the policy of the nation has been controlled by the Republican party, which received its great trust amid threats and treason, successfully prosecuted the great war for the Union, abolished slavery, built up our magnificent industrial edifice, and brought the nation to a height of prosperity and grandeur that is the wonder of the world.—Elizabeth Journal.

Ferris Boy Located.

Ike Ferris, the young man who recently disappeared from his home on Lake street, was located Wednesday in a small town in New York State. He returned at once to Plainfield. He explained that he had gone away to secure a better position, not realizing what worriment it would cause his mother.

Golden Wedding at East Orange.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Bleecker have sent out invitations for the fiftieth anniversary of their marriage on Tuesday, June 12, from 4 until 6 o'clock and from 8 until 10 o'clock at their home, 74 Sumner street, East Orange. Mr. and Mrs. Bleecker were at one time residents of this place and have many friends here who will join in the congratulatory occasion. Mrs. Bleecker is a sister of the late Mrs. William C. Buller, of East Front street.

Landmark Moved.

The old-fashioned house which has stood for many years on Park avenue, next to the home of Mrs. D. J. Boice, is being moved to the West End. The property is owned by Mrs. Boice, but no plans have been made as yet as to how the property will be improved.

Approaching Wedding.

Announcement is made of the engagement of Miss Jennie Van Zandt, of Watchung avenue, and Henry J. Gauthier, of Newport, R. I. The ceremony will take place at the home of the bride on Saturday, June 30.

LAY SHAFT CORNERSTONE

Masonic Ceremony at Soldiers and Sailors Monument at Elizabeth Yesterday.

CHAS. N. FOWLER SPOKE

Congressman As Orator—Former Governor F. M. Voorhees As Master of Ceremonies.

The cornerstone of the Soldiers and Sailors' Monument at Elizabeth was laid with Masonic ceremony Wednesday morning by the Grand Lodge of Free Masons of New Jersey. A procession from Masonic Temple, in Broad street, of all the Masonic lodges in Union county, those of this city. Headed by the Grand Lodge and Datter's Band, it marched to Military Square. About seven hundred Free Masons were in line. Ulric Dahlgren Post and Judson Kilpatrick Post, G. A. R., with Camp Sewell, Spanish War Veterans, as guests, also marched to the monument site. The Elizabeth churches of that city. This was followed by a short address by Former Governor Foster M. Voorhees, who presided at the event. Datter's band then played "America." Next came the laying of the stone by Most Worshipful Grand Master Walter Chandler, of Elizabeth, assisted by the officers of the grand lodge. When the work was completed the grand master delivered a brief address. The band then played a medley of patriotic airs.

The oration was delivered by Congressman Charles Newell Fowler, of the 5th District, of New Jersey.

Congressman Fowler reviewed the progress of the country, especially as it pertained to New Jersey. He began with the settlement by the Danes of Bergen county, and then took up the different wars that had brought greatness and power to the country. He praised the soldiers for whose honor Memorial Day had been established a holiday. Then, speaknp of the soldiers, he said:

"Enduring, indeed eternal and universal, as is the influence of their work, it is fit that we meet upon occasions like this, almost a half century removed from the hour of conflict, recount their achievements of valor, and erect this testimonial of our faith in their love of country, self-sacrifice and devotion to the institutions of liberty and self-government. For a few years hence the monument here erected will receive the grateful glance of an old soldier, who, tottering by, now and then may linger at its foot to revel in memories of the call to arms, the enlistment, the camp, the march, the battle, the comrades-in-arms on every side, the surrender, the glad news of the Republic sived, the sweet homecoming, the new start in the race of life, the acquaintance of every duty, the willingness to depart and join in the bivouac on the other shore. Soon, too soon, that will have set for the last one of the boys in blue.

"Today the spirit of Abraham Lincoln pervades the whole fatherland. The Confederates still living, and two generations of sons of Confederates, are loyal to the flag, to the love and preservation of the Union; indeed as thankful as we that we, not they, won; indeed as proud as we of our true national glory. Our flag of 1861 is indeed their flag of 1906—theirs has cost them the cost of their last drop of blood.

"The stupendous and gigantic developments in the material world through inventions and discoveries have for the time being overwhelmed all other than commercial considerations; and man, seemingly, has been put in the scales against dollars and cents. The whirlpool of gain is sweeping us from the rock of rectitude; and for the moment all ethical implications seem abandoned.

"Meanwhile, through changed conditions, laws once just have become obsolete; statutes granting unfair advantage have been secured through the intrigue of self-interest, and wise and just legislation has been prevented by those enjoying special privileges.

"Indeed, so dulled and debauched is the moral sense in many by mercenary creed, that there is a constant search to find or effort to secure legal authority to do these things which are utterly at variance with ethical right; and that function once called a conscience finds ample approval for its every act and forbearance. It is in accordance with law, though that same law was passed for the special purpose through chicane, cunning and corruption.

"Thus it may often happen that through the forms of law property valued in the thousands may be taken with impunity, to which the appropriating it has no ethical right; while a sharp and cruel penalty awaits another who, with no less a moral right, appropriates a tithe as much.

"However, the innate American spirit, the genius of our institutions, remains pure and unaffected; and, so shocked is the public conscience by these obvious wrongs that the grave danger of the hour is not that we cannot correct them, but lest we may in our fury strike a blow that will seriously check the free play of that will seriously check the free play of that force to which our splendid achievements and unparalleled progress must be attributed—the personal initiative.

Let us keep steadily in view this truth—that whenever we paralyze the motive power of our citizenship and destroy individual enterprise we pauperize our national life. Universal education leads on to individualism leads on to universal prosperity.

The vast, indeed, almost unmeasured, accumulation of wealth now going on in this country may in future annals become only a source of wonderment like the pyramids of Egypt or the Chinese Wall, unless the patriotism of our day shall sanctify and dedicate it to the ends and glory of a Republic. Of all conquerors shall it be, except a blight and a corroding curse, if it leads only to profligacy and corruption? Of what advantage and power may it not become in the amelioration and advancement of the American people?"

The statue in the figure of a soldier, which is nearly completed, will be placed in position on July 1. It will be unveiled and dedicated on Independence Day with a military and civic parade in honor of the occasion.

SENIOR PLAY A SUCCESS

Schiller's "The Nephew as Uncle" Was Enthusiastically Received.

DELIGHTS AUDIENCE

S. B. Howe, Jr., Seen in Leading Role—The Star Performers —The Entire Cast Well Trained.

Seldom has an entertainment at the Plainfield High School been greeted so enthusiastically as was the senior play, "The Nephew As Uncle," by Schiller, May 29, other places were present.

The plot was an involved one and it is surprising that the members of the cast took it up as well as they did. The play was in three acts.

S. B. Howe, Jr.

The cast as a whole and individually performed excellently. Samuel B. Howe, Jr., of the faculty, and leader of the P. H. C. musical clubs, was seen to advantage, in the role of young Dorsigney.

Individual hits among the students were made by Miss Elizabeth Winter as Miss Dorsigney, Arthur Whitney as Champagne and Milton St. John as the drunken postillion. Miss Winter as the aged and impatient Madame, showed an intellectual interpretation of a difficult part and much credit is due to her.

The cast was made up and costumed excellently by New York firms, particularly the French sub-officers, Heaume and Rubenstein.

The cast of characters was:

Col. Dorsigney, the uncle, George M. Rittenhouse; Miss. Dorsigney, Elizabeth Winter; Sophie, Bertha C. Hill; Francis Dorsigney, the nephew, S. B. Howe, Jr.; Mme. Mirville, Louise Kline; Lomeuel, engaged to Sophie, H. F. Freeman; Valcour, Donald R. John; Notary, Hudsott Burr; First Officer, Alex H. Rubenstein; Second Officer, Clarence Heaume; Postillion, Milton St. John; Champagne, Arthur Whitney; Jasmin, Robert Rugen.

The class is due in great measure for the success of the affair to the coaches, Miss S. L. Bass and S. B. Howe, Jr., of the faculty, and Miss A. P. Jackson, physical director of the gymnasium. They were the ones who whipped the play into the finished form in which it was presented Tuesday night.

The school orchestra furnished music between the acts.

Those Dear Girls Again.

Ella—"What would you do if you were in my shoes?"

Stella—"Stuff 'em with cotton."—Woman's Home Companion.

in the school auditorium. The house was well filled and the general verdict was that the performance was worthy of all the good things said about it.

WATCHUNG CLUB RACES

H. A. Bourne's "Red Light" Again Wins Watchung Cup, But on a Sort of Fluke.

DR. KNOTT'S HORSE 2ND

Plenty of Falls in the Steeplechases With No Serious Results—Farmers' Event Proves Exciting.

Ideal weather conditions and a fast track, coupled with a large attendance, made the Watchung Hunt Club's second annual steeplechase meeting, Wednesday afternoon, a fly successful affair. It was held at the Gentlemen's Driving Park and fully 700 enthusiasts from this city, New York, Newark, Elizabeth and other points were present. The next is to be continued next Saturday afternoon and another large crowd is expected.

There were six events on the card and as a rule they contained excitement in some form or other. Interest centered in the first race for the Watchung cup and it would have been the best of the day but was marred by a mistake on the part of most of the riders. The race was a steeplechase for horses that have been regularly hunted with the Watchung Hunt, to be ridden by members of the club. The course was about two miles and a half over fair hunting country, which meant that barriers in the centre of the track had to be gone over twice before going under the bridge. It was believed that every rider so understood but all but two thought that the barriers were to be taken once.

There were eight entries in, all and the horses got away in a bunch, remaining so for nearly a mile. Charles W. Fisk, astride "Apple Jack," looked like a sure winner, but he was one of those mistaken about the barriers and swung on the home-stretch too soon. He was followed by Robert R. Howard, of South Orange, on "Boo-Bar;" Chas. D. Freeman, of Colonia, on "Strongheart," and S. Harold Freeman, of Morristown, on "Telephone." This left but two horses to continue on as arranged, H. A. Bourne's "Red Light" and A. Knott's "Multum-in-Parvo," the remainder of the eight starters having dropped out. "Red Light" and "Multum-in-Parvo" flew over the ground in a way that brought every spectator to his feet, the former winning out by about two lengths. The latter was caught in too soon, "Apple Jack" was first, "Boo-Bar" second and "Strongheart" third. They were ruled out and the race was awarded "Red Light," thus making the cup Mr. Bourne's property as this was the second time in last year. It was not made clear yesterday where the mistake was made about the length of the course.

In the other steeplechase events, those for the Middlesex and Hillside cups, there were numerous falls, but no one was hurt. In the Middlesex, "Bacchanal" belonging to Charles Pfizer, Jr., of Bernardsville, lost its jockey and continued around the course, hampering the leaders. It dropped out just before the finish.

The first race for the Quaker City, Inside, brought out only two entries, "Kersey," belonging to Louis Batjer, of Elizabeth, and "Perlon," Charles Pfizer, Jr. This one proved to be more laughable than anything else as first "Kersey" refused to hold to the track, having Pfizer's horse go it alone. When the barriers were reached, "Perlon" refused to take them and "Kersey" had a good chance to catch up but went wrong again just as the former got away. Mr. Batjer protested the decision and with the judge's consent, a stable boy took his place and finished the "race."

Plenty of amusement was caused by the farmers' race, five furlongs on the track for work horses belonging to farmers in the neighborhood of Plainfield. It was a new thing for these plebian animals and when the start was made, the unusual noises scared most of them by running away. One refused to make the first turn and went crashing through a picket fence into the paddock, throwing the rider. Of the others, a white gelding, "Tom," owned by Joseph S. Darby and ridden by Herbert Terry, and a clean-limbed bay, belonging to Jesse Van Suydam with Fred Stover riding, took the race to themselves and kept together. "Tom" forged ahead at the finish and went under the wire an easy winner. The purse was for $40, of which $10 went to the second and $5 to the third.

The summary of the races was as follows:

First race—Netherwood cup, for ponies fourteen hands three inches and under, about three furlongs on the track; subscription of $10 each, of which sixty per cent. and the cup to the winner; forty per cent. to the second horse: First, Katie, Singleton Van Schaick, Huntington, L. I.; second, Bonita, Joseph F. Gatins, Jr., New York; third, Heen, Peter Schaick, Jr., Newark.

Second race—Watchung cup, First, Red Light, H. A. Bourne, Plainfield; second, Multum-in-Parvo, Dr. M. O'Malley Knott.

Third race—Farmers' race. First, Tom, Jos. S. Darby; second, Bobby, F. B. Suydam; third, Humpty Peter Lott; fourth, May, P. J. Haynes; fifth, Deck, W. H. Clark.

Fourth race—For horses used as hacks or hunters, seven furlongs on the track; purse of $100: First, Anticipation, John Chester Cowdin, Westchester; second, Rosebank, Louis Batjer, Elizabeth; third, Silver Twist, W. H. Wildey, Morristown; fourth, Blue Print, Singleton Van Schaick; fifth, Come On, Allan Pinkerton, Brooklyn.

Fifth race—Middlesex cup steeplechase, two and a half miles over a fair hunting country; subscription of $10 each, of which sixty per cent. and the cup to the winner and forty per cent. to the second horse. First, Perlon, Charles Pfizer, Jr., second, Kersey, Louis Batjer.

The racing committee consisted of L. de La Roche Anderson, C. B. S. Bellows, Charles W. Fisk, Dr. Knott and Wm. Dean Sukley. The stewards were H. S. Page, J. Temple Gwathmey, Charles Pfizer, Jr., H. L. Herbert, Julian H. Gerard and P. F. Collier. John R. Bradford, Jr., was starter and Belmont Purdy clerk of the course.

SENIOR PLAY A SUCCESS

Schiller's "The Nephew as Uncle" Was Enthusiastically Received.

DELIGHTS AUDIENCE

S. B. Howe, Jr., Seen in Leading Role—The Star Performers —The Entire Cast Well Trained.

Seldom has an entertainment at the Plainfield High School been greeted so enthusiastically as was the senior play, "The Nephew As Uncle," by Schiller, May 29, other places were present.

The plot was an involved one and it is surprising that the members of the cast took it up as well as they did. The play was in three acts.

S. B. Howe, Jr.

The cast as a whole and individually performed excellently. Samuel B. Howe, Jr., of the faculty, and leader of the P. H. C. musical clubs, was seen to advantage, in the role of young Dorsigney.

Individual hits among the students were made by Miss Elizabeth Winter as Miss Dorsigney, Arthur Whitney as Champagne and Milton St. John as the drunken postillion. Miss Winter as the aged and impatient Madame, showed an intellectual interpretation of a difficult part and much credit is due to her.

The cast was made up and costumed excellently by New York firms, particularly the French sub-officers, Heaume and Rubenstein.

The cast of characters was:

Col. Dorsigney, the uncle, George M. Rittenhouse; Miss. Dorsigney, Elizabeth Winter; Sophie, Bertha C. Hill; Francis Dorsigney, the nephew, S. B. Howe, Jr.; Mme. Mirville, Louise Kline; Lomeuel, engaged to Sophie, H. F. Freeman; Valcour, Donald R. John; Notary, Hudsott Burr; First Officer, Alex H. Rubenstein; Second Officer, Clarence Heaume; Postillion, Milton St. John; Champagne, Arthur Whitney; Jasmin, Robert Rugen.

The class is due in great measure for the success of the affair to the coaches, Miss S. L. Bass and S. B. Howe, Jr., of the faculty, and Miss A. P. Jackson, physical director of the gymnasium. They were the ones who whipped the play into the finished form in which it was presented Tuesday night.

The school orchestra furnished music between the acts.

Those Dear Girls Again.

Ella—"What would you do if you were in my shoes?"

Stella—"Stuff 'em with cotton."—Woman's Home Companion.

GOVERNOR STOPS FIGHT

Fitzsimmons Gets Word That Match is Off When About to Leave for Scene of Battle.

MANY DISAPPOINTED

Postponed Until Next Wednesday—Trying to Get Penny-lacker to Let Fight Go.

Because of opposition on the part of Governor Pennypacker, the fight between "Bob" Fitzsimmons and "Tommy" Burns, scheduled to take place before the Tuxedo Club at Essington, near Philadelphia, Tuesday night, will be pulled off next Wednesday night. The decision to postpone it was reached Tuesday afternoon after a conference between "Tom" O'Rourke, the match-maker, members of the club, and William J. Cunnian, Pennsylvania's representative. Mr. Cunnian immediately wired "Bob" that the telegram reached him just as he and his trainers were boarding a train at the North Avenue station.

"That's the fourth time in my career," said the lanky pugilist, "that I've trained for a fight and been disappointed. I'm rather sorry this time as I've worked hard and wanted to have the matter settled."

"Bob" and his men returned to the Dunellen farm and at once started to keep up the training. It is thought by the promoters that the conditions surrounding the fight are made clear to Pennypacker, he will allow it to proceed. If not the matter will be taken before the Supreme Court. The Tuxedo members are positive that no opposition will be removed before Wednesday night and they have continued the sale of tickets. The advance receipts Tuesday afternoon when the postponement was made known had reached $23,000. According to the terms, the fighters are to divide one half the receipts and the club the other, sixty per cent. going to the winner.

Manager Counihan and a large number of Plainfielders who went to the Quaker City in anticipation of seeing the fight, made the best of the situation and "hit the town." They were taken in hand by "Sam" Cunningham, treasurer of the New Plainfield theatre, whose home is in Philadelphia, and William Vail, treasurer of the Grand Opera House, who escorted them to many points of interest. One of the places they visited was the new clubhouse of the Elks, considered the finest in America, where the reception committee entertained them.

GILLETTES WIN TWO.

Capt. Jacot's Men Beat Far Hills Team in Double-Header.

The Gillette team played a double-header at Far Hills Wednesday and won both games. The scores were 18 to 0 and 9 to 4. The features of the first game were C. Montross' home run, Heath's batting and Squier's masterly pitching.

Line up and scores by innings:

Gillette—C. Montross, ss; J. Jacot, 1b; A. Jacot, if; Moffett, c; Hansen, 2b; Long, cf; Heath, rf; Bailey, 3b; Squiers and Nesck, p.

Far Hills—Boyd, c; Hilbaum, ss; Dow, c; Fennerty, 2b; Sullivan, 2b; Howard, rf; Leary, cf; Arnott and Hoppock, 2b; Nickols, p.

	R.	H.	E.
Gillette	1	9	7
Far Hills	0	2	5
Batteries—Squiers and Moffett; Nickols and Dow.

	R.	H.	E.
Gillette	2	7	3
Far Hills	9	7	3
Batteries—Nesck and Moffett; Nickols and Dow.

The regular monthly communion was held at the close of the morning service at the Baptist church yesterday.

HONORED SOLDIER DEAD

Veterans Decorate the Graves And Hold Memorial Service.

PARADE IN MORNING

Col. Mason W. Tyler Orator of the Day—Chorus of Children Gives a Feature.

Memorial Day was appropriately observed by Winfield Scott Post, No 73, G. A. R., the Women's Relief Corps and many friends of the two organizations who appreciate the significance of the day. The weather was ideal for the morning parade and a large number of veterans joined in the annual march about the city, visiting the various cemeteries and placing flowers on the graves of the departed soldiers, who died in defence of their country. Throughout the line of march were to be seen many decorations in honor of the veterans.

After the various details visited the various cemeteries throughout Plainfield and vicinity, they returned to headquarters at 9:30 o'clock for the parade which started a half hour later. The line of march as already published in these columns, was followed. Past Commander I. L. Mevoy was the marshal of the day, and the veterans had for their escore the members of Co. K, under command of Captain W. B. Martin. There were fifty-five members in line. Liberty Band, of this city, was also in line and furnished the music.

At the North Plainfield cemetery there was the decoration of graves and brief services of the grave of the late Edward C. Morse. From there the parade was continued to the Plainfield Avenue cemetery, where graves were decorated and another brief service held. These services were in charge of the officers of the Post and were very impressive. After the parade the veterans and Co. K were dismissed at Post Headquarters on East Front street.

The Post reassembled at headquarters at 1:45 o'clock in the afternoon and proceeded to Reform Hall, where public Memorial Day exercises were held. By order of Commander Preston B. Goodfellow, Past Department Commander William C. Smith was the acting commander for these exercises and was master of ceremonies.

A large chorus choir of children sang patriotic songs under the direction of Dr. J. F. Berg, who was also the director of the Liberty Band, which rendered appropriate selections. There was the impressive service for the "unknown dead," and the reading of Memorial Day orders from National Headquarters, together with the reading of President Lincoln's address at Gettysburg by the adjuant, H. Craig Smith.

The special feature of the exercises was the address by Col. Mason W. Tyler, of this city, who was selected as the orator of the day. He gave an excellent talk, reviewing some of the most important scenes and incidents in connection with the struggles of the Civil War. He spoke of the meritorious work of the well-known commanders, and did not fail to pay a tribute to the rank and file for the honest and devoted services rendered. Col. Tyler also remembered the dead who fell in battle and dwelt at some length on the significance and importance of Memorial Day. The address was listened to intently by a large audience and was greatly enjoyed.

After the exercises the children's chorus was entertained in the basement of Reform Hall by the members of the Women's Relief Corps, who served refreshments. The women also prepared the flowers and bouquets used for decorating the graves and each veteran received a small bouquet in remembrance of the day.

COL. HAMILTON GETS RIVERSIDE PARK.

Ohio Amusement Promoter Will Increase the Park's Attractions.

Riverside Park has changed hands again. The lease which Glatt & May were unable to use has been taken up by Col. Hamilton, an amusement promoter of Cincinnati, Ohio, who proposes to increase the attractions of the place.

The park, as in other seasons, will be open afternoon and evening, with music, vaudeville, etc. Col. Hamilton's lease will not interfere with the roller skating rink run by Beck & Isler. Glatt & May are out of the park altogether now.

FIVE-LEGGED CALF.

Edwin Randolph, of East Bound Brook, Owns Freak Animal.

Edwin Randolph, of East Bound Brook, in Piscataway township, has a five-legged calf. The freak was born about four weeks ago.

The fifth leg grows from the shoulder. It is smaller than the other legs, but perfectly normal in its proportions and formation, with properly shaped hoof. The calf is normal in all other respects, and healthy.

William Lieseau is looking for a farmhand who skipped with a new pair of his employer's shoes and several small articles last week, after a day's service.

EDITORS ENTERTAINED BY JERSEY CENTRAL DAY'S SAIL ON "ASBURY PARK" ENJOYED BY 150 GUESTS.

The Jersey Central gave its fifth annual "blow-out" to the editors of daily and weekly papers along its line Thursday, a day on the palatial steamer "Asbury Park" being the entertainment afforded. In addition to the officials of the road, there were 150 editors and their wives in the party which made the trip up the East river as far as Williamsburg bridge and then up the Hudson as far as Peekskill. On the return trip, an excellent opportunity was afforded to view the warships of Admiral Evans' squadron anchored in the North river.

During the day a delightful luncheon was served. After the "feed," P. Hall Packer, of the Seabright News, acted as chairman on the adoption of resolutions praising the roads for its hospitality. Speeches were made by several of the guests and rousing cheers were given for the host. The music was furnished by the Neptune High School orchestra, of Asbury Park, consisting of fifty pieces.

Ever since W. G. Besler and his staff have taken hold of the road, the most cordial relations have existed between the Central and the newspaper fraternity and the affair yesterday cemented the bonds. The day was all that could be desired and combined with the sweet music, enjoyable trip on the water and the delicious luncheon, the editors had a fine time. Mr. Besler, himself, was with the party for part of the time, being put ashore in the afternoon in order that he might fill some pressing business engagements.

The guests had been conveyed to the boat at Jersey City in new vestibuled trains and when they returned in the same way at night they were shouting for the Jersey Central. The day had been a particularly enjoyable one to the editors, among whom were A. L. Force, of The Daily Press, and wife, and George W. Day, of the Dunellen Call, and his wife.

The officers of the road forming the reception committee consisted of W. G. Besler, vice president and general manager; C. M. Burt, general passenger agent; C. W. Huntington, general superintendent; W. C. Hope, assistant general passenger agent; H. E. Ruhe, district passenger agent, Allenton; I. E. Whyte, district passenger agent, Asbury Park; C. J. Gummersbach, district passenger agent, Scranton; W. C. Armstrong, district passenger agent, Newark; W. H. Hayden, advertising agent.

AFTER AUTOMOBILE SPEEDERS IN DUNELLEN

ORAD TO BE MARKED OFF AND MARSHALS WILL WORK STOP-WATCHES.

The Dunellen authorities have taken steps to stop the speeding of automobiles in that place. The main street of the borough offers an inviting straight stretch, immediately after the autoists clear Plainfield, with its restrictions, and the citizens have suffered so much from speeding that action is felt to be imperative.

A section of the road will be marked off and two or three borough marshals will take their stand along the way with stop watches. They will note the number of every car as the machines go by, and a comparison of figures will enmesh the speeders who may have broken the law in a legal net. The violators will be arrested on sight.

The marshals will not be uniformed and the section of the road chosen for their operations will not be marked in a way to be noted by outsiders, so that the autoists will have no way by which they can spot the spotters, as they did when the police here went after them. The borough authorities are getting ready for some prosecutions under the crusade. Borough Counsel Von Minden has posted himself thoroughly on the new law, and every autoist who may be arrested will be prosecuted with a vigor calculated to disgust him with speeding in Dunellen. It is the general aim of the borough authorities to make Dunellen so hot for the speed cranks that they will mark it dangerous and either slow down in passing through or go over some other way.

N. F. Guyre has purchased the house where he is living from Walter Camman, of Somerville. The plot measures 150x200.

Candidates For Degrees.

Among the candidates for degrees at Columbia University this year are these Plainfielders: Howard T. Lewis, College of Physicians and Surgeons; Edward C. Hall, School of Architecture; and Philip Achle Parsons, philosophy.

Helping Him Out.

"I know I'll never be able to say that toast gracefully at the dinner tonight," said the out-of town guest.

"Oh, that'll be all right," said his friend. "I'll fix it up with the host to call on you late in the evening. You can get off any old thing then and nobody'll care."—Detroit Free Press.

LITERARY.

National interests have the foremost place in the June Atlantic. The leading article is a vigorous and timely discussion of the questions that are certain to be brought to the front at the coming Hague Conference. It is written by Benjamin F. Trueblood, Secretary of the American Peace Society. The article on the Distribution of Wealth is a masterly exposition of the aristocratic, the socialistic, and the democratic theories on this subject. Socialists will not like it. The Oregon experiment with an equal suffrage referendum, to be tried in June, is the subject of a suggestive article by Frank Foxcroft. He thinks we should "go slow" in tinkering with Constitutional safeguards. Science is represented by Professor Bee's account of Recent Solar Research, and Professor Daniel's brilliant annual review of Significant Books in Economics and Sociology. J. H. Denison's White Death of the Soul is a protest against the abuse of scientific method.

Following along the line of recent issues, the cover of the June number portrays in colors the famous actress, Sarah Barnhardt. Among the portraits of famous people are those of Bishop Potter, Victor Emanuel, Dowager Duchess of Marlborough, the late James E. Bailey, the King of Circus Men; Jean de Reszke, Bessie Abbott and Jacoby of Grand Opera fame; Elsie Janis, Ida Conquest, Mabel Taliaferro and Virginia Harned of the stage. The color work in this issue is particularly striking and the number contains the second in the series of caricatures, this time Sarah Bernhardt being the subject. The panoramic form has very fine pictures of San Francisco and Vesuvius, before and after the earthquake. Special subjects of peculiar attraction ar the Times Building, New York; the Wheat Pit in New York, the first photo of this famous place. This number, which is on sale at all news stands, is quite an attractive as the April and May numbers which were said atthe time to be the best issues of the magazine ever published.—Burr Publishing Company, New York.

William Marion Reedy's brilliant review of San Francisco's past, so rich with gaiety and genius, is the principal feature of the National Magazine for June. Myrtle Garrison writes of "The Ruins of Stanford" (with pictures), and Frank Putnam of "Loss and Gain at San Francisco." Ethel Armes contributes a striking study of modern Brazil under the title, "Portugal's gigantic daughter." Charles Warren Stoddard's essay for the month is a very human affair, "A Pet of Nature." Mr. Stoddard in his National essays is writing with all the rich charm that gave his "South Sea Idyls" world-wide celebrity. His strong, dramatic story of his narrow escape from death in the California earthquake will appear in the National for July.

Recreation is the keynote of the June Good Housekeeping, which is a Recreation number, with its home people a whiff of sea and mountain breezes and hundreds of valuable suggestions for the summer outing, along with the usual wealth of practical household sore. How women may travel safely and comfortably without male escort, as proved by experience, is set forth in Tales of Feminine Travelers, by Isabel Gordon Curtis. An illustrated story of summer vacation in a barn, by Anna Page Scott, is entitled Berkshire Barnacles, and the Lure of the Road is the narrative of a young couple's journey on foot and by freight car from Columbus, O., to Boston. Mary Heaton Vorse writes pointedly of Tourist Manners, saying some needed things. Summer Tours is the title of a group of illustrated articles on the wonders of our own country and the way to reach them. Simeon Ford, boniface and humorist, is the subject of an illustrated interview by George Wharton James. H. W. Hillman tells the story of "A Pleasure Day," a holiday in his own home, where the cooking and many other processes are accomplished by electricity. Tom Masson contributes a charmingly humorous little essay, Being a Bride.

It isn't often that you get hold of as good a story as Stewart Edward White's "Buried Treasure," in McClure's for June. Here we have a good, old-fashioned romantic adventure yarn. The setting is happy and the characters are unusual, and the action moves along like a limited express train. The title suggests the main motive, but this treasure is buried in about the most inaccessible place in the world, somewhere back from the beach in Lower California. The man who has the map is an unscrupulous sailor named Handy Solomon, who has no conscience and only one hand. In place of his missing member he wears a long, curved, sharp-pointed hook which he uses with more evil effect than another man would manage a knife or a gun. He persuades three miners to accompany him in the search for pirate gold. By this time you are prepared for the cold-blooded murder which follows and for the horror of the long fight against thirst and hunger which ends in the escape of the sailor and the bare rescue of the others. For sheer dramatic force there hasn't been a story that could touch this in a long time.

The performance on June 28 is a "special" affair and has nothing to do with the formal opening of the house on August 10.

DECORATION DAY.

A nation again breathes its honors to those
Who under the greensward in death's sleep repose;
Who cheerfully thought it was worthy to give
Their lives that in union their country might live.

From hillside and valley, from mountain and plain;
From palace and cot, loyal men came again;
The peaceful vocations of every-day life
Were changed in a moment to warfare and strife.

The tenderest links that 'round us have grown,
The dead comrades prized in homes
of their own,
But they left every loving and earthcleaving tie,
To do but their duty and nobly to die.

And today o'er this broad land their comrades who passed
Through the fierce fires of battle, to some home at last,
Do assemble to pay one more tribute of worth
To the heroes who sleep beneath the green earth.

As survivors lay May flowers on each soldier's grave,
They will think how they died as true men and brave;
And sacred, sweet mem'ries in hearts shall find room
When the flowers on their graves no longer shall bloom.
Standing then on the spot where old comrades are laid,
Think again of the self-sacrifice they displayed;
And repeat by these flowers with their sweet scented breath,
That remembrance still makes them
immortal in death.
Nor should we forget those in prison
who died,
With no loving hands min'stering
there by their side;
Nor those who were missing, whom love cannot trace,
To weep o'er the spot of their last resting place.
In graves lone and flowerless they're sleeping today
In the bright sunny Southland, unknown do they lay;
But sometime and somewhere, when life's work is o'er,
We hope for reunion where war is no more.
All honor to those, too, who've died
since the war;
The crippled, diseased, showing many a scar.
In mem'ry's fond tablets, their names
we enshrine
And love, with the flowers, on their mounds interwine.
Give no thought then at this time of need or of fear,
But freshen each grave with the
flowers of respect;
For they are old comrades through days that are past,
And their deeds are remembered
while living shall last.
May the purpose for which all have gathered today,
Grow brighter and stronger as years
pass away,
'Till it clusters in loyal hearts fragrant and deep,
Sweet as flowers we have brought this memorial to keep.
—T. C. Mitchell,
(Registrar, Drake Business College.)

PRIMROSE MINSTRELS TO RE-ORGANIZE HERE

TROUPE WILL GIVE A SHOW IN LOCAL THEATRE ON JUNE 28.

George H. Primrose's big minstrel organization, considered one of the best touring the country at the present day, is to reorganize in Plainfield for the coming season and incidentally give its first performance in the New Plainfield theatre. The arrangements were agreed upon yesterday by Manager Counihan and Mr. Primrose and the troupe will come to this city on June 20 prepared for one week of hard rehearsing. On Wednesday night, June 27, the same company will give a big "fire-works" parade, as Mr. Primrose calls it, and the next night a public exhibition will be given. Arrangements had previously been made for the show's appearance on October 16 and this will stand just the same.

Mr. Primrose is no stranger to Plainfield as he has frequently appeared here in performances and when George Thatcher lived on West Seventh street, he was a frequent caller at the home of the road. In recent years he has been associated with Lew Dockstader, but severed business relations with him two seasons ago to take out his own company. It numbers eighty people and includes two Plainfielders in the working forces, Henry Ackerman, head stage carpenter, and Peter Winn, electrician. Last year the rehearsals were held at Jacobs' theatre, Elizabeth, but hearing that Plainfield again had a playhouse, Mr. Primrose decided that this city would be a better place for the present time.

Mr Conners and family have removed to Plainfield.

PLAINFIELD LIBRARY NOTES

Stories most women like, part I. Part 2 will appear later.

Halevy.—Abbe Constantin.
Hector.—Admiral's ward.
Cralk.—Agatha's husband.
Woolson.—Anne.
Besant.—Armorel of Lyonesse.
Barr.—Bow of orange ribbon.
Cralk.—Brave lady.
Greene.—Cape Cod folks.
Harland.—Cardinal's snuff box.
Wiggin.—Cathedral courtship.
Crawford.—Cecilia.
Allen.—Choir invisible.
John.—Dorcas Gisela.
Gaskell.—Cranford.
Yonge.—Daisy chain.
Deland.—Dr. Lavendar's people.
Major.—Dorothy Vernon.
Yonge.—Dove in the eagle's nest.
Wood.—East Lynne.
Ward.—Eleanor.
Austen.—Emma.
Martin.—Emmy Lou.
Sand.—Fadette.
Burnett.—Fair barbarian.
Fothergill.—First violin.
Allen.—Flute and violin.
Raymond. — Gentleman Upcott's daughter.
Yonge.—Heir of Redclyffe.
Cough.—Hetty Wesley.
Ford.—Honorable Peter Stirling.
Hawthorne.—House of the seven gables.
Wilkins.—Humble romance.
Page.—In old Virginia.
Bayly.—In the golden days.
Gilson.—In the morning glow.
Crawford.—In the palace of the king.
Tautphoeus.—Initials.
Barr.—Jan Vedder's wife
Bronte.—Jane Eyre.
Ford.—Janice Meredith.
Moore.—Jessamy bride.
Howells.—Kentons.
Bayly.—Knight errant.
Ward.—Lady Connie's daughter.
Cummins.—Lamplighter.
Lytton.—Last days of Pompeii.
Reed.—Lavendar and old lace.
Jewett.—Life of Nancy.
Fuller.—Literary courtship.
Kelly.—Little citizens.
Mason.—Little green god.
Barrie.—Little minister.
Marlitt.—Little Moorland princess.
Cutting.—Little stories of courtship.
Cutting.—Little stories of married life.
Burnett.—Louisiana.
Rice.—Lovey Mary.

PRESIDENT'S NICKNAMES.

Here are some nicknames of the principal Presidents: Washington, "Father of His Country;" "American Fabius," "the Cincinnatus of the West," "the Atlas of America," "Lovely Georgius," "Deliverer of America," "Stepfather of His Country," "Savior of His Country;" Adams, "The Colossus of Independence;" Jefferson, "The Sage of Monticello," "Long Tom;" Madison, "The Father of the Constitution;" Monroe, "TheLast Cocked Hat;" John Quincy Adams, "Old Man Eloquent;" Jackson, "Old Hickory," "Big Knife," "the Hero of New Orleans," "Ginral" and "Old Hero;" Van Buren, "The Little Magician," "the Wizard of Kinderhook," "Follower in the Footsteps," "Whisky Van," "King Martin the First;" W. H. Harrison, "Tippecanoe," "Old Cider," "Old Tip" and "The Washington of the West;" Tyler, "Young Hickory" and "Accidental President;" Polk, "Young Hickory;" Taylor, "Old Rough and Ready," "Old Buena Vista," and "Old Zach;" Fillmore, "The American Louis Philippe;" Pierce, "Purse;" Buchanan, "Old Public Functionary," the "Bachelor President" and "Old Buck;" Lincoln, "The Rail Splitter," "Honest Abe," "Uncle Abe," "Massa Linkum" and "Father Abraham;" Johnson, "Sir Veto," "Unconditional Surrender," "Old Three Stars," "Hero of Appomattox" and the "American Caesar;" Hayes, "The President de Facto;" Garfield, "The Martyr President;" Arthur, "Our Chet" and the "First Gentleman of the Land;" Cleveland, "The Man of Destiny;" Harrison, "Backbone Ben" and "Grandfather's Hat;" McKinley, "Martyr President;" Roosevelt, "Rough Rider," "Teddy," "Strenuous President" and "Peacemaker."

PITH AND POINT.

Fame at the cost of honor is dearly bought.

Too many people are like cider—they become sour with age.

If you are fallow to criticism, don't fail to use it on yourself.

He who is able to hold his tongue is sure to sidetrack a lot of trouble.

Many a man who can't trust himself expects the grocer and butcher to trust him.

Did you ever notice that the size of trouble depends on whether it is coming or going?

Sometimes a man is unable to make both ends meet because he keeps them headed in opposite directions.—Chicago News.

Too Much For Him.

Jack—Too bad about young Nay, isn't it?

Tom—What about him?

Jack—He was sent to the insane asylum last week.

Tom—You don't say! What was the cause of it?

Jack—He undertook to study Greek and shorthand at the same time and got the characters mixed.—Columbus Dispatch.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

June 25, "Serving by Self Denial," Matt. v. 39, 40; Rom. xiv. 13-21; I Cor. viii. 10-13; Rom. xv. 1-3.

By REV. WALTER J. YATES, D. D.

What is this "self denial" of which we hear so much, and what is its place in the true Christian life? There is much misapprehension regarding it and not a little erroneous teaching and wrong practice. A closer and more careful study of the Bible would correct much of the false thinking and doing.

Because a person likes a thing it does not follow from necessity that the thing is bad for him. It is but a proof of wholesomeness in food that its taste and smell are nauseating nor is it a proof of spiritual value that some exertion is painful and distasteful.

It is not an infallible proof of piety in a person that something agreeable has been given up. That savors too much of heathen penance and has no warrant in the Christian Scriptures, though it has had large place in churchly teaching and practice.

The clear teaching is that God has made all things in this world to be good and useful in their proper place and time. By lack of careful thought and by sheer perversity and selfishness we may acquire desires, habits, appetites which crave improper things or clamor for satisfaction at improper times and at the cost of other and higher interests. Sober judgment is needed to guide us at all times. We are ever under imperative obligation to choose the highest and best when more than one course of action is presented to us.

The lower and less worthy end is ever to be denied gratification when a higher and better is open to us. That is clearly the teaching of Jesus when He spoke of the offending eye. It is hard to lose an eye or an arm, but if disease is there and it becomes a question of a surgical operation or death there should be no hesitation in decision. The eye or arm must go to save the rest of the body. This is only an illustration but it may have close application in spiritual things.

Let us see how it works. A desire has come upon a young man to enjoy some of the pleasures of the wider world than he has been accustomed to indulge in. He came from country to city. In the social circle to which he has found admission card playing is a favorite pastime. He was brought up to look with disfavor on all such games. Now he sees his new found friends engrossed in the excitement of the game, to be deeply interested, then fascinated with it. Small stakes at first, just for zest and interest, are played for, then larger ones bring gain which is a welcome addition to his scant wages. Evenings are whiled and passion for the game takes interest away from the serious work of the day. Then some little incident, a letter from mother or father, comes along and startles him awake to his condition. What shall he do? How can he be free again? Must he break with all the pleasant companionships and lose these social evenings and settle down to an old, dull, tiresome routine? The conflict is sharp. It makes no difference what the questionable indulgence is, this is the usual course it runs. It may all begin in the most innocent indulgence and pass by imperceptible degrees along until its power has become spun like cables of steel about the soul.

What shall be done? Break the bands at all costs and at all hazards. Be free whatever it costs. Allow no pleasure, no profit, no position, no praise, nothing in this world or any world to keep you from your highest, your best good.

If your indulgence is hurting another who is weaker than yourself, call a halt at once. All that is best in you calls on you to sink your selfish indulgence and help your fellow. He needs a friend. You need to be a friend to him.

Self denial is climbing over our weak and base and needless habits to the strong and pure and beautiful. Cultivate all the best, and that only.

Plea For Deeper Study of the Bible.

If we read the Bible aright we read a book which teaches us to go forth and do the work of the Lord, to do the work of the Lord in the world as we find it, to try to make things better in this world, to make it a little better because we have lived in it. We plead for a closer and wider and deeper study of the Bible, so that our people may be in fact as well as in theory "doers of the word and not hearers only."—Theodore Roosevelt.

Un-Christian Speech.

The early Christians suffered just as we do from un-Christian speech. It is one of the fine features of the early church that it took such firm practical hold of such problems. It did not gloss them over and say that they were too small or personal to deal with. It realized that unchristianity was a good it must be good for the purification and ennobling of human conversation.—Sunday School Times.

Let Something Good Be Said.

When over the fair fame of friend or foe
The shadow of disgrace shall fall, instead
Of words of blame or proof of thus and so,
Let something good be said.

Forget not that no fellow being yet
May hide so low but love may lift his head;
Even the cheek of shame with tears is wet
If something good be said.

No generous heart may calmly turn aside
In ways of sympathy, no soul so dead
But may awaken strong and glorified,
If something good be said.

And so I charge ye, by the thorny crown,
And by the cross on which the Savior bled,
And by your own soul's hope of fair renown,
Let something good be said.
—James Whitcomb Riley in Christian Work and Evangelist.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning June 10.

By REV. S. H. DOYLE.

Topic—Christ's Life in His relation to His disciples and what He expects of them.—Matt. x. 16-42.

In the chapter from which the passage for our study is taken we have the record of the sending out of the twelve upon a missionary tour and the instructions given to them for their journey. In connection with these instructions He refers to His relation to them and their relation to Him. The relationships were those of Master and disciple. "The disciple is not above his Master. * * * It is enough for the disciple that he be as his Master." Master and disciple are therefore the relationship that Christ and believers sustain to one another.

The relationship of Christ to the disciples at once determines their relationship to Him and what He expects of them; hence if we will study the full significance of the Mastership of Christ we will see clearly and plainly what is expected of us by His disciples.

1. Christ as our Master is our Teacher. This is one meaning of the word master in the New Testament. Christ is our Teacher. He taught His disciples. This was one mission of His coming to earth. He came to instruct mankind concerning God, salvation and the life to come. If He is our Teacher, we are His pupils. We should sit at His feet and "learn of Him." "Never man spake as He spake," and it is no discredit, but a great honor, to be the greatest Teacher's disciples. The Teacher of teachers, as ours. Therefore we should be most diligent students and by all that He said and did learn of Him what He wants us, as His disciples, to know.

2. Christ as our Master is our Lord. He is our divine Master. The word master is used in this sense in the New Testament. This makes the disciple His servant, and it is an honor to be the servant of Christ and therefore to obey Him fully and implicitly. The servant must obey his master, and Christ as our Lord expects obedience of us. It should be cheerfully and willingly given. Christ is no tyrannical Master. He only asks of us what, as our divine Lord, He has a right to ask. He only requires of us that which will be for our present and future good. And in all cases He only demands what we through His strength can perform. He Himself has done all that He asks us to do. Therefore, like Paul, we should glory in being His servants, even as the bond servants or slaves—and should with joy and promptness keep all His commandments.

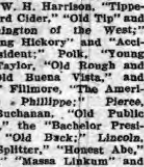
3. Christ as our Master is our guide. The word master as applied to Christ in the New Testament means a guide, and we should follow where He leads. He is our leader and goes before us. He does not say to us "go," but "come," for He Himself has trod the pathway which He expects His disciples to follow. He goes before and only asks us to follow. He has given us the example and only expects us to be what He has been, and "it is enough for the disciple that he be as his Master and the servant as his Lord." Can any disciple ask that he be more than his master or the servant that he be less than his lord?

BIBLE READINGS.

Matt. v. 1-12; vi. 24; x. 1-10; xvi. 24-28; Mark xi. 31-35; xiii. 34-38; xiv. 12-16; Luke ix. 1-6; John xv. 1-17; Gal. ii. 20.

The Geneva Convention Sticker.

In all its announcements for the world's Christian Endeavor convention to be held in Geneva, Switzerland, July 28 to Aug. 1, the convention committee is using the unique sticker which is reproduced herewith. The border inscription is printed in three different languages, that used by English speaking Endeavorers being shown here.



STICKER FOR GENEVA CONVENTION.

All the official general letters are also being printed in the three leading languages of the globe. It is expected that the Geneva convention will be the largest world's Christian Endeavor gathering ever held.

Pithy and Points.

Remember that every prayer meeting should have an object as well as a subject.

When committees fail to present their monthly report it is usually because there is nothing to report.

Speak out! No one gets any benefit from the message that cannot be heard. Indeed, your speaking is more likely to irritate than to edify.

That Endeavorer who spoke in your meeting the other night for the first time—you told him at the close how pleased you were to hear his voice, of course.

Don't scold. Encouragement is always better than discouragement. If your meetings are not what they ought to be you are not likely to raise the standard by talking them down.

The height of a tree and the spread of its branches are in proportion to the depth and extensity of its roots. Your society must strike root downward into the soil of divine truth and broaden out in its grasp of divine love if it is to bear fruit upward and branch out in manifold Christian service.

A committee—a number of individuals to whom some important work has been committed. Have you thought much about the work that has been committed to you? Do you consider who it is that has assigned you this service?—Irish Endeavorer.

SETON HALL'S BIG DAY

Program Complete for Golden Jubilee Exercises on June 12 and 13.

TO HOLD A BANQUET

Distinguished Prelates and Laymen to Attend the Ceremonies—

Commencement on June 13.

Seton Hall is preparing to celebrate its golden jubilee on June 12 and 13. The note of preparation has invaded the college buildings, where scholastic quietude has long dwelt. Monsignor John A. Stafford, president of the institution, has arranged an elaborate programme to mark the fiftieth year of the existence of the college.

The first day of the celebration will be known as alumni day. Sons from Seton Hall will gather on this occasion, and the song "Setonia," written for the alumni by Francis M. Reilly, '94, and music by Rev. Edward M. Farrell, will be sung. The day will open with a solemn pontifical mass for deceased alumni. Bishop Sebastian G. Messmer, of Milwaukee, who was a professor at Seton Hall for eighteen years, was to have been the celebrant, but he sent word Tuesday that he will not be present, having sailed for Europe. Bishop John J. O'Connor will officiate instead. The archpriest will be Rev. William P. Cantwell, of Long Branch; deacons of honor, Dean B. J. Mulligan, of Camden, and Rev. Maurice F. O'Connor, of Morristown; deacons of mass, Rev. J. J. Boylan, of Jersey City; subdeacon, Rev. Thomas J. Kernan, of Passaic; masters of ceremonies, Rev. George L. Fitzpatrick, of Hoboken; Rev. William B. Masterson, of Bayonne; censer bearer, Rev. William P. Smith, of Elizabeth; acolytes, Rev. William D. Duffy and Rev. C. J. Kane, of Jersey City.

At 12:30 Monsignor Stafford will welcome them at a banquet. Around the board will gather Bishop Bernard J. Mcquaid, of Rochester, first president of Seton Hall; Bishop James Augustine McFall, of Trenton, and Bishop O'Connor, of this diocese, both graduates of the college in 1873, the latter being the honor man of the class; Rev. Dr. Henry A. Brann, of New York, first president of Seton Hall; Dr. Albert J. Reynaud, of New York; former District Attorney Eugene A. Philbin, of New York; former United States Senator James Smith, Jr., Prosecutor John A. Coyle, of Lancaster, Pa.; Thomas H. Dunn, of Newark; men of New York, and numerous clergymen and laymen prominent in every walk of life.

The sporting blood of the old timers will be aroused at 3:30 o'clock in the afternoon, when the Seton Hall nine will play a game of baseball with Manhattan College. After the game supper will be served in the dining halls of the college, and a smoker will follow for the alumni association and guests.

Commencement day will be held June 13. In the morning the trustees of the college will meet and in the afternoon commencement exercises will be held in the Newark theatre at 2:30. Bishop O'Connor will preside at this function.

Besides the ten graduates, seated upon the stage will be the members of the faculty, Monsignor Stafford, Rev. John A. Dillon, vice president of the college; Rev. Charles H. Mackel, dean of the faculty; Rev. James F. Mooney, Rev. Edward M. Farrell, Rev. Lalor McLaughlin, Joseph A. Moore, Michael Cary, Austin Gilboons, John Hanrahan, John Matthews, Rev. Thomas P. O'Donnell, Messrs. Kirk, Woods and Tichler, the trustees, and others.

Degrees will be conferred and medals and honors awarded to the students, besides the presentation of diplomas to the graduates. Orations will be delivered by John J. Stafford and Maurice F. Spillane. The glee club will sing under the direction of Rev. Father Farrell.

Bishop Bernard J. McQuaid, the first president of Seton Hall, will deliver the address to the graduates.

A GOLDEN AGE.

I've read the advertisements
Of most the things you ought to take
For instantaneous relief
From every pain an' ache.
No matter what the trouble,
They will cure it, safe and quick.
The expense is jest a trifle,
What's the use of being sick?

And in the next-door column
The financial folks explain
How ten dollars is invested
To bring thousands, all clear gain.
They show you calculations
Which are absolutely sure
To lead the way to fortune.
Where's the sense of being poor?

I'm mighty glad I'm living
In a lucky time like this;
The chances are so many
That I can't tell which to miss.
And I want the world to join me
In my gratitude intense.
We can all be rich and happy
At a nominal expense.
—Washington Star.

Miss Edna Coriell has resigned her position as clerk in the postoffice. She will leave tomorrow.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

A DEMOCRATIC WEEKLY.

Published a.

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Terms: $2.00 per year.

A. L. FORCE, Editor and Proprietor.

THURSDAY, JUNE 7, 1906.

THE MUCK RAKER.

Governor Hanly, of Indiana, like a good many million people in these United States, does not fear the effect of exposing corruption wherever it may be found. Being a sensible man he knows that the only way to stamp out abuses and bring about reforms is to show up all the crookedness and punish the guilty.

In a recent speech, the Governor said:

"I do not look with pleasure either upon "muck" or the "muck" raker," but either is better than the "muck bed." And as long as the "muck bed" remains I hope the "muck raker" will continue to expose it and to lay it bare, that the people may come to hate it, to despise the greed that feeds it, and to forsake every man whose hands are soiled with pollution."

The "muck raker" has toiled on from one year's end to another. Today he has the respect and confidence of those who believe in public and private honesty, for he is doing a good work. His enemies are the enemies of society.

TOWNSHIP COMMITTEE'S DUTY.

It is quite probable that the Warren township committee realizes full well the nine good roads bear to any rural district, and, therefore, will not lose sight of the fact that it will be greatly to the advantage of the farmers to improve the highways in the vicinity. The Sterling road, for instance, is in very bad shape, as is also the Warrenville road. Particularly is this the case on the approaches to North Plainfield township. Somerset county's Board of Freeholders has already consented to the necessary improvement of the Sterling road but before anything can be done, the Warren township committee must ratify its action. In doing so, the committee would merely perform its sworn obligation; to do otherwise would be a gross disregard of public duty.

WHY ASK CHILDREN?

The wisdom of permitting the public school children of the city to contribute to the fund for the rebuilding of San Francisco's schools may be questioned. On sober thought it does not seem proper to raise that or any other similar fund from among the pupils. Necessarily the contributions come from the parents and many of them will be impelled to give just because they know that children of richer parentage will make donations. Naturally it will be admitted one child does not desire to see another give more than he does. Therein the trouble lies.

Some more satisfactory method should be devised in place of this round-about way of getting a fund together.

THE CAMPAIGN IS BEGUN.

As might be expected under the circumstances, John F. Dryden has announced his candidacy for re-election to the United States Senate. Col. Kuser, his son-in-law, acts as spokesman for the insurance president in throwing down the gauntlet for George L. Record, who made his announcement some days ago.

The colonel claims that every regular political leader in the State and every possible regular aspirant for the office have given promises of support. Among the list he cites former Governors Griggs, Murphy and Voorhees as well as Governor Stokes. In fact he intimates that he has pledges from every one of them that there will be no opposition to Mr. Dryden's candidacy.

The campaign has begun—now for the thunder of the guns.

IS THERE AN ICE TRUST?

The suggestion that the Plainfield Protective Association, which has undertaken an investigation of the ice question, study out just what the commodity costs the wholesale and retail dealers is a good one. Publicity of the widest form should be given the findings, for otherwise the task mapped out will be of no direct benefit.

Monday it was alleged by members of the organization that a combination of dealers regulates prices. Moreover it was openly asserted that one man was paid $1,000 to stay out of the business. These charges should be thoroughly sifted and the findings laid before the public. If no better prices can be obtained, then the suggestion that a mutual ice company be established will be the only recourse.

TO TEST BISHOPS' BILL.

Just as soon as it goes into effect on July 4, the "Bishops' bill" will be attacked by the Jersey City authorities, who claim that it discriminates in certain respects against that municipality. The sooner its constitutionality is determined the better it will be and the law-abiding public can only hope that the measure will be found to be perfectly sound.

ANOTHER BLAST OF HOT AIR.

On the eve of his departure for Europe, Dr. Parkhurst has given vent to his usual harangue on the New York police department. For sensationalism the doctor beats the proverbial yellow journal by a mile.

Hamilton W. Mabie has joined the ranks of the Colbyites, having made his appearance at the meeting in Summit last night. Verily the list is growing, and the noteworthy thing about the roll is that it contains the names of so many sterling men in the higher walks of life.

Must New Jersey—beg pardon, the G. O. P. leaders—choose from among Stokes, Record and Dryden for the United States Senatorship? Is there no better material in this great State?

AMUSEMENTS.

OPENING OF DREAMLAND.

Dreamland, Coney Island's biggest amusement enterprise, is open for the summer season. Since last season so many improvements have been made and so many changes in the character of the Park that visitors will scarcely be able to recognize it as the Dreamland of last summer. It is said that Senator Reynolds and his associates have spent something like the neighborhood of $500,000 in redecorating and rejuvenating the big amusement enterprise. The original color scheme which gave to it its distinctiveness and the name of "The White City" has been retained but everything will be found bright and new. Some of the most important attractions of last season will again be in evidence, but for most part the minor ones have new and attractive substitutes. Creation, which was one of the big successes of last season occupies the same space as formerly, but this year many new electrical effects have been added and it will be found to be more attractive than ever. Bostock's animals also occupy the place at the entrance of the grounds, which has been their since the inception of Dreamland. Bostock himself had recently arrived from abroad bringing many new and strange animals and many novelties are promised. The Palm Gardens, which last year was a most attractive feature of the park and which was underneath the big tower, has now been raised until it is level with the boardwalk and it is expected that this will increase its popularity with Dreamland visitors. A great free hippodrome will be one of the attractions this summer in which forty horses and as many drivers and riders will participate. There will be chariot races, standing races, jockey races and numerous ring acts in which several prominent European circus performers will take part.

Lyric: 42d St. West of Broadway, Telephone, 1646 Bryant. Evenings at 8:15. Regular matinees Wednesday and Saturdays. Henry E. Dixey in Grace Livingston Furniss' dramatization of Harold McGrath's novel, "The Man on the Box."

Casino: Broadway and 39th St. Telephone, 1646 Bryant. Evenings at 8:15. Thursday and Saturday matinees. "The Social Whirl," a musical comedy by Charles F. Duty, Joseph Herbert, and Gustav Kerker. Cast includes Adele Ritchie, Joseph Coyne, Ross and Fenton. Maude Raymond, Frederic Bond, Ada Lewis and 100 others.

What promises to become one of the popular features at "Brighton Beach Park" this summer is the "Pike," which branches off the esplanade at right angles and follows the line of the ocean front for nearly a quarter of a mile. On either side will be shows of all kinds, a regular street fair, and it will be a difficult person indeed who cannot find a great deal which will amuse them. There are laughter making devices, rifle shooting, illusions, fun, pony and money show, which is called "Monkeytown" and in which the little animals give a reproduction of the famous "Fighting the Flames" act which has attracted so much attention in other localities. Then there is the famous Mexican midget, Chiquita, who is said to be the most perfectly formed little bit of femininity in the world. Another attraction which seems certain to attract a lot of attention is the collection of pythons and boa constrictors which are exhibited by Professor Lowe. The smallest of these reptiles is said to measure twenty-four feet in length and to weigh over three hundreds pounds and there are fifty-two of them. Another most interesting collection of smaller reptiles, the "Pike" and the Ferari Wild Animal Kingdom, which opened to the public on Saturday, were well patronized. On June 14, the Pawnee Bill Wild West and Far East show takes possession of the big arena which has been prepared for its reception.

At the Savoy theatre, "The Girl Patsy," was the cause of a great deal of criticism pro and con. Acton Davies, dramatic editor of The Sun, said: "It created no enthusiasm." Roland Hennessy, dramatic critic of The News, said: "Miss Mary Ryan's acting is simplicity in itself without seeming endeavor to be tragic, but the effect is overwhelming, and the audience gave her round after round of applause." One thing is certain. The public is more than pleased with the play. As one critic said: "The Girl Patsy" can be put down as one of the best of the plays produced in 1906, and will unquestionably add greatly to the fame of its author, Jane Maudin. Feigl, and little Mary Ryan, the pathetic girl in rags." The Savoy theatre, which is one of the best of the Frohman houses, has inaugurated bargain matinees for Wednesday and Saturday during the summer run of "The Girl Patsy." These prices will be just one-half of the regular charges.

Princess: Broadway and 29th St. Telephone, 2848 Madison. Evenings at 8:15. Best seats $1 at Thursday and Thursday matinees. Season closes Thursday, June 7. Henry Woodruff in "Brown or Harvard," a college comedy by Rida Johnson Young.

Henry Woodruff, star of that most successful of all college plays, "Brown of Harvard," was the victim of a burglary in New York recently in which he lost many valuables including a pearl and opal pin which was an engagement present to him from Anna Gould (Countess de Castellane). The engagement of Mr. Woodruff and Miss Gould, which was broken in order that she might wed Boni, was one of the society and theatrical sensations in New York ten years ago.

"Seeing New York" is the title of the chief feature of the entertainment for the summer in New York city's most beautiful and comfortable hot-weather playhouse, Wistaria Grove, on the New York theatre, which will open for the season on Tuesday night, June 5. It is a topical review of metropolitan life, treated from the viewpoint of broad comicality, and in a scenic way is quite comprehensive. Among the stage pictures in the amusing skit are the orange-room of the Hotel Astor, the Casino in Central Park, Red Mike's celebrated saloon and "honkatonk" in Avenue A, and the world-famous Flatiron building, now occupied by storied place in the picturesque side of New York city activity. At the head of the cast of "Seeing New York" are Al Leech, the star of Girls Will Be Girls," and Carrie De Mar, the star of "Mama's Papas." Others are Clifton Crawford, the author of "Nancy Brown;" Cheridah Simpson, the primadonna of "King Dodo" and "The Prince of Pilsen;" Charles McCarthy, for years Edward Harrigan's chief support; John E. Hazzard, the celebrated Hi Holler of "Way Down East;" the Three Rosebuds, a trio of capital soubrettes; Thomas Fortune, the tenor, and Fleurette De Mar, the dancer. Preceding the performance of "Seeing New York" every night will be a vaudeville bill of mixed American and European novelties. Salerno, heralded as the greatest juggler who ever crossed the Atlantic; the Dandy Dixie Minstrels, a score of talented negro comedians and singers; the six Provencies, a sextet of fearless cyclists, the Spissel Brothers and Mack, a popular team of comedians, and the Yamatama Brothers, Japanese acrobats, are included in the opening bill. Performances will be given on the roof every sunday night, when special programmes of vaudeville will be offered. The resort is under the management of William A. Brady and Joseph Hart.

The most successful summer show which has ever been brought into New York is "His Honor the Mayor," which is presented by Alfred E. Aarons at the New York theatre. Its record-breaking at its initial performance was widely enthusiastic and the New York papers the next day pronounced it the most tuneful and most laughable entertainment of its kind that Broadway has seen in many years. The Messrs. Aarons and Sill have made no claims that "His Honor the Mayor" is a pretentious production, but have merely asserted that it is a light, breezy entertainment, not calculated to overtax one's mentality during the hot period. Miss Blanch Ring, who is a popular favorite with theatre-goers, has the leading role and she shares the honor with the famous original English Pony Ballet. These eight young women are a sensation wherever they appear. The other principles, which include Clarence Harvey, Harry Kelly, Fletcher Norton, William Black, Arthur Earnest, John Pratt, E. Van Rensselaer, Mabel Hollins, Madelyn Marshall, Lora Lieb and Lois Tabor, are all well known and are admirably suited for the parts which they assume. The company numbers one hundred persons and the production itself is of rare beauty. There are twenty-two musical numbers in "His Honor the Mayor," written by Jilan Edwards and Alfred E. Aarons. Mr. Edwards is one of the best known of American composers, he having written the score of such successes as "Dolly Varden," "Brian Boru" and "When Johnny Comes Marching Home," while Mr. Aarons is the composer of "Mlle. Awkins," "The Knickerbocker Girl" and other popular successes. The book is from the pen of R. M. Bleiner and C. H. Campbell, two well known western librettists. For this engagement at the New York theatre the prices have been fixed by the management at one dollar for the best seats, with very desirable locations at 25, 50 and 75 cents.

Singular.

"I've been pondering over a singular thing."

"And that?"

"How placing a ring on a woman's finger generally gets you under her thumb."—Milwaukee Sentinel.

CARNIVAL'S BIG PROFITS

C. J. Fisk's Enterprise May Net $10,000 For the Hospital.

MR. BEATON GENEROUS

Winner of Auto Has It Auctioned Off for Benefit of the Institution—Mr. Fisk Pleased.

"I don't know what to say except that it was a grand success, it ended in a blaze of glory and those who contributed services and articles cannot be thanked half enough," was the way former Mayor Charles J. Fisk expressed himself Monday, when asked for a statement regarding the close of the Carnival. He was found on the grounds still working as hard as ever in directing the dismantling of what had been booths and buildings, but he wore one of the happiest smiles that has brightened his countenance in weeks. The big affair has been a great load on his shoulders and the fact that it passed off without a serious accident of any kind and netted a very handsome benefit to Muhlenberg hospital has repaid him for his labor.

"Although I have not received all the accounts as yet," he continued, "I should say the net profits will be between $8,000 and $10,000. The Women's Auxiliary building returned the wonderful gross of $8,000, of which about $5,000 will be profit. Every department showed splendid results and it looks as if the gross receipts from all sources would reach $22,000. It's wonderful when you stop to think about it and it shows that the people of Plainfield are heartily in sympathy with the movement to help Muhlenberg. I wish I could mention the name of every person who volunteered to help out but it would be impossible; still, they have my sincere thanks and those of every member of the general committee."

The crowd at the grounds Saturday night was another record breaker and it was one of the "bound-to-stay" kind. When 12 o'clock came several thousand people were still looking and spending money. The surprise which Mr. Fisk had announced was the appearance of several well known Plainfielders who took charge of the different booths in the Auxiliary building and auctioned off what goods remained. Among them were Judge Runyon, who sold the bible that was the Edgar Serrell, and the crowd simply couldn't resist bidding. Practically everything was disposed of at good prices and very little remained when a large force of workmen started dismantling things early Monday.

The automobile for which the post office was won by George A. Beaton, of West Seventh street. He immediately turned it back and it was bought at auction by Edward S. P. Randolph for Morris Brothers for $500. Andrew K. Hill is the lucky one and Mrs. William Coleman secured the runabout. "Bob" Fitzsimmons' big horse shoe was awarded to ticket No. 2450, but so far the holder has not been located.

Mr. Fisk has made the request that all those having accounts to settle do so at once as he wishes to have a complete statement of the net profit ready for the Board of Governors at their meeting Monday night.

LITERARY.

Mr. Schurz was a man of genius; but he was a man in whom high intellectual powers were combined with moral qualities even more rare. Though distinctively a thinker and man of culture, he was a born fighter; when the cause was there to be fought for, the courage and resolution were never lacking. But he fought simply for love or for light; the key of his whole career is consistent devotion to a clear ideal, and faithful adherence to a body of political doctrines and moral convictions which formed part of his very being. A rare union of clearness of intellect with spiritual ardor, coupled with an extraordinary command of the resources of his adopted as well as of his native language, stamped his speeches and writings with that combination of lucidity and animation which, along with the evident and complete sincerity, gave them their peculiar efficacy as a political force. As an example of what may be achieved by sheer force of character and intellect, the career of Schurz has been of inestimable value to thousands of young Americans in the present and the past two generations.—From "Carl Schurz," by Fabian Franklin, in the American Monthly Review of Reviews for June.

Montrose Making Good.

Friends of Smiling Jimmy Montrose, who joined the Auburn team of the International league a few weeks ago, will be gratified to know that the Plainfielder is making good. He has pitched in three games up to date and has succeeded in winning all three He was picked to twirl the opening game against Ithaca, the Auburns winning by the score of 3 to 1. The league is composed of towns in New York and Pennsylvania.

$6.00

will buy a brand new $10 Steven Ideal RIFLE. No. 44, with 24-inch barrel. 32 R. F. calibre. Call 9 Coddington Avenue, North Plainfield, N. J.

Bankers. Brokers, Financiers, Investors READ THE NEW YORK TIMES WEEKLY FINANCIAL QUOTATION REVIEW EVERY MONDAY.

SALES OF STOCKS, NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE
Complete details of sales of stocks, number of shares sold, first, high, low and last price, high and low prices during the current year, and range for previous year. Amount of each issue of capital stock outstanding, with par value.

TIMELY QUOTATIONS ON INACTIVE STOCKS
Stocks which have not been traded in during the week are placed in a table by themselves, with date upon which they were last dealt in and price of sale, range for the year, and dividend and capitalization statistics.

BOND TRANSACTIONS ON THE NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE
Total sales, high, low, closing and last bid and asked prices for both active bonds and inactive bonds, as well as Government and State bonds.

OUTSIDE SECURITIES
Latest quotations, with capital and dividend rates of the greatest New York banks, trust and surety companies, gas companies, ferry companies, insurance companies, street railways, and shares of many industrial and mining concerns, and of railroad and industrial collateral trust notes, with dates of maturity, interest, and approximate yield.

DECLARED DIVIDENDS
Standing and continuous record of dividends declared during each week, with date of opening and closing of books, date of payment, amount and date upon which stock must be held in order to secure the dividend.

OUT OF TOWN STOCK EXCHANGES
Reports of transactions of Stock Exchanges of Philadelphia, Baltimore, Chicago, Boston, and other cities.

RAILROAD EARNINGS
Monthly returns of all the great railroads and industrial companies carefully tabulated.

BANK CLEARINGS—NEW YORK AND OUT OF TOWN.
Tables of clearings of New York City banks, New York bank statement; clearings of banks of principal cities of the country for preceding week; statements of the banks of England, France and Germany; table giving daily quotations for call and time money through the week, and rates of sterling exchange.

CHRONOLOGY OF THE WEEK
Record of events in the financial markets of special interest to those who, owing to the nature of their business, must follow the course of these markets.

A serviceable Binder for the Financial Quotation Review is now obtainable. Cost $1.00.

Sample copy on request.

Annual Subscription One Dollar.

The New York Times
"All the News That's Fit to Print."

Radium Radia

Is admitted by the thousands who have used it to be THE GREATEST REMEDY EVER DISCOVERED FOR THE CURE OF

RHEUMATISM

LUMBAGO, NEURALGIA, COUGHS, COLDS ON CHEST, SORE THROAT, PNEUMONIA, STRAINS, SWELLINGS, ETC.

IT NEVER FAILS TO CURE

Hundreds have been cured with one Application

Recommended by Eminent Physicians

APPLIED EXTERNALLY

Sold at Drug Stores and 13 W. 26th St., N.Y. City

PRICE $1.00 and 50c. Write for Booklet

MAILED ANYWHERE ON RECEIPT OF PRICE

"Beautify Your Home"

The Burr McIntosh Monthly

"Pictorial Perfection"

"THE MOST BEAUTIFUL MAGAZINE IN THE WORLD"

Ask your newsdealer for this superb magazine. If he does not handle it send us his name and address with your name and address and 10c. for sample copy. Regular price 25c. Mention this paper.

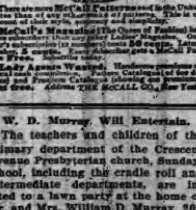
Burr Publishing Company
4 West 22d Street New York City



There are more McCall Patterns used in the United States than of any other pattern, and they are the Standard of their style, workmanship and economy.

McCall's Magazine, the Queen of Fashion's Realm, is the Leader Magazine. One million ladies read it every month. Its Fashions, Fancy Work, Cooking Recipes, Stories, Fun, Fiction and Fine Art Pictures are unsurpassed. Only 50 cents a year. Send for a sample copy.

Lady Agents Wanted. Handsome premiums for a few hours' work. Send for terms. Address Premium Dept. 6 Every Month Publishing Company, 6 and 8 West 13th street, New York. Address THE McCALL CO., New York.

Mr. and Mrs. William LaRue, of East Second street, celebrated the tenth anniversary of their wedding on Saturday and in the evening a party in the nature of a surprise to Mr. and Mrs. LaRue was given. It was arranged by Mrs. LaRue, Mrs. Valentine Utzinger and Mrs. Jeter. There were forty guests and a social time was had. Mrs. LaRue received a large number of gifts from relatives and friends.

W. D. Murray Will Entertain.

The teachers and children of the primary department of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, Sunday-school, including the cradle roll and Intermediate departments, are invited to a lawn party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William D. Murray, 205 West Ninth street, Saturday afternoon, at 2:30 o'clock. If the weather is unfavorable the party will be held in the church parlors.

New Jersey Central

Passenger Stations in New York—West 23d St., N. R., Foot Liberty St., N. R.

In Effect May 6, 1906.

For New York—5.36, 6.29, 6.57, 7.05, 7.28, 8.01, 8.06, 8.29, 8.57, 9.30, 9.40, 10.00, 10.30 a. m., 12.00 noon, 1.00, 2.00, 3.00, 3.30, 4.00, 4.30, 5.00, 5.30, 6.00, 6.30, 7.00, 7.30, 8.00, 8.30, 9.00, 9.30, 10.00, 10.30, 11.00 p. m. Sundays—5.36, 6.29, 7.05, 7.28, 8.01, 8.06, 8.29, 8.57, 9.30, 9.40, 10.00, 10.30 a. m., 12.00 noon, 1.00, 2.00, 3.00, 3.30, 4.00, 4.30, 5.00, 5.30, 6.00, 6.30, 7.00, 7.30, 8.00, 8.30, 9.00, 9.30, 10.00, 10.30, 11.00 p. m.

For Newark—5.36, 6.29, 6.57, 7.05, 7.28, 8.01, 8.06, 8.29, 8.57, 9.30, 9.40, 10.00, 10.30 a. m., 1.13, 2.21, 2.48, 3.44, 4.13, 4.47, 5.15, 5.30, 6.00, 6.30, 7.00, 7.30, 8.00, 8.30, 9.00, 9.30, 10.00, 10.30, 11.00 p. m. Sundays—5.36, 6.29, 7.05, 7.28, 8.01, 8.06, 8.29, 8.57, 9.30, 9.40, 10.00, 10.30 a. m., 12.00, 1.00, 2.00, 3.00, 3.30, 4.00, 4.30, 5.00, 5.30, 6.00, 6.30, 7.00, 7.30, 8.00, 8.30, 9.00, 9.30, 10.00, 10.30, 11.00 p. m.

For Philadelphia—5.36, 6.29, 7.05, 7.28, 8.01, 8.06, 8.29, 8.57, 9.30, 9.40, 10.00, 10.30 a. m., 12.00 noon, 1.00, 2.00, 3.00, 3.30, 4.00, 4.30, 5.00, 5.30, 6.00, 6.30, 7.00, 7.30, 8.00, 8.30, 9.00, 9.30, 10.00, 10.30, 11.00 p. m. Sundays—5.36, 6.29, 7.05, 7.28, 8.01, 8.06, 8.29, 8.57, 9.30, 9.40, 10.00, 10.30 a. m., 12.00 noon, 1.00, 2.00, 3.00, 3.30, 4.00, 4.30, 5.00, 5.30, 6.00, 6.30, 7.00, 7.30, 8.00, 8.30, 9.00, 9.30, 10.00, 10.30, 11.00 p. m.

For Bethlehem, Allentown and Mauch Chunk—5.36, 9.40 a. m., 4.30 p. m. Sundays—5.45 a. m., 5.00 p. m.

For Easton—5.36, 9.40 a. m., 4.30 p. m. Sundays—8.05 a. m., 7.11, 5.47 p. m. Sundays—8.45 a. m., 5.47 p. m.

For Flemington Branch and Asbury Park, etc.—5.27, 8.11, 11.00 a. m., 1.18, 3.44, 4.47, 6.29, 11.32 p. m. Sunday—8.52 a. m., 6.30, 8.12 p. m.

For Red Bank—5.27, 8.11, 11.00 a. m., 12.18, 3.44, 4.47, 6.29, 11.32 p. m. Sundays—8.52 a. m., 2.30, 8.12 p. m.

For Lakewood and Atlantic City—2.30 a. m., 12.18, 2.48, 6.29 p. m. Lakewood only). Sundays—8.52 a. m.

For Toms River and Barnegat—6.11 a. m., 12.18, 2.48, 6.29 p. m.

For Philadelphia—4.17, 7.44, 8.51, 9.29, 10.44, 11.41 a. m., 12.45, 2.25, 3.45, 4.45, 5.42, 6.45, 7.46, 8.50, 9.46 p. m., 1.17 night. Sunday—5.17, 10.39, 10.44, 11.41 a. m., 12.39, 2.25, 3.45, 4.45, 5.42, 6.45, 7.46, 8.50, 9.46 p. m., 11.25, 1.17 night.

For Trenton—4.17, 7.44, 8.51, 10.51, 11.41 a. m., 12.45, 2.25, 3.45, 4.50, 9.46 p. m., 1.17 night. Sunday—5.17, 9.53, 10.39, 10.44, 11.41 a. m., 12.39, 2.25, 3.45, 4.50, 9.46, 11.25 p. m., 1.17 night.

For Reading and Harrisburg—3.25, 9.55 a. m., 12.25, 4.25, 5.55, 9.46 p. m., 1.17 night. Sundays—2.03, 5.47 p. m., 1.17 night.

For Pottsville, Sunbury and Williamsport—3.25, 9.55 a. m., 2.11 p. m. Sundays—5.03 p. m.

For Baltimore and Washington—1.17, 3.51, 10.51 a. m., 2.25, 4.45, 7.47 p. m. Sundays—1.15 a. m., 2.45 p. m., 1.17 night.

Change cars at Bound Brook.

W. G. BESLER, Gen. Pass. Agt.
G. M. BURT, Vice Pres. & Gen. Mgr.

Lehigh Valley Railroad

Time table in Effect, May 13th, 1906.

LEAVE SOUTH PLAINFIELD, N. J.

7.55 a. m. daily, (except Sunday) local to Mauch Chunk.

8.43 a. m. daily for Easton, Wilkesbarre, Rochester, Buffalo and principal intermediate stations.

10.59 a. m. daily for Easton, Wilkesbarre, Mauch Chunk and principal intermediate stations.

1.57 p. m. daily, local for Easton, Mauch Chunk, Hazleton, Pottsville and Shenandoah.

4.58 p. m. daily (except Sunday) "Wilkesbarre Express" for Easton, solid vestibule train to Wilkesbarre, through Parlor Car via D. & H. R. R. to Scranton and Binghamton.

8.21 p. m. daily (except Sunday) local to Easton.

8.40 p. m. daily, solid vestibule train to Buffalo, Toronto and Chicago and principal intermediate stations except Rochester.

FRANK ROWLEY, City Ticket Agent, 518 West Front street, Plainfield, N. J. Telephone 112.

Arrival and Departure of Mails

PLAINFIELD POSTOFFICE.

Office opens 7 a. m., closes 7 p. m. Sunday office open 9 a. m., closes 9.30 a. m.

Arrive—7.30, 8.40, 11.30 a. m.; 2.30, 5.00, 6.30 p. m.

Close—7.25, 9.20 a. m.; 1.00, 2.30, 5.00, 7.45 p. m.

SOMERVILLE AND EASTON.

Arrive—8.40 a. m., 1.30, 3.15 and 7.00 p. m.

Close—7.30 a. m.; 1.45 and 4.30 p. m.

ELIZABETH—Direct

Arrive—8.40 a. m.; 2.30 and 6.30 p. m.

Close—7.30 a. m.; 1.00 and 4.30 p. m.

PENNSYLVANIA—West of Easton.

Close 12.30 p. m.

NEWARK—Direct

Arrive—8.40 a. m., 2.30, 6.30 p. m.

Close—7.30 a. m.; 1.00, 2.30 and 6.00 p. m.

PHILADELPHIA—Direct.

Arrive—7.30, 8.40, 11.30 a. m.; 2.30 and 7.00 p. m.

Close—7.30, 9.30 a. m.; 12.35, 4.30, 7.45 p. m.

Through fast mail for West and South close 1.00 and 7.15 p. m.

WASHINGTON, WARRENVILLE AND GALLIA (Mt. Bethel.)

Arrive—1.30 p. m. Close—9.00 a. m.

Watchung Ave. Station—Arrive 6.30 p. m. Close 5.30 p. m.

SUNDAY MAILS.

Office open from 9.30 to 10.30 a. m.

Mail closes at 6.15 p. m.

E. H. BIRD, P. M.

Independence Day at the Park Club.

The Park Club will hold the usual Fourth of July celebration, consisting of fireworks in the evening, followed by the dance. Because of the limited space available, it will be necessary to confine the attendance to members, their families, and associate and junior members, and their out-of-town guests, all of whom will be expected without further invitation. Members will please present their membership cards at the entrance. It is proposed that the display of fireworks shall begin at 8 o'clock and last one hour. Dancing will be inaugurated after 10 o'clock and there will be music during the entire evening.

Ralph Willis Married.

Ralph Timewell Willis, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. V. N. Willis, of Duer street, and Miss Mary Katherine King, daughter of Mrs. Marie Ward King, of New York, were quietly married Saturday afternoon at All Souls' church, New York, by Rev. Dr. Pratt. The ceremony was witnessed only by the immediate relatives of the couple. The couple will reside in this city.

The Boys' Mission Band of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church have been busy collecting clothing and sending it to Dr. Grenfell for distribution at his mission station in Labrador.

GENTLEMAN RIDER HURT

Mr. Singleton Van Schaick Thrown at Watchung Races and Has His Hip Broken.

TAKEN TO HOSPITAL

Second Day of the Meet Ends in Blinding Rain—"Ringer" in the Farmers' Race.

A heavy shower which came up just before the last event on the card was called and an accident to Singleton VanSchaick, of Huntington, L. I., marred the last half of the Watchung Hunt Club's two-day steeplechase meeting, Saturday afternoon. Half the spectators had started away before the final race was called and while it was in progress, the riders could not be seen except when directly in front of the grandstand because of the heavy downpour of rain. It was during this number, a steeplechase of three miles, that Mr. VanSchaick's mount, "Adjutor," slipped as he was jumping a trough in the course. The rider was pitched to the ground and the animal rolled over him, breaking his hip and leaving him semi-conscious.

The only other starters in the race, which was for the Oak Tree cup, were Charles Pfizer, Jr.'s "Bacchanal," ridden by Fletcher Harper, of *New York, and Louis Baijer's "To*bossa," carrying the owner. VanSchaick was alongside of them when he went down and as both were occupied in watching the course, they took no particular notice of his fall. The blinding rain hid him from the spectators and officials and he remained on the ground until just before Harper and Baijer returned on the second round. He was then struggling to one side and called to them to keep on; that he was all right. When he failed to appear after the finish, grooms rushed over to where he was and they found him helpless. He was carried to a nearby residence, the scene of the accident being on the side of the hill just below Judge Steele's summer Muhlenberg hospitality.

Harper brought "Bacchanal" under the wire first and was declared the winner of the cup. Batjer rode neck and neck with him at the finish but was ruled out of second place because of leaving the course for a short distance at one of the turns. He was not aware that he had done so until informed by the clerk. He played in hard luck in this way in the previous race, coming in second also.

The feature of the day was a steeplechase for the Master's Cup, in which there were seven entries. Charles W Fisk's "Applejack," which was beaten in the Watchung Cup on Wednesday because of the rider's mishaps in the course, was a hot favorite with odds at 2 to 1. He got away a little late, but soon got in the lead and held it, with Charles D. Freeman's Strongheart. The latter lost his chance by "running out," although he carried it in close and crowded Applejack to the finish, the latter getting first under the wire. George White, Jr.'s, Castlebar was given second place. It was one of the prettiest races ever run on a local track and when the winner swept passed the grandstand on the home stretch he was greeted with a tremendous cheer. Mr. Fisk, who is the son of former Mayor Charles J. Fisk, is a clever rider, not only showing ability on the track but exhibiting splendid horsemanship in sending his mount over the barriers.

The officials of the meet charge that S. A. Sabacher, of near Alton, and James Johnson, a groom, arranged a scheme to win the Farmers' race, open only to work horses the property of farmers in the vicinity of Plainfield, and it would have succeeded but for a bookmaker. While Singleton VanSchaick's head groom was away from the stable, it is alleged, they took out his pony "Katie," which won the Netherwood Cup Wednesday, but was not entered in anything Saturday, and brought her to the post as a "farm" horse. She was at first barred and then allowed to compete, Sabacher posing as the owner. Naturally she went ahead as soon as the flag fell, the groom riding held her in so as not to get too far in the lead and finished a little ahead of the nearest competitor.

Katie, under the name of Lucy, was declared the winner and it was thought everything was perfectly straight until the bookmaker, who had been hard hit through tips given by the groom and Sabacher, learned of what had been done. "Lucy" was accordingly disqualified when the clerk of the course was informed, and all bets were declared off.

The summary of the races follow:

First Race.—Westfield Cup: for gallaways, 15 hands and under; five furlongs, on the track. First, Blue Print, Singleton VanSchaick, Huntington, L. I.; second, Heen, Peter Hauck, Jr., Jupiter, Fla.; third, Jupiter, S A. Crulkshank, Plainfield.

Second Race.—Steeplechase, for horses that have been hunted regularly with the Watchung Hunt; about *three miles, over a fair hunting coun*try, and to be ridden by members of that club. First, Applejack, Charles W. Fisk, Plainfield; second, Castlebar, George White, Jr., Plainfield.

Third Race.—Farmers' event, for work horses the property of farmers in the neighborhood of Plainfield. First, Bob, F. M. Suydam (Fred Stover, rider); second, Dexter, W. H. Clark (Harvey Clark, rider); third, Dandy, Peter Lott (Oliver Lott, rider).

Fourth Race.—Union Cup, for hacks and hunters; seven furlongs on the track. First, Anticipation, John Cheever Cowdin, Westchester; second, Ellerslie, Charles Pfizer, Jr., Bernardsville; third, Red Girl, Leon S. Freeman, Morristown; fourth, *Perlon, Charles Pfizer, Jr., Morris*town.

Fifth Race—Somerset Cup; steeplechase; for half-bred, bona fide hunters; three miles over fair hunting country. First, Deford, David Dows, New York; second, Maple Leaf, Malcolm Stevenson, New York; third, Flick, Eads E. Schmidt, Morristown.

Sixth Race.—Oak Tree Cup; steeplechase; for bona fide hunters; about three miles over fair hunting country. Winner, Bacchanal, Chas. Pfizer, Jr.

FISKS GIVES HOME TO SICK CHILDREN

SISTERS OF C. J. FISK SET ASIDE PART OF ESTATE FOR CONVALESCENTS.

Riverbend, a big rambling country house on the Fisk Riverside estate at Wilburtha, on the Delaware River above Trenton, is gay with childish laughter, and the patter of little feet, the place having been converted into a convalescent home for poor children from the crowded hospitals of New York.

The successful establishment of the home which was opened May 15, is due in part to the Misses May and Evelyne Fisk, sisters of former Mayor Charles J. Fisk, of this city, and daughters of the late Harvey Fisk, the New York banker, who make their home at beautiful Riverside, which was built at Wilburtha some years ago by their father. The Misses Fisk modestly disclaim credit for this philanthropic enterprise. They say they have simply given the use of the big house to an association known as "The Riverbend Home for Convalescent Children," composed principally of New Yorkers, who wish to give the convalescent little ones the air and sunshine which it is impossible for them to have in the stifling tenement districts in the city.

The establishing of the canvalescent home was decided upon last winter and was started by the complete renovation of the place. Its rooms were furnished for the accommodation of the children. Nature has supplemented the renovation by surrounding the home with the most picturesque scenery to be found in this locality. The home overlooks the Delaware River from a knoll just below Scudders Falls.

In order that every contingency in the convalescence of the little patients may be provided for, there have been installed in the home a trained nurse, an assistant and a housekeeper. The head nurse is Miss Mary Kilson, of the Presbyterian Hospital, New York. Regular visitations to the home are being made by Dr. Paul L. Cort, of Trenton. The little inmates of the homes are supplied with fresh vegetables, eggs and milk from the Fisk estate.

Already more than a score of children discharged as cured from New York Hospitals have been cared for at the Fisk home, and have been sent back to their parents well and strong.

JOHN C. MAC CLYMONT DEAD.

End Came Saturday Night After An Illness of Four Months.

John C. MacClymont, one of the borough's best known citizens, died at his home on Washington avenue, Saturday night, after an illness of four months with a complication of Bright's disease and heart asthma. He was born in England sixty-nine years ago and came to Plainfield to live in 1886. He was actively engaged in the manufacture of jewelry in New York and had built up a successful business. A widow and one son, William H. MacClymont, and an adult ward, master of Grace church, survive him.

Hunt Club Entertains Farmers.

Following the steeplechase races at the Driving Park, Saturday afternoon, the Watchung Hunt Club tendered a dinner to the farmers over whose land they have ridden in the weekly hunts. There were about fifty presents and it was served by Caterer Timbo in the large room beneath the grandstand. After the last course had been served, Dr. Knott introduced Charles D. Freeman, president of the club, and the latter made a neat speech. He was enthusiastically cheered by the farmers who have none but the best of feeling toward the organization and who have given the members full access to all the ground they own.

Timbo Gave Satisfaction.

Thomas Timbo had charge of the restaurant privileges at the Watchung Hunt Club's second annual steeplechase on Wednesday and Saturday. His services gave the best sort of satisfaction to the club's committee and it is quite probable that he will be given the privileges at all meets of the organization in the future.

LOSSES LED TO SUICIDE

H. H. Powers, Former Borroughite, Kills Himself in Brooklyn.

UNDONE IN WALL ST.

Once a Wealthy Broker, Reverses Swept His Fortune Away and Broke Down His Spirit.

Henry H. Powers, until a year ago a resident of North Plainfield, a former member of the New York Stock Exchange, committed suicide Monday morning at his home, at 1289 Bergen street, Brooklyn, by shooting himself in the head. He was 58 years old, and leaves a wife and five children. Depression over losses in Wall street led to the act.

Powers years ago was one of the wealthiest brokers in Wall street. As he often said, luck one day went against him and he kept going down steadily until his fortune dwindled almost to nothing. He sold his seat in the Stock Exchange and then sold his mansion in Lefferts place, Brooklyn, and moved the borough, where he and his family lived eight years. The home was at 63 Grove street. About a year ago he moved back to Brooklyn.

In spite of all his reverses Powers went to Wall street every day. His losses were so great lately that they made him desperate. On his way home on Saturday he bought a revolver. Sunday night he slept in a room on the first floor. When he failed to come down to breakfast one of his daughters went to see what the cause was. Upon being admitted to the room Powers told her he was very ill and wished to have his breakfast in his room. The little girl had no sooner told her mother than they heard a pistol shot, and upon rushing again found the man dead. Mrs. Powers, who has been ill some time and barely able to get about, collapsed.

CITY FATHERS ACT ON CONSOLIDATION

PUBLIC AFFAIRS COMMITTEE TO CONFER WITH BOROUGH COUNCILMEN.

Following the example of the North Plainfield Council in the movement to bring about the consolidation of Plainfield and North Plainfield as suggested by the Board of Trade, Herbert Buxton, chairman of the public affairs committee, offered a resolution at the meeting of the Common Council Monday, providing that the public affairs committee confer with a similar committee from the North Plainfield Council. The resolution was adopted.

A communication was received by the Common Council at its regular May meeting from the Board of Trade asking that a consolidation committee reappointed. A similar request was sent to the Borough Council. At the time the Plainfield members referred the matter to the public affairs committee for a later report. The Borough Council at first held the appointment up showing no disposition to undertake the matter at the time.

Last Friday night, however, the Borough Council did appoint a committee and it is now expected that the two committees will soon get together and outline a plan of action.

SYNAGOGUE CROWDED WITH WEDDING GUESTS.

Miss Sacher and Benjamin Cantor Married by Rabbi Weidman.

Miss Lizzie Sacher, daughter of Jacob Sacher, of West Third street and Spooner avenue, and Benjamin Cantor, formerly of this city but now of Mt. Vernon, N. Y., were married at the Synagogue in New street, at 4 o'clock, Sunday afternoon. Rabbi M. Davidson, of the local congregation, officiated. The couple was at*tended by the parents of the bride* and a brother of the groom was best man. The ceremony was witnessed by a large number of guests from New York, Brooklyn, Newark, Passaic, New Brunswick, Mt. Vernon and this city.

After the wedding a reception and dance was held in the armory of Co. K on West Front street. During the evening an elaborate supper was served. The bride received many handsome presents. Late Sunday night the couple left on a wedding trip. They will reside at Mt. Vernon.

Jersey Central Blocked.

The pulling out of a draw-head caused a freight car on a west-bound freight train to jump the tracks near the Richmond street bridge Saturday afternoon, and both east and west-bound main tracks were blocked for an hour and a half until the wrecker arrived and put the car back on the tracks again. During the blockade the two outside freight and coal tracks were used by passenger trains.

Seminary Commencement.

Commencement exercises will be held at the Young Ladies' Seminary on Tuesday, June 12.

ESTABLISHES HIS COURT

District Judge Newcorn to Sit For First Time on Tuesday, June 12.

NAMES ANOTHER CLERK

Horace Adams, City Committeeman, Takes Place of John Carty—Rules of Court Announced.

Plainfield's new district court is now practically open for business, although Judge Newcorn has decided that the first session will not be held until Tuesday, June 12, owing to the fact that five days must elapse between the time of serving of summonses and the day of trial. There are now several cases pending trial *in the district court which local law*yers are holding in abeyance until Judge Newcorn is ready for them.

Judge Newcorn has communicated with Chairman Leslie Dandy, of the councilmanic finance committee, and some action will be taken at the June meeting of the Common Council tonight toward establishing quarters for the holding of court. It is more than likely that the Common Coun*cil rooms will be decided upon as* the place as it is not in use day times and this selection would save the city some money.

Horace G. Adams, of Johnson avenue, has been appointed clerk in place of John Carty. Mr. Adams is a machinist by trade and is employed at the Walter Scott Printing Machine Works. He is a Republican and for several years has been an active worker, not only at election time, but as a member of the Republican City Committee.

Mr. Adams was sworn into office on Saturday by Judge Newcorn and Mayor James F. Buckle and Councilman William L. Gloak furnished bonds in the sum of $3,000 for him.

The following rules for the court were posted by Judge Newcorn:

"First. The clerk will attend to the issuing of process and to the dispatch of business daily, except Saturdays, from 9 o'clock in the morning to 12 o'clock m. and 1 o'clock p. m. to 4 o'clock p. m., and on Sat*urdays from* 9 o'clock a. m. to 12 o'clock.

"Second. The court will sit for the trial of causes on Tuesday of each week at 10 o'clock a. m., but other days may be designated by special order of the court.

"Third. Petitions and orders, whether for discovery or any other purpose, shall be filed with the clerk of the court in one day after the signing of the same and certified copies only may be served upon the defendant or other party named therein. Orders for discovery shall be served two full days before the day of examination named therein and such service shall be personal.

"Fourth. Applications for new trials, or for rules to show cause, shall be made on two days' notice to the opposing parties, stating the grounds of the application, and if affidavits are to be used, copies thereof must be served with the notice, and counter affidavits may be used at the hearing if served on the ap*pellant before the hearing.*

"Fifth. The court may upon the return day of the rule hear witnesses on moral examination.

"Sixth. In all cases where surety is required on any bond or recognizance, the surety shall be a freeholder and resident of the county of Union, unless such surety be a corporation.

"Seventh. Payment of money into court, under the 155 section of the District Court Act, may be made at any time prior to the trial.

"Eighth. No constable, clerk or other officer shall be required to serve any process or perform any service unell the legal fees for so doing shall have been paid.

"Ninth. The order of business will be as follows, viz.:

"1. Experimental call of calendar to ascertain what cases are ready for trial;

"2. Uncontested cases.

"3. Motions or hearings under rule to show cause.

"4. Contested cases.

"WILLIAM NEWCORN,

"Judge of the District Court of the City of Plainfield.

"HORACE G. ADAMS, Clerk."

YOUTH MISSING.

Sixteen-Year-Old George Stevens Disappeared Six Weeks Ago.

Mrs. Anna Mitchell has asked the police to look for her 16-year-old son, George Stevens, who disappeared from home six weeks ago. She is afraid he has met with some accident, because he gave no indications of waywardness or a longing for wandering.

It is said the boy hung around the circus that was here several weeks ago. Stevens is described as five feet ten inches in height, slimly built and of light complexion, with blue eyes. When last seen here he had on a short overcoat, a dark suit and a cap. He has scare over his right eye and his body bears the scars of bad burns.

Henry Alberts, who has been covering first base for the ball team, made quite a hit behind the bat in Saturday's game with Clinton Avenue. This gives the team two catchers, which will be found to be a good thing before the season is over.

'SENATOR' NEARLY HANGS

"Fitz's" Pet Lion Would Have Lost His Life at Carnival But For Alfred Marsh.

Leaped Over Fence and Shortness of Rope Held Him Suspended —Rescuer to Get a Horse Shoe.

Pugilist "Bob" Fitzsimmons' pet lion "Senator," which was taken to the Carnival grounds for the purpose of exhibiting him, created a small-sized uproar Saturday afternoon by nearly hanging himself in an effort to get out of his temporary quarters. Lanky Bob" brought him down from the Dunellen farm and tied him to a cable stretched across the floor used originally for dancing. It was thought he would be perfectly safe there as the platform was surrounded by a high board fence and it was impossible for anyone to disturb him.

His master had no sooner gone, than "Senator" started in to investigate things and he discovered a box that someone had left against one side of the fence. He leaped on this and to him it looked like an easy thing to jump over the top of the barricade and reach the other side. The scheme might have worked but for the fact that his chain was not long enough and when he sprang over, he was brought up with a jerk and left him hanging a foot or two from the ground.

Instantly "Senator" set up a howl that frightened nearly everyone within hearing half to death and brought a crowd of men to him on the run. It would have been an easy matter to rescue him by releasing the chain but there was the fear that when he got down he might take it into his head to select a small boy for a meal or start out on a general rampage. So he continued to hang in his leash as though "Senator's" existence was about to be terminated when Alfred Marsh thought of letting up on the cable and did so. He was none too soon as the lion was almost gone when his feet reached the ground. Marsh completed the rescue by dashing a pail of water in his face and reviving him fully. He was then taken in hand by a canvasman with the carnival circus, who knows something about animals, and led back to the inclosure. "Senator" didn't try any more investigating and remained quietly in a corner until "Fitz" returned. "The former world's champion was profuse in his thanks to Marsh and is to make him a special horse shoe as a reward.

"Fitz" and the lion proved to be a big attraction Saturday night, and people packed the pavilion time and again to see them. The fighter generously remained there with Mrs. Fitzsimmons until after 11 o'clock and they alternated in making "Senator" do all his best tricks. Manager "Bill" Counihan did the barking on the outside and a line of talk he handed out amused the crowd almost as much as the exhibit inside. He painted the "act" in such glowing colors that the crowd simply couldn't resist and the dimes rolled to him in a steady stream. He turned in a clear profit of $155 and both he and Mr. and Mrs. Fitzsimmons were warmly thanked by Mr. Fisk.

MRS. MEYERS ESCAPES INJURY IN RUNAWAY.

Her Narrow Escape on West Second Street Witnessed by Many.

The successful effort of a driver for the U. S. Express Company to avoid a collision with a runaway team attached to one of the heavy delivery wagons of the Eastern Bot*tling Company, probably saved the* life of Mrs. William Meyers, of Watchung avenue, Monday. She was seated in her buckboard on East Second street, opposite the Hotel Iroquois, hen the Eastern Bottling Company's team came through Second street on a dead run, having been frightened by a drill engine at the company's plant.

At Park avenue and Second street, the U. S. Express Company driver saw the runaway team approaching and urged his horse on to escape a collision. The runaway swerved to the right and ran up on the sidewalk, crashing into a telephone pole. The heavy wagon struck the rear wheel of the buckboard, wrecking it, but otherwise no damage resulted. Mrs. Meyers kept her seat in the wagon and was unhurt. If the runaway team had had a clear road it would have undoubtedly crashed into the buckboard and resulted in heavy damage if not a fatality.

Many people saw the runaway and expected to see Mrs. Meyers badly injured.

A strawberry and ice cream festival will be held at Fairview and Watchung avenues, on Wednesday night, June 13, for the benefit of the Warren chapel building fund. This is the site where the new chapel will stand.

Howard A. Lolvers, of South avenue, has gone to Philadelphia for a visit with relatives.

The local ball team meets the Olympic P. C., of Elizabeth, on the home diamond Saturday afternoon. The visitors are considered one of Elizabeth's fastest amateur teams.

HOW THE CLASSES WILL BE JUDGED DURING THREE DAYS.

IT TRIED TO ESCAPE FIVE HOURS EACH DAY

Show to Open at 1 o'Clock and Go Until 6—Complete List of Entries To-night.

The time table of the horse show, which will run for three days at the new Riding and Driving Club park, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, was announced Sunday by Edward S. Boggs, clerk of the association. The show will open each day at 1 o'clock and about fourteen classes will be judged during the afternoon. The show will close at about 6 o'clock.

The time table is as follows:

Thursday—1 o'clock qualified horses (light eight) class 27; 1:20, harness horses, local, class 38; 1:50, saddle horses, class 19 (14.1 and not over 15.1); 2:15, pairs of harness horses, class 9 (over 15.3; 2:30, roadsters, class 1; 2:50, combination horses, class 17; 3:30, depot traps, local, class 41; 3:40, harness horses, class 4 (over 14.1 and not exceeding 15); 4:00, saddle horses, ladies to ride, class 23 (over 15.1; 4:25, tandems, class 14 (wheeler not over 15.1); 4:50, ponies in harness, class 18; 5:10, harness horses, ladies driving, class 10; 5:25, saddle horses, class 21 (up to carrying 200 pounds); 5:45, jumping, Watchung Hunt Club cup, class 35

Friday—1:00, jumping class, open to all, class 24; 1:20, pairs of harness horses, local, class 39; 1:35, ponies under saddle, class 25 (14.1 or under); 1:50, pairs of harness horses, class 71 (over 15 and not exceeding 15.2; 2:10 pairs of roadsters, class 2; 2:30, ladies' hunters, class 32; 2:45, runabout horses, class 12; 3:15, saddle horses (over 15.1) class 20; 3:40, pairs of harness horses, (ladies to drive) class 11; 4:00, saddle horses, local, class 45 (over 14.1 and not exceeding 15.1); 4:25, tandems, (wheeler not to exceed 15.1) class 13; 4:15, harness horses, (over 15.2) class 8; 5:15, draft horses, local (to be shown in hand) class 37.

Saturday—1:00, qualified hunters, (heavy and middleweight) class 28; 1:15, stallions, local, (shown in hand) class 36; 1:30, saddle horses, local, (over 15.1) class 46; 1:50, pairs of harness horses (over 14.1, not exceeding 15.1) class 5; 2:00, roadsters (road, ring) class 31; 2:25, hunters, (Countman) class 33; 2:50, harness horses, (over 15.1 and not exceeding 15.2) class 6; 3:10, ladies' saddle horses (15.1 or under) class 22; 3:30, four-in-hands, class 15; 3:45, ladies' harness horses, local, (ladies to drive) class 40; 4:50, fire department, class 47; 4:20, combination horses, local, class 48; 4:45, champion saddle horses, class 24; 5:10, champion harness horses, class 26.

DIED.

BEELEY—On Wednesday, May 30, 1906, Sarah J., widow of John W. Seeley, formerly of Brooklyn, N. Y., in her 78th year.

MAC CLYMONT—On Saturday, June 2, 1906, John C. Mac Clymont, in his 69th year.

TALLMADGE—At the residence of her daughter, Mrs. M. T. Cobb, 80 Fairview avenue, North Plainfield, on Sunday, June 3, 1906, Mary C., widow of James S. Tallmadge, in her 89th year.

STIMPSON—On Saturday, June 2, 1906, Amelia A., wife of Charles Stimpson, in her 66th year.

IANSON—On Friday, June 1, 1906, Charles K. Janson, in his 30th year.

STIMPSON.—On Saturday, June 2, 1906, at her late residence, 202 West Sixth street, Amelia A., daughter of the late Ira and Sarah Runyon and wife of Charles Stimpson.

Wanted

Summer Board.

By thousands of Brooklyn people. Can you take a few? If so, list your house in the BROOKLYN DAILY EAGLE FREE INFORMATION BUREAU, for which purpose a printed Blank is provided.

The service of the INFORMATION BUREAU

Will Cost You Nothing

The Brooklyn Eagle is the best advertising medium in the world. It carries more resort advertisements than any New York paper. It stands PRE-EMINENTLY at the head.

An ADVERTISEMENT in the Eagle costs little, but brings large *results, because the EAGLE INFOR*MATION BUREAU is constantly helping it.

Write for listing blank and Advertising Rate Card. Address

INFORMATION BUREAU,

BROOKLYN DAILY EAGLE,

Brooklyn, N. Y.

Mention the paper in which you saw this advertisement. 5 2 2m

Sanitary Plumbing

Brick and Portable Furnaces

Gas Fitting, Tin Roofing, Etc., Etc., Etc.

I am prepared to do any of the above branches in strictly first-class sanitary and workmanship manner.

Having associated myself with the Master Plumbers Association of New York City, I employ none but first-class mechanics and non-union men. I believe in every man running his own business, at all times and in all cases.

D. W. LITTELL.

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE

PATENTS

TRADE MARKS DESIGNS COPYRIGHTS &c.

Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Handbook on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents.

Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the Scientific American.

A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.

MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York

Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

NEW IN EVERY DETAIL!

Its new barber shop at

143 NORTH AVE.

is now open ready for business. All the latest appointments in the tonsorial line.

EDWIN B. MAYNARD.

CARNEY BROS.,

MADISON AVENUE,

Between Front and Second streets.

Tinners,

Plumbers

Gas Fitters,

Grates and bricks for all kinds of stoves can be found here at Jobbers' prices. Bring your tinware mending to us. The best tinners, the best plumbers, and the best gas-fitters in this section. We use none but the very best of materials, and our work always gives satisfaction. Keys of all kinds are made here. Tinware made to order. Ranges, brick and portable furnaces. Sanitary plumbing.

DIME

Savings Institution,

Of Plainfield, N. J.,

Is now receiving deposits with interest, allowed on all sums from $5 to $3,000.

J. Frank Hubbard, President.
Wm. F. Arnold, } Vice-Pres
Jeremiah Manning, }
J. C. Pope, Sec'y and Treas.

Money deposited on or before January tenth will draw interest from the first.

Guaranteed Salary $900 YEARLY.

You and women of good address to represent us, some to travel, appointing agents, others to local trade. Office and spare time interests. $900 salary guaranteed, payable weekly; extra cash salaries and expenses, rapid advancement; position permanent; no investment; chance for earnest man or woman to secure handsome income at once and liberal income and future. New, brilliant lines. Write at once.

STAFFORD PRESS,
23 Church St., New Haven, Conn.

W. B. CODDINGTON,

Counsellor-at-Law

Commissioner of Deeds, Master-in-chancery, Notary Public. Offices Corner of Park avenue and Second street.

ALBERT HEDDEN

Livery & Boarding Stables

FOURTH ST.,

between Washington and Park avenues.

First-class Livery. Horses boarded by week or month. Telephone call No. 114.

Wm. A. Woodruff

Fire and Life

INSURANCE AGENT

OFFICE,

BUSY SEASON FOR CO. K

Review, Parade, Team Matches and Encampment to Take Up Its Time.

A CRACK COMPANY

Go To Trenton On June 11; Newark, June 9; Elizabeth, July 4; Sea Girt, July 14.

Since the opening of the new armory at Trenton there have been an unusual number of reviews of the Second Regiment, it affording the regimental officers and other military dignitaries a good opportunity to see the regiment and watch the progress of improvement. Co. K, of this city, has received orders to appear at Trenton on Monday night, June 11, for another regimental review with the Second Regiment. Thus far the local company has turned out the greatest number of men and made the best showing.

On Saturday night, June 9, the company team will visit the First Regiment Armory at Newark, and shoot matches with teams from Co. I, of the First Regiment, and Co. C, from the Fourth Regiment. Two weeks ago the local team won the matches at this armory against one of the crack teams of the State, and it is believed that the Plainfield boys will again be victorious in the coming matches.

On Wednesday, July 4, Co. K, together with the other companies in the Second Regiment, will go to Elizabeth, to attend the exercises in connection with the unveiling of the Soldiers and Sailors' monument, the corner-stone of which was laid on Memorial Day morning by the Masons of the Fifth Masonic District. It is proposed to make this an auspicious occasion and a great many State dignitaries will be present, including possibly Governor Stokes.

On Thursday, July 14, Co. K will leave for Sea Girt, where it will be in camp for two weeks. Preparatory to that trip the members will begin next week practice shooting at the local armory so that when they get on the range at Sea Girt they will be able to qualify. The armory will be open several nights each week for practice and there will be coaches present to give instructions to the less experienced members. At the meeting of the company Monday night it was announced that several recruits will be received into membership.

In addition to the fact that the company has such an efficient commander in Captain W. B. Martin, who is not only a strict disciplinarian, but a crack marksman, the members themselves are taking unusual interest in their work. Co. K is rated as one of the best in the State Guard.

MAY GET OLD WESTFIELD TEAM TOGETHER FOR SERIES

GEO. MALLEN IS PLANNING A TOOTH-SOME BASEBALL DISH.

There is a possibility that Plainfield and Westfield will meet in an old-fashioned baseball struggle in July and August. George Mallen, captain of the Mt. Ararat combination under Charles Denman, has an idea that he can get practically the best of the old team together and he has begun laying fences to put the scheme into operation.

George spoke of the plan after the game Decoration Day afternoon. He believes Westfield will support a fast team for two months, with a five-game series with Plainfield in the schedule. The enthusiasts would be more apt to back it in a case like this, where it would be gotten up for the one purpose of trimming Plainfield. Of course, George himself is not figuring on financing the team. That is a little too big a proposition for a humble centerfielder, however earnest and industrious he may be. But there are a few sports still in Westfield, and it is counted a certainty that they would come up with the coin if George put a line on the players and a series with Dnab.

More of this thing will be heard. It is not a pipe-dream put out to while away an evening hour. Mallen is deadly earnest in his planning, and the plan itself looks very feasible, indeed. Watch out for some sizzling sport in the dog days.

Another New Store.

William J. Robinson will open a store tomorrow, June 3, at 210 East Fourth street, with a full line of stable supplies and horse goods. Whips, sponges, chamois, brushes, harness composition, and everything that is needed in a stable line. Your patronage respectfully solicited. Mr. Robinson thoroughly understands what is really needed in a private stable, as he has worked for some of the leading families in this city.

Late for Breakfast.

Backlots—Does your servant girl oversleep herself?

Subbubs—Not only that, but she oversleeps us.

HITFEST FOR HOME NINE

Poured Out 23 Safeties For 19 Runs In the Afternoon Game.

NIX FOR THE VISITORS

All Nationals Easy Marks in Both Games—Tyler, Smith and Deegan in the Box.

The Plainfield nine continued its winning streak Wednesday without straining themselves. They found Manager McGrath's All Nationals easy in both games. The visitors were a perfect cinch in the afternoon, the score being 19 to 0. The turnout for the morning game, Hank Mathewson, brother of Christy, performed for the New Yorkers in the forenoon.

Considering the varied counter attractions, good sized crowds attended the game. Five hundred rooters turned out for the morning contest, and the grandstand and bleachers were full in the afternoon.

Morning Game.

Plainfield won the morning game by virtue of timely hitting and some careless throwing by the visitors. The All Nationals had Henry Mathewson, brother of the great Christy, in the box, but he did not prove to be a very great enigma. He got a lot of space in the New York papers early in the season, because he went South with the Giants on their training trip, but his fame in the baseball world is out of all proportion to his pitching. He was only fairly effective, and couldn't seem to prevent the batters hitting when hits meant damage. The men back of him increased his troubles by fielding without any snap.

Tyler, who pitched for Columbia two years ago, did good work for the locals. Except in the first inning, when he was a little wild, he had the slugging visitors well in hand.

The All Nationals scored in the first inning on Courtney's hit by pitcher and two outs. The locals got the run back and one to boot in the second after two were out. O'Neil walked, and Tyler followed suit. O'Neil stalled on a wild throw to first by Cotter, going to third. Bertwhistle, who batted 1,000 per cent., scored Tyler with his opening hit. He went to third on a wild pitch to first, but Brogan was an easy out, second to first.

The All Nationals scored their second tally in the fourth on McCoey's hit to center, a wild return of the ball by Reardon and Mallen's hit to center. Donahue four-flied to Leonard, Mack struck out and Gorman sent a hit liner to Henriques.

In the fifth, Reardon hit to left, went to second and to third on passed and scored on Leonard's infield tap to third, Mike going to second on Courtney's bad throw to first. He came in on a pass by Cotter. After that there was nothing to it but Plainfield.

The score:

Plainfield.	R.	H.	PO.	A.	E.
Bertwhistle, lf	0	2	3	0	0
Brogan, 2b	1	0	2	1	0
Henriques, 1b	1	1	6	0	0
Reardon, cf	1	2	6	0	1
Leonard, 3b	1	0	4	2	0
Heffron, rf	1	0	0	0	0
Curley, ss	0	1	1	1	1
O'Neil, c	1	0	9	0	0
Tyler, p	1	0	1	2	0
	6	7	27	8	2
All Nationals.	R.	H.	PO.	A.	E.
Cotter, c	0	1	7	0	1
Courtney, 3b	0	1	1	2	1
McCoey, lf	0	1	2	0	0
Mallen, cf	0	1	2	0	0
Donahue, 1b	0	0	8	0	0
McGrath, ss	0	0	1	0	0
Gorman, rf	0	1	1	0	0
Hoag, 2b	0	0	1	3	0
Mathewson, p	0	1	1	2	0
	0	6	24	5	2

Plainfield ..... 1 0 0 2 0 2 0 2 x—6
All Nationals ... 1 0 0 1 0 0 0 0 0—2

Earned runs—Plainfield, 1. Three base hits—Curley. First base on balls—Tyler, 1; off Mathewson, 5. Struck out—By Tyler, 9; by Mathewson, 6. Left on bases—Plainfield, 5; All Nationals, 6. Wild pitches—Mathewson, 2; Tyler, 3. Stolen bases—Bertwhistle, Henriques, Reardon, 2; Curley, Mallen, Mathewson. Sacrifice hits—Brogan, Reardon, 2; Leonard, 2. Passed balls—Cotter, 3. First base on errors—Plainfield, 2. Hit by pitcher—Heffron, Courtney. Time of game—2:05. Umpire—Merity. Attendance—500.

Afternoon Game.

The afternoon game was nothing but a batting bee for the locals. There was nothing to the game but their hitting. The y tore Metcalfe wide open and chased him from the game in the seventh inning, after piling a total of seven hits on him, seven of which were forth off in the sixth. Donahue went in and lasted an inning and a half. McGrath himself went in and took the awful pounding for the rest of the game. The twin fields got a total of twenty-three hits, and the visitors' total was festooned with extra base belts. Jack O'Neil got no less than four two-baggers. He batted 1,000 per cent.

The visitors got no hits at all. Phil Smith pitched five innings and gave them not a smell of a safety, and Deegan, put in to vary the monotony of things for the crowd, followed the youngster's example. Willie distinguished himself by tearing a three-base hit from Metcalfe's delivery. Smith fanned seven men, retiring the side on strike-outs in his last performance. Deegan fanned six.

The score:

Plainfield.	R.	H.	PO.	A.	E.
